DANIELSON

WORK STARTS ON PROPOSED LANDING FIELD FOR PLANES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 23—An improvement that may be the first step toward developing a splendid flying field on the George Kimball farm, four miles northwest of Danielson, is underway. The work being done involves the removal of stone walls dividing a wonderful field into sections and constituting a hazard that airmen do not particularly like. The stone, hundreds of tons of it, is being used to widen the roadway, bordered by gullies and ditches, that leads to the Kimball farm from the northerly end of Church street. More of the stone is being hulled to Danielson for use in construction work.

Mr. Kimball is mightily interested in aviation and is making it possible to use a field that can readily be developed into a real airport. The Kimball field is in the southeastern corner of the town of Pomfret, just over the line from the northerly border of the town of Pomfret, and across the river from Goodyear. The location is a high one, and aviation authorities who have inspected it say it is ideal for flying field development.

While much has been expended to give Danielson a flying field, that is in time and effort, it begins to appear as though the Kimball field will naturally develop into one. It can be reached from Danielson in a motor car in from 8 to 10 minutes.

There are those who believe that it can be used profitably by airmen caring to do a passenger carrying business, as has been done week ends for the past few weeks. While planes light and get away up there, and have on occasion for several years, the field needs rolling and smoothing to make it an A1 field. All of this, it is anticipated may come in time, giving this section the first real airport in this corner of Connecticut.

Assessors of the town of Killingly, in session at the town hall building Saturday, were kept busy receiving lists of taxable property brought to them by residents of the town and in giving assistance in making out such lists. Tax payers have until November 1, to file such lists, and failing to do so by that time will be subject to an addition of 10 per cent, and the penalty will be applied, because the assessors have no option in the matter.

The work of placing the stone markers supplied by the state for soldiers' graves in the town of Killingly has been completed. These markers were placed only on such graves as seemed to require them. They are scattered through cemeteries in every nook and corner of the town. Particular care was taken in erecting them, and they will in all probability stand for years. Each stone is marked with the name of the soldier for whom it has been erected and other inscriptions pertaining to his military service.

The current issue of a magazine that interests a great many readers carries a story, The Atheist Nobody Knows, by Rev. J. Walter Houck of the Pilgrim Congregational church of New York, formerly pastor of the Danielson Baptist church.

Two eastern Connecticut drivers have been penalized in Providence courts the past few days for violations of motor vehicle regulations of that state. Lucien Beaumier of North Grosvenordale was fined $50 for reckless driving, and Charles Hatch, 32, of Pomfret Center, $100 for operating a motor truck when he was unfit to do so.

At the week end Mrs. Bertha Bulsiere, 27, wife of Adelard Bulsiere, died at their home on Dyer street. She had been in ailing condition since last February, but her death came quite unexpectedly. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Bellvall, and a native of Taftville.

On Saturday the funeral of Narcisse Chattelle was held from the family home near Moosup pond, with funeral services at All Hallows church in Moosup at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery at Dayville. The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. At the grave the committal service was conducted by Rev. Ignatius Kost. The bearers were Samuel Chattelle, Alexander Chattelle, Alfred Chattelle, Peter Couture, Alphonse Beliameliers and Peter Chattelle. Martin T. Burns was the funeral director.

Finding of several chestnut burrs a few weeks ago, in Brooklyn, set numbers who like to roam woodland territory to looking for others, but, reports appear to agree, that the chestnuts are mighty few and far between. There are thousands of young trees however, that are developing so rapidly that it appears almost a certainty that there will be quite a few chestnuts in the fall of next year. Some of the young trees are reported to have reached a height of twenty feet, but are of no great diameter.

Again the appeal is being stressed for donations of used clothing to the Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross, to be forwarded through this organization to the Mississippi flood areas for the relief of scores of thousands of people who are still in need, months after the flood came to ruin them. Shoes are not wanted at this time, but any amount of clothing will be gratefully received. The clothing may be left at a depot established at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Crosby, Academy street.

Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church, will preside at the morning session, Monday of this week, of the annual convention of the Windham County Council of Religious Education at the Congregational church in Plainfield, and in the evening a service of song will be led by Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney of Danielson. The council will hold an all day session Rev. O. P. Campbell, director of religious education of the Connecticut Baptist convention is to deliver an address on The Training of Leaders as a feature of the morning session. Several addresses are scheduled for the afternoon session.

At the high mass at St. James' church this morning, banns of marriage between Miss Winifred Brown and George Rene Caron, both of Danielson were published for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. A. Van Woodworth and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anderson made up a party that motored to New Haven Saturday to attend the Yale-Army game.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman M. Coulter and daughter, Jane, of New Bedford motored here at the week end, Mrs. Coulter and Jane remaining for a stay with Mrs. Coulter's father, F. E. Bitgood.

Included in the delegation from the Killingly Woman's club that attended a gathering of club women from various parts of the state at Cheshire the past week was Mrs. James M. Paine.

State officers from the Danielson barracks were on patrol duty on highways leading into New Haven Saturday, keeping traffic moving to the football game under control.

This week members of St. James' parish are being enrolled as members in the Catholic Mission Aid society.

Miss Lorraine Heneault was reported as remaining critically ill in a Worcester hospital at the week end.

Mrs. Zoe Lacombe and daughters, Mrs. Lyda Bastien and Miss Alma Lacombe spent the week end with relatives in Springfield.

An auction sale of used automobiles attracted an interested group of bidders and spectators to the former Kennedy stable on Furnace street Saturday, Witter brothers handling the sale.

A circling aeroplane over Danielson today was significant to many of the fact that more residents were having what was probably their first ride in the air.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sylvester of Woonsocket were visitors in Danielson and other communities in this vicinity today.

The work of representatives of the state fish and game commission in removing fish from reservoirs of the Crystal Water company near East Killingly continues.

A warning sign has been placed at the bad curve at the top of Reynolds street hill, where a number of serious accidents have occurred, as well as other minor ones.

Brick work of the new Dows building will be completed this week if the weather remains as favorable as it has been since the work of construction was undertaken.

The usual All Saints day service is to be held at Old Trinity church, Church street, Brooklyn, the coming week.

PUTNAM

SEVILLE INSPECTS WATER WORKS; REPORT THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 23—Caleb M. Seville, consulting engineer of the Hartford water department came here Saturday and spent three or four hours here in company with City Engineer George W. Perry and C. Dwight Sharoe, superintendent of the Putnam water department. He was furnished all data and information that he desired in regard to the water situation in Putnam.

He was met at the statio nby Attor-

He was met at the station by Attor- personally known, and Mayor Victor Chapdelaine. To the former he said that it would require three or four days of his time to make up his report on the situation. After being given a brief statement of the situation here and furnished maps and heights of the various sites that have been talked of for tanks and reservoirs, Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Perry drove him about the city so that he could get an idea of the lay of the land.

Mr. Seville ranks high among hydraulic engineers of the country. He was one of General Goethals' staff in the digging of the Panama canal.

He told Mayor Chpdelaine that he did not know that he cared to give an opinion on the situation where other engineers had been consulted and wanted to know the exact status of the other engineers at present connected with the city in the matter.

Mr. Perry informed him that the engagement of Mr. Palmer, who had at first been consulted by the city authorities, had terminated several months ago and that he understood that Mr. Symonds welcomed an opinion from him.

Mr. Seville returned to Hartford on the 2.40 train in the afternoon.

A number of Putnam people attended the football game at New Haven on Saturday between Yale and the Army. Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Morse and their guest Mrs. Jessup of Brooklyn, N. Y., Frank Lamonday, Vincent McAvoy and James McAvoy. The Morse party were joined by Robert G. Perry of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has recently been their guest.

Mrs. Warren W. Averill of Pleasant street is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where she underwent an operation on her throat. She is making a good recovery.

Kenneth Thompson of Grove street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson, is confined at home, suffering from an infected foot caused by stepping on a nail while working in the cellar.

The four senior classes in the young people's department at the Second Congregational church have organized a Young People's forum and will meet on Sundays at noon, beginning November 6th. The minister will be the leader of this group and the first book that they will take up for study will be that of "The Man Nobody Knows" by Bruce Barton.

The Second Congregational church of this city has been invited to participate in a council for the installation of the Rev. Boynton Merrill as minister of the Second Congregational church of Newton at West Newton, Mass., on Wednesday, October 26th. Rev. James F. English, C. Dwight Sharpe and Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock have been appointed delegates to represent the church here. Mr. Merrill was pastor of the Second Congregational church in this city for several years and resigned from this church to be assistant pastor of the Old South church at Boston and from there goes to the church at West Newton.

At the regular meeting of the Quinebaug lodge, A. F. & A. M., the master mason's degree was exemplified in the presence of the district deputy and his suite, who made their annual visitation and inspection at this time. A large number of guests from the lodges all over Connecticut and nearby lodges from Rhode Island and Mass. attended, three automobile loads coming from Whitinsville, Mass. With the delegation from the latter place were Merrill Keith, chief of police from Northbridge, formerly a state policeman at the Danielson barracks, and Edward J. Perry, who was on Putnam's quota in the World war. Prior to the meeting at the temple, a chicken pie supper was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star at the Masonic club room on South Main street.

The Blue and White Banner, the newspaper of the Putnam high school has issued its first number of the year, Vol. 4, No. 1. Moss Judith Sabin, '28 is the editor in chief this year and Edward Lucas is the business manager.

John Mercer, the six year old son of Mrs. Lucy Mercer is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital. Both legs are broken below the knee as the result of having been struck by an automobile. It is said that the boy ran into the path of the automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Aldrich of the Sawyer district have returned from Williamsville, Vermont where they attended the funeral of Mr. Aldrich's sister, Mrs. George Temple. She is survived by her husband and six children, a sister at Brattleboro, Vermont, and her brother, Moses Aldrich of this city. Mrs. Temple was for many years a resident of Putnam.

Thomas Rawley of New London, formerly of Putnam was the guest of friends in the city. Mr. Rawley was formerly master of transportation of the New Haven road and was located in Putnam for a number of years.

WESTERLY

BROWN STUDENT GETS OFF WHEN CASE COMES TO TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 23—On two counts, charging operation of an automobile on the Stonington-Westerly road Monday, Oct. 17th while under the influence of liquor and failure to report an automobile accident to the Connecticut commissioner of motor vehicles within 24 hours, Richard T. Harris, Jr., Brown university student, of 1158 Fifth avenue, New York, was given a hearing Saturday noon in Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox. A plea of not guilty was entered through counsel, Judge Herbert W. Rathbun of Westerly and Judge George H. Raymond of Providence. Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna informed the court that he was not pressing the second count and it was nolled.

Harris with other Brown juniors, John F. Lambden, Jr., 309 Beechmont Drive and Gates Romer, 180 Forest avenue, both of New Rochelle, N. Y., present in court as witnesses, had attendeded the Brown-Yale football game a week ago in New Haven, and were returning from New Rochelle in the early morning of Oct. 17th. At about 2:30 the coupe owned and driven by defendant collided with a motor truck standing at th ewest end of a torn up section of the state road under construction near Wequetequock. Going to Westerly the young men went to the office of Dr. Michael H. Scanlon for treatment, Harris for a cut on his chin and Lambden for a fracture of his right arm.

Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was the first witness called when Judge Rathbun asked that all other witnesses for the state be excluded and Judge Wilcox dismissed them in charge of Patrolman C. Wilson Brown, State Trooper Russel H. Gavitt, who served the complaint remaining in the court room. Prosecutor McKenna asked that defendant's witnesses be excluded but the judge ruled it not the proper time. Evidence by Dr. Scanlon was to the effect that observing the condition of the young men outside his side door he telephoned the Westerly police and admitted the men, previous to the arrival of Police Lieutenant George H. Champlin. He testified to treating them and was ready to testify as to their condition when Judge Rathbun objected, claiming that all testimony by Dr. Scanlon and anyone called at his request was inadmissable, as it involved a sacred trust in that it was confidential. He quoted the law on confidential relations as it concerned husband and wife, as in Westerly district court Friday and that of physician and patient, in this case. A heated exchange between Prosecutor McKenna and Mr. Rathbun followed with the judge's admonition that they go slow and not get excited. Judge Wilcox ruled to exclude any testimony in reference to Harris' condition while in the doctor's office and the doctor was dismissed from the stand.

Lieut. George H. Champlin testified that he had nothing to say about Harris' condition outside the doctor's office, having seen him leave with Officer Brown and testified to arresting Harris in Westerly on Tuesday and turning him over to Connecticut state police. Prosecutor McKenna endeavored to show that the lieutenant was the agent of the public and state and not the doctor's when the judge ruled that the officer could only testify as to everything outside the doctor's office. Patrolman Robert M. Kelsel was in court but was not called to the stand. Attorney Rathbun moved for formal dismissal without further argument. Prosecutor McKenna stated he had no other witnesses and no argument.

Judge Wilcox declared that there was no testimony before him to sustain the complaint and found defendant not guilty.

ANGELO J. CAPUCCIO WOULD BE HIGHWAY COM'R.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 23—For office of Westerly highway commissioner, Angelo J. Capuccio, of 63 Pierce street Saturday noon filed nomination papers with Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple. In the recent republican caucus, Capuccio was defeated by the present incumbent, Charles F. Berry, who was declared the nominee of the election caucus, to appear on the republican ticket as the regular nominee.

Friday last Mr. Capuccio declared that he was not filing nomination papers although he was engaged in going over the check list used at the last republican election caucus of a week ago Saturday. By the Westerly caucus law signers to petitioning nomination papers could not have participated at that last caucus and some question has been raised as to whether he consulted the check list of the caucus a year ago which would come within the proscribed 13 months mentioned in the caucus law. The papers filed by Mr. Capuccio contained 94 signatures, the greater number residing in the northern section of the town.

"With its defeat at the republican caucus the fair play committee withdrew from the field, Chairman Beppo Boumenot saying they believed the caucus had been a fair fight and that further activity would not be for the good of the republican party. Friends of Mr. Cappuccio, however, took another view of the matter and immediately urged him to continue independently. They based their belief in a victory on the fact that he was defeated in the republican caucus by only 33 votes.

According to the law it was necessary for Mr. Cappuccia to secure 50 signers of his nomination papers who had not participated in a caucus in the last 13 months. The name, now in the hands of Town Clerk Whipple, will be checked with the town voting list. If found eligible, Mr. Cappuccio's name will then be placed on the official ballot under a party heading of "Independent Citizen."

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church, Miss Nellie Mary Aversa of Bradford was united in marriage with George Manfredi of Westerly. Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., solemnized the marriage and celebrated the nuptial mass which followed. The wedding marches and interludes were played by the organist, Mrs. Frank G. Ahern. Miss Antoinette Aversa, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Louise Grilis of Milford, Mass., and Miss Concetta Marino of Westerly. Joseph Cozzolino was best man: the ushers were Sylvester Morrone and John Rosso. Miss Rachel Altimano, cousin of the bride, and Miss Emma Morrone, cousin of the groom, were flower girls, and Master Michael Spezzano, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer. The bride wore a gown of white crepe satin. Her veil of point lace was caught with a band of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses and baby breath. The maid of honor wore green georgette with picture hat to match, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Grilis wore peach georgette with picture hat, and carried pink roses, while the other bridesmaid, Miss Marino, wore lavender georgette, with picture hat, and carried pink roses. Both flower girls wore yellow dresses, with hats to match, and each carried a basket of carnations. Following the ceremony at the church, a breakfast was served at the home of the bride in Peckham Hollow, Bradford. In the afternoon at 5 o'clock, a reception was held for many relatives and friends at Champlin's Hall. Music for dancing was furnished by the Imperial orchestra, under the direction of Tony Quattromani. Refreshments were served during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Manfredi left late Saturday night on a wedding trip to Boston. Upon their return they will make their home at Peckham Hollow, Bradford.

Oct. 22. Ellen R. Brayman, heir at law of William C. Rathbun, to Josephine R. Collins of Alton, Hopkinton, R. I., an undivided one-third interest in a lot of land, 23 acres 17 rods, lying partly in Westerly and partly in Charlestown, bounded northerly by lands of John Ross, westerly by Bradford Bliven, southerly by lands now or formerly of Nathan Taylor and easterly by Edward Wilcox.

Edith Taylor Paul of LeRoy City, Genessee county, N. Y., to Josephine R. Collins of Alton, R. I., one-half of an undivided one-third interest in the above described plot of land.

Westerly Players' club, Miss Katherine W. Foster, president, during November will begin their season of dramatic productions as successfully carried out the past year. The Thespians have under consideration "Surpressed Desires," "The Show-Off," and "Icebound."

Members of Westerly Sanitary Corps and friends, about 75 couples, had a dance Friday evening in the ballroom of the Rhode Island hotel. Robert A. Wilcox was chairman of the committee of arrangements, the music being by Hill's Harmony Boys. The rooms were attractively decorated. The patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Maxson, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Peabody, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Meikle.

About 9 o'clock Saturday evening near the residence of Court York in Anguila, a Chevrolet sedan driven by Mrs. Hilda A. Rindell of Westerly was in collision with a Ford automobile of Luther Kimball, 56 Mitchell street, Groton. The latter car was struck in the middle and over turned. No one was injured. State Trooper Russell H. Gavitt of Groton barracks investigated the collision.

At the erection of the new brick block for the Greens Stores Incorporated on High street brick layers have completed the north wall nearly to the top of the second story windows in the Willard block adjoining on the north. The street floor level rear window frames have been set and the brick work is now two stories from the Pawcatuck river level.

New telegraph poles have been delivered at the Westerly freight yard for use by the Western Union line forces occupying camp cars near the westbound train shelter.

SEE EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Frequently the statement is made that a trip is being made through this part of Connecticut to enjoy the delights of the natural attractions. It is often in combination with business, but there is a desire to see, an eagerness to get out into the good air and a wish to get away from the humdrum of city life for a brief vacation.

Those who make such a trip through eastern Connecticut cannot fail to be impressed by the beauties of its hills, valleys, streams and broad entrancing views. Perhaps we are inclined to make little of them because we see them frequently and have become accustomed to them, but even then we are brought to our senses every time we visit states about which we hear much only to find that we must give our own little neck of the woods a reasonably high rating as we indulge in comparisons.

The views from Franklin hill, Plainfield street, Sterling hill, along either side of the Thames, up through Tolland county, Bolton Notch, Bald hill and scores of other points each vieing with the other in its peculiar attractiveness never fail to get the plaudits of those who come upon them for the first time and they make such an impression that they call for future visits.

And yet because it is so near home we fail to place as much of an estimate upon these natural attractions until we see the absence of them elsewhere or hear the praise of visitors. This makes us wonder whether we really appreciate the delightfulness of the setting with which nature has provided us, and whether we make as much of it as we should.

Much has been said about the desirability of seeing America first. We might as well take it to heart and place similar emphasis upon seeing eastern Connecticut. It doesn't contain all the attractions of the Nutmeg state for they reach from border to border and from border to the sound, but if we accept the verdict of visitors they are worth seeing and worth advertising.

CARROLL'S PENITENCE

If we are to accept the statements made by Earl Carroll about the value of the lesson he has been taught as the result of his conviction and stay at Atlanta it can be expected that he will have greater respect for the law in the future.

Judging by his past conduct he had carried the idea that it would be possible to disregard the law and escape the penalty by much the same sort of practice that he attempted after his famous bathtub party. That he did not accept his sentence without full realization of its sting was repeatedly evidenced in his efforts to escape it, even to his peculiar sickness on his way to Georgia.

The showman had been striving for publicity through a series of sensational affairs which culminated with the wine bath. It was not for that he was sentenced but because he was convicted of perjury in connection with that affair. He evidently thought that he was crawling from under when he testified as he did before the grand jury, but he has had an opportunity to think otherwise. Now that he has been paroled, after serving a sufficient time to obtain his release under those conditions, he is penitent, recognizes that he has suffered "an irreparable loss of self respect" and feels most keenly the loss of his American citizenship.

As he returns to New York his desire is to make good, to profit by his experience and have a greater respect for the law in the future. It is a chance to which he is entitled and if he is sincere in his statements he is seriously handicapping himself unless he intends to lead the life of a law abiding citizen in the future. This of course should apply not only to the period of parole but thereafter. If he is ready to overcome the mistakes which he has made in the past he will stand forth as an example of the good that may be done through conviction and later through the encouragement that is held out by the parole system. It is safe to say that he will have greater respect for an oath in the future.

THE HOME OF TROUBLE

It would never do to ask the question "Is everybody happy?" in Mexico, for that isn't possible. At least it doesn't appear to be from the amount of fighting and number of revolutions which characterize the country. Someone seems to be busy at all times trying to get the other fellow's office or his life and the result is that Mexico is constantly the hotbed of trouble.

From all indications the recent revolt in that country has been suppressed. Leaders have been killed and some of those more fortunate have been able to get out of the country or are successful in picking a hiding place. This indicates that the government has been able to suppress those who sought to get into office through an overthrow of the present administration.

How long this state of affairs will continue is problematical. President Calles has been as effective in his suppression as was President Obregon, and there has certainly been nothing in the results of the late revolution to give encouragement to others. It is some months yet to the election date in Mexico but there are no more candidates showing their heads, or at least they are not doing so by means of revolutionary tactics.

According to Mexico's constitution no president can succeed himself. In order to get around this there is legislation before the Mexican legislature which would permit President Calles to remain in office for two years more. Ex-President Obregon is an avowed candidate to succeed Calles. Even though the constitution prohibits a president serving more than one term it does not forbid him to have a second term if it does not immediately follow the first. He is out for his second term and naturally there is interest to see whether the Mexican legislature is ready to delay that by extending the Calles term. Under such a situation with Calles apparently ready to stay in office and Obregon desirous of returning thereto as quickly as possible there's no telling how long the president and the candidate for his job will be able to maintain a friendly relationship. Ambition for office in Mexico often leads to much and serious trouble.

A PLACE TO BE CAREFUL

Agreements have been reached in New York for the expenditure of millions of dollars for the elimination of grade crossings. Unquestionably there are crossings that ought to be eliminated, and it costs money to do such work. Nevertheless there are many crossings where safety would prevail if the users of the highway were so disposed.

Whenever there is a grade crossing fatality it is invariably indicated that the highway users did not show proper respect for the warnings that were given. There are probably no crossings but what are indicated by the customary signs. There are perhaps too many which do not have a signal of some character, but if those approaching such danger points gave due heed and really took precautions for their own protection there would be fewer accidents and fatalities.

Reference is frequently made to the toll that is being collected in human lives at such places, and yet it cannot fail to be recognized that in a large majority of the cases it was within the power of those killed or injured to have prevented it. Death is the wages of carelessness. It will be possible to spend hundreds of millions in the elimination of railroad crossings, and deaths at such points will be prevented, but nothing whatever will have been accomplished in teaching the important lesson concerning personal protection and care. Carelessness will continue in increasing measure and those who escape death by going over or under railroad tracks will continue to display the inclination to ignore care at other points along the highway to the detriment of others as well as self. A grade crossing should be so feared as to produce careful driving.

OPPOSING THE DOLE

When the dole system was established in England it was for the purpose of meeting an emergency. That immediate emergency has passed but the dole remains and its very existence has been reason enough for many to place dependence thereon instead upon themselves. They are in other words satisfied to do nothing and live upon the dole rather than meet their responsibilities and provide their own living without public assistance.

When conditions get to that state of affairs it is inevitable that there should be resentment and a demand for the elimination of such a law. That is the situation in England today. The dole has been tried and the result is that there is a strong demand for its abolition, and it is expected that an attempt will be made in parliament for its gradual elimination.

That a demand for such action exists does not necessarily give assurance that it will be accomplished. It nevertheless reflects the attitude of the people and gives evidence to the effect that it has been tried and found to be undesirable except in case of emergency.

The idea of making regular payments to persons who are able to work but are not willing to as long as they receive a dole, is becoming more and more distasteful. It is another one of those cases which is excellent theoretically but when put into practice soon develops all the bad points that were raised against it and many more in addition. Instead of making persons independent and self reliant its stimulates dependency.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Dishes for the invalid should be delicately flavored.

Use tomato, celery and cucumber for the spring salad.

Fine oatmeal will clean lace that is not badly soiled.

Steel knives left in hot water are liable to lose their handles.

A lawn settee will be a welcome addition to the back yard.

To curl celery cut in thin strips to within an inch of the end, drop into cold water and place in the refrigerator.

Air all bedding in the sun once a week, if possible.

Leftover pieces of awning material, used as covers for hammocks or chairs, make the porch more attractive.

Peas should be salted after they are half done, or they will shrivel and become hard.

Hot and cold food containers come in gallon size, with open mouth tops, which make them easy to clean.

It is a good plan to write your name and address in kid gloves, so if one is lost the finder will return it.

Half-bleached linen will wear longer than bleached, and will become white after being washed a few times.

When poaching eggs add one tablespoon of vinegar to the water to "set" the eggs, so they will not boil to pieces.

Thick slices of apple may be boiled in cinnamon candy syrup, and garnished with cream cheese on lettuce, for a salad.

One way to cook cabbage: Brown on onion in butter and add a small head of cabbage finely chopped, a little water and salt, lemon juice and a tablespoon of mustard.

For mock cherry pie use one cup of cranberries, cup of raisins, cup of boiling water, cup of sugar, one tablespoon flour and vanilla. Boil a few minutes and bake between two crusts.

EACH IN ITS PLACE

Sometimes the kitchen and shed windows are almost the same size and there is but little difference in the lengths of the curtains—just enough to prove puzzling. If a tiny letter is embroidered in each one, such as "S" for side window and "B" for the back window, it will save much measuring and trouble when replacing the laundered curtains.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

In cold weather lest the hands be chapped never venture out without gloves. Remember, too, to smooth a soothing lotion or cream on the hands each time after washing them. Equal parts of glycerin and orange flower water, with a dash of tincture of benzoin, can be used as a hand lotion.

Ears should be well formed and flat. Any mother can make sure her child's ears lie flat by keeping a tape sleeping cap on his head during early babyhood. The ears should not be too big; in healthy people, they are a faint pink. If they are good-looking, the face looks better when they show. If they are ugly, it is easy these days to cover them up by fluffing the hair over them.

VARYING THE SALAD DRESSING

Cut into small pieces one sweet green pepper for each cup of French dressing. This is inexpensive and decorative.

Peanuts, salted or fresh, nut meats, bits of candied cherry or preserved ginger, disks of hard boiled egg, sliced olives, pearl onions or chopped cold beets that have stood in vinegar and brown sugar for several hours are all toothsome and decorative additions to a plain French dressing.

ICE CREAM SANDWICHES

Place slices of white cake or sponge cake in a serving dish, cover each with a slice of ice cream and top with another slice of cake. Serve at once. The ice cream must be frozen hard enough to slice easily. Peach, chocolate, carsmel or vanilla flavors are suggested. If bought cream is used, buy the best quality you can secure.

WATER IN WOODEN BUCKETS

All wooden buckets and washtubs when not in use should have about two inches of water left in them. This prevents them from becoming too dry and the wood from shrinking so that they leak.

EXAMINE IT BEFORE CUTTING

Very frequently the tablecloth will wear out in such a manner that doilies may be cut from it, bringing a pattern in the center. A simple crocheted edge around these and you have dainty doilies for ordinary use.

DURING HOUSECLEANING

Just about now the stepladder is doing more than its duty. Make it safe by nailing some pieces of rubber on the ends of the ladder so as to avoid any mishaps by slipping.

STAINS ON WALLPAPER

Those little fingers of young son are not always as clean as they might be and grease spots on wall paper result. Cover thickly with French chalk. Then place a piece of blotting paper over the chalk and hold a warm iron over it. This may have to be repeated a few times to remove all the grease.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A black moire evening slipper has triangular buckles of rhinestone that point high up on the ankle.

Colorful enameled bracelets, in checks, zigzag and other patterns now have matching colorful rings to help them form sports sets.

A beige purse and matching gloves have a tiny geometric pattern stitched in gold while all seams are prominently stitched in brown.

Navy silk duvetyne fashions a chic coat dress that has side opening, flaring front from width and deep cuffs embroidered in self color.

Smart women are having skirts made of the materials of their new winter tweed coats which when worn with sweaters, make an ensemble.

An emerald green chiffon dinner gown achieves an odd effect by having an insert of cream lace extend from the left shoulder to the right hip.

The woman who is a bit tired of the ubiquitous silver fox or point fox scarf may choose one of cross fox with complete assurance as to its smartness.

For afternoon and sports purposes, the vogue goes to large leather and skin bags. In the evening the bag is smaller and is made of beads or some material matching the toilette.

The most striking materials for coats are soft woolens whose designs show definitely the strong influence of modern art. In all cases the patterns are geometric or symmetric.

New frocks for evening wear indicate that lustrous satin is to be a close rival for the transparent velvet. Both fabrics are used exclusively in the fashioning of formal frocks.

The lovely filigree jewelry made in Florence, Venice and Genoa has been adapted to present fashions and shown in sets consisting of necklace, bracelet and earrings, to wear with certain costumes.

NEW LINGERIE IN FALL MODES

Whether the ordinary step-in or chemise is ample enough to be worn alone with the new sheer velvet dresses—has perhaps been troubling you not a little. In answer comes the new chemise with a generously full circular pantie-step-in which is appropriate to the silhouette of the frock. It has a slender bodice.

WOOL GEORGETTE

A new fabric that will achieve an equal popularity with the wool crepe introduced last season is a lightweight, firm textured wool so fine that it is aptly called wool georgette. It is adapted to semi-sport tailored frocks.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To remove scorch lay the article in bright sunshine.

If light colored hosiery is stained from black shoes, put a little borax in the water. It removes stain and makes wasiing easy.

All colored embroideries should be soaked in cold water to which salt has been added for 10 minutes before washing and only the mildest of soaps should be used.

Sometimes the most reliable dyes run on other articles in the washtub. If the stained garments are put into cold water and brought to a boil it will often take away these marks. Repeat if necessary, but do not use soap.

When it is necessary to iron a rough-dry garment at once, try this method: Dampen it, roll it tight, wrap it in a cloth and then in paper, and put into the oven while the irons are heating. Evaporation will cause it to be thoroughly dampened in a very few minutes. But care must be taken that the oven is not hot enough to scorch the garmenis.

WASHING PILLOWS

A pillow may be washed just as it is, but a better method is as follows: Transfer the feathers to a larger cotton bag by sewing the edges of its opening to the edges of the opening in the tick. Shake the feathers from one to the other. Sew up the opening and wash in lukewarm water, using a neutral soap. Rinse well. Press out as much of the water as possible and place on a cloth in the sun. Turn often and beat from time to time. Wash the tick separately, and starch it on the inside with a stiff starch mixture applied with a brush or sponge. Transfer the feathers again when dry.

CLEANING WICKER FURNITURE

In cleaning and dusting wicker furniture use the blower part of a vacuum cleaner. This prevents dust and grit from collecting in the crevices of the furniture. In cleaning up holstered furniture an attachment of a vacuum cleaner or a special upholstery brush is the best tool for cleaning. Upholstery furniture, of course, cannot be treated to the "tubbing" process.

STOPS LEAKS

Enamel the refrigerator pan that leaks a little. Give it a coat both outside and in and when that dries give it another. All leakiness will disappear and it will be easy to keep it clean. Small soldering outfits may be bought very cheap to keep small holes in tin pots and pans soldered and save repair bills.

HAND-PAINTED LACE

Buy some pretty lace with a floral design for 5 cents a yard. Color the design any color you wish, using wax carbons for the purpose. After you have colored it press with a hot iron on the wrong side. This will make the color fast.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Two women doctors have been admitted as faculty members at the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research.

Miss Frances E. Willis, of Redlands, Calif., has been admitted to the foreign service field of the state department.

Mae Noble, of New York holds two jobs—she is an actress and a clerk in the department of health.

Copenhagen has eight baby clinics to encourage the mothers to nurse their babies. Each mother is given a quart of milk a day for her own use if she attends the clinic regularly.

Mrs. Harry Hantz, wife of a rural mail carrier of Watonga, Okla., has won first prize at the Blaine county fair on lightbread the last 18 years.

David Davies, solicitor, of Gwydyr, England, who died leaving an estate of the gross value of L21,059, left L1500 to each of his two servants, Violet Smart and Emily Davies, if still in his service.

SALT MOISTENED WITH VINEGAR

Salt moistened with vinegar will remove burn marks from enameled saucepans and dishes. Don't forget that they should be soaked in cold water for a few hours first to loosen the stains.

SOAP FIRST

When using scouring powder on either dish cloth or steel wool first, rub soap on the dampened cloth or wool and then apply cleanser. Now rub vigorously on pots and pans and see how readily they will polish.

RECIPES

Raisin Sauce: 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour or cornstarch, 1 tablespoon sugar or syrup, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup seedless raisins, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 4 tablespoons very fine bread crumbs.

Melt butter, add dry ingredients, stir well, add water and stir continuously until mixture is well heated. Next add chopped raisins and cook gently for 15 minutes. Add bread crumbs, orange and lemon juice, and serve at once.

To give this sauce a little more zest add a tablespoon of horseradish or a teaspoon of prepared mustard.

Cumberland Sauce: 1 small glass red currant jelly, juice and rind of 1 lemon, juice and rind of 1-2 orange, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.

Melt the jelly and add other ingredients. If a clear sauce is desired, strain through a fine sieve before serving. If a more elaborate sauce is desired, add 1-2 cup slightly cooked currants and a dozen blanched almonds cut in fine strips.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Iron Fireplaces Made at Hebron

Mr. Editor: Referring to the inquiry in your issue of Oct. 19th by Collander regarding Franklin stoves and iron fireplaces, would say that iron fireplaces were made at the blast furnace in Hebron (now the village of Amston, formerly Turnerville) in 1835 or thereabouts, by Jared Lewis & Co., and some years later in the same place by Seneca Pettee and Son, their successors. The ore was brought from Colchester by trams, ground up by the fine water power, from the North pond, and smelted. The ore was poor and neither firm made a success of it. The beds were located in Colchester, west of the village on the north side of the Middletown turnpike and east of (the then) Gilletts Mill pond. Shepard's Geological Survey of Connecticut, 1837 says, "The region however, that now affords supplies to two considerable furnaces, one in Stafford, the other in Hebron, may be defined as consisting as all that part of the state lying to the north and northeast of Colchester" . . . . "The newly erected furnace in Hebron is at present chiefly supplied with ore from Colchester". And further, speaking of the ore, he says, "One (variety), possessed of a reaicular submamillary structure, is foundin considerable quantity in Colchester."

It may be interesting to note that years after these two firms had made a failure in the iron smelting business, the old furnace building was bought by P. W. Turner in 1853, and made the nucleus of the one-time thriving village that bore his name, was burned about 1859 and replaced by a stone structure which still defies the elements. In 1883 when excavating for an addition to the dye house of his plant, the ground work of the old blast furnace was uncovered and excited much interest. One old gentleman, Henry O. Carver, who lived near and was familiar with the premises as a boy, visited the place and explained the workings of the furnace to those interested.

Yes, fireplaces of iron were made there, and some are found yet in that vicinity.

Stories That Recall Others

Shades of Columbus

Two "would be" grade pupils in conversation on their way home from a suburban school, became engaged in a very high brow discussion of geography, in which each was trying to outdo the other in brilliancy and knowledge. Finally they got around to China. One of them asked brightly, "If we could dig a hole in the ground far enough, would we come out 'n China?" The other replied, "Naw, don't you know the world is flat?" Not wishing to appear uninformed, the questioner responded unwittingly, "Of course, dumbbell."

A Helping Hand

A certain little girl acquired the habit of running away. Her mother, very much worried at this, finally devised a plan which she thought would cure her daughter. Mary was quite fond of her various toys. She loved to play with them perhaps more than the average child. The next time she ran away her mother found her and said to her: "Mary, I am going to punish you for running away. I am going to put all your toys away, and you may not have them to play with for a week."

Mary spoke up quickly: "All right, mother, I'll help you put them away." And gathering them up, she helped her mother carry them to a large closet.

Mr. Landry was a native of Canada where he spent his boyhood. He came to Connecticut as a young man and made his home in Norwich, residing there until a few years ago when he removed to New London. He continued his employment in Norwich after coming here. He attended St. Mary's church.

Surviving Mr. Landry are his wife, Mrs. Phoebe Landry, two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Fraser and Mrs. Matilda Dishefy and a son, Wilfred Landry, all of New London.

MOHICAN STORE OPENING DREW LARGE CROWDS

The opening of the Mohican company's new store at 260-262 Main street drew large crowds Saturday and many expressions of praise for the completeness of the store's appointments were heard. The merchandise was attractively arranged for display in every department, which, with the brand new and up to date fixtures, presented a most inviting appearance and it was a busy day for the active force of clerks in caring for the customers. All in all the new store was given the stamp of marked approval that made the opening a complete success.

On Mayflower Descendants' Committee

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Bishop of this city are to be on the reception committee and Mrs. George H. Gilman, on the ticket committee for the luncheon at the 21st annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in Connecticut, which is to be held at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in the lecture room of Morgan Memorial, Hartford. An informal reception will be held in the assembly hall of the Hartford club at 12.30 p. m., followed by a luncheon at one o'clock, after which the society will be addressed by Hon. Addison P. Munroe, governor general of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants and Rev. Warren S. Archibald, minister of Second Church of Christ, Hartford.

WEDDINGS

Miller-Perkins

(Special to The Bulletin)

GALES FERRY, Oct. 23—In the Gales Ferry Methodist Episcopal church, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, Miss Jennie G. Perkins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, became the bride of Robert Miller, of Boston, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Jerome Greer, pastor of the church, in the presence of about 200 relatives and friends. The bridal party entered the church as the Bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, who also played Andantino in D flat (E. H. Demarj) and To a Wild Rose, by MacDowell, preceding the ceremony. The Mendelssohn Wedding March was the recessional. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crepe de chine, had a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Gertrude W. Allen was bridesmaid. She wore yellow taffeta and a picture hat of yellow velvet, and georgette, and carried Coolidge roses. Henry Darsen of Boston, cousin of the bridegroom was best man. The ushers were R. Irving Hurlbutt, a cousin of the bride, and Arthur F. Wyman, of Norwich. The church was beautifully decorated under the direction of Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, with laurel, palms, asters, chrysanthemums and dahlias, with autumn leaves, the flowers being given from the gardens of Frank A. Aplin, Mrs. Charles Hoyt, Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce and other friends. The color scheme was yellow and white.

Following the ceremony there was an informal reception with a lunch in the vestry of the church, under direction of Mrs. Nelson Parker, chairman of the social department of the Epworth league, of which the bride has been pianist for a number of years, and president, until this year. During the reception Harold C. Perkins of New London, a cousin of the bride, played piano selections, including: Melody in F; Simple Confession, Volo; and Blue Skies. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham sang The Heart of Her (Cadman) and A Rose Song (Taylor) with Mrs. Hurlbutt at the piano.

Guests were present from Boston, Nowich, New London, Jewett City, Hartford, Groton, Ledyard and Hastings-on-the-Hudson. The bride received many beautiful gifts, including a chest of flat silver from the Thames National bank, of Norwich, and employes, china, linen, cut glass and money.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left Saturday evening for a honeymoon trip to New York.

The bride has been employed for a number of years at the Thames National bank in Norwich. She is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, Northfield seminary and the Norwich Business college. The groom is a radio operator and is a graduate of the Eastern Radio institute, Boston.

Fish—Perry.

At the South Windham Congregational church last Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of Willimantic united in marriage Miss Pauline Perry, daughter og Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen Perry, and Walter Sands Fish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Power Fish of Mystic. The church was decorated with autumn flowers and foliage.

Mrs. F. J. Williams of Willimantic played "The Fountain," "Call of Thine Own," "To a Wild Rose" and the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. "O Promise Me" was played very softly during the ceremony and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal procession left the church.

The bride wore a period gown of orchid taffeta, trimmed with Spanish lace and tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids, bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mildred Straus of Twin Lakes, who attended the bride as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow taffeta and carried a bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Eileen La Berge of Hartford and Miss Helen Avery. Their dresses were made of changeable gold and green pussy willow taffeta with rhinestone and peri trimmings, bouffant style. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. All of the bride's attendants wore veils of tulle to match their gowns.

Oscar Foote of Mystic attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Hamilton Fish of Mystic, brother of the groom, and Richard Allen Perry, Jr., of Canaan, brother of the groom.

The reception following took place at a tea room in Willimantic. Guests were present from Hartford, Springfield, Danielson, New London, Mystic, Stonington, Torrington, Waterbury, Bristol, Orleans, Mass., Willimantic, Canaan and Niantic.

The bride received many beautiful gifts, including money, silver, glassware, linen and antiques. The bride's gifts to her attendants were rhinestone evening bags. The groom's gift to the bride was a sterling silver and black onyx comb, brush and mirror set. He gave his best man a pin seal leather belt with sterling silver buckle and to the ushers he gave pin seal leather bill folds.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fish left for a wedding trip to Springfield, New York, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Columbus, Ohio. They will live in Chicago where they have a furnished home.

Sumner W. Armstrong Recovering

Friends of Sumner W. Armstrong, of 81 Peck street are greatly pleased to hear of his restoration to health. Mr. Armstrong is superintendent of the Universalist Sunday school and has been warmly welcomed back from the New Haven hospital, where he has been a patient since June, undergoing two major operations. While his recovery, it is predicted, will be slow, his family and friends are encouraged to believe that it will be steady.

At night the police in Paris carry a combination club and flash-light.

VOLUNTOWN MAN UNDER ARREST AFTER AUTO COLLISION AT BALTIC

After the Chevrolet sedan which he was driving had been in collision Saturday night at Riverside, Baltic, with a Ford sedan driven by John Moran, 29, of Baltic, causing damage estimated at $75 to the Baltic man's car, Samuel Bitgood, 69, of Voluntown was placed under arrest on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The arrest was made by Constable Paquette who brought the man to Norwich police headquarters, where bail in the amount of $300 was given for his appearance in the city court.

Toussaint Marcaurelle, 21, of Taftville will be before the city court this (Monday) morning on the charge of driving without having his operator's license, with him. He was arrested by Officer John Carroll.

Another man who is to appear before the city court is Joseph Etelman of Westerly. He was found not to have his operator's license with him.

Edmund Turcotte of Griswold, who was found by Officer Coburn to have parked his car in a no-parking place, paid the usual $5 fine at police headquarters.

The police were notified by W. R. Stevens Sunday that an automobile he had rented Saturday night by a man from the submarine base had not been returned. The machine has registration N-2172 and the police were asked to be on the lookout for it.

A SPRINGFIELD BUS TRIP PLEASANT THESE FALL DAYS

Norwich people who do not own cars need not be deprived of seeing the country north from us in its glory of autumnal foliage. Very conveniently and very economically one can have a day's pleasure while the landscape is at its best.

A party from this city who went over the route at the week end became enthusiastic over the opportunities for an inexpensive outing up into the Bay State. From the Wauregan hotel at 8.20 a. m. an easy-running, roomy and speedy bus of the Springfield-New London Coach company bowls along the finest of roads, reaching Springfield just before eleven o'clock. These are busses for the return trip at 1 o'clock, and 5.30 p. m.

Only for a few feet of construction work at West Stafford is there a single rough place along the route. The heated, comfortable coaches are driven by experienced and careful men, who take no chances, yet who cover the route with a swiftness which does away with any monotony or delay. The ride is a delight from start to finish.

Up Broadway, to picturesque Norwich Town, through the village of Yantic, along the superb new highway, catching glimpses of cattle in the fields in scenes which might be borrowed from a Corot canvas, there are numberless interesting sights—snug, well kept farms, wayside stands of fruit and vegetables, honey and eggs, and even sweet cider, the activity of harvesting—piles of pumpkins, apples, potatoes, pledge of an abundant season, dairy stations in quaint Franklin, glimpses of Lebanon's colonial mansions, fascinating views of blue haze on the hills, of the wondrous woods below the Windhams, and just at 9 o'clock a run through the busy main street, in Willimantic.

Thence on through the varied sights of the attractive suburb called "The Ridges" and along to Mansfield, past the well ordered and finely kept state training school on to that model and prosperous village, South Willington, a regular "Spotless Town" with its fine walks, carefully groomed lawns, neat and attractive thread manufactory.

An agreeable ride over a smooth and winding road leads to Stafford Springs, beautiful borough on the hills which speaks of peace and prosperity, and which is reached at 9.45. From that point there are countless interesting things to see, gliding along through West Stafford, on and on through Somers and past the state line boundary mark, all the time in a glory of foliage in scarlet and bronze and mauve, and pale rose, and tans of innumerable tints, against majestic pines. Soon there begin to be evidences of the brownstone section of Massachusetts, as the route leads through East Longmeadow and on and on and beyond, finally running between the golden-leaved maples of suburban Springfield, past Forest park and on into the very heart of the industrial and commercial section of the city, noted for its prosperity and hospitality.

CRASHED INTO ABUTMENT AT WILLIMANTIC BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 23.—George Nemet, 32, of 285 Main street, Bristol, is in a serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital and a Ford sedan, which he owns and which was driven by his brother, August Nemet, of 46 Williams street, Bristol, is a complete wreck, as the result of a collision with the east abutment of the Willimantic river bridge at the end of Columbia avenue about 12.30 o'clock this morning. The full extent of George Nemet's injuries could not be ascertained at the time, but he was bleeding profusely from a severed artery in the left temple and severe cuts over the left ear and at the back of the neck. It is possible that there are internal injuries. August Nemet, the driver, escaped with a slight cut on the lip. He claimed that the blinding lights of another automobile caused him to misjudge the width of the bridge. The car mounted the top rail of the right side of the bridge and toppled over on its left side. The machine was totally demolished the top being pulled off, contents strewn about and the running board badly damaged. The two young men claimed that they were returning to Bristol from attending the funeral of their grandmother and had attended the funeral of another relative a few days before. The accident was investigated by Officer William Hurley of the police department.

DIVORCE GRANTED ON HANOVER MAN'S PETITION

Divorce from Beatrice Milbench Bamford, now a patient in the Norwich state hospital, has been granted to Thomas H. Bamford of Hanover by judgment given by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court. The decree was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. The couple were married Feb. 11, 1903, and the acts of cruelty were alleged since Jan. 1, 1926.

Mrs. Bamford has been in the hospital since she was committed there after a commission of physicians had declared her insane, when she was before the superior court on the charge of assault with intent to kill her husband by shooting him about a year ago at their home in Hanover.

SUBURBAN DAY BROUGHT GOOD BUSINESS TO CITY

Norwich merchants who conducted suburban day on Saturday experienced a very satisfying volume of business. Shoppers from the city and from all the adjacent territory were on hand for the opening hour in the stores and continued to keep coming all day long. The arriving tide of shoppers filled the streets all day long and into the evening and the many excellent bargains in high grade and seasonable merchandise which were offered by the stores presented rare opportunities to their patrons. The Norwich merchants fully maintained their established reputation for making these special days well worth while for their customers and the day was mutually pleasing to both the store proprietors and their patrons.

TO SEE GOV. TRUMBULL ON NEW SHIP PROJECT

Lawrence R. Willer and C. L. Bardo of the American Brown-Boveri Electric corporation, which is sponsoring the proposed Blue Ribbon Steamship line, left New York early Saturday morning for Hartford to discuss with Governor Trumbull of Connecticut the utilization of the New London pier as the American terminal for the Blue Ribbon ships.

Governor Trumbull has expressed a deep interest in the matter and is said to have been assured by Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling that the leasing of the state-owned pier at New London, to a private enterprise would be legal. Ernest H. Rigg, naval architect for the Brown-Boveri company, has studied the harbor facilities and found that the Thames river channel would have to be widened, especially at Groton, and that the 1,000-foot pier would have to be modernized by the installation of oil storage reservoirs, radio direction-finders to assist the liners in stormy weather and other equipment.

Other problems at New London include the building of an airport within easy reach of the pier for the handling of mail and the housing of employes of the line.

Mr. Wilder has received the following telegram from Governor Pothier of Rhode Island:

"Understand your company is contemplating building ships for foreign travel between here and Europe and seeking terminal east of New York. I am further informed that your representative, C. L. Bardo, is about to confer with Governor Trumbull of Connecticut relative to a terminal at New London. Would like opportunity to confer with one of your representatives as I am firmly convinced that Providence offers better port and harbor facilities with a more direct route to Europe than New London."

Mr. Wilder will confer with Governor Pothier early this week, he said.

MANY FROM CITY WERE AT YALE-ARMY GAME

Norwich had a good number of representatives at New Haven Saturday attending the Yale-Army game. The list included Chief of Police George Linton, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bailey, John C. Donovan, Charles W. Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pettis, Lee Roy Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Shields, Jr., Earl Matheweson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Lerou, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Cary, Charles F. Whitney, Miss Dorothy S. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Greenman, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick F. Sweeney, Miss Mary Coughlin, Joseph L. Crawford, Miss Mary G. Ward, John E. Fitzgerald, Miss Anna Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Covey, James P. Sheridan, Philip T. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wilson, John Wilson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Powers, James Hart, Miss Ruth Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gager, John H. Carney, Jeremiah A. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Finlayson, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan L. Johnson, Miss Elizabeth E. Johnson and H. Downer Johnson, Jr.

BOYS INSTRUCTED FOR ATTENDANCE AT CONFERENCE

Boys from the Norwich churches who are to attend the 28th state older boys' conference at New Haven next Friday, Saturday and Sunday were given instructions regarding attendance at the conference by Boys' Secretary E. H. Davis at a meeting at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building. Promoted by the Y. M. C. A. of the state, with co-operation from the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, denomination organizations and the Connecticut Christian Endeavor union, this annual conference gathers upwards of seven hundred boys from all parts of the state for three days of inspiration, practical discussion and fellowship.

Twenty-seven delegates registered to attend the conference from Norwich are the following: Greeneville Congregational, Russell Metzger, Nathan Sears; Pitchville Baptist, Earle Wheeler, Fred Speerli, Albert Tolson, Ellsworth Powers; Park Congregational, Leonard Clapp, William Hanson, Thomas Baldwin; First Baptist, Robert Burke, Clinton Robinson, Herbert Neilson; United Congregational, Merton Tubbs, Cecil Wetherbee, Lester, Lathrop, Stephen Armstrong; Lebanon Baptist, G. L. Randall, Douglas Burgess, Raymond Perkins; Norwich Town Congregational, Crosley Peck, Luther Wheeler, Reginald Avery, Rev. G. F. Bailey; Central Baptist, Leslie Pitt, E. H. Davis; Trinity M. MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Mich.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere.

MISS DIANA COLUMBE KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO

About 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon as the women were leaving the church of the Immaculate Conception at the closing of their mission services, Miss Diana Columbe of Main street was struck and thrown to the ground by a machine driven by Mr. Dragon of River street, who had just gone after his wife.

Miss Columbe did not appear to be injured very bad, as she got up and went to her sister, who had received such a fright that she had fainted. The sister was taken home in Mr. Peloquin's machine, which happened to be close by. Miss Columbe was taken by Mr. Dragon to a doctor.

P. Peloquin of Hartford was a week end visitor with his family on Main street.

A beautiful rainbow was seen by some of the Baltic people, Sunday afternoon about 4.30.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Woods

It was with deep sorrow that the residents of Baltic, learned of the death of Mrs. John Woods, of 5 Little plats, a long time resident of Baltic. Mrs. Woods was very active in the social work of the town. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

Ladies' night was observed by the members of the Men's league of the Versailles M. E. church Thursday evening, 70 being present to enjoy the hospitality of the league. At 7 o'clock in the vestry, a baked bean and cold meat supper was served with success by members of the social committee, George Robish, Louis Erlbeck, Irvin Gregory, Vivan Perkins and Joseph Meditz. Following the supper an entertaining program was given under direction of the league president, William Walmsley and consisted of chorus singing, with Miss Boutilier at the piano; readings by Albert Houghton, of Baltic; selections by a stringed quartet, (The Happy Boys, of Norwich); a brief and pleasing address was made by the district superintendent, Rev. Myron E. Genter, also by the pastor of the church, Rev. H. H. Conklin. The Thursday evening meeting was the second of the present season and begins the third year of the activities of the league.

ACADEMY SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON AT HANDS OF HARDING HIGH

The Academy ran into a group of rugged and aggressive linemen and a powerful and deceptive bunch of backs that was Warren Harding high of Bridgeport, Saturday afternoon at the campus, just at the time when the Red and White was showing its poorest form of the season and the Park City crew went home with a 19 to 6 win. It was the local's first setback of the season and they lost to a team that played better, and without a doubt deserved the win.

The story of the game lies chiefly in the line. Never was the old saying of "A team is as strong as its line" given a better demonstration than on that battle-churned gridiron on this pleasant Saturday afternon. It was the more experienced and heavier forward line that moved aside the sons of N. F. A., almost at will, to let their terrific 200 pounds of football ability—Hannusovsky, fullback—rip through for large gains time and time again, or Swezey, their diminutive captain-quarterback, slip through for his tantalizing dashes, or Sisko and DeRosa, their capable halfbacks, slide in deceptive fashion hither and yon. In short it was the line that marked the difference between victory and defeat.

The left side of the Academy line failed the most. Through most of the tilt it was there that Harding made her substantial and consistent yardage. The right section was upheld in large measure by the veteran Kahn, who easily played the best for the locals.

The Red and White backs did plenty more than their share of the tackling and in this work it was that Tommy Vitiano, Jim Kelly and Jack Marks showed best, although a sensational piece of tackling uncorked by Bill Tirrell prevented a touchdown. Several of these tackles were unorthodox but in view of the fact that the opposing ball-carriers either had to be "got" or they would have dashed for many scores, this sort of play is partially excused.

The breaks, and there were many of them, fell about equally among the contending forces. What Harding lost in several penalties they made up in Red and White fumbles.

All scoring came in the second half. Harding tallied two touchdowns in the third quarter, one on a 13 yard dash through the line by Hannusovsky and another by Meska after receiving a short pass and traveling about ten yards.

Harding scored about midway in the last period on straight football, Sisko going over and the Academy's score came in the final second when Kelly ran 40 yards sensationally after receiving a forward pass.

In the first period after receiving the kickoff and starting on a march for the goal a 15 yard penalty set them back considerably and forced a punt from their 38 yard line. The Academy made a first down to the 23 yard line but on the next play fumbled. Harding reeled off two first downs through the Academy's weak line and Hannusovsky then got away off his right tackle and made 30 yards to the Norwich 40 yard line before being brought down by Bill Tirrell in a neat tackle. The local quarter eluded a couple interferers to nail his man and save a score. It was here, however, that the Academy braced a bit and took the ball on downs on the thirty yard line. Harding was penalized 30 yards, 15 for roughness and 15 for harassing the officials. The ball now went to Harding's territory about the 40 yard line. A pass, Tirrell to Kelly, made 12 yards and a first down on the 28 yard line but another fumble, again on the 20 yard line gave the ball to Harding as the quarter ended.

The second period saw the Academy make a fine stand on the 9 yard line and take the ball about midway in the quarter. Harding had uncorked a bunch of straight football that brought the ball from her own 20 to this part of the field. Six first downs covered the distance and during this time the visitors looked quite good until they ran into the Academy, fighting for the first time, in the shadow of their posts and then they lost nine yards on the four plays, the Academy finally taking the pigskin on the 18 yard line. Nice tackling by Kahn and Ingalls turned the trick here. The Academy punted out of this place on fourth down and the ball went to the 39 yard line. Harding lost it a few yards further back on downs and just as the Academy went to take possession the half ended.

The Academy received in the third quarter Tirrell runnig the ball back about 25 yards to his 40 yard stripe. The Academy got a break here when Kelly recovered a punt that had been blocked but a 15 yard penalty set the locals back to their 20 yard line. The Academy punted offside on their 40 yard line. Harding lost eight on one of their lateral sthat had been working beautifully before this but made it up with a forward pass to the 13 yard line. Hannusovsky scored the touchdown on the first play, a dash through the line and some poor tackling turning the trick. The try for extra point by dropkick was blocked and the score was Harding 6, Norwich 0.

Tirrell again received the kickoff and went back 10 yards to his 25 yard line. Harding intercepted a pass on the second play near midfield. A couple first downs brought the play up to the 12 yard line, whence a pass to Miska and a short run made Harding 12, Norwich 0 for the try for extra point was again blocked. Harding again kicked off but after a short bit of action the quarter ended with the ball in Academy terterritory in their possession.

In the fourth period the Academy worked it into Harding territory but was forced to kick. Harding started back, was penalized but kept coming and with some nice forwards finally worked up to the 3 yard line on a steady march. Sisko dived through the center of the line for the score. The extra point was awarded when an Academy man was offside.

Harding received, started to march toward the goal again but lost the ball on downs on the Academy 30 yard line. The Academy threw fordwards right and left and one from McGlone to Kelly was good for about 20 yards. Another just as the whistle sounded went to Kelly who ran through practically the entire Harding team and scored. The try for extra point by passing was unsuccessful and the game was over.

The inter-class cross country run was called off.

The Academy goes to Waterbury this Saturday to play Wilby high.

WINDHAM IS SWAMPED BY HARTFORD HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 23—Windham failed to hang up the most coveted scalp of the Hartford high school eleven despite the backing cheers of a record crowd at Recreation park here Saturday afternoon and came out at the zero end of a score of 25 to 0. The Newellmen played a flashy game, scoring in the first quarter, again in the third and doubling up in the curtain quarter. Windham threatened once, in the second quarter, when the ball was taken to the Hartford five yard line A fumble by Wilkinson "put the show on the bum" and Hartford continued on the rosy path to a clean victory. Root carried the ball for the first touchdown, a distance of two yards. He made the goal kick good. Root again scored in the third after a 50 yard end run. A forward pass from Hayden to Cunningham was successfully completed in the fourth quarter and Hayden ran 15 yards to make the score decisive.

The scoring began after the game had been started but a few minutes when Saba slipped up on a punt and Hartford took the ball on Windham's 35 yard line. Root and Hayden plunged the line twice when Root smashed through right tackle to the goal line. With the ball on Windham's 20 yard line in the second quarter it looked good for Hartford but penalties forced the visitors to a punt. Windham's return punt brought the ball to the Hartford 20 yard line. Root fumbled on the next play and Tinker made the recovery for Windham. Saba's 10 yard rush through tackle, plus a penalty and a center dash by Heller had things looking good for Windham. At this critical moment Wilkinson fumbled and Cunningham recovered for Hartford. AGGIES BEA TNEW HAMPSHIR EIN LAST MINUTE

The University of New Hampshire eleven lost to the Connecticut Aggies team at Textile field at Manchester, N. H., Saturday afternoon by the score of 9-6 in the last five minutes of play. New Hampshire was leading 6 to 2 near the close of the final period when Captain Eddy of Connecticut threw two successive passes to Kennedy and Tombari netting a total of 45 yards and bringing the ball to New Hampshire's five yard line. Williams ripped through right tackle for the winning score. Eddy kicked the goal. "Connecticut scored a safety at the beginning of the secing of the second half on a fumble by Winkles, New Hampshire half-back, behind his own goal line. Winkles recovered the ball off the field of play and the safety was automatically scored. New Hampshire came back with a heavy assault and reached Connecticut's two yard line on a thirty yard pass, Clark to Roy. Regall tor through left tackle for the touchdown, Redden missed the try for goal Regall was New Hampshire's strongest bet on both the offensive and defensive while Williams, 210 pound half-back was a consistent ground gainer.

At the J. B. Martin field Sunday afternoon the Greeneville Tigers opened their football season with a clean-cut 13 to 0 victory over George Winterbottom's Majestics of Westerly. For the first half both teams battled on even terms with neither gaining much ground although repeated forward passing attempts were made. The Tigers opened the second half with a rush, Charlie McGraw reeling off a forty-yard run to the Westerly 10-yard line. On the next pla yhe carried the ball the remaining distance to the goal line. The try for extra point failed.

The second score came in the last quarter when Christie blocked a kick and recovering the ball himself dashed for the line but was pulled down four yards from the goal. McGraw was given the ball and he crashed through the Westerly line for the second touchdown. On a scrimmage play the extra point was made. The summary:

TAD IS SATISFIED WITH HIS YALE TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Now that he has assembled an eleven that successfully took the measure of Brown and Army on successive Saturdays, Head Coach Tad Jones of the Yale varsity, says he is not planning to make any changes in the immediate uture. The regulars came through the game Saturday with no serious injuries, and barring accidents in practice scrimmage, the only question as to the lineup which will face Dartmouth this week is whether Duncan Cox, who started Brown or Hubbard, who took his place at fullback against Army at the start, will get the call against the Big Green.

Cox, injured in the Brown game, got into the fray for a little while yesterday and promises to be in good condition by the end of the week Norman Hall, another early season casualty, also got into the game against Army and appears to have fully recovered.

BLUEGE MUST GIVE UP ACCOUNTING FOR BASEBALL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Ossie Bluege, third baseman of the Washington Senators, has been served with an ultimatum by Clark Griffith, president of the club, to either give up accountancy, which he practices between seasons, or baseball, and he has chosen to stick to the latter.

Convinced that Bluege's batting eye has suffered from his working over figures and under electric lights at night during the winter, Griffith sent for his third sacker and had a heart to heart talk with him. Bluege offered to meet his club owner more than half way, promising not only to pass up sizeable profits from his accountancy business, but to spend a lot of time in the open this winter to keep in physical trim.

PLAINFIELD LOSES HARD GAME TO STONINGTON

Plainfield High went down to defeat before the fast Stonington high team, 12 to 0, at Plainfield on Saturday afternoon, but they went down fighting and Stonington knew that they had been in a football game. It was no easy victory for the Stonington team for Plainfield put up a game fight and at times even threatened to score. Stonington went to Plainfield the favorite to win, but by a much larger score and it was the Plainfield team that took all the glory even in defeat.

A young and inexperienced team was Plainfield but their fight and shiftiness made them a formidable foe even to the final whistle. It was one of those defeats that might be called a moral victory.

Giants Blank Yellow Jackets

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The New York Giants of the National professional football league defeated the Frankford, Pa., Yellow Jackets, winners of the championship last year, by 27 to 0 at the Polo grounds today.

Wilson formerly of the Texas Aggies, was the outstanding star of the game, making two of the four touchdowns, one on a pass from McBride, former Syracuse player, who kicked for the three extra points. Haggerty, Georgetown back, now with the Giants, furnished a thrill with a dazzling open field run of 35 yards.

Cooper Wins Oklahoma Open

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Harry Cooper, of the Biltmore club of Los Angeles, today won first money of $1,000 in the Oklahoma city open golf tournament, shooting the 72-holes in 283 strokes.

Al Espinosa, winner of the tournament last year, was second with 286. Horton Smith, a 19-year old youngster from Jefferson City, Mo., shot 288 for third money.

Ball Players Hunting

CODY, Wyo., Oct. 23—(AP)—Three famous baseball players off on a big game hunt met today at the Irma, Buffalo Bill's old hotel in the Rockies. They were Ty Cobb, on his way back from a three weeks trip into the Bridger Lake country and Tris Speaker and Garland Buckeye, who joined him for a day's antelope hunt up the Greybull river. All will then be taken into the mountains by Max Wilde, noted guide, who brought the Ty Cobb party out.

Cerulea Wins Paris Race

PARIS, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Baron Edmund De Rothschild's Cerulea won the 250,000 franc municipal council stakes from a field of twenty-three at Longchamps this afternoon. The winner richly rewarded his few supporters in the Pari-Mutuels, paying 350 francs for ten. M. P. Moulines Ramoneur 11 was second and R. Walker's Invershing from England was third.

The weather was wet, windy and cold and the track heavy.

YALE'S WIN OVER ARMY, DARTMOUTH'S VICTORY FEATURE SATURDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Yale's brilliant 10-6 victory over an Army team that whipped the Blue by 33 to 0 the year before, Dartmouth's sweeping 30-6 triumph over Harvard, and the ignominious downfall of proud Brown before little Lebanon Valley stood out today as features of the latest football battles in the east.

Other surprises included Colgate's defeat by Wabash and Lafayette's by Washington & Jefferson, but these were the highest of the high spots.

Yale and Dartmouth, which won the feature victories of the day, start preparing tomorrow for a battle with each other to be fought in the Yale blow Saturday. Yale won the game last year.

On these rival teams are two of the outstanding backs of the year, both of whom distinguished themselves Saturday. Caldwell of the Blue won the Army game with a pass and a kick, while Lane, of the Green, leading scorer in the east, piled his total to 101 points by making two touchdowns in the rout of the Crimson.

Team reputations of football greatness were of little avail on the cleattorn turf on Saturday and Lafayette sent down in its first defeat since 1925, a 14 to 0 shut-out by W. & J. Brown which shared with it the honor of not being beaten last year lost its third game in five starts when Lebanon Valley nosed its third game in five starts when Lebanon Valley nosed out victory by 13 to 12.

Of the many hard fought battles in which no upset could be recorded because the teams were considered evenly matched before they met, the Princeton victory over Cornell stood out. By winning 21 to 10 in their first game together since 1907 the Orange and Black clung to its place among the unbeaten teams of the east thus far.

New York university which marched readily through Rutgers, and Pittsburgh which toppled Carnegie were others to share with Dartmouth and Princeton that distinction.

Army was toppled from its place among the unbeaten in one of the bitter finish fights of the day, while Syracuse went down by 9 to 6 before Penn State in another battle of the same type. Cornell and Lafayette also tasted their first defeats.

Among the smaller colleges an unlooked for occurrence was the victory of Wesleyan over Amherst by 20 to 12, up to that game which opened the annual play for the "Little Three" title Wesleyan had not won a game in four starts.

Boston college, like Wesleyan, showed a reversal of form in shutting out West Virginia Wesleyan for its first victory of the season, while Holy Cross spilled Catholic university, hitherto undefeated.

Intersectional honors went to the west over the east, through Chicago's 13-7 victory over crippled Penn and that of the little Indiana school Wabash, over Colgate by 7-0.

Among the games of this week for which major teams begin preparation at once are Yale-Dartmouth, Penn State-Lafayette, Harvard-Indiana, Army against Bucknell, an undefeated eleven; Cornell-Columbia, New York university-Colgate, and Penn-Navy.

MICHIGAN ONLY "BIG TEN" TEAM NOT SCORED ON

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—(AP)—Well on the way toward their third western conference football championship in a row, the Michigan team stands out tonight as the only one of the Big Ten which has not been scored on, in its first four games, two of them against conference foes. Both scoring and defensive power have marked the Wolverines this year. The first in which Coach "Hurry Up" Yost has not been at the helm for 27 years. Tad Weimen is Yost's successor.

The Wolverines are tied with Chicago in the conference standing, each with two victories, while Illinois has a single winning marker for its only conference contest, the defeat of Northwestern yesterday by the slender margin of 7 to 6. Minnesota also has yet to tase a conference defeat, but of the Gophers tow starts, they have won one and tied one, the latter against Indiana.

The ether six teams, barring a series of upsets have faded out of the championship pucture. The four unbeaten teams are matched agains each other to some extent in the remaining games of the season, Michigan playing all three of the others. Chicago and Illinois each play two of the three undefeated eievens. While Minnesota has only Michigan on its schedule.

The conference standing:

	W	L	T	TP	OP
Michigan	2	0	0	83	0
Chicago	2	0	0	40	26
Illinois	1	0	0	96	13
Minnesota	1	0	1	149	24

Bears Retain Lead

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears retained the lead in the National football league by edging out the Cleveland Bulldogs 14 to 12, at Wrigley field today. The Bears have won four straight games and are undefeated.

The Bulldogs touchdowns were gained from passes, thrown mostly by Berry Friedman, former Michigan star, while the Bears with minor exceptions played straight football.

FOUR TEAMS LEAD IN EASTERN FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Four great teams today are leading the college football parade in the east with five victories apiece and no defeats. New York university and Dartmouth which head the field at present have scored more than 200 points each while holding their opponents to 20 or less. Pittsburgh and Washington & Jefferson are close behind.

Of the larger teams, Princeton, too, has an unblemished record thus far. The most disappointing showing has been that of Brown which has lost three of five games after going through the 1926 season undefeated. The standings:

ROSS YOUNG, GIANT OUTFIELDER, IS DEAD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 23—(AP)—Ross Young, former outfield star of the New York Giants, died here yesterday.

Youngs (his correct name), was 29 years old, came to San Antonio from New York in the midst of the 1926 baseball season and went to the hospital, suffering from Bright's disease.

His recovery was very slow and physicians said he could never play ball again. His condition finally became so good that he was allowed to return to his home, but a relapse sent him back to the hospital on the 19th.

Youngs was a star football, basketball, baseball and track man at West Texas Military academy. His history as a professional began in 1916, when he signed as an infielder with the Houston club of the Texas league. The New York Nationals purchased him for a stiff price and farmed him to Rochester of the International league.

In the spring of 1917 Youngs was shifted to the outfield, where he made good. He hit above .300 and the Giants gave him a permanent berth in right field.

NIANTIC

The Niantic Fire department held its semi-monthly meeting Monday evening in the engine house, with Assistant Chief John W. Flynn, in the chair. A committee was appointed to confer with the selectmen and school building committee as to fire protection for the new school house being erected on Pattagansett avenue. The committee consists of George P. Hill, chairman, John Paakkari and Fred J. Howard. A liberal donation was received from Owen Wolfe, of New London which was accepted with a vote of thanks. This donation was for the good work done by the department last summer at Oak Grove beach, when Mr. Wolfe's summer cottage there was partially destroyed by fire, the local fire department saving the remainder of the structure.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Brainerd and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Hartford, spent the week end at their farm in the Fair Haven district.

Guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Main of the Fair Haven district were Mr. and Mrs. William Champlin and three daughters of Westerly, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Morris Main and two children of Mystic, and Mrs. Amathe Main of Preston, the last named a niece of John W. Main.

Word was received here recently of the marriage of Frank Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Taylor of East Main street, Niantic and Miss Mildred Moore of Willimantic.

Mrs. Adam F. Bishop attended a tea given Friday by the guild of the Second Congregational church, New London, held in the chapel, with an attendance of 75.

Mrs. Hughes of New London has been spending a few days in Pine Grove, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Von Feillitz.

GOSHEN

Miss Laura McCall and Miss Annie Gillette were members of the party who went to the Nathan Hale home in Coventry last week.

Mr. William G. Thomas who has been ill for several days is reported to be improving.

THE EXPECTED FALL BOOM OF BUSINESS FAILED TO MATERIALIZE LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—(AP)—Irregular tendencies continued to characterize the business situation last week, the expected fall expansion again being pushed back into the future. Improvement was reported in some lines, but it was nominal, and the so-called indices of industry still showed a disposition to lag behind the records of last year.

Buying of steel was termed disappointing, although railroad track supplies were again in fair demand. The automobile trade had not yet come into the market for sheets to any great extent. Finished steel and scrap were weaker, and pig iron was quoted at the lowest levels in 13 years. Mill operations, estimated at 60 to 61 per cent of capacity compared with approximately 85 per cent a year ago.

Car loadings fell back not only from the corresponding week of last year, but from the preceding week as well. A loss of about 1 per cent is shown by the totals for the year.

Production of motor cars declined as the industry marked time. Sales of new cars were behind last year, the slowing up in demand being again attributed to the public's inclination to await the appearance of new models.

Lumber was quiet in reflection of lessening activity in the building trade. The first nine months have shown decrease of nearly 10 per cent from last year's figures in the value of building permits.

Little was heard from the petroleum industry other than some rather disappointing earnings reports. An optimistic survey of the future by the head of a large oil company, however, created a comfortable feeling in many quarters. The rate of crude production was again on the down grade.

More seasonable weather in many sections of the country resulted in a quickening demand for dry goods. New business in textiles, however, is running behind current production. Buyers of cotton goods were beginning to show recovery from the uncertainty caused earlier by unsettled conditions in the speculative cotton market. Silks were being bought for spring delivery in fair volume.

The crops have been affected by adverse weather conditions, and heavy marketing of wheat coupled with a rather poor export demand depressed the price of that grain to the lowest level of the season and below last year's figure. Corn, oats, and barley also were lower. The corn belt reported the need of cold, dry weather to cure the crop.

The production of bituminous coal, following the end of the strikes in Indiana and Illinois, rose to the largest weekly total since last April, but the demand was slack and thege were reports of much coal held on sidings, with demurrage accumulating. Prices were somewhat lower despite the approach of the winter season.

Some stiffening in time money and commercial paper rates were recorded during the week, but there was no material change in the credit situation. The New York Federal Reserve bank maintained its rediscount rate at 3 1-2 per cent, and the call loan market was well supplied with funds.

Bank clearings increased around 8 per cent over the corresponding period of 1926 and about 25 per cent over the week before, a holiday week. Bank debits also gained.

JEWETT CITY

SUB-BASE OFFICER HELD—DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE
(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 23—Joseph Hatfield, a chief petty officer at the Submarine base, was arrested Sunday afternoon by State Policeman Nelson for driving under the influence of liquor. He ran into a new machine making a wreck of it, near what is known as the second bridge above Tadpole. The machine was owned and driven by an Italian from New London. The officer was held at the local police station, awaiting bail.

DANIELSON DRIVER BUMPS CAR DRIVEN BY LOCAL MAN
(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 23—In mid-afternoon today a crowd collected on Main street, on the state road, just below Postoffice square, to look over two cars mixed up by a tail-end collision. Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan was called and found that Joseph Duquette, Water street, Danielson, driving a Ford had run into Emil Sachand of Jewett City, driving James Morey's Essex sedan. The Ford had to be taken away by a local wrecker. The Essex proceeded. The officer first cleared the traffic jam and later finding no blame to be placed and as mutual terms of settlement were agreed upon, he made no arrest.

Uneasy rests the man that is elected to the selectman's burden up in this section of the county. Daniel F. Finn who only took the oath of office a couple of weeks ago, has been kept at the grindstone ever since. Mr. Finn is anxious that his administration shall fall nothing off from that of his predecessor.

Beginning first on town building renovation and repairs, then arranging with road engineers, for taking care of trans-highway water at Glasgo, purchasing a needed town truck, and looking after water bars in a south town wash-out, Mr. Finn discovered Saturday that the end was not yet. Borough law rules against the keeping of swine within the limits, but if one resides just over the line, he is still in the town of Griswold and may raise all the pigs he is able to feet. Just across one of the northern boundaries lives a man who owns a pig possessed of decided nomadic instincts which Mr. Finn learned about Saturday. A short distance further on lives another man, who during the night was awakened from his dreams by such a clattering outside that he thought the house was pinched.

In the dim light he could make out some animal in his garden. Being a dead shot, and the holder of several marksmanship medals, he rushed out with his trusty rifle. The animal had disappeared, but considerable damage was evident Saturday. Selectman Finn received an early telephone call wherein the man prayed for protection from predatory pigs.

In all the churches in Griswold, Voluntown and Lisbon Sunday the pastors gave notice of the coming roll call of the Red Cross which commences Tuesday night in the Jewett City chapter. Tonight (Monday) Rev. J. J. McCabe will speak on the Red Cross during the motion picture show at Finn's theatre. No contributions are to be received at this time. The roll call is for memberships of one dollar and not for contributions. Half the amount is kept by the local chapter, which stands back of the district nurse, if necessary. The annual roll call is the only method the Red Cross takes to put money into the local treasury.

There never has been the day since the state road was completed that more traffic was operated over it than Sunday. State and local officers gave attention to a steady north and south processions at the "S" curve bridge at Tadpole. It was a steady stream both ways with at least six accidents of more or less serious nature happening within the borough limits.

During the afternoon a Rhode Island motorcycle ran over the sidewalk at John Fitzgerald's colliding with his front fence, bending over the iron posts and pushing the fence towards the yard. Some few years ago, on heavy traffic Sundays, a local man was accustomed to count the passing machines in a novel manner. His home is situated on the state road and there are two large crab apple trees growing in front of his house. Whenever a car passed, Henry would toss a crab-apple into a pail, one apple for each car. Today, local observers expressed doubt that all the apples in the town would have been sufficient to tally the traffic.

James Jouber, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jouber, ran in front of an automobile on Slater avenue Sunday afternoon and hit by the fender was rendered unconscious. The machine is owned by Sadie Cady of Taftville and was driven by Joseph Allard of Baltic. Witnesses stated that the machine was being driven at slow speed, and the accident was unavoidable. The child was not seriously injured, it is thought.

Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., was in charge of a stereopticon lecture, given in the Congregational vestry, Friday evening. The subject was This Country of Ours. The lecture was read by Rev. G. F. Goodenough and the stereopticon was operated by Earl Robinson. Home made candy was sold by Miss M. A. Burdick.

Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church spoke Sunday in eulogistic words of the late Charles H. Ray. The speaker pointed out the much more than usual faithfulness in attendance at church services, which could be accredited to Mr. Ray. Mr. and Mrs. Ray were two of the oldest members of the church, both died at the Masonic home, in Wallingford with but a few weeks between.

Mrs. G. H. Prior leaves today (Monday) for Norfolk, Va., having just returned from Ann Arbor, Michigan. She goes as international president of The King's Daughters and Sons.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. E. S. Hiscox and Arlene Symington, of Jewett City, Mrs. Albert Heber, daughters June and Marian and Mrs. Earl Lewis of Norwich were in New London Saturday afternoon to attend the Halloween party of Everett H. Hiscox, 3rd. It was given by his mother Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox, Jr., on her son's first birthday which comes October 25th. The young man enjoyed the fun as much as if he knew what it was all about. Especially attractive was the supper table laid with Halloween table cloth, napkins, bonbons, favors and candles. Two birthday cakes with one candle on each were made by the two aunts and the baby cut the first slice. He received many gifts from his guests and family.

Napoleon Vaslett and Mrs. Mary E. Ingraham were married by Rev. J. W. Carter Saturday night. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corey.

Alec Peltrowski, Jr., the nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Peltrowski of North Main street was brought home Sunday by Henry Veglard from Backus hospital, where he has been ten days following a surgical operation.

The Congregational Sunday school members have been invited to spend Wednesday evening at William McNicols' Mansion House in Preston.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ross have been appointed delegates with Rev. G. F. Goodenough to the New London Association of Congregational Ministers and Churches in the Second Congregational church, New London, on Tuesday.

Friends of Rev. Francis J. Kuster of Chester, are sorry to learn that he is in St. Francis' hospital, Hartford. All are glad to know that he seems to be making a good recovery after an operation for acute appendicitis. Father Kuster was a former curate in St. Mary's parish and has many warm friends here.

STONINGTON

Members of Stonington Steam Fire Engine Co. entertained all persons who assisted them at their recent fair Saturday evening, with cards and dancing. Refreshments were served.

At the inter-class cross country meet at Stonington high school last week honors were won by the freshmen. The awards were made Thursday morning at assembly.

About 100 persons coming from Westerly, Norwich, New London, Montville, Lyme, Mystic and Waterford attended the meeting of the Fifth Conn. District of the American Legion held in the K. of C. home Thursday evening. At the business session Commander Maurice H. Peck of Lyme Post presided. A banquet was held in the banquet hall. The decorations were in Halloween colors, each guest being provided with a Halloween hat. The committee in charge was Samuel E. Stewart, George R. Fratus, George G. Hallett, Frank E. O'Connor, Nelson Churchill and Mathew T. Leahy. Representatives were present from Merrill Post, No. 26 of Westerly; Lyme Post No. 41, Richard W. Morgan Post, No. 55 of Mystic and in addition to Commander Peck, Walter F. Thorp, past commander of Rhode Island; Commander A. B. Brown of Westerly and Miss Evon Broadhurst of Norwich, district commander of the women's auxiliaries.

LATE CHAT WITH TWO COLORED GIRLS COSTS NEW LONDON MAN HIS $30 ROLL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—William Landers, 19 Maple avenue, made complaint to the police last midnight that he had been robbed of $30 by one of two Negro women, who accosted him. Landers said that he was standing in front of the fire house of the Allen Hook and Ladder company and the women engaged him in conversation. During the parley Landers claims that one of the women reached into his trouser pocket and stole the money. They then went to the rear of the Central Coal company and when they emerged to the street, they hailed a taxicab that was about to pass. The women entered the cab and it quickly disappeared from view. Landers reported the alleged theft to the police. The driver of the cab was found and he said that his passengers alighted at the corner of Church and Union streets. A search was made of several Negro resorts but Landers failed to identify any of the inmates as the one who stole his money.

CHAS L. HADLEY DROPS DEAD IN WILLIAMS PARK SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—Charles L. Hadley, about 57, residing at 26 Lincoln avenue, died suddenly of heart disease this morning in Williams Memorial park. He is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Mr. Hadley was walking to his home about 11.30 o'clock and after entering the park he had proceeded but a few feet when he was stricken. He pitched forward and dropped between the concrete walk and the comfort station, landing partially on his face. No one observed Mr. Hadley as he fell, but within a few minutes pedestrians arrived, but no effort was made to ascertain whether Mr. Hadley was dead. A resident of Broad street telephoned to police headquarters and said that she thought a man was dead in the park. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman William Riordan were dispatched in the police auto to make an investigation. When the officers arrived at the park they believed that life still remained and placing Mr. Hadley in the car they drove to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where an examination revealed that Mr Hadley had died from the attack although the body was warm. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified and granted permission for the removal of the body to the Hadley residence. Mr. Hadley had been a sufferer from a weakened condition of the heart for a long time and had frequently sought medical treatment for the ailment.

WAYWARD NORWICH GIRL, 15, IS ARRESTED WITH CHUM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—Two girls, known to be using aliases, the real name of one having been learned since their arrest on a charge of lascivious carriage, were presented in the police court Saturday. Their cases were continued to Tuesday. They are in jail awaiting trial. The girls gave their names as Betty Johnson, 18 and Marion Potter, 22, but Saturday it was revealed that the latter is a Norwich girl of 15 who ran away from home several days ago. Her father has been communicated with and will come to New London to look after the interest of his daughter. The girls were arrested by Policewoman Jane H Cassidy Friday at the Central house, 6 Starr street, where they were residing. Complaint had been made to the police of the conduct of the girls by an officer of the United States coast guard.

ATTEMPTED BREAK, COLMAN ST. SHOPLIFTING AT KAMSLER'S

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—The grocery store of John Mondelci, 220 Colman street, was visited by a thief Saturday night, but no plunder was obtained because the crook was not successful in gaining entrance to the store, although the building was entered. The thief ripped off the wire screen of a cellar window, then broke the glass, after which he climbed the stairs in an endeavor to reach the interior of the store. The door was secured, which fact made it impossible to remove any of the stock. Mondelci discovered the break when he went to the store at 8 o'clock this morning and reported it to the police. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was assigned to the case, but was unable to procure any clues that might lead to the detection of the thief.

ROBERT MURPHY'S DEATH AT HOSPITAL SUNDAY P. M.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—Robert Murphy, about 50, residing at 17 Golden street, died at Lawrence Memorial hospital this afternoon from high blood pressure. He is survived by a sister in Chelsea, Mass., and a brother, who is an attorney in Boston. Mr. Murphy was born in Denver, Col., but resided in Chelsea most of his life, moving to New London about 10 years ago. He was a huckster and sold hams principally, going from town to town by automobile. He had sold his goods in practically every city and town in Connecticut. He was found in his room several days ago when an acquaintance went there, fully clothed, but was unable to see nor could he stand. A physician diagnosed his case as one of high blood pressure and aggravated kidney disease. He was taken to the hospital.

WOMAN DEAD TWO DAYS—NEIGHBOR DISCOVERS BODY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—Mrs. Arthur Peterson, about 60, was found dead in bed tonight at her residence, 555 Ocean avenue, having expired while alone in the house. The finding of the lifeless body was the result of a neighbor forcing an entrance to the Peterson home, because of the woman not having been seen for several days. Mrs. Peterson, who was seen frequently about her home when in health, had not been seen since the middle of the week. This prompted John B. Pendleton, 552 Ocean avenue, to make an investigation. About 8:30 o'clock Pendleton went to the Peterson home and attempted to arouse Mrs. Peterson. When the ringing of the bell failed to bring a response, Pendleton forced a window and climbed inside. When he had the interior of the house lighted he went to one of the sleeping rooms and found Mrs. Peterson lifeless in bed. The police were notified and Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman went to the house and after examining the body pronounced death as having resulted from a heart attack, presumably while Mrs. Peterson slept. The woman had evidently been dead two or three days.

TWO SYRIANS IN HOSPITAL AFTER BUMPING NEW HAVEN CAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 23—An automobile occupied by several Syrians and driven by Elias Saferda, 21, of Central Falls, R. I., collided with an automobile driven by Miss Freida Gardner, of 363 Ellsworth avenue, New Haven, on Ocean avenue this afternoon. The Saferda auto, a Hudson touring car was made a complete wreck, for it overturned twice and then struck a tree. Saferda and Charles McFoud, the latter 19, also of Central Falls, are patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. McFoud is suffering from internal injuries resulting from a crushed chest and his condition is critical. Safera is suffering from nervousness and shock.

The automobile containing the Syrians was on its way from Ocean beach, where the group had spent the day and as it neared Gardner avenue, it collided with the New Haven automobile, which was headed in the opposition direction, when it attempted to pass between the Saferda auto and a third car. The two autos sideswiped each other with the result that the Saferda auto left the highway and ascended an embankment where it overturned and then came to a stop against the tree. McFoud was made a prisoner in the overturned machine and received his injuries as the auto rolled over. He and Saferda were rushed to the hospital and the police informed of the accident. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Sergeant Smith were sent to the scene of the accident and because of the dangerous condition of McFoud the automobiles were kept where they stopped and photographs were taken of their positions to be used as exhibits, in the event of criminal action being taken against either of the drivers.

S. Kamsler, proprietor of a millinery and women's apparel store, 79 State street, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that shoplifters had operated successfully at the store during the day for two dresses had been stolen. Kamsler could not furnish the police with any information connected with the theft, other than to supply a description of the two dresses. It is believed that the shoplifters went to the store and while one of them engaged the salesgirl making a purchase, the two dresses were gathered up by the second woman and secreted beneath her coat. The theft was not discovered until some time after the women had left from the store.

Rock Zekas, 79 Crystal avenue, was in the police court Saturday charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. He was fined $25 on the first count and sentenced to 10 days in jail on the second, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Zekas, who has been in court many times, was arrested Friday night at his home, upon complaint of his wife.

Fred Lancier, 19, a sailor, was arrested early Saturday morning by Patrolmen Patrick Sheehan and Edward Riordan charged with taking an automobile without permission of the owner and driving without a license. The case was continued to Monday. Lancier went to the public service stand and drove away with an automobile owned by Mariana Scira, of 855 Bank street, which was in charge of his employe, John Philopena, when the car was found missing, complaint was made to the police and Lancier was found with the auto on Bank street.

William Barclay, a tile worker was presented on a charge of breach of the peace but the case was continued a month. Barclay was arrested a week ago when he forced Patrolman George Laboue through a show case in a North Bank street restaurant.

The continued case of John Plouff charged with breach of the peace was disposed of, a nolle being entered. Plouff was arrested several weeks ago.

The driver of a Southern New England Transportation company truck, reported to the police Saturday that a crate containing shoes had been lost by dropping from the truck between Mystic and New London. The crate was on the truck when it left Mystic, when it arrived here the loss of the shoes was discovered.

City Manager William A. Holt announced Saturday that the hearing of Patrolman Clarence Wells charged with conduct unbecoming an officer would take place at the municipal building Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Captain Charles A. Pinney was notified of the assigning of the hearing. So far as is known, the only witnesses will be Captain Pinney and Sergeants Smith and Cavanaugh. The charge was made by Captain Pinney following Patrolman Wells' name being mentioned in connection with the death of Miss Hannah S. Frederickson, a nurse.

Mrs. Annie Polcaro, 519 Bank street, went to the Garde theatre Saturday night and while there her coat of black satin, with fur collar, was stolen. She reported the theft to the police. Mrs Polcaro left her seat during the performance and went to the ladies' room leaving the garment in the seat. When she returned the coat was missing.

J. F. Siepel, 106 Shaw street, made complaint to the police Saturday that a commercial truck carrying Connecticut markers, 27544 had backed against his automobile on Bank street and had damaged it. The car complained of is registered in the name of E. Bracelli, 24 Harrison street.

The police Saturday located the family of Gordon Esterbrook, who died Friday at St. Peter's hospital, New York. His wife and mother reside at 512 Main street.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel has ordered the driver's license of Francis McGourty, 208 Huntington street suspended and has ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of Lee DeMoch, 5 State street and Frederick A. Strickland, 19 Woodbridge street. The latter licenses were suspended several weeks ago.

Chief of Police Linton of Norwich, today requested the New London police to arrest the driver of an automobile carrying Connecticut registration N-2172. The driver is a sailor and rented the auto in Norwich Saturday. When the car was not returned today the owner asked for the arrest of the sailor.

Brownie Stamion, 324 Jefferson avenue, was arrested today by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws, in driving without a license.

Edwin DaSolva, of Westfield, Mass., formerly of New London when employed by the former C. D. Ross & Son cracker manufactory, was a visitor in town today.

Mrs. Maura Angelferd, of Ocean beach, Mrs. Max Rogoff and infant son, of Colman street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Breed Theater

For the first time the real and authentic pictures of the great Dempsey-Tunney battle as it was fought at Soldiers' Field in Chicago are now to be seen on the screen at the Breed theater. Round by round this historic battle is being screened exactly as it thrilled thousands in the world's greatest arena. The knockdowns of Dempsey and Tunney are shown in slow motion in the seventh and eighth rounds. It is the most spectacular battle ever screened and was photographed from the official photographers stand along the ringside. All the fight has been taken in from the moment that Dempsey started in the ring to regain his lost crown until the very last, where Tunney is still proclaimed the heavyweights champion of the world. The picture is replete with action and thrills and the photography is excellent throughout. It is the authentic pictorial record of this greatest of all battles and now may be seen by everyone in the same manner as if one actually would have occupied a ringside seat on the night of the fight itself.

Everything the exclusive colony of Southampton had to offer was placed at the disposal of Richard Barthelmess for the making of his picture, Just Suppose, showing today and Tuesday at the Breed theater.

Magnificent villas, high-spirited polo ponies Rolls-Royces—everything. To add to all the splendor, society people themselves took part in the picture. Dick Barthelmess and Lois Moran enact the principal roles.

Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

As a fitting commemoration of the 68th anniversary of their founding, The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company is holding a nation-wide celebration The company was founded in the year of 1859 and has had a most remarkable growth in its 68 years of business life. Establishments identical to Jonesville's own A&P store are scattered country-wide in thousands of communities in 31 states.

Every store of this great chain is joining in the celebration of the founding of the business. According to the usual custom, the public has been asked to participate in the event and will no doubt, do so in a way that affords many benefits. This participation is made possible by an expression of appreciation for the public's patrons and is typified by drastic reductions in retail food prices during the period of the anniversary celebration.

The idea is singularly unique, in that the company is noted for its unusual low price policy as a standard business code, and now, in view of the 68th birthday event, prices assume even a lower level than the customary popular custom.

Many will recall that shortly after the war, when the nation was accustomed to big prices for almost every table necessity, The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company were first to sponsor a movement for lowering bread prices. This event sounded the signal for a movement fostered to bring food prices back to their prewar level.

Again, when coffee prices were soaring and the Brazilian market offered an opportunity for the A&P to give their customers the benefit of lower retail prices, immediate steps were taken to bring the cost of coffee to the consuming public down to a lower price level.

The company's activities have been marked with many such drives against the high cost of living and this aggressive attitude has played a large part in winning a good will that A&P stores enjoy today.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company are the acknowledged originators of the chain-store method of doing business. They were the first to willingly conduct a business at a low margin of profit. The company's founder George Huntington Hartford, believed that the measure of his firm's business success could be entirely determined by the value his patrons received. With the idea in mind of making the consumer's dollar buy more, Mr. Hartford opened his first store on Vesey street, New York city, in the year 1859.

In the company's first modest establishment, Mr Hartford's idea took root and met the popular acclaim of Vesey street shoppers. The success of the first store prompted the opening of others and year after year the firm expanded. Constant adherence to the founder's original policy has been followed and is the acknowledged reason for the life and growth of the A&P.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company's activities are world-wide in scope. Foreign buyers comb the food markets of the world seeking rare exotic foods for the palates of America. The domestic markets are patronized daily and selections of the choicest stock are sought to be offered in A&P stores. Fine foreign foods and popular domestic viands will be offered during the celebration period.

Broadway Theater

The Way of All Flesh the picture that fuses the greatest acting talent of the continent with the cream of American production genius will be the attraction at the Broadway theater today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Declared the most convincingly human story ever transferred to the screen "The Way of All Fresh" is the first American-made starring vehicle of Emil Jannings, international screen idol. Jannings is the actor whose Boss Mueller in Variety, was agreed by all critics and exhibitors to be the outstanding film performance of 1926. He also won fame for his work as the hotel porter in The Last Laugh and as Henry VIII in Deception.

All the resources of the Paramount studio in Hollywood were called upon during the production of The Way of All Flesh. The best professional talent available was asssembled around the facile star and the most efficient technical staff procurable in the film capital brought it to the screen.

Belle Bennett, famous for her Stella Dallas, portrayal, plays Jannings' wife with a sympathetic understanding that is declared inspirational Phyllis Haver, epitomization of blonde loveliness, is the other woman.

Strand Theater

See The Sap, tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday at the Strand theater. It is an intensely absorbing story of a man with a yellow streak, who, though a coward by nature, became a hero by acoident, and had to keep on making good. Afraid of everything until he made the amazing discovery that he feared nothing. See how cowardice can be changed to courage and fear banished forever in The Sap, with Kenneth Harlan tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday at the Strand theater.

Palace Theater

The greatest bill of headline features to be shown, at one time, in any theater is what the management of the Palace theater has in store for the theater goers of Norwich, and vicinity, commencing this afternoon for a three day run. The most discussed movie ever made is the Tunny-Dempsey fight pictures. Through the issuance of an injunction restraining federal authorities from interfering with the exhibition of these pictures, it has been made possible for local people to view the fight just as it happened. The pictures being shown at the Palace are the real authentic pictures, taken at the ringside at Soldier's Field, Chicago and authorized by Tex Rickard, the fight promoter. The thrilling seventh round in which Dempsey floored Tunny for a count of nine, is seen in slow motion, analyzing each blow exactly as landed.

In addition to the fight pictures, the screen offers a re-issue of the biggest picture ever filmed, a picture that will live forever is James Cruze's production, The Covered Wagon. Some 500 prairie schooners, 100 horses, 600 oxen, and 1,000 Indians from six different tribes, go to make up this immortal epic. The cast of featured players include J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Charles Ogle, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Alan Hale, and many other notable players. The Covered Wagon tells a love story that is different Many difficulties are encountered by Miss Wilson and Kerrigan because of the fact that Hale as Sam Woodhall, believes himself engaged to Lois and he refuses to tolerate Kerrigan's attention to her. In the end, however, everything turns out for the best and the conclusion of the story leaves one with the desire to witness this picture a second time.

Owing to the tremendous length of the picture program it has necessitated the management cutting down the vaudeville program to three acts, but the calibre of the acts to be shown leaves nothing to be desired in the way of perfect stage entertainment. Headlining the program is the Grant and Wallace Revue, an aggregation of talented artists whose versatility can only be compared with their wonderful appearance. Arthur Whitelaw, a Celtic comedian who has been headlining for years is another of the features, while the Musical Rowelly's offer a musical program composed of popular and classic selections on novel instruments, and the best part of this triple feature program is that there will be no advance in prices.

NORWICH BUSINESS SURVEY SHOWS GENERALLY SATISFACTORY CONDITION

In a business survey made of the leading communities of the state, prepared jointly by the local chambers of commerce and the state chamber, generally satisfactory conditions are reported for Norwich during September. It is proposed to continue these surveys for each month throughout the state. The report for September in the state is that gas and electric consumption, savings deposits, retail business, and, in many cases, industrial output have gained. In most cases factories are found to be working around 25 per cent. of their capacity.

For Norwich and New London the surveys make the following report:

Norwich

Secretary Pilcher of the Norwich chamber of commerce reports as follows: Building permits showed a 10 per cent decrease for the third quarter ending September 30. Savings deposits showed a substantial increase over September last year although the dividends decreased. This reduced the total amount of savings deposits at the end of the month as compared with total amount on August 31, 1927. Total amount on September 30 was $24,767,000. Gas consumption for September 1927, was 14,365,000 cubic feet as compared with 15,582,000 cubic feet last year. Electric consumption was 805,660 kilowatt hours as compared with 809,752 kilowatt hours last year. New telephones installed 76; removals 38, net increase 38. Real estate sales were about the same and insurance sales showed about 20 per cent. increase over September last year. Post office receipts were $10,000, about the same as last year. Hotel business was approximately 10 per cent. better in September, 1927 than September 1926, due partly to good weather conditions. Retail business as a whole showed an average increase of about 5 per cent. for September, 1927, over September 1926. Factories are operating about the same as last year, on the whole. All running full time. The employment situation is good. Automobile sales showed about a 15 per cent. decrease in September, 1927 over September 1926.

New London

Secretary Gariepy of the New London chamber reports as follows: September was a splendid month. Contrary to the regular custom cottages were kept open and hotel business remains good. Construction work moved along rapidly, one large factory building will be ready for occupancy November 1, employing about 75. Outstanding industrially in this community is the opening of the new plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Co., bringing to New London an industry entirely new to the section. As to labor conditions—at present there is some unemployment here. Building permits in September exceeded last year, single houses of a better grade prevailing. New London is experiencing a house shortage, especially in the cheaper type house. Real estate values remain firm with a rather active market. Automobile sales are especially good for this season of the year. Banks report better business than last year in all departments. Gas and electric consumption showed a gain of 340,000 kilowatt hours for September, 1927, as against 1926. An increase of 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas sold in September, 1927 over the figures for September, 1926. Also again of 5,000 electric meters and 2,000 gas meters over the same periods of last year. The Southern New England Telephone company has just moved into its new home and the apparatus for the dialing system of telephoning is being installed. There are approximately 10,000 stations in the local exchange.

JUDGE BROWN HOLDS LAST SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

Judge Allyn L. Brown presided Friday morning in New London at the last short calendar for the present session of the superior court.

Judge Brown took the papers and reserved decision in three motions, made by Attorney Thomas E. Troland, counsel for the receiver, Frank L. Cook, of the Ideal Coat & Apron Supply Co.

The motions as follows: (1) Approval of receiver's semi-annual report; (2) appointment of permanent receiver; (3) limitation of time for presentation of claims. The last motion would make the time four months from today.

Judgment by stipulation was entered in the case of Senetzki against Zahaba and wife, the judgment being for the plaintiff. The limitation of time for redemption was set as Nov. 15.

A motion to cite in Grace Desario Brogno as co-plaintiff in the case of Brogno against Chinigo and others was granted.

Alimony pendente lite in the amount of $15 a week, providing the wife move from a house owned by her son, where she has lived for nothing, was agreed upon by attorneys for both sides in the divorce action of Max Glass of Colchester against Rebecca Glass of the same place. Judge Brown so ordered and also granted an allowance to defend, $25 to be paid within two weeks and $25 at the time of trial.

A motion for non-suit was granted in the appeal from probate case of Silvia against Burrows.

TROLLEY CO. CHALLENGES STATE HIGHWAY ORDER

Contending that the state highway department could have constructed just as good a road between Stonington and Westerly without affecting the trolley lines so seriously as has been the case, the Groton & Stonington Traction Co., has appealed to the public utilities commission directing the company to change certain grading and remove or relocate certain wires, and the commission has set Friday, Nov. 4, at 11 a. m., as the time of the hearing.

According to officials of the trolley company, the proposed changes as ordered by the highway commission are stretched over a distance of about 4,000 feet and as specified would cost the trolley company $15,000.

Upon receiving the order of the highway commission the trolley company made a survey of the new road and the old road and engineers of the trolley company prepared plans in which it was pointed out that the new road could have been constructed without affecting the trolley lines so seriously.

It was intimated that the financial condition of the trolley company is not any too healthy and that an expenditure of $15,000 at this time to conform with the order of the highway commission, with practically no benefit to the trolley company, would meet with stiff opposition by the stockholders.

4-H Club for Franklin Girls

Arrangements have been made for an organization meeting in Franklin of a girls 4-H club next Tuesday afternoon at 4.15 with Mrs. George Brush.

The girls who enroll will be expected to attend meetings, complete the necessary work, exhibit part of their work and give a public demonstration on the work being accomplished. North Franklin has two girls' 4-H clubs and now Franklin will fall in line with one.

The 4-H stand for head, heart, hand and health, the club motto is to make the best better. Any girls in Franklin are welcome and at least twelve have already signified their intention of enrolling.

Continuing Trial of $60,000 Suit

Immediately following the short calendar session of the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown at New London Friday morning, the $60,000 damage suit brought by the Textile Finishing Machinery company of Providence against The New London Ship and Engine company was resumed in trial.

The suit alleges the Groton company manufactured 16 castings and that they were faulty.

A Wonderful Disinfectant For All Purposes

A disinfectant is as necessary in keeping your home hygienically clean as soap and water. A tablespoonful of Sylpho-Nathol to a gallon of water instantly removes dirt, grease or stains—destroys germs, arrests organic decay, purifies unwholesome conditions—kills offensive odors. Disinfects drain pipes, garbage receptacles, dark cellars. Get Sylpho-Nathol at all dealers.

TAFTVILLE

At the Sunday morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, preached on "The Challenge." In the evening there was the usual meeting of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor. The topic discussed was "Christian Endeavor in All Lands", and the leader was Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis.

Committees have been appointed by the Army and Navy club, to arrange for a bazaar and carnival in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree and son, Harold, Jr., of Goodyear, have been recent guests of Mr. Pingree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North C! Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schmidt of Blissville have had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Francis Strumfler of New York.

Repairs and alterations have been underway at the Parish hall and a new stage curtain has been installed. A studio from Springfield, Mass., has had charge of the work.

A meeting of the members of Troop 3, Boy Scouts, was held Friday evening in the recreation rooms in the basement of the Taftville Congregational church. After the business session the evening was devoted to games, both old and new, Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis having charge of the program.

Hunters who went out over the week-end in search of pheasants and gray squirrels complained that the foliage is too thick as yet to allow the bagging of much game. Both these varities of game are quite plentiful it is reported; in fact it is not necessary to make long trips into the woods for squirrels as they are sighted in and about the village every day.

A force of men have been busy for the past few days raking and cleaning up the sides of the Old Canterbury turnpike from a point near the intersection of Hunters road all the way to Norwich Town.

The members of the W. P. G. club held their weekly meeting at the home of Miss Edna Krodel at 1 North B street Friday evening. The members of the club are Miss Mildred Troeger, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Fidelis Krodel, Miss Melba Monty, Miss Irene Mayor, Miss Edna Krodel and Miss Selena Adams. The club activities are directed by Miss Gertrude M. Young.

Miss Ruth Kupky of Blissville road who has been employed in the office of the J. B. Martin Co., Ltd., resigned her position there Saturday as she is to be married to Thomas Connell of Spruce street, Norwich. Her co-workers in the office presented her a chest of silver, on Saturday.

Funeral services for Miss Gabrielle St. George were held at 8 o'clock Saturday morning from her late home on North A street followed by a high mass of requiem sung at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Omer N. Mandler. Relatives acted as bearers and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The children of Sacred Heart school attended in a body. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike, where Rev. Father Mandler read the committal service.

Mrs. Neil Finlayson, Miss Elsie Heap and Miss Flossie M. Meyer entertained Friday evening at a card party and shower in honor of Miss Ruth Kupky of Blissville road at the home of Miss Meyer in Lisbon. Miss Kupky is soon to be married to Thomas J. Connell of Spruce street, Norwich. About 25 were present. There were three tables of bridge and two of whist in play, the winners being: Bridge, first, Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears; second, Miss Ruth Kupky; whist, first, Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr.; second, Mrs. William Shaw of Mystic. Dainty refreshments were served. Miss Kupky received a number of useful and pretty gifts.

DUDLEY INSTITUTE STUDENTS GAVE MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The large audience filled all the chairs in the large gymnasium at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, when the students of the Dudley Bible Institute rendered a specially fine musical program in voice and on instruments. All the numbers rendered were such as emphasized the old gospel, and the audience frequently applauded the numbers. It was a service long to be remembered, and one which doubtless made deep and lasting impressions; many were the words of approval at the close of the service. Howard W. Ferrin, the able president of the institute delivered a most inspiring address on the text, "I am the way, the truth and the life." Mr. Ferrin, stressed the fact that science had endeavored to explain certain great truths, but it was found helpless to do so; he also mentioned the fact that some of the extreme higher critics were almost doing away with the foundations of our religion, but that after all was done and said, the only answer to the deep questions of life was Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God. The speaker's illustrations were of rare impress, and the audience followed his every word. There were several requests for prayer. It is hoped by those who heard them that this consecrated group will visit Norwich again before too long, and they are assured of a large audience should they do so.

Rabbit Skin Disguises

Some of the trade names under which the lowly rabbit skin appears in the fur business are listed in a recent Farmers' Bulletin, issued by the United States Biological Survey. Baltic is prefixed to black fox, brown fox, leopard, lion, red fox, seal, tiger and white fox—all being rabbit skins variously dyed and treated, according to the bulletin. Other rabbit furs appear as Arctic, Australian and bay seal, beaverette, chinchillette, coney, electric beaver, electric mole, electric seal, erminette, French chinchilla, meskin beaver, meskin ermine, meskin moline, meskin seal minkony, sealette and sealine, squirrelette, squirreline, visionette and others.

Halloween Party

The Misses Donovan of Goldberg avenue, entertained 24 Friday evening at a Halloween party with cards and music. After the party there was a luncheon for 24. Guests were present from New London. Mrs. T. C. Foley of New London assisted her sister in serving.

NORWICH TOWN

BOY FALLS INTO CHURCH WELL RESCUED BY CHAS. SCHWENK

While at play with other children Saturday afternoon about 3.30, Clovis Richards, six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nastuse Richards, 17 West Town street, fell into the well on the lawn of the First Congregational church, but was shortly rescued from drowning by Charles Schwenk, of New London turnpike. The report given out, was that the child was standing on the cement bolder at the top of the well enclosure which is constructed of cobblestones, and while looking down into the water lost his balance. The blow from the fall, caused a large lump on the right side of his head. A brother, Vulve Richards, seven, ran to his home, which is near the church property and gave the alarm to his mother, who called upon Mr. Schwenk at work at Rock Nook Children's home. Mr. Schwenk was successful in bringing the boy to the surface. Walter H. Pilcher, secretary of Norwich chamber of commerce, who happened to be driving by at the time saw Mrs. Richards carrying the child home in her arms. He took the boy home the remainder of the distance, and after calling Dr. R. Agnew, proceeded with the child to the Backus hospital where he remained over night, being taken to his home Sunday morning. The boy who is confined to his bed, is the third youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Richards, who are parents of seven children.

At the Sacred Heart church, Friday morning at 7.30 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated a month's mind requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of John Banning, which was attended by neighbors and family friends. Mrs. William A. Murphy was in charge of the musical part of the mass. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and at the conclusion of the service she sang Abide With Me.

The supper in the First Congregational chapel Friday evening, held under the auspices of the Young Women's class of the Methodist Episcopal church school, was well patronized by parishioners from both churches. The menu comprised baked beans, salads, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee. A good sum was realized from the supper, which was served at 5.30 under the general supervision of the teacher. The proceeds will go toward the Methodist church budget for 1927 to cover brother-in-law, James Trumbull and the pledge of this class. The members are Misses Effie Ladd, president; Ruth Lathrop, secretary and treasurer, and Gertrude Brown, Inez Edmiston, Gladys Cruthers and Beulah Rogers. The tables were decorated with chrysanthemums, salvia and flowering plants. Assisting the class in the kitchen were Mrs. Everett Rogers and Mrs. Irving Cruthers.

Herbert Greenwood, Conay Island light house keeper, and Mrs. Greenwood have returned after a few days' visit at the home of Mr. Greenwood's daughter, of Wauwecus Hill.

ALASKAN EARTHQUAKE HAS BROKEN CABLE SERVICE

The Shock is Believed to Have Been Severe at Wrangell—Indications Are That the Center of the Disturbance Was in the Pacific Ocean, Off the Alaskan Coast—Dr. T. A. Jaggar, Director of the Mount Kilavea Laboratory, Sent Warning to Honolulu That Tidal Waves Dangerous to Shipping Would Occur in Hawaiian Waters—Twenty Active Volcanoes Have Been Observed During a Cruise of the Aleutian Islands.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Earthquake shocks of considerable intensity rocked southeastern Alaska today, severing cable communications in the far north and interrupting household activities of the inhabitants.

Complete reports were lacking tonight from western Alaska, which includes a score of active volcanoes, and there were indications that the center of the disturbance was in the Pacific Ocean off the Alaskan coast. Dishes and windows were broken and clocks were stopped when several towns were jarred by the tremblors.

Cables maintained by the United States army signal corps between Ketchikan and Wrangell and between Juneau, Haines and Skagway were severed.

In Honolulu, Dr. T. A. Jaggar, director of the Mount Kilauea volcano laboratory, notified the hydrographic office that tidal waves dangerous to shipping would occur in Hawaiian waters between 1.30 and 3.30 p. m., Pacific coast time.

Reports from Petersburg, Alaska, said the Ketchikan-Wrangell cable had broken near Wrangell, where the shock was believed to be severe. Communication with Wrangell will not be restored until tomorrow, when a radio operator despatched from Ketchikan will arrive and establish a wireless station until the undersea cable can be repaired.

Officers in charge of the Alaska cable in Seattle said a cable repair ship would depart from Seattle Wednesday to repair the breaks in the Ketchikan-Wrangell cable and in the line from Juneau to Haines and Skagway.

The main shock was felt in Juneau at 7 a. m., followed by three lesser ones. Many residents rushed from their beds in night clothing. Dishes rattled, light chandeliers swung and clocks stopped.

Cordova, Alaska, several hundred miles west and north of Juneau, reported pictures hanging on the walls swayed slightly, but the phenomenon was not identified as an earthquake until dispatches telling of the disturbances in southeastern Alaska were received.

Residents of the Nickeyville residence section of Ketchikan reported feeling slight earth movements about 5 a. m., of about the same intensity as tremblors which rocked Alaska in February, 1925.

The seismic disturbances were recorded in many parts of the United States, several observers reporting that their instruments indicated tremendous upheaval. Dr. Perry Byerly, seismologist of the University of California, reported his chart of his seismograph indicated the disturbance centered 1,560 miles northwest of Berkeley, Calif. The earthquake was of great intensity, Dr. Byerly said, and lasted from 3.05 a. m., to 10.30 a. m., Pacific time.

The shocks were recorded for longer periods on seismographs in the eastern part of the United States. Dr. Byerly said the farther a seismograph is from the center of a disturbance the longer the intensity period is recorded.

Twenty active volcanoes were observed by Thomas A. Jaggar, government volcanologist, during a cruise of the Aleutian Islands, hundreds of miles to the westward of the region, last summer, where the quake was first reported felt today.

One volcano, Megik, on the Alaska peninsula, across the Kodiak Island, was reported to have exploded like a glan firecracker in August. Captain Harry W. Crosby of Seattle, aboard the floating Cannery Salmon King, observed the eruption from 50 miles away, and reported that hundreds of thousands of tons of pumice stone and volcanic ash were thrown into the air, coating the sea with a heavy white blanket of ash.

Earthquakes have frequently accompanied volcanic eruptions in Alaska. The last heavy earth movements which were reported in February, 1925, were felt in all parts of the territory, and severed the signal corps cable, breaking water pipes and rattling dishes.

The 1925 quake lasted about 20 seconds.

RUTH ELDER EXPECTED TO ARRIVE AT LISBON TODAY

LISBON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Ruth Elder, American aviatrix, and her co-pilot of the airplane, the American Girl, George Haldeman, are expected to reach here on the Portuguese steamer Lima from the Azores at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Fred Morris Dearing, the American minister, will go abroad to greet the aviators, who will have to face a great crowd of Portuguese and foreign newspapermen, moving picture operators and photographers, all eagerly preparing to be first on the job.

The radio station at Monsanto is in constant communication with the Lima, only interrupting the schedule to transmit regular weather reports to shipping. Miss Elder and Haldeman spent a large part of today studying a map of the Atlantic and planning a voyage which they contemplate in 1928. Haldeman's opinion is that they may start from Charleston, and proceed thence to Bermuda, the Azores and Paris.

Miss Elder adheres to her determination not to abandon her flying suit of knickerbockers and sweater until she reaches Paris.

BANK ROBBERS IN BATTLE WITH CITIZENS AT ST. JOE

ST. JOE, Ark., Oct. 24—(AP)—Two notorious outlaws were believed to have been members of a band of four who wounded three citizens today as they shot their way to freedom after robbing the St. Joe bank of $300. One of the robbers also was wounded and was carried to a waiting automobile by his comrades.

Lee Sitton and Troy Love, escaped convicts from the state penitentiary at Little Rock, were recognized by citizens as leaders of the bandits. Sitton was accused of killing two men here last July in a brawl after his escape. He and Love then fled to the hills and ever since have evaded capture.

The four men were seen entering the bank today before it opened. Alarm was given and a number of armed townspeople responded. In an exchange of shots, W. L. Hensley, a merchant, was shot in the abdomen and probably fatally wounded.

Albert Arnold, postmaster, and Harry Nunnally, a mechanic, were struck by bullets but their wounds are slight.

GOV. FARRINGTON AT WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Governor Farrington, of Hawaii, prominently mentioned as a possible successor to the late Governor General Wood, of the Philippines, and John W. Garrett, of Baltimore, mentioned for ambassador to Cuba, conferred at length today with President Coolidge.

Both men avoided discussion of what had taken place on leaving the white house. Mr. Garrett's friends said, however, that he would be willing to accept the post at Havana. Asked if he had been offered the Manila post, Governor Farington replied:

"I am a New Englander and I never cross my bridges until I come to them."

MOTHER OF EIGHT DIED AFTER WORKING ALL DAY

WALLINGFORD, Oct. 24—(AP)—After working all day in a local factory, Mrs. Agnes Mulnar, N year old mother of eight, complained of feeling ill as she left for home. She died in her home before medical assistance could reach her. Dr. J. H. Buffum pronounced death due to a heart attack.

NOT TO ASK INCREASE SUM FOR "DRY" ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—No increase in the present $13,000,000 annual appropriation for prohibition enforcement will be asked of congress at the coming session, it was announced today by Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury. He said the prohibition unit would ask in the budget for next year exactly the same amount it received this year and would accept the judgment of congress as to its sufficiency.

Seizure of rum running automobiles and airplanes, it was brought out, has enabled the prohibition unit to stay within the limits of past appropriations for next year. The government will not need to purchase any automotive vehicles now since the law allows the useof seized machines for enforcement functions.

Secretary Mellon reported that two airplanes had been seized on rum running charge in Florida today, and that a third had been picked up on the Canadian border. The machines, if the charges are sustained against them will furnish a nucleus for a government air fleet in the prohibition unit.

SMALL CAPITALIZATION CAUSE OF BANK FAILURES

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 24—(AP)—Small capitalization, $25,000 or under, was pointed to as the root of the failure of 3,124 state and national banks in the United States in seven years up to 1926. In the report of the public security committee, state banks division of the American Bankers association here today.

Small capitalization figures "tell their own story," was the committee's laconic comment. "By far the greater number of failures," the report said, "were in the midwestern and western agricultural states and some of the southern states." The peak was reached in 1924 with 915 failures, falling to 573 in 1926. Charters meanwhile had decreased from 1744 in 1920 to 268 in the fiscal year ending June 30, last.

Continuation of campaigns for less free bank service and to induce banks to sell bonds and other securities direct to customers instead of allowing bond houses to do so, was recommended.

MOTION TO QUASH ALCOHOL INDICTMENTS IS DENIED

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24—(AP)—The motion of counsel for Nathan, Carl and Anthony Florio and Richard S. Stevens to quash the indictments against them in the "million dollar alcohol ring" cases, was denied today by Judge Edwin S. Thomas in United States district court. The motion was based upon allegations that the indictment returned by the federal grand jury against the Florios did not state definitely the specific charges against them.

Denial of this motion, a victory for the government, which has already seen one set of indictments against the Florios and seven other individuals and two corporations, quashed, was the only definite action of a day largely spent in discussion of points of law in the cases.

60,000 ACRES OF GRAZING LAND LAID WASTE BY FIRE

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Oct. 24—(AP)—Sixty thousand acres of grazing lands have been laid waste and a number of granaries and two farm houses razed by prairie fires sweeping over the Ronlane and Lomand areas, west of Medicine Hat, it was learned today.

STORY WATERBURY BOY TOLD NEW YORK POLICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—Well-dressed and confident, a 14-year-old boy walked int on police station here today and asked for the loan of enough money to carry him back to Waterbury, Conn. He said he had come here this morning to deliver a message to a riding academy and had spent so much money at luncheon that he could not buy a railroad ticket home.

He explained that he was Thomas Leary, of 363 East Main street, Waterbury. Police said they learned that he had called at the riding academy posing as an agent of James S. Welton, race horse breeder, of Lafayette, Ky., and asked to be shown over the stables with a view to reserving space there for a string of Mr. Welton's horses. He had left, promising to acquaint his principal with the merits of the stables.

To the police he confided that he loved horses, that his brother had once been a jockey for Mr. Welton and that he had just saved his money until he could come here to look over the horses. He was an orphan, he said, and lived with an aunt in Waterbury, working as an office boy for a Waterbury lumber merchant. The boy was held for a hearing tomorrow on a charge of juvenile delinquency. His aunt and employer were notified.

COLORADO COAL STRIKE CONTINUES TO SPREAD

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 24—(AP)—More mines were closed as the I. W. W. strike in Colorado's coal mining fields spread to new territory today, while peace officers continued their drive against pickets and narrowly averted disorders at several camps.

Parading away from their home camp at Walsenburg, a large group of pickets and strikers today paid a surprise visit to coal properties in the adjoining county of Las Animas and caused the suspension of several additional properties.

The closing of the mines was reported after the majority of miners working there had been persuaded to join the strike cause, I. W. W. leaders were jubilant over the strategy and Roger Francezon, head of the I. W. W. in the United States, who is directing the strike, said that all mines in southern Colorado would be closed by the end of the week.

Mine company officials said the strike was growing more serious. Additional guards have been sent to the C. F. and I. mines from the steel works of the company at Pueblo.

AMERICAN TARIFF NOTE DELIVERED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—Washington's rejoiner to the last French tariff note was delivered at the foreign office this afternoon by Sheldon Whitehouse, American charge d'affaires. It was translated quickly and forwarded to M. Bokanowski, the minister of commerce. The understanding is that the note made a good impression by its brevity and conciliatory business tone. Foreign officials, however, refused to comment on the document, though expressing the hope that it will end the era of diplomatic exchanges, and bring about direct negotiations for a provisional arrangement to last until an agreement is reached.

The French newspapers already comment favorably on the Washington note, basing their judgment of it on dispatches coming from Washington.

LOS ANGELES FLEW TO BOSTON, THEN TO NEWPORT

BOSTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles arrived over Boston at 10:20 o'clock tonight on her training flight to New England. The big airship cruised over the city for some time before turning southward toward Newport, R. I.

OBITUARY.

William Whitney Price.

New Haven, Oct. 24.—(AP)—William Whitney Price, founder of the directory publishing firm now known as Price & Lee Co., and secretary of the Army of the Potomac during the Civil war died in his rooms at the Hotel Bishop yesterday afternoon. Mr. Price was 81 years old. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon and will be conducted by Rev. Arthur F. Lewis, associated grand chaplain for Connecticut of the Masonic order. Trumbull lodge, 22, will have charge.

The firm of which Mr. Price was a founder was originally known as Price, Lee & Adkins, but the name was shortened when the junior partner dropped out. Mr. Price remained as a member until 1908 when he retired from business.

During the Civil war, he saw service with Company I, 27th Connecticut Infantry. He was a captain in the Second Company, Governor's Foot Guard during later years.

S. Davies Warfield

Death followed an operation, performed at the Union Memorial hospital late today. Mr. Warfield entered the hospital only today and died at about 6 o'clock.

Dr. M. T. Finney, who performed the operation used only a local anaesthetic. His convalescence was uneventful and it was believed he would be discharged within a few days days. This afternoon Mr. Warfield was in high spirits. He became ill and died almost instantly from coronary thrombosis.

Mr. Warfield had entered the hospital under the name of Foster and few of his friends knew that he was ill.

He was a bachelor and is survived only by one brother, Henry M. Warfield of Baltimore.

Sudden Death of the Marquis of Cambridge

Leaves Queen Mary of England With One Surviving Brother, Earl of Athlone.

LONDON, Oct. 24—(AP)—The royal family [illegible] plunged into mourning today [illegible] rather sudden and unex[illegible] of the queen's brother, the [illegible] of Cambridge, after a serious [illegible] operation.

The Marquis of Cambridge had been in poor health for some time but his condition was not considered serious. Today, however, he was removed from his country home, Shotton Hall, to a nursing home in the adjacent town of Shrewsbury, where he underwent an operation from the effects of which he died later.

It had already been announced that owing to the illness of the marquis, the projects visit of the prince of Wales to Shrewsbury Wednesday and all ceremonies in connection with the visit were cancelled, but that a fatal termination of the illness was quite unexpected as shown by the fact that the prince with his two brothers, the duke of York and Prince Henry, were all out hunting today. All court functions will cease for whatever period of court mourning may be announced.

The marquis was a German prince in his paternal line but his education and breeding were English. He held many official positions during his life, and had considerable military service, notably in the Boer war and the World war, but his preference always was for the quiet home life of an English country gentleman.

The disinclination of the marquis for royal pomp was illustrated some years ago when there was talk of offering him the throne of Hungary. He burst into laughter at the bare suggestion of his quitting a quiet country life for the troubled career of a foreign king, and declined to entertain the notion.

Despite his disinclination to high position the marquis lived a very interesting life, as he occupied many diplomatic and official positions and saw much war service. He was present at the relief of Kimberley, the battle of Pardeburg and several other actions in the Boer war. He was awarded the queen's medal with six clasps for his service in South Africa. He acted as military secretary at the war office during the World war and also was military secretary to the British expeditionary force canteen with the rank of brigadier general. In 1914 he was appointed governor and constable of Windsor Castle.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN IN REMUS MURDER CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—Taking of depositions in connection with the indictment against George Remus, Cincinnati bootlegger, for the murder of his wife, was concluded here today and the scene of the investigation now shifts to Detroit, where other witnesses will be examined.

Henry Spilker, once a waiter in a roadhouse near Cincinnati, and William H. Dodge, former president of the Scripps-McRae chain of newspapers, were the most important of today's witnesses. Spilker told of having served Mrs. Remus and a man in a room at the road house three years ago, but he could not identify the man.

Dodge, a cousin of Franklin L. Dodge, former federal agent with whom the defense charges Mrs. Remus was intimate, testified that his cousin was a guest at his home in Pelham, N. Y., on the night of the Dempsey-Tunney fight. The defense had contended that Franklin Dodge was seen with Mrs. Remus that night at the ringside in Chicago, his testimony was corroborated by Manning Wakefield, of the New York World, who said he was a guest at the Dodge home on the night of the fight.

WITNESS TELLS OF A TRIPLE MURDER PLOT

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 24—(AP)—A mulatto servant, her eyes flashing as she told of a triple murder plot in which she played a leading part, took the witness stand today in the trial of Miss Bessie Morse, charged with conspiring to slay her sister, her brother-in-law and their adopted son to obtain the $100,000 estate of her aged father.

Mamie Todd, the Negress, who has turned state's evidence, told of engineering the details of the plot in which a fish peddler was to obtain assassins who would "make a clean-up job" of slaying Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dey of Prospect Plains, N. J., and their foster son, Raymond Brittain. They were to have received several thousand dollars for their part, she said.

All her part in the conspiracy, she said, had been prompted by her employer, Miss Morse. She merely carried out orders, broaching the scheme to Bill Chasey, the fish peddler, who was to have hired the actual murderers.

Fall Directed the Teapot Dome Lease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Moving swiftly to one of the more important elements of their case, special government oil counsel developed today before a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court that Albert B. Fall as interior secretary took personal direction over the drafting of the lease which Harry F. Sinclair obtained for the exploitation of Teapot Dome, the navy's oil reserve in Wyoming.

Three present or former employes of the interior department were called in the oil conspiracy trial and from them counsel elicited a connected story of events preceding the signing of the lease, a story which had these as its essential details:

That during the Christmas holidays of 1921, when Sinclair was visiting Fall at Three Rivers, New Mexico, Charles V. Safford, administrative assistant to the secretary, called for a report as to claims to property in Teapot Dome.

This report was prepared jointly by Roy W. Tallaman, a special agent of the interior department, and Herbert W. MacFarren, a mineral examiner, and set forth that none of the claims was worthy of consideration and that from a "geological and operating point of view it appears imperative not to pen up the Teapot Dome in any manner".

Subsequently Fall, who had returned to Washington, called for a second report, which he received on March 10, 1922, less than a month before the Sinclair lease was signed. This report dealt primarily with the claims of the Pioneer Oil and Gas company.

Tallaman said that both he and L. E. Eddy, another witness, had told Fall that all the claims had been "closed out". The final letter could not be found in the files, but Fall was quoted by this witness as saying that he had no doubt it had been misplaced.

Arthur W. Ambrose, one time petroleum technologist in the interior department, testified that Fall told him Sinclair had made an offer for leasing Teapot Dome; introduced him to the oil operator and his attorney, the late J. W. Zevely, and directed him to prepare a lease.

First negotiations began in Fall's office, then proceeded in his library in the next room and finally were shifted over to Zelevy's office where the lease was whipped into final form. Ambrose said he never consulted any lawyers in the interior department about the lease, referring all questions to Fall directly.

Attorneys for the defense also contended that there was nothing to show that the first Tallaman report ever reached Fall, who still was in New Mexico when it was presented to Safford. They also tried to bring out that when he considered the lease Fall had before him a motion of the Pioneer company for a re-hearing by the secretary himself, a procedure provided for by law, but Tallaman could not recall that Fall had referred to that.

At the outset today, Justice Siddons announced that he could not render an opinion as to the admission of Sinclair's testimony before the senate oil committee until he had more light on the question of whether he was actually subpoenaed before that committee.

TO COMBAT DIVERSION OF THE CONNECTICUT RIVER

HARTFORD, Oct. 24—(AP)—Attorney General Benjamin W. Ailing was instructed this afternoon by Governor John H. Trumbull to "go the limit" in protecting the Connecticut river from diversion of its tributary waters, by the taking of the waters of the Ware and Swift rivers bythe Boston Metropolitan Water company for replenishing its reservoir.

The filling of a bill of equity with the United States supreme court, to protect the interests of the state in the matter, was considered at a brief conference this afternoon in the governor's office here. Attorney General Ailing, Assistant Attorney General Ernest L. Averill and Attorney Benedict M. Holden, representing the governor, participated.

The attorney general stated that a petition for an injunction, as contemplated would serve to register the protest of the state in a legal manner even if the petition were over-ruled by the supreme court.

EARNINGS OF NEW HAVEN ROAD SHOW AN INCREASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—Net income of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for September was $309,139 ahead of September last year, totaling $1,626,818 and for the nine months of 1927, a gain of $266,868 over the first nine months of 1926, reaching $6,528,346. September railway operating revenues, however, were $244,423 less than a year ago, but gross income gained $350,866.

WESTERN REPUBLICAN INDEPENDENTS HOLDING POLITICAL CONFERENCES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—The presidential candidacy of Senator Norris of Nebraska, was brought to the fore again today by a group of western republican independent senators which side-tracked at its conference a decision on details of a farm relief program.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the six members attending the parley today, reiterated his support for Norris, and put the issue up to Nebraska by asking Governor McMullen of that state, whether he preferred Frank O. Lowden or Norris.

Governor McMullen declared in a statement yesterday that efforts of the independent republican senators to get together on a farm relief program acceptable to Borah, an opponent of the vetoed McNary-Haugen farm bill, would endanger agricultural legislation and split support for Lowden.

While not commenting upon the candidacy of Lowden, senator Borah said he fully realized the movement for Senator Norris would tell upon the strength of the former governor from Illinois. Meanwhile, beyond acceding to the movement for him in his own state, Senator Norris has made no announcement of his candidacy nor has the conference decided whether to go into other fields in his support. In fact Senator McMaster, of South Dakota, who joined the group today, said Norris is only one of several candidates under consideration by the west, which he declared was more interested in farm relief and causes than in men.

Still lacking a solution of the farm relief problem, involving opposite views on the controversial equalization fee provision of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill, the conference postponed consideration of this, pending the arrival of other western senators.

Hope is now held out that Senator McNary, new chairman of the agriculture committee, may have some views on farm relief legislation when he returns affording an opportunity for all western senators to unite. Senator Borah has opposed the equalization fee as unconstitutional and around this stumbling block the conference of the independent group has split so far.

"We are interested in the presidency," the statement issued by the six senators after their conference today said, "and are discussing matters relating to that subject. We are interested in farm relief and we are discussing all matters relating to farm relief."

Several volleys were exchanged between the bandits and troops after which the bandits escaped.

AIRPLANE MANUFACTURERS OF AMERICA ARE RUSHED

The Big Companies in This Country Are Too Busy to Compete For Prizes of $150,000—Harry Guggenheim Asserts That Our Manufacturers Are So Booked Up With Orders That They Can't Think of Anything But Getting Out Planes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—Aeronautical activities of the past summer have brought such a rush of orders to American airplane manufacturers that prizes of $150,000 may go begging, or go abroad, because the big companies in this country are too busy to try for them.

The safe aircraft competition sponsored by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, has been open almost two months, yet only two American companies, and those relatively small, have filed entry blanks, as against five entries from England, four of them world famous companies.

"The trouble is," Harry Guggenheim fund, told the Associated Press, "that our manufacturers are so booked up with orders that they can't think of anything but getting out planes. We hope, however, that many of them will come in later."

Major Howard Davidson, operations officer at Mitchel Field, who is field manager for the competition, revealed today that although the actual testing of entries has not yet begun, already one army plane has been cracked up in "going over the jumps" prescribed for the competitors.

Last Saturday, he told the Associated Press, he made an army ship go through its paces, not in an effort to meet the requirements of the safety test, but just to see how close to those requirements a present day standard ship came in normal maneuvers. The plane ran into a tree on landing and sheared off a wing, no one was injured. He expects to obtain another "slow ship" to continue the experiments.

For the purpose of the tests a 500 foot suare will be marked off at Mitchel Field with theoretical 25 foot walls surrounding it. The entry planes, flown by pilots selected by the fund, will have to be able to scale these walls from a standstill inside the square and land again inside the enclosure, without passing through the imaginary obstruction.

Points will also be given planes that can fly at more than 110 miles an hour and less than 75, glide at less than 35, come to rest in less than 100 feet after touching earth, come to rest in less than 300 feet from the base of an obstruction 35 feet high which has been glided over, take off in less than 300 feet and clear a 35-foot obstruction from a standing start less than 50 feet away.

The competition is at present open until Oct. 31, 1929, which would seem to give dilatory companies plenty of time to fie their entries, but the fund has reserved the right to close the lists at any time it considers the objects of the competition achieved or when sufficient entries have been received to give a reasonable prospect that those objects will be achieved.

The first prize is $100,000 and there are five prizes of $10,000 each. The only American entries so far are Schroeder-Wentworth associates of Chicago and the Hall-Aluminum Aircraft corporation of Buffalo. The English entries are the DeHavilland Aircraft company, Handley Page Ltd., Vickers Ltd., Vickers Ltd., Gloatershire Aircraft Company Ltd., (successor to H. H. Martyn and Co.) and the company which is experimenting with Senor de la Cierva's autogiro.

PROGRESS OF PETLURA MURDER CASE IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—The harrowing memories of a nurse who attended the wounded in a three day pogrom at Proskuroff were recounted today in the ghostly whisper which nurses use to sooth patients at midnight, before the court trying Samuel Schwartzbard for the murder of General Simon Petlura.

As Haim Greenberg, the nurse, a young woman of 28, in drab but trembles voice painted a gruesome word picture of the scene. The Hebrew clockmaker who claims to have acted as the avenger of his race sobbed audibly, and for the first time lawyers stopped planning ahead to listen to the witness. Other witnesses who appeared this afternoon, the first of more than eighty called by the defense, testified to their belief that Petlura was directly responsible for the massacres.

Miss Greenberg, who served in the Ukrainian Red Cross at Proskuroff, described the streets as being littered with the dead and wounded of all ages and both sexes.

"I shall never forget the reddened snowsleds filled with the hacked bodies going to the cemetery to deposit their sad burden in a common pit," she murmured. "They brought the wounded to the hospital—armless and legless men, mutilated babies and young women whose screams became faint as their wounds overcame them."

Miss Greenberg suddenly switched from grief to fury, and shrilled:

"Petlura was responsible! Even Ukrainian officers said so. His soldiers killed our people, shouting his name. One regiment had a band and it played while knives fell on the heads of innocent babies. Petlura could have stopped it but he wouldn't listen to our pleas."

BEQUESTS IN WILL OF WINFIELD C. GRAHAM

MILFORD, Oct. 24—(AP)—By the will of the late Winfield C. Graham, for many years superior court stenographer in this state, $5,000 is bequeathed to Miss Georgianna L. Hugentoble, one time employe in the office of the governor, in Hartford.

After several specific bequests, including $1,000 to Frederick Otis Warner, of Hartford and $1,000 to George S. Hawley of Bridgeport for his services as executor, the residue is to be divided into six equal parts of which four are to go to the Milford hospital and one each to the local Congregational church and the Milford library. The estate is understood to amount to about $50,000.

Graham died last week at the age of 75, following an operation, and his will was found in the safe deposit vault of a local bank. It was filed for probate today. A week or so before his death, in a conversation with a neighbor, Graham is reported to have said that his only known relatives, cousins, were not to have any of his estate, which came from the public and should return to public uses.

FORMER MILLIONAIRE LEFT PRISON PENNILESS

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 24—(AP)—Rated a millionaire six years ago, Gordon Campbell came home from prison, today penniless, but he had no more than arrived when fortune seemed to be smiling upon him again.

News reached him that an oil well he located last summer at Alderside, southeast of Calgary, Alta., had struck wet gas at 1,600 feet and was bringing up a cupful of oil at each bail. Campbell is credited with discovery of the Kevin-Sunburst oil fields of Montana.

He was released on parole recently from Fort Leavenworth penitentiary where he was serving two years for using the mails to defraud.

SAVINGS BANK DIVISION ELECTS SOUTH NORWALK MAN

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 24.—(AP)—George L. Woodward, South Norwalk, Connecticut, banker, was unanimously elected president of the savings bank division of the American Bankers' association today. Taylor R. Durham of Chattanooga was elected vice president.

Three additional members of the executive committee chosen to serve until 1930 were Arian A. Converse, of Chicago; Henry R. Kinsley, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Louis Betz, St. Paul, Minn.

CHARGES BANKERS ARE OPPOSED TO FARM RELIEF

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 24—(AP)—Charges that bankers are hostile to relief measures for the farmers were hurled today by Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas and other farm spokesmen as the American Bankers' association convened in annual session.

The attack on the bankers followed refusal of the agricultural commission of the association to give a committee headed by Senator Caraway an opportunity to present fully a program for assisting the farmer.

"The bankers state that our plan is economically unsound and yet they have not heard the plan and will not listen," he said.

Burton M. Smith of North Lake, Wis., chairman of the bankers' agricultural commission insisted, however, "there has never been any effort by the American Bankers' association to stop discussion of any issue." He explained to Senator Caraway, he said, that the bankers' program had been arranged three months ago and that it could not well be changed.

Mr. Smith said that Senator Caraway, "laid the blame for President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill at the door of the American Bankers association," adding that if the association had endorsed the bill it would have been a law at the present time.

AMPHIBIAN PLANE DAWN TO HAVE A NEW ENGINE

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 24—(AP)—Within two days the Amphibian plane Dawn, forced by engine trouble yesterday to turn back after taking off for Denmark, will again be mechanically right, T. Harold Kinkade, Wright motor expert, said tonight after an examination of the damage.

The motor which went bad when the plane was off the Nova Scotia coast yesterday, was removed from the plane today and studied in the hangar of Captain Harry Jones here.

After his examination Kinkade said he would prefer to install a new engine rather than attempt to repair the crippled machine.

The expert telegraphed the Wright factory at Paterson, N. J., and this afternoon received a reply informing him that a new engine was being shipped tonight by train. It will be delivered at the hangar here tomorrow forenoon and Kinkade said it would be installed by nightfall.

CRITICISM OF THOMPSON'S ANTI-BRITISH CAMPAIGN

TORONTO, Ont. Oct. 24—(AP)—The anti-British campaign of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, which is "ludicrous enough and humiliating enough to American friends," is an evidence that the Anglo-Saxon race is rapidly dwindling, Dr. Adam Shortt, architvist, economist, and publicist, told the Canadian club here today.

Canadians had only to look at vital statistics of the Anglo-Saxon element in this country as well as in the United States, to see that it was "so numerically on the down grade that it was fast becoming a minority," Dr. Shortt said.

"It has gone so far in Chicago that they found a man with an Anglo-Saxon name who found it necessary to blackguard Anglo-Saxons and prove that our race is on the steady decrease and other elements on the steady increase," he declared.

LIVELY DEBATE IN RADIO CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—After the liveliest debate yet generated in the international radio conference, proposals backed by the United States for the allocation of wave lengths to the various radio services were approved today by a technical subcommittee.

European proposals to enlarge the broadcasting wave length bands by curtailing those of ship and airship communication were only defeated, however, by the narrow margin of 7 to 10 votes.

The approved proposal, the outcome of previous consultations between American, British, Japanese, Canadian, French and Italian delegates, would allocate to broadcasting the wave lengths between 1550 and 1875 meters and between 230 and 545 meters. All other frequencies between 200 and 3,000 meters would be reserved for ship and airship communication.

REV. R. G. HARTLEY DELIVERS ADDRESS AT BAPTIST CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 24—The fourth day of the celebration of the First Baptist church centennial was held today with an evening program conducted in the auditorium by the pastor, Rev. David W. Lovett. Rev. Raymond J. Gates of Waterbury and a native of Willimantic read scripture and led in prayer at 7 30 o'clock. Rev. O. P. Campbell, secretary of religious education of the Baptist churches of Connecticut delivered a message. He was followed by Rev. Ralph G. Hartley of Yonkers, N. Y., who was pastor of the local church from 1909 to 1912 and who delivered the address of the evening. n interesting feature of tonight's session was the singing of Negro spirituals by members of the Calvary Baptist church of this city. The addresses were followed by a social hour during which refreshments were served by the young people of the church. The series of programs will come to a conclusion Tuesday with an historical pageant of the church stated by the Young Women's Bible class.

"Outside the realms of political jugglery and entanglement, in which every president possibility finds himself involved, the question of Catholics and presidency of the United States has no point," said Rev. Morris E. Alling in a sermon given before a large congregation of faculty and undergraduates at the Storrs church Sunday. His subject was The Catholic Church on American Soil. Rev. Mr. Alling said that the question will not withstand the pure light of sound reasoning. He continued, "I lived in the south when thousands of my republican neighbors scratched Taft because he was a Unitarian. It is the same thing. Personal fitness, statesmanship, proven ability—these are the measures of presidential garments. One of our greatest presidents is said to have been a free-thinker. Monuments have been raised to him. Have we made no progress in a hundred years?"

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 24—George Timmins, proprietor of a cigar and confectionery store on Jackson street, was fined $100 and costs at the session of police court this morning when found guilty of reputation of selling illicit liquor. An original charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell was nolled upon recommendation of Prosecutor Gaucher. In a visit to the place Sunday the police seized a pitcher containing a quantity of alleged alcohol and drinking glasses. The fine and costs amounted to $107.65. One intoxicant was taken before the court and committed to jail when he failed to pay his fine.

From the home of Omer Cays, 86 Meadow street, the funeral of George Laroque was held this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. Rev. J. J. Papillon was celebrant and Mrs. Joseph R. Gaudreau was at the organ. At the church entrance the remains were met by a delegation of the Sacred Heart society. Victor Chasse was banner bearer. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was read by Rev. Father Papillon. The bearers were George Maclure, Joseph Lariviere, Alphonse Chagnon, Joseph Leblond, William Michaud and Ernest D'Auteuil. There was a large attendance at the services.

A special city meeting has been called by Mayor John C. Tracy to vote on the proposition of appropriating unexpended money to departments other than those originally signified. About $8 500 remains unspent from the $100,000 for the permanent construction of West Main street. The electors will be asked to vote on the following money transfers: $1,000 from the appropriation now existent for the ice department to the police department; $5,000 from the West Main street appropriation to the street department; $1,000 from the same appropriation to the fire department; and $2,500 from the West Main street appropriation to that for contingent expenses. It was originally planned to use the unexpended balance of the West Main street appropriation for permanent paving on lower Main street. A situation arose with the Connecticut trolley company which has delayed construction of a new street in that section.

Daniel Trigger, 65, died at his home in Windham Center Saturday after an illness of several weeks. He was born in St. George, Va., July 1, 1862, a son of Henry C. and Ellen Lawson Trigger. The deceased was a Spanish-American war veteran, having seen service with the fleet of Admiral Dewey when it smashed the Spanish navy at Manila harbor in 1898. He held an excellent military record. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Amelia Trigger, one daughter, Mrs. David Light, a grandson, David Henry Light and several brothers and sisters.

Miss Alice K. Sullivan was tendered a surprise birthday party at the home of her mother, Mrs. Michael Sullivan on Francis street Sunday night, the party consisting of several of her fellow employes in the office of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company. Miss Sullivan was presented with a beautiful opal ring, the presentation being made by Miss Elinor Foote. Guests were the Misses Foote, Albertine Coutu, Bessie Hochberg, Ruth Belanger, Mildred Pickett, Dorothy Wilson, Helen Loisell, Alma Liberty and Alma Buteau of Norwich, all members of the JFF club.

Bellevue street is being extended from Summit street to Lewiston avenue between the properties of Mayor John C. Tracy and the Captain Chas. Fenton estate. The extension of the street is being completed under supervision of Street Superintendent Edwin O. Summer. The extension will effect a notable short cut between the two streets.

WJZ ARTISTS CONCERT IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 24—The WJZ radio artists' concert given at the Capitol theatre here tonight under the auspices of the Willimantic Rotary club for the benefit of Boys' work proved at once an artistic and financial success. The audience was brought to capacity through an advance sale of tickets and an eleventh hour lobby rush. The artists were introduced by Professor Richard E. Dodge of Storrs president of the club. The performers included the members of the famous WJZ Armchair quartet, Milton J. Cross, first tenor, Maurice Tyler, second tenor; Walter Preston, baritone and Marley Sherris, basso. Several difficult numbers were rendered by Godfrey Ludlow, internationally-known violinist, and Keith McLeod, WJZ studio director and reputed pianist. Mr. McLeod played the accompaniment for the quartet. The program was made distinctive and most pleasing with a rich combination of familiar old melodies and classical interpretations. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Dr. R. Bullock Jones, chairman, Herbert W. Huber, Albert B. Smith and several other members of the club.

The mail plane No. C-126 carrying mail from Boston to Hartford, which made a forced landing on the Lewis Lewith farm in East ford last Friday was undergoing repairs on the field this afternoon so that it could be flown on to Hartford. The repairs were being made by two mechanics from Brainard field, Hartford, who came to the farm in an airplane today. It is said that the forced landing of plane C-126 was due to a shortage of oil.

Adolphe Vaillant, Sr., 85, died at his home 413 Valley street Sunday night after a brief illness. He was born in L'Assumption, Canada, September 11, 1842, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril LaPalme Vaillant. He was a member of St. Mary's R. C. parish and of the league of the Sacred Heart. Some years ago he was an active worker for the welfare of the French speaking people of the community. He was superintendent of city streets during the administration of the late Mayor D. Clifford Barrows from 1901 to 1903. The deceased, who had resided here for about 40 years, leaves his wife; two daughters, Miss Bernadette Vaillant and Mrs. Alfred Lemieux, Jr., both of this city; three sons, Henri of Manchester, Napoleon of Plainfield and Adolphe Vaillant, Jr., of this city, also 12 grand children.

Miss Juliet Tryon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Tryon and student at the Natchaug school, is confined to her home by illness.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Loomis at their bungalow on Hampton Hill are her brother, D. E. Jones and Mrs. Jones of Englewood and sister, Mrs. Grover Williams of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Frank Brooks and Robert C. Fletcher have returned from attending the New England semi-annual conference of the American Federation of Musicians to which they were delegated from the local organization.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Welck of Newburgh, N. Y., are visiting in New York city after an extended stay with Mr and Mrs. Albert J. Welck of Windham Road.

Mrs. A. R. Rathburn, Mrs. Olive Burnham and daughter Miss Doris Burnham and Mrs. O. B. Clark were dinner guests in Kingston R. I., Sunday.

Mrs. Esther C. Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. E. Byrd Freeman and cousin, Miss Winifred Kerwin have returned from a visit with relatives in Upton, Mass.

Ernest E. LaFleur has returned from Bermuda where he spent his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Everest are as week-end guests, their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Turner of Windsor.

Mrs. R. E. Smith is entertaining her niece, Miss May A. Smith of Wallingford.

JEWETT CITY

NECKING AND PETTING CAUSE ANGER IN SYLVANDALE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 24—Sylvandale residents are unanimous in their resolve to put an end to the parking of machines in that vicinity for no other reason than to talk with the girls who go over the bridge for that purpose. Sunday night Deputy Sheriff Dolan was summoned over there, and as a result four men appeared at Justice Davis' Monday evening. The girls will be lucky if they do not get a dose of the same medicine. As one of the residents stated Monday, their language is "impossible," and they do not intend to put up with the nuisance any longer. More than that, it is a state road, and traffic has become unsafe and congested in that vicinity.

FATHER M'CABE GIVES START TO RED CROSS ROLL CALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 24—The annual Red Cross roll call for memberships of one dollar commences Tuesday night in the Jewett City chapter. The young women canvassers will go to the Red Cross room in the town hall after seven o'clock to receive their assignments and material. The Voluntown, Lisbon, Pachaug, Glasgo, and outside districts have received their materials. It is hoped that the roll call may be finished by Armistice day.

Rev. J. J. McCabe opened the roll call with a splendid talk on the work of the Red Cross, given at Finn theater Monday evening. Tuesday afternoon four Boy Scouts, Earl Robinson, Walter Sura, Walter Richardson and Arthur Gray distributed Red Cross fliers about the town, and will do so again Tuesday. The Red Cross room will be open each evening this week to receive the canvassers reports. Any person wishing to leave his membership fee at the room, may come there any evening from seven to half past nine. It is hoped that every member of each family will help this most worthy cause with a membership, especially as this chapter stands back of the district nurse, one of the best moves for health that this town has ever made.

SUB-BASE PETTY OFFICER PAYS STIFF FINE FOR BOOZE RIDE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 24—Joseph Hatfield, a chief petty officer at the submarine base, was presented in the Griswold town court this morning by Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence. Judge James H. Shea imposed a fine of $100 and costs, $115.37, which Hatfield produced after sending "away back home." The leniency and consideration of local officers toward the uniform in a tight place was shown in the fact that some good samaritan deemed the navy man's car sufficient bail, so that he was liberated from the local brig for the night.

Pretty much everybody in this section went somewhere Sunday, and there was hardly to be found in all the town an occupied garage.

Most of the strolls afield, and automobile trips, had no definite objective, only just to get out and take advantage of eastern Connecticut's beauty spots. The hillside and woodland colors are not as bright as has been noted during some previous autumnal displays, in short, the varnish seems to have been omitted from nature's canvas. Many find the colors as gay but there is a sure lacking in the crispness and glass which is often seen.

One big daily recently went on to comment at length on this subject, attributing the dullness of this year's foliage, to the lack of frost. John Borroughs and Thoreau, in their explanations about foliage color, prove that frost has nothing whatever to do with the coloring of fall foliage. In fact, severe frosts tend to ruin the autumn color scheme hereabouts, and leave a rusty crumpled leaf, which drops early from the branches, without giving sometimes several weeks of beauty which country travelers admire.

Invitations were sent out Monday for the wedding of Miss Irene Lillian Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Stewart, and Walter Lyon Benjamin, son of Mrs. Ida Benjamin on Tuesday, November 15th, at twelve o'clock noon, at the Second Congregational church, Jewett City. The bride to be, one of Jewett City's attractive and popular young women, is a stenographer in the Aspinook office, and is the organist at the church where her marriage will take place. Mr. Benjamin is an overseas veteran, and is employed as a mechanic with Ashland Cotton Co.

Pachaug Grange initiated a class of sixteen in the first and second degrees Thursday evening, with an attendance of over 100. The class comprised, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Donohue, Charles Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Heinrich, Elsie Heinrich, Homer Gagnon, James Babbitt, Louis Cyr, Lucile Brand, Henry Gray, Miss Mary Lawson, Marjorie Webster, Mildred Davis, Mrs. Earl Phillips and Samuel Polinski. At the next regular meeting of the grange, election of officers will take place. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred in a special meeting Nov. 8th. The economics committee announced a Halloween social to be held soon. An invitation was received from Franklin to visit that grange on Neighbors' night Friday evening, Oct. 28, which was accepted. The interior of Pachaug Grange hall is being painted, which adds much to its attractiveness.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gardner are at home from a delightful automobile trip during which they visited Jacob's Ladder, the Storm King highway, Bear Mountain bridge and other points of interest in eastern New York state. At Peekskill, N. Y., they were joined by their son, Richmond Gardner and his wife of New York city. Together the family party enjoyed many of the sights along the Hudson.

Mrs. J. T. Stewart entertained the Ladies' society of the Congregational church at its October meeting. She was assisted by Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. John Whalley, Mrs. G. A. Haskell and Mrs. Earl S. Hiscox. The date was set for the Christmas fair, at which time a pancake supper is to be served. A bean supper is to be held at an early date under the direction of Mrs. William Gibson.

Frank I. Ray, superintendent of Jewett City cemetery will remove this week the bodies of Lee Bishop and his son William Bishop from the Read-Herskell cemetery in Lisbon, to the Jewett City cemetery. Frank Bishop of Pawcatuck is having erected a granite monument on the family lot here, where his mother Jane, also his wife and infant daughter are buried. Frank Ray, the local superintendent, establishes a record in an unusual line; within 50 years he has moved 70 bodies for those who desired to have friends and relatives buried in places other than the original.

Dahlia growers all through this section are busy with the annual fall "toe" harvest. On the night, two weeks ago when the first frost of the season came, practically all of the out-of-doors flowers were ruined. On that night the mercury only dropped to 32 degrees, there was no freeze, and many have been interested here in the partial comeback that the hardy flowers were able to mke, up until Sunday night, when a light frost, also at 31 degrees, finished the job. As a result of the comeback, or rather the continuance of bloom, in the case of not too seriously touched buds, some local growers picked fine bouquets last Saturday. One vase contained 12 varieties, including Mabel Thatcher, Gov. Guild, Maud Adams, Anna Moore, Oregon beauty, A. D. Livonia, Junior Jayseedie, Flamingo, Silva quartier, Millionaire and Mrs. Ver Warner.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 24—Westerly Shriners Monday afternoon and evening attended the Fall ceremonial of Palestine temple, Ancient Arabaric Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, held in Providence, on the official visitation of Imperial Potentate Clarence M. Dunbar. A former potentate of Palestine temple, he was last summer elected Imperial Potentate of the Shrine of North America at the imperial council session held at Atlantic City. At 4 p. m. there was a street parade of the uniformed bodies, officers and past potentates. Following the parade at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet was held the business meeting, followed by a banquet, the menu being:

Crab meat flake cocktail, crackers, dill pickles, Heinz sweet mixed pickles, sour onions, graham muffins, sweet muffins with raisins, white rolls, cold sliced turkey, cranberry sauce, cold corn beef, New York style, hot mashed potatoes, creamed onions, cole slaw with peppers, Sultana roll, assorted cakes and coffee.

At 7 p. m., Palestine temple band gave a concert which was followed with the grand entrance of officers and distinguished guests and drills by the Arab patrol and Loyal legion. Degree work with second section in charge of Ill. Robert I. Durfee, chief director, was brought to a close with the showing of the motion picture, "An Equal Chance," as an appeal for the Shriners' hospital for crippled children of all colors, races and creeds. The New England hospital is located at Springfield, Mass.

THE LATE REV. F. H. DECKER MARRIED NORWICH WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 24—Rev. Frank H. Decker, 71, pastor of the Pawcatuck Congregational church in Westerly from the fall of 1897 to February, 1905, the founder and for nine years superintendent of Church house, Providence, died Sunday afternoon at the Dorcus Convalescent home, Blackstone boulevard, in that city. His health had not been of the best for the past year and he had suffered from injuries sustained when struck by an automobile in Gloucester, Mass., a year ago last August. During the past summer, Rev. Mr. Decker had passed some of the season with his son, Frank H. Decker, Jr., at his Quonochontaug beach cottage.

Clergyman, author and social worker, Mr. Decker had been a resident of Rhode Island for about 35 years, coming from New Jersey to take the pastorate of the North Congregational church, Providence. He later held a pastorate for several years at Westerly, and at the conclusion of his Westerly pastorate, he returned to Providence to Elmwood temple of which he became pastor. In 1907 he resigned this pastorate to accept a post as assistant pastor of the Central Congregational church, with the understanding that he was to take up a special phase of church work under the pastor, Rev. Edward F. Sanderson, the work to follow somewhat the lines of a city mission.

The Church house effected a permanent organization with Bishop William N. McVickar of the Protestant Episcopal church as president in 1909, with quarters at 172 Fountain street.

The institution later purchased property and built a four-story structure on Fountain street. It continued under the direction of Mr. Decker until 1916 when he resigned.

Mr. Decker continued as a director of Church house after his resignation as superintendent, but devoted his time largely to literary work.

Dr. Decker was born in Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 24, 1855. He married Dec. 25, 1874, Sarah Elizabeth Hussey, of Norwich, Conn., who died about two years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. L. B. Alexander of Orange, N. J., whose first husband was Edward Pendleton art, of Westerly, and resided until his death at Thompson, N. J., and by two sons, Malcolm P Decker of Providence, and Frank H. Decker of Thompson.

Funeral services for Kenneth Everett James, seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Denham of 65 Bowling lane, Bradford, were held at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., read the service. Burial was in St. Sebastian cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Bruno.

Mary J. Keegan, wife of the late James Keegan, and a resident of Pawcatuck for many years, died Sunday evening at her home, 13 Smith street, Pawcatuck. She is survived by five sons who reside in Pawcatuck.

Alton J. Van Dyke, for a number of years cashier at the Norwich office of the American Railway Express company, on Monday morning began his duties as Westerly agent for the American Railway Express company, with office in the Westerly station of the New Haven road. Agent Van Dyke, now commuting to Westerly from Norwich, plans to move to Westerly with his wife and child to take up his residence here.

F. V. Briggs of Ashaway will leave Westerl the middle of the present week for Lake Weir, Fla.

Oct. 22. Westerly Realty company to Joseph Santos, land on the west side of Breach Drive at Pleasant View with restriction that a dwelling be erected to cost not less than $1,500 and with right of way from Atlantic avenue to the Atlantic Ocean.

John G. Cossaboom of Woonsocket, R. I., will be the chief speaker at the first meeting since last spring of the Westerly chamber of commerce. Louis Stanton, president, in a public session at the Rhode Island hotel Wednesday evening, Oct. 26th. Mr. Cossaboom, a progressive Rhode Island business man, will speak along lines in the movement for New England's prosperity. Women as well as men will be privileged to attend a dinner at 6.30 preceding the chamber session.

On West Broad street, Pawcatuck, Sunday evening the automobile of Roy Harper of Stonington parked on the north side of the street was struck by the Willys-Knight car of Lyle M. Pouse of 33 Kepp avenue, Hackensack, N. J., and driven up on the sidewalk hitting a large elm in front of the residence of William J. Black. No one was injured and payment of damages was amicably adjusted. Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon of Pawcatuck investigated the accident.

Charles Stevens, arrested by Officer Michael Curtin Sunday while he was under the influence of liquor on Granite street, and held in Westerly police station, was arraigned Monday noon on complaint of Chief of Police Brown. In a special session of Third District court. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs of $1.80 which he paid.

District officers from Providence will visit Westerly this (Tuesday) evening and install the officers of Harmony lodge, Odd Ladies' of Westerly.

The office of the Westerly town treasurer in the Westerly town hall until the end of the present month will be busy. When business closed last week end only 1544 taxpayers out of over 4600 had paid their 1927 assessments. The amount of money collected so far is $167,596.60 of which about $75,000 was received before the taxes were due October 15. The amount to be collected this week totals $249,971.

Those who do not pay their assessments before closing time Oct. 31, will be charged interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per year. The sewerage tax is $16,585.90. Of this amount $4728.45 has been received to date.

Why Children Need Breakfasts that "Stand By"

80% of the Day's Important School Work Falls in 4 Morning Hours, Noted Educator Reveals

ARE you letting listless mornings, brought on largely by wrong breakfasts, handicap your child's school work?

Recent investigations, conducted in over 2,000 American schools and colleges, reveal 80% of the so-called "hard" studies as falling in the morning. This percentage is confirmed by Prof. Willard, of Northwestern University, and other leading educators.

Thus Quaker Oats breakfasts, providing the excellent food balance of protein, carbohydrates, vitamines and the "bulk" to make laxatives seldom needed are being urged as a duty of parents in protecting their children's most important working hours. No other cereal grown compares in food balance.

Serve every morning. Their rich Quaker flavor makes them savory and enticing ... delicious breakfasts that yet "stand by" one. Get either Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats today at your grocer's.

DANIELSON

TWO HYDRANTS ADDED TO DANIELSON SYSTEM

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 24—Two more fire hydrants are to be installed within the limits of the borough, making a total of about 60. One of these is to go in Winter street, opposite the residence of William Young, another in Water street about midway between Cottage and Franklin streets. Installation of these hydrants is an incident of work that is being done by the Crystal Water company in installing new and larger mains on various parts of its system.

At the present time the installation of a new line of 6-inch main is nearing completion in Winter street, this replacing the 4-inch main in use there for many years.

This year the company started installing a new line of 16-in between Elmville and Killingly Center, this new line eventually to extend to the reservoir at East Killingly, this line supplementing the old main in use for so many years. The new main will be 10-inch from Elmville south to Judd avenue, from which point it will come down Connecticut Mills avenue, through Mechanic to Academy, across Main, to School, to Cottage, to Water street and thence to connect with the present main at Water and Franklin streets. Last year part of this line through Academy and Mechanic street was constructed and more work on it is likely to be done the coming year.

With these new mains completed a greater volume of water will be available for fire-fighting purposes than is the case at the present time, though the present supply has never failed to prove ample for all emergencies.

Another matter the water company has in mind is the extension of a main across the Assawaga river at some point above the footbridge to more adequately supply the Riverview section.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Bertha Buissiere was held from the home on Dyer street, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem with Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., as deacon and sub-deacon. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Mollard. The bearers were Theodore Bellval, Erbin Bellval, Aime Godreau, Montcalm Godreau, Venerand Bernier and Leo Blanchette. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A considerable number of motorists owning cars in this section were in possession of tags today issued by officers of the Danielson state police barracks who checked up machines last night to determine the efficiency of headlight and taillight equipment. Officers were checking at three different points in the territory. The tags the drivers received are to be filled out and sworn to, the report showing that the deficiences have been corrected, before they are returned to the department. Of the large number of machines examined last night the great majority were found to be properly equipped. However, it is no uncommon thing to find cars with only one headlight burning or without a taillight. In many cases this is due to bulbs long in service burning out. In other cases drivers tell of repeatedly and frequently being obliged to renew headlight bulbs, while checks of the electrical equipment of their cars show no mechanical reason why the bulbs should burn out so persistently. All of which has led some of them to the conclusion that possibly the bulbs are not as good as they used to be.

As the time for the annual All Saints day service at Old Trinity church, Church sreet, Brooklyn, draws near, this being the only service held there regularly each year, something of the history of the old edifice is recalled. It was built in 1771 by Colonel Godfrey Malbone of Queen's College, Oxford, in what was then Kingswood Manor of the town of Pomfret in the colony of Connecticut.

It stands a hallowed structure today, while about it are clustered the graves of many colonists bearing family names brilliant with distinction through generations of residents of the territory thereabouts. The old church is well preserved and one of the most interesting historical structures in Connecticut. It has not been used regularly for years, since the construction of Trinity church at Brooklyn Center, but each year an All Saints day service is held there and occasionally it is opened for a wedding or a funeral service, though these occasions are rare.

The second Church Family night of this fall season is to be held at the Westfield Congregational church Thursdaq. A feature is to be an illustrated address by Rev. Ernest M. Halliday of New York. The events of the evening are to be preceded by a supper at which Miss Helen Keech will lead the group singing. From 7.15 to 8 there is to be a recreation period, with stories in the primary room for the little boys and girls, games in the gymnasium for the bigger boys and girls and singing around the piano in the vestry for the young people. Jacobs library is to be open for the men and the ladies' parlor for the women. From 8:00 to 8:45 there is to be an assembly in the vestry, at which time Rev. Mr. Halliday will give his address, the subject being On The Widening Trail. A 15-minute period after the address will be devotional, Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, the pastor, leading.

Something that isn't done very much hereabouts any more, largely because the "old hus" does not require any such attention is the collection of fallen leaves for bedding, as was done in years gone by for many an Old Dobbin. These days the great bulk of the leaves goes the way of all debris—through flames that reduce them to ashes. The non-use of the leaves for horse or cattle bedding close what was a nice little field of revenue a score of years ago for live wire boys who were accustomed to rake and bag them for men who would pay what was considered well at the time for the service.

In legal proceedings, the Palace laundry was closed here today by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer. William M. Franklin, the proprietor, said this evening that he was uncertain as to when business would be resumed.

PUTNAM

EAST THOMPSON MAN FINED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 24—Michael Wiczeki of East Thompson was convicted in two counts for violating the liquor laws in the justice court in Thompson. He was assessed a fine of $400 and sixty days in jail, the jail sentence being suspended. The state policeman who made the arrest arrived in time to see the still in actual operation. The still, a crude affair made with an ordinary wash boiler and a coil, were seized and destroyed, together with 150 gallons of mash and fifteen gallons of moonshine liquor.

Wiczeki has a court record which includes arrests for breach of the peace, intoxication, violation of the liquor law and numerous other misdemeanors. He was recently committed to the inebriate farm at Norwich and spent six months in that institution. The man is in his early fifties and says that he has had enough of the law and that he was going straight in the future.

P.A suits my taste

BUY a tidy red tin of Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke. Throw back the lid and release the most tantalizing aroma you have ever known. Then tuck a load into that old pipe, pack it down, and light up. You're on your way.

Now you're getting it—that wonderful taste of a wonderful tobacco. Cool as a building-inspector. Sweet as the knowledge that you have met his requirements. Mellow and mild as April sun, but with that full, rich, satisfying tobacco-body that you've been hoping to find in a smoke.

And that isn't all. This quality tobacco—the world's most popular brand—is cool and long-burning, right to the bottom of the bowl. That's Prince Albert. Men. I'm here to say that it will suit you and your pipe, too.

P.A. gives you more in every way—this tin contains TWO full OUNCES.

PRINCE ALBERT

BURNING LEAVES

Already there has been a liberal fall of leaves, but this will increase daily with the coming of colder weather, and that means that they must be disposed of. There were the days when they were used in stables for bedding but those days have gone and the quickest disposition is to burn them. There are some gardeners who know the value of them when rotted and manage to pile away a good many bushel in the open under weight for that purpose, but by the application of the torch are most of them quickly gotten out of the way.

This, of course, calls for much care on the part of the burners. There must be care for the protection of property and there must be equally great care to safeguard those youngsters who are disposed to do stunts about bonfires as if unconscious of the grave danger involved.

It is a temptation to many to drop a match into a pile of leaves to get rid of them. Too often it is a case of not thinking how fast they will burn or the possibility of the fire getting beyond the control of the burner. Such fires have been the cause of serious losses. One lesson of the kind should be sufficient for the thoughtless individual, but it would be far better if all who are planning to engage in such work would give consideration to the conditions at the time they start to burn leaves. It never should be attempted near buildings and it ought not to be attempted when there is a strong wind blowing. It is always much easier for a fire of that character to get beyond control than anticipated.

Probably there are not many fires started with the intention of causing destruction of property, but difficulties arise because there is not enough thought given in advance to what is liable to happen and burners of leaves get knee deep into trouble before they appreciate their position and shortsightedness. It is equally true of the children who play about and jump through such fires. They tempt fate in a manner which too often results seriously and fatally.

THE NEWINGTON HOME

Is there any work of greater value than the transforming of crippled children into self supporting, useful men and women? The question is asked by President Goodwin of the Newington home for crippled children, which institute is doing a magnificent work in that direction, and the answer is left to the judgment of the many who read it.

All will attest to the high character of service that is thus rendered and to its value to the youngsters and to the state. Here is an institution that is dealing with the handicapped and unfortunate. It makes a study of the respective cases, determines what is needed to overcome the deformities and proceeds to provide the necessary relief.

It can be readily imagined what a benefit an institution is that is ministering to 150 children who are undergoing treatment for all kinds of deformities and which, at the same time that it is providing this medical and surgical reconstruction, is supplying the education and home training that is likewise needed. The purpose is to make happy and useful citizens, able to take their place in every day affairs as they grow older, from the helpless children who without such assistance have only a hopeless outlook for a lifetime of enforced idleness and an existence that means a burden upon others.

In realization of what this institution is doing, the fact that it has funds for meeting only about two thirds of the expense involved in the case of each child and the desirability of having it maintained at the highest efficiency there must of necessity be a generous and ready response to the appeal which is made at this season of the year for funds to carry on. Its permanent funds are inadequate and through a public appeal $35,000 is sought each year. The people of Connecticut cannot fail to be fully appreciative of the work that is being so admirably done at Newington.

FLYING THE ATLANTIC

Discouraging have been been the attempts thus far to fly the Dawn from Old Orchard beach to Copenhagen. It doesn't appear to have had that effect upon those who are scheduled to go with the plane but after three unsuccessful attempts to get away, with the last involving a flight as far as Nova Scotia only to return after serious engine trouble there appears to be decreasing prospects that the flight will be accomplished this year.

Weather has played its part in the many delays and from now on it is going to get closer attention than ever for the time is approaching when good flying conditions cannot be expected. It will thus mean that the flight will be started again in a few days or not at all.

In view of what has happened each time a start has been made there is reason for a careful survey of the big plane to correct any defect that may exist and to correct any trouble that may cripple the engines at such a point as would made a return impossible.

The Dawn was making good headway on its third attempt when a broken exhaust valve came near causing the engine to explode and so crippled the craft that there was nothing to do but turn back. Had the engine exploded there's no telling what might have hapepned to the Dawn and its crew. In their experience there may lie the explanation of what happened to those aviators who have set out to cross the Atlantic and never been heard from since.

There have been enough lives lost in just such an attempt as is being made by the Dawn, and it is to be hoped that there will be no more added to the list. Such fatalities may not be enough to stop others from risking their lives but they certainly call for an equipment that measures up to every requirement and so far as possible will be proof against such troubles as have been experienced thus far. It is to be expected that there will be those who will continue to take chances for the advancement of aviation, but every possible measure for safety should be taken.

IMPOSING UPON PUBLIC

By fits and starts each section of the country receives the merchandise of those individuals or firms who forward it for inspection and who expect that it will be kept and the asking price forwarded. Whether it is wanted or not, reliance is placed upon the unwillingness of many to turn down such articles to do a big business.

Norwich has its turn every so often, and some buy, others return the goods and some do neither. Most people regard such schemes as a nuisance and do their utmost to discourage them. Out in Indianapolis the better-business bureau deals with this proposition by declaring "Investigation will invariably develop the fact that you can purchase as good or better merchandise in your local stores for less money. In every instance that has been brought to our attention the merchandise has been grossly overvalued. One company alleged that five monogrammed handkerchiefs which they sent unordered were worth $3.75. They asked you to remit $1. A competent appraisal placed the value of these five monogrammed handkerchiefs at 46 cents. An individual who asked that you send $1 for three rayon neckties claims that his neckties can hardly be duplicated for less than 75 cents to $1 each. Three ties of equal value can be purchased locally for much less than $1."

The situation is the same in all localities and it is not surprising that individuals as well as merchants resent the use of such methods of pushing goods upon people who in many cases are unwilling purchasers and who are probably imposed upon if they buy.

ENCOURAGES MEXICAN PRESS

What must be regarded as an auspicious reception is that which was accorded to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow on his arrival in Mexico City by the leading papers of that city. There is no slight significance to be attached to the favorable sentiments expressed concerning him. He is welcomed because he is a financier and a statesman, termed Coolidge's "trump card" and it is intimated that all that is needed to bring about an understanding and straighten out the difference between the two countries is the choice by Mexico of an equally well qualified man to act for that country.

The Morrow appointment has been hailed in Mexico in much the same way that it has been in this country. There is recognition of the outstanding qualifications of the man and his fitness to serve at the post where others have failed to accomplish the desired end. Confidence is placed in his ability to adjust the situation and to so present the Coolidge position that there will be no misunderstanding. With Mexico regarding him as the man for the job and with the government taking the same attitude as the leading newspapers, it would appear that an excellent start has been made.

There is always value attached to the fact that an ambassador is so well received, with suspicion apparently lacking and with the belief that the step has been taken which will produce success. Nevertheless there is no gainsaying that it is a big job which Mr Morrow tackles and if his personality and reputation can help swing it so much the better. It is of great importance that Mexico is well impressde.

NEW TRICKS

The lady who has been married for quite a long time carefully removed three chiffon and silk sofa pillows trimmed with bunches of fragile flowers before settling herself on the bride's davenport.

"Well, I tried it," she began. The new method! What has most intrigued me among the achievements and customs of you just-married girls is your ability to make your husband's shag for you! I have never seen anything like it in my experience, which dates back to the days when woman's place was in the home and hers the responsibility for the family buttons, meals, fires, doorbells, phones, lost articles and everything else annoying between the four walls of a home.

"Down in their offices the husbands of those times might work themselves to shreds (though I doubt it,) but the instant the front door closed after them at dinner time no sultan on his throne ever relaxed into more absolute, contentment and well-being. Johnny stoked the furnace so father could rest unless Johnny was busy in which event mother did the job, got dinner, jumped up ten times from the table while it was being eaten, put away the laundry, got the children to bed and then spent a riotous few hours darning socks and trousers like mad to beat the clock.

"Before she went to bed she retrieved all the caps, pencils, schoolbooks, umbrellas and rubbers scattered about, which she knew would be boisterously demanded the next morning before the family got off for the day. Women didn't need any memory courses a few years back; they were supposed to be able to locate instantly at least 6,000 odd objects in the house. And, what's more, they did it!

"My first jolt came when I heard one sweet girl casually remark that Billy not only hung up his own clothes but hers as well because he got so tired of seeing them dropped all around the place!

"All the modern bridegrooms help their wives get dinner, and assist with the dishes after dinner. You brides have all mastered the art of sitting tight, looking pretty and letting George do it! You cannot imagine how surprising, envious and mad all this has made me during the last two or three years. It appeared that I had been on the wrong track, but I couldn't see why I should not start out on a new tack—gradually of course. Although you have been married only a short time, you no doubt have learned that it is best never to startle a man by abrupt orders. Lead him gently up to the task in question, meanwhile attracting his attention in some other way.

"Well one evening when we were comfortably settled, I looked up helplessly and murmured that I had left my hanky upstairs and would he please run up and get it for me. Arthur's expression was pathetic. He sort of grunted when he had stopped staring and then fishing in an inner pocket he produced a fresh one of his own which he held out toward me, returning to his magazine. His chair being eight feet from mine, the handkerchief remained inaccessible but, absorbed by his story, he forgot all about it and presently returned the handkerchief to his pocket. It let the matter drop as I was a trifle nervous and embarrassed.

"When the Kerfews came over for cards and I mentioned how I wished we had something nice and cool to drink, waiting expectantly, Arthur kept on sorting his hand and said wasn't there some more of that ginger ale stuff down in the basement?

"I stopped locking doors and winding clocks and our house stood open to the burglars of the world and time was no more. I left ashtrays, wrapping paper and cigar boxes where he had dropped them and after four days he said, what the deuce, and didn't I ever clean house any more?

"After seeing young Mr. Woffle next door with an apron tied under his arms mopping up the back doorstep after he had finished with the kitchen linoleum, I was downright bitter. 'Arthur,' I began, the next Sunday morning. 'I wish you would get busy and paint the kitchen woodwork. There's a can of apple-green paint and a nice new brush out there and it won't take you more than all day to do it.' Arthur, surrounded by billows of Sunday papers, slippered feet on a second chair, the afterglow of waffles and sausages in his eyes, looked first indignant and then appalled. Without a word he arose and headed for the telephone.

" 'What's happening?' I asked in real curiosity.

" 'You're not well,' he said with actual anxiety in his tone. 'I've noticed you've been acting queer lately, not at all like yourself, and I'm going to have Dr. Nostrum step over and see about it. I'm worried!' " The bride giggled delightedly.

"You may laugh!" declared the long-married lady. "You young things may have terrorized husbands who run around waiting on you hand and foot but they don't worry about you! You keep 'em too busy! But I've decided I'd rather keep 'em worried!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

WE CAN ALL LIVE LONGER

By Robin F. Mason, M. D., Memphis, Tenn. Member Gorgas Memorial

Never has the proverbial ounce of prevention been more truly worth a pound of cure than today. This has been clearly demonstrated in the spectacular reduction of infant mortality by preventive measures. In fact, in this way the span of life of the individual has been increased 18 years during the past 75 years.

Nothing half so striking has been done for the man and woman nearing middle life, though it could undoubtedly be done by a proper cooperation between the patient and physician. Therefore it is to this class, the middle-aged, that these remarks are especially addressed.

A veterinarian tells the age of the horse by the appearance of its teeth. Man's age cannot be told by this means, but a pretty good guess can be arrived at in this way.

We doctors have many men who are not up to par come into our offices. They complain of too many headaches, eyes getting puffy, a little short of breath. Then comes a woman who cannot sleep on her left side on account of its making her heart do flip-flops.

Careful examination not infrequently reveals an infected tooth which is affecting heart or kidneys or both just enough to cause these vital organs to issue their first S. O. S. Many cases of rheumatism, neuritis, indigestion, and other diseases can be traced to infected teeth or other small spots of infection, and can be cured promptly if the condition be of not too long standing.

The great life insurance companies have long since recognized the value of regular physical examinations and have provided them for their policy holders.

See your family physician at least once a year and let him take stock of your physical resources. Then and only then will high blood pressure cease to be the almost constant concomitant of high endeavor in the middle aged.

Little Talks on Thrift

PRACTICING THRIFT

"I find it much easier to practice thrift now that I have opened a savings account than before because I get so much pleasure out of watching my account grow."

This statement recently was made by a young lady who, after much procrastinating, at last began to save money. It illustrates a phase of thrift that often is overlooked. It is easy to spend money when you have it in the form of cash, but when you have a savings account you develop immediately an incentive to see your account grow and, therefore, when tempted to spend money foolishly you find it not difficult to keep from checking against your account.

A great many jokes are told at the expense of the Scotch people and their proverbial thrift. Sir Harry Lauder, the famous Scotch comedian, once said: "The finest book I have ever read is my savings bank book. I never get tired reading it." Those who possess savings accounts will readily understand the great truth in this bit of homely philosophy.

It is due to this fondness people have for watching their savings accounts increase that the aggregate of such deposits in the United States have for many years maintained a steady growth.

Even the increase, through the addition of interest alone, mounts up rapidly, for $1 at 4 per cent compounded quarterly will become $2 in a little over 17 years.

It is to be hoped that these lines will come to the attention of many who are not today saving money and that they will be persuaded to make the start. If they could realize how much real pleasure they would get out of their savings—of looking at their bank book and watching the figures steadily mounting higher and higher, they would lose no time in opening an account.

The best first step in thrift is to open a savings account.—American Society for Thrift.

TRAFFIC

In spite of the failure of police measures designed to control jay walking and the overflow of pedestrians at traffic intersections in many cities pedestrian control has been proved possible by more than three years of success in Los Angeles, according to Miller McClintock, director of the Albert Russell Erskine bureau for street traffic research.

From time to time various systems of pedestrian control have been tried in many cities, but most of them have proved unsuccessful. Yet for three years Los Angeles has so successfully eliminated jay walking and the congestion arising from the conflict of pedestrians and vehicles at busy intersections that accidents have been materially reduced and the flow of traffic increased 50 per cent.

Pedestrian control is one of the most difficult aspects of traffic regulation, partly due to the fact that the flow of pedestrian traffic is so like that of a stream of water, which follows the easiest course. If traffic signals are set against pedestrian movement, but there is a break in the line of vehicles, people are tempted to ignore the signals regardless of the number of police stationed at the intersection. Or if it seems quicker or more convenient to cross in the middle of a block, jay walking is almost inevitable.

The principal reasons for the success of pedestrian regulation in Los Angeles are the accurate timing of signal devices, good enforcement methods by the police, the cooperation of newspapers in educating the public to its advantages, clearly outlined crosswalks, and what can be called the traffic wise spirit of Los Angeles people.

The time of the intervals in the traffic signals is changed 16 times a day as a result of constant study of the requirements of every intersection. The pedestrian seldom has to wait at the curb of an empty street.

Stories That Recall Others

Cutting the Price

An elderly lady was visiting her niece. A chicken was wanted for Sunday dinner. The aunt insisted that they motor to a poultry farm. The farmer agreed to give them a fine fry at market price.

"Would it be cheaper if I helped chase it down?" inquired the thrifty aunt.

Costly Precipitation

Three year old Jackie had the reputation for doing the unusual. One afternoon his mother, while dressing for tea, could find neither her pearls nor her son. Going out on the upstair porch to call him, she found Jackie standing by the railing busily dropping her lost pearls one by one into the bushes below.

"Jackie!" screamed his mother, "what are you doing?"

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Jumps to Conclusions

Who to conclusions heedless jumps
Prepares the way for many bumps.
—Peter Rabbit.

To jump to conclusions is to decide that a thing is thus or so without knowing any of the facts concerning it. There is nothing more foolish than to jump to conclusions. Frequently jumping to conclusions is nothing more or less than jumping from the frying pan into the fire, as the saying is. If people didn't jump to conclusions, a lot of trouble would be avoided in this world.

The dear Old Briar-patch was empty. Peter had satisfied himself of this. He had been along every one of the private little paths. He had visited the forms where little Mrs. Peter delighted to sit. He had even gone down into the old hole in the middle of the Briar-patch, which had once been the home of Johnny Chuck's grandfather. He had visited every one of the sweet clover patches near the dear Old Briar-patch. Mrs. Peter wasn't anywhere about. Neither was the strange rabbit—the handsome stranger of whom he had heard. It was when he had firmly settled the fact that neither of them were in or about the dear Old Briar-patch that Peter jumped to conclusions.

"They've gone off together," he muttered. "That is what the've done—gone off together. Fuzzy wouldn't go with me, but she has gone off with that handsome stranger. Now I wonder where they have gone. They wouldn't go up to the Old Pasture, because they would be afraid of meeting me. They must have gone over to the Green Forest. I didn't think that of Fuzzy. No, sir, I didn't think that of Fuzzy."

Peter sat just outside the edge of the dear Old Briar-patch, looking over toward the Green Forest and chewing on nothing at all. "They're over there somewhere," said he to himself. "If I could get hold of that fellow, I would"—Peter didn't say what he would do. Just then he noticed a movement in the grass near him. A moment later he saw Danny Meadow Mouse.

"I don't know what business you had to think that," retorted Peter crossly.

"Mrs. Peter told me so," replied Danny. "She told me that you had gone up to the Old Pasture to live. Did you change your mind and come back?"

"That is no business of yours," retorted Peter angrily. "I have a perfect right to come back to the dear Old Briar-patch if I want to."

"Certainly! Certainly! Of course!" squeaked Danny. "I was just surprised, that's all. I'm glad you have come back. I thought you would."

"Why did you think I would?" demanded Peter.

Danny paid no attention to this question. "I guess Mrs. Peter was glad to see you back, wasn't she?" said he.

"Good evening, Peter!" said Danny

It was Peter's turn to ignore a question. "Have you been over here often while I've been gone?" he inquired.

"Quite often," replied Danny.

"Has—has Mrs. Peter had many visitors?" inquired Peter.

Danny chuckled. It was a squeaky little chuckle. "Now, you are asking me something that is no business of mine," retorted he. "By the way, where is Mrs. Peter?"

"She is not to be seen just now," replied Peter. And then he loked over toward the Green Forest and gritted his teeth.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drugstore a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Infant Care

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless and reliable, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill throughout the system. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, and without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. Castoria is delicious! Your own tongue will tell you why "Children Cry for It." Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's the least sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea. Or whenever there's need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Only one word of warning: the above is true of genuine Castoria. Fletcher's is the original. Other preparations may or may not be as pure, as free from a single doubtful drug.

Physicians tell parents to get Fletcher's Castoria, and no child of this writer's is going to test any other kind. I'll save a dime some other way.

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

GAVE TALK BEFORE BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB

The Business and Professional Women's club held an enthusiastic supper meeting Monday evening at Gregory's on Broadway. Miss Lucy B. Abbott, the president, presided and Miss Helen Newton gave an interesting talk on Personal Experiences as a Census Taker.

A short business meeting followed Miss Newton's talk when plans for the winter's meetings were discussed. About 40 members were present.

HENRY LAFONTAINE HOME AFTER THROAT OPERATION

Musical and other friends will be pleased to hear that Henry J. LaFontaine is at home and is rapidly gaining, following a minor throat operation undergone at Saint Francis' hospital, Hartford, October 17th.

Mr. LaFontaine's brother, Rev. Raymond G. LaFontaine is chaplain at St. Francis' hospital where his brother has been a patient.

Busy Y. M. C. A. Season Predicted

Seldom has there been a more enthusiastic meeting of the board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A., than that held Monday evening when a large number of the directors were in attendance. The reports of the various departments and the outlook for the fall and winter activities indicated by these reports were such as to delight all present. The "Y" building will doubtless be a busy place during the coming months, with social, physical and religious activities of healthy variety, all calculated to develop the all round boyhood and manhood. New members are coming into the association for the boys, girls and men's and women's departments, and unless all signs fail this will be a banner season for the Norwich Y. M. C. A.

PLATE GLASS BROKEN IN BATH ST. ACCIDENT

Shortly after 1 o'clock Monday morning a Chevrolet sedan, owned and operated by William Roberts of Plainfield, struck a parked truck owned by the Norwich Glass Co., on Bath street. Mr. Roberts was driving down Bath street and noticing a stalled machine in the center of the street, applied his brakes. Evidently seeing his way clear he started forward. A motorcycle coming up the street to the right of the stalled machine, caused Mr. Roberts to apply the brakes again and to pull over to the right. The right side of his machine scraped plate glass projecting from the glass company's truck.

Mr. Robert's machine received a dented body and the glass, valued at $50, was broken. Mr. Roberts contended that the glass company's truck was not legally parked on Bath street.

WESTERLY MAN PAYS FOR WRONG NUMBER PLATES

Herbert Whitemore of Westerly was fined $10 and costs in the city court Monday morning by Judge A. F. Libby on the charge of operating his automobile with improper number plates.

The Westerly man was brought in Sunday night by Officer Vuono on the charge of operating an automobile without lights. When the officer investigated the registration of the machine he found that it called for a Maxwell coupe but the car Whitemore was using was a Ford. The charge of operating the machine with defective brakes was added to the others against Whitemore when a man who drove it to police headquarters had to use the reverse in order to bring the machine to a stop. The court nolled the charge for driving without lights and with defective brakes.

Whitemore explained to the judge that he formerly owned a Maxwell, but had later taken it to Mystic where he traded it in for a Ford. He thought that the transfer of registrations had been taken care of.

SETS TIME TO HEAR MARRIAGE ANNULMENT SUIT

Attorneys interested in the marriage annulment suit brought against Leonard H. Chapman of this city by his wife Jennie Kane Chapman have been notified that Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court will hear a continuation of the trial in this city next Thursday morning.

The case was partially heard in New London last Tuesday, but the trial came to a halt when Judge Brown adjourned court and called the attorneys into conference. It was understood afterwards that Judge Brown had indicated to the attorneys that on the evidence produced so far he saw little grounds to justify him in rendering judgment for annulment of the marriage. Mrs. Chapman, who was 26 at the time of the marriage, seeks annulment of the marriage on the ground that she was trapped and forced into it and that Mr. Chapman fraudulently represented his age as 29 when he was in reality 46.

Patents Granted

Without His Operator's License

Toussaint Marcaurele, of 47 Providence street, Taftville, paid a fine of $3 in the city court Monday morning on the charge of driving his automobile without having his operator's license with him. His machine was in collision Saturday night at Burnham square with a machine driven by Alice L. Pashley of Ashaway. When Officer John Carroll investigated the accident, he found that Marcaurele was without his operator's license.

At her home on Scotland Road Saturday afternoon Mrs. Allen Latham entertained with three tables of bridge in honor of Mrs. Claude W. Hanchette of Watertown, N. Y. The prizes were won by Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, Mrs. Walter E. Turner and Mrs. Aurin E. Payson.

Mrs. Thurston I. Bonney and daughters, Misses Gladys and Irene Bonney, also William Shaller motored from Whitneyville to spend the week end with Miss J. G. Bonney of Harland road. The engagement of Miss Irene Bonney to William Shaller has been announced in Whitneyville. The marriage will take place toward the end of this year.

AUTOMOBILE, JUST DELIVERED, IS DAMAGED AS OWNER DRIVES HOME

Shortly after 5 o'clock Monday afternoon a brand new Master Six Buick sedan was badly damaged when it collided with a southbound trolley car on the curve at Meeting House Rocks, Norwich Town. The sedan, driven by Frank Bronezko, No. 257 Boswell avenue, was headed towards Yantic. As Mr. Bronezko started around the curve he claims he was crowded towards the trolley tracks by a Hupmobile, headed in the opposite direction and driven by Miss Lavina Meehan of West Town street. The sedan and the trolley car came together and both fenders and a running board were smashed and the machine was otherwise damaged.

It was understood that Bronezko had just had the sedan delivered to him after buying it from the agency at Norwich Town and was about to drive it home.

The only damage to the trolley car was a broken step. Bronezko claims that Miss Meehan's machine struck his but she claims that her machine did not hit the Buick. There were no marks on her machine. Constable Lucius A. Fenton investigated the accident. The trolley car was in charge of Conductor Henry E. Savage. The accident delayed the trolley service on the Yantic line for about 15 minutes.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS BEFORE NORWICH MINISTERS

Rev. A. N. Foster, the president of the Norwich Ministers' association, presided at the meeting Monday noon at the Norwich Town Congregational chapel. Mr. Foster introduced Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, chairman of the missionary committee of the New London County Congregational association.

Dr. Lee presented Rev. Cornelius H. Patton, D. D., who spoke on the theme, "Recent Favorable Attitudes Toward Christianity in the World at Large". The speaker especially emphasized the friendly attitude of governments towards Christian education—Bulgaria gave a tract of 40 acres for a Christian college adding to that tract several valuable concessions later. No one could ask for a more hearty cooperation in Christian education than Japan is offering to the American board. Japan now wants the native churches to take over this Christian education which was formerly carried on by the so-called "Boston board." The British government is depending upon the mission boards to solve the problems of education in some of their outlying provinces. The robber caste in India as a problem of the British government has been partly solved by one thousand of their children being gathered into mission schools and trained in good behaviour. A Chinese assembly of 5,000, with district officials presiding waited for hours for a Christian missionary to arrive at the meeting. They gave as reasons why they wanted Christian churches in every community the following:

First, to put down bandit wars; second, to build good roads; third, to deliver our women from foot binding; fourth, to uphold hands of officials; fifth, to cultivate spirit of real democracy.

Christian unity is coming to America by the way of the foreign field, practically all the North American missions boards are at work on the foreign fields working in the finest spirit of harmony.

The luncheon served at noon under the supervision of Mrs. David M. Dean, consisted of the following menu: Tomato bisque, saltines, mashed potato; mashed turnip, cabbage salad, rolls, squash pie, cheese and coffee. Mrs. Dean was assisted by Mrs. Charles Learned, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. M. Buckley, Mrs. Frank Storry, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. Orrin Merry, Mrs. Henry T. Frazier and Mrs. Jennie M. Case. The tables which were arranged in the ladies parlor were decorated in keeping with Halloween, with orange and black banners and napkins to match, also chrysanthemums.

BIBLE CLASS MEN WILL HAVE STATE MEETING

The third annual convention of the Connecticut State Federation of Men's Bible classes will be held on Saturday afternoon and evening of November 5 with the East Hartford Community Bible class in the White church, East Hartford. There will be afternoon and evening sessions.

Three men of national reputation in the Bible class movement will have a part on this programme. Rev. Lester Clee, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Newark, N. J., will speak at the evening session. He is leader of one of the largest men's Bible classes in the state of New Jersey.

Dr. O. F. Bartholow has been for 20 years leader of the Bartholow Bible class, Mount Vernon, New York, which has an enrollment of over 2,000 men and an average attendance of over 1,000 men every Sunday morning.

John R. Thomas, the song leader of the National Federation of Bible classes, of Rutherford, New Jersey, will have charge of the singing. The other men who will take part in the programme are all men who have been successful in their work among men.

The convention is chiefly for delegates from the various classes of the state, but men who are not connected with the Bible class movement are invited to hear and see the interest that men are showing in this work.

Dr. J. E. Conger of New Britain is the president, and W. P. Grant of the Hartford Y. M. C. A., is associate secretary of the Connecticut State Federation of Men's Bible classes.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION IN HAMPTON

Sunday at "The Hawks Nest" in Hampton there was a most enjoyable gathering to celebrate the birthdays of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac F. Hawkes. Both birthdays coming during the month of October, it was planned to honor them both together on this day. Mr. Hawkes was 33 and Mrs. Hawkes 61 years old. Five of their seven children and their families were able to be there. One son, who lives in South Dakota, was unable to be there on account of the distance. Another son living in Quincy, Mass., was prevented from attending by a recent automobile accident that he and his wife were in. A chicken dinner was served and seemed to be well enjoyed, judging by the looks of things when everyone was finished. Late in the afternoon a huge birthday cake was cut and liberal portions dealt out to all. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes were the recipients of money and many lovely and useful gifts. A radio set, the gift of their children was presented to them during the day. Mr. Hawkes in spite of his advanced years is enjoying good health, and is very busy about his little farm every day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Hawkes of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hawkes and son, of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Hawkes and daughter of Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fitts and son of Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Leonard and son of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Dawley, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Dawley and son, and Mrs. Ida Ichelberg, Benjamin R. Briggs and daughter, Mrs. Bertha R. Greenhaigh, Mrs. Jennie McStay of Plainfield, Walter B. Briggs of Moosup and Mrs. Lydia Hawkes Bartlett of South Killingly, a sister of Mrs. Hawkes. All departed at the end of a happy day wishing both Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes much joy and happiness to enjoy many more birthdays to come.

NINE MILLION CATHOLICS BLOCK MISSIONS, SAYS PRIEST

Eight or nine millions out of the 300,000,000 Catholics in the world are really responsible for blocking Christ's work, declared Rev. John J. Reilly, preaching at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, and this because statistics prove their indifference to missions. The eloquent priest was making an impassioned plea for every person in the parish to join actively in the new world mission movement inaugurated yesterday, special Mission Sunday.

He proved his accusation merited by the command of his text, "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Matt. 28, 18-20. Those who are devoting their lives to carrying out this command of Christ are hampered in their labors by the indifference of the lukewarm Christians who do nothing, the eight or nine millions who do not act, and who fail to aid by their means the workers in the mission fields.

Rapidly the speaker sketched the progress of the church from the time when the eleven Apostles, Peter and John and the others, discouraged and dispirited following the crucifixion, were ready to exclaim, "O, Lord, to whom shall we go now?" Christ appeared to them, encouraged them, commissioned them, left them in the exalted state in which their song was, "Thou art the King of glory, O Christ, the everlasting Son of God the Father." The eleven went courageously out, to be apostles, martyrs, missionaries, and to be followed by others beyond number. They were the forerunners of those who in the second era of the church proved the custodians of art, of culture, of every refining influence in the Middle Ages, who erected cathedrals still the marvel of mankind. But the church ever had to combat jealousy, hatred; and in the Reformation she lost many of her sons and daughters. Yet eventually there appeared a new star in the West—the Americas, South and North, more than restored her numbers. No country in the world has been able to combat her entrance or her expansion. Her apostles have continued to carry out the command of Christ, until the entire world recognizes the Catholic church as the custodian of culture, of learning, prudence and common sense, qualities everywhere exciting imitation and admiration.

The preacher pointed out the manner in which extension of this influence and truth and knowledge of Christ's teachings is retarded, by the lukewarmness of indifferent church members, standing in the path, blocking the way of Christ, doing nothing to help His cause. Christ did not commission His Apostles to teach any particular nation—but all nations.

When the Saviour hung on the cross His arms were extended and so they were when His sacred body was taken down by holy Joseph and Nicodemus; those arms outstretched for sinners would close to enclasp the souls of all men; and so they may, if only Catholics are animated to practical charity, by the slogan, "The Sacred Heart for the world—and the world for the Sacred Heart."

Cards explaining the purpose and plan of the world Mission Sunday were distributed by the ushers. In the newly organized Catholic Mission Aid society there are to be three classes of membership—ordinary members contribute 10 cents per week, or $1 a year; special members will give 50 cents per Sunday, or $6 a year; and perpetual members, $40, once for all time (in installments covering a period of one year, if so desired). There is the obligation of daily prayers—the Lord's prayer, Hail Mary and the invocation, "St. Francis Xavier, pray for us", for the conversion of all unbelievers. Engaged in the mission fields at home and abroad are at present about 65,000 Catholic laborers, including priests, brothers and sisters, consecrated to their work until death.

WEDDINGS

Doyle-Ahern

Miss Anna Elizabeth Ahern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Ahern of New Britain, and Walter J. Doyle, of New Britain and Ocean beach, were married Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Joseph's church, New Britain. Rev. John F. Donahue, who performed the ceremony and was the celebrant of the nuptial high mass, was assisted by Rev. Charles Coppens, Rev. William Robbins, O. F. M., Rev. John Kane and Rev. Walter J. Libbey. The church was decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. The bride wore a Lanvin model of white velvet and tulle, embroidered with seed pearls, and a veil of georgette, trimmed with velvet and tulle caught with orange blossoms and embroidered with seed roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mary Cowley of Hartford, who attended her as maid of honor, wore a period gown of Helen pink moire and tulle trimmed with flowers in pastel shades, and a picture hat of velvet and tulle. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Anna E. Ahern, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a bouffant gown of Princess Mary pink velvet, trimmed with flowers in pastel shades, and a georgette velvet picture hat to match. She carried roses and lilies of the valley. Thomas J. Doyle of New Britain, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Clifford Ahern, brother of the bride; Dr. Vincent Smith and John J. Heffernan of New Britain, and Frank W. Coyle of Jersey City.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents. One hundred guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle left for a wedding trip, and when they return will live at the Cedar apartments, Cedar street, New Britain.

Mr. Doyle is treasurer of the New Britain Record company, of which his father, formerly of Norwich, is president.

Corey-Morgan

Miss Myrtle Morgan of Cole street, New London, and Albert Corey, son of Aldin Corey of Moosup and Mrs. Sadie M. Corey of Broad street extension, Groton, were united in marriage at New London Sunday afternoon at the First Church of Christ, the Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth officiating.

Miss Madge Maynard of Groton was bridesmaid and Howard Eldridge was best man. Both the bride and her attendant were dressed in light blue taffeta and carried bouquets of sweet peas and tea roses.

Following the ceremony the couple left for New York and Washington, D. C. on an extended honeymoon. Miss Morgan has been in the employ of the Max Pollock factory in Groton. Mr. Corey is a vendor of fruit and vegetables.

Baker-Driscoll

A pretty autumn wedding took place Monday morning in St. Patrick's rectory when Miss Loretta M. Driscoll of 79 Warren street and Franklin C. Baker of Union City, N. J., were united in marriage by Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. H. May. The couple was attended by Miss Nona A. Driscoll, sister of the bride, and George F. Erhard of Union City.

The bride wore a gown of blue transparent velvet and crepe with matching velours hat. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids. Her attendant was gowned in biege crepe with brown velour hat.

Mr. Baker who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker of Union City was with the American aviation corps during the World war. He is with the Textile Banking Co. of New York city. Miss Driscoll is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Denis H. Driscoll and has been employed as a stenographer.

Later in the day the bridal couple left for a trip which will include Washington, D. C., and Pinehurst, N. C. They will reside at 285 Palisade avenue, Union City, N. J.

Curtis-Lynch

Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the rectory of St. Patrick's church, Joseph Dwight Curtis of Unionville and Miss Helen May Lynch of No. 34 Ward street were united in marriage by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May. Mr. Curtis is the son of Dwight Curtis and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy G. Lynch.

The bride was gowned in glasse maroon georgette trimmed with transparent velvet with picture hat to match and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid, Miss Katheryne V. Lynch, sister of the bride, was gowned in blonde satin with velvet trimming and wore a hat to match. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Dr. John F. Lynch of Hartford, a brother of the bride. A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents.

After a tour to the Great Lakes and the middle west Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will be at home at Lovely Heights, Unionville, where Mr. Curtis is an automobile dealer. SEES WIDER CHANNEL IS NEED AT NEW LONDON

Although engineers have not yet determined exactly how much work would be necessary, New London's harbor channel will have to be widened if the American Brown Boveri company, sponsors of the proposed four-day trans-Atlantic steamship service, select this Connecticut port for its western terminal. This was brought out at a conference between state and company officials at the home of Governor Trumbull in Plainville, Sunday evening. Dredging will have to be done around the state pier, if the company secures its use, and on the other side of the channel to permit the 800 foot vessels to turn around, the governor said Monday morning while speaking of the plan. This job would probably fall upon the war department, but the matter has not yet been discussed with officials in Washington, he said.

The governor sees no reason yet for his appointing a special commission or representative to take up this matter for the state with the company or other interested authorities, he said Monday, because the state commissioners on rivers, harbors and bridges "know the situation thoroughly" and are enthusiastic over the possibility of bringing this service to New London. They are competent to co-operate with the governor and the state in the matter, he said.

When the announcement was made some days ago that this company was proposing this fast ocean service and was looking at New London, Montauk and one or two other points for a western terminal, it was rumored that the chief executive was to appoint a special representative or commission to handle the matter for the state. P. LeRoy Harwood, of New London, chairman of the rivers, harbors and bridges commission, and Waldo E. Clarke, secretary and engineer of the commission, were present at the conference Sunday evening, as were Charles C. Tates, president of the Connecticut Terminal company, lessees of the state pier at New London; Laurence R. Wilder and C. L. Bardo, formerly general manager of the "New Haven" railroad, now vice-president of the new steamship company.

No definite time was set for another meeting of state and company officials when they adjourned, but said the governor, "we all want naturally, to see this company select a terminal in Connecticut, and the state is going to do everything it can to bring it about."

ACCUSED OF SALE OF PINT OF LIQUOR

The sale of a pint of alleged liquor to a police aid resulted in the arrest about 9:30 o'clock Monday night of Mrs. Victoria Kusak, 32, Polish, at her home on Monroe street. At police headquarters she furnished bonds of $1,000 and was released for her appearance in the city court this (Tuesday) morning. The arrest was made by Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Michael Pounch.

OBITUARY

Edward Burns

Edward Burns, 70, of Stonington, boiler inspector for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and who was well known in this and other New England cities, died Sunday at his residence. Death was caused by a heart ailment, which had confined Mr. Burns to bed for one week. Mr Burns had been employed by the railroad for 35 years, and prior to his death he worked on the Pawtucket and Providence branches. He was born in Hartford. Mr. Burns is survived by a wife and five children. There are four sons, Joseph M. of New York city, Charles and Edward of Port Chester, N. Y., and Harry of Tuckahoe, N. Y. One daughter, Mrs. William Silvia of New York city, also survives.

Burning Cotton Afloat

The fire department was called out at 10:40 o'clock to extinguish a quantity of burning cotton in the Yantic river near the building formerly known as the Chelsea Boat club. The burning cotton had floated close to the dock at that place. Part of the blazing cotton was extinguished and the rest floated down the river.

Had Flight in Airplane

Mrs. William O. Woodman of Park street, who is visiting her son, Lewis W. Woodman, of Providence, attended the aerial pageant at the flying field at Buttonwoods last week, and while there enjoyed the experience of going up in one of the large planes.

Sunday Night Suppers

PLEASANTLY informal and elastic enough to welcome any number of callers, these Sunday night suppers seem to be unplanned. But only the experienced hostess knows how carefully every detail is thought out. And above all, she knows that the success of these suppers depends upon the coffee.

YUBAN was for many years the private Guest Coffee of John Arbuckle. Now it has been put up in attractive packages and you may offer it with satisfaction to your guests.

How to Make Old-Fashioned Coffee

Use one rounded tablespoonful of ground YUBAN to each cup of water. Put the coffee in the pot and pour over it fresh water which has just come to a brisk boil. Let the coffee steep five or ten minutes over a low heat but do not boil. Settle with a dash of cold water.

Have You Acid Scalp?

If your hair won't keep the simplest wave for several days, there is probably too much acidity. A condition that causes hair to be stubbornly straight and stringy, and to lack all lustre, Acid scalp.

From the hour you check this excessive acidity your hair will act and appear very different. It will arrange easily in any style that becomes, for it will have lovely softness, and all the sheen all healthy hair normally has. Danderine will neutralize the acid, and actually dissolve every particle of dandruff scale. Your hair won't need anything else to keep it fresh, wholesome, and free from the least objectionable taint that is too often noticed in otherwise fastidious women.

Danderine sells for only thirty-five cents at any drugstore, and as only a few drops on comb or towel will do the work, a bottle lasts for weeks!

FOUR PERSONS KIDNAPPED BY MOROCCAN TRIBESMEN

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 24—(AP)—After a perilous journey through the wilds of French morocco in search of Yves Steeg, nephew of Jules Steeg, resident general of French Morocco, Jean Maillet, a relative by marriage and two women companions, who were kidnapped by tribesmen last week, an emissary has returned bringing back word that the prisoners are safe and are being well cared for.

The two women captured with Maillet and Steeg, were Mme. Marie de Prokorov, wife fo the manager of a transport company at Beniaecilal, and her mother Baroness Steinhel, formerly of Vienna. They were seized while on a hunting trip, and the dogs which they had along with them were killed. It was feared at first that the members of the party had been killed also as their automobile was riddled with bullets.

SEVERAL UPSETS IN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL OVER THE WEEK END

Many are the hearts that are weary this week and they belong to the supporters of Eastern Conn. high school grid teams. Dreaming of what might have been is the main indoor sport in these parts this week for the records of the two leaders have been badly spotted.

The Academy and Windham could not repulse two of the strongest teams in the state and they went down before Warren Harding High of Bridgeport and Hartford Public High. But for Bulkeley, which played a scoreless tie with LaSalle academy of Providence the week end would have been of utter disaster for teams of this section.

Scores of games involving teams of the Big Six last week follows:

N. F. A., Warren Harding 19.
Windham 0, Hartford High 25.
Bulkeley 0, LaSalle academy 0.
Westerly 6, Chapman Tech 0.
Stonington 12, Plainfield 0.

Many Upsets

It was a tough week for the dope. Windham and the Academy were favorites and so was LaSalle academy. The other two games ran true to form.

Up at the Academy Saturday a Harding outfit that now seems headed for the state title held the upper hand most of the way over the Red and White and well deserved its win. A couple nice stands within the ten yard line by the Academy were afterwards nullified by poor tackling and fumbles. Harding was aggressive and fighting, the Academy was not; probably that explains everything. The Academy was way below its form of the Westerly game while perhaps Harding was above her usual style. However, one thing is certain and that is that the locals have lost for the first time of 1927. Whether they can rally sufficiently for the Wilby game this Saturday at Waterbury remains to be seen.

At Willimantic, Hartford struck another decisive blow for the larger cities. Windham had but one chance to score and muffed that on the three yard line. Windham scored four touchdowns, "Babe" Root, state 100 yard scholastic champ, turning in half of them. It was Windham's worst grid defeat in many years.

At New London, Bulkeley showed improvement by holding LaSalle academy, another "big" city team, to a scoreless tie. Bulkeley however, continued to remain scoreless. This was her fifth game but she is improving every time. She plays the Academy in less than three weeks at Mercer Field.

At Plainfield on the new community field, the strong Stonington team had some trouble in winning although they finally scored a 12 to 0 decision. Gus Mullen's boys fought hard throughout and sure gave a good account of themselves.

At New London, Friday, Dave Meikle scored for Westerly over Chapman Tech in an Eastern Conn. Western Rhode Island Interscholastic tilt. It was the Rhode Islander's first victory of the season and Tech's third straight defeat. In the league Stonington leads with a victory. Westerly follows with a victory and a defeat and Chapman Tech brings up the rear with a defeat.

Here's th e w ork of the "Big Six", take your pick:

	W.	L.	T.	T. P.	O P.
N. F. A.	3	1	0	46	31
Windham	2	1	1	40	25
Stonington	2	2	0	43	15
Westerly	1	1	3	13	19
Chap. Tech	1	3	0	19	28
Bulkeley	0	3	2	0	45

Bits About the "Big Six"

Windham was unscored upon until they met Hartford.

Bulkeley is over half her schedule and has not scored.

Chapman Tech and Westerly also had a large crowd Friday.

Tommy Vitiliano showed some sure tackles against Harding. Like the Mounted Police, he always got his man. His offensive work, however, was not up to scratch.

Kahn gave his best game of the season against the Park City team. He was almost solely responsible for throwing the opposition back from the nine yard line on four downs. They lost nine yards altogether.

Harding had quite a few suporters present.

The Academy was minus two strong linemen Saturday, Johnny Greene and Mish. Probably that had something to do with the score. But Coach Mead of Harding claims he left two of his stars home with injuries. So it was just about fifty fifty.

Mead and Whitney were on the same Middlebury team and consequently both team's styles Saturday were similar.

Other School Games

Naugatuck's 6 to 0 defeat by Central High of Bridgeport was another surprise in state high school football. The former club was being hailed far and wide as state champs, mainly because of their thirteen to six win over Harding but now things are some different. There is hardly a high school in the state now that has not been defeated.

New Britain, claimant of the title last year, lost to New Haven Hillhouse Friday 24 to 0 and that was another big upset. New Britain had downed the strong Weaver High team at Hartford a few weeks before and were counted on piling up a very fine record.

Wilby, whom the Academy plays this Saturday, lost a close one to Torrington, whom the Academy defeated. The score nineteen to thirteen, marked another upset. Wilby was another regarded as a title possibility and they probably occupy that position although not so strongly.

A game that will go a long way toward eliminating one or the other comes Saturday at Bridgeport when Harding tackles Stamford High. The latter club is undefeated to date and also negotiated the 1926 season without a setback. They play New York schools largely but they will get a test in this game.

All eastern Conn. eyes are now being trained for the Windham-Academy game here Nov. 5th.

Pheno Tombari, former N. F. A. star, played a large part in the Conn. Aggies 9 to 6 win over New Hampshire. He was on the receiving end of forwards that pulled the game out of the fire and allowed Williams to crash over from the 4 yard line for a touchdown late in the tilt. Marty Gilman also played well.

Dan Polsky was not able to get into the Lebanon Valley game for Brown Saturday. Injuries have handicapped him. Heller from Willimantic saw action.

The most gigantic football score of recent years was Georgia Tech's 222-to-0 victory over Cumberland university in 1916.

STATE BASKETBALL LEAGUE WILL OPEN NOVEMBER 16

HARTFORD, Oct. 24.—(AP)— The Connecticut State Basketball league, at a meeting Sunday afternoon, voted to open its schedule Wednesday, November 16, when the Meriden Endees play in Hartford. The other teams open on nights later in the same week.

The schedule will be played in two halves, the winner of the first half meeting the winner of the second half in a championship series in March.

The teams in the league are Hartford, Meriden Endees, Meriden Insilcos, New Britain Guards, All Middletown, Waterbury, New Haven Atlas and Bristol Endees.

The league today elected a staff of six regular league referees and six alternates. The regular referees chosen are Richard Dillon, Hartford; John Manion, Hartford; George Hayes, Hartford; Clyde Waters, Bristol; William Coyle, New Haven and Daniel Ahearn, Middletown. The alternates chosen are Frank Barnikow, Meriden; Nathan Avery, New Britain; Harry Ginsberg, New Britain; Edwin Hart, Waterbury; John McCormick, Hartford; William Thompson, Hartford, and Charles Hollm, Hartford.

The schedule for the first two weeks:

November 16, New Britain at Hartford; 17, Bristol at Meriden Insilcos; 18, Middletown at New Haven; 19, Waterbury at Bristol; Insilcos at New Britain; New Haven at Meriden Endees; Hartford at Middletown; 20, Meriden Endees at Waterbury; 23, Meriden Endees at Hartford; 24, New Haven at Meriden Insilcos; New Britain at Bristol; 25, Hartford at New Haven; 26, Meriden Insilcos at Middletown; Bristol at Meriden Endees; Waterbury at New Britain; 27, Middletown at Waterbury.

HARTFORD TO DISBAND ITS SOCCER TEAM

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—(AP)— President Bill Cunningham of the American Soccer league announced tonight that he had "persuaded the management of the Hartford Soccer club to abandon the remaining games of its schedule and to disband its organization." This was done, the executive said, in order to keep the soccer circuit better balanced.

"The combination of circumstances that recently made it necessary to declare the Philadelphia franchise forfeited left the league with 11 member teams," President Cunningham said.

"The odd number made the arrangement of a schedule extremely difficult and made it impossible to follow the American league plan which has every team in the circuit engaged during every week-end of the season.

"The Hartford territory, while by no means unproductive nevertheless suffered distinctly from the difficulties always encountered in pioneering a new sporting project, and after considering the problem from every angle, the president requested the Hartford management to suspend operations until further notice, and the Hartford management agreed.

"The organization will disband in good standing with the league. It is sound financially and its few outstanding obligations have all been taken care of."

FOOTBALL TEAMS INVADE MID-WEST ON SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The middle west is to be i nvaded from all directions for this week's football battles, and one western conference team, Pat Page's Indiana Eleven, goes east to meet the Crimson in Harvard's stadium.

Besides the Big Ten's three intersectional battles, there is another at South Bend, where Georgia Tech meets the gridiron pupils of Knute Rockne, at Notre Dame.

Three western teams are matched with conference eleven, the Missouri Valley leader, Missouri, takes on Northwestern at Evanston, while Denver will be entertained by Iowa, and Montana state makes its big ten debut against Purdue at Lafayette.

Few injuries handicapped the western conference squads in their start on the last half of the championship trail. The headliners of next Saturday, Illinois and Michigan, were especially fortunate in coming through their battles of last Saturday without damage.

A capacity crowd of 67,000 or more is in sight for the Illinois home-coming, the eighth in the annual series of Yost-Zuppke battles, though Yost this year has turned over the reins to Tad Welman. Yost won four out of the seven since 1919.

FORMER COLLEGE STAR RETURNS TO CIVILIZATION

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 24—(AP) The Minneapolis Journal today says that Grover McGovern, former St. Thomas college football star, has returned to civilization after lying for three weeks alone in the forest, 40 miles from the nearest settlement, paralyzed from a fall.

Suffering from his injury and exposure he lay helpless for days, until his condition gradually improved and he was first able to crawl and finally to walk.

Slowly and painfully he made his way back to civilization, taking six days for the journey, and today he was in Chicago bay, between Grand Marais and the international border, where he told that tale of his fight against the wilderness and death.

McGovern, a timber cruiser, set out from Chicago bay nearly a month ago to look at lake shore property. He had travelled 40 miles when he plunged over a 25 foot cliff and injured his back so severely that he was unable to move.

BEAUREGARD LOSES TO ESPOSITO AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24 (AP)—Georgie Balduc of Lewiston, Me., tonight defeated Al Tripoli of Yonkers, N. Y., in a ten round bout at the Arena here. The fight was at 130 pounds. In the other ten round feature, Georgie Day of New Haven, defeated Larry Roach, of Newark, N. J., at 134 pounds. Mike Esposito of Stamford, received the decision over Al Beauregard, of Taftville in six rounds at 122 pounds. Johnny Ciccone, of New Haven, defeated Frankie Neve, of New York, in six rounds at 126 pounds. The six round bout between Mickey Genero of Waterbury and Jimmy Mendoza, of New York at 135 pounds, was a draw.

McMahon Signs McLarin.

NEW LORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Tex Rickard, announced tonight that he had signed Jimmy McLarin recent knockout conqueror of Kid Kaplan, for a series of three fights in Madison Square Garden. The first contest, McMahon said, would bring McLarnin against Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, if Wallace is willing to met the western lad.

YALE HAS LIGHTEST WORK OF SEASON

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—With interest in the Dartmouth contest next Saturday rising to fever pitch, Coach Tad Jones today put nine of his eleven regulars through the easiest workout of the year. "Stew" Scott, end, and Duncan Cox, fullback, were both missing from the lineup as the first eleven took the field for a 20 minute signal drill. Scott has a cold, while Cox's recovery from the side injury sustained against Brown has been less rapid than had been expected. John McEwen, a sophomore, took Scott's place, while Hubbard, who started at fullback against Army, was there again today.

The signal drill followed a session of special instruction in which the coaching staff went over the Army game and pointed out defects in the Blue's play.

Another light workout is scheduled for tomorrow, with the only scrimmage of the week planned for Wednesday.

Dartmouth's record triumph over Harvard, leading Yale followers to want first-hand comparative information by which to gauge the chances of the Blue against the Crimson in the big game at Cambridge, led to a suddenly accelerated call for tickets today, indicating a near sell-out of the bowl for Saturday.

DARTMOUTH IS HARD HIT BY INJURIES

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The discouraging spector of injuries cast a shadow over Memorial field here today as Dartmouth forgot last Saturday's Harvard victory and began pointing to Yale, whose offensive and defensive strength must remain a mystery until game time next Saturday due to this year's non-scouting pact between the Green and Blue.

In addition to Dick "Bullet" Black, varsity fullback, and Bob Harris, another first string backfield ace, the injured list now includes the names of Little Len Kilkelley, center, Jack McAvoy, first string end, and Johnny Phillips, regular guard. Black and Harris have been out for more than a week and Trainer Hillman said tonight there was only a slight chance for either to see action against Yale. Kilkelly is at his home in Nashua, with a slight concussion suffered on the first play of the Harvard game. Phillips has minor bruises, while McAvoy has contracted a heavy cold.

CRUSADER WINS FEATURE AT LAUREL TRACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Crusader galloped home with the Somerset handicap today at Laurel, although he finished second in the running to Mars. Gaffsman was second and Princess Doreen, third. Mars was disqualified for fouling Crusader at the half mile post. Jockey Earl Sande had to take Crusader up after the interference, but he came strong to run second. The time for the mile and one eighth was 1:51 4-5.

Gamble, under Jockey Mack Garner's superb ride, won the Fear Naught handicap at Empire City. Cherry Pie, heavily played, was a poor third. The race was worth $1,175 and the mile and 70 yards was run in 1:46 3-5.

The Norwood purse, feature at Latonia, went to Rhinock, who beat out Florian by a neck. The Le Mar Farm's Canaan, was third. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:42 1-5.

Hot Time captured the fourth race at Arlington, six furlongs for three year olds and up. Rival was second and Anna Marron II, third. The winner's time was 1:12 2-5.

THREE CRIPPLES RETURN TO HARVARD LINEUP

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The three cripples of the Harvard varsity, football squad who failed to see action in the Dartmouth game returned to the lineup today in time to participate in a lengthy session with the other regulars on the tackling dummies and blocking machines. The workout apparently was prompted by the manner in which Marsters and Lane romped through the Crimson last Saturday and failure of the Harvard interference to clean out properly.

The return of the cripples, Guy Holbrook and Dave Guarnaccia, backs and "Big Tim" Clark, tackle, left Harvard without a name on the injured list, except for a third string guard. Team B scrimmaged with the freshmen, but the regulars were given the rest of the day off pending the start of an intensive drive for the Indiana game Saturday.

HAWLEY DENIES THAT HE HAS RESIGNED

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 24—(AP)—Jesse Hawley, head football coach at Dartmouth, tonight denied current rumors that he has tendered his resignation, effective at the close of the present season.

The big Green coach, whose 1927 team thus far has followed the tradition of Dartmouth's undefeated eleven of 1925, added that he had no intention of resigning. Harry Haneagg supervisor of athletics, added the following: "Hawley, has, due to the demands of his business, a standing resignation but there is nothing to the story of his actual resignation."

NEW PLAYERS APPEAR FOR BOSTON TIGERS

BOSTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—A flock of new players took the ice today in the first practice session of the Boston Tigers of the Canadian-American Hockey league. The club this season will exhibit an entirely new forward line. The defense will be made up of the veterans Rheaume, goal, Captain A. Smith and Ponzi Contant.

The league season will open here November 12.

WALLACE GETS DECISION OVER TOMMY MURPHY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, was awarded the decision over Tommy Murphy, of Trenton, in a hard fought ten round bout at the arena tonight.

The Clevelander knocked Murphy down three times with left hooks to the jaw, twice in the fifth round for counts of five and eight, and again in the eighth for a short count. In this round the fighters wrestled each other out of the ring.

Wallace weighed 134; Murphy 133.

Mueller Beats Goodrich

Mueller weighed 139 1-4; the former champion 141 3-4.

Harry Fuller, Niagara Falls middleweight, knocked out Trooper Decaplo, of Canastota, in the first round of the scheduled six round semi-final.

COACH M'LAUGHRY ATTRIBUTES BROWN'S DEFEAT TO MENTAL STATE

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 24.—(AP)— Attributing the poor showing of Brown university's football team thus far this season to a mental state, Coach "Tuss" McLaughry, who last year built up the famous Iron Men combination, temporarily disbanded the training table today in order that the first string men might have a rest from football thoughts and conversation.

The criticism by the student body following Brown's successive defeats in the last three games is condemned by the coach as "ill-timed and unjust." Confidence that the team will show better form, however, was expressed by Coach McLaughry. Captain Roy "Red" Randall, whose fumbling of the ball was costly in the Yale game two weeks ago, has again been shifted to the first team, having been displaced as quarterback by Edes in Saturday's losing batle with Lebanon Valley. "It is all mental, this failure of the Brown varsity to function," said Coach McLaughry. "We have the men and the system that worked last year, and there is no reason why the team should not make a better showing.

"By ordering the tapering off of work by the varsity and the abandonment of the training table, I have hopes that the men may get away from talks of football that are becoming an obsession to every member of the varsity. They will be further away from a disgruntled student body, which has been none too lenient in ill-judged and unjust criticism, and they will be able to start in on the work with something of a new outlook.

"We are running in a groove, not because we have to but because the minds of the men are in a groove. The tricks that worked last year have not worked this season and the result has been confusion that has been costly in the games. The headwork of the men has been none too commendable in figuring out situations that arose in the playing field and that has taken its toll in the scores.

"Despite three successive defeats, this Brown team is far from broken, and I claim that with a new start we will yet meet the major opponents on a new level and will give them the game we are capable of playing, and by that I mean a game that will test them to the limit of their ability. We have the stuff on this Brown varsity squad that should win football games and our job for the next few days is to get it out of the team."

Commenting further on the situation, Coach McLaughry said he had been confronted with the problem of bringing the veterans of the Iron team "back to earth" at the opening of the season.

"Had they been nearer to the common level as the season opened and been able to get off to a winning start, the psychological effect of a victory would have been enough to set us on our feet. Had we won at Penn our morale would have carried us through," he went on. "That defeat brought us uncertainty that has cost us progress."

MORIN'S TEAM LOSES TO SPRINGFIELD TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24—Mike Morin's Norwich, Conn., bowling team was beaten here tonight at the North End alleys by 65 pins in a special candle pin match by Chip Dugas' North End team. Ralph of the Springfield team took all honors, with 125 for high single and 326 for high total. Morin, former Springfield boy now with the Norwich team took second honors. The score:

Springfield

Dugas	82	95	81—	258
Bowen	79	77	80—	236
Southworth	109	113	98—	322
Bedard	84	93	106—	283
Ralph	104	100	125—	326

Striech	93	88	78—	259
Leud	90	83	86—	259
Morin	106	115	102—	323
Totals	460	450	440	1350

Kaufman Wins On Foul.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Joey Kaufman, of Coney Island, won on a foul in the fifth round from Sammy Offerman, of New York in a scheduled 10-round bout tonight. Kaufman weighed 133 1-3 and Offerman 135 1-2.

In the semi-final Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., 128 1-2, earned a 10-round verdict over Tommy Dunn, 132 1-2, of this city. Teddy Seidman, of California, 127 1-2, lost an eight round bout to Jules Sombathy, of Bridgeport, 125 1-2, a brother to Smith.

Levinsky Kayoes Jackson.

Army Suffered But Slight Injuries

ACADEMY IS GIVEN STIFF PRACTICE SESSION

Practically everything but scrimmage was given the Academy Monday afternoon by Coach Whitney at the campus. The squad of over 30 had a real "Blue Monday" going hard for about two hours and a half.

Plenty of abuse did the tackling dummy get as Whit sent his men at it time and time again. The Red and Whitesters showed much poor tackling Saturday in losing to Harding and much improvement will be needed if Wilby is to be defeated this week end.

First the linemen, except the ends, were given work along this line for about a half hour and then the backs and ends followed for a similar period. In between, the backs and ends had practice with forwards another feature of their play that has not been developed to a high standard yet.

Following this a short but snappy signal drill with practically all members of the squad getting a chance and then the grass drill finished the workout. It was just about the hardest Monday for the squad this season.

Bill Tirrell was limping from an injury received Saturday and Brock and Aldrich alternated in running the team with the former having it most of the time and showing up well. Johnny Greene and Mish were back in service and should they be fit for work Saturday then the Academy's chances will be a bit brighter. McGlone and Vitiliano alternating on tossing the passes while Jack Marks was doing the booting for the first stringers. Jack showed improvement yesterday over his kicking Saturday when several traveled not much over 20 yards.

The Wilby game Saturday at Waterbury looms as a real tough argument and the Academy will have to be at its best to get winning again.

KANE IS FORCED TO PAY BUTLER $5,500

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Eddie Kane, manager for Tom Gibbons, Sammy Mandell, and other boxers, must pay Richard Butler $2,500 for arranging a bout between Gibbons and Jack Bloomfield in London in 1924, Supreme Court Justice Black ruled today.

Butler, who is president of the Longshoremen's union, testified that he arranged the bout with the understanding that he would collect a 5 per cent. commission. He said he tried to collect but was forced to bring the matter to court. Gibbons won the first with a knockout in the third round.

Only Light Work For Tigers

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Princeton varsity had only a light workout today in preparation for the William and Mary contest Saturday. The second team scrimmaged against the scrubs, winning by a score of 6 to 0. After running around the field once, the varsity players were sent to the dressing room.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

(By The Assaciated Press)

Columbia varsity crew, which triumphed in the Poughkeepsie regatta last June, will be given a testimonial victory dinner on November 1. Guests of honor will include President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia and Rev. F. H. Sill, headmaster of the Kent school at Derby, Conn., who was a member of Columbia's crew in 1895.

Matchmaker Jess McMahon of Madison Square Garden has signed Jimmy McLarnin of LosAngeles for a bout here on November 14. McLarnin knocked out Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, in Chicago last week. McMahon is dickering for Billy Wallace of Cleveland as McLarnin's opponent.

Laverne Fator will easily continue his role of pacemaker of jockeys in the Metropolitan district this season with a big margin of about 64 tallies on the rest of the field. To date, Fator has brought in 110 winners. He led the Metropolitan jockeys last year.

Protection will be afforded owners and trainers of race horses this winter by a new edict of the Louisiana Jockey club which provides for a race to be held even though only one horse starts. In the past, the so-called "Walk-Over" was not permitted and an owner who would point his entry for a certain race would find the event called off, if the field was not considered large enough.

Reports are current that the Pirates are hesitating over a deal to trade Hazen Cuyler for fear that he might eventually turn up next season with the New York Giants. The Robins have been mentioned frequentiy to igure in the Cuyler barter which would send Jess Petty, the southpaw, to Pittsburgh.

The death of Ross Young in San Antonio has cast gloom over comrades and friends of the Giants' outfielder. "It is one of the saddest incidents I can remember," said John McGraw. "He was one of the finest players I ever had." The flag at the Polo grounds is at half mast.

The billiard match between Champion Welker Cochran and Young Jake Schaefer for the world 18.2 balkline title is expected to take place in New York about the middle of December.

CANZONERI GETS VERDICT OVER DUNDEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, Brooklyn featherweight, was given the judge's decision over Johnny Dundee, the former champion, at the end of 15 rounds of tame boxing tonight in Madison Square Garden.

The veteran Dundee, making his first appearance in the ring in more than a year, did not land a solid punch during the contest. Canzoneri made no effort to punish his man and carried him along all the way. The crowd began to call for actiton as early as the fourth round, many left the garden in the seventh. Stamping and cat-calls followed the close of all the latte rounds.

A short left split Canzoneri's lip in the eleventh and Dundee was cut on the right cheek in return. This flurry was soon over, however, and the men went back to their exhibitiion tactics.

Dundee was given a long ovation when he was introduced and his weight announced as 125 1-2 pounds, just a half pound under the featherweight limit. Canzoneri weighed 124. Booes drowned out the announcement of the verdict.

The contest was not recognized by the New York state athletic commission as involving the 126 pound title. Dundee, while defeated since his retirement from the division, never had been beaten before at the championship weight.

The total paid attetndance was 8,808, and net receipts were $34,457.

The Preliminaries.

Lew Perfetti, New York featherweight, won the decision from Vic Burrone, also of New York tonight, in an eight round semi-final. Perfetti scored his advance in the early rounds but finished with both eyes cut. Perfetti weigher 124, Burrone 122 1-2.

Benny Schwartz of Baltimore gained a decision over Johnny Erickson, New York, in an eight rounder. It was a fast fight all the way, with Schwartz earning the verdict on aggressiveness. Both boxers weighed 117.

Harry Brandin of Brooklyn outpointed Frisco Grande of the Philippines in a four rounder. Brandin weighed 118 1-2; Grande 116.

Andy Martin of Boston received the judge's decision over Henry De Wenker of France. It was a slow, uninteresting affair of eight rounds. Martin weighed 125; Wenker 122 1-2.

PENDLETON HILL

Friends of Miss Cecile C. Palmer are glad to learn that she is improving, although not yet able to sit up at the week end.

Carl Gallup of Plainfield, who sometime since purchased from Miss Mamie Vivia of Westerly a wood lot on the so called Avery Chapman place, has let the contract for cutting and sawing to David Dean. A force of seven men is employed there and has been for sometime.

Two Finnish children, Edward Rudolph, seven and Anita Aurenen, nine, from New York are boarding with Mr. and Mrs. Oaro Koestinen, and attending the Hill school.

The old button ball trees which line both sides of the road along the property belonging to the Robert P. Palmer estate, and which as late as the middle of July, were thought to be dead, have taken a new lease of life, and now appear to be in better condition than in many years. They retain their foliage and much of the inner bark has peeled, showing the pure white trunks and branches, indicative of a healthy button ball tree. A hundred years ago your correspondent has heard said that this was one of, if not the finest, rows of shade trees in the country side and this is one of the most popular shade trees in European and Oriental countries; and is again asserting its value as an ornamental tree in this country. Many fine specimens are to be found in beautiful Wilcox park, Westerly, where they were planted not many years ago and have made a tremendous growth. They are a beautiful tree when in full foliage.

A recent editorial in The Bulletin, entitled Raiding the Countryside, a most significant editorial for those of us who live on farms and one which will bear frequent repetition, the editor should have referred to our old and unoccupied houses, which we are unable to guard with our dogs or guns. Those have in a number of instances been carried away lock, stock and gun handle, doors, windows, latches, boards, appropriated by rich motorists in the most conscienceless manner. The owners prefer to salvage their own houses, they were intact because we hoped to keep them that way, but they are intact no more. Motorists deserve to be locked up for this kind of stealing.

It is reported that ugly dogs guard the immediate properties of many of our farmers, and none can blame them and the majority of farmers own guns and know how to use them.

A new road machine for the town of North Stonington was tried out Monday on the road between the old town house and Chester Maine' farm.

Mrs. C. Dwight Thompson, a former resident who was expected to spend some time on the Hill, is prevented by illness from so doing. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Hillards.

Mrs. Thompson's granddaughter, Lucile Wheeler, a freshman at Wheeler school, although one of the youngest of the 45 pupils enrolled is one of six on the honor roll.

Flowers of all kinds are still in full bloom at the Palmer homestead. Little if any damage has been done by frost. A wall of 500 golden pumpkins ornament this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Tanner and Miss Bertha Lewis were recent callers on the Hill. Miss Lewis spent Friday with Miss Cecile Palmer. Mrs. Emil Gladfekker was her guest Monday.

Jean Baptiste Rivard died Thursday night. Requiem high mass was celebrated Friday morning at nine o'clock in St. Michael's church, Westerly, R. I. The body was taken to North Grosvenordale. Mr. Rivards' former home for burial.

Attorney Hale Anderson of New York, a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae, have purchased the Capt. Adams place from Clark's Falls, adding another to the long list of purchases superinduced by our public benefactors, the Raes.

BRISK RALLY IN STOCK MARKET WAS HALTED BY SELLING IN FINAL HOUR

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—A brisk rally in the stock market today, attributed largely to covering by an over-extended short interest, was superceded by a resumption of heavy selling in the final hour of trading. Although the general market closed somewhat higher than Saturday's final level, substantial advances in most of the pivotal issues were reduced, or wiped out entirely, as the close drew near.

The opening was rather irregular, partly in reflection of liquidation of weakened marginal accounts following four successive days of descending prices. The leading shares headed upward smartly within the first half hour, and by mid afternoon a long list of 2 and 3 points gain was presented. U. S. Steel, General Motors, New York Central and other speculative favorites were in the van of the forward movement in the earlier transactions.

Reaction set in when the covering by over-sold shorts had spent its force. U. S. Steel and General Electric went down to 136 1-8 and 133 respectively, new lows on the current movement, and closed only a little above those figures. Some of the selling of steel common was attributed to precautionary action on the eve of the third quarter earnings report, due tomorrow.

There was little in the news fluence speculative sentiment, from some optimistic forecasts of 1928 outlook for business, voiced bankers in convention at Houston, Texas. Although banks called some $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 in loans to strengthen a weakened reserve position, as revealed in Saturday's report of $43,000,000 deficit in reserve, there was little change in the credit situation. Call money ruled around the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent. all day.

Some of the popular specialties and industrials showed rather wide fluctuations, notably Houston Oil, which arose to 148 3-4, then tumbled to 141 1-4, and closed at 144, up 1 3-4 on the day. Baldwin advanced to 258 before declining to 255, where it closed with a net gain of 2 3-4. Commercial Solvents fluctuated between a high of 166 1-2 and a low of 160 3-8 and closed with a 4 1-2 point gain above 165. Sterling Products reached a new peak for the year and United Drug had an extreme gain of 10 points, but both were under moderate pressure at the close.

Heavy selling of some of the merger railroads helped to hasten the afternoon decline. Western Maryland dropped nearly 7 points and St Louis Southwestern 5s from their early highs, both closing materially under the previous final quotation. Several of the investment rails, buoyant in the early hours, lost most of their advances in the late liquidation, notably Chesapeake & Ohio, Atchison, Southern Pacific and a few others.

Some of the oils held up well, Phillips Petroleum and General Asphalt both closing higher though receding from their day's peaks.

Commodity prices displayed irregularities as the week began. Wheat futures were fractionally lower and cotton quotations were down 7 to 12 points. Coffee firmed up 21 to 23 points, and sugar futures were steady at 1 to 4 points higher.

There was little change in the foreign exchange market, aside from a 6 1-2 point drop in Spanish pesetas to 3.42and 17.18 cents. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.86 3-4 and French sold unchanged, close to 3.92 3-8 cents. German, Japanese and Hungarian currencies were fractionally lower, but Swiss and Dutch rates were a little higher, the last named reaching a new high for the year.

The money market was unchanged.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Trapped

Twere better the quick blow or crack
Of deadly rifle—than the wrack
Of awful trap, with cruel jaws
Against the soft and silky paws;

To lie beneath the chill, dark stars
Caught in the grip of iron bars.
But I once trapped a silver gray
As lovely as a lamb in May.

I found his trail along the ground
Beside the fresh, emplanted mound;
But in the cold, voracious jaw
I found a furry, frozen paw.

Milady loves her velvet fur,
And thinks her stole becometh her;
But I can see no joy or pride
In knowing how its owner died.

And so I wear my homespun coat
Of downy wool from sheep or goat
My neighbor looks with scorn on me,
But I rejoice in being free.

—Dr. Benjamin Woodbury.

"There's No Need to Fear"

When a cricket mutes his fiddle
At my step upon the grass,
Stops his playing in the middle
Just because I pass,—

And there's silence in the thickets—
It is strange he cannot hear
My heart cry out: "Birds and crickets!
There's no need to fear!"

—Isabel Valle.

Song

O bird, thou dartest to the sun,
When morning beams first spring,
And I, like thee, would swiftly run;
As sweetly would I sing.
Thy burning heart doth draw thee up
Into the source of fire;
Thou drinkest from its glowing cup
And quenchest thy desire.

O dew, that droppest soft below
And pearliest all the ground,
Yet, when the morning comes, I know
Thou never canst be found.
I would like thine had been my birth.
Then I, without a sigh,
Might sleep the night through on the earth
To waken in the sky.

O clouds, ye little tender sheep,
Pastured in fields of blue,
While moon and stars your fold can keep
And gently shepherd you,
Let me, to follow in the train
That flocks across the night,
Or lingers on the open plain
With new-shorn fleeces white.

O singing winds, that wander far,
Yet always seem at home,
And freely play 'twixt star and star
Along the bending dome,
I often listen to your song,
Yet never hear you say
One word of all the happy worlds
That sing so far away.

For they are free, ye all are free,
And bird, and dew and light,
Can dart about the azure sea
And leave me to my night:
Oh would like their had been by birth,
Then I, without a sigh,
Might sleep this night through on the earth
To waken in the sky.

—Maria White Lowell.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The great horned owl, among the largest of our native birds of prey is the terror of the smaller members of the feathered family, and small animals that the prowler can get his claws on. His wing spread is sometimes six feet and his total length from head to tail is two feet or over. This prowler of the night flies around on silent wings ever on the watch for a victim. It can fly very swiftly and swoop down on its prey with little or no noise. Its hearing is very sharp and it can hear scratching claws or the snap of a twig for 150 feet or more.

When it locates a victim it swoops down suddenly, its sharp claws reach down and grab the victim which is then carried away to feed the owl family. This particular owl may be known at once by its great size, its dark brown color and the tufts of feathers over the eyes. The claws, sharp as needles, are an inch or more in length and the legs and toes are completely feathered.

This huge bird haunts the thick woodland with open spaces, fields or sloughs nearby, where rabbits, rats and mice are plentiful. Sometimes the owl will pick up and carry away chickens found roosting in trees or bushes. The nesting season begins very early, about the middle of February and the young stay in the nest about two months. This bird is sometimes called the "hoot-owl."

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

My Kittens

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a story about my four new kittens. One is black, yellow and white and the other three are yellow like their mother, Buttercup. I also have a big yellow and small yellow tom cat. Their names are Teddy and Fluffitail. The three colored kitten's name is Patcher and the three small yellow kittens names are Pot, Puss and Peter.

Fluffitail had two brothers who were yellow too. They were born on Palm Sunday. Their names are Fluffy and Fluff. They live in Waterbury now with one of my aunts. My aunt and uncle were here to see me last Sunday and told me how Fluff and Fluffy were getting along.

I also have some rabbits, gold fish and chickens. I will write and tell you about them soon.

I hope all the Wide Awakes will like my story. I am a little Wide Awake friend.

ETHEL E. MURTHA, Age 8.
Hallville.

In Camp Fire Girl

Dear Uncle Jed: I am late in thanking you for the very nice book you sent me. I enjoyed every bit of it, as I am a Camp Fire Girl.

I want to write to you just now to tell you how beautiful the woods and fields are in their autumn colors. The

CITY MANAGER RESERVES DECISION IN WELLS HEARING AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 24—The hearing of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer made against Patrolman Clarence Wells, did not take place this morning in the juvenile court room, as scheduled, but was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The hearing, which was attended by Captain Charles A. Pinney and Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh occupied but 15 minutes. Wells was represented by Attorney Frank L. McGuire. The attorney interrogated the two sergeants but briefly, which comprised the only testimony taken. At the conclusion of the hearing City Manager William A. Holt announced that he had conferred with Harry H. Adams of the New London Globe, in an effort to induce Mr. Adams to reveal the source of his information regarding the case in question but that the city manager was unsuccessful because Mr. Adams refused to divulge the identity of his informants. With this statement, the city manager said that he would reserve his decision.

Mrs. Michael Shugrue, of 11 Jefferson avenue and infant son; Eddy Richard Bridgeman, of Station 11, Waterford; Miss Charlotte Clark, Westerly; Richard Perkins, Groton and Patrolman Albert Iverson, 161 Howard street, were patients discharged at Lawrence-Memorial hospital today. Patrolman Iverson sustained a serious head injury two weeks ago when he fell over the railing at Plant hall. It was believed at that time that he had sustained a fractured skull.

Dora Snitkin has sold to John and Jessie Kinnear a house and lot, corner of West High and Wall streets.

Henry R. Griswold has sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Ellsworth and Marion F. Rowland.

Theodore N. and Harriet Hatton have sold a building lot on Learned street to Esther C. and Burton C. Gates.

Albert Buddington Corey, Groton fruit grower, and Miss Myrtle Irene Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amma Morgan of this city, were married Sunday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The bride was formerly employed at the plant of the Max Pollock company, Groton.

The funeral of Joseph Landry was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, a high mass of requiem being sung by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were Louis Elena, Arthur Stamin, Alphonse Martin, Emil Dishefy, Manuel Lebrie and Fred Stamin. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Cornelia E. Haugh, widow of Frank C. Johnson of Lyman court, died Sunday night, after ill health for about a year. She is survived by a son, Dr. Kenneth C. Johnson, of this city and several brothers and sisters. Mrs. Johnson was born in Guilford, daughter of the late Rev. John S. and Elizabeth Thompson Haugh.

Elias Sorensen, 47, residing at 16 Poquonoc road, Groton, a chief machinist's mate, United States Coast Guard academy, died Sunday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. He is survived by his wife.

Annie Louise Cox, colored, employed as cook at Smith Memorial home for many years, died at the home this morning, after a lingering illness. Miss Cox, who was of advanced years, was born in Jamaica, West Indies.

Charles Gordon, an upholsterer, was in the police court this morning charged with being a fugitive from justice. The case was continued a week. Gordon was arrested by Sergeant John Cavanaugh this morning on a warrant issued by the authorities of Nashua, N. H., where Gordon is wanted for failing to support his wife. The case was continued today for the purpose of permitting Gordon to make an arrangement, satisfactory to the Nashua authorities, whereby he will pay his wife a weekly stipulated sum for her support.

Brownie Stamion, 324 Jefferson avenue, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law, in driving an automobile without a license. The charge resulted in Stamion being given a suspension of judgment. He was arrested Sunday by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin.

Wallace Brown, Jay, Me., and Kenneth Felker, Bangor, Me., were charged with train riding. They were given suspensions of judgment. Brown and Felker were arrested Saturday night by Special Agents James Daly and Albert Jorgerson, who detected the men stealing a ride on a freight.

The cottage of the Chappell estate on the boardwalk, Ocean beach, was discovered to have been broken into recently, when a member of the family visited the cottage this afternoon. The break was reported at police headquarters. While nothing is known to have been taken the family is desirous of ascertaining who entered the cottage.

An automobile driven by George Mallack, 28 Garfield avenue and a car driven by Miss Florence McDermott, of Meridian street extension, Groton, collided this afternoon at the corner of Golden and Bank streets. Both automobiles were damaged and each driver blamed the other for the crash.

MOTORIST HAD BEEN DRINKING, ENDANGERED OTHER DRIVERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 24—Boleslaw Haberek, 30 Winthrop street, New London, was fined $100 and costs, the latter amounting to $13.55 when presented in the Groton town court this morning charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Haberek pleaded guilty and Judge Cornelius C. Costello ordered $50 of the fine remitted. Haberek was arrested on Thames street last Friday by state police officer Peter Busch, after Haberek's auto narrowly escaped colliding with another vehicle.

Miss Margaret Cassidy has returned to her home at Winthrop, Mass., after being the guest of Mrs. Luke Martin, of Montauk avenue.

Because of the reported break at the Chappell cottage today, Captain Charles A. Pinney issued orders that an inspection of all of the cottages along the boardwalk be made. As a result, Patrolman Dennis Murphy reported that the cottages at Nos. 9, 18, 22, 24, 25, 35, 43, 45, 49 and 50, were not secured for the officer reported that either the front or rear entrance was unlocked, making it an easy matter for crooks to enter the cottages and ransack them.

Elias Safreda, of Central Falls, R. I., driver of the automobile that was overturned on Ocean avenue, near Glenwood avenue Sunday afternoon when it was in collision with an automobile driven by Frieda Gardner, of 863 Ellsworth street, New Haven, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith, charged with reckless driving. He was held in bail of $1000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Safreda and several acquaintances had been to Ocean beach, where a Syrian event was being celebrated. On their way back to Central Falls, the auto collided with the New Haven machine. The Safreda auto climbed an embankment and overturned, coming to a stop only when it crashed against a tree. Charles McFound, one of the passengers in the Safreda auto sustained a crushed chest, resulting in internal injuries and he is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital and on the danger list. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman ordered that a rigid investigation of the accident be made and as the result of the order Safreda was arrested. At the hospital this evening it was stated that McFound's condition remained critical, but that he was as comfortable as it was possible to make him.

The body of Robert Murphy, who died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon, was forwarded to his former home in Chelsea this afternoon. A sister of the dead man came to New London and accompanied the body back to Chelsea. Several of Murphy's acquaintances will go to Chelsea tomorrow and attend the funeral services.

Mrs. Anabel F. Brand, of Quaker Hill, was ordered to present herself in the police court tomorrow and answer to a charge of reckless driving. The woman was not required to furnish a surety on her bond, but was ordered into court by State Policeman George Webber.

At an adjourned meeting of the city council, held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, it was voted to dispose of $150,000 worth of School Refunding bonds. The bonds are due in December, but the city is ready to negotiate the refund. The original vote called for the refunding of $170,000 worth of bonds, but because of the poor market at the time their sale was deferred until the present.

Mrs. Michael Caponi, of Groton, and Mrs. Thomas Kiley and infant son, 7 Griswold court, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Charles Bailey, 75, janitor at Flanders school, East Lyme, who was struck by an automobile driven by a hit-and-run-driver several nights ago in Flanders, and who sustained a fractured skull, is showing signs of improvement, for Sunday and today the man is displaying symptoms of returning consciousness. Mr. Bailey Sunday evidenced returning consciousness, but his mind is not entirely clear. Again today he showed symptoms of being rational and although being able to talk, he was unable to throw any light upon the accident that might lead to the apprehension of the driver of the auto that ran down Mr. Bailey.

William H. Cretien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cretien, of Groton, and Miss Gladys Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carpenter, of this city, were married at 10 o'clock this morning at the rectory of Sacred Heart church, Groton, the marriage ceremony being performed by Rev William J. Fox, pastor of the church. Albert Cretien, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Lucille Cretien, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The bride's gown was of white georgette in period style and she wore a veil of tulle. Her bouquet was of bridal roses. The bride's attendant wore a gown of rosewood georgette with hat to match and carried pink roses. After the ceremony, a breakfast was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents for members of the families. After the breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Cretien left by motor for a honeymoon trip through New England.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Convincing proof that a great motion picture need not necessarily be an epic in number of people used or the size of sets, is to be found at the Broadway theater where Emil Jannings' first Paramount starring vehicle "The Way of All Flesh" will be shown today and tomorrow.

"The Way of All Flesh" is a saga of sacrifice, the coming of temptation in the life of a simple home-loving man, a powerful sermon on the frailty of mankind. To see "The Way of All Flesh" with Jannings as the man who slew himself in the eyes of the world that his family might escape shame, is to experience a period of cleansing. honest emotions. There are laughs and moments when the characters seems to fairly speak aloud.

By no means is Jannings alone in this drama. Belle Bennett, Phyllis Haver, Donald Keith, Fred Kohler and the many others in the supporting cast give visual evidence that Paramount searched long and assiduously for those capable of giving that rarest of all rarities, a perfect characterization in the varied and exacting roles of a modern motion picture.

Victor Fleming, who directed, uses the camera as an accomplished spinner of stories uses words. At times his handling of the plot flashes with genius. Always it is true and convincing.

"The Way of All Flesh" will undoubtedly be classed as one of the foremost pictures ever filmed, and the reputation should endure for years to come.

Breed Theatre

The thrill of a lifetime awaits sport lovers at the Breed theatre with the first authentic showings of the genuine pictures of the greatest battle in the history of the ring, the Tunney-Dempsey fight as it was held at Soldier Field, Chicago. Round by round blow by blow, this historic battle unfolds before the eye, seen as if one was actually seated in the best ringside seat in the arena. These pictures were not made from an unobserved corner, but are photographed from a specially constructed tower beside the ring. Trained cameramen were employed to make the authentic record of this greatest of all battles for the heavyweight championship. Dempsey is seen entering the ring first, after which Tunney makes his appearance. They shake hands and the great fight is on. Round by round the actual record unwinds before the eye, and keeps the audience in suspense. It may well be said that it is the greatest cinema scoop in years. No one should miss the opportunity of seeing this tremendous struggle from a ringside seat. The seventh round in which the champion was knocked down for the count of nine, is shown in slow motion, as is the blow to the jaw which sent Dempsey down for a count of one in the eighth round. This film record of the great battle will be shown at the Breed until Thursday night.

Palace Theater

That "The Covered Wagon," has not diminished in popularity, since its first appearance is proven beyond doubt by the number of people played to yesterday at the first performances of this great spectacle. Many who have seen this picture before were on hand to see it a second time, one patron being heard to remark that it was the third time she had seen the "Covered Wagon." The story concerns the love affair of a young army officer in the early frontier days, but the spectacular scenes unfolded as the story progresses leaves one enthralled. However the greatest attraction offered by the Palace management, is in the Dempsey-Tunney fight pictures which are shown so clearly on the screen it seems that you are actually viewing the fight from a ringside seat. The feature of these pictures is the analysis of the famous seventh round shown in slow motion tempo, in which Tunney is seen going down by six successive blows from Dempsey.

The vaudeville attractions offered the above par, the feature act being the Wallace-Grant Revue, who tells stories and knows how. The Musical Rowelly's with their novel musical instruments, provide both fun and good music. Taken as a whole the current show is well worth seeing.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE ON THREE COUNTS

Found guilty of intoxication, breach of the peace and damaging private property, William Keys of No. 31 Elm street was given 15 days in jail on each count and in addition must serve a 15 day suspended jail sentence previously imposed. Keys was presented in the city court Monday morning following his arrest Saturday night after he had smashed three doors at his home and abused everyone in sight. Keys pleaded guilty to intoxication but claimed he didn't remember what took place after he got drunk.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Continued fair weather is proving very advantageous to the contractors who have buildings now under construction. However with cold weather coming on work is being speeded up in an effort to get all foundation and cement work out of the way before the extreme cold weather. During the past week there has been very good progress made on a number of local building operations. The new store for the Mohican company was completed last week and is now occupied.

At the Norwich State hospital the H. Wales Lines company has started excavation work and a number of local masons and bricklayers are securing employment for the foundation work.

The steel structural work on the new addition to the Silberman building on Main street has reached the second floor on the Water street side of the building and the third story steel will be set in place this week.

At East Great Plain several new houses are being erected and will be completed the first of next month. Also on Asylum street Homer Monty is erecting a frame dwelling which will be ready for occupation about the middle of next month.

The work of tearing down the Osgood house at the corner of Washington street and Sachem street has been completed and the contractor is busy carting away the debris.

At the Central Baptist church the work on the addition is fast nearing the completion stage, the exterior work having been completed and the contractors are now engaged in finishing the interior.

The work on the new Norwich Town school is going along at a good speed, part of the brick walls being up and the frame structure having been completed.

Other buildings in the city and in the outskirts have been brought along at an equally good rate of speed.

The H. Wales Lines company, Meriden, have awarded sub-contracts as follows for the additions to the north and south wards of the Norwich State hospital, from plans of Architects Cudworth and Thompson: Ornamental iron, Harry Riley, Meriden; structural steel, Eastern Bridge and Structural company, Worcester; limestone, Indiana Limestone company, Bedford, Ind.; granite Marriott company, Oneco, Conn., and mill work, Hotchkiss Bros. company, Torrington.

Westerly

Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning permits:

Oct. 18. John Dobridnia, 87 Franklin street. Cottage residence 26 feet by 30 feet on Watch Hill road, opposite Mount Pleasant.

Oct. 18. James Schofield, 120 High street. Metal kitchen to dining car lunch room, 46 Canal street.

Oct. 19. Frank Vacca, 16 Pond street. One-car garage, 8 feet by 21 feet, rear of 18 Pond street.

Oct. 20. James Falcone, 14 West street. Addition 3 feet by 10 feet, to garage at rear of 14 West street.

Oct. 21. W. S. Kenyon, 11 Chestnut street. One-car garage, 9 feet by 20 feet, rear of 11 Chestnut street. Walter C. Hiscox company, contractor.

Oct. 22. Peter H. K. Olechowick, 2 White Rock road. Addition, 4 feet by 12 feet to house, 2 White Rock road.

Building Permits

From his office in the Washington Trust building, Westerly building inspector, who since the first of August has issued over 66 permits among which more business block applications have appeared than in many years, has issued the following permits for the third week in October:

Oct. 17. J. Frank Chamolin, Watch Hill. Bay window addition 8 feet by 8 feet to house off Plimpton road, Watch Hill. R. A. Sherman Sons contractor.

Oct. 17. S. Maud Metcalf, Orange, N. J. Rushing's studio, cottage on Westerly road.

Oct. 18. R. B. Mellon, Watch Hill and Pittsburgh, Pa. Addition, 31 feet by 30 feet and alterations to cottage, Sunshine, Westerly road at Watch Hill. R. A. Sherman and Sons company contractor.

Oct. 18. James Schofield, 120 High street. Addition of steel kitchen, 8 feet by 16 feet, to Rite Bite Dinner, Canal street.

Oct. 20. Frank Vacca, 16 Pond street. Addition, 8 1-2 feet by 21 feet to garage at 16 Pond street.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were ten sales of real estate, exactly the same number as during the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $39,185 and $29,865.

There were six sales of real estate in New London during the past week, a decided decrease from the same week a year ago when there were 17 sales. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $85,710 and $73,273.

New London

The total of new residences started this year was brought up to 80, or slightly less than the total number for last year, with the granting of five more dwelling permits by the city council this week. Altogether there were 22 permits issued this week, of which five were also for garages and one for a new store building, the others being for comparatively minor alterations and additions. It is confidently expected at the present time that the number of new buildings started, under way and completed this year will exceed the number last year. There has already been filed an application for permission to erect two more dwellings, which will be acted upon by the council at its next meeting.

Gildo Minucci has applied for a permit to erect two frame dwellings, one at 7 Colman street and one at 9 Colman street. The proposed structures will each be 26 by 34 feet, of frame construction with all modern improvements.

The framework is going up on a new dwelling built for Lena Swiebel in Ann street. The new structure is of bungalow design 22 by 35 feet, and is being erected on a concrete foundation.

A local builder, painter and decorator, has been awarded the contract for necessary painting on the new plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries company at Groton. The contractor is also finishing two houses for Dr. Winship in Lower Boulevard and is starting work on the exterior and interior finishing of the house built by Mike Giri in Montauk avenue. He recently completed work on remodeling the Fair Harbor club and redecorating of Bulkeley school.

A cottage being built for John Maloney in Colman street has been enclosed. The dwelling is 22 by 26 feet and from private plans is arranged to have three rooms on the first floor and three on the second. Steam heat and modern plumbing and electrical fixtures are specified. The roof has been shingled and work is progressing at a rate promising completion before the first of the year.

The framework is now being constructed on a new cottage being built for A. C. Miller in Briggs street. The foundation, of finished stone, was completed last week and due to the topographical layout of the building site much of the foundation is exposed. The plans specify a bay window on the south side of the structure and the general appearance has been enhanced by outlining the bay window foundation similar to the upper structure. The house is 24 by 36 feet and work is being done by the day from private plans.

The frame structure of a new residence being built for Theodore Bodenwein in Pequot avenue is practically completed and work is progressing at a satisfactory rate on the brick structure. The new structure is 36 by 78 feet and has already taken form to such an extent that the final architectural beauty can be visualized. Located on the prominent site of the famous site of the famous old Pequot House, formerly the Brandegee estate the new residence stands out prominently and is a fitting successor to the traditional structure that formerly graced the site.

A New London contractor has been awarded the contract for the construction of a cottage for the superintendent of the State Oral school at Mystic. The cottage will be of brick construction and modern design with all modern improvements.

Applications for Building Permits

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Freegone left on a wedding trip through Canada.

Miss Rita Lazzaris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lazzaris and Constantino Uriccho were married Monday morning at St. Edward's church by Rev. Felix J. O'Neill. The bride was attended by Mildred Tudryn of Westfield. Daniel Donadio of Stafford was best man. After a breakfast at the home of the bride Mr. and Mrs. Uriccho left on a wedding trip and upon their return they will reside in Stafford.

Travelers on the road between Keene, N. H., and Brattleboro, Vt., are much interested in a monument being constructed at West Chesterfield, N. H., by George A. Cobleigh. At present the monument is nine feet high, built of nine smooth stones, some of which are egg-shaped and some perfectly round, and varying from 26 to 36 inches, the size of the stone at the base, to four inches in diameter, the size of the one at the apex. Mr. Cobleigh has spent several years in the building of the monument, some of the stones being obtained after much search and hauled several miles by a team. He plans to add to the structure smaller stones as he finds them, capping the whole with a stone the size of a marble.

POETRY

Farewell to Summer

Summer is fading; the broad leaves that grew
So lightly green, when June was young, are falling;
And, all the whisper-haunted forest through,
The restless birds in saddened tones are calling.
From rustling hazel copse and tangled dell,
"Farewell, sweet summer,
Fragrant, fruity summer,
Sweet, farewell!"

Upon the windy hills, in many a field,
The honey-bees hum slow, above the clover,
Gleaning the latest sweets its blooms may yield,
And, knowing that their harvest time is over,
Sing, half a lullaby and half a knell,
"Farewell, sweet summer,
Honey-laden summer,
Sweet, farewell!"

The little brook that babbles mid the fern,
O'er twisted roots and sandy shallows playing,
Seems fain to linger in its eddied turns,
And with a plaintive, purling voice is saying (Sadder and sweeter than my song can tell),
"Farewell, sweet summer,
Warm and dreamy summer,
Sweet, farewell!"

The fitful breeze sweeps down the winding lane
With gold and crimson leaves before it flying;
Its gusty laughter has no sound of pain,
But in the lulls it sinks to gentle sighing,
And mourns the summer's early broken spell—
"Farewell, sweet summer,
Rosy, blooming summer,
Sweet, farewell!"

So bird and bee and brook and breeze make moan,
With melancholy song their loss complaining;
I, too, must join them as I walk alone
Amid the sights and sounds of summer's waning.
I, too, have loved the season passing well—
So, farewell, summer,
Fair, but faded summer,
Sweet, farewell.

—George Arnold.

More Benefice

Give me to die unwitting of the day,
And stricken in life's brave heat, with senses clear;
Not swathed and couched until the lines appear
Of death's wan mask upon this withering clay.
But as that old man eloquent made way
From earth, a nation's conclave hushed anear;
Or as the chief whose fates that he may hear
The victory, one glorious moment stay.
Or, if not thus, then with no cry in vain,
No ministrant beside to ward and weep,
Hand upon helm I would my quittance gain
In some wild turmoil of the waters deep,
And sink content into a dreamless sleep

—Edmund Clarence Stedman.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Would-be-Humorist—What would you give me for those jokes.

Editor—Ten yards start. — Washington Star.

One Elderly Woman—They're rivals in dress, those two girls.

Another ditto—Yes, each tries to outstrip the other.—Answers, London.

The doctor said I should take whisky and quinine.

Well?

I don't know where to get the quinine.—Montreal Family Herald.

"No," said the lady of the house sharply, "I don't want a thing."

"Tell that to your old man," retorted the surly peddler; "it will make a bigger hit with him than it does with me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Her Brother—Well, you needn't, for I've been borrowing more from him for the last nine months, and he hasn't stopped his visits.—Answers, London.

Officer—So you are going to New Zealand? That's one of those countries where they have day when we have night and night when we have day.

Mrs. Newbride—Yes, I suppose I shall find it strange at first.—Punch.

Hello, Perkins, where did you get that black eye?

It was only a sweethearts' quarrel.

Sweethearts' quarrel! Why, your girl didn't give you that, did she?

No, it was her other sweetheart.—Pathfinder.

The policeman entered the street-front restaurant and with great dignity announced to the man at the table next to ours: Your car awaits without.

"Without lights," said the cop. "Here's your ticket."—Outlook.

A cat which is at home in the residence of Louis Marshall, Manhattan, saved itself from starvation by sounding a burglar alarm in a neighbor's house where it had gone visiting. Operatives answering the alarms with drawn revolvers found the house boarded up, the family being out of town. They made an entrance, saw no burglars, but did hear a plaintive feeble meowing that led them to the culprit. As soon as the outer door was opened, the cat made a hurried dash to the Marshall house for something to eat.

"People with relatively small bodies are not necessarily more intelligent than people with large bodies," says Dr. William H. Sheldon, of the University of Chicago. Dr. Sheldon has measured 150 men of the entering class of the university. When he compared his records of the body types of the students with their ratings in intelligence tests and their college grades, he found that the relationship of body proportions to mentality was a less trustworthy criterion, than a personal estimate of the student's brains based on ten minutes acquaintance.

GREENEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. James Kirker and daughter have returned to their home on Pulaslus avenue, after spending the week-end as guests of Mrs. Kirker's mother, Mrs. William Jennings, of Willimantic.

John McKinley moved his family to Providence Monday. He had been a resident of Greeneville for the last 20 years. His promotion to general master mechanic of the United States Finishing Co., is the reason for his departure from Greeneville. His many friends wish him luck and prosperity in his new field of endeavor.

Monday evening about 30 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whitmarsh surprised them at their home at 85 Fifth street in observance of their fifth wedding anniversary. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Marion Howarth and Agnes Shahan in a very pleasing manner. Victrola selections furnished the music for dancing. A buffet lunch was served by the hostess. Among the guests were a number of state police officers from the Groton barracks, of which Mr. Whitmarsh is a member; also people from Jewett City, New London and Willimantic.

As throughout the world in union with the Catholic churches, Mission Sunday was observed at St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday with large congregations attending the three masses for the day and many communicants went to the altar railing to receive the sacraments. At each mass the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe, explained the needs and wants of the home and foreign missions and literature and membership cards were distributed treating on the work. The Diocesan Branch of the Propagation of the Faith, under which division of church missions come, is located at Hartford with Rev. Francis P. Keough as the director.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Smith avenue, Mr. and Mrs. William Evans of Prospect street, have returned to their homes, after spending Sunday with their friends in North Dyton, Mass.

Andrew Bellefleur of Prospect street spent Monday in New Haven.

Napoleon Fournier of Fourth street spent the week-end visiting relatives in Fitchville.

The Greeneville Rosedales opened their football season Sunday afternoon at the Greeneville playgrounds, defeating the West Ends of the city by the score of 20 to 18. Horace Woolley proved to be the shining star for the Greeneville team, receiving two forward passes and was successful in making two touchdowns for his team. Capt. Walter Navick, of the Greeneville team, also scored a touchdown and was the means of making a safety for his team. The Rosedales challenge any team averaging 125 to 130 pounds. Answer through this paper or write Manager John Quinn, Sixth street, Greeneville.

Erick Erickson has returned to his home on North Main street after spending a few days with relatives in New Haven, making the trip by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leuny of Boswell avenue have returned after spending the week-end visiting relatives in New Bedford.

At St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday evening the Benediction O'Salutaris, Tantum Ergo and The Divine Praises were sung by the boys' choir of 30 voices, all singing as one voice. As a recessional they sang The Divine Praises. These boys, who have been very faithful to rehearsals under the direction of Mrs. M. J. Farrell, will sing every Sunday evening at Benediction, which will be at 7:30. Much favorable comment was heard on their fine work, which in time will prove a valuable adjunct to parish work. Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor, was in charge of the meeting Sunday evening.

They Called Her Scrawny But Not For Long

Is your face drawn and pinched! Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth?

All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so often suffered by women.

So if you need a few pounds of flesh to round out the hollows, if you want to get back oldtime energy and health, get a box of McCoy's Tablets today. Just a short treatment will make you look and feel like a new person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood's or any drug store in America.

FORECLOSURE GRANTED FOR $1,312 ON FARM PROPERTY IN LEDYARD

In the motion list session of the common pleas court at New London Monday morning, Judge C. B. Waller granted foreclosure judgment on farm property in Ledyard for $1,312.90 in favor of Irving W. Foote of Preston against Nathan Prushik of Brooklyn and the Jewish Agricultural Aid society of New York. The plaintiff held a mortgage of $1,100 with $212.90 due in interest, while the Jewish Agricultural Aid society held a second mortgage. The property in Ledyard was valued at between $1,400 and $1,500. The law day was set as the first Monday in December.

Foreclosure in Colchester

Default, termination of continuance and judgment of foreclosure in the amount of $1,133 was entered in favor of Anna Horowitz against Rose Kalmanowitz and Louise and Robert Y. Menzie. Attorney Max Boyer was appointed a committee of sale, while Attorneys J. James Floyd, Henry L. McGuire and Jacob Sherb were appointed appraisers of the property in Colchester. Dec. 7 was set as the law day and publication of such sale was ordered to appear twice.

Judgment for Legal Services

Attorneys Max Boyer and Arthur T. Keefe were given judgment against Maria T. Molinaro following a default of Oct. 10, 1927. The judgment was for $630.88 for legal services rendered and for disbursements and expenses.

Judgment by default was entered in the case of Martha Cohen against Jacob Kalmanowitz and others.

Judgment was entered for Jacob Schleifer against Carmicco Demicco and others.

The Fort Wayne Electric & Mfg. Co. was given judgment on a sworn bill of particulars against Benjamin L. Jones.

Judgment for failure to plead was entered in favor of Samuel Rotnitzky and others against John K. Foran and others. Later on in the session the default was reopened and the defendant given time to file pleadings.

Judgment by default and according to a sworn bill of particulars in the amount of $132.30 was entered in favor of P. Adel Co. against C. Campagna & Co., both of New London.

Judgment for costs in favor of the plaintiff was granted in the case of H. Ghesky against D. Dame.

In the cases of The Fisk Tire Co. against William J. Andrews and the Wetmore-Savage Co. against Myrtle R. Andrews, it was stipulated that the defendants should pay the amounts due by November 1 or judgment would automatically be entere agadinst them.

Judge Waller took the papers and reserved decision in the motion to strike out, made by Attorney Morris Lubchansky, counsel for the defendant in the case of William Papham against the Star garage.

Judgment by default and according to a sworn bill of particulars in the amount of $201.84 was entered for Abraham I. Meyer against Nicholas Frakas, and others.

Default for failure to plead and judgment on a sworn bill of particulars in the amount of $198.33 were entered in favor of The New London Fruit and Produce Co. against Nicholas Fracas and others.

Judgment for $148 in favor of the plaintiff, the Hire and Drive It, Inc., against Elmer Putt was entered by default of Oct. 10, 1927.

The application of executrix to be made a party was granted in the case of Ernest A. Bliven against Kendall Saunders.

BIRTHDAY AND WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES CELEBRATED

Last Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moumblow, of 157 Hickory street, celebrated the first birthday of their daughter, Mary, and the 20th wedding anniversary of their sister, Mrs. John W. Brown. The spirit of Halloween was carried out in the decorations and in the favors given to the children. Later in the evening refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, cakes, cookies, ice cream, candy, fruit, coffee and soda, were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Rose Moumblow, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Frederick Freeman, and the Misses Doris and Ruth Brown.

Those present were Mrs. John Brown, Doris, Ruth and Ethel Brown, J. William Brown, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bobsein, Mr. and Mrs. John Moumblow, Goldie Moumblow, Mrs. Rose Moumblow, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Calkins, John McCarthy, Dan McCarthy, George Pratt, Helen and Fredie Sofranoska, Mr. and Mrs. Octave Morrell, Mr. and Mrs. E. Moumblow and Mary and Billie Moumblow.

20 MILLION CHRISTMAS SEALS ARE DISTRIBUTED

Nearly 20 million Christmas seals, weighing about three tons, have just been shipped out from the offices of the state tuberculosis commission at Hartford to some 70 local associations which conduct the seal sale in the various cities and towns of the state, according to an announcement made by Dr. Stephen J. Maher, chairman of the commission. In commenting upon the matter, Dr. Maher said that this has been the largest amount ever distributed by the commission at any one time, and has necessitated an emergency call upon national headquarters for an additional million seals in order to supply the needs of the repainting agencies. Organization plans in Connecticut have been practically completed and include the appointment by the commission of four new local agencies, covering the towns of East Hampton, Middlebury, Durham and Cromwell.

BRINGS SUIT ON CLAIM FOR $1,500 COMMISSION

On the claim that a commission of $1,500 is due him for finding a customer for the property at 86-108 Franklin street, this city, at the price of $50,000, Angelo Covello has brought suit against Philip J. Hendel of New London, Louis Alexander of Hartford and Morris Silverstein of Westerly.

The plaintiff alleges that on Sept. 28, 1927, the defendant engaged him to procure a customer at the price named, agreeing to pay three per cent commission. Two days later Covello alleges that he procured Nicholas Mooney, who was ready, willing and able to purchase the property for $50,000, but upon demanding the commission the defendant refused to pay it.

The suit is returnable in the superior court in November.

W. TYLER OLCOTT SECRETARY OF STAR OBSERVERS

W. Tyler Olcott of this city was one of the speakers at the annual dinner Saturday night held in connection with the annual meeting of the American Association of Variable Star Observers which was held Saturday afternoon at Harvard college observatory.

The association elected for its officers, D. B. Pickering of East Orange, N. J., as president, Miss Alice E. Farnsworth of Mt. Holyoke college as vice president, Mr. Olcott as secretary and M. J. Jordan of Boston as treasurer.

WAS FINED $200 WITH HALF FINE REMITTED

Samuel Bitgood, 69, of Voluntown, was fined $200 and costs in the city court Monday morning when he was found guilty of driving a machine while under the influence of liquor. Judge Libby remitted $100 of the fine. Mr. Bitgood claimed that he hadn't had much to drink and knew what he was doing. He was arrested at Baltic Saturday night after the Chevrolet sedan he was driving was in a collision with a Ford sedan operated by John Moran of Baltic.

SEVEN APARTMENT NEST BUILT BY NORWICH BIRD

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, something new in the nest building has been produced by a Norwich bird, a male phoebe which constructed a nest with seven compartments during the past summer.

The lonely age, the apartment house era, has reached out to make an impression even in the kingdom of the air.

An enterprising bird has been found at Norwich, Conn., a bachelor Phoebe who has adopted modern methods. Instead of moping hopelessly at a lonely nest, the homeless but home-loving bird built a seven-nest apartment structure along the stringer of a work shed. No Phoebes came to occupy his neat apartment, but when the nesting season ended he flew away doubtless happier that if he had let mere hopeful dreams consume his idleness.

When the nesting season was definitely over, Paul Kaufman of Norwich carefully removed the Phoebe's apartment and sent it to the American Nature association, where investigation showed that nothing like it had ever been reported. It was a unit of construction, 27 inches long, the seven apartments being perfectly interwoven with the same simple materials.

Paul Kaufman, who found the nest, is the son of the late Rev. Matthias Kaufman, formerly pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in this city. Mr. Kaufman is now a resident of Washington, but was in Norwich early in September having come here while he was staying at the Crescent Beach cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Orman E. Rather, his wife's parents.

FORECLOSURE IS SOUGHT ON MONTVILLE FARMS

Foreclosure of a $2,600 mortgage, dated April 11, 1923, is sought by Evcrett and Florence C. Chapman of Montville in a suit brought in the superior court against James and Corinna Brennan, husband and wife of Montville.

The property covered by the mortgage is two tracts of farm land in Montville, one of about 41 acres and the other of about 33 acres. It is claimed that in addition to the mortgage there is due $40 for unpaid insurance, together with interest from April 11, 1927. The suit is returnable in November.

BOY ON BICYCLE WAS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

While riding a bicycle Sunday afternoon about 3.30 on West Town street near the Adams tavern garage, Edward Gallagher, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of 190 Sturtevant street, was struck by an automobile driven by August L. Miller, 18, of R. F. D. No. 2 the machine being owned by Katherine Miller. The boy was attended by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve and was taken to the Backus hospital, where the report was made that his injuries consisted of cuts and lacerations about the head which are not serious.

JUDGE NICKERSON AT 70 RETIRES FROM THE BENCH

Judge Leonard J. Nickerson of the superior court, a resident of Cornwall, is 70 years old and by virtue of his age is automatically retired from the bench. He is succeeded by Carl Foster of Bridgeport, who was elevated to the superior court bench by Governor Trumbull.

Judge Nickerson was appointed to the superior court bench by former Governor Templeton in 1923 after service as speaker of the house. He had long been a judge of probate in Cornwall, a fact which recommended him to many lawyers who had will cases to try before the superior court.

Judge Nickerson was recently one of the three judges who presided over the trial of Anthony Biliadelia in Litchfield county for the murder of a girl, the trial resulting in a life sentence for the youth.

The judge who is one of the most genial members of the Bald Headed club, was regarded by lawyers as one of the most forceful and interesting personalities on the bench. In the short time he presided over the superior court in Hartford he did much to eliminate delays in trial and to move the docket along rapidly. When lawyers put cases down for a hearing and asked for a postponement without giving due notice to the clerk, he was inclined to take them sharply to task.

In the domestic matters that came to his attention he appeared to lend a kindly ear, but when there was a contest between a husband and a wife, and the evidence showed that one or the other party had not lived up to his or her marital vows, he acted decisively in disposing of the case.

He once took a young woman to task for running up large bills on her husband and then leaving him, and granted her only a small portion of what she asked for alimony.

What his plans for the future are, have not been disclosed. He is very happy on the farm from which Hartford lawyers have frequently returned to chant the praises of his hospitality. He regards himself in good health, with the prospect of many years of service yet. And he still tells a good joke and drives his own car.

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING OF COUNTY CONGREGATIONALISTS

The New London Association of Congregational churches and ministers will hold its semi-annual meeting at the Second Congregational church in New London today (Tuesday) with probably 100 delegates in attendance. Rev. C. H. Ricketts of this city, moderator will preside and the Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of Norwich Town will assist as clerk. Luncheon will be served by the church women in the chapel at noon.

3:45—Adjournment.

Enlistments in the Navy

Two first enlistments for the navy received from Norwich last week were Nathan G. Ayer, 47 Bentley avenue and Albert Stenfield, Main street. They were sent to Newport station for eight weeks military training, from which, if found qualified they will be sent to Hampton roads for a course of instruction in electricity.

TAFTVILLE

When Master Lester W. Benson celebrated his sixth birthday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Benson of Occum his little friends present were Ruth Hassler, Eva Oliver, Marceline Oliver, Irene Creary, Linny Belle Perkins, Bert Brouillard, Isabel Sullivan, Charles Perkins, Lewis Caisse, John Clapp and Wallace Benson. Refreshments of chicken sandwiches, cake, cookies candy and fruit punch were served by Mrs. Benson, assisted by Mrs. Aaron Benson, Mrs. Ovila Preavey, Miss Gertrude Filliger and Miss Josephine Chrzan.

Ladies Auxiliary, No. 28, Ancient Order of Hibernians held the first of their series of whists Friday evening in their rooms on Merchants avenue, and the affair proved a decided success. The prizes were donated by the members and the first ladies prize went to Miss Amanda Senecal, the second to Mrs. Peter McKelvey and the consolation to Mrs. William Bolan. "Lefty" Dugas was awarded the first prize for gentlemen; the second going to Bernard Hasler and the consolation to Harold Corcoran. Delicious refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. William J. Malone, Mrs. Tenas Breault, Mrs. Thomas Phelan, Mrs. William Nolan and Mrs. Joseph Waldon.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thoma of Blissville have had as recent guests Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenvick and family of Providence.

John Millette of New Bedford, formerly of Taftville has been a week-end visitor at the home of friends in town.

The committee in charge of the Rally day concert to be given October 30th at the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church, includes Mrs. Frederick H. Topliff, Mrs. Henry Banker, Miss Lillian Hargreaves, Mrs. Louis Erlbeck, Miss Alma Boutilier, Miss Isadore Barton, Miss Mildred Phillips and Miss Gladys Carlson.

Mrs. Walter C. Drew of Blissville has been visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Golkowske and family of New Haven.

Invitations have been issued by Hugh H. Osgood Lodge, L. O. O. F. M. U., for a social and dance to be given for the members at Ponemah hall on November 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Crowell of Edgewood, R. I., have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood and family of North Third avenue.

NORWICH TOWN

REV. CHAS. H. PATTON AND PHILIP A. JOHNSON SPEAKERS

At the First Congregational church service Sunday morning, Rev. Cornelius H. Patton, D. D., of Boston gave an illuminating address on "Christ, the Hope of the World." Dr. Patton said: Christ is without question, the political hope of China, the spiritual hope of India and the economical hope of Africa.

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening, Miss Mabel Corrigeux was leader, with the topic, "The Young People in Community Betterment." Philip A. Johnson was the speaker of the evening. In the course of his interesting and instructive address, Mr. Johnson said that most good things begin in a small way on ground near home and develop into more complex and widely scattered fields of operation.

"Community betterment begins in one's own yard and with one's own self, and enlarges its scope to community proportions," he declared. Keeping our own homes and grounds neat, makes a community neat and attractive. He referred to several of the organizations in Norwich, whose aims were to make a better town in which to live. His main stress was on the object and work of the Norwich Rural association, of which he is the secretary and treasurer, showing how the young people may co-operate with this organization in getting a new vote at the polls, making the green more attractive and furthering the efforts of the school board in giving the best possible education to the youth of Norwich. Mr. Johnson's address was followed by brief talks by Leonard Hough and the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey.

A company of young women from Sacred Heart parish, Norwich Town, furnished a program of pleasing music at Backus hospital, during the musical hour Sunday afternoon, under the direction of the visiting committee of that church.

How Are Your Children?

MAKE THEM WELL AND KEEP THEM WELL WITH

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

UNLESS your children are healthy they will not be happy. For healthy, happy, handsome children give them Father John's Medicine to build new strength and give bright eyes and rosy cheeks.

Father John's Medicine is a tonic food medicine perfectly blended, pleasant to take and easy to digest. Children grow to love it.

Mrs. Henry Desautel, 193 Fisher Pl. N. Attleboro, Mass., writes, "The slogan of our family is, 'take Father John's Medicine and stay healthy'. We have used it successfully for many years. We find that our children put on weight and get more rugged each day while they are taking Father John's Medicine."

The safe medicine for children — no alcohol or harmful drugs — seventy years of success.

CREOMULSION

FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Is There Some One in Your Family —with a Stubborn Cold?

If they have a cough or cold that hangs on and on and on, they are in constant danger, in danger from a fatal sickness. Flu and pneumonia and their like frequently follow neglected colds. If a cold is permitted to persist, it can lead and often does lead into dangerous complications.

Don't let them trifle with colds. Suggest fresh air, lots of sleep, a simple diet, clean intestines and—Creomulsion. Colds are infectious. They endanger all of the family. If there's a stubborn cough or cold in your family, go and get Creomulsion.

Creomulsion, taken before it is too late, will help you to avoid dangerous diseases; it will help you to avoid the expense and loss of time when sick in bed. When you follow directions, we guarantee relief for stubborn coughs or colds, or we'll refund your money.

ADMIRAL MAGRUDER LOSES COMMANDANT ASSIGNMENT

Author of Magazine Article on "The Navy and Ecomony" Has Been Detached From Duty in the Fourth Naval District—Has Been Ordered to Report at Washington on or About November 5—Order Came as a Shock to the Admiral, Who is to Insist Upon a Thorough Investigation of the "Whole Affair".

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25—(AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, whose recent magazine articles on "The Navy and Economy," caused a stir in naval circles, has been detached from duty as commandant of the Fourth Naval district.

A telegram notifying him that he had been detached from duty and ordering him to report to the secretary of the navy at Washington on or about November 5, was received by Admiral Magruder tonight from secretary of the Navy Wilbur. The message read:

"Upon the reporting of your relief on or about November 5, you are detached from duty as commandant of the Fourth Naval district and from such other duty as may have been assigned to you, and you will proceed to Washington and report to the secretary of the navy."

Admiral Magruder said the order came as a "distinct shock," to him. Although he had been aware that his magazine article had not met with the approval of some naval officials, he stated that he had hoped the matter would be straightened out. The admiral said that he would insist on a "thorough," investigation of the "whole affair."

"I have been here for 15 months," said Admiral Magruder, "and had hoped to stay here for the full tour of duty. I don't know why I have been detached and shall insist on a thorough investigation."

In the article the admiral pointed out a number of things which in his opinion would effect economies in the navy. He said there were too many officers on duty in Washington and with the fleets and that too much money was being spent on the maintenance of navy yards and naval stations.

Admiral Magruder said tonight that he had tried for years to effect economies in the navy department and cited his testimony before a special commission in Washington several years ago.

"In fact," added the admiral, "most of the material I used in the magazine article was brought up in one form or the other but no favorable action was taken. I had hoped that my article would be of some good to the navy—that was my purpose in writing it. I made no effort to hang out the navy's dirty laundry. The taxpayers have been generous to the navy and congress has been generous too, but I fear we have taken advantage of them.

Following publication of the article Admiral Magruder was ordered by the navy department to submit a plan for "reorganization." He was asked to forward this plan "immediately" to Washington and subsequently received a wire from the navy department asking why it had not been sent.

The admiral said his article had been misconstrued in Washington, that he had not advocated "reorganization" of the service and that any suggestions he might wish to make would require time to elaborate and send to Washington in official form.

These communications were exchanged several weeks ago, a few days after the article was published. Last Saturday Admiral Magruder forwarded to the navy department his views on a number of contentions in the article which he had been asked to clear up. At that time the admiral asserted that his views had "not changed in any way," and that he had merely restated them more fully.

"I never have suggested that the navy be reorganized," Admiral Magruder said. "I merely set forth what I believed to be needed reforms in the service and nothing has occurred to shake my belief in the justice of my course."

Admiral Magruder has been in active naval service for 36 years. He was second in command of American naval forces in European waters during the World war, receiving the Distinguished Service Medal for his services.

REPARATIONS MEMORANDUM DEALS WITH GERMAN BUDGET

BERLIN, Oct. 25—(AP)—A memorandum from S Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, now in the hands of the German finance minister, Dr H. Koehler, has given rise to much discussion. It deals with the German budget and the payment of reparations.

According to parliamentary advices Mr. Gilbert's memorandum dates back to his report of June 10, dealing in detail with the system of public finance followed by the federal government, the individual states and communities. This report brought about repeated discussions between Dr. Koehler and the reparation agent, which were promptly resumed on Mr. Gilbert's return from the United States recently, and in the course of which at the German minister's request it was agreed that Mr. Gilbert should embody his views in a memorandum.

Parliamentary circles declare that this genesis of the memorandum shows how unwarranted are the reproaches in the German press that the reparation agent had interfered in the country's domestic affairs. The German government, as well as the reparation agent, deplores indiscretions regarding the memorandum leading to the wildest conjectures, especially as it is believed that the memorandum's history is sufficient evidence of the practical cooperation between the German minister of finance and Mr. Gilbert.

PETLURA MURDER CASE MAY REACH VERDICT

PARIS, Oct. 25—(AP)—The trial of Samuel Schwartzbard, Hebrew clockmaker, for the murder of General Simon Petlura, may reach a verdict tomorrow evening.

The sensational case which was expected to continue for at least another fortnight was cut short this evening by the decision of Henri Torres of defense counsel, concurred in by Cesar Campinchi, attorney for the Petlura family, to forego the testimony of additional witnesses.

After another day of orations and heated squabbles over technicalities the picturesque defense counsel arose suddenly and faced Chief Justice Flory. "For seven days," he boomed in a sonorous voice, "witnesses for the prosecution have been heard. By an extraordinary accident those who appeared in the last two days have been extremely favorable to the defense. I had cited 42 witnesses among whom were 15 soldiers who could testify as to Schwartzbard's bravery at the French front during the World war.

"Well, I will give up these witnesses. I believe the jury has already made up its mind. I am ready for summation."

Four witnesses had testified earlier in the day that Petlura could have checked Jewish pogroms in the Ukraine for which Schwartzbard claims to have been an avenger of his race. These witnesses declared that Petlura deliberately tolerated massacres of the Jews.

SIXTY DAY RESPITE FOR CHICAGO MURDERESS

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, the portly middle-aged woman who would rather die on the gallows than go to prison for murder, today had her wish deferred, at least for 60 days.

The woman, who, if she is hanged will be the first to be executed in Illinois, was given a 60 day stay of execution to enable her attorneys to carry an appeal to the supreme court. She was to have been hanged Friday morning.

Mrs. Cassler was to have hanged last Friday but was given a week's respite to allow the return to Chicago of Judge Philip L. Sullivan, the trial judge, who today granted the new stay.

Mrs. Cassler was convicted of murdering William Lindstrom, a cabinet maker, whose body was found last September in her home.

STATISTICS SHOWING COST OF EDUCATION

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 25—(AP)—Uncle Sam is spending an average of $100 for the education of each of about 27,500,000 children in the public schools of the United States. That takes in excess of $2,000,000,000 annually out of their uncle's jeans.

These figures were presented to the National League of Compulsory Education officials today by Dr. Frank M. Phillips, chief of the division of statistics of the United States bureau of education today.

Dr. Phillips pointed out that while two years ago there were some 3,000,000 children between the ages of 5 and 17 years, who were not attending school, that today the number of delinquents had been reduced to around 2,500,000.

There are about 30,000,000 children of public school age in the United States, Dr. Phillips said, and of that number 25,000,000 attended public schools, while 2,500,000 attend private schools. In the public school class 4,000,000 of the students attend high schools.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—With Massachusetts among the seven states showing the largest percentage of increase, the number of motorvehicles registered in the United States during the first six months of this year totaled 20,591,330, an increase of 1,374,578 or 7 per cent over the number for the same period of last year.

Total revenue from all registrations and licenses was fixed by the bureau of public roads at $372,119,534, of which $188,525,679 was allocated for state highways; $47,936,641 for local roads and $21,795,330 for road bonds.

The registrations and percentage of increase as announced for the New England states were as follows:

Massachusetts, 697,404 and 11.1; Connecticut, 262,035, and 9.5; Maine, 141,605 and 10.2; New Hampshire, 86,618 and 9.7; Rhode Island, 103,533 and 7.1; Vermont, 69,058 and 9.8.

MISS MORSE ACQUITTED OF CONSPIRACY TO MURDER

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Miss Bessie Morse, orty-year-old spinster, and Mamie Todd, her Mulatto maid, were acquitted today of conspiracy to murder three members of conspiracy to murder three members of the Morse family in an effort to obtain the $100,000 estate of Miss Morse's father. Three women were on the jury rendering the verdict.

The acquittal came after the jury had deliberated two hours and fifty minutes. In charging the jury the court had pointed out that, under the law, conspiracy involves an agreement between two or more persons and that neither of the defendants would be convinced unless the jury found that proof had been offered against both.

Miss Morse, on the witness stand in her own defense for 15 minutes this morning, entered a categorical denial of all charges made against her by the Tood woman, who had turned state's evidence.

NEW ENGINE FAILS TO ARRIVE FOR PLANE DAWN

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The non-arrival of a new Wright motor for the Dawn, amphibian plane in which Mrs. Frances Grayson hopes to fly to Europe, remained unexplained tonight, 12 hours after the time it had been expected. Despite the fact that it was understood the engine had been shipped last night and would arrive this morning, Mrs. Grayson refused to discuss the situation in any way.

APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE AS LINER SINKS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 25—AP—The Principessa Mafalda, luxurious Italian liner en route from Genoa to this port and Buenos Aires, foundered and sank tonight about 40 miles off the port of Bahia, Brazil, presumably with a large loss of life. The liner carried 1,600 passengers, many of them emigrants to Argentina, and while hundreds were rescued by the heroic efforts of the crews of four ships which answered the Mafalda's frantic wireless calls for aid, it is believed many of the steerage passengers went down with the ship. It is known that 720 passengers were saved by the French ship Formosa.

HYDROPLANES SEARCHING FOR COUNT DE LESSEPS

QUEBEC, Oct. 25—(AP)—Seven hydroplanes, flying low, swept over the Gulf of St. Lawrence today in a search for Colonel de Lesseps, veteran flier, and his Russian mechanic, Chinchinoff, missing since they took off from Gaspe on a survey flight last Tuesday.

Part of the hydroplane the count was flying was found washed upon the shore of the St. Lawrence river last Friday. The wings of the plane were found some distance away.

Although little hope was held for the finding of the men, flying companions postponed their ordinary work and hopped off, determined to leave nothing undone in their effort to find them.

A systematic search was planned, the aviators flying low between Fame point and Rimouski on the south shore and Cardout pointand Bersimis on the north shore, were co-operating with fishermen and forest rangers working near the shores on foot.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IN CHINESE MURDER CASE

HARTFORD, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The issuance of a writ of habeas corpus to take Sam Ong Jing, state's material witness in a Chinese murder case, out of the custody of the state, was opposed by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in a brief filed in the United States district court at New Haven today, claiming that the motive for his release is inimical to his safety and his return in the event a new trial is ordered in the cases of Chin Lung and Soo Hoo Wing, who are condemned to die on November 1 for a long war murder.

Mr. Alcorn urged that Sam is the only eye-witntess to the crime in which his cousin, Ong Ging Hem, was killed in a Manchester laundry, March 24. For that reason, he contended, it is imperative that the state be assured of his custody and safety pending the outcome of the appeals of the condemned men to the supreme court.

BRIDE CHARGES 65-YEAR OLD HUSBAND WITH BIGAMY

The woman, Mrs. Angele Aagon Rock, 54, declared that a few days after their marriage in August she learned that her husband, Adelard Rock, had married Delia Des Jardius, of Woonsocket, R. I., in that city in 1924 and she was still alive. Rock, she said, had told her his first wife died in 1907. He was held in $5,000 bail for a hearing.

SHERIFFS HANDLING COLORADO COAL STRIKE

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Approval of the policy of peace officers in arresting pickets in Colorado's strike affected coal mining region nad an expression that the situation appeared under control was made by Governor Adams tonight after a personal survey of the strike territory.

Although conditions "looked bad," the chief executive said he was satisfied that sheriffs were able to handle the situation in their counties The governor gave no hint of possible action by the state in the strike.

NEW HAVEN BOYS HELD FOR THEFT OF A CAR

DARIEN, Sonn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Joseph Franco, 17, of 125 Columbus avenue, New Haven, and Charles Batick, 18, of 43 Hill street, New Haven, were arrested here today after a chase and exchange of revolver shots with Officer Amos Anderson on the Post road.

Franco and Batick were being held this noon for New Haven police charged with the theft of a car belonging to Jacob Berkowitz, of 300 Howard avenue, New Haven.

COOLIDGE IS TO MAKE FOUNDERS' DAY ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—President Coolidge will go to Philadelphia, Nov. 17, to make an address at Founders' day of the Union league. He was invited by and will be the guest of former Governor Sproul, who is president of the league.

Seizure of 750 Pounds of Opium

By Federal Narcotic Agents Who Had Posed as Purchasers.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 25—(AP)—Federal narcotic agents who had posed as prospective purchasers seized 750 pounds of opium in Isle La Motte early today and arrested Oscar Mouvet, proprietor of the Hotel Madeleine, Paris, France, and father of the late Maurice, the dancer. With him was arrested John Wilson of Colebrook, N. H., a chauffeur, who had driven across the border from Canada the automobile containing the opium. They will be arraigned here tomorrow.

The agents told of months of work on the case with the trail leading to Canada, France and Persia. Mouvet, showing great agitation, told of losing his fortune for the second time—the first was during the World war.

The story begins in Paris. To Mouvet's hotel, so his account runs, came one day a wealthy Canadian whose name is withheld by the authorities. This man had a scheme for making huge profits by buying opium in Persia, shipping it to Canada and smuggling it into the United States.

Mouvet listened eagerly. Since the end of the war he had been slowly retrieving the money he lost then. He put 375,000 francs into the venture, on the assurance that two Canadians were each contributing an equal sum. The captain of a French cargo steamer agreed to buy the opium in Persia and bring it across the Atlantic.

Mouvet came over and waited. In due time the steamer approached the Canadian coast. Fifty miles out the packages of opium were dropped overboard, picked up by a fishing vessel and taken to a little island in the mouth of the St. Lawrence. They were sent to Montreal later at a transportation cost, Mouvet said, of $10,000 and hidden in a garage.

Mouvet went to New York to find purchasers. He found them but he did not know that they were Cole Manning and other federal narcotic agents. Manning and his assistant, Salvadore Piesetti, agreed to buy the 750 pounds of opium, which Mouvet says was what is known as "Turkey red," the finest grade, for $50 a pound. It was agreed that it should be a cash transaction.

Last night the agents went to Isle La Motte and early this morning Mouvet and Wilson brought the opium across the border. No sooner were they on this side of the line than they were arrested.

The seizure was one of the largest of its kind ever made in this country. The agents said that the opium if sold in New York would easily have brought $250,000. They will ask heavy bonds for the two men tomorrow.

STATE ILLITERACY REPORT BY JOHN T. WADSWORTH

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 25—(AP)—A survey just completed by educational authorities, indicates there are 40,000 adults in Bridgeport who cannot read and write English and more than 50,000 who are not citizens, according to an illiteracy report made to Superintendent of Schools Carroll R. Read today by John T. Wadsworth, in charge of adult and supplementary education.

The scope of the survey included the parents of school children from grades four and eight inclusive and it was found that 29 per cent of all parents are illiterate and 34.5 per cent of all parents are not citizens of the United States, Mr. Wadsworth reported.

HAREM ON WHEELS TO ACCOMMODATE 24 WIVES

The ambulatory seraglio consists of two large and luxurious motor cars, each big enough for a dozen of the king's partners in matrimony. The automobiles were ordered so the king can take some of his spouses along on his frequent long trips through desert sections of his kingdom.

As other men are not allowed to gaze on the king's wives the cars have no windows, and light and air are admitted through the tops.

CHICAGO MAYOR PROMISES NOT TO DESTROY BOOKS

CHICAGO, Act. 25.—(AP)—Chicagoans today were enabled to take eyes and minds off the city's eastern rim and devote them to other purposes for at least a week without fear they might miss seeing a great fire of Public library books a warning to King George of England to "keep his snoot out" of affairs of the ntaion's second city.

The reassurance was lent when Mayor William Hale Thompson promised that no books would be destroyed until the legality of the step had been established.

Bishop Lines of P. E. Church, Newark, Dead

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25—(AP)—Bishop Edwin S. Lines, of the Newark Episcopal diocese, died today at his home on Berkeley avenue at the age of 82 years.

He had suffered for some time from heart attacks and had been confined to his home for several weeks.

He then obtained employment in a rubber shop, making shoes, and saved enough from his slender salary to attend Episcopal academy, at Cheshire, Conn., a preparatory school, and Yale university.

While in Yale university he was editor of the Yale Courant and class orator. He began his theological studies in Yale Theological seminary and completed them at the Berkeley Divinity school at Middletown, Conn.

Bishop Lines urged that it was the work of the church to improve conditions surrounding Roman life and preached a religion of "joy and gladness and hope," for the "under privileged class."

He advocated simplicity in living, in dress and in recreation and was not disturbed by disputes over heresy and modernism.

He was ordained a deacon in 1874, and entered the priesthood the same year. His first charge was Christ church, West Haven, Conn.

In 1879 St. Paul's church in New Haven, which had at one time been one of the most flourishing churches in the city, called him. He served there until 1903, when he was elected bishop of the Newark diocese.

While in New Haven, he served as president of the free public library, member of the mayor's cabinet, and president of the New Haven Colony Historical association.

He is survived by his widow and two children. Funeral services will be held from Trinity cathedral at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

WAS BROTHER OF THE LATE H. WALES LINES

MERIDEN, Oct. 25—(AP)—Bishop Lines, who died in Newark today, was a brother of the late H. Wales Lines, former mayor of Meriden and head of the H. Wales Lines company, who died last January.

LEVINE QUARRELS WITH CHAMBERLAIN'S ATTORNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP)—A quarrel broke out today between Charles A. Levine and former Senator Charles E. Lockwood, attorney for Clarence Chamberlin, over settlement of the latter's claim that Levine promised him $25,000 for their trans-Atlantic flight last June.

The claim is based on an oral agreement, Lockwood explained, because Levine before the flight had said he had no time to bother with money matters. While both were in Europe and since Levine returned, the lawyer said, Chamberlin had tried without success to collect the money he had been promised.

Levine denied today that he owed his former pilot anything.

"I don't owe Chamberlin a cent," he declared. "He has been paid all he is entitled to."

He would not say whether Chamberlin owed him any money, nor would he deny that he had promised the pilot the $25,000 claimed. He said, however, that relations between him and Chamberlin continued to be "most friendly" and that he expected to confer with the flier and Lockwood within a few days.

Chamberlin's wife recevied a check for $15,000 from the Brooklyn chamber of commerce, sponsors of the flight, although the organization had agreed to pay but one third of that amount, Lockwood said.

STOLEN SECURITIES HAVE BEEN RESTORED

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED IN RUMANIA; PLOT TO PLACE PRINCE CAROL ON THRONE.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Oct. 26—(AP)—Roumania was seething with political excitement tonight following the uncovering today of a plot to restore the former Crown Prince Carol to the throne. Martial law has been declared and the government and opposition parties are lining up for what promises to be a bitter contest for supremacy.

Just as the festivities in celebration of the sixth birthday of King Michael were getting under way M. Manoilescu, under secretary of finance in the late Averescu cabinet, was arrested and placed in the state prison at Jilava, charged with being one of the principals in a movement to re-establish the exiled prince. According to reports, he is to be court martialed and made to appear before a military court whose accusations are certain to be high treason.

Among the alleged compromising letters found in the possession of Manoilescu were several from Carol, who is residing at the present time in a suburb of Paris, asking for a referendum to the people of Roumania as to their wishes regarding his return. Other letters dealt with the question of the dynasty.

Princess Helen, the abandoned wife of Carol and King Michael's mother, who had contemplated a trip to Florence, with a stay there of several months, has postponed her departure in order to avoid the appearance of leaving on account of the Carolist crisis. Queen Marie and Michael are at the royal summer palace at Sinaia. She has frequently expressed the desire that her son Carol remain away from Roumania and has warned that the reopening of the dynasty question would only cause turmoil throughout the country.

The opposition parliamentary groups are planning a battle royal for Thursday with the issuance of a summons by the leaders for members in the provinces to appear in full strength.

It is declared by government officials that Manoilescu, on returning from Paris where he had many interviews with the former crown prince and others, carried documents of a proclamatory nature addressed to the chiefs of the opposition parties. The newspapers announce that the people's party, of which Manoilescu is a member, intends to interpellate the government on Thursday, considering his arrest unjustified.

Premier Bratiano, who has been indisposed recently, had a long conference with his leading supporters today, and outlined to them measures he intended to take to maintain the constitutional government.

TEXTILE CONVENTION WILL INCLUDE FASHION REVIEW

Textile Men From All Parts of United States, Canada and South America Are Assembling at Boston—Results Attained in the Creating of New Fabrics and Styling Will Be Shown—Problems Confronting the Textile Industry Are to Be Discussed.

BOSTON, Oct. 25—(AP)—Textile men from all parts of the United States, Canada and from South America assembled here tonight for the opening tomorrow of the 62nd annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, oldest and largest trade organization of its kind in the country. The session will continue through Thursday and will be attended by more than 500 representatives of textile mills.

To illustrate the modern trend in dress goods the convention will include a fashion review. Results attained in the creating of new fabrics and in styling will be shown in this review, scheduled for tomorrow night. At other sessions problems confronting the textile industry will be discussed.

After an address of welcome by Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols tomorrow afternoon, Robert Amory, vice president of the Cotton Textile institute, will preside at a session devoted to that organization. Other speakers will be George A. Sloan, secretary of the institute, Ernest C. Morse, in charge of the "new uses for cotton," section of the institute; Paul B. Halstead, statistician, and George W. Duncan, cost engineer.

Manufacturing problems will form the chief topic of Thursday's session. A. W. Thompson, Z. M. Traftoon and A. E. Stacey, Jr., will discuss humidification in textile plants, and other speakers will be Frank M. Gunby and Charles M. Mumford, textile engineers and Richard Knowland, chemical engineer. E. D. Walen, recently hailed as the originator of cotton airplane fabric during the World war, when a shortage of linen threatened a crisis in aircraft production, will address the convention Thursday afternoon. On Thursday night C. W. Barron, publisher of financial newspapers, will speak on the subject "What is the matter with New England and the remedy."

ADVANCE OF NEARLY $5 A BALE IN COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—Cotton prices advanced nearly $5 a bale on the New York cotton exchange when the census bureau report placing ginnings prior to October 18 at 8,116,978 bales started general buing activity.

The trade evidently had been expecting a report some 200,000 sales larges and the lower figure appeared to revive expectations of a small crop in some quarters the report was taken as confirmation of the last government crop estimate of 12,674,000 bales.

Buying became quite general and the action of the market seemed to infuse new confidence. The south was only a moderate seller at the higher levels, heavy hedge selling apparently being checked, while commission houses were good buyers.

BOY SCHOOL STRIKERS HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED

NORWALK, Oct. 25.—(AP)— Forty boys jubilantly went forth yesterday from Norwalk high school on a strike in sympathy with three members of the football team who had been suspended from playing. The same forty with crest-fallen faces went back to school this afternoon only to fin that they had been indefinitely suspended.

The three boys, members of the football team, who are alleged to have been found cribbing, will not be allowed to participate in any school activity, athletic or social for the remainder of the term. This same punishment will probably be meted out to the forty who struck, with the exception of the two ring leaders, it is thought. The leaders in the strike, John Foy and William Flynn, both members of the football team, will receive a much more severe punishment, school authorities indicated.

The strike came to an abrupt end when the forty boys, who had paraded all over town this morning, marched up the hill opposite the Norwalk high school at noon. They were to have been joined by the rest of the boys in the school. When the others did not come out, the strikers returned only to find they could not enter the school.

The three boys who had been suspended from the team, did not join the strike.

FIGHTING FOR PORTION OF THE MORGAN ESTATE

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Ann Morgan Gowans, former "Follies" chorus girl, and the late Alphonce Morgan, former vice president of the Morgan Lithograph company of Cleveland, became man and wife by repeating the words used by a justice of the peace at Mrs. Mowan's first marriage, according to testimony the girl offered at a probate court hearing when she opened her fight to get a portion of Morgan's vast estate.

She is asking removal of P. J. Morgan, Alphonse's brother, as administrator, and her opointment as administratrix. She testified she signed away her dower rights unknowingly while under the influence of drugged liquor which she asserted had been given her by persons in the employ of P. J. Morgan.

Morgan, taking the stand admitted he had employed Fred Laub, former chauffeur of his brother, to get Ann's signature to papers which would foreswear her rights to a third of his brother's estate.

WIFE TESTIFIES IN BEHALF OF DR. MORRIS T. HORWITZ

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Trial of Dr. Morris T. Horwitz, 984 Fairfield avenue, in the criminal superior court ended its fourth day today with Mrs. Sabina Horwitz, wife of the accused on the stand testifying in his behalf. When court resumes tomorrow, Mrs. Horwitz will be asked to relate a conversation between herself and Dr. M. Carl Beck over the telephone on July 16.

Attorney Benjamin Slade, defense counsel, will attempt to show that in this conversation Dr. Beck, the state's chief witness in the trial of Dr. Horwitz, attempted to extort $5,000 from the latter for his silence. This declaration was made by Attorney Slade when State's Attorney William H. Comley, objected to the introduction of the testimony.

Dr. Beck himself was convicted in the same court upon a like charge and is now serving a one to two year term in prison. The two doctors were arrested after the death of Miss Dorothy May Reynolds, 18, of this city, upon whom it is now claimed Dr. Horwitz operated illegally.

Sweetser here Thursday morning. Cats and traps will be barred. A bushel of apples goes to the person registering the largest number of kills.

FALL AGAIN BREAKS INTO OIL CASE PROCEEDINGS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. —(AP)—A difference of opinion between te defendants, Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, developed today as the government continued to unfold to a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court the story upon which it based an indictment for criminal conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

Breaking into the proceedings for a second time within less than a week, Fall almost shouted that he had no objection to the presentative of certain technical testimony by the government to which George P. Hoover, chief counsel for Sinclair, had offered a vigorous protest and argument before Justice Siddons.

This time Fall did not rise from his chair as he did last week when he appealed to the court to admit which he regarded as "vital" to his defense. After he had stated that he had no objection, the former interior secretary glanced over toward the jury while his counsel, William E. Leahy, made this supplemental statement to the court:

"We want the record to show that we do not object to any questions relating to his lease."

On cross examination of Arthur W. Ambrose, former petroleum technologist of the interior department, a government witness, the defense scored with testimony that both Ambrose and H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, had informed Fall of the danger of the drainage of Teapot Dome through wells drilled in the adjacent Salt Creek field.

AIRPLANE WAS USED WHEN AUTO HAD FAILED

HARTFORD, Oct. 25—(AP)—The 43d division air service came to the rescue of Major General Morris B. Payne, Monday after his automobile had broken down at Chesterfield, en route to Hartford so that he was unable to join General George M. Cole and other National Guard officers who were bound for the National Guard convention which opened today in St. Paul.

General Payne left New London on Monday morning with the purpose of joining the party of officers at Hartford, but ignition trouble developed in his machine at Chesterfield. Leaving his car to be fixed, he hailed a passing automobile and was driven to Colchester, where he telephoned to the state armory the situation.

A car was dispatched from the armory which brought General Payne to Brainard field at 12.15 where Captain Earl Fleet was waiting for him with a plane to take him to Albany so that he might catch up with the other members of the party he was originally to have met in Hartford and who had gone to Springfield and taken a train west.

General Payne brought with him from New London a large, heavy suitcase containing his uniform and other equipment. For a moment the question arose as to where to put it. The matter was settled however, and it was tied with a rope to one of the wings of the plane and the general wrapped in a fur-lined flying suit set out for Albany.

RUTH ELDER WARMLY WELCOMED IN LISBON

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A welcome which sounded from land and sea and air greted Ruth Elder and her co-pilot, George Haldemann when the American fliers arrived at Lisbon tonight aboard the steamer Lima from the Azores, after their bold Atlantic flight and dramatic rescue from a sea that sought to claim them.

Airplanes circled over the adventurous couple, harbor craft loaded with newspaper men and photographers swarmed about the steamer, while whistles screached greetings and the vast concourse of enthusiastic people at the docks and in the city streets shouted joyfully, welcoming them to the old world.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY'S STATE TAX THIS YEAR IS $4,360.74

DANIELSON, Oct. 25.—Killingly will pay a state tax of $4,360.74 next month. This is an annual tax and is not to be confused with the county tax, which is irregularly assessed, being imposed in some years, but not in others. In addition Killingly also will pay during November a military tax of $992.27. The two assessments by the state total $5,353.01.

The state tax of $1,500,000 is distributed or apportioned between 169 towns of Connecticut on the basis of actual receipts from taxes for three years as averaged. The military tax in Connecticut this year will amount to $407,500, and is apportioned in much the same manner as the state tax. However, with this tax 15 per cent. of the total is taken from the state treasury and the remaining 85 per cent. apportioned among the towns.

Killingly's joint state and military tax bill is $765.26 less this year than it was in 1926, when the state tax amounted to $5,087.79 and the military tax to $1,030.48.

The death of Mrs. Lena Pepin Gordon, 38, wife of Arthur Gordon, occurred this morning at the home, 60 Broad street. Mrs. Gordon had been ill for some time. She leaves her husband, her father, Moses Pepin, four brothers, Maxine, Howard, Theophile and Philip Pepin, all of Jewett City, and a sister, Mrs. Maxine Sarasin of North Attleboro, Mass.

Another illustration of how a well served public complacently takes various kinds of public and semi-public service for granted, with never a thought as to how it is kept functioning or as to how convenient it is, until something goes wrong, was given here this morning when legions of housewives were hunting avidly for laundrymen to care for the week's wash.

The unforecast closing of the Palace laundry yesterday, in legal proceedings, left hundreds of families horseback and in towns up and down the line that were served by the laundry in a quandary as to how the week's wash was to be done. Other laundries in the territory were being deluged with work today through the closing of the Palace, but a great many families were finding difficulty in arranging to have work done. While there is no prospect of the immediate resumption of operations by the closed laundry, it was said today that other laundry concerns would be able to adjust their operations so that all work offered can be cared promptly after the rush of the first few days is over.

Up to this noon approximately two-thirds of the tax lists of the town of Killingly, as of October 1, were in the hands of the assessors, it was stated at their office in the town hall building. This is a much better record than was made last year, when comparatively few lists had been handed in as late as this in the month. All lists must be in by November 1.

The growth of the town of Killingly, and incidentally the work of the members of the board of assessors, may be measured by mentioning that seven or eight years ago the total number of lists handled each year numbered just over 900. Last year the total had risen to 2251 and, the indications now are, will increase more than 100 this fall. Much of this increase is due the large number of automobiles procured by residents of Killingly within the past few years, though there have been materially increases through the erection of dwellings and other taxable properties.

It is estimated that at the present time the town is paying about 31 cents for the handling of each tax list, as against 32 cents a list seven or eight years ago. The answer to this is that the assessors are getting no more compensation now for doing about two and a half times work as was done for the same pay seven or eight years ago.

A suggestion was heard today that in order to compensate the assessors in accord with the work they are doing that they should be paid so much per list instead of a lump sum. With the lists all in, or nearly all in, the rest of the coming month the real work of the assessors, a painstaking, trying and laborious job, will be just getting under way, for then they will start their compilation of the next grand list of the town.

While the plan may appear to some like carrying coals to Newcastle, observers of economic matters are very much interested in the fact that a Chicago mail order house is making a special drive to sell cheese cloth in this textile section of southern New England. This concern offers this material for "cleaning, polishing and straining" in uniform pieces 36 by 36 inches, done up in bales of 150 pounds at 50 cents a pound, and asserts that there is approximately 7 square yards to every pound, making the cost per yard 7 1-7 cents.

There's something for New England to ponder over. It is recalled that the Quinebaug mills here started making cheese cloth nearly half a century ago and eventually had a line of it that was a feature of the cloth market. But things have changed, here and elsewhere in New England. Some cheese cloth is still made in New England, but, it apears, the bulk of it is produced elsewhere in the country. The main point of interest, however, to people interested in the future welfare of the textile industry in New England is that a selling organization in the middle west is so confident of its cheese cloth offering and the price at which it is offered that it comes right into textile New England after business—and probably will get plenty of it. While production costs may enter somewhat into this drive for business, there are those who believe that smart sales organization has more to do with it. And this thought has suggested to some that possibly New England mills, operating if need be in groups, might meet and beat this competition through highly efficient sales organizations dealing directly with the great consumers and leaving out the commission men entirely. Killingly has one conspicuous example to demonstrate what can be done along this line—Powdrell and Alexander Co., largest manufacturers of curtains in the United States. No one is underselling them, and they are doing a tremendous business, keeping five mills going in this town. They market direct through their own sales organization, covering the nation. Could it be done with cheese cloth and other cotton materials, one wonders?

In just a little more than a month, Danielson's banks again will release a flood of Christmas club money. While no definite figures are available at this time as to what the grand total of the releases by the three banks will be, there is a margin of safety in recording that it will be in excess of $100,000. It so happens that many club members are already paid up for the present club year, and are now waiting with that pleasant satisfaction that the prospect of ready money brings for the early days of December and the reception of their checks representing 50 weeks of saving. A favorite with hundreds that are in these clubs is the $50 one, but a great many have $25 clubs, while $100 are quite common.

Danielson's business men are alert to their opportunity when this Christmas club money is released. Their preparations for the Christmas trade are now well underway. Their effort is to make their stocks and their prices so tempting that "Shop at home" will mean a great deal to those who live here and hereabouts.

No radio fan has a good word for the aurora borealis, which has been playing havoc with reception recent evenings. Northern lights provide a pretty spectacle, but they raise old hob with a radio set.

Next Saturday evening brings a special meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange with Little River grange at Hampton, and Killingly grange is to be represented. Connecticut Agricultural college players are to present two dramas under the direction of Prof. A. E. Seckerson.

A Danielson man who has been roving about Windham county tells of a unique device he observed at Phoenixville—an old cart wheel set up on a post to support a circle of rural mail boxes. The mail man twirls it about to distribute a considerable quantity of mail and so saves much time and effort.

Sidney W. Bard, treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank, was in Hartford today on a business trip.

Mrs. Clare N. Turner is quite seriously ill at her home on Broad street.

White figures on a dark blue background will be the color combination on registration plates for Connecticut pleasure cars in 1928. The motor vehicle department will endeavor to retain their old numbers for car owners who apply for them on or before Nov. 15.

About as fruitless an endeavor as several here have engaged in this week is the effort to get tickets for the Yale-Dartmouth football game next Saturday.

Supt. Amos Morin of the Connecticut Mills company is remaining for the time being at Albany-Decatur, Ala., where he has been the past several months, supervising the starting of the new mill of the company.

For the first time for several years there is a gymnasium class for girls of the Putnam high school. The class which is being held twice a week is under the leadership of Miss Judkins, assisted by Miss Edmaer Guy. The girls in this class are from the sixth period study hall and are divided into two divisions. The girls are to have physical training, marching, games, folk dancing and the like. So far the work has proved very interesting.

Much is expected this year, not only for the personal benefit of the girls taking the training but as a trip out for future years. It is hoped by the girls that this will hereafter be a regular feature and that they will be given a gymnasium and a special teacher.

The high school paper, the Blue and White Banner has added a new member to its staff Ellis Haines has been made sophomore assistant business manager. Philip A. WESTERLY

MRS. WALTER BREARLEY DIES AT NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 25—Elsie Jordan Harrington, 47, wife of Walter Brearley of Central Village, Conn., died last evening at Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, failing to recover from an operation performed last Wednesday. Mrs. Brearley was born in Flushing, N. Y., daughter of Rev. H. L. and the late Mrs. Eliza J. Blundell Harrington. She was one of a family of 11 children, five sons and six daughters, four of whom, three brothers and an elder sister, Mrs. Harry B. Osborne of Spring Lake, N. J., survive.

Elsie Jordan Harrington and Walter Brearley both then of Potter Hill, were united in marriage Feb. 5, 1910, by Rev. George Stanley.

Her brothers are Walter B. and Henry L., Jr., of Bridgeport, Conn., and Augustus B. of Arlington, Mass. She became a member of the First Baptist church of Danbury, Conn., her father at that time being pastor of the church. She later, with her parents transferred her membership to the First North Stonington Baptist church of Pendleton Hill. She was for years an active Sunday school and mission worker with her father in Natchaug and Blue Point, L. I., also in Danbury, where, with her help, the People's mission was founded.

She was a resident for years in Ashaway and a teacher in the chapel Sunday school at Potter Hill. With her parents and family she came to to Westerly 35 years ago.

In the erection of the new business block to replace the wooden barn used as a storage by Carl V. Brucker, recently demolished at 13 Railroad street the rear brick wall has been started. With the completion of this block there will be continuous brick buildings from the Ford station to the end of the Chester block at Canal street. The buildings are the property of the estate of Albert L. Chester.

Alfred Richards of Richmond was before Judge Oliver H. Williams of the Third District court Sunday night on a complaint brought by Robert S. White, Jr., a member of the state police, charging him with operating an automobile when under the influence of liquor. The respondent pleaded nolo and was fined $200 and costs taxed at $10.80, which he paid. It was claimed that Richards was operating an automobile on the Richmond town house road in Carolina when stopped by the state policeman. Richards was given a hearing at the state police barracks in Hope Valley Sunday night after he had been examined by Dr. Herbert E. Rouse.

Perry B. Dawley of Newport, grand patriarch of Rhode Island Odd Fellows with suite, was in Westerly Tuesday evening for an official visitation to Massatuxet Encampment, No. 19, I. O. O. F., and the installation of officers. The meeting was followed by a social time and lunch was served.

Granite City camp, Modern Woodmen and Westerly Royal Neighbors united Tuesday evening in holding a ball social. It was a masquerade and prizes were offered for the funniest costumes. A vaudeville program preceded general dancing and refreshments were served. The committee in charge was Mrs. John Law and Mrs. DeVere Laing.

Oct. 24. Ettie King Campbell to Alice C. King and Josephine E. King, land with buildings and improvements adjoining land of John G. Anderson and Margaret Anderson, with 60 foot front on Cross and bounded southerly by lands of Everett Barns.

Weekapaug Beach company to H. Elizabeth N. Gildersleeve, of Gildersleeve, Conn., Sarah Gildersleeve Fife of Middletown, Conn., and Emily Gildersleeve English of Hartford, lots Nos. 30 and 31 at Weekapaug, extending from west line of Meadow avenue.

In preparation for the moving of the former Dr. John L. May residence, 19 Canal street to property at the rear of the Alba Inn, workmen in the employ of the Samuel Nardone company have been removing some of the stone underpinning to enable heavy wooden timbers to be passed under the house on which to load it before it is drawn backwards to its new location, on the property of Peter DeRocco.

A full committee meeting was held Monday evening of Pawcatuck fire district board which has charge of the building of a new Pawcatuck fire station, the session being held in the rooms of the P. S. Barber Hose company. Two architects were present to submit plans and drawings of a proposed fire station to be erected on the lot adjoining the Liberty street lockup on which the district holds an option. Other architects are to be present at the committee meeting next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Irene Osborne Meikle, 38, wife of Robert E. Meikle, 328 Prospect street, Pawtucket, died suddenly, Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Sayles Memorial hospital, Pawtucket. Mrs. Meikle arose about 8 o'clock Monday, apparently in her usual health and was engaged in preparing breakfast, when she was stricken. She became unconscious and was rushed to the Sayles Memorial hospital, where she died a few hours afterwards from heart trouble.

Mrs. Meikle was the daughter of Elihu and Hannah Pierce Osborne of Ashaway, being one of nine children. She was born in Ashaway July 9, 1889. She was well known in Westerly being employed for some time in the office of Rogers company. Her marriage with Robert R. Meikle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Meikle, of Spruce street, took place in October, 1920. Mr. and Mrs. Meikle had made their home at 328 Prospect street, Pawtucket, for some time, he being engaged as an architect.

Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Hepworth of Potter Hill and Mrs. Minnie Shepard of Westerly and by six brothers, Arthur Osborne of Davisville, R. I., Oliver, Herbert and George, Bridgeton, R. I., Marmaduke H., Westerly and Fred Osborne of Providence.

At 8 o'clock Monday evening, Miss Marion Helen Kenyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kenyon of Lincoln avenue, Pawcatuck and Raymond Chester Brayman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brayman of Clark street, were united in marriage at the parsonage of Grace Methodist church by Rev. Henry Charles Suter, Ph. D.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Frank Clayton Tate was matron of honor and Frank Clayton Tate, cousin of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brayman went to their new home at 26 Liberty street, where an informal reception was held. Members of the Westerly-Pawcatuck Radio club acted as hosts. Between 30 and 40 guests were present. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

The Monday Evening Bridge club met at the home of Miss Marjorie Winson. Two tables were in play. The first prize was won by Miss Joan Kirby, second by Miss Pauline Peltier. The consolation went to Miss Teresa Sullivan. Miss Winson served chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, whipped cream, cake and cocoa.

Private funeral services for Waity J. Tiffany, 82, widow of Benjamin L. Fillmore, who died Thursday night at her home, 517 Grove street, Worcester, Mass., were held Monday morning. Rev. Fred Alan MacDonald, pastor of the Old South Congregational church, officiating. Burial was in Plainfield cemetery. Rev. William C. Prentiss offered prayer at the grave. She was born in Griswold, a daughter of Thomas A. and Dency Gallop Tiffany, but has resided in Worcester for more than 50 years. She leaves a daughter Grace E. of Worcester, a sister, Mrs. Hattie Barber, of Central Village, two grandchildren and a great grandson, of Anson, Me.

JEWETT CITY

BOLD DEER MEETS HIS FATE—TRAINMEN MISS VENISON

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 25—Peter King, returning from New London in his automobile Sunday evening, ran into a big buck deer in the state road, near the home of R. R. Barber, in Lisbon. Mr. King was able to slow down almost to a stop. The deer, not seeming to mind the slight bump, jumped over the roadside wall and disappeared in the woods. This morning, the north-bound express freight killed a big buck deer on the track near the upper Tadpole bridge. The engineer says he stood between the rails, stock still, glaring at the headlight. The animal's neck was probably broken, with no mutilation of the carcass, as the engine pilot only tossed him to one side.

Arriving in Plainfield the train crew called up County Game Warden Robert B. Chappell of New London and asked that they might have the carcass. Gaining permission, Frank Moriarty, day operator in Jewett City was notified and he made arrangements for a truck to go and get the deer and bring it to Jewett City, awaiting the pleasure of the train crew. Arriving at the crossing, no deer was to be found, but in the grass and leaves were the marks to show where the deer had been dragged to the highway and then evidently removed in a vehicle of some sort. Fleeting visions of roast venison brought sorrow to the crew of the express freight.

First of a series of K. of C. whists in the rooms tonight.—adv.

AIRMAN COMES TO AID IN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 25—Robert Kamm, of Narragansett Pier, R. I., called at the home of the Red Cross Roll Call chairman last evening. He is the aviator who so kindly gave the use of his airplane to distribute the Red Cross fliers last year. He said he would come this year, if the Red Cross sent for him. Although he had not been notified he happened to call here on the day this year's Red Cross fliers were being distributed by Boy Scouts. He was not in his plane, however. His friends will be interested to learn that he has been to Missouri, where he bought a new airplane. He flew 22 hours without landing, on his way back, his only guide being the sun, he having no compass. At one time, when the gas began to give out, he was 4200 feet in the air. He had been looking for a clear landing place all day, but the wheat fields had not been cut. Finally, in the dark, he came down because it was a case of no gas, and by good luck landed in a wheat field which had been cut. He has been, for most of the summer, at Charleston beach, where several Jewett City people have met him. There, besides doing passenger business with his plane, he has been instructing a number of fliers. He took part in the aerial pageant at the flying field at Buttonwoods. He expects to travel south in his plane in a few weeks.

Friends of Mrs. Lena Pepin, 35, wife of Arthur Gordon, were sorry to learn of her death in Danielson Tuesday. Mrs. Gordon was born in Griswold, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Pepin. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon moved from Jewett City, from their home on Tracy avenue, to Danielson about a year ago. She is survived by her husband, her father and four brothers, Theophile, Maxime, Philip and Howard live in Griswold. Her only sister, Mrs. Edith Sarasin, lives in Attleboro. She was a member of St. Jean de Baptiste society of this place. The body will be brought to St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon for burial. Mrs. P. X. Casavant, Miss Delphine Beauregard and Mrs. William LaPointe from St. Jean's society visited her home Tuesday afternoon.

Complete List Of WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING Installations

In Eastern Connecticut

Nine years ago there was ONE Oil-O-Matic in operation. Today there are over 60,000—and many of them are here in Eastern Connecticut. Oil-O-Matic has rapidly grown into a dominant position in the oil burning industry because of its demonstrated superiority. Enthusiastic owners everywhere furnish convincing proof of this superiority. No other oil burner made gives such good results and is as strongly endorsed.

Ask These Owners What They Think Of Oil-O-Matic

They will bring the remarkable performance of the Oil-O-Matic right home to you. They will prove to you that it is all we claim it to be and that it cannot be compared with any other oil burner in SAFE, QUIET, ECONOMICAL and DEPENDABLE OPERATION.

LINDBERGH'S SECOND VICTORY

Directly after his return from Europe, after his flight across the Atlantic, it was recognized that Lindbergh was the person who could do much in promoting a greater interest in aviation. He had accomplished the unprecedented crossing alone and had gotten the attention of the whole world by his accomplishments. He met all conditions without flinching and he was at Paris when he was expected. He made an even greater impression when he accepted the many ovations and the many honors without losing his head, without even bubbling over because he had become a hero. It was as if such a flight was an every day occurrence to him.

In his flights about this country, during which he has visited every state under the auspices of the Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, he has been accorded big receptions but he has also confirmed that impression that was gained by his transoceanic flight. He has demonstrated what can be done in the way of safe and punctual flying. In all but one instance he has kept his schedule almost to a dot, and in so doing he has shown what can be done with an airplane.

Great interest surrounds the development of the flying machine. There is no question but what it is going to get more and more attention in the future, but there is still need of convincing the public that it can be put to practical use and that it can be employed with safety.

Accidents happen in connection with all means of transportation. Even the person walking along the street may trip and fall to his death, but it will require some time to prove to many persons that flying can be done in safety. Nothing, however, is going to do more to bring about such conviction than just such a national tour as Lindbergh has completed. He has been accepted and acclaimed as the hero that he is, but he has by his demonstration flights from city to city shown the dependence that can be placed upon the flying machine when that machine is carefully constructed and skillfully handled. In completing his trip around the country Lindbergh has modestly finished a second record breaking accomplishment to the great benefit of aviation.

TREE GROWING: WHY NOT?

There's no telling how much of a response there will be to the urge of the state department of conservation and development in New Jersey, but it deserves the careful attention of every resident of that state who has any considerable amount of unproductive land.

The appeal has been made to owners of idle farm land and poorly stocked wooded tracts to avail themselves of the offer of two year old pine and spruce seedlings, which, including the planting, can be had for about $10 a thousand. It is an endeavor to get those in New Jersey, who ought to be interested, thinking about reforestation and the utilization of unprofitable land. It is in keeping with similar steps in other states where many thousands of trees are sold from state nurseries every year, and is an extension of the work that is done elsewhere by maintaining demonstration forests.

In New Jersey, as well as in most other states, there are thousands of acres from which there is no income. Taxes are being paid upon them but there is no return, or if there is it is so small as to cause no bulge in the pocketbook. And yet there's no reason why such acreage could not be put to good use in the planting of just such trees as are being offered to the land owners of New Jersey. It would be necessary to get the trees properly into the ground, but beyond such protection as might be required against fire there would be no cultivation expense. They would be permitted to grow from year to year until such a time as they could be used for commercial purposes. There would be no annual return from such an investment or from such land, but there would nevertheless be an added value attached to such property from year to year with a handsome melon for the owner when the cutting begins. Such development ought to have its place in connection with every farm that has land from which no return is now being obtained. New Jersey has a chance to show other states what can be done.

RAILROAD SAFETY

When it is reported by the American Railway association that there were but two deaths in railroad accidents during the first six months of the year, we pause in surprise, when we realize the contrast to the fatality figures a few years ago.

It is understood, of course, that there are not as many trains these days as there were a decade or two ago, but it is also known that greater provisions for safety have been made. Railroads have found that it is cheaper and preferable to prevent accidents than to encourage them. They have been operating under restrictive influences and they are responding to the requirements of proper public protection.

It is not to be inferred that there have been no railroad accidents during that six months period, for there have been several, and the record will show that the number injured has gone ahead of the last two previous years, but measures for safety have had the effect of keeping down those of the common variety and in doing so have reduced the fatalities to a minimum.

There continue to be those cases once in a great while where an engineer disregards signals, where bad judgment is used in the running of a train or where there was something defective in the mechanism and a bad accident occurs, but the number is small and happily growing less. There has been a careful study made of the circumstances and conditions surrounding accidents and even now the railroads are being made to equip their systems with automatic train stops which are supposed to keep the trains under control even when the engineer fails to act.

It has taken a long period of years to get to this degree of safety and it is hoped that it will not be correspondingly long before as favorable a degree will prevail in the highways. It is quite evident that enforcement must play a conspicuous part, but there is a responsibility resting upon the individual driver quite as well as upon an engineer for the reduction of fatalities. Those who walk on the railroad tracks quite the same as those who are highway pedestrians have an important duty to self to perform.

COLLEGE AUTO BAN

There was a wailing and gnashing of teeth when students in many institutions of learning were prohibited the use of automobiles while at college. Such restrictions have not been strictly obeyed, although there has probably been less driving by students than heretofore, but when accidents continue to occur when those who are not supposed to be driving automobiles are at the wheel it is inevitable that stiffer rules can be expected.

If this is the outcome, as anticipated, at Yale there will be no one to blame except those drivers who have figured in accidents and forced action Rules which call for the dismissal of undergraduates who are found driving may seem a bit drastic but it is a case where obedience can be obtained only through some such drastic move.

Forbidding the driving of autos was resorted to only when it was found necessary for the good of the institution and the students. It has not been an easy rule to enforce since there are so many ways of dodging it, but it seems to be a gross mistake on the part of parents when it can be stated, as it has been by Dean Mendell, that one of the principal sources of trouble has been the indulgence of parents who permit their student sons to have machines.

Any institution would prefer to be relieved of the responsibility of enforcing such a rule, and it is a strange and detrimental position which parents take when they refuse to lend their cooperation in a matter which is for the benefit of their heirs. The very vital point of preventing the needless deaths of their sons ought to be reason enough for parental support of any such institutional ruling.

NOT BEING HURRIED

From time to time demands are voiced for the recognition of soviet Russia by the United States. There are those who go to Russia to get first hand information concerning that country and the conditions prevalent there. They return with varying reports. Some are much more impressed by the situation than others. That they are able to find that there has been improvement there is no surprising. It has been indicated in various ways and is to be expected. Russia has shown that it has recognized some of the follies that were once tolerated and is gradually showing improvement.

But that doesn't mean that we should rush into a recognition of the soviet government. It doesn't mean that that country has complied with the demands that were set forth by Secretary Hughes of the state department and since repeated by the administration. Russia isn't ready to cease the propaganda against the United States and it isn't ready to assume the Russia debts.

If the stories that are told of the improvement in Russia are correct it is pleasing to know it, but even that improvement is far from meeting the requirements of American recognition as set forth on more than one occasion. There are European countries which rushed into a recognition of the soviet government in the belief that it would mean advantages for them, only to have them awaken to the fact through experience that it was a regrettable step. The United States took a sane view in the first place and it has had occasion in more than one instance to prove its wisdom through the experience of others.

GENUINE COMPLIMENT

As the Transcontinental limited came to a stop at East La Pas Junction the whole glistening length of it stretched, full length, like a huge snake, on the hot sand, Serita Nerita on her way back to the silver screen studios in Hollywood, with Jim Ruggles, her press agent, yawned a prodigious yawn.

"I'm awfully bored Ruggle," she complained. "Three days on this hot train with nobody to keep me company but you."

"Why don't you read some of these magazine articles?" suggested Ruggle.

"Oh, they're full of soft soap," was the reply. "If there is anything I hate it's applesauce and I get nothing else from morning till night. Applesauce from old Goldstein, gravy from you, soft soap from the fans. What does it all mean? Nothing!

"Do you know what I wish, Ruggle?" The actress' tone was wistful. "I wish somebody would actually pay me an honest compliment, express some real admiration for me that wasn't just merely a tribute to the make-believe characters I've portrayed on the screen. That would make me awfully happy, Ruggle."

Out on the platform Sandy—Timothy Miller—who had ridden over from the Bar Eleven ranch in the hope of an express package from his sister in Chicago, spat disappointedly at the wheels of one of the limited's Pullmans and in so doing caught the eye of the eminent Jim Ruggles as it searched the monotonous vista for an inspiration.

"Look there, Rita," said Ruggles quickly, "there's a cowboy type for you that was never made up in any studio. I'll bet he doesn't know a Klieg light from a closeup. Maybe he'll come across with the bit of real admiration your vanity requires."

"Pooh for you, Ruggle," retorted the star, and then added a bit thoughtfully. "Well, maybe he would."

"We'll try him out," said Ruggles and hailed Sandy. "Hey, cowboy, come over here." Sandy ambled over to the open car window.

"The young lady here was just wondering," said Ruggles without the formality of an introduction, "whether you'd ever seen her before." Sandy scanned the much photographed countenance of Serita Nerita, shifted his wad of tobacco from the left to the right cheek and shook his head.

"Maybe I have 'n' maybe I haven't, mister," he drawled. "I can't say. I seen a lot o' people in my day."

Serita Nerita leaned forward so that her face—worth thousands a week—was framed by the Pullman casement.

"Have you never even seen my face in a photograph?" she breathed.

"Wall, lady," was Sandy's reply, "I can't say's I have." Serita Nerita blushed.

"Do I—do you—like it?" she asked almost shyly.

"Sure do, ma'am. I'd say you was a sight for sore eyes," replied Sandy with enthusiasm.

After supper at the Bar Eleven ranch that night Sandy thoughtfully unwrapped the silver foil from a large black cigar that had traveled all the way from New York in the pocket of one James Ruggles, p. a.

"Women," he remarked to his cronies as they watched the stars pop out of the desert sky, "are certainly queer."

"It's been said before," observed "two-fisted" Jennings, looking at the cigar enviously. "What of it?"

"Well," drawled Sandy, "I talked to Serita Nerita on the limited today. Told her I'd never seen her face before and I never saw a girl so tickled. H'm—about a year ago she passed by on the limited and asked me the same question and when I told her I'd seen every picture she ever was in she looked mad's a hornet. Funny, ain't it? 'Cause that struck me as a genooine compliment."—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. Desmond's Answer

Mr. Editor: At the convention of the Baptist church held in Hartford, as recorded in the Norwich Morning Bulletin under date of October 22, the president of the convention Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt of the Central Baptist church, Norwich, asked, "What are the churches going to do to array themselves against the forces of evil, which are seeking to undermine our constitution and our country?"

I feel very presumptious in answering this question as a non-resident voter of the city of Norwich, but feel that some of my former townspeople may like to know that both democratic and republican parties are "wet" and "dry" upon party issues, and nowhere in the country is the question more discussed than in the capital city. I shall answer Rev. Dr. Pitt's question:

First: Our United States Constitution clearly provides for an election of a candidate citizen of the proper age, by the people, and for the people; church affiliations were not written into the constitution.

Second: Our Constitution and our country can not be undermined by a "wet" platform of either the republican or the democratic parties in the state of Connecticut, because, the Nutmeg state did not ratify the eighteenth amendment to the United States Constitution.

Third: "If somebody isn't asleep at the switch, who should be defending the cause of righteousness" in the state of Connecticut, the New London county state's attorney (who is a member of the Baptist church) could have informed the president of their church convention, as to the status of citizens in the state of Connecticut.

Women now have the franchise who did not work for it, and those who did so long and patiently work and hope that our sex would be recognized in our federal Constitution, did so, without religious race or sex influence, to be brought into our citizen rights, when attained.

Considers Campaign a Disgrace

Mr. Editor: I write to voice my protest against the insertion of the type of advertisement printed in The Bulletin on Monday morning, Oct. 24, 1927, in which the cartoonist, Briggs, advertises Old Gold cigarettes.

This series of pictures is an insult to the women of this section of the state and to girls and women everywhere.

I do not believe that the habit of smoking among women is so common as to warrant such advertisements.

I have been watching for some time the gradual inducements to women to smoke by means of statements of actresses and singers and cartoons, but this is the first series of pictures I have seen openly suggesting that cigarette smoking is common to women. The statement in the cartoon "Yes, I belong to the coughless sisterhood" implies and plainly intimates this.

This whole campaign upon the part of the leading tobacco firms to make girls and women believe that smoking cigarettes is a help'ul habit and produces "a grand and glorious feeling" is a disgrace.

Only two weeks ago there appeared in your columns a statement by one of the leading physicians of this country that the practice of tobacco smoking is disastrous. That the use of opium, heroin and other drugs is directly traceable to this habit. That when women smoke the effect upon their offspring is that of drunkenness.

The statement by this eminent man also implied that the finest virtues in the female sex were destroyed by the use of tobacco.

When prohibition came, the cry of its opponents was that the next step would be prohibition of tobacco.

If that ever becomes a fact in the future there will be no one to blame but the tobacco men themselves. Such a campaign as is being waged just now to increase the number of tobacco users, especially women and girls, would make any self-respecting person, and those interested in the moral and spiritual welfare of the race turn and smite such fiendish practices.

I hope the women of this part of New England will rise in their strength and denounce this invasion upon the sacred virtues of their sex.

Yours sincerely,
J. W. CARTER.

Two Iron Foundries in Early Days

"Were the Franklin stoves and the iron fireplaces used in Connecticut, made in Connecticut?"

Looking back some thing over 90 years I think that I can answer this question, at least, in part. These iron "fire places" or fire frames as we used to call them, were made probably some time before I was born in 1829.

I know of two iron foundries, in my day, where they were made.

The first foundry was on the boundary of Canterbury and Brooklyn near the Nathan Allen farm in Canterbury. The foundry dam was in the hollow between two hills by the side of the highway, on north side of the old farm house.

This foundry was owned and operated by Allen & Backus, (Deacon Nathan Allen and Isaac Backus.) In this foundry they made fire frames and had several patterns. After a few years Allen and Backus dissolved partnership and each man conducted a foundry for himself.

Deacon Allen moved his foundry to Danielson and operated a foundry located near the present Kennedy Coal Yards. I suppose fire frames were also made in this foundry.

Mr. Allen's son Nathan Allen, my boyhood friend worked for a time in this foundry I remember.

Mr. Backus located his foundry in so-called "Backusville" about 3 miles north of Westminster church. He built a dam to the right of the main highway, and back in the pasture below what used to be the "Parks' place." This dam formed a pond of several acres. A small flume carried the water from the dam to the big waterwheel at the foundry. I remember there were pegs in the dam that were pulled out when water was wanted at the foundry. It took about 20 minutes for the water to run from the dam to the wheel.

Fire frames were made in Mr. Backus' foundry as he had part of the patterns that the first firm used. They also made very fine tea-kettles as well as iron implements like plows.

My father had two fire frames in his house in Westminster that were made in the Backus foundry. One was large and was in use in the kitchen and a smaller one for the parlor. They were about three feet high and had wings on the side and a flat top. The tops served about the same purpose as my mother as the warming shelves and ovens in the modern stoves. My mother used to put her bread there to raise, and keep food in kettles hot after taking from the fire. Besides the big brick oven that was heated and used about once a week, my mother had a small oven that she used in front of the fire place fire.

In later years Mr. Backus made a small kitchen stove with one large hole back of the fire box. My mother had one of these, and afterwards a two hole stove. Each of these small stoves had an oven under the covers, like our modern stoves.

A later invention were the three and four hole stoves with a cylindrical oven elevated above the stove and through which the smoke pipe passed.

In reply to the question "Was there an iron foundry in Scotland or Hanover" as far as I know, there was no foundry in either Scotland or Hanover.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Hon. Richard B. Bennett, the new leader of the conservative party in Canada, has been active in political life since early manhood and though he is still in early middle life he has had abundant experience in public affairs to fit him for the responsibilities of his new position. Mr. Bennett is counted a product of the west, though he was born in New Brunswick and grew to manhood in that province. Dalhousie university gave him his scholastic training. Choosing law as his profession he began practice at Chatham, N. B., but soon decided to seek a career in the west. In 1897 he went to Calgary and a year later when only 28 he began his public career as a member of the legislature of the northwest territories. When the Province of Alberta was created he became prominent in provincial politics and later sought a broader field with election to the dominion house of Canada.

Stories That Recall Others

Simplified Spelling

Raymond, age five, and his aunt were spelling different words on the youngster's letter board.

"Let's spell Springfield," Raymond enthusiastically explained.

"Why, Raymond," explained the aunt, "we haven't enough letters."

"Oh, yes, we have," answered the boy, "it only takes three, W-B-Z."

Foolish Question

Foolish questions provoke foolish replies. One Sunday the primary teacher was not present at Sunday school. A substitute, not trained in primary methods, agreed reluctantly to teach the class. Many of his questions, of course, were too complex for his young audience. After class he told the following story, which revealed his error as much as the unusual reply made by a child:

"What is life?" he asked the one interested child in the class.

"I don't know what it is," replied Sam, "but when you haven't got no more of it you're dead."

SURGEON STRAIGHTENS CROOKED MOUTHS

By J. Eastman Sheehan, M. D., New York, Member Gorgas Memorial

Mouths that are drawn over to one side of the face, twisted upward at one corner and downward at the other, can now be straightened.

What has happened to the crooked mouth is that the great nerve which supplies the majority of the muscles on one side of the face has been put out of action, with the result that these muscles, which are more or less in antagonism with those on the other side, cannot hold their own in the competition. If one horse of a team keeps moving and the other stands still their heads will not long stay in line. It is very much like that at the lips.

The seemingly single muscle which forms a circle around the mouth is made up on both sides of prolongations of half a dozen or more other muscles which enter from the sides, from above and from below. When they are all working on both a perfect balance is maintained, but when those on one side stop working the pull from the other side cannot be resisted. So the mouth is pulled over to one side just as far as the paralyzed muscles will stretch. As the lengths and directions of these are different, their unequal stretching causes distortion on that side, besides the shifting of the mouth as a whole from the middle position.

To remedy this condition, it is evident that either the paralyzed nerve must be re-animated or that some other force must be applied that is too strong to be overcome by the pull of the good muscles on the other side.

The second is as simple as the first is difficult. Over all the muscles of the body is a material called fascia. It can be taken in strips of almost any length and of convenient width. It is strong and stretches but little. Bands of this material can be made fast at the corner of the mouth and at the proper places on each lip, and tension applied to them will overcome the muscle pull with which they have to contend. All else that is needed is to place them where they will not show.

Nowadays this is accomplished by the aid of a long needle of special pattern with which a tunnel is made under the skin between the mouth and points just in front of the ear. The fascia bands are drawn through three such tunnels and after the mouth has been straightened by tension upon them they are made fast under the skin near the ear. Their presence is not to be suspected, the distortion is eliminated, and the face is straight.

This is the mechanical method of straightening the lopsided face, one that is good and sound as well as simple. It will serve either with or without the other surgical methods of re-animating the nerve by joining it with another or re-animating the muscles by joining to them strands of other muscles served by live nerves. It merely adapts to the paralyzed face a method that is in daily use in the procedure known as face-lifting, or rather one that is a refinement of that operation.

GAVE ENTERTAINING TALK FOR CITY CLUB CLASS

A lecture upon "Bookselling Gossip" given by Mrs. Elsie Ripley Noyes of Stamford, made an entertaining evening Tuesday at the Wauregan hotel ball room for the literature class of the Woman's City club which had an attendance of about 100. Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, chairman, opened the meeting and presented Mrs. W. B. Birge who introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Noyes referred to the great pleasure it had given her to come back to Norwich, the home of her parents and grandparents, and to the warmth of the greeting she had received.

She said that her lecture was to be merely that of a plain sailing book seller and she went on to take up the subject in relation to the suitable books to give for Christmas presents to the different members of a family. For father she mentioned books of biography, for mother books on her pet hobbies of antiquing and gardening, for brother travel and sport books, for sister novels and poetry, and for the children the popular juveniles.

Her wide acquaintance with the worth while books, her intelligent comment upon them, and the piquant touches of humor with which she interspersed her talk made the evening thoroughly enjoyable for her audience.

OLD WESTMINSTER HOUSE WITH HEIRLOOMS BURNED

The house and barn of Amos Green of Westminster in the town of Canterbury were totally destroyed by fire, together with their contents, Monday morning about 10 o'clock.

The place is situated about half a mile off the main road and there was no one in the vicinity except Mr. Green, who is nearly 80 years old and partially blind. He had let his cow out and had gone a short distance from the house to husk corn and the fire had gained considerable headway before he knew that anything was wrong. He smelled smoke and started for the house only to find the barn in ruins and the house burning. The buildings stood only a few feet apart and the wind blew the flames directly against the house.

William Davis, a neighbor, had seen the smoke and hurried to Mr. Green's assistance, followed by Gerald Coute and Andrew and Charles Colburn. They made a desperate fight and succeeded in saving a small chicken house and a small shop building, which caught fire several times as did a large hay stack.

The curb to the only well on the place caught fire and had to be pushed over to reach the water which was pulled up hand over hand with a rope.

Mr. Green lost everything but the clothes he wore. The old man has only recently left the hospital where he had an operation and is in poor health. The house was an old landmark. It was where Mr. Green was born, as was his father before him, and there were many heirlooms and antiques in the place which collectors have tried to buy from time to time but Mr. Green would not part with them.

The origin of the fire is unknown. There was no insurance on the property.

STATE COMMANDER DIBBLE VISITED V. F. W. POST

Richard Hourigan post, No. 594, V. F. W., had a visit from State Commander Benjamin Dibble of Meriden at its meeting and smoker Tuesday evening in the post rooms on Main street. Commander Herbert F. Burdick presided and officers and comrades from Murphy Rathbun post of New London were present.

Commander Dibble spoke of the progress of V. F. W. affairs around the state and others to speak were Walter Goodwin, council of administration, of Wallingford, Commander Fred Turner of Murphy Rathbun post, Comrade Joseph Perrone of the fourth district and Comrade Beardsley.

Several boxing exhibitions followed the business meeting, Wildy Dufault vs. L. Bruckner, three rounds, Kid Beasde vs. John Mackenstrum, three rounds, Bob White, referee. Both matches were a draw. After the boxing a delicious chowder was served by Fred Blanchard, assisted by Past Commander Leo Jacques, Comrades Kane, Shaw and Riley. The members were invited to the joint dance to be given in New London next Saturday by the three posts of the fourth district.

CHURCH DELEGATES AT CONGREGATIONAL MEETING

More than 100 delegates were in attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the New London association of Congregational Churches and Ministers which was held Tuesday at the Second Congregational church house in New London. Rev. C. H. Ricketts of this city presided at the meeting which opened at 9:45 Tuesday morning. A report of delegates to the national council in Omaha was made and there was an interesting address by the Rev. George A. White of Chicago, secretary of the American Missionary association.

At the conclusion of his address, luncheon was served in the chapel by the women of the church.

The afternoon session opened with an address by Rev. James L. Barton, D. D., foreign department secretary of the American board of committees on foreign missions, representing the foreign board of missions. Questions and discussion followed and a devotional service conducted by the Rev. J. Beveridge Lee brought the meeting to a close.

FUNERALS

Mrs. John Woods

The funeral of Mrs. John Woods was held Tuesday morning at 8:40 o'clock from her home on the Little Flats, Baltic, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn high mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, for which Rev William T. O'Brien was celebrant, Rev. A. A. Jalbert deacon, and Rev. Anthony Murphy, a nephew of the deceased, sub-deacon.

The burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery and the committal service was conducted by Rev. William T. O'Brien assisted by Rev. Anthony Murphy. The bearers were John McGuire, Frank Lynch, Charles Charon and Thomas Sullivan of Baltic, Daniel McCormick of Norwich and Anthony J. Murphy of Willimantic. There were numerous and beautiful floral tributes testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends. Undertaker G. G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MOVES CAR OF ANOTHER AND IS ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 25.—Arthur T. Rogers, 47, of 54 Garfield avenue, Hyde Park, Boston, found that moving another man's machine to make room for the parking of his own was a troublesome proposition tonight and he will be in court Wednesday morning charged with tampering with an automobile. Edward Lymon of Eagleville had his Ford sedan parked in the rear of the Hooker house off Bank street, while he was visiting with friends in the hotel. Rogers wanted to park his car so, he was told by the hotel clerk to run Lymon's car ahead. He got into the sedan and started to run the car ahead, but went too far and the machine ran into the housing covering the steps leading to the basement of the building. The damage to the car is about $75. Rogers refused to make any settlement and following his arrest was released under bonds of $50.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE VOTES TO CHANGE BY-LAWS ON ELECTION

At a special meeting of the Norwich chamber of commerce Tuesday morning in the chamber headquarters in the Thayer building, the members endorsed the recommendations of the board of directors to amend the by-laws. The amendments relate to the method of electing directors.

Under the new plan the chamber president will appoint a nominating mommittee that will in turn make a study of the membership roster and present a slate of six names at least ten days prior to the annual election, which occurs Monday November 21st this year. In addition to these six names, any member may nominate from the floor of the annual meeting or he may nominate by securing an endorsement of 15 members prior to the annual meeting.

It is felt by the directors that the new plan combines the good features of the nominating committee system with the qualities of the present scheme and that the result is more satisfactory. The voting was practically unanimous in favor of the proposed change in the by-laws.

PROGRAMME IN NORWICH FOR TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Local principals and teachers have received programmes for the 81st annual fall meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association, to be held at Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford and Norwich on Friday, Oct. 28.

The Norwich programme will be as follows:

General meeting—Friday afternoon. Slater hall, Norwich Free Academy. Chairman, Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, Norwich.

2.00—Music.

FOUR-FOLD COMRADES MET WITH MISS ADAMS

The Four-Fold Comrades of the Central Baptist church met with Miss Katherine Adams, 7 Boswell avenue on Tuesday evening for their regular meeting. Following the business meeting, which was presided over by the president, Miss Helen Denison, a most interesting program was given. Working conditions among the children, girls and women of China, Japan and India were presented. Following this each girl wrote a review of the facts learned, the prize for the best report being awarded to Miss Anita Averill. Delicious refreshments of cocoa and wafers were served by the hostess, Miss Adams. The next meeting of the club will be held with Miss Anita Averill.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE AFTER HITTING WAGON

Madaric Savard, who is employed on a farm in North Stonington, was charged with reckless driving and was placed under arrest by Officer Lamphere late Tuesday afternoon after the machine Savard was driving had run into a wagon on Main street in the East Side section of the city. The wagon was driven by Joseph Wubleski, who lives on the Hallville road.

Savard was operating a machine with New York registration which gave his address as 1 Kister court, Coney Island. Bonds of $150 were put up for his appearance in court.

Theater Party And Supper.

An enjoyable theater party at the Broadway Tuesday evening was followed by a supper at the Far East restaurant. The pleasant affair was arranged for by Miss Blanche LaPre and Miss Stella Guertin and those present were the Misses Carrie and Mary Pascouche, Anna Boldrighne, Jennie Santucci, Dora Bendett and Clara Tramontozzi.

OVER MILLION MEMBERSHIP IN NORTH AMERICAN Y

More than one million young men are now members of the North American Y. M. C. A. while the financial contributions from voluntary friends are the largest on record. Operating expenditures of the past year doubled those of ten years ago.

These facts were revealed in reports presented at Chicago before the fourth annual meeting of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A.s of the United States at which James L. Case of this city is in attendance this week. This group of 375 forms the legislative body of the associations of this country. Two-thirds of the number are laymen. David W. Teachout of Cleveland, Ohio, is president of the national council. His successor will be chosen at the meeting.

Contributions totaled $15,918,000. They represented 27.8 per cent. of the total operating expenditures, which, for the 1,600 associations in the United States and Canada were $57,126,000 as compared with $21,919,000 ten years ago. The total net property is $205,184,000 compared with $101,710,000 ten years ago. During the year 431,762 are reported as having participated in gym classes while 33,504 took education work and 234,966 enrolled themselves in Bible classes.

The American Y. M. C. A., is a member of the world's committee at Geneva with which 23 national movements are affiliated. Twenty-one other countries are already organized but are not affiliated.

The advances made recently in the culture of the personnel of the Y. M. C. A.s are outlined in the report of the personnel division. The Y. M. C. A. secretaryship today is well on the road toward acquiring many of the characteristics of a profession, the report shows. The true secretary today is possessed of abounding health and vitality, holds a college degree and possible professional Y. M. C. A. college training, is an active church worker and a man of ability and personality with qualities of leadership. If he is living up to all the objectives of the new standard of Y. M. C. A. certification.

The home division of the council, largely embraces the work in the United States, manages an enterprise involving a total expenditure of $1,400,000 a year, the council was told. The home division is mainly responsible for the developments of new methods, processes and tools. It maintains relationships with many widely varying contemporary groups, conducts a certification business, an architectural business, a money raising organization, a motion picture exchange and large construction work.

The division plans to make the observance of the 19th centenary of Christ's public ministry central in its plans during the next three years.

China proved the sore spot in the far flung international work of the North American Y. M. C. A., it was declared. There the Y. M. C. A. secretaries have been sorely tried by the attacks of communists and radicals but the movement is sturdy and optimistic. Buildings seized have been returned. In Europe international good will is being fostered largely by the teaching of competitive athletics. In South America many countries have been demanding Y. M. C. A.s.

An important discussion at the meeting is centering around the 1928 budget of the national council. The council is also being called upon to approve or disapprove of action taken last summer toward the formation of a new governmental autonomy for the work with college students.

FINDS NEW ENGLAND MEN ARE SHORT AND LIGHT

The average New Englander is 0.62 of an inch shorter than the average American, according to reports compiled by the medical division of the war department based on figures gained during the drafting operations of the World war.

The average resident of the country is 67.49 inches in height, according to the war department, while the average New Englander measures only 66.87 inches. Texas produces the tallest men, residents of the Lone Star state averaging 68.40 inches in height, while Rhode Island claims the shortest people of the country, natives of that state measuring only 66.40 inches in height.

Maine has the tallest men of the New England region, according to the survey, the average man of Maine attaining a height of 67.28 inches. Vermont ranks second of the New England states, natives of the Green Mountain state measuring 67.12 inches. New Hampshire comes third with her natives growing to a height of 66.97 inches.

Residents of Massachusetts rank fourth in stature in the New England region, the average height of Bay Staters being placed at 66.76 inches by the war department. Connecticut follows fifth of the New England states, with residents of the state averaging a height of 66.71 inches. Rhode Island residents rank last of the New Englanders in height and last in the country.

Weight in New England

New Englanders are slightly below normal in weight, the survey indicates, the average weight of the New England resident being 139.39 pounds as compared with 141.54 pounds for the average American. As in height, residents of Rhode Island rank lowest in the country in weight, the typical Rhode Islander weighing only 136.44 pounds. Maine produces the heaviest men of New England, according to the figures of the survey, male residents of the state averaging 141.03 pounds. Vermont comes second of the New England states with men weighing 140.33 pounds. New Hampshire ranks with Vermont, residents of that state weighing 140.33 pounds. Connecticut follows New Hampshire, men of the Nutmeg state weighing 139.52 pounds Massachusetts follows fifth with men averaging 138.40 pounds, and Rhode Island ranks last.

The chest measurement of the average New Englander is also slightly below the measurement of the normal American. New Hampshire measure 33.28 inches in chest circumference, while the average resident of the country measures 33.27 inches. In comparison with their height, however residents of the New England states have unusually large chests the survey indicates. This fact is attributed by medical authorities of the war department to the agricultural activities of the New England residents.

Connecticut's Chesty Men

Connecticut and Vermont produce the men with the greatest chest measurements male residents of those states averaging 33.43 inches about the chest. Maine ranks third of the New England states in chest circumference, men of that state measuring 33.41 inches about the chest, New Hampshire residents follow fourth, averaging 33.20 inches; Massachusetts fifth, averaging 33.10 inches; and Rhode Island last, averaging 32.83 inches. As in height, Rhode Island men rank last in the country in average chest circumference.

Approximately one half of all New Englanders have blue eyes, according to the figures obtained by the war department examinations. Out of every 1,000 persons in the six New England states 480 have blue eyes. One hundred and seventy-five per 1,000 persons have gray eyes; 150 out of every 1,000 have hazel eyes; 83 per 1,000 have dark eyes; and 93 Yankees out of every 1,000 boast black eyes.

ASSESSOR GIVES TALK BEFORE ARCANUM CLUB

A talk on the taxation system in Norwich by A. R. Manning, chairman of the board of assessors, featured the club night programme at the Arcanum club Tuesday evening. Club members, numbering nearly 100 gathered at the clubhouse for the banquet which was served at 6.30 o'clock. The menu was one of those suppers for which the Arcanum club is noted. The menu comprised:

Meat Pie
Mashed Potatoes Pickles
Rolls Fruit Salad Whipped Cream
Cake Coffee

After cigars had been circulated President Tyler D. Guy introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Manning, who gave some interesting facts concerning the system of taxing property in Norwich and also explained what the statutes require. It was most gratifying to the older members of the club to note that a number of the newly made members were present.

The success of the club night programme was due to the efforts of the entertainment committee, Charles A. Hagberg, Wilbur S. Williams and George F. Blood.

SCHULER TAKES LEAD IN THAMESVILLE PINOCHLE

At the last meeting of the Thamesville pinochle club, Rossoll dropped from first position to fifth position, Aldrich went back to third from fourth position. A. Kirchner moved up from fifth to fourth position and Gesser moved up from tenth to seventh place. The scores over 7,000 for the evening follow:

A. Schuler, 8,165; W. Huntington, 7,540; W. Aldrich, 8,250; W. Streich, 7,170; A. Kirchner, 7,150; L. Gesser, 7,110; M. Wenzel, 7,025; J. Cook, 7,015; F. Kirchner 7,010. The standing to date follows:

C. Schuler 21,690; W. Streich, 21,395; W. Aldrich, 21,175; A. Kirchner, 20,925; F. Rossoll, 20,705; J. Crawford, 20,220; L. Gesser, 20,185; W. Wenzel, 20,095; J. Schafhauser, 19,730; J. Peringer, 19,570; J. Kirchner, 19,585; W. Huntington, 19,485; J. Ulrich, 19,190; J. Cook, 18,835; F. Kirchner, 18,115; C. Schling, 17,670.

CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT AT SERIOUS OFFENSE

On complaint of the father of an 11 year old girl, Frank Rose, 74, was arrested by the police Tuesday evening on a charge of attempted rape. Rose who lives at No. 42 North Main street, was held in bonds of $2,500 for his appearance in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. He failed to raise bonds and spent the night locked up at police headquarters. The small girl, it is said, told her father of the alleged attempt made by Rose and the father complained to the police with the result that Rose was taken in charge by Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer D'Atri. Rose denied the charge at police headquarters.

HALLOWEEN PARTY HELD BY THE C. L. CLASS MEMBERS

A Halloween party was held Monday evening by the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Cochran, 19 Alice street. About 30 were present the guests coming in costume. A short business meeting was held, the class president, Miss Isabel H. Shearer, presiding, and during this time it was voted to give a play. When it came to guessing who was in the gay and striking disguises Miss Shearer and Miss Mary Gray guessed most correctly and were given Halloween prizes.

The decorations included black cats, witches and electrically lighted ghosts. After spooky games, there was a lunch of doughnuts and coffee, the favors being baskets of Halloween candy.

WAS FINED $250 IN COURT AT NEW HAVEN

Lionel Marion, who has been acting postmaster and is now postmaster at Voluntown, was fined $250 in the federal court at New Haven on the charge of falsifying a public record, to which he pleaded nolo contendre on the advice of counsel. The charges made grew out of postal business reports made by Mr. Marion while he was assistant postmaster under his father-in-law, Frederick G. Dawley, who was postmaster.

WEDDINGS

Gilmore-Maxson

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Rathke Maxson, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Charles Potter Maxson of Willow Point, West Mystic, and James Reed Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gilmore, of Sewickley, Pa., took place Tuesday morning in New York city.

The ceremony was performed at 11 o'clock at the Church of the Transfiguration. The couple were unattended. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Seville. Mr and Mrs. Gilmore are to reside in Sewickley.

SOMERS

The Ladies' Aid society served a chicken pie supper at Piedmont hall last Friday to about 275 people. They also held their annual sale of fancy work and useful articles.

Sunday afternoon there was a special vesper service of music at the local church, given by Somers Choral society and former members. Former members were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Zappey of Enfield, Mass., Mrs. Carlton Garinger of Agawam, Mass., and Edward S. Barney of East Longmeadow.

Miss Florence Galbraith was given a surprise party at her home Monday evening in celebration of her 16th birth-day.

Henry Cooke, Charles Denison and Robert Galbraith of Somers and Edgar Aborn, of Ellington, left last week for Florida in a house on wheels. They plan to visit California and Mexico before returning, next May.

Mrs. Anna Pomeroy is to entertain the Woman's club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Clifton M. Ellis has been in Meriden this week attending the State convention of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. E. M. Long of Toronto, Canada, has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Mary Evans. The motored to Boston the last of the week for a few days' stay.

YALE'S MOST NOTED READER MAN OF NORWICH ANCESTRY

The Yale Alumni Weekly, in a recent issue had the following by Henry A. Beers, '62, its title, "What a Yale Student Read in the Fifties." The prodigious reader thus exploited James Lanman Penniman, spent his boyhood in Norwich.

Says Professor Beers:

A cynical colleague maintains that the modern undergraduate reads nothing beyond the sports columns in the New York papers. Doubtless he would admit that he also reads the Yale News and perhaps, now and then, a novel by Sinclair Lewis or a story by Tom Beer in the Saturday Evening post (Arcades ambo—Yale men both.) Others say that the undergraduate reads nothing voluntarily. If he has elected one of the numerous English courses given in the college, he does the prescribed reading and welter Nights. It was not always thus. At a time when there were practically no English courses—when there was no public library in New Haven; and undergraduates were not generally admitted to the use of the university reference library; and when few students had spending money with which to buy themselves books, a man with a natural taste for reading had to rely on the Society libraries, Linonian and Brothers in Unity. If he made a judicious use of these, he had an instrument of education in his hands hardly less important than the curriculum of studies. You remember that Teufelsdrockh at the University of Weissnichtwo and Thoreau at the University of Harvard insisted that the freedom of the library was the only good they got out of their college course.

The Yale library has kept and still keeps a record of every book taken out by every undergraduate student from the Linonian and Brothers in Unity shelves. As a matter of curiosity and a basis for comparison, Mr. Keogh has made a list of such withdrawals from November 22, 1850, to April 5 1852, by student James Lanman Penniman of the class of '53.

Mr. Penniman was the father of Josiah H. Penniman, the present provost of the University of Pennsylvania, and of James Hosmer Penniman, Yale 1884, the founder of the Penniman Memorial libraries at Yale and Pennsylvania. For an account of Dr. Peniman's generous and continuing gifts to this foundation the reader must be referred to the annual reports of the librarian of Yale university for the years 1919-23.

As for the elder Peniman, after graduation he taught for a time in Maryland and Virginia; then went to Washington and became associated with the astronomical observatory, and was afterwards for some years head of a bureau in the department of the interior. But in 1876 he removed to Philadelphia and engaged in the practice of the law, specialising seemingly in claims against government. His reading habit, contracted in his student days, he kept up all his life. "My father," writes Dr. James H. Penniman, "was one of the great readers of the world. He read Latin and Greek fluently and always had the classics at hand and he also was familiar with several modern languages." And Provost Peniman testifies, "He was a reader all his life. I seldom remember seeing him when at leisure without a book in his hands. He read widely and deeply, and on his desk in his office we found, after his death, several volumes of the Greek and Latin classics, particularly Homer and Horace, which he kept by him and read continually." Dr. James H. Penniman is himself well known as the author of school text books and other works in the department of education: Penniman's New Practical Speller, Books and How to Make the Most of Them, Prose Dictation Exercises from the English Classics, The School Poetry Book, and many others, some of them published by my classmate Charles W. Bardeen of Syracuse, whose extensive collection of educational books will form a part of the Penniman library. If space were available it would be worth while to publish here the whole record books drawn from the Brothers in Unity library by young Penniman of the famous class of '53. But as it is, I can only quote some of Mr. Keogh's analysis and pick out a significant item or two from the long list. Our enterprising librarian put a really extraordinary amount of work on the compilation of this check-list. He finds that Penniman drew out 190 books. Of his nearest competitors, Hiram Bingham drew 94; C. R. Duelly, 143; J. Potwine, 214 (!); S. E. Spooner, 151. There were other '53 men who might have been suspected of a reading habit: Andrew D. White, E. C. Stedman, Charlton T. Lewis, Wayne McVeigh, G. W. Smalley. But who was this Potwine who read 214 books between January, 1851, and July, 1853, and who "first appears as a sophomore when these men are juniors—no freshman year?" Ah! we have him now! have him spotted. He is no other than the Rev. Lemuel Stoughton Potwin (no e, observe), Yale '54, M. A., D. D., a native of South Windsor and subsequently professor of English language and literature in Adelbert college.

Concerning the books that Penniman selected from Brothers' library, it may be said that there was little trash among them. They were mainly high class, solid reading. His interests were widely distributed over history, popular science, narratives of travel and general literature. In fiction, e. g., he read the old standard novels of Defoe, Fielding, Smollett, Jane Porter, Scott, Cooper, Marryatt, Simms and the tales of Washington Irving and the Ettrick Shepherd. The latest fiction on his list is The Scarlet Letter, published in his freshman year (1850.) The next to the latest is Vanity Fair (1848.) He took out many volumes of verse: the poetical works of Spenser, Shelley, Cowper, Burns, Southey's, British Poets, etc. The absence of Wordsworth and Byron is noticeable but very likely he owned copies of both. No American poets on his list, not even Longfellow. It was rather too early for Tennyson. The earliest of our monthly magazines—Harper's and the Atlantic Monthly—had not started. He drew freely on British periodicals such as Blackwood, the Edinburgh Review, Bentley's and Chambers' Miscellanies, etc. Of American periodicals he drew out repeatedly Knickerbocker and The American Review (whig) and once Brownson's Quarterly. The library owned files of The North American Review and the Southern Literary Messenger, but I do not find that he consulted them. He read a good many French books, sometimes in translation but oftener in the original: Voltaire, Lamartine, Joinville, Madame de Staël, Chateaubriand, the "Characters" of La Bruyere, etc. The college catalogues of those years made no provision for German; but our undergraduate took out many German works in translation, such as Goethe's Faust, Schiller's Robbers, Meinhold's Amberwitch, Fouque's romances and the like. Also important standard miscellaneous books like Kinglake's, Kohen and Mallet's, Northern Antiquities, besides such histories as Coxe's, House of Austria and Napier's Peninsular War.

I wonder if the modern Yale undergraduate reads any of these things or their equivalents. It should be borne in mind that the only English literature given in 1850-53 was a portion of Whately's "Rhetoric" (an excellent little treatise quo ad hoc) and an analytical study of Demosthenes on the Crown. Professor Lounsbury once told me that during his four years in college he never heard the name of a single English author mentioned in any classroom. Still, look over the catalogues of those years and say whether, in the absence of English, the programme of classical study there offered to the student did not furnish, if faithfully pursued, a literary education of the choicest kind.

CHICK MEEHAN INTRODUCES NEW METHOD OF CALLING SIGNALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP)—The secret of the most striking football maneuver seen in the east this season was told today by Chick Meehan, the fiery little New York university coach who invented it.

In Meehan's hands the weapon has turned a football team into a projectile and carried N. Y. U. to the top of eastern elevens in scoring with 213 points thus far to 19 for its five opponents.

Meehan calls it a modified huddle, but it looks like the charge of the light brigade. On every offensive play the linemen in a row turn in their tracks two paces to the rear of their playing positions with their violet backs to the enemy. The four men in the backfield face them. A low voiced signal and some finger sign language by the quarterback, then it's "wheel, get-set, charge," with a measured interval between the movements.

To make the rhythm perfect the eleven men count "Whun, tuh, three, four." It is their battle cry. On four the ball snaps and the team drives forward like a 16 inch shell.

"The secret! Well," said Meehan today, "we do it in self defense—defense against the yelling every big football game is played in nowadays.

"Time was when a quarterback could hold up his hand and the crowd would quiet down so the team could hear the signals. Now it can't be done. The crowds are too big and interest is too keen.

"Last year we found the team was weak when it was near the enemy goal. When we seemed headed for a touchdown the yelling got louder—and our men couldn't get the signals.

"This is the way we got around it this year. All the men are watching the quarterback and they can read his lips if they can't hear him.

"Then too, there's no danger of the other team getting our signals because the quarterback varies them with signs with the fingers."

Meehan built even better than he knew. In addition he found the maneuvre gave his team a faster charge and a psychological advantage over the opposing team. There is something irresistible about that wheeling violet wall, swinging about-face with military precision and driving forward.

"It's like a trained gun crew loading a big Bertha," said one who watched. "Yes," was the comment of another, "and you could run those plays to music, martial music."

POLYDOR AGAIN WINS AT EMPIRE CITY TRACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP)—William Ziegler, Jr., added another stake to his list today at Empire City when Polydor, with Jockey Mack Garner in the saddle, took the Hartsdale claiming handicap, about six furlongs. The race carried a net value of $3,915 and the time was 1:10. Polydor was rushed to the front, ran into a three lengths lead and won by two lengths. Centaur, upon whom there was a plunge, was second and Ironsides third.

The Greentree stable's Navigator accounted for the Elkridge handicap at Laurel. Patricia J. was second and War Eagle third. Navigator was held in restraint, running fifth until the field turned for home. Here he came with a rush and got up in time to beat Patricia J. by half a length. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13.

The Williamstown feature at Latonia, was taken by Rothermel. Rolled Stocking was second and Rhinock third. The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1:46 2-5.

McTinkie galloped home with the fourth race at Arlington, six furlongs for three year olds and up. Luxembourg beat out Oxford for the place. The time was 1:15 4-5, a new track record.

DARTMOUTH TEAM PERFECTING ITS DEFENSIVE PLAY

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 25—(AP)—A long signal drill and intensive work on the tackling dummies occupied the Dartmouth varsity eleven in today's arduous workout in preparation for the Yale game Saturday. Only a short time was devoted to forward passing.

The coaches admitted that they found it difficult to point the team for the Yale game because of their ignorance of the Eli plays. Yale and Dartmouth have a non-scouting agreement.

McAvoy was absent from the Green lineup due to a bad cold and his place at left end was taken by Fusonie. The first and second teams are scheduled to have a short scrimmage tomorrow.

CLAMORING FOR SCALP OF WILCE AT OHIO STATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

CHICAGO, Oct. 25—(AP)—Football coaches changed places at three of the western conference schools this fall, and the "downtown coaches" association is clamoring for the scalp of another one, Coach John W. Wilce of Ohio State, because of successive defeats by Northwestern and Michigan.

The cumpus may inspire the Buckeyes to upset Coach Stagg's Chicago Maroons next Saturday at Columbus, but Stagg has so far demonstrated his success at the type of game which defeated the Ohioans at Ann Arbor 21-0.

Coach Zupke is working the Illinois squad for reserve backfield power for his meeting with Michigan just one week after he defeated Northwestern, which shared the 1926 title with Yost's squad.

Adding power to the Minnesota forward line so it may be able to outcharge and out-block the formidable Wisconsin line saturday was the principal item of business in the Gopher camp today.

Scouting reports show less than a half dozen first downs have been forced through the bulky Badger line by rushing this season.

Wisconsin's hopes are pinned on the flying feet of Captain Toad Crofoot, one of the smartest quarterbacks in the Big Ten.

SPEEDBOYS TO PLAY NOANK TEAM SUNDAY

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 25—A completely revamped Speedboy eleven will take the field Sunday at Ashland park to oppose the Crushers of Noank. The Speedboys disbanded a short time ago but have again organized with strong hopes of retaining the eastern Connecticut grid title. In choosing the Noank Crushers for opponents in their initial comeback encounter the Speedboys have picked a tough nut to crack for the fishermen have been playing regularly this season and have yet to taste defeat.

Last year the Jewett City aggregation, one of the strongest in the state, overwhelmed their southern foes but the Cod chasers are sure they will be able to turn the tables Sunday. In rounding up a team to represent Jewett City Mgr. Parkhurst uncovered a backfield ace in the little town of Sterling and this boy is expected to set the local gridiron world on fire. Pop French of Plainfield will play halfback and this boy is a wonder and the management predicts that next year he will be sought after by the larger teams. Chic Moore and Billy Wall crack ends from Plainfield will represent Jewett City and they will bring with them the fiercest center in these parts, Mal Hutchins and Towser Maggia a strong tackle and drop-kick artist. Other good men from upstate in addition to Jewett City's own favorites including Kid Cobb, Bobcat Bakanowski and Shine Mondor, will round out an eleven that is destined to raise havoc around these diggings this autumn.

DONAHUE LAYS DOWN THE LAW TO SLATTERY

NEW LONDON, Oct. 25—(AP)—Thomas E. Donahue, president of the National Boxing association, announced today that he had forwarded a letter to Fred Carr, manager of Jimmy Slattery, ordering Slattery to defend his light heavyweight N. B. A. championship against either Tommy Loughran, Tiger Flowers, or Mike McTigue within a reasonable time "or the National Boxing association will take steps to force action in the light heavyweight division."

In his letter President Donahue stated he "didn't like the idea of Slattery putting away his title in a cedar chest full of campphor balls."

President Donahue also announced that he has received word from Jim Mullen, a Chicago promoter that the latter has signed Sammy Mandell to meet any logical opponent that may be selected for him. President Donahue considers Sid Terris, Jimmy McLarnin, Billy Wallace, and Kid Kaplan as the logical contenders, he said.

HERRMANN RESIGNS AS RED'S PRESIDENT

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 25—(AP)—August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National league baseball club for the last 25 years has resigned from that position, and C. J. McDiarmid, secretary of the club, has been elected to succeed him.

Herrmann's resignation, which was instigated by poor health, was handed to the directors of the club on Oct. 10, the day on which he returned from the recent world's series. It was not accepted until today, when the board "with unanimous regret" agreed to accede to his wishes and relieve him of his duties.

Mr. McDiarmid will assume full charge of the club's affairs at once.

Prominent for many years in local and state politics, Herrmann, always a baseball fan, broke into the game as a magnate when he joined with the late George B. Cox, leader of the republican party in Cincinnati and the two Fleischmann brothers, Julius and Max, in the purchase of the Cincinnati Reds from John T. Brush in August, 1903.

The new company assumed control of the team on August 16 and Herrmann was the first and only president. Herrmann was in the game just one year when the big baseball men of the country, recognizing his ability and capacity, for detail work, named him the first chairman of the national baseball commission.

Herrmann held the chairmanship of the national commission until the election of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis as high commissioner, in the winter of 1920. Perhaps the greatest achievement of the Reds chief was the planning and promoting of the world series, when in 1904 he drew up a plan which met with universal approval and was adopted by the two leagues.

The first world series under Herrmann's plan was played between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics in 1905. Very few changes in the rules as originally devised have been made since.

McDiarmid, the new president, is an attorney. He became interested in baseball in 1907 when he purchased a block of stock in the St. Louis Americans.

McDiarmid was elected a director of the Browns and gained much valuable baseball experience in that capacity. He held office until 1919, when he sold his stock and bought into the Cincinnati club. He was elected a director of the local club and eight years ago was made secretary.

James P. Orr, Cincinnati business man, was chosen today to succeed McDiarmid as secretary.

President McDiarmid announced that he has no intention of giving up his law practice, but will arrange his legal work to devote several hours each day to the baseball club affairs.

He also announced that in appreciation of the work done for the club by Herrmann, the latter's salary as president will be continued for the rest of his life.

The club intends to present the retiring president with a bonus in the neighborhood of $25,000 in recognition of his 25 years of service for the good of baseball in Cincinnati, it was said.

McDiarmid said there will be no change in the management of the club.

PENN RECALLS MURPHY TO QUARTERBACK BERTH

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP)—Penn's varsity football team, getting ready for its game against the navy saturday, has recalled last year's quarterback, Paul Murphy, who will replace Johnny Shober in calling signals. This latest shift has been decided upon by Coach Lou Young in an effort to dig up a strong scoring punch.

Army has made a similar move, and Nave has been installed at quarterback in place of Meehan, who has been considered a fixture. The cadets' coaches believe the new move will give the backfield something for the Bucknell game that was noticeably absent when the future generals fell before Yale.

Other eastern football camps probably will cling to established lineups Saturday as they start off the second half of the season. Yale and Dartmouth, preparing for their big game at New Haven, have got down to hard work and much attention is being paid to tactics. New York university is continuing its scrimmage in preparation for the Colgate game. Columbia and Cornell, who meet Saturday at Ithaca, also are down to hard work. Fred Riegler has returned to Columbia's lineup and indications are that Coach Charles Crowley will have all his regulars available for duty. Cornell is paying attention to a defense against a forward pass attack, expected from Columbia.

Some of today's workouts were so long that the ghost ball had to be put into play. Bucknell was among the teams working overtime, with their hearts set on a victory over Army, the Bucknell players will work under arc lights for the rest of the week, hoping to strengthen their defense against the hard-hitting cadet backs.

AGGIES FIELD OCKEY TIES WITH N. Y. U. GIRLS

The Connecticut Agricultural college girls' field hockey team, held the New York university team to a 3-3 score in the first game of the season, played last Friday on the A. A. field, before a crowd of students.

Despite the unusually cold weather, an exceptionally good game was played by both teams, but Conn. showed the best endurance.

During the last seven minutes of play in the first half, Captain Healy scored two goals, tying N. Y. U.

A most spectacular play was made by Esther Beers '28 L. W. during the second half when she carried the ball 40 yards down the field for another goal. N. Y. U. scored one more point in the second half.

The game was of special interest to the students as the co-eds have been practicing under the supervision of Captain Healey to whom much of the credit for the good work of the team is due.

SUDDEN SWITCH MADE IN YALE PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 25—(AP)—A sudden switch in plans sent the Yale varsity first and second elevens into scrimmage against scrub teams today, with attention directed to offensive and defensive measures to be utilized Saturday against Dartmouth's unbeaten team.

Two regulars reappeared today in the first team's lineup, while a third was switched to the second varsity. "Steve" Scott, end, took his regular place after a day's affliction with a cold, and Duncan Cox appeared in scrimmage for the first time since his side was injured in the Brown game.

Karl Billhardt supplanted Johnny Hoben at quarterback today on the first team, but the coaches announced that this was only a temporary change designed to give Billhardt experience in calling signals for the team. Hoben scrimmaged with the seconds.

Caldwell and Cox each scored a touchdown against the scrubs while the varsity was on the offensive, but the scrubs retaliated, when they were given the ball, by going through the varsity for a touchdown. Another scrimmage tomorrow is planned to conclude the week's hard work.

ACADEMY HAS TWO HOURS OF SCRIMMAGING

The Academy had two hours of scrimmage Tuesday afternoon. The varsity had the ball all the time and the majority of plays had to do with forward and lateral passes. Coach Whitney worked his men hard and indications now are that many of the faults evident in the losing game against Harding will be missing against Wilby this week at Waterbury.

Several defects were cleared up during the afternoon, the most prominent of which was the failure of the line to show a continued charge.

The squad is now in pretty fair shape as regards injuries. Capt. Marks has a lame side and Bill Tirrell's leg is slightly on the bum but both are expected to be ready for the starting gun Saturday.

HARVARD DRILLED ON FOOTBALL FUNDAMENTALS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 25—(AP)—Harvard's entire football squad went "fundamentalist" again today and straight scrimmaging was barred while the regulars put in a protracted session on the tackling dummies, blocking machines and in dummy scrimmage with each other. Teams A and B held a long, dummy drill with team A carrying the ball for the entire period, while the coaches followed the squads all over the field to see that every lineman and back carried out his assignment and position.

The return of the squad's cripples, Dave Guaranaccia, Tim Clark and Guy Holbrook has kept the Crimson morale at an excellent pitch despite the Dartmouth disaster, the coaches reported. Probable scrimmage against Indiana plays is on the program for tomorrow.

DOLE TAKES CHARGE OF AGGIE COACHING

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 25—(AP)—After weeks of inactivity due to illness following an operation last August for appendicitis, Head Coach Sumner A. Dole today took over direction of the Connecticut Aggie football squad for the last half of the season.

Freshman Coach Louis A. Alexander, who has been heading the coaching staff in Dole's absence, returned today to his yearlings, relieving Prof. Roy J. Guyer, head of the department of physical education, who has been taking over Alexander's duties.

OHIO STATE'S COACHING SYSTEM COMES IN FOR SEVERE CRITICISM

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 25—(AP)—Din of the "anvil chorus", which began its knocking as soon as Michigan's football team had hung up another victory over Ohio State last Saturday was heard far and wide in Ohio today.

A group of irreconcilables to the apparent regime of aesthetic football at Ohio State became more outspoken following these developments:

Claim of Dr. John W. Wilce, head coach of Ohio State, that the Ohio State team which played Michigan last Saturday was "the best that Ohio State has put in the field this year," and that the team's errors were not fundamental.

Resignation of A. W. Raymond, city recreation director, as president of the varsity "S" Alumni association, was announced after the organization had given Dr. Wilce an ovation upon his appearance at its meeting.

Suggestion made at a meeting of Ohio State alumni at Cleveland that "two thirds of the players who participated in the Michigan game turn in their suits, that Ohio State get a new head coach, or that a decided shake-up of the team be instituted."

Taking the ovation given Dr. Wilce as an endorsement of his regime, Raymond resigned, saying that he felt "there is something radically wrong with the system in vogue, I don't feel that I can continue to serve as president of an organization that is supposed to be a loyal backer of the present regime," he said. Raymond, varsity tackle in 1910, 1911 and 1912, was one-time All American choice of several sports writers.

Dr. Wilce attributed Saturday's unsatisfactory showing against Michigan to several things among which were these:

The after effect of a warring element within the team which had been eliminated just prior to the game by a shift in the lineup.

A difficult schedule drawn to meet the "community demand," rather than with the idea of winning games.

Belief that all teams which have met Ohio State so far this year have been "pointed" for the Buckeyes.

Dr. Wilce denied that the coaching staff has neglected to emphasize tackling and blocking. He admitted there were many tackles missed in the Michigan game, but said that they happened at a time when they were most costly and noticeable.

Failure of Ohio defensive men to "follow" the particular Michigan man designated for him to watch caused collapse of the forward pass defense, he said.

Similarly, he said, Ackerman, end, had failed to follow instructions to watch for the famous Michigan "S3" play which led to a Wolverine touchdown. This play, known as a favorite Yost trick, is a fake kick from placement.

DEMPSEY ON HIS WAY TO EAST COAST

Accompanied by his trainer, Jerry Luvadis, the former champion left intending to give personal care to the suit involving more than $300,000 brought against him by Jack Kearns, his former manager.

While in New York, Dempsey said he would probably confer with Promoter Tex Rickard over a tentative fight program for next year. He is anxious to talk over the situation concerning fights preliminary to another title bout with Champion Gene Tunney.

The former champion took occasion to deny reports that he had any difficulty with Leo P. Flynn, who managed his business affairs for his last two bouts. "I cannot imagine where the story originated," he said.

JOHNSON'S SUCCESSOR TO BE NAMED ON NOV. 2

CHICAGO, Oct. 25—(AP)—The successor to Ban Johnson as president of the American league will be named at a meeting of the board of directors of the league here on November 2.

Frank J. Navin, vice president and acting head of the league since Johnson resigned a week ago, today called a special meeting of the league directors for election of a new president. The board members are Mr. Navin, Ben Shibe of Philadelphia, Phil Ball of St. Louis and Clark Griffith of Washington.

Mr. Navin gave no indication as to the choice of the club owners, but rumblings from within the circuit indicate that E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland club, will be chosen. There have been intimations that Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, favored some one else, but Ruppert's candidate has not become generally known.

Harry Grabiner, secretary of the Chicago White Sox, and spokesman for Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, says the majority of the Cleveland owners favor Barnard's election. He has been identified with the Cleveland club in the capacity of secretary and later president for several years.

William Harridge, for fifteen years private secretary to the retiring president, Johnson, has again assumed active charge of the league's affairs until the new chief is appointed.

Johnson, out of baseball for the first time since 1893 when he was a sports writer at Cincinnati, is on the first lap of his period of rest, taking treatment at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

SCOUTING TAKEN UP BY HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 25—(AP)—Three young men, alleged to have been scouts for the Stamford high school football team, were twice ejected from Newfield park this afternoon by officials of the Central high team, who were drilling the Hilltop eleven. The youths were found taking notes and were ordered out by Manager Frank Hurley who also locked the gates. The scouts, however, were not to be denied, so they climbed the fence and perched no the grandstand. Coach Edward Reilly then started to make his way to their post when the unwelcome visitors made a quick getaway to avoid the Hilltop mentor.

Peter Visits the Green Forest

E'en worry may be put to route
When there's excitement all about.
—Peter Rabbit.

"Danny," said Peter Rabbit to Danny Meadow Mouse, and he no longer spoke crossly, "will you do something for me?"

"Of course," replied Danny. "I'm always willing to do something for an old friend if I can. What is it?"

"Promise not to tell Mrs. Peter that I have been here," replied Peter.

"Oho! So that's it!" squeaked Danny. "All right, I'll promise. But where is Mrs. Peter?"

"I told you she isn't to be seen at present," replied Peter. "She doesn't know I'm here and I don't want her to know that I have been here. I'm going over to the Green Forest now. You won't tell her, will you Danny?"

"Didn't I just say I wouldn't?" demanded Danny.

Peter nodded. "All right," said he. "I'll do something for you when I can. Now I'm off."

Danny watched Peter go lippety-lippety-lip across the Green Meadows through the moonlight. He was headed straight for the Green Forest. Danny scratched a little round ear thoughtfully. "There's something queer about this," said he to himself. "I don't believe Peter and Mrs. Peter have made up after all. I wonder where Mrs. Peter is. I think I'll try to make her a call."

So Danny entered the dear Old Briar-patch and ran this way and that way along all the private little paths. Nowhere did he find Mrs. Peter. At last he was satisfied that she was not in the dear old Briar-patch. Once more he sat down and scratched his little round ear. "This is a mystery," said he. "Where can Mrs. Peter have gone to? I do hope she hasn't been caught."

Meanwhile, Peter was using those long legs of his to the best advantage. Lippety-lippety-lip, he ran through the moonlight, straight through the Green Forest. He knew he was taking a risk, but he didn't care. Nothing happened until he was almost to the Green Forest. Then, as he looked back over his shoulders, he saw a swiftly moving shadow almost at his heels. Instantly, Peter dodged. He dodged just in time. Hooty the Great Horned Owl snapped his bill angrily, as he reached in vain with those great curved claws of his.

Now, Hooty may not look as if he can turn quickly, but you should see him when he has just missed some one. You would be surprised to see how quickly he can wheel in the air, it was just so now. He turned like a flash, and once more swooped at Peter. Again Peter dodged just in time. There was nothing to spare. One of Hooty's big wings actually touched Peter. For a few moments that was a lively place in the moonlight on the Green Meadows. Yes, sir, it was a very lively place! Peter Rabbit was jumping and dodging this way and that, and just above Hooty the Owl was wheeling and turning and swooping and snapping his great bill angrily, as he vainly clutched at Peter.

It was fortunate for Peter that he was almost at the edge of the Green Forest. With a final effort he dodged as Hooty swooped and then bounded straight for the shelter of the Green Forest. He dodged into an opening under a bramble-tangle barely in time. There, panting and puffing and blowing, he rested while Hooty flew off in disgust. For a few moments, Peter in the excitement, forgot what had brought him over to the Green Forest. Then he remembered. But for a long time he didn't dare leave that bramble-tangle. He couldn't be sure that Hooty wasn't watching for him from some nearby tree. So he sat there patiently, chewing angrily on nothing at all, anxious to resume his search for Mrs. Peter and the handsome young rabbit he was sure was with her.

Hold Your Horses

Guess nobody ever yet
Has more fun than us, I bet;
Which is when us two girls go
Ridin' with a man we know.
He's th' Gravel Wagon Man—
Hauls us on th' 'Stallment Plan,
As he calls it—'count o' we Go to school all week, yo see.

Gravel Wagon Man declares
He puts wishes in his prayers
Saturday will soon arrive
So's us girls can help him drive.
Oh, he's got a funny scheme
Makin' us two hold his team;
"Hold your horses!" he will say,
So his team won't run away!

Then he laughs an' says he bets
When us two grown up an' gets
Sweethearts, we won't let th' lines
Hang down loose like punkin-vines.
"Men an' horses is th' same,
So you'd better learn th' game,"
He says, chucklin'—next he'll go
"Cluck-cluck-cluck!" an' holler "Whoa!"

All day long we sit beside Gravel Wagon Man an' ride.
He says "Hold your horses!" seems
More than holdin' lines on teams;
Hold your tongue—your temper, too—
That's what people ought to do:
Then we'd live in happy days-
Never have no runaways!

Sea-Birds

O lonesome sea-gull, floating far
Over the ocean's icy waste,
Aimless and wide thy wanderings are,
Forever vainly seeking rest;—
Where is thy mate, and where thy nest?

'Twixt wintry sea and wintry sky,
Cleaving the keen air with thy breast,
Thou sailest slowly, solemnly;
No fetter on thy wing is pressed;—
Where is thy mate, and where thy nest?

O restless, homeless human soul,
Following for aye thy nameless quest,
The gulls float, and the billows roll;
Thou watchest still, and questionest;—
Where is thy mate, and where thy nest?

"But you have just advertised for agents to sell our new work," protested the secretary.

"Of course I want to try the applicants out. If a man could be stopped by a little thing like that, what good would he be to us?"—Pathfinder.

A passenger embarking in a Vienna-Salzburg commercial plane in Austria was carried upside down over the city when his foot became entangled in the rods of the plane as it was taking off. Rockets were fired to attract the attention of the pilot to the plight of his dangling passenger. The plane descended and the passenger was taken off unhurt, but unconscious.

Leon Lapham, out fishing at Andover, Me., made a cast in one of the pools and a big white miller skipped over the surface. Something large and black chased the miller, but visions of a giant red-spot were shattered when he saw a good sized beaver following the line. Suddenly the beaver sighted the fisherman. There was a flap of the tail and instantly he was out of sight.

SPECULATIVE FAVORITES LED GENERAL ADVANCE IN PRICES IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP)—A brisk rally in stocks today held the principal attention in the speculative markets, although an advance of about $5 a bale in cotton, following an unexpectedly bullish ginnings reports by the U. S. census bureau, was a point of considerable interest.

A long list of issues on the stock exchange moved rapidly upward from the start, under the leadership of several of the popular speculative favorites. The strength of prices was in reflection of the threat of short interests, as well as to a growing belief that the recent general declines had improved materially the technical position of the market.

Activity of U. S. Steel and General Motors was presumably in anticipation of the earnings statements of the two companies, which were not made public until after the close. Steel common and preferred sold up rapidly on the latter to a new high record of 138, the belief that the earnings would hold better than had been expected. The showing of $41,372,531 total earnings, whereas a figure under $40,000,000 would not have been surprising, tended to bear out the traders' expectations.

There was nothing in the day's news to indicate a decided change in the business or monetary situation. Although banks called some of $15,000,000 in loans, call loans were available in ample volume all day at the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent. The turning over of several large blocks of pivotal shares, such as General Motors and U. S. Steel at the opening seemed to presage the broad rally which followed.

Lead by General Motors, several other automotive shares displayed outstanding strengths, especially Hudson, Packard and Mack Truck, motor equipments also were whirled upward, particularly Timken Roller Bearing, which sold up 3 points to 115 1-2.

Numerous gains of 1 or more points were recorded in the railway group, with New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio in the lead. The dividend paying carriers were the most buoyant, while some of the merger stocks had a hesitant tone. Wabash, which has been reported under accumulation by competitive buyers, suffered a relapse, sinking more than 4 points to 66 1-4 and then rebounding to 47 1-4.

Among the specialties, farm implement shares were in demand, International Harvester scoring a net gain of 6 1-8 points. Radio Corporation added 3 5-8 points to its previous high when it sold at 75 5-8. Montgomery Ward and Woolworth had net gains of 1 7-8 and 4 1-4 points respectively. Houston Oil and General Asphalt were the leaders in the petroleum division, with advances of 7 3-4 and 1 3-4 on the day, tobacco, copper and independent steel stocks all save good accounts of themselves.

In general the best prices of the day were reached in the final hour, when the shorts found the supply of the leading issues in greatly reduced supply.

Aside from the jump in cotton futures, gains of 1 1-2 to 2 cents a bushel in wheat futures featured the commodity markets. Sugar quotations were unchanged and futures were quoted 2 points higher to 3 lower. Coffee prices eased off 1 to 13 points on the day.

A fractional advance in Dutch guilders to a new year's high contrasted with easing tendencies elsewhere in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled slightly lower around $4.86 9-16 and French francs close to 3.92 1-4 cents. Spanish and Japanese currencies were two points or so lower.

SAFERDA'S CASE IS CONTINUED TO NOV. 8TH BY NEW LONDON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 25—Elias Saferda, 21, of Central Falls, R. I., was in the police court this morning on a charge of reckless driving. The case was continued to Nov. 8 and Saferda furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his appearance on that date. Saferda was arrested last night by Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith as the result of an automobile accident Sunday afternoon. The car which Saferda was driving and in which was Charles McFoud, 19, also of Central Falls, collided with an automobile driven by Frieda Gardner of New Haven. The crash caused Saferda to lose control of the steering wheel with the result that the auto left the highway and overturned, finally coming to a stop against a tree. McFoud sustained a crushed chest and internal injuries. He is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where his condition is critical.

CHARGES NOT SUSTAINED AGAINST PATROLMAN WELLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 25—Patrolman Clarence Wells was today exonerated by City Manager William A. Holt of charges of conduct unbecoming a police officer. The city manager informed Captain Charles A. Pinney, who referred the charges to that effect and instructed Captain Pinney to cause Patrolman Wells to resume duty tonight, going on patrol duty with the 8 o'clock watch. In rendering his finding, City Manager Holt stated that as a result of the hearing before him yesterday afternoon there was no evidence presented to him that Officer Wells had been guilty of misconduct. The hearing was ordered following Captain Pinney informing the city manager that Patrolman Wells had been suspended on the misconduct charges, after Captain Pinney had been instructed to provide the city manager with all the facts in the case. The misconduct charges were the outgrowth of the death of Miss Hannah Frederickson, former Lawrence-Memorial hospital nurse, from septic poisoning, following a criminal abortion, the young woman dying ten days ago at the Rhode Island state hospital, Providence. The officer's name was mentioned in connection with the case and after Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith, who had been assigned to make a complete investigation of the affair and with certain information reports of the officers, he ordered the suspension of the officer. Officer Wells made a statement to the investigators in which he openly admitted having been friendly with Miss Frederickson, to having taken her for automobile rides and having given her presents. After the investigators had concluded their task of ascertaining facts in the case the data was handed to City Manager Holt. It was typewritten and comprised 25 pages. The announcement that Patrolman Wells had been found not guilty of the charges was received with expressions of satisfaction by the members of the police department. One of the youngest members of the department, he had always borne an excellent reputation, both as an officer and a citizen.

The funeral of Cornelia E., widow of Frank C. Johnson, of Lyman court, was held this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the chapel of Mountain Grove cemetery, Bridgeport, where the committal also took place. The services were conducted by Rev. George W. Brown.

The funeral of Elias E. Sorensen, chief machinist's mate, United States Coast Guard academy, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 16 Poquonoc road, Groton. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. A detachment of sailors acted as bearers and a firing squad fired a volley and taps were sounded as the body was lowered to its final resting place in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Julia A. Chapman was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Wagner, pastor of the Huntington street Baptist church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

City Clerk Julian D. Moran is having a week's vacation.

John Saunders, 21, of 39 Belden street, was arrested last night by Patrolman Walter O'Neill, being locked up for safe-keeping. When Saunders was presented in the police court today he was ordered discharged. Saunders was observed on State street by Officer O'Neill, who was attracted to the young man because of his actions. Saunders said he was ill and he was taken to police headquarters and detained for it was not considered safe for Saunders to be allowed to roam at will.

Grant Bliven, 268 Connecticut avenue, reported to the police today that while his automobile was parked on Colt street last night a thief entered it and stole his registration.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles H. B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Boleslaw Haberek, 30 Winthrop street; Harry S. Berg, 6 Cliff street and Hugh Lydell, United States Coast Guard, state pier. Haberek was arrested by state police Friday in Groton charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Yesterday he was fined $100 and costs in the Groton town court, but $50 of the fine was ordered remitted.

Patrolman George Laboue reported at police headquarters early this morning that a leak in a water main existed in front of the premises, 238 Connecticut avenue. Today a force of city employes repaired the break.

An automobile driven by Reuben A. Hyman, 28 Market street, Norwich and a car owned by N. Newton Peck, 260 Edgewood street, Hartford, were damaged last night when the former auto collided with Peck's car. Peck's machine was parked beside the curb, and it was struck with great force when Hyman's auto was caught in the trolley tracks, causing it to skid. Before Hyman could get the machine under control it struck the side of Peck's car, extensively damaging both front and rear mudguards. Hyman reported the accident at police headquarters, but said he could not locate the driver of the parked auto. A short time after Hyman left police headquarters, Peck appeared there to report his damage. He was given the address of Hyman.

Frederick Lancier, submarine base sailor, was in the police court this morning charged with taking an automobile without permission of the owner and driving an automobile without permission of the owner. Lancier, who is but 19, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving an automobile without having a license and was sentenced to 30 days in jail for taking a license without the permission of the owner. Lancier was arrested Saturday night when he went to the public service stand and took an automobile owned by Mariano Scira, 655 Bank street, in charge of John Philopena. After securing control of the automobile Lancier drove through Bank street, where he was arrested by Patrolmen Patrick Sheehan and Edward Riordan.

Edward Levinson of Montauk avenue and Dr. Isadore Hendel, of Broad street, have returned to their homes here after a four-days' automobile trip to Philadelphia, to Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsberg, Pa. Altogether Messrs. Levinson and Hendel traveled over 800 miles.

Daniel Daly of Winthrop street has returned home after a motor trip to Bear Mountain, over the Storm King Highway and to Albany. Mr. Daly was accompanied by his brother, Francis Daly and by his aunt, Mrs. Chester Wright, the last named of Norwich.

James E. Cummings made a report to the police this evening that on the night of Sept. 29 an automobile driven by Charles L. Jenkins a, member of the crew of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Cassin, collided with Cummings' automobile on Broad street and damaged it. Cummings said that Jenkins was guilty of violation of the state motor vehicle laws and requested that Jenkins be arrested.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ENTER DOUGLASS HOUSE, LINDEN ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Winfield Douglass, of 97 Linden street, reported to the police this evening that an attempt had been made to gain entrance to her home. Mrs. Douglass said that she was away from home this afternoon and when she returned the front door displayed unmistakable signs of having been tampered with. The door showed that someone had endeavored to jimmy it to gain entrance, but because of the secureness of the fastenings the thief was unsuccessful.

NORMAN J. BOND DIES FROM INFANTILE PARALYSIS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 25.—Norman J. Bond, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Bond, of Niantic, died last night at Washington, D. C., from infantile paralysis, the child having been ill but a few days. The father of the child is employed by the federal government, in the statistical department of the bureau of education, department of the interior. The family resided last summer at the home of Mr. Bond's mother, Mrs. James Bond, at Black Point, East Lyme. Besides his parents, the boy leaves a sister, Elizabeth, aged five.

The Day Nursery conducted a Tag day here Saturday when a group of young ladies solicited contributions from pedestrians, a number of the young women being stationed at conspicuous places throughout the city. As a result of their efforts it is stated that $400 was collected by the workers. The money will be turned into the treasury of the nursery and will be expended in caring for children who are left with the nursery attendants while their mothers are at work.

Rev. James W. Bixler of Exeter, Mass., former pastor of the Second Congregational church will occupy the pulpit of that church Sunday next. Rev. Mr. Bixler was pastor of the church for a quarter of a century. He has not filled the pulpit since he left New London twenty-five years ago.

George N. Bates, administrator of the estate of Mary E. Bates, has sold to Carrie M. Hewitt a house and lot on Granite street. Mrs. Hewitt will take possession of the house about Nov. 1, removing there from Bellevue place.

NOANK

Sea gulls that fly over the salt water and help keep the river clean by getting fish, are becoming tame and are not afraid. The boat Flip was out to the Race for blackfish. The crew was Capt. Ivan Crossman and Mate Franklin Rathbun. The fish were coming in well and two cunners were laid on the deck. Soon a sea gull with a keen eye saw the fish and wanted a good meal. Mate Rathbun turning around saw the bird after the fish and held it in his hand. Flying around a few minutes still looking at the fish, with a quick grab the gull took the fish out of his hand. Another day a sea gull took one from the deck of another boat. These birds are guarding the harbor and ocean in all kinds of weather to keep it clean of dead fish, so fishermen see that no harm is done to the gulls. A heavy fine is the penalty if any of these birds are shot.

H. Brown who is a star guard on Chapman Tech football team, New London, was playing against Westerly in that city, working hard for the Red and Black to win. He received a bad cut on his writ and had to retire from the game. The cheering section gave him a great salute. A doctor was called from the crowd and four stitches were taken to close the wound. The heavyweight boy from Noank will be missed from the squad for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Clark left in their sedan with Miss Ethel Latham behind the wheel, for a long trip to Vermont, then to Bear Mountain, to Canada, then into Pennsylvania. They were expected back to the village Tuesday, and were to cover nearly 3,500 miles. Mr. Clark has an uncle in Pennsylvania and it is the first time they have met in 20 years, since Mr. Clark came to Noank. A post card from Miss Latham to Miss Helen Clark, stated that the weather was fine. In Canada they were having indian summer; but when they hit Philadelphia it was cool. Overcoats and wraps being needed.

American Mechanics lodge held an open meeting in their rooms on Front street recently where over 125 were present. It is planned to get new members for the lodge and a big drive is being planned. The meeting was in charge of Orrin Oles and guest were entertained from Norwich, New London, Westerly and Stonington. The D. of A. helped their brother lodgemen out. The speakers were Steve Austin, Francis Bruck of Stonington, Walter Wolverston. Steve Austin told how long he has been a member of the Mechanics and hoped to see the Noank lodge have a roll of 200 members. Dancing followed the meeting. Hustead Brown's Speed Boys orchestra played during the evening. Steward John Bentley gave them a lunch of potato salad and hot dogs with pie and coffee.

THE MACHINERY INDUSTRY

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England.

The machinery produced in this section of New England industry as considered in a survey recently conducted by the United States department of commerce in cooperation with the New England council is so varied as to make general deductions difficult, but it may be noted that sales have on the whole increased since 1921, and 57 per cent of the goods sold by the companies with which the survey is concerned, find a market in New England. Establishments included in this report manufacture machinery for woodworking, cooling and conditioning sewing, power transmission, paper and pulp making, tanning, laundry work, bookbinding and many other specialties.

The average age of plants in this survey is 34 years, and the bulk of production is in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Few plants were reported as having been started in the last six years, and branch plants are operated by only 5 per cent of the 124 concerns making reports. Piece work or other incentive methods of wage payment are used by a large majority, but not to any great extent, the average number of employes so paid being but 5 per cent. Seasonal fluctuation is slight but such as there is has been met with supplementary production and other metals are bought mostly outside New England. Most of the establishments have been attracted to this section by labor conditions and nearness to market.

Many improvements in manufacturing practices have been made, mostly in standardization of product, organization and executive control, and accident prevention. Sales increases have been attributed by the companies reporting to new products and intensive selling methods, and decreases to a change in nature of demand. The channel of distribution most widely used is that direct to the manufacturer.

Emphasis will be placed during the coming year chiefly upon marketing methods, management, and the development of exports, which in the past year averaged 7 per cent of total sales.

Are you fighting against middle-age?

ONE OF the most critical periods of a woman's life comes between 45 and 50. Most women dread the approach of middle-age because they know, only too well, the depressing ailments it brings.

The best preparation for this period a woman can have is a good physical condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her to gain strength and energy. It builds up the appetite and induces natural sleep. The following letters were written by women of middle-age.

AFTER LONG SUFFERING

South Omaha, Nebraska:— "After fifteen years of terrible suffering each month with sick headaches I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have felt my health steadily improving. After taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me. I also was troubled with nervousness. I am feeling fine now and do all my work myself. I am the mother of six, and manage an eight-room house without anybody to help. I feel that I am entirely well." Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., So. Omaha, Nebraska.

MRS. BOLLERMAN'S CASE

West Hoboken, N. J.:— "I was troubled with headaches, weakness, flushes of heat to the face and head and loss of appetite. I would often get so weak I could hardly stand. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel stronger and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I am a well woman today, and feel like a different person. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me." Mrs. Jennie Bollerman, 611 Eleventh St., Union City, New Jersey.

TAFTVILLE MAN CAUGHT WITH BEER LADEN TRUCK IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 26—A generous addition to the "booze vault" maintained for the federal prohibition department in the basement of the local postoffice has been made in the form of 30 cases, or 720 bottles of beer said to have enough "kick" to blow up an ordinary human. The beer was taken from a motor truck operated by Mathias Lavigne of Taftville, Monday forenoon when the character of the contents of the truck was accidentally discovered by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs while he was walking along the sidewalk. Officer Briggs happened to glance at the truck about the time that a beer bottle was protruding from beneath a covering over the truck which was parked. That one bottle of beer opened the avenue to 719 more similar bottles.

Lavigne was arrested when he went to get into the truck. Taken before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson, of Norwich, he was charged with having in his possession and transportation of liquor and he was bound over to the next term of the United States district court in Hartford. Bonds of $500 were furnished.

TOLD McALL AUXILIARY OF VISIT TO FRANCE

The autumn meeting of the Norwich McAll auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon at the Osgood Memorial parish house, when Miss Ellen Flagg, president of the Hartford auxiliary, talked of her recent summer spent in France. With great enthusiasm, Miss Flagg described the manifold activities carried on by the McAll mission among the humbler classes of the French people, with rare devotion by pastors and workers, both men and women of the deepest consecration and spirituality. As a means of bringing American tourists and residents in Paris into helpful touch with the work which is growing in many centers scattered throughout the country, a McAll auxiliary has lately been organized in Paris of which the secretary is Mlle. Julie Merle D'Aubigne, granddaughter of the author of the standard "Histoire de la Reformation de la Seizieme Siecle". In America young women in some cities are forming junior auxiliaries as their method of helping their elders in the support of this important enterprise.

At the close of the meeting tea was served and opportunity was given to renew membership in the Norwich auxiliary; (Mrs. S. H. Howe, treasurer) to subscribe to the McAll Record; to purchase the attractive McAll Christmass cards and to volunteer to make some of the simple garments for which there is a call from the needy ones connected with the mission.

INCREASE IN YEAR IN STATE'S MORTALITY RATE

The mortality rate for Connecticut during 1926 rose to 1,140 for 100,000 population from 1,125 for the year before, according to a report of the department of commerce at Washington. The total number of deaths was 18,318 for 1926, as compared with the 1925 figures of 17,680.

The increase in 1926 is accounted for by increases in the death rate from measles, from three to 13 per 100,000 population; influenza, from 21 to 30; diseases of the heart from 210 to 219; and pneumonia, from 96 to 101.

Decreases in death rates in 1926 were noted in diphtheria, from eight in 1925 to five per 100,000 population; diarrhea and enteritis from 20 to 17; and automobile accidents, from 22 to 19.

During 1926 there were 216 suicides as compared with 190 in the year before. Homicides dropped to 44 from 55. Accidents of all kinds, including burns, drownings, shootings, falls and mine, machinery, railroad and automobile mishaps, totaled 1,123 for 1926. The figures for deaths from these causes in 1925 were 1,158. The rate of deaths from the same causes for 1926 dropped to 69.9 per 100,000 population from 73.7 for the year before.

Influenza took 486 lives in 1926 as compared with 327 for 1925, and tuberculosis of all forms, 1,222, an increase of 62 over 1925. Cancer deaths increased to 1,668 from 1,656, pneumonia to 1,629 from 1,502 and measles to 203 from 40.

NINE OPERATORS ARE SUMMONED FOR HEARING

Nine automobile operators in this part of the state have been summoned to a hearing next Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the court house in New London.

Louis Richmond, 177 North Bank street, New London; A. L. Lamore, submarine base; Hermengilde Beauregard, North Grosvenordale, and William Thibeau, 17 Temple street, Stonington, have been summoned to answer to complaints made against them. John Danti, Saybrook, will be called upon for a statement in regard to a fatal accident in which he participated; Emilio Brustonolon, Avery street, Mystic, has been summoned on a charge of evading responsibility; and charges of operating while under the influence of liquor will be heard against Arthur Malacarne, Ivoryton; Emery E. Sherman, Riverside avenue, Noank, and Patrick A. Lynch, 19 Park street, Norwich.

Workmen's Compensation

The following workmen's compensation agreement has been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey:

Lyme Garage and Old Lyme Amusement Co., Old Lyme, employer, and Stanton Haynes, Lyme, employe, cut third finger of right hand, Sept. 12, at rate of $16.16.

CLAIMED RED WINE WAS FOR NORWICH WEDDING

Arrigi Arrigoni, 61, of the Bronx, N. Y., was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs of $16.85 by Judge Fred Dimmock in the Waterford town court Monday on the charge of transporting liquor, viz: 26 gallons of red wine.

Appearing in court with a crutch under one arm and a heavily bandaged hand and arm, the accused paid $100 of the fine from his own pocket. A friend paid the rest.

Arrigoni was charged with transporting liquor. His attorney, Lewis Crandall, interposed a demurrer. The demurrer was overruled by Judge Fred Dimock and the fine was meted out.

Arrigoni was arrested by State Policeman George Sisson, who observed Arrigoni's automobile off the highway, at station 16, Waterford, where it had crashed into a pole. Arrigoni, at that time was breaking up jugs containing red wine. The accused stated that he was to deliver the wine at a Norwich wedding, but that he could not find the house, and so he was going back to New York.

James Carter, Negro, of New London was fined $25 and costs of $9.86, after Attorney Lewis Crandall, his counsel, had waived reading of the complaint, and entered a plea of guilty to a reckless driving charge. Fifteen dollars of the fine was remitted. Carter was the driver of an automobile which on Sunday struck an automobile owned by Edwin DeSilva of Westfield, Mass. The accident occurred near Flat Rock hill on the Hartford turnpike. Carter drove the third car in a line driving toawrd N. London. The first car turned left to enter a side road. The second car stopped. Carter, unable to stop went to the left of the stopped car, and struck the machine which was making the left turn. State Policeman Donald C. Browne was the arresting officer. Prosecuting Attorney Floyd recommended leniency.

CONTINUING TRIAL IN SUIT CLAIMING $60,000

Trial in the $60,000 damage suit brought against the New London Ship and Engine Co., by the Textile Finishing Machinery Co. of Providence was resumed in the superior court at New London Tuesday morning before Judge Allyn L. Brown.

The case was continued from last Friday and the plaintiff is still placing witnesses on the stand. Attorneys Arthur M. Brown, Collins and Tillings, the latter two of Providence, are pressing the suit for the Providence concern, while Attorneys Arthur B. Calkins, Frank L. McGuire and C. Hadlai Hull, are battling for the ship and engine company.

The suit resulted from the manufacturing by the Groton concern of 16 castings or cylinders for the hydraulic presses in the Providence plant, which according to the plaintiff were made from such porous material that they would not withstand the regular amount of pressure and some of the presses broke down. The local company denied the allegations and furthermore maintains that the castings were manufactured exactly from the instructions received from the textile company.

PRESENTED SILVER VASE TO SAMUEL P. WILLARD

Forty intimate friends and associates extended congratulations to Samuel P. Willard of Colchester, head of the accounting department of the state board of education, at a dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Heublein, Hartford, to celebrate his forty years of service with the board. The gathering came as a surprise to Mr. Willard, and when Julian Curtiss, a member of the board and toastmaster for the occasion, stood and presented him a beautiful silver vase on behalf of his friends, Mr. Willard was deeply moved. The vase bore an inscription stating that the gift was a token of the "esteem and affection" in which Mr. Willard is held by the members of the board, and in "recognition of forty years of efficient service" in the employment of the board of education.

Mr. Curtiss introduced several speakers, including Charles L. Ames, member of the state board and principal of the Brown school district in Hartford; Frederick Verphanck, superintendent of South Manchester schools; W. D. Hood, member of the board and principal of the Gilbert school in Winsted; Dr. Albert B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, and Le Roy Howland, vice president of Wesleyan university and a member of the state board. All not only congratulated Mr. Willard on his forty years of service but wished him success during "forty more years of service with the board."

SILVER CUP AWARDED TO WILLINGTON W. C. T. U.

"Lengthen thy cords and strengthen thy stakes" was given as a slogan for the coming year to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Connecticut assembled in annual convention at Meriden Tuesday, by its president, Hon. Lena W. Greenbacker of Middlefield. Education is one of the cords to be lengthened, said Mrs. Greenbacker. Teach that prohibition is primarily a "Safety First" measure. Win the racial groups among us to a realization of what it means to be a true American. Show the youth of the land how they may best serve Christ's kingdom with body, mind and soul. Lengthen the cords of endeavor to bring about world prohibition and world peace. Let every woman recognize her civic responsibility by helping to elect a dry president next year and state officials who are personally dry. It is also important, stated Mrs. Greenbacker, that strengthening go hand in hand and keep pace with the lengthening. We must strengthen our stakes as did our crusade mothers, through prayer and faith in God and by dedicating ourselves to service.

Delegates present from most of the 90 unions in the state were cordially welcomed by the mayor of Meriden, the pastor of the convention church and the president of the entertaining union. Mrs. Edna C. Fenniman of Naugatuck responded gracefully to these greetings.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Sarah A. Hull of Bristol, reported 600 new members secured this year. She awarded prizes for meeting the efficiency standards to the unions in Hartford, Newington, Unionville, Naugatuck, Seymour, Yalesville, East Danbury, Middlefield, Middletown, Stafford and Willington. The Willington union scored 100 points and was awarded the silver loving cup. The Stafford union presented the name of Mrs. Charlotte B. Foster as a memorial member.

The feature of the evening program was a grand gold medal contest. The contestants were Priscilla Comstotck of Somers, Henry DiPorslo of Meriden, Marian Harvey of Durham, Eileen Lewis and Dorothy Ray of New London and Texai Wilson of Newington. The judges were Mrs. Dora E. W. Spratt of Clinton, Mrs. Edna Penniman of Naugatuck and Mrs. Sarah P. Lague of Watertown.

GOVERNMENT MAKES REPORT ON EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS

In its nationwide survey of employment conditions in September, the department of labor at Washington finds the following for Norwich, New London and Willimantic:

Norwich — The paper and textile mills, which were on part-time schedules in August, have resumed full-time operations. One foundry is now working part time, but the released workers in this case were absorbed during the month on other industries. Building is dull. Farm labor conditions are reported as satisfactory.

New London—All plants are operating at capacity, one silk mill, one textile mill, and one shop and engine plant working overtime. A shortage of female garment workers was reported during the month. Increased waterfront work provided employment for about 200 men during September. Building problems under way afford work to approximately 300 craftsmen, with the local supply sufficient for the demand.

Willimantic — A slight surplus of workers was apparent in September. Except three that are closed, all plants are operating. Building activities under way keep local craftsmen well engaged.

NOLLE ENTERED ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

At the city court session Tuesday morning a complete nolle was entered in the case of Everett Brown, employed at the Norwich state hospital. He was charged with reckless driving. Mr. Brown was arrested September 24 after the machine he was driving hit Mrs. Angie Taylor of Uncasville as she was about to board a trolley car in Thamesville. Mr. Brown testified that Mrs. Taylor deliberately stepped off the curb in front of his machine without giving any warning of her intention. Mrs. Taylor claimed that she was about to step onto the car when Mr. Brown's machine hit her.

COURT GRANTS INJUNCTION AGAINST STOCK TRANSFER

Judge Charles B. Waller has issued an injunction restraining Charles Glassenberg, of New London, from transferring his shares of stock in the New London News Co., Inc., during the time a suit is pending against him which was brought for $700 damages by H. Watchinsky, of New London, in the court of common pleas. The penalty for violating this injunction was set at $1,000.

According to the complaint, A. Watchinsky on May 1, 1926 executed a promissory note for $1,000 to the order of the Winthrop Trust Co. to be paid as follows: $20 on May 8, 1926 and $20 on each Saturday thereafter until the amount had been paid.

The defendant endorsed the note, it is alleged, waiving notice of protest and notice of default on failure to pay any installment. The plaintiff, it is set out, for the accommodation of the maker, endorsed the note with the defendant's endorsement in blank thereon so that the note might be delivered and discounted at the bank.

It is further alleged that on Nov. 23, 1926, after paying $520 on the principal, A. Watchinsky failed to pay the remaining installments, which amounted to $480. These, the plaintiff paid, it is alleged. The defendant, when requested to reimburse the plaintiff refused to do so and according to the complaint:

"The defendant is the owner of shares of stock in the New London News Co., inc., but though the plaintiff has made diligent search, he has been unable to find sufficient other property belonging to the defendant which could be secured by attachment or execution to satisfy a judgment upon this compaint and has no knowledge of the location of the certificate for said stock."

The paintiff claims $700 damages and an injunction "restraining the defendant from transferring said stock" during pendency of the action and upon judment,g "a mandatory injunction requiring the delivery of the certificates of stock to the officer holding an execution based thereon."

INSANE MAN CLIMBS TO TOP OF TROLLEY

Laboring under an hallucination that his wife and mother-in-law were locked up somewhere in a Norwich-New London trolley car, Michael McNulty, 32, of Uncasville, climbed to the top of the trolley car to search for them Tuesday afternoon. He was taken off the car at 12:45 o'clock and escorted to police headquarters. It was evident that the man is insane. He stated that he had been discharged from prison Monday.

MONTVILLE PASTOR LEARNS MOTHER DIED SUDDENLY

Sadness was cast over the Montville Center church congregation Sunday when Rev. Clarence Clark, assistant to Rev. William Barnes, just before entering the pulpit to deliver his sermon, received a telegram from his New Hampshire home saying his mother had dropped dead. Much sympathy was felt for Mr. Clark as he is very much beloved. He left immediately after the sermon for home.

FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

After she had entered a plea of guilty of a charge of violating the liquor law, Mrs. Victoria Kusak, 32, of Monroe street, was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for 10 days at the Tuesday session of the city court. She was arrested Monday night after a police aid had purchased a pint of liquor from her at her home.

Conducted Home Demonstration.

Home demonstrations under the direction of Mrs. B. H. J. Robinson, home demonstrator of the farm bureau, were conducted on Monday and Tuesday. The demonstration Monday was on felt hats and was held with Mrs. Paul Lamphere of Old Mystic. On Tuesday there was an all day meeting at Wequetequock, Mrs. E. W. Woods leader, the demonstration being on Christmas suggestions and millinery.

Groton Man Buys Here

The property which was once the old school building on School street has been sold to Jefferson O. Bailey of Groton. The property consists of 12 tenements. Foreclosure judgment was secured several weeks ago by Robert H. Montgomery of a mortgage for $4,000 against Joseph Vetrano. Mr Bailey held a second mortgage for $1,400.

SAYS GROTON AFFAIRS IN CHAOTIC CONDITION

Herman Johl, president of Max Pollack, Inc., and a member of the Groton Chamber of Commerce makes the following statement, relative to a meeting which members of the chamber, Selectmen Clark B. Whaley and Conrad Kretzer, and Tax Collector Irving H. Poppe, had with Tax Commissioner William Blodgett in the latter's office at Hartford recently:

In order to correct erroneous impressions created by false rumors being circulated regarding the purpose of the interview with the tax commissioner at Hartford, and matters discussed at this interview, it seems advisable at this time to publicly inform the citizens of the town of Groton of the efforts made for their welfare by men who are citizens and tax payers of the town. These men also happen to be members of the Groton Chamber of Commerce. It may be well to state that these men have no personal gain in view and have only the welfare of the whole town at heart rather than being a group whose motives are questionable.

The prime reason for the interview was to discuss the increasing amount of delinquent taxes in the town and it was most emphatically impressed upon those present, including the selectmen and tax collector, that the administration of the affairs of Groton is in a chaotic and reactionary condition, including present methods of assessments.

DUWELLS BEGIN THEIR PINOCHLE TOURNAMENT

The pinochle season opened at the Duwell club Monday evening, when the club's regular pinochle tournament got under way. The present tournament will run for ten weeks, closing just before Christmas. Seven tables were in play Monday evening.

No Fear Now of Offense!

So Sweet and Clean Inside! No Offensive Vapors From the Pores

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew! The old fashioned way was "salts." They get action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentler, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists, 10c and 25c.

"MY OLD DREAD of unpleasant vapors when I was excited or warm used to spoil a party for me. It was even worse after a purging. It was a good friend who told me the wholesome sweetening of one or two—

AMUNDSEN MYSTERIOUSLY ABANDONS LECTURE TOUR

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Leaving behind him a broken contract and mingled emotions of anger, pitty and shocked surprise, Roald Amundsen was on his way to Norway tonight after a sudden and mysterious departure variously ascribed to a "row," a "brain storm," and an unidentified "influence."

Amundsen only arrived in this country a week ago Monday and was to have begun a lecture tour on next Tuesday which would keep him here until March. He had accepted an invitation to be guest of honor Saturday at a dinner where he was to be awarded the Explorers' club medal.

But despite this, Amundsen sailed on the Bergenafjord yesterday, his only explanations to his lecture manager and the Explorers' club being telegrams reading: "Am sailing today. Sorry I cannot be with you."

Consequently Lee Keedick, who has managed the explorer's lectures for 14 years, had to cancel all arrangements for the proposed tour and Rudolph Skersting, secretary of the Explorers' club, despatched 200 telegrams withdrawing invitations to the presentation dinner.

At the Explorers' club today considerable pique was exhibited and the explanation was offered that "Amundsen had a row with his lecture manager."

Keedick declared today that he could only explain the action by the fact that after Amundsen arrived here "he became under some influence that made it imperative for him to leave the country at once, and secretly."

One of the most peculiar phases of the situation developed when it became known that Amundsen had told his publishers, Doubleday Page and company, as long ago as last Saturday, that he had given up his lecture tour and was sailing Tuesday. They were amazed to learn that the departure was a general mystery and could suggest no reason why the explorer had not made his decision known to the persons most interested.

At least once before in his life, a life incidentally which has been dotted with heated controversies, Amundsen took to the sea when pressure ashore became unbearable to him. In his most recent book, "My Life as an Explorer", he tells that as he was preparing for his conquest of the northwest passage in 1903 his lack of funds was so great that one creditor threatened to have his ship libelled and himself arrested for fraud.

"I grew desperate and I resolved upon a desperate expedient," he writes. "I summoned by six carefully chosen companions, and at midnight in a perfect deluge of rain we seven conspirators went aboard the Gjoa, cast off the hawsers, and turned southward. When dawn arose on our truculent creditor, we were safely out on the open main, seven as light-hearted pirates as ever flew the black flag."

Friends of the explorer considered the possibility today that financial affairs might be at the root of the present departure just as they were in 1903. Keedick told one incident which showed, at any rate, that Amundsen had his financial condition very much on his mind.

"The contract for the proposed speaking tour," he said, "was made last January on Amundsen's own terms. When he arrived last week he still seemed to think it a good contract. But a few days later he came to me and demanded radical changes. He said if I did not meet his demands he would break the contract and it would do me no good to sue as he was a bankrupt and had nothing."

Keedick said he attempted a compromise and an appointment was made for yesterday to talk the matter over. While Keedick was waiting to keep that appointment Amundsen was taking ship for Norway.

"This is not the first surprising thing he has done in his dealings with me, said Keedick. "After his last expedition, the flight over the North Pole, he telegraphed me "I am never going to give any more lectures." So I went ahead and signed up Lieut' Noble, who had been pilot of Amundsen's airship. Then in stormed Amundsen and told me that I would have to cancel Noble's contract, that he had decided to give the lectures himself. Of course I did nothing and he never mentioned the matter again."

WIRELESS MESSAGE SENT BY AMUNDSEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—Roald Amundsen sent a wireless to the Associated Press tonight concerning his sudden departure for Norway on the eve of a lecture tour and a dinner at which he was to be given a medal, out the wireless left the situation as mysterious as before.

A wireless had been sent him on board ship asking for an explanation of his action. His reply was: "Confer Keedick."

Lee Keedick is the lecture manager under whose sponsorship the explorer was to have toured the country. He said he was quite ready to confer but that he could only guess as to the reason why Amundsen had left.

UNUSUAL SWIFTNESS IN THE OIL CONSPIRACY CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Approaching with swift strides the crux of their case—the Liberty bond transaction which followed the lease of Teapot Dome—special government oil counsel today presented to a District of Columbia supreme court jury a volume of testimony to support their contentions of deception and secrecy in connection with that lease.

As witness followed witness to the stand with, for this case, an unusual swiftness, Albert B. Fall conferred frequently both with his own counsel and with that for his co-defendant, Harry F. Sinclair, and once halted proceedings with the exclamation of "just a moment," while he could carry forward such conferences.

Sinclair manifested his usual appearance of calm, but occassionally talked with his attorneys. The jurors, women as well as men, followed the testimony very closely, some of them frequently leaning forward in their chairs for long spells, the better to hear some of the witnesses whose voices had no great carrying power.

Representatives of three big oil producing companies told of their efforts to get leases on the Wyoming naval reserve, in the transfer of which the government charges Fall and Sinclair with a criminal conspiracy to defraud the government both of this physical property as well as of the faithful services of Fall as interior secretary.

CURTIS ENTERS FIELD FOR THE PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The 1928 presidential sweepstakes were formally opened today with the announcement by Charles Curtis, of Kansas, republican leader of the senate, to Kansas friends, that he would be a candidate.

The announcement, embodied in a letter to Roy L. Bone, of Topeka, Kansas, president of the "Curtis For President" club in that city, is the first definite declaration of intention by any of the numerous republicans who have been talked of as candidates since President Coolidge made his last statement last August that he did not choose to run in 1928.

Counted as an administration stalwart in his capacity as leader of the republicans in the senate, Mr. Curtis made it clear that he would run only as a candidate in his own right.

"I will not allow myself to be used as a 'stalking horse for anyone,'" the veteran legislator and former Kansas prosecutor declared.

The outspokenness of the Kaw Indian whose blood flows in his veins was apparent when Senator Curtis declared: "I will not consent to become a candidate if the delegation is to be selected with the view of voting for me a few ballots as a 'favorite son.'"

SPREAD OF SMALLPOX AT PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL

PROVIDENCE, R. I. Oct. 26.—(AP)—Officials of the Providence City hospital were still trying to assign responsibility tonight for the spread of smallpox at that institution, nationally regarded hitherto as a model in its treatment of contagious diseases.

Instead of a single case of the disease taken to the hospital and placed in supposed isolation three weeks ago, there are now five persons suffering from the illness

"CHIEF DEVIL" RESPONSIBLE FOR IRREGULARITIES

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Responsibility for alleged irregularities in administration of the 1925 state census today was laid to a "chief devil," who had not as yet been brought to light.

This was revealed in a confidential report made to the Cities Census Committee, Inc., on Oct. 17, last, by its secretary, Dr. Walter B. Laidlaw, and read by Commissioner Randall J. Le Boeuf, Jr., at today's session of the investigation ordered by Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Reading of the report came as a surprise to Dr. Laidlaw and followed testimony by him that he did not think Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state and census administrator, had been "100 per cent. culpable for all the wastage." His charges were largely responsible for the inquory.

"The chief devil in the whole business is not mentioned in my report," Commissioner Le Bouef read from the report. "I wanted those burnt papers to pillory him. But Le Boeuf knows who he is."

STATEMENT BY FORMER CROWN PRINCE CAROL

PARIS, Oct. 26—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, who is at present at St. Malo, confirmed today that M. Manoilescu, former Rumanian under-secretary of finance, arrested at Bucharest, was the bearer of letters from him to the leaders of the political parties in Rumania, including Premier Bratiano.

"His arrest was a direct provocation to public opinion," said Carol, "and an infringement on liberty."

He declared that the letters to the party leaders were intended to bring before the public his statement after the death of his father, King Ferdinand, which, he asserted, had been suppressed by the Rumania government.

"The leaders of the parties," continued Carol, "solicited from me confirmation of that declaration, so that the people might understand the situation. It is the government itself that keeps the dynastic question boiling, because it refuses to allow free discussion of it. The government has taken a grave responsibility in arresting Manoilescu, and the consequences will fall upon it. May God protect my country and give it wisdom to act according to its interests. That is all I ask."

BROKER IS CHARGED WITH $20,000 EMBEZZLEMENT

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A warrant charging five counts of embezzlement by agent totaling more than $20,000 has been issued against Frank I. Smith according to an announcement made by City Attorney Harry M. French here today. Smith is alleged to be head of a brokerage concern with its main offices in Providence, R. I., and branches here, in Boston, Springfield, Hartford, and Waterbury.

250 PERSONS KILLED IN JUGOSLAVIA TRAIN WRECK

HAVRE, France, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Havre committee inquiring into the collision between the French liner Paris and the Norwegian oil tanker Bessengen in New York harbor on October 15, ended its investigation today. Announcement was made that no blame could be attached to anybody.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Sean MacBride, son of Major MacBride, who was executed in 1916 for participation in the Easter week rebellion, was arrested yesterday for the third time in connection with the murder July 10 of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the Irish Free State council.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE PROCLAIMS NOV. 24 THANKSGIVING DAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Declaring that the nation has passed through a year of domestic success and tranquility marked by friendly relations with other countries of the world, President Coolidge called upon the people today to set aside Thursday, Nov. 24, as Thanksgiving day on which they might consider the "manifold blessings" which have come to them.

While the country has enjoyed material success, he said, there has also been an advance in "wisdom and spiritual understanding" and an increased desire for "the things that minister to the mind and soul."

Recalling that disaster has visited some states during the year, Mr. Coolidge declared that in continuing to remember those in affliction the country should rejoice in its power to extend a helping hand.

The text of the proclamation follows:

By the President of the United States of America

A proclamation.

Under the guidance and watchful care of a divine and beneficient providence this country has been carried safely through another year. Almighty God has continued to bestow upon us the light of his countenance and we have prospered. Not only have we enjoyed material success but we have advanced in wisdom and in spiritual understanding. The products of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a high level. There have been advancement in our physical well being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life.

We have had the blessings of peace and of honorable and friendly relations with our sister nationals throughout the world. Disasters visiting certain of our states have touched the heart of a sympathetic nation, which has responded generously out of its abundance. In continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief.

Now that these twelve months are drawing close, it is fitting that, as a nation, and as individuals, in accordance with time-honored sacred custom, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us. While in gratitude we rejoice, we should humbly pray that we may be worthy of a continuation of divine favor.

Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby set apart and designate Thursday the 24th day of November, next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and recommend and urge that on that day our people lay aside their usual tasks, and by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of public worship, give thanks to him who holds all in the hollow of his hand.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and fifty-second.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.
By the president.
FRANK B. KELLOGG,
Secretary of State.

WHY NEW HAVEN COP WAS SUSPENDED BY CHIEF

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26—(AP)—Chief of Police Philip Smith believes that "a police officer should be able to drive an automobile well enough to avoid an accident," so Officer Thomas H. O'Donnell, attached to the Chapel street precinct, is temporarily under suspension.

O'Donnell, having the day off, was driving an automobile in which was his brother officer, William J. Shanley of Station 5, Fair Haven. At a street inter-section, making a turn, they had a slight collision with another machine which had come in the opposite direction and was turning onto the same street as O'Donnell.

A complaint was made, O'Donnell was arrested, and Chief Smith went to the Dixwell avenue station to look into the matter. He took one look and ordered the officer suspended pending his apearance tomorrow morning at a hearing.

Shanley, who was not suspended, had been engaged some hours earlier in an altercation with a civilian which is still under investigation.

NEW MOTOR BOLTED IN THE PLANE, DAWN

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 26—(AP)—A new motor tonight had been bolted into the place of one which failed off Sable Island, N. S., last Sunday, forcing the return of the Dawn, twin-motored amphibian monoplane in which Mrs. Frances W. Grayson hopes to fly to Copenhagen.

The new motor arrived shortly before noon today and mechanics spent the rest of the daylight hours in uncrating, cleaning and installing it in the plane.

GOV. TRUMBULL ELECTED TO AVIATION SOCIETY

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Governor John H. Trumbull, of Connecticut, who has been described as America's first "flying governor," was made a member of the American society for the promotion of aviation today, Thomas L. Hill, president of the organization, announced.

Membership in the society was extended to the Connecticut governor in recognition of his recent solo flight

Efforts to Revive The Cotton Industry

Fine Cotton Goods and Cotton and Rayon Mixtures Displayed in Boston.

George A. Sloan, secretary of the institute, told of the active interest of the institute in the practical problems of fine cotton goods mills which form an important part of New England textile industry. He said that the institute was lending active support to the fine cotton goods exchange of New Bedford which was rapidly becoming a national institution.

DORY OF LOST SCHOONER BROUGHT INTO GLOUCESTER

BOSTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—A dory from the lost Gloucester fishing schooner Columbia, which is believed to have gone down in the heavy storms that swept the Atlantic on August 24, was brought into port here today by the fishing schooner Mary F. Sears.

The dory, No. 11, was picked up by the schooner last Monday about 65 miles southeast of Liverpool, N. S., covered with barnacles. It apparently had been in the water for several weeks. On board were found a bait knife, bearing initial "M" on the handle, a fish ladle and a tangled buoy line. There was nothing to indicate the fate of the men. Members of the crew of the Sears expressed the opinion the dory might have been swept from the schooner during the storm. The schooner which found the boat had been on a two weeks cruise to La Haven, N. S.

After the failure of the Columbia to return to port early this month, a search was made during which the coast guard cutter Tampa covered a wide area in the vicinity of the fishing banks. Although the cutter found nothing it picked up reports that debris from the schooner had been sighted by some other ships.

CHINESE RELEASED ON HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

HARTFORD, Oct. 26—(AP)—Sam Ong Jing, owner of the Manchester laundry where Ong Ging Hem was murdered by two tong gunmen last March 24, and who has been held as a material witness ever since, was released today upon a writ of habeas corpus signed by Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of the federal court in New Haven. State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn premitted the order to be signed without objection.

Tonight the laundryman was packing his belongings at the home of Constable Harrison K. Hotchkiss of Granby, where he has been staying for the past several weeks. His destination will be kept secret.

During the trial and pending the decision of the supreme court in the cases of Chin Lung and Soo Hoo Wing, convicted murderers of Ong Jing Hem, the state successfully resisted efforts to have Jing released in bail.

ALFRED SPENDER TO GIVE IKE BROMLEY LECTURES

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—Yale university announced today that J. Alfred Spender, noted British journalist and author, and former editor of the Westminster Gazette, is to give the Bromley lectures at Yale on January 9 and 10. Mr. Spender is now in the United States as the first senior fellowship established in memory of Walter Hines Page by the English-Speaking Union of the United States.

Thed Bromley lectureship, founde in 1900 in memory of Isaac H. Bromley, B. A. Yale 1853, for many years an editorial writer on the New York Tribune, provides for an annual course of lectures on journalism, literature, and public affairs. The first lectures on this foundation were given in 1900 by Whitelaw Reid. Frank A. Munsey, Bliss Perry, Hamilton Holt, Richard Hooker, Don Marquis, and Samuel K. Ratcliffe have also given Bromley lectures.

TWO CHINESE SLAYERS ARE CONDEMNED TO DEATH

HARTFORD, Oct. 26—(AP)—The sentence of Soo Hoo Wing and Chin Lung to die on the gallows November 1, for the murder of a fellow countryman in Manchester, during a Chinese tong war last March, was upheld by the supreme court of errors in Bridgeport today.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn followed the decision with an announcement that he would apply to Governor Trumbull tomorrow at the request of Homer S. Cummings, chief defense counsel, for a reprieve to permit the state board of pardons to consider the case when the board meets at the state prison on November 7.

Germany Studying Gilbert Memorandum

BERLIN, Oct. 26—(AP)—A mysterious memorandum from S. Gilbert Parker, agent general for reparations, to the Germany government received an airing today at a secret session of the reichstag's budget commission after Finance Minister Koehler had made a public report on the reich's finances to the committee.

After predicting in an open meeting of the committee that the Dawes plan would not be endangered by rising governmental expenses, Dr. Koehler asked the committee to go into executive session before he went into the nature of Mr. Parker's note, which has aroused widespread comment and speculation as to its nature. Dr. Koehler, however, is understood to have refrained from revealing the entire note even in the secret session.

In the open session Dr. Koehler told the legislators that the German economic ascendancy which was one of the manifestations of 1927 had brought about an increase of federal revenues and reduction of expenses. He predicted that taxes and duties will in all probability produce a surplus of 300,000,000 marks while pruning of administrative expenses may yield another 200,000,000.

Dr. Koehler reiterated that the government was determined to fulfill its obligations under the Dawes plan although he hopes its enforcement would always be carried out with due cognizance of Germany's economic progress.

After his report there were no objections when he asked for the doors to be closed for discussion of the Gilbert memorandum. Even government officials were asked to leave the room. Reports which leaked out after the closed session, however, were that the complete contents of the elusive document were not revealed even in the star chamber.

WOULD CURB BANKS OF SMALL CAPITALIZATION

HOUSTON, Texas., Oct. 26—(AP)—A curb on the establishment of new banks with small capitalization was endorsed by the American Bankers' association here today a sthe major weapon needed to combat bank failures.

Minimum capitalization of from $25,000 to $50,000 was suggested as one requirement that would go a long way toward reducing the frequency of failures, which have totaled 3,800 in the last six years. Hope was expressed by the economic policy commission of the association, which is headed by Evans Woollen of Indianapolis, that no revolutionary step such as a general diffusion of branch banking would be necessary to provide adequate protection for the depositor.

Too many banks has been the principal cause of failures, the commission held, and urged that charters be refused in communities where additional banks are not needed.

MILLIONAIRE ATTACKS THE AMERICAN SCHOOL SYSTEM

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—Alonzo B. See, millionaire maker of elevators, launches an attack upon all American schools and systems of education in his own book, "Schools," which he said today would be issued privately and at an expense to himself of $100,000.

"The little red schoolhouse turned out better-trained youths than the colleges today," the amateur author said. "I attack all the schools, all the colleges. None of them are any good. None of them recognizes the ultimate factors of education.

"I've asked hundreds of boys what they learn at school. They tell me 'everything,' but none of them can explain what that means. Naturally they do get everything—a smattering of arithmetic and forestry, of biology and algebra—but when they finally leave school scarcely one of them can add up a column of figures."

FAIR HAVEN REPUBLICANS BACK DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26—(AP)—At a meeting of the Fair Haven Republican club tonight the entire membership of 225 pledged themselves to vote for Philip Troup, democratic nominee for mayor at the forthcoming city election.

The club also made arrangements to hold a special rally for the republicans of the ward in a few days. A committee was named to wait upon Candidate Troup and other candidates on the democratic ticket to invite them to be present at the rally and discuss the campaign issues.

MAN 86 YEARS OLD TO WED A WOMAN OF 76

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Isabel Cushing, 76 years old, of Brockton and James W. Magan, 86, of Worcester, will be married tomorrow. Mrs. Cushing, who formerly resided in Troy, N. Y., has been a widow four times. Magan is a veteran of the Civil war.

FRANCE HAS SUSPENDED HIGHER TARIFF RATES ON AMERICAN IMPORTS

PARIS, Oct. 26—(AP)—The higher tariff rates recently imposed on American imports by the French government have been suspended, pending negotiations for a commercial treaty, M. Bokanowski, minister of commerce, announced tonight.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Action of the French government in suspending high tariff rates recently imposed on American goods, and which were regarded as discriminatory by the Washington government, was interpreted here as evidence that the basis for negotiation of a treaty of commerce and amity between the two countries to regularize commercial relations has virtually been reached.

Washington officials were extremely hopeful at the time the last American tariff note was sent to Paris that there would be no further necessity for formal exchanges in arriving at an agreement as to the basis upon which treaty negotiations were to proceed.

The French action presumably terminates a situation that for a time threatened an actual tariff warfare between the two countries.

68 STILL MISSING OF 1,238 ABOARD THE SUNKEN LINER

More Than 800 Italian Emigrants Were Aboard the Principessa Mafalda When She Went Down Off the Brazilian Coast—It is Not Known Whether the Ship Struck a Hidden Reef, or That the Disaster Was the Result of a Broken Screw Shaft Causing an Explosion of the Boilers—As the Ship Went Down the Sea Was Calm and the Night Was Clear.

Rescuing vessels, hurrying to aid the Mafalda in response to her S O S, are believed to have rescued all but some 68, out of a total of 988 passengers and a crew of 240.

The steamer sank about 30 miles from Porto Segura, a port of the state of Bahia. Whether she struck a hidden reef, or the hulk of a derelict, as one report has it, is not definitely known, but long before the liner disappeared beneath the waves, a serious accident occurred aboard—some say a broken screw shaft, followed by an explosion of the boilers.

It was about 7:15 o'clock last night when the Mafalda's sudden call for aid was picked up by various ships not far distant. It was about the hour when, the evening meal having been disposed of, the Italians were making ready to celebrate their arrival on the shores of the new country where they intended to set up their homes.

The sea was calm, fortunately, and the night was clear, and the crippled vessel remained afloat for hours, while rescuing steamers were speeding to the scene. It was not until about 11 o'clock that she sank.

The Dutch steamer Athena, the French Formosa, the British Empire Star, the British steamer Avelona, the Italian Rosetti and others joined in taking the despairing passengers of the Mafalda, and picking up survivors who were huddled in small boats or clinging to rafts The Athena sent a wireless message tonight that she had 500 survivors aboard and would reach Rio Janeiro tomorrow.

The Empire Star is reported to have rescued 155, the Formosa 110, the Rosetti 150.

From meagre accounts received from various sources, experts are satisfied that the boilers of the Principessa Mafalda exploded, due either to improper water supply, or to flooding after the broken screw shaft had torn a hole in the side of the vessel. The liner is said to have been twenty-four hours behind her time, and this is taken as an indication that the machinery might not have been functioning properly, or that the steamer was being forced along to make up for lost time.

Reports vary as to when the first call for aid was sent forth by the Mafalda's wireless. One report had it that she signalled at 3:14 in the afternoon that she was in distress 300 miles distant from Bahia. But it was four hours later, according to the best authorities, that the steamers at sea picked up her call.

The first to arrive on the scene was the French liner Formosa. She hove in sight at 8 o'clock, and immediately began the work of rescue. Other steamers came quickly, and one of them is credited with having put lines aboard the Mafalda in an effort to save the sinking craft.

Lifeboats were put overboard not only from the Mafalda but all the other vessels, and careful search was made for hours after as many as could be saved were taken aboard the rescuing vessels. One steamer reports that in her search she passed two empty lifeboats and several rafts, but no sign of survivors. There is reason to believe, however, that those who had occupied the boats and rafts had already been picked up.

OPERA SINGER CICCOLINI BRINGS SUIT FOR $100,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—Objecting particularly to having a character bearing his name in the musical comedy "My Princess," which recently closed here, addressed by Hope Hampton, the star, as "You Wop, you big Wop" and other "unsavory scenes," Guido Ciccolini opera singer, today brought suit for $100,000, the extent to which he claims his reputation has been damaged.

Miss Hampton is named as one of the three defendants, her husband, Jules Brulator, financial backer of the show and Alfred E. Jarone, producer, are the others.

Ciccolini alleges in his complaint that he refused a part in the production only to learn later that one of the characters appearing bore his name. This character, he alleges, bore the brunt of Miss Hampton's "You Wop, you big Wop," and other "unsavory scenes." He applied for an injunction today against further use of his name in connection with the production.

BROOKHART SAYS THAT FARMERS WILL GET NO RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Farmers will get no adequate relief during the present administration, Senator Brookhart of Iowa declared in a statement here today which he said represented the views of the other five members of the bloc of western independent republican senators.

"It is a waste of time to fight for anything but a genuine solution of the farm problem," Senator Brookhart added, picturing conditions which he said showed a "national calamity for agriculture without parallel in the history of the country."

"It is the duty of the members of congress to solve this question," he declared, "and not take up a decoy bill upon the spacious plea that it was a choice and we can get nothing better."

Pending further conferences with his colleagues, Senator Brookhart withheld his views for remedying the situation but he described this condition today in considerable detail.

COURT GRANTS BUDLONG AN ABSOLUTE DIVORCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 26—(AP)—Judge Herbert L. Carpenter of the Rhode Island superior court, in a rescript made public this afternoon, has granted the petition of Milton J. Budlong of New York and Newport for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Judge Carpenter in his decision declares that the conduct of Mrs. Budlong in 1925 from the time she locked herself in her husband's apartment in New York until she was ejected from the gardner's cottage on her husband's estate at Newport some time later "Shows a relentless desire to cause her husband pain and suffering and constitutes one of the most flagrant cases of extreme cruelty ever called to the attention of the court."

The decision also upholds a previous court decision giving Mr. Budlong custody of the couple's two minor children.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—(AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who has been detached from his command of the fourth naval district by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and ordered to report to him at Washington on or about November 5, today exercised his right of appeal and has requested President Coolidge to revoke the order.

COLORADO COAL STRIKE CONTINUES TO SPREAD

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Coal miners in Colorado found new strength in their strike movement in several fields today, and climaxed the campaign for sympathy with a "pilgrimage" to an area heretofore unaffected by the walkout.

Accompanied by their women folk, more than 300 striking miners of the coal properties north of Denver journeyed 200 miles from Lafayette to Fremont county mines where they planned to make a plea for support in the strike which was called by leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Spokesmen for the I. W. W. asserted the visit would be peaceful and that guns would not be permitted.

The Fremont county campaign will consist of numerous mass meetings at which miners who disregarded the strike leaders said. No attempt will be made to picket.

The Trinidad district in southern Colorado suffered heavily from the strike today and two more of the largest mines which had previously been unaffected, were practically without men. Mines in the Walsenburg district were either closed or running with depleted forces.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF GEN. SIMON PETLURA

PARIS, Oct. 26—(AP)—At the end of the eighth day of one of the most remarkable trials ever conducted in Paris, Samuel Schwartzbard, young Jewish watchmaker, who assassinated General Simon Petlura, Ukrainian separatist leader, on a Paris street corner, fifteen months ago, was freed this evening by the court of Assizes.

Schwartzbard was acquitted on all criminal counts, but was condemned—as is the custom of French courts—to pay a nominal one franc damages to the family of the victim.

Schwartzbard learned of the verdict from the Associated Press correspondent as he was being led into the stifling courtroom. The blond young man—he had the excited expression of a child on Christmas morning—had heard the roar of the spectators.

"Am I acquitted?" he asked eagerly; then tried to keep a straight face, but the cheers of his adherents were too much for him. Tears welled up in his eyes, and he almost toppled over.

There were cries of "Long live France!" "Long live the French jury," and there were less loud but none the less deeply felt shouts of protest from the Ukrainians.

DECREASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Although a general decrease of infantile paralysis occurred over the country for the week ending Oct. 22, with the number dropipng from 579 the previous week to 490.

Public health service figures today showed that increases took place in three states. Massachusetts' cases jumped rfom 78 to 99; Illinois' from 26 to 37, and Pennsylvania's from 33 to 45.

The peak of the outbreak seems to have long passed, the service declaring there has been a general decline in cases since the week of Sept. 17 when the highest total, 656, was reached.

BLINDNESS THREATENS BOOTH TARKINGTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The world will say tomorrow that Booth Tarkington, famous novelist is threatened with blindness and is working furiously to finish several works before his sight fails.

The novelist is said to be working against the advice of Dr. John Ray Newcomb, Indianapolis eye specialist who is treating him.

Tarkington has suffered from eye trouble for 20 years, it is said and now is threatened with the loss of one eye. Unless the strain on the other is removed at once total blindness may result.

"WOODEN NEWSBOY" MAKES APPEARANCE AFTER 35 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 26. — The "Barefoot Newsboy", the wooden image of the newspaper delivery boy and surviving relec of the storms of nearly half a century, has again made its appearance here. The "newsboy" has taken its place near the side of the wooden Indian that for many years has stood as a symbol of the business of the late Mayor Daniel Dunn, now conducted by Dennehy Brothers.

The "Barefoot Newsboy" was carved out of a four foot trunk of a hickory tree 48 years ago by John W. Spencer. It advertised the wares of the store conducted at Theard Mill Square at that time by the late Luke Owens. Mr. Ownes later removed it to his new location on Railroad street and when he went out of business some 35 years ago the wooden figure disappeared. It was found some time ago in the barn on the premises of the Mary Owens estate at 47 West Park street. William Owens, brother of the late Luke Owens, presented the interesting relic to John J. Sullivan who purchased the newstand conducted on Railroad street by the late Patrick F. Sheehan.

From the family home, 419 Valley street, the funeral of Adolphe Valliant was held this morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Edward A. Mathieu was celebrant, Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski, deacon and Rev. Hormisdas C. Belec, sub-deacon. A delegation fro mthe Sacred Heart society escorted the remains to the sanctuary rails with Victor Chasse as banner bearer. The choir rendered special singing with Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ. There was a large attendance and a generous display of floral tributes. The committal service at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery was conducted by Rev. Fathers Mathieu and Belec. The bearers were, Alphonse Chagnon, Alexis Caisse, Joseph Lefebvre, J. Zepherin Couto, Napoleon Brindamour and Alfred Lagasse.

The Natchaug Fish and Game club held its annual meeting in the vestry of the Chaplin Congregational church this evening, a dinner being served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church. Covers were laid for 90 members and guests, the dinner being an annual affair given to the owners of the property leases for fishing and hunting by club members. William J. Jordan, president and George M. Graves, secretary-treasurer, both of this city, were re-elected to office. The club has a membership limited to 40 and leases nearly 6,000 acres of land, mostly in Chaplin with other properties in the towns of Ashford, Hampton and Mansfield. Sections of the Natchaug and Fenton Rivers, Stone House Brook and the old Eaton Pond are leased for trout fishing. Last October the club stocked leased streams with 1,000 half-pound trout.

Arthur T. Rogers, a traveling salesman of Hyde Park, Boston, Mass., who got into trouble when he moved a machine owned by Edward Lyman of Eagleville in the rear of the Hooker House to make room for his own, secured a continuance of his case in police court this morning. His counsel asked that the case be postponed until November 1. Rogers is charged with tampering with a motor vehicle without the permission of the owner.

The plane C-128, a mail carrier, which made a forced landing on the Lewith farm in Eastford last Friday was aparently beyond temporary repair and it has been trucked away in two sections. The plane, stripped of its wings and with the fuselage resting on a motor truck and running on its landing gear was towed through this city Tuesday afternoon on its way to Brainard Field, Hartford. This afternoon the wings of the plane came through in the rear of an automobile.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON EXPERIENCING AN EPIDEMIC OF SKUNKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 26—An odoriferous subject is selected to head the column this morning. It pertains to skunks. Danielson has an invasion of them. They are here, there and everywhere about the borough. It isn't at all pleasant. That is, not for the people. The skunks, however, are holding high jinks.

Mention skunks to about any man, no matter where he happens to live about the borough, and he is more than apt to say "O yes, they are around my place and up and down our street every evening." They have even invaded the business section and parade up and down business streets after things quiet down at night much the same as do household pussies that are out looking around. Seeing from three to six skunks in the distance of a block has not been unusual the past week or ten days. Finding them on one's porch, doorstep or in a shed or garage is not uncommon. It seems as though there must be hundreds of them about. The situation would appear to call for a Pied Piper of Hamlin, or some equally efficient charmer, to lead them out into the wide open spaces—and leave them there.

The arrival of November, unless they depart meanwhile, will not be so pleasant for the skunks. When the open season for taking them comes, they are scheduled for hard experiences in Danielson. Their pelts are valuable, and there are those who vow they will clean Danielson of them, or come near to it, as soon as the law allows.

TWO ARRESTED FOR DRIVING OVERLOADED TRUCKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 26—Once again drivers of overloaded motor trucks have been before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court and have been fined. Timothy Scannell and Kenneth Healey, both of Charlestown, Mass., were the accused, and in each case a fine of $5.00 and costs, a total of $15.37, was imposed.

Scannell and Healey were operating big trucks owned by the Proyor Transportation company of Boston, and they were in this territory making deliveries to a group of chain grocery stores. Many bags of potatoes were included in the cargoes they carried, and which upon being weighed by state police officers were found to be considerably in excess of the maximum loads allowed on the highways of Connecticut. Attorney Shepard J. Goldin represented the two drivers in court, both pleading nolle contendere. It appears that the loads were only a few hundred pounds over the maximum limit for Massachusetts, but something like two tons each over-weight under the Connecticut limitation, something the trucking company evidently had overlooked, for Attorney Goldin said for them that the trucking concern was careful to obey the maximum load law. It was for this reason, that the fines imposed were so small.

One of the Danielson Girls' club birthday parties was given at their rooms here last evening and was very much of a success. It was in honor of the club members whose birthdays occur during September or October. The party was in the nature of a Hallowe'en event, with a variety of Hallowe'en decorations and favors. There was entertainment, games and story telling and refreshments were served. The affair was one of the most successful of the kind the club has held.

This evening District Deputy Derosier of North Grosvenordale installed the recently elected officers of Rose of Lima council, No. 52, K. of C. These new officers are: Grand Knight, Edward Berthiaume; deputy grand knight, Elmer Major; financial secretary, Oscar Bernier; lecturer, A. Lambureaux; warden, Wilfred Allaire; chancellor, Attorney L. A. Woisard; outside guard, Frank Vivea; inside guard, Edward Moran. There was a smoker following the installation exercises.

One may hear plenty of contention just at present as to whether the marvelous fall weather of this week should be described as Indian summer or, more accurately, as remarkably fine late October weather. There are those who hold that Indian, or St. Martin's summer, is not due to come until between November 10 and 15, and that it is not only characterized by particularly mild weather for that period of the year, but also by the remarkably beautiful purple-like haze that hangs low on the haroizon for its duration.

At her home in Swampton, near North Kingston, R. I., funeral services for Mrs. Eleanor R. Almond, wife of John Almond, were held this afternoon, with burial in the family cemetery near that place. Mrs. Almond died Monday.

She was a native of Danielson, born Oct. 6, 1860, a daughter of Isaac and Sabra Phillips Smith. Mrs. Almond leaves besides her husband, two sons, Eugene of Providence, and John W., a resident of Montana. There are also six daughters, Mrs. Leon Houston, Mrs. Edwin Fay, Mrs. Mildred Kenyon, all of Providence, Miss Annie Almond of North Kingston, Mrs. Fred Phillips of Lafayette and Mrs. Eleanor Briggs of New Bedford, and two brothers, Palmer Smith of Hamilton and Samuel Smith of Apponaug, R. I.

Rev. Charles A. Downs preached as usual at the Goodyear church last Sunday morning, and spoke of Leadership and drew from Matt. 4:22 the teaching that Jesus should be our leader in thought, character and service. The younger members of the choir sang a special selection for the offertory. So far this year the attendance at church as well as the Sunday school has been slightly less than the attendance of a year ago for the same period of time.

Andrew W. Wyse, 22, of Dividend road, Rocky Hill, this state, was arrested in Providence and held for Hartford police, who want him to answer to a charge of abducting a 16-year old girl. Wyse was brought out of Rhode Island by State Officer H. S. Bell of the Danielson barracks and after being held here a time was turned over to the department headquarters at Hartford.

Clayton Wright, a former representative of the town of Killingly in the state legislature, will leave next Wednesday to spend the winter at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Henry W. Babson, Civil war veteran resident here many years, is now at Winterhaven, Fla., to remain until early spring.

Next Monday evening in Odd Fellows hall officers of Killingly grange are to hold a rehearsal in preparation for working the third and fourth degrees on the evening of Nov. 7.

Next Sunday N. Waldo Kennedy, who established a weekly paper at Dayville many years ago and who is now state supervisor of the Loyal Order of Moose in Rhode Island, is to have a delegation of members and friends of Pawtucket lodge at his General Lyon inn in Eastford for an outing.

After visiting in Vermont, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nerborne of Lima, O., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goyen and Mrs. Malvina Bertrand in Wauregan. Leaving for their trip home on Sunday, they will stop off in New York for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, well known in Wauregan.

Today representatives of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, were making a canvass of executives of manufacturing concerns here to secure agreements to close mills at noon on Armistice day and were favorably received. It was indicated this afternoon that the afternoon of Armistice day will be generally observed as a holiday here.

Several of the mills in Killingly are represented at the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers being held this week in Boston.

With the temperature running up to over 70 degrees again this afternoon, one heard householders asserting how much they have saved on fuel so far this fall as compared with October of last year, when the weather was unusually cold for the season.

Henry C. Frechette of North Attleboro returned to his home today after visiting with relatives and friends in this vicinity.

It was stated today that the American Legion committee arranging for the Armistice day celebration has deferred for the time being selection of a route for the parade, in which, it is hoped, numbers of fraternal organizations will be represented.

Mrs. Sarah E. Penfield is confined by illness to her home on Broad street.

Wednesday afternoon of this week Mrs. Walter Anderson of Broad street will have the members of the Roundabout club at her home for a meeting.

PUTNAM

ELKS MAKE MERRY AT SEASON'S FIRST SOCIAL SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 26—The Putnam lodge of Elks held their first social session of the winter season at their rooms on Main street Tuesday evening. The annual roll call was made and several candidates were initiated. The lodge room was filled to capacity. Following the regular business meeting and initiating was the social session.

As usual the grill committee served one of their splendid lunches which consisted of chicken sandwiches with gravy, pickled beets, cheese crackers, ice cream, cake and coffee. Music was furnished by Tom Mulgrew and his Honolulu Four of Providence, interspersed by songs. After the lunch the members of the lodge entertained themselves with playing and singing of the late songs and jazz, with the help of the orchestra. The Honolulu Four are not new to the lodge as they have been several times and have given entertainments that each time seem better than the one before.

The Putnam lodge of Elks plan a number of these entertainments for the coming winter as well as the tournament between the lodge of Elks and the Masonic lodge which are about to begin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Witter entertained at their home on Woodstock avenue in honor of their 19th wedding anniversary on October 22. It was really a quadruple anniversary party. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hurlbut whose anniversary occurred on October 24 and Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Healey of Woodstock who celebrated their wedding anniversary on October 6.

Among the guests were Mrs. Witter's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Healey of Hartford.

DAYVILLE MAN IN HOSPITAL, WAS HIT BY TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 26—Paul Peterson, 56, whose home is in Dayville, but who works and boards in Putnam, was seriously injured at 6 o'clock this evening, when struck by a motor truck of the Putnam Coal and Wood company. He stepped out of an automobile in the way of the truck and the driver Arthur Lucier, could not stop in time to avoid hitting the man.

Peterson, who is at the Day Kimball hospital, is hurt about the chest and his knee is lacerated and possibly broken. He has not regained consciousness since the accident.

Samuel Walsh of New York city has been the guest of friends in the city for several days. He formerly lived here and was a graduate of the Putnam high school. Before going to New York he lived for several years in Providence.

The card and billiard tournament between the Elks and Masonic clubs will begin next Monday evening. The first of the series is to be played in the Elks hall, and the following week the playing will be at the Masonic club rooms on South Main street. It will alternate in this way throughout the fall and winter. The tournament last year proved very popular and it is hoped by the members of the committees in charge that it will prove even more popular this year.

Funeral services of Seymour Peal was conducted Tuesday afternoon at his home in Abington and were conducted by the Rev. George B. Hawkes of the Congregational church of that place. Masonic committal services were held at the grave. Mr. Peal was one of the best known residents of Abington and was 59 years of age.

He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Peal February 20, 1868, but had spent nearly all of his life in Abington where he has been a successful farmer. He was highly respected for his character and clean and upright life.

Miss Julia May, a former resident of Woodstock, who was on her way home to Newton, Mass., after a visit with relatives at Woodstock, fell at the Union station at Worcester and sprained her ankle and bruised herself badly especially about the head is now at a hospital in Worcester and is resting comfortably. It is not thought that there are any bones broken. Miss May is in her 86th year and is very active and was making the trip from Putnam by herself when the accident happened.

The newly elected officers of the Community club of Woodstock are as follows: President, George A. Wetherell; vice president, Miss Ethel Upham, secretary; Miss Annette May; treasurer, E. R. Rollins; directors George M. Sampson, Clayton Peckham, Ray Eddy, Mrs. Myrtle Jordan, Mrs. Ralph Eddy, Lester Bearce, Mrs. Mary Morse, Mrs. Lillian A. May, Edmond Damon, L. H. Lindeman.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Dorothy Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stone of East River, Conn., to Clifton Lyon of Woodstock. The marriage to take place before the first of the year.

Roland, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lennen Sumner of Woodstock is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, suffering with a compound fracture of the left elbow. He was standing in a small wagon riding down a slight incline in the yard and was thrown out on the grass breaking his arm. Dr. Pike was called and the little child was taken to the hospital where the fracture was reduced. He is resting very comfortably and will be taken home in a few days.

Two more girls, Pauline Bell and Edith Tafft of Quadic have passed the Girl Scout tenderfoot test. Quite a number of girls in this vicinity are preparing to enter soon and are almost ready for their first and second tests. These tests depend largely on the girl's own efforts in preparing their work in cooking, sewing and first aid.

At a meeting Tuesday evening of the Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows, it was decided to join with Cargill council, K. of C., in a whist tournament during the coming winter months. Both lodges have large membership rolls and it is believed it will be a popular feature. They are to play one night each week and use the two halls.

Among the Putnam shriners who attended the meeting of the order at Rhodes near Providence were George U. Miller, George P. Miner, Otis C. Morrarty, Ralph E. Thurston, Allie W. Marcy, Fresh Ashton and George E. Brousseau.

The observance of Armistice day in Putnam this year will be in charge of a joint committee of the posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. The committees of both organizations have been selected and will meet in the near future as a joint committee to formulate plans. Now that the day is a legal holiday in Connecticut and the town of Putnam has appropriated $175 for the observation of the day, the two organizations will plan a fitting celebration.

Miss Isabelle Byrne, superintendent fo the Sloan hospital in New York city, has been visiting at her home on Seward street in this city for the past week.

Mrs. Warren W. Averill who recently underwent an operation at the Day Kimball hospital, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home on Pleasant street.

Quality Leadership the Backbone of its Supremacy

Hudson design attains its great margins of supremacy in performance and reliability, only because it is accompanied by an equally pre-eminent leadership of quality in materials and workmanship. The great suppliers will tell you that its material standards are more exacting than many of the costliest cars. Its precision manufacture is carried to limits as fine as automobile practice has ever achieved. And its standards are guarded by inspection as careful, and watchful, as these rigid principles of quality themselves.

High Compression Performance that thrills the most Veteran Experts

By the Automobile Expert of "Automobile Topics"

"It has .... all the 'punch' in the world .... a smart push in the back every time the accelerator pedal is trod upon. Throughout its whole range, the response to throttle seems to be precisely the same. 'Soft spots' are simply not to be found.

". . . . it will walk away from the traffic signal faster than anything Hudson has ever built .... It will step out of line and jump into the lead from any speed without the slightest hesitation.

"But further, all this is accomplished without a vestige of that tinkle-tinkle business under the hood that Englishmen know as 'pinking' and American engineers as the gas knock, or detonation. Apparently this present Hudson engine just isn't going to 'ping' when the throttle is quickly opened, or when the car is driven hard against a hill.

"Under precisely similar conditions most any modern engine will detonate when running on ordinary fuel .....

"The Hudson motor does what it does on any old fuel at all, it is said, and assuredly does it on the run of the pump fuel that is sold at base prices everywhere."

NAVY DAY

Today the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt marks the fifth anniversary of the inauguration of Navy day, which has been fixed at this time because of the decided interest which President Roosevelt took in the establishment of an adequate navy and because it was in this month that the American navy was founded back in 1775. Since that date, 152 years ago, this country has reason to be proud of its first line of defense whenever called upon for action, and at other times it has placed great dependence upon it in giving protection to its foreign trade and merchant marine.

The navy is a part of our government in which we must ever maintain a healthy interest. We accept its services and protection as a matter of course but it is well that we should get into intimate touch with it and know more about what it is doing and how it is doing it.

This oportunity is afforded on Navy day, which is visiting day abroad the ships and at shore stations. The people, to whom the navy belongs, are welcomed to inspect its activities.

For this part of the state a rare treat is offered to go through the submarine base on the Thames and if we can judge by the experience and enthusiasm of those who have taken advantage of this Navy day invitation it is well worth the time of any who can do so to drive to the base and spend a brief time in learning about what is done there in the way of training men for that branch of the service and inspecting the buildings and the vessels.

It is a chance for those who have long wanted to have their curiosity satisfied. Every naval station and every naval vessel always have attractions which people long to inspect. If that longing is not gratified today it will not be the fault of the officials and men at the submarine base.

NOW PENNSYLVANIA CAN WORRY

It has gotten to the point where the anthracite operators in Pennsylvania are beginning to worry some about the falling off that has taken place in the amount of such fuel consumed in New England. They have seen the business disappear and like good business men they are desirous of getting it back. They are to be commended for at least trying.

But whether New England is interested all depends upon the sort of proposition that is put up to it. Anthracite users have undergone repeated experiences all the way from inconvenience to gouging and hardship because of the difficulties which have been placed in their way of getting coal. They have realized that they were in the grip of a situation whereby they were practically helpless. They have felt the effects of a monopoly in various ways and particularly when there have been strikes.

It was inevitable under such circumstances that coal consumers should turn for relief in any direction possible. This they have done. When it was found that there were substitutes for anthracite they went in for substitutes and it is unquestionably true that the decreased consumption in anthracite in New England is to a considerable extent due to the utilization of a different kind of fuel. They have gone to no slight expense in many instances to get away from the dependence on hard coal and they are not going to be won back easily. They have established their independence of the Pennsylvania operators and they are going to maintain it. They boast of their freedom even though their heating cost may not have been reduced.

New England has likewise expressed its repeated disapproval of the tax which Pennsylvania has placed upon every ton of coal. The Keystone state has insisted upon collecting it if anthracite is burned. New England has turned from anthracite to such an extent that it causes some concern, and in doing so it is conscious of the fact that it is escaping the Pennsylvania coal tax. The coal operators may not be responsible for the tax or the consumers' hardships, but they are finding that the consumer has found a way to escape and has been eluding conditions which they have resented. Now Pennsylvania can worry.

CHICAGO BOOKS

Mayor Thompson of Chicago undertook a big job when he started his fight against alleged British propaganda in his recent campaign. Whether it was that or something else that returned him to the office of chief magistrate of the city he is now doing his best to keep his promise.

During his campaign the school books were the object of his attack because he claimed they were pro-British. He hasn't succeeded in getting the superintendent of schools out of office but that step is underway. At the same time the fight against British propaganda has been extended to other books including those in libraries.

It hadn't been supposed that there was such a thing as going too far in representing the attitude of the mayor, but such seems to have been the case when it was claimed that he had ordered the burning of public library books which contained a pro-British slant. Such a report being followed by injunction efforts to prevent any burning has now been denied by the mayor, who claimed he never ordered anything burned.

Apparently the situation is one which has created much feeling, but it will be a strange situation if Chicago decides to eliminate from its libraries any volumes on such a weak excuse. It makes no difference whether books are favorable to Great Britain or any other country, if they are to be thrown out and destroyed it should be done only after a careful study of the situation and a full knowledge of just what is being done. There are probably many books which ought not to find a place on the shelves of the public libraries of Chicago for one reason or another, but when the checking up on the library books is turned over to a former bill poster and stage hand it is not surprising that there are those Americans in Chicago who are ready to voice their objections, and especially so when, as is now brought out, it was the former bill poster who represented the mayor as ordering the burning of the books on the lake front.

WIRELESS PROTECTION

As for the cause of the sinking of the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda off the coast of Brazil uncertainty as yet prevails, but if it were needed there has been demonstrated anew the great value of wireless equipment upon vessels.

Under such conditions as that vessel faced after the accident there was an excellent prospect for a large loss of life. What it might have been but for the ability of the wireless to summons aid from other vessels on the high seas or those at the nearest port one shudders to think, but it was apparent that no time was lost in informing others of the serious need for assistance and the response that was made was effective in saving the great majority of the lives.

Had it been necessary to call for help by sending up rockets or in some such manner, there's the possibility that a nearby vessel might have been able to render assistance but the wireless call that goes through the air to listening ears and gets a prompt and certain response gives an assurance to those who go down to the sea in ships that was never possessed before it was made available.

In other days ships could disappear without anyone ever knowing what became of them, or when they met disaster. Such a thing under present day conditions with the vessels able to communicate through the air is most unlikely. Every accident of the kind which befell the Italian liner is prevented from being a much greater disaster because of the protection which is afforded by wireless.

URGING NATURALIZATION

Governor General Munroe of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants advocates the deportation of all aliens who fail to become naturalized citizens after living in this country from five to ten years, and in not any case over ten years.

Mr. Munroe is hitting at a situation which has been attacked on numerous occasions. He believes that more pressure should be brought to bear upon those who are permitted to come to these shores to get acquainted with our institutions, to know the English language and to become American citizens and take up the responsibilities involved therein. He does not like the idea of aliens coming here and remaining for long periods of years, perhaps in colonies which are entirely foreign both in customs and language, and never manifesting enough interest to become a citizen. He is evidently hitting at the many who seek the benefits of the United States but hold their allegiance to other countries and return there as soon as they get all they think they need from this country.

There are unquestionably many who have been residents of this country ever since they left their native land and who have never become naturalized. Just why this situation exists in difficult to explain. Perhaps it is the same fear of inability to meet the test that is encountered among many who refrain from qualifying as voters. The deportation of some most worthy individuals would be required if Mr. Munroe's plan should be put into operation, but such a plea as he has made should nevertheless have the effect of awakening an increased interest in naturalization.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: It is hard work trying to say goodbye to the last fly.

Remember it is Navy day and the latchstring is out at the submarine base.

If the library censor of that city has his way there'll be another big fire in Chicago.

What branch of the treasury department is going to inspect the Los Angeles as it crosses the line on its way to Ottawa?

Now that they have invented a mathematical machine, it may be possible to get some advance information on the football signals.

Just because there were those who insisted on the killing of 70 persons a month in the past doesn't justify any effort to increase the number at present.

If Chicago has a lot of books, given to it by Queen Victoria after the fire, that it doesn't want, it ought not to ignore the plea of Hamilton, Ont., that it would like them.

Now it is claimed that Mrs. Snyder and Henry Gray were treated unfairly in their trial which resulted in their conviction, but they didn't seem to think that Mr. Snyder was being treated unfairly by them.

MRS. DAVE KEEP'S THE FLOOR

"Is that you, Dave?" It was Mrs. Dave calling into the telephone and a familiar voice answered "Yes."

"Then listen to me and don't say a word till I'm through. No—no—don't try to talk. What I'm going to say can't be answered from the office, but just the same, if you hang up on me I'll never forgive you as long as I live. I'm in earnest, Dave. You've got me angry this time. No, I won't wait. I'm going to talk first and you're going to wait. Bub-bub-bub-bub-bub-bub! See! I'm not going to listen, Dave, so why talk?

"In the first place, you know very well that I like to get dinners for you. What never occurs to you is that even an adoring wife might get bored cooking dinners week in and week out for the most marvelous husband in the world if the monotony were never varied. Just because you're tired of eating in public places is no sign it might not be a treat for me once in a while to sit down to a nice table d'hote dinner that I hadn't slaved over myself.

"And you probably don't realize that in the last three weeks we have declined four dinner invitations that I should have loved to accept—just because you'd rather stay home. No, don't answer yet. Wait—I tell you I'm not hearing a word you say! Toot-toot-toot-toot-toot-toot! Have you stopped? All right. When I'm through it will be your turn.

"Perhaps you remember what you said last week when you refused the Sunday dinner invitation from the Meadowcrofts? You told me you'd hate to lose Meadowcroft as a customer, but you'd rather have a sandwich at home than the best dinner the De Luxe hotel ever served. Well, that was the reason I put the one sandwich on the table yesterday and pretended it was all you were going to have. Just a harmless little joke. Of course, I made a show of reading the paper when you walked out into the dining room, but really I was watching to see what you'd do. If you hadn't rushed out of the house before I had a chance to realize it you'd have found out that there was chicken and everything in the icebox. No-no-no, I'm not through yet. I'm not listening.

"The meanest thing you could possibly have done was to go over to Mrs. Robinson's like that and make her think I starved you. Hush-sh-sh! No use denying it. It came straight to me this morning after you had gone off like a bear without saying good-by or anything. I don't know why I'm talking to you at all after the way you acted—not saying a word last night nor a word this morning—but I've made up my mind you shall hear my side. No—I'm still talking and I've more to-say, too. Don't interrupt till I'm done. Br-r-r-r-r-r-r-r-r-! If you don't like that, then just listen to me.

"Mrs. Cheney Robinson is a vamp—that's all she is. I can think just how she flew around and fed you and sympathized with you and fussed over you, Dave, how many times must I say that I positively will not listen till I've finished? It's no use trying to make me. I'm going to tell you though I'm not supposed to breathe it to a soul, that Mrs. Henry Miller is frightfully jealous of Mrs. Robinson. She wouldn't have it get out for the world, but she thinks Mrs. R. goes to the doctor's office when there isn't any real need and—now wait a minute more, Dave. Wait—I say!

"I know you're trying to warn me that it's dangerous to mention names through the telephone and all that, but this is a single line and I'm going to speak my mind. Of all people you couldn't have chosen a worse one to go to than Mrs. Robinson. It will probably start a scandal about you and her, and if it does it's no more than you deserve. But just now the point is that Mrs. Meadowcroft has called again and asked us to dine with them at the hotel tonight, and if Mrs. Robinson happens to tell them you came unexpectedly to her house for dinner yesterday after refusing them, it will make a nice customer of Mr. Meadowcroft, won't it? Oh, Dave, I certainly hope you're in the private telephone room. Otherwise I don't know what your clerks are thinking of you. You haven't let me finish a sentence. You've been continually breaking in. If I thought you were trying to say you're sorry—well, go on and talk then! I'm through!"

"Madam," said the familiar voice—but somehow, now it didn't sound quite so familiar, "Ever since you began talking I've been trying to tell you that you have the wrong number.—"Chicago News.

NEW BOOKS

The Black Journey. By Georges-Marie Haardt and Louis Audouin-Dubreuil. Cloth, 316 pages, illustrated. Published by Cosmopolitan Book corporation, New York. Price $4.

On the 28th of October in 1924 eight Citroen automobile trucks, provided with caterpillar tractors and equipped and provisioned for perhaps the most complete expedition ever to invade the dark continent, turned their noses into the sandy Sahara and commenced a journey which brought them again to civilization 3,000 miles in distance and a year in time from their start.

It was to be a scientific expedition. Consequently its personnel was varied and included even an artist to make a graphic record of whatever could not be brought back bodily. Because of its motion power, and because it was not compelled to rely on the stout shoulders of black-skinned porters, it could carry the complete paraphernalia of the naturalist into the wilderness. Thus it resembled the Bebee expedition on the Arcturus—the exploit of modern Columbus, armed with everything from high powered rifles to chloroform bottles for insects.

The Black Journey is a record of that safari of tractors. But it is no cold-blooded documentation of biological facts. In the first place it is written in the present tense. The desert is traversed, the jungle is entered and "The elephants are there. . . It is impossible to fire at them. . ." and "The two men who have been stung have numerous bites on the back and shoulders." With cannibals, pigmies, pythons, rhinos, and a horde of hardships and adventures as material the authors, both brilliant writers, give such picture of their epic pilgrimage in the present that the reader feels all the tenseness of the situation.

It is a skillful plan. The expedition was notably successful. It brought back countless specimens of hitherto unknown denizens of the Congo jungles. It made a record of the races in Africa which goes far to demonstrate their true origins. And it is capped by its thrilling record. If Magellan or Ponce de Leon had numbered in his party two such gifted men as Faardt and Audouin-Dubreuil they could have written no more enthralling tale than they have of travel in Africa. The book is profusely illustrated by photographs taken enroute, and some of them are more than a little amazing.

The Cap of Youth. Love romance of Robert Louis Stevenson. By John A. Steuart. Cloth, 394 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.50.

As readers of Mr. Steuart's fascinating and popular biography of Robert Louis Stevenson are aware, Stevenson had a very passionate and romantic love affair in his early manhood in Scotland, the memory of which affected him to the end of his life. The heroine is a beautiful and brave Highland girl, who sacrificed all for her lover, in fact saved him to himself and to literature by her courage and devotion, her pure, unselfish love. Years afterwards in the maturity of his powers, Stevenson wrote the story of their great passion for publication, but jealous eyes fell on it, and it perished.

In the Cap of Youth the story is retold in all its poignancy, its sweetness and dramatic force. Mr. Steuart himself a novelist of distinction, as Henley, Meredith and other fiction writers testified in praising his early novels, and the author of what the world has acclaimed as the only real and authentic biography of Stevenson, is ideally fitted for the task he has accomplished with so much charm, beauty and power. The youthful Stevenson is depicted to the life; and the heroine, Katie Drummond, is one of the loveliest and most lovable characters in all fiction.

Red Beard of Virginia. By Rupert Sargent Holland. Illustrated by Stafford Good. Cloth 300 pages. Published by the J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

Cantering over the sweet Devonshire field came the girl, and Nicholas' heart leaped. She was so beautiful, so radiant. In a minute he had sprung to a mount beside the Lady Anne Brent. But it was that second that changed the lives of three people. For Sir Basil Inchbald, who intended to marry Anne, was jealous He would not have his lady (Anne was not so sure that she was his) riding with any country bumpkin. So, a duel. One clever stroke of his rapier and Nicholas found himself a murderer, exiled to Virginia. But instead of being shipped to the colony Nicholas was cast into a Spanish slave ship. A long trip to Puerto Rico—the horrors of a slave's life—then at last promotion to steward. Nicholas made the most of his privileges and, by a skillful coup, freeing his companions and seizing a Spanish vessel, he at last steered toward the new world. But unknown to Nicholas, Inchbald had recovered from his wound and come to Virginia. Many a trouble had Nicholas in Jamestown. Nathaniel Bacon had roused the people to rebellion against the governor of the crown and the colony quaked in terror between the rival forces. But out of the turmoil came to Nicholas a joy that made the colonies at last a place of real freedom.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Giovanni Giolitti, to whom the people of Italy will pay tribute today on the occasion of his 85th birthday anniversary, has had a remarkable career in politics. For nearly 15 years Signor Giolitti dominated Italy, whether in office or out of office. He held the premiership five times and for an aggregate period longer than the great Cavour. He had the additional distinction of being the first Italian prime minister who sprang from the ranks of the civil service. While at the helm of state Signor Giolitti proved himself a statesman of strong and determined character and always enjoyed the confidence of the king. In the crisis at the beginning of the World war his influence was exerted in favor of an anti-war policy. With the Italian declaration of war upon Austria-Hungary and an accession of unpopularity, he retired from public life.

YOUR HEALTH

ACUTE APPENDICITIS

By Franklin H. Martin, M. D., Chicago President, Gorgas Memorial

Medicine or local treatment of any kind cannot cure acute appendicitis, Frank K. Boland, M. D., of Atlanta, Ga., says in an article concerning the disease that everyone should read.

"A patient who refuses to accept his physician's advice when told that he has acute appendicitis and should be operated upon at once faces a dangerous situation," he says. "Some might say the patient faces a dangerous situation if he accepts the advice and has the operation. This is true to a slight extent; no surgical operation, however small, may be said to be absolutely devoid of danger. Yet, vast experience has shown, and all the medical profession is agreed, that operation in acute appendicitis is much safer than no operation, provided the operation is done in ample time.

"Some cases of operation reach the stage when it is safer not to operate. Such cases are indeed desperate and usually terminate fatally, whether operated upon or not.

"Abscess is another serious stage in acute appendicitis when good judgment tells the surgeon all he should do is to open the abscess, put in drainage of some kind, and quit. In a case of this kind the condition has gone so far that the manipulations necessary to remove the appendix may spread the infection and greatly minimize the chances of recovery; whereas, it would be quite safe simply to drain away the pus and make no attempt to remove the appendix. The plan in the surgeon's mind is to remove the appendix later, when the patient has had time to recover from his acute attack. As a matter of fact, the appendix usually sloughs out in the pus, and rarely has to be removed.

"However, a patient takes a terrible, unnecessary risk in allowing himself to reach either of the stages mentioned. The time to operate in acute appendicitis is just as soon as possible after the diagnosis has been made, whether it is day or night.

"It is true that people recover temporarily from attacks of acute appendicitis without operation, and may recover from several such attacks. The trouble is that in the beginning of an attack one cannot tell if he will get over it without operation, as he may have done before, or if the attack will result in abscess, perforation and death. It is best to have the offending organ removed in the beginning of the first attack.

"Here are four rules to follow if there is a patient in your house suffering because of severe persistent abdominal pain which has not been relieved by a small enema: 1, put the patient to bed; 2, give no food nor medicine; 3, allow no one to administer an opiate, which will mask the symptoms; and 4, send for the doctor."

Former Norwich Leaders

THE HON. HENRY BILL

(From Norwich Bulletin, Aug. 15, 1891.)

The Hon. Henry Bill of this city died at Eastern Point Friday afternoon.

Mr. Bill was born in Ledyard on the 18th of May, 1824. At the age of 16 he became apprenticed to learn the printer's trade in the office of the New London Gazette but soon relinquished that and returned to his home and later taught school. He attended the Plainfield academy and taught school until he was 20, when he purchased his time of his father and entered the service of James A. Bill of Lyme, who was at that time engaged in the book-publishing business in Philadelphia.

For three years he traveled in the western states. In 1847 he came to Norwich and engaged in book-publishing on his own account. For more than a quarter of a century he pursued the business in this city and accumulated an ample fortune, but, failing in health, relinquished the business to a joint stock corporation under the name of Henry Bill Publishing Co.

Mr. Bill was a public-spirited gentleman and believed in the prosperity o fthe city. He founded Laurel Hill, and was promoter of the beautiful suburb. He also established in his native town, Ledyard, a public library known as the Bill library, and donated to the city the Laurel Hill park, one of the beautiful places of the city. Among other acts of benevolence he has educated several colored gentlemen from the south, one of whom is now a college professor and one an editor in Georgia.

In early life Mr. Bill was of the democratic faith, and as a democrat he was sent to the state senate in 1853, but soon after joined the anti-slavery party and has been from the formation of the party an uncompromising republican.

During the Civil war he was one of the main stays of Governor Buckingham, and his time and money were always at the service of the state.

Mr. Bill has been a member of the Broadway church since he became a citizen of Norwich. He was married to Miss Julia A. Chapman of Groton on the 10th of February, 1884, and was the father of seven children, of whom two daughters and one son are living.

SHAKESPEARE INVADES EAST END OF LONDON

LONDON, Oct. (AP)—Shakespeare has replaced Dickens in popularity among the children of London's east end.

In fact, the voting of the boys and girls ranging in ages from 10 to 14 was more than two to one in favor of the Stratford bard.

The test question was submitted to patrons of the juvenile section of the Bethnal Green public library, the librarian reporting on the result of the poll attributing the preference for Shakespeare as being due chiefly to Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare and Moe's Children's Shakespeare.

S. M. D. CLUB HOLDS THIRD NIGHT OF CARDS

The third night's play in the pinochle and whist tournament being conducted by the S. M. D. club was held Wednesday evening in the Foresters' club with a large attendance. The winners at whist were: Ladies, Mrs. Hastings, 35; Peggy Deane, 32; Mrs. Comaty, 31. Gentlemen, Harry Marcus, 37; Joseph Garrish, 37; Thomas Fields, 26.

Pinochle scores were as follows: Ladies, Mrs. Penser, 7480; Mrs. Farrell, 7460; Mrs. Struch, 7300. Gents, James Shelley, 7780; Mr. Montese, 6940; Mr. McKelvey, 6750.

The committee in charge comprised Charles Lasch, Raymond Prodell and Albert Nelson, and they announced the next card night for early in November.

Y. M. C. A. Bible Class

At the weekly Bible study class for men Wednesday evening at the local Y. M. C. A. there was a healthy interest in the discussion. The scripture used was Acts 19:23-41, where Paul's preaching won many converts, and thereby the business of the silversmiths who made gods to Diana was materially interfered with. The following points were developed in the discussion: Paul put himself fully into whatever he did, and when his teaching developed strong opposition he was not at all phazed but courageously met it. Opposition discourages many a man, but the strong man rather welcomes it as a developing agency. The cutting into the financial gains of the silversmiths was the real basis of the opposition to Paul, and with many men today whatever interferes with their financial success is distasteful to them. To put one's personal interests ahead of the general good is always the mark of selfishness. The great success of Paul was due to his personality, but even more to the great cause he represented. A good cause may be hindered by a poor personality while a bad cause may be advanced by a strong personality. The vast majority of the great personalities are avowedly Christian. True religion interferes with things that are wrong, and it is intended so to do. Mob rule is never justified. The advice given to the mob by the town clerk on this occasion was very timely then and it is timely now, namely: "Ye ought to be quiet and to do nothing rashly". The interest in the study was fine.

Trial is Continuing

Trial of the $60,000 suit of the Textile Finishing Machinery Co. of Providence against New London Ship & Engine Co. continued in the superior court at New London Wednesday with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding and had not concluded when court adjourned. Judge Brown will accordingly not be able to hear a continuance here this (Thursday) morning in the marriage annulment suit of Mrs. Jennie Kane Chapman against Leonard H. Chapman of this city.

SEEKS $20,000 HEART BALM IN SUIT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Three suits in which a total of $45,000 in damages is asked are among new cases for the superior court which have been filed at the clerk's office in this city. These include a $20,000 breach of promise suit, a suit to collect a judgment of over $11,000, and a suit for $10,000 for injuries in an automobile accident.

Charles L. Raymond of Waterford is made the defendant in a $20,000 suit for breach of promise brought by Esther Sutton, alias Esther Raymond, also of Waterford. She alleges that since a date in 1926 and up to March, 1927, he promised at different times to marry her but has failed and refuses to do so, although she is still single and willing to marry him.

For Unpaid Judgment

Ellen Peterson, formerly of this city, now of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, is made defendant in a $15,000 damage suit brought by the Guerin Mills, Inc., of Woonsocket, R. I. According to the complaint on May 26, 1925, the plaintiff instituted an action in the superior court against Clarence E. and Oscar L. Peterson of Norwich, in which action, funds of the defendants on deposit in the Uncas National bank at Norwich to the extent of $15,000 were attached. It is further alleged that on May 27, 1925, Ellen Peterson as surety, together with the two above mentioned defendants, as principals, executed a bond in the sum of $15,000 and thereupon the court released the aforesaid attachment on the funds of the Petersons in the Uncas National bank. It is alleged that on March 31, 1927, the Guerin Mills, Inc., obtained a judgment against Clarence and Oscar Peterson in the sum of $11,856.09 and $96.31 costs, which is unpaid.

For Injuries in Collision

Claiming damages of $10,000 as the result of injuries received when a truck belonging to the Standard Oil Co. collided with a Norwich-bound trolley car, Eva Rosun of New London has brought suit against the Standard Oil Co.

The accident, according to the complaint, occurred on Dec. 20, 1926 while the plaintiff was a passenger on one of the Connecticut Co's. trolley cars enroute to Norwich. The plaintiff alleges that when the truck, which was being operated in a neglicent and careless manner, collided with the trolley car, she was hurled from her seat and was permanently injured; obliged to stay out of work at a mill for ten months, which at the rate of about $20 a week figured a loss for her of $800.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY, NO. 18, ELECTION AND HALLOWEEN

Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial, No. 18, L. A. A. O. H., held its regular meeting and Halloween party. Miss Mary E. Hartie, president. Routine business was conducted with Mrs. Edward Sullivan making a final report of the bean supper, showing it to have been a success. Mrs. Sullivan was given a rising vote of thanks. Miss Hartie then read a comprehensive report of the financial standing of the auxiliary during her four years in office, proving that wonderful strides forward had been made, meeting all debts and obligations, yet leaving a very substantial sum in the treasury at the present time. The report proved what a tireless worker for the good of the order Miss Hartie has been.

The next business was election of officers. Miss Hartie positively declined re-election, asking her fellow members to grant her the rest she feels she merits. In view of the report showing her activities, this request was granted but with deep regret on the part of the society.

The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Mary D. Sullivan; vice president, Miss May Nolan; regent secretary, Mrs. Catherine LaFontaine; financial secretary, Mrs. Anne P. Niles; treasurer, Miss Molly Carroll; mistress at arms, Miss Mary E. Hartie; sentinel, Mrs. Mary McNally; chairman standing committee, Mrs. Addie Levitsky; chairman sick committee, Mrs. Nellie Bissonette; auditors, Mrs. Edward Sullivan, Miss Mary Leary, Mrs. Margaret Dunn.

Following election, all sat down to a bountiful repast. The hall had been gaily decorated by Miss Carroll and her assistants with ghosts, witches, black cats etc. Miss May Nolan as toastmistress presented Miss Hartie with a purse of gold in a gracious little speech of appreciation for all she has done in behalf of the society.

Miss Hartie, while overcome, flittingly responded. A general good time followed with games and stunts in charge of Miss Nolan.

The incoming president, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, is a former president, and the society feels sure, under her capable leadership, that it may look forward to the same prosperity it enjoyed under Miss Hartie.

SEEK FORECLOSURE ON OCEAN BEACH PROPERTY

J. Arthur Atwood, of Plainfield, executor of the will of John W. Atwood, late of that place; Walter Garde of New London, Henry C. Hine of New Britain, Allen Brogan of New York, executor under the will of Isaac Bronsell, late of Hartford; John C. Bunnell of Millburn, N. J., and Laura Alling Farley, of East Orange, N. J., executors under the will of Frederick A. Farley, and Nellie F. T. Radliker of New York, executrix of the will of Peter C. Radliker, late of New York, are made party defendants in a foreclosure of a $3,500 mortgage brought in the superior court by the Mariners Savings bank of New London.

On Sept. 16, 1911, the defendants, Henry C. Hine and Walter Garde, together with I. Brogan, John W. Atwood, Peter T. Radliker and F. A. Farley owed the bank $3,500 on a note, secured by a mortgage on property located in Neptune avenue, Ocean beach.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT PLANS OF NORWICH CITY CLUB

A meeting of Norwich City club members who are in the music department was held Tuseday at the club rooms in the Wauregan hotel, to plan for a course of study in music appreciation, open to all members of the club.

It was also arranged to have Dr. J. Lawrence Erb come to Norwich next week to start a women's chorus. There was a good attendance of the committee members and much enthusiasm was shown. It was voted to meet once in two weeks.

The members of this department of the City club are Miss Margarete Suck, who was chairman of Tuesday's meeting, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Miss Helen L. Perkins, Mrs. Channing M. Huntington, Miss Louise Fuller, Mrs. Albert J. Bailey, Mrs. Charles J. Saxton, Mrs. David Sussler, Miss Nellie S. Howie, Mrs. James L. Bidwell.

NIGHT SCHOOL STUDENT HAS AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

While Edward Novack of No. 180 West Main street was attending night school at the Broadway school building Wednesday night, someone stole his Chevrolet coach, 1925 model, which he had parked near the top of the Broadway hill. The missing machine is painted blue. Mr. Novack reported the theft of the machine at police headquarters and all officers were notified to be on the watch for it.

Will Demonstrate at Kitemaug

Announcement was made Wednesday by County Agent Walter T. Clark that a grading and packing demonstration is to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Kitemaug orchards. W. H. Darrow, representative of the state department of agriculture will conduct the demonstration. It is expected that there will be a large attendance.

Boy's Leg Broken.

A three year old boy, Arthur Frenier, sustained a broken right leg in Northampton, Mass., Tuesday when he was hit by an automobile driven by Orville T Colby of New London. The accident happened in front of the boy's home and the driver of the car in making a report at the police station, said the boy ran into the left side of the automobile.

FIVE DIVORCE SUITS IN SUPERIOR COURT

Five divorce suits in which the papers have been served have been brought in the superior court for this county and are returnable in November. They are the following:

Claiming that her husband has been guilty of intolerable cruelty since Sept. 23, 1923, Ella S. Bryant of New London seeks a divorce from Jesse Bryant, also of that city.

The couple was married Sept. 23, 1923, and the petitioner seeks the custody of two minor children.

Claiming desertion since Oct. 3, 1924, Archie Parker Rayside of New London seeks a divorce from Mary Jeffries Rayside, of Attleboro, Mass. They were married June 3, 1920.

On grounds of desertion, alleged since March, 1923, George Carley of New London seeks a divorce and the custody of two minor children from Marjorie Gunn Carley, now or formerly of New London. The couple was married Jan. 8, 1918.

On grounds of intolerable cruelty, Laura Ennis Brown, of Groton, seeks a divorce and custody of six minor children from Henry E. Brown, of Groton. They were married Sept. 19 1911 and the petitioner alleges that her husband has been guilty of intolerable cruelty from Jan. 1, 1924 to the date of the writ.

Alleging that her husband has been habitually intemperate for more than two years past, Pearl Lyden Stahler, of New London, has instituted a divorce action against Daniel S. Stahler, also of New London. They were married Sept. 19, 1924, and the petitioner seeks the custody of two children.

AUTO ACCIDENT INJURIES MAKE COURT BUSINESS

Injuries received in automobile accidents form the basis of several new suits brought in the superior court for this county and returnable in November.

Alice B. Burrows of Mystic sues John Maus of New London for $8,000 for injuries she received on July 16, 1927, when the machine she was riding in was run into at the corner of Broad street and Jefferson avenue, New London, by the machine owned and driven by Maus. The plaintiff was riding as a passenger at the time in a car owned by Theresa Grinnell of Mystic and operated by her chauffeur.

Millard S. Clark, a painter and paperhanger of Westerly, who claims he has been totally incapacitated, sues for $5,000 damages from Magnus W. Salck of North Stonington. Clark was passenger in a machine with one Horle, which was run into at the rear by Salck's truck on Aug. 3, 1927, on the road between Westerly and Stonington.

A collision between two motorcycles near the entrance to the Backus hospital grounds in this city on June 16, 1927, has resulted in a $5,000 suit brought by Kenneth Gembel against Gustav Langenbach of this city. Gembel was knocked out in the crash and was immediately taken to the hospital, where he was a patient for seven weeks.

FEDERAL OFFICERS RAID "SALOON" IN TAFTVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 26—What is considered as one of the most "progressive" beer joints in Taftville was cleaned out this afternoon by federal prohibition officers. The place was a saloon at 33 Merchants avenue in the basement, which runs the full length of the bulding and completes the establishment leased by Armand Lafebre.

From the saloon the officers secured 20 cases of beer and a small quantity of whiskey found beneath the pre-prohibition bar. The basement yielded 92 cases of beer, 12 cases of malt, about 200 gallons of beer mash, a capping machine and a bottle washer with motor; also other equipment for a complete brewery. The officers noted that there was about $50 in change in the cash register, giving evidence of a fair day's business.

Two motor trucks were required to take the contraband to the basement of the postoffice in Willimantic, where liquors taken in federal raids are stored. The raiding officers, heade dby Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs, were Officers John Holtz and Charles Keene of New Haven and County Detective William E. Jackson.

Lafebre was presented before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson in Norwich and was placed under bonds for a hearing on Nov. 2.

TO HOLD AT HOME AT METHODIST PARSONAGE

The annual at home day at the Norwich district parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be observed on Tuesday, November 8th, from two to ten p. m., and the Rev. and Mrs. Myron E. Genter will be assisted by the district parsonage committee. This committee consists of Mrs. C. W. Perkins, chariman, of Versailles, Mrs. F. G. Way, East Glastonbury; Mrs. Albert Boardman of Norwich; Miss Alice Smith of New London; and Mrs. Paul G. Ferris of South Manchester.

The invitation to attend is to all Methodist pastors, officials, members and friends within the district area and a splendid social occasion is anticipated.

Suit for Damage to Automobile

On the ground that a truck belonging to Leverone-Musante & Co., of New London ran into and damaged the rear of his automobile on June 26, 1927, on the highway in Groton leading to the Thames river bridge, A. B. Neiman of New London has brought suit in the common pleas court for $500 damages against G. B. Musante, John N. Leverone and G. B. Leverone, partners in the firm.

WASHINGTON HENS ARE THREE TIMES WINNERS

Hollywood farm at Woodinville, Wash., is entitled to the challenge cup for winning the Storrs laying contest three times. In the trials just concluded this pen of Leghorns out of the west not only finished first but succeeded in piling up the biggest score made by any ten pullets ever entered in this annual egg race that's been running for the last 18 years. Hollywood's record of 2,669 eggs is 188 better than the best previous score of 2,581 made in 1924 by C. T. Darby of North Branch, N. J. The pennant pen was not mentioned in the contest reports for the first five weeks and only in a casual way for the next ten weeks or so. At the end of the first half, however, the Hollywood pen had climbed into the lead and from that time on was never headed. The following list of winning pens and their scores for the last ten years is a pretty fair index of the number of eggs a pen of ten pullets must lay in order to head the list in the Storrs laying trials:

Year	Breed	Place	Score
1917	Barred Rocks	New Hamp.	2118
1918	Oregons	Oregon	2352
1919	Barred Rocks	New York	2022
1920	Barred Rocks	New York	2234
1921	Wyandottes	Rhode Is.	2234
1922	W. Leghorns	Washington	2218
1923	W. Leghorns	Washington	2237
1924	W. Leghorns	New Jersey	2581
1925	W. Leghorns	Oregon	2394
1926	W. Leghorns	Penn.	2361

Average winning score, 2270
Winning pen in 1927, 2669

Hen No. 779 in the champion pen came through with a total of 312 for the year. She not only outlaid the other 1,400 birds in the contest, but is the first Leghorn that ever crossed the 300 egg mark at Storrs. Of the 18,000 birds sent to the contest during the last 15 years, this pullet's record has been beaten but once. In 1924 a Rhode Island Red from Attleboro, Mass., laid 324 eggs. Hen No. 838 entered by George B. Ferris, Grand Rapids, Mich., was a perilously close second with a record of 308 eggs and Hen No. 852 owned by W. S. Hannah & Son also of Grand Rapids, was likewise a close contender with a tally of exactly 300 eggs. Thus the management at Storrs has uncovered as many 300 egg hens in the last 12 months as in the previous 15 years. Records revised to date indicate that one such bird is about all that can be expected from each 3,000 well bred pullets put through the trap nests.

Hilltop farm at Suffield supplied the best Connecticut birds. Three times out of four, this pen of White Leghorns with a lay of 2,363 eggs would have won out, but in the current contest competition was too keen for comfort. White Rocks entered by E. A. Hirt of South Weymouth, Mass., proved to be the best New England pen and won hands down in their class with a score of 2,420 eggs. In the Rhode Island Red group, 36 pens competing, Harold G. Colt of West Hartford, Conn., made first place with a mark of 2,300 eggs. In the Barred Rock and White Wyandotte classes, last year's winners repeated. In the first group, R. W. Davis & Sons from Rockland, Me., finished at the top with 2,303, or 180 eggs better than a year ago, while in the Wyandotte outfit the Locusts at West Cornwall, Conn., did the honors with 2,328 eggs or 276 ahead of yesteryear's record. As already indicated the premier pen in the contest was domiciled in the state of Washington. The second best pen was bred in Indiana. The third best in Michigan; the fourth in Massachusetts, and then followed in order, New York state, Connecticut, Maine, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. Thus it appears that no one community can logically claim a monopoly of all the good chickens in the country.

The race started as usual on November 1st, continued for 51 weeks, and closed October 23rd last. The contest comprised 140 pens of ten birds each, or a total of 1,400 hens, from 22 different states and the Province of Ontario in Canada. These birds laid a grand total of 256,344 eggs or an average of 183 for each bird, including good, bad, and indifferent. This annual average is 15 eggs higher than in any previous contest.

Pen	Breed and Owner	Eggs
77	Hollywood P. Farm, W. Leghorns Woodinville, Wash.	2669
75	Mayhill P. Farm, W. Leghorns Marion, Ind.	2504

Automobile Caught Fire

A new Jewett coach, belonging to Mrs. Staubley of Montville, blazed up from a backfire into the carburetor about 10:30 Wednesday night when the operator was starting to drive away from the parking place at the New Haven station. Squad A from the central station responded to the call sent there but before they reached the automobile the fire had been put out with a fire extinguisher which the night clerk had brought from the railroad station.

The firemen helped Mrs. Staubley to get the car started again and she was able to drive home with it.

New Patents Granted

New patents granted this week include the following:

Howard M. Barber, Stonington, holding sheets in register on tape carriers.

Howard M. Barber, Stonington, signature-delivery mechanism for printing presses.

Henry B. Lee, New London, velocity-reducing valve.

Shot 18 Pound Coon

Henry Durr, of East Great Plain, had great luck while hunting Tuesday evening, bringing down a big coon which weighed 18 pounds. This is one of the heaviest shot so far this season.

Arthur McCollum has been in Windham to take his family home to Hoopeston, Ills., leaving by motor Monday. They have been spending the summer in the house willed to them by their cousin, the late Miss Josephine W. Bingham.

CONGRATULATES BULLETIN ON PURCHASE OF RECORD

James H. Albertson, president of the Norwich society in New York city, has sent The Bulletin the following note of congratulation in connection with the purchase of the Evening Record:

"Congratulations to William H. Oat, manager of The Bulletin, and The Bulletin itself, on obtaining the ownership of the Evening Record." The news comes to those hundreds of New York men and other native sons of Norwich, now out of the city, as a pleasing surprise. I have recognized for a long time that Norwich, being practically the hub of Eastern Connecticut and serving a community of 100,000 people, should have a virile, active evening paper.

The experience I have had in business tells me that today, with the heavy expense of news gathering and tremendous cost of obtaining a full

JAMES H. ALBERTSON

Associated Press, franchise and the other heavy expenses of publishing, it is impossible for a community the size of Norwich to have an evening paper of high standard with only a single organization. The Norwich Bulletin, with its Associated Press franchise, its traditions of over 100 years, its unusually able administration and its forces for news gathering, which is second to no other paper of its size in New England, brings to the evening field of Norwich the resources, financial and otherwise, and all of the requirements necessary to produce an evening paper of the first order. I can see where thousands of dollars can be expended to make the evening paper a better paper by The Bulletin company and such expenditures would not be possible by anyone else.

I predict that the combined circulation of the morning and evening papers of Norwich will exceed 20,000 within a very short period. I remember very well the rapid increased circulation of The Bulletin when it came 100 per cent under the Oat management 20 or 30 years ago.

The acquisition of the Record by The Bulletin means much to the merchants of Norwich. The combined circulation will give them the greatest advertising advantages possible. Not only will their copy go into every home in the town and city but the territory back of Norwich will look for these papers and become accustomed to doing all of their shopping in Norwich. The two papers will make Norwich the naturally important center of Eastern Connecticut, which it deserves to be on account of trolley lines and its central point. Furthermore there is no other one agency that can advance a community as well as a fearless, energetic newspaper. More power to you!

The natives away from Norwich have for years recognized the unusual service that The Bulletin has rendered and we are happy that it is a dream that will advance still further the old home town."

MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

The 21st annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the state of Connecticut was held Tuesday in Hartford at Morgan Memorial, with Governor Edwin H. Bingham presiding. The secretary, Miss Jane R Watson, stated that the membership of the society had been increased by 50 new members; one reinstated member, that with a loss by death of 14; by transfer 2; by resignation 5, left a net increase of 30, so that membership is now 517. She paid a warm tribute to her predecessor, Mrs. George B. Kingsbury, who passed away on Christmas day, 1926. She also said that the membership quota for Connecticut, set by the general society to be reached by July first, 1927, was exceeded by ten.

Officers were elected as follows:

Governor, Edwin H. Bingham, Hartford; deputy-governor, Charles W. Gross, Hartford; secretary, Miss Jennie Loomis, Windsor; assistant secretary, Miss Alice L. Welcher, Hartford; treasurer, Edwin H. Tucker, Hartford; historian, Edwin A. Hill, Ph. D., Washington, D. C.; elder, Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, D. D., Hartford; captain, Robert Lovell Smith, New London; auditor, Samuel C. Doty, Hartford; assistants for three years, Mrs Edward J. Pearson, Hartford; Miss Jane B. Watson, Hartford.

The meeting was followed by a luncheon at the Hartford club and the society was addressed by Hon. Addison P. Munroe, governor-general of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, and Rev. Warren S. Archibald, pastor of the Second Church of Christ, Hartford.

Taken to State Hospital

Adjudged insane, Michael McNulty, 32, of Uncasville, was taken to the Norwich State hospital Tuesday night. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon after he climbed to the top of a Norwich-New London trolley car looking for his wife and mother-in-law whom he said were locked up somewhere in the trolley car.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. Witter K. Tingley, of Broad street, who have been on a motor trip to Mrs. Tingley's former home in Nova Scotia, have reached Maine on their return route and will be home the first of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Powelson, of Warren street have been entertaining the former's nephew, Arthur Abbey, of London, England. Mr. Abbey left town Monday, planning to sail for home Saturday from New York.

Mrs. Harrison Gray gave a benefit bridge of four tables Wednesday afternoon at her home on Crescent street. The prizes were won by Mrs. Walter E. Turner, Mrs. Albert S. Comstock and Mrs. Adams P. Carroll.

Mrs. Frank W. Browning has come from Kitemaug to the home of the Misses Leavens, 202 Broadway, to remain for a number of weeks. Later in the season Mrs. Browning and Miss Leavens will leave for Spartanburg, S. C., for a visit with the former's daughter, Miss Henrietta Browning, a member of the faculty of Converse college.

When the Wednesday Afternoon club met with Miss Ella M. Norton, at her home on Washington street, Miss Faith Leavens gave a very interesting talk on her experiences abroad the past summer. There was the usual informal tea. The previous meeting of the club was held with Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott.

AGGIES CLOSE HOME SEASON ON SATURDAY AGAINST LOWELL TEXTILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, October 26—A long drill on new plays, with part of the time devoted to scrimmage, was held by Coach Sumner A. Dole here this afternoon as the Connecticut Aggie eleven prepares for the Lowell Textile game which will be played here Saturday. It will be the last home game of the season for the State College eleven, and the team hopes to close its home schedule with an impressive victory.

Because the Aggies do not expect to be extended too severely in their games with Lowell Textile, Trinity and Rhode Island, Coach Dole plans to make a liberal use of his second string players in these three contests, providing the varsity eleven can gain a safe lead in the opening quarter. As a matter of fact, Dole may even "pull a Knute Rockne" this coming Saturday and start his second eleven, putting the issue right up to the subs as to the length of time they can stay in the game. "If they can take the ball and travel, we'll let them stay in and travel," says Dole.

The Aggies are well fortified with good reserve material, but except in the first two games of the season it has seen little real action because of the hard fought games played by the varsity in the last three weeks. Against Maine, Springfield and New Hampshire the Connecticut eleven needed its best offensive combination in the game every minute, which was Captain Eddy, Williams, Ryan and Knaut were used just as much as possible in those encounters. This quartet is without question the best balanced backfield of the Aggie squad, and it has been through a strenuous campaign in the last three games.

Instead of starting this quartet behind the line against Lowell Textile, Dole is seriously considering the use of Gene Lamoreaux '30 of Hartford, Arthur Haversatt '28 of Seymour, Bob Groat '30 of Niles, Mich., and Rhoar Flydal '30 of Hartford. These players have all shown considerable promise in the limited amount of time they have been in varsity games, and combining plenty of speed with shiftiness should be able to carry the battle to the Textile boys from the first whistle. Their only handicap is a lack of weight, yet this is at least partially overcome by their speed. Lamoreaux, Flydal and Groat all played together last year as regulars on the undefeated freshman eleven.

In the line, Dole plans to use Henry Schildgren '29 of Naugatuck and John Callahan '29 of Revere, Mass., or Arthur Goebel '30 of New Haven on the ends. Corwin Hawkins '30 of Hartford seems sure of first call in one of the tackle berths and Sam Dorrance '28 of Plainville will probably get the other. Ralph Peck '29 of Cheshire and Dick Ruffkess '30 of Hartford are slated to start in the guard positions. John Stangle '30 of Hartford or Andy Sayers '29 of Hartford, who has just been shifted from tackle to center, will start in the pivot berth.

This is Dole's tentative lineup for the Lowell Textile contest and the one he used most this afternoon, both in signal drill and scrimmage. This eleven looked good as it went through its paces today and seems capable of carrying out Dole's statement that the game this Saturday is going to be an offensive drive from the start by the Aggies.

It is interesting to note that of this tentative starting lineup, only Haverstatt in the backfield and Dorrance in the line will be lost to the squad by graduation next year. Otherwise every man listed has at least one more season of varsity football left, and some of them two. Dole's plan is to give those men all the game experience possible in the next three games and thereby develop them into varsity players of a high grade.

Pop Williams, the Aggies' star halfback was not used in scrimmage this afternoon and Dole plans to let him take things easy for the remainder of the week because of injuries. It is doubtful if he will play more than one half of the Lowell Textile game, yet it seems likely that he will be given a chance to go in long enough to add to his total of points scored to date, which places him well up in the list of leading scorers of the East. Moreover, Saturday is "Dad's day" at Connecticut Agricultural college, and it goes without saying that for the benefit of the many "Dads" who are expected to watch the game, the Aggies will have their first string lineup in the game for a little while at least.

Dole further announced today that he would try to utilize Bill Kraut '29 of New Haven at fullback rather than quarterback for the remainder of the season, and let the burden of calling signals fall on Ray Ryan '30 of New Haven and Gene Lamoreaux. Knaut is probably the best back on the squad from the standpoint of effectiveness in making interference, and certainly one of the best tacklers who ever presented the college. Dole therefore wants to keep Knaut in the game just as much as possible, and he would rather relieve him of quarter duties if Ryan and Lamoreaux can perform satisfactorily.

NO SCRIMMAGE FOR YALE TEAM; TOO HOT

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—An unexpected hot spell today decided the Yale coaching staff to put the varsity and second team through a signal drill and dummy scrimmage in place of the actual scrimmage planned, which will be held tomorrow if it is not too warm.

Carl Billhardt, who went in at quarterback for the varsity yesterday for experience, was injured in the dummy scrimmage. Paul Switz, who started the season at quarterback and was demoted in favor of Hoben relieved Billhardt for a time today, and then gave way to Hoben, who has been regular quarterback in recent games.

With Hoben and Cox both in their regular places and apparently in good physical condition, Coach Tad Jones had his full first string eleven together, as it is expected to start against Dartmouth Saturday.

FORMER WASHINGTON MANAGER DIES AT AGE OF 67

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Thomas T (Tom) Brown, manager of the Washington baseball team three decades ago and a player of note when Anson, Jennings and McGraw were helping the game to attain its present prominence, is dead here of tuberculosis at the age of 67.

A member of the famous party of players thta made the Spalding tour of the world, Brown, noted for his base stealing ability, played with several clubs in the late eighties, including Louisville, Boston and Pittsburgh. He ended his playing days as manager and center fielder of the Washington team in 1896.

Brown later became an umpire in the New York state league, where he worked for six years before coming here to engage in business.

Harger Aggie Frosh Leader.

STORRS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Sam Harger, of Hartford, fullback, was today selected by the 1931 eleven as its captain. Harger was captain of the Weaver high school football team last year.

ACADEMY SCORES AT WILL AGAINST SCRUBS

In a long scrimmage featured by both power and good play, the Academy varsity set down the seconds on Wednesday afternoon. In an hour and a half of work the first stringers rolled up 46 points to nothing. It was dashes by Harry McGlone that accounted mostly for the scores. He tallied five times. Jack Marks went across once and so did Vitliano and Brock.

The regulars, with Jim Kelly, Bill Tirrell, Kahn and Mish missing at the start and then losing Shea right at the start had little trouble with the opposition although several errors showed up in their work. Ingalls snapped the ball back with Fox and Stevens beside him, Shea, Cruickshank and Herts at tackles, Greene and LaCroix at ends. Archie Brock was at quarter with Marks at full and McGlone and Vitliano at the halves. For the seconds, Abugle was at center with Jennes, McCarthy, Welch, Lillibridge, Wojtasik, Dion, Tayor and Berghinzo seeing service on the line, Brewer at quarter, Fagan at fullback and Aldrich, Sakowits and Covey at half backs.

This was the second long scrimmage of the week and another will probably be on hand this afternoon.

Murphy, who was making a strong bid for the center berth, broke a small bone in his hand on Monday it became known yesterday and will in all probability be out for the season. This is the second accident of this kind to befall a member of the Red and White squad, "Led" Pitt, tackle now being laid up with this injury suffered in the Torrington game. However, Pitt may be back in time for the latter games of the season.

Aldrich, playing in the backfield for the second team, had a couple of teeth knocked out yesterday while Shea, tackle, had a cut under the eye. Bill Tirrell, regular quarter, and Tommy Vitliano, halfback are limping about.

It is probable that Tirrell will not start Saturday. He has not taken part in the scrimmages this week. Archie Brock, who has been running the first team well in these workouts may get the job Saturday and thus save Tirrell for the two important tilts with Windham and Bulkeley on successive week ends. However, nothing official has been announced along this line.

While the Wilby game is not being taken lightly at all, it can be seen that the squad is pointing for the Windham and Bulkeley games. The Windham game is the local's major home attraction while the Bulkeley game will be played at Mercer field, New London, Friday, Nov. 11, Armistice day, at 3 p. m.

The entire squad will make the trip to Waterbury Saturday for the tilt with the Green and White, it was announced Wednesday.

MUCH PASSING EXPECTED IN BIG TEN GAMES

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—(AP)—Indications are that the Illini will be deluged with footballs Saturday when she meets Michigan in their annual Big Ten classic.

Everyone on the Wolverine suad is being drilled in either kicking or passing and those not kicking were drilled at passing and breaking up passes, fashioned afteh the Illini's short air attack.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin struggle has become a serious proposition in both camps. Both coaches are working for a strengthened line and Minnesota is developing a series of new plays in hope of surprising the badgers.

The clash between Ohio State and Chicago is developing into an important contest with Ohio preparing to avenge its two previous Big Ten defeats while the Maroons seek to maintain their string of victories.

Coach Phelan at Purdue, is re-building his line for the Montana State game. Indiana is ready to leave for its big inter-sectional battle with Harvard and will go east with high hopes of handing Harvard its second Big Ten defeat of the season.

The game between Northwestern and Missouri is looked upon as another ditch to gap as both teams prepare for duty.

Teh visit of Denver to Iowa Saturday has the Hawkeyes somewhat up in the air over just what to expect.

DR. HOLMS WINS WITH NINE STRAIGHT BULLSEYES

Members of the Norwich Rifle club held a prize handicap shoot, the third in the series, Wednesday night at the state armory, in which the prize was a case of special ammunition donated by an honorary member, Fred Weir. The match was shot offhand, on a standard N. R. A. 50 foot target, 10 shots, making a possible 100.

Six were tied at 99, Lucier, Brand, Holms, White, Pierce and Racicot. Schaeffer, Stebbins and Gus Kudlik made 98, Guy 97, Karkutt, Geo. Kudlik and C. Brend 94.

On the shootoff Dr. Holms won with nie straight bullseyes, winning by one point over Lucier, winner of the carving set last week.

Next week the prize offered is a beautiful bronze N. R. A. medal, donated by A. M. White. The match is open for all members to participate.

Vincent Yale Frosh Captain

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26—(AP)—Francis T. Vincent, of Torrington, Conn., tackle, was chosen captain of the Yale freshman eleven today. At Hotchkiss, where he prepared, Vincent starred in football and captained the eleven two years.

Francis R. O'Brien, of Boston, was elected captain of the freshman cross-country team today by his fellow harriers.

Good Game At Base Today.

Predictions of a real bang up good football game at the Sub Base this afternoon are being made. The Base is playing Brooklyn Naval Hospital team in the annual Navy Day clash. The game is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

WHERE THE HIGH SCHOOLS PLAY THIS WEEK-END

Thursday

Westerly vs. Rhode Island State Frosh at Kingston.

Saturday

N. F. A. at Wilby (Waterbury)
Brassco Park, 2:15.
Windham at Stonington.
Hartford (Hartford) at Capman Tech.
Bulkeley (N. L.) at Central High (Bridgeport).

Another fine program is ready for followers of high school grid teams of this section for the week-end but only two of five games in which members of the "Big Six" will figure will be played in eastern Connecticut. This Saturday is the half-way mark of the season.

Once again two of the sectional "conference" tackle teams of much larger schools and cities when the Academy goes to Waterbury to meet Wilby and Bulkeley travels to Bridgeport to tackle Central High. It was almost an entire rout last week in these struggles when Bridgeport and Hartford teams came to this section and took what are considered two of the strongest teams that eastern Conn has to offer to uphold her side of the state question.

Two nice games involving half of the Big Six will be played in these parts Saturday, at Stonington and New London. Westerly was first scheduled to play Friday but the game was put forward 24 hours.

N. F. A.-Wilby

This game should bring out some spirited play. Wilby is still stinging from that 23 to 0 defeat on the gridiron last year from the Red and White and from a 15 to 5 drubbing from the state championship baseball team last spring. The Academy is now just aching for combat again to redeem for last week's poor showing against Harding, so that all things being equal, it should be a hard fought affair.

The Academy has lost one but that should help. A defeat has been known many, many times to make a club. The locals have not been playing the brand of football of which they are capable.

In practice this week the Academy is fighting like they have not done before. Whitney is drilling them long and hard and much better things are expected of them on the turf of Brasco park this week-end. This is the last tilt before those two most important ones with Windham and Bulkeley in successive weeks and the Academy will have to show a little more than they have if they wish to go into this series as any kind of favorites.

Wilby has a much better team this year than in a long time. True, they lost one to Torrington, but that was most unexpected. In fact, the Waterbury team was hailed just last week as a bright prospect for the state title by one of the leading state papers.

The Academy should win, by not over two touchdowns.

Windham at Stonington

The most important intra Big Six game since the season opened comes at Stonington Saturday with Windham furnishing the opposition. Stonington, with her best team in recent years is figuring strongly on annexing the Windham scalp for the first time in a long, long period. Windham, like the Academy, has not been going any too well, but maybe they will hit their regular pace this week. Stonington's 31 to 6 win over Chapman Tech is her strong claim to fame so far. Both teams have been worked extra hard in practice this week for this game. Windham ought to take an extremely close game.

Bulkeley, in going to Bridgeport to stack up against Central High, the team that beat Naugatuck last week, seems to be headed for plenty of trouble. The New Londoners have not even scored this season, losing three and going to ties twice. However, Canty's men have had plenty of tough luck and who know's but that it will forsake them this time? ccording to Hoyle, Bulkeley should lose.

At Kingston today, Westerly refreshed by their first win of the season, last week over Chapman Tech, tackles an unknown quantity in the Rhode Island State college freshmen. Westerly (only because nothing is known of the opposition) is given the benefit of the doubt and should win.

At New London, Chapman Tech goes against Bulkeley high of Hahtford. This school is now entering its second year but has a much improved club over that of 1926 when only one game was won. They have already numbered Bristol, West Haven and Stonington and should also defeat Tech, which has now lost three straight.

Cross-Country

In cross-country this week end Bulkeley of New London, Suffield Prep and Stonington have a run scheduled for between the halves of the Windham-Stonington football game at Stonington and the Chapman Tech harriers go to Troy to participate in the Rensselaelles Polytechnic run. Suffield is the team that defeated N. F. A. last year in the local's first taste of competition at this sport.

SPEEDBOYS SIGN UP MORE STAR PLAYERS

Fully realizing the tough assignment to be handed out to the Speedboys this Sunday as personified by the powerful Noank Crushers, the management secured the surrounding towns today in search of good and promising gridsters and at the conclusion of a hard day's search has succeeded in adding Joe Eaton of Plainfield, Mac McCarthy and Jack Potts to the rapidly growing roster of the 1927 edition of the Jewett City Speedboys.

These men are experienced and heavy and the Speedboy line is sure to benefit accordingly. Arrangements have been completed whereby the entire eleven will assemble Saturday afternoon in Plainfield where the team will be put through a long signal drill. In anticipation of a record breaking crowd special police protection has been secured and a huge parking space capable of accommodating 500 cars has been rented, adjacent to the playing field.

There is much speculation in Jewett Cit as to the identit of the "phantom halfback" from Sterling. His name has not been given out though its rumored that he is an importation from one of the leading universities in the country. The only statement given out by the management is to be there and watch the fastest running, twisting, twirling, plunging, diving back that has ever performed on an Eastern Conn. gridiron. He is known only as Mr. X.

JOHNSON WILL MANAGE NEWARK CLUB IN INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Walter Johnson tonight signed a three year contract to manage the Newark club of the International league. Walter, veteran of the Washington Senators, who has been given his release at his own request, signed the contract shortly after he had announced in a radio talk that he was about ready to accept a post in the minor circuit.

Paul Block, president of the Newark Bears, obtained Johnson's signature at a meeting at Friendship, the Washington estate of E. B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, who was instrumental in bringing the two together.

The salary was not announced, but Block, before leaving tonight for New York, said it was "the highest salary ever paid to a player-manager outside of the big leagues."

Convinced that he still was able to turn in a few victories for Newark, Johnson accepted a contract that will permit him to take an occasional turn on the mound.

HEENEY GETS DECISION OVER JOHNNY RISKO

The match drew a crowd of 17,000 to 18,000, with receipts around $78,000.

There were no knockdowns and neither was seriously damaged. Heeney was credited with winning six of the ten rounds with Risko taking three while one was even.

After a tame first round, Risko jumped into the lead in the second round by forcing the fighting. He clipped the Australian with a left hook that shook him to the knees and otherwise mauled him around. Risko held Heeney fairly even in the third, trading punches to the body at close range. Heeney stepped out in the fourth round, nailing Risko with solid smashes on the chin.

The only effective punch the Cleveland fighter put over in this session was a right hand wallop to the chin as the round ended. Heeney continued to pile up points in the fifth, taking the honors by a wide margin. Risko fought willingly in the sixth but the majority of his blows curled harmlessly around Heeney's neck.

Heeney dropped left hooks to the chin in the seventh, with the crowd cheering for him to score a knockout. Risko opened up with a short spurt near the close of the round but it availed him nothing. Heeney directed his attack to the body in the eighth, with Risko trying to whip over a left hook. He swung so desperately once that he fell to his knees.

They slugged like a pair of longshoremen in the ninth, with Heeney scoring the cleaner punches, although Risko was aggressive and willing to trade wallops. Risko tried to land a right hand punch in the final session, but Heeney connected before he did, crossing a right to the chin. Risko fought back gamely, driving both fists to the body as the bout ended.

Bell weighed 117 1-2 and Vacca 118 pounds.

Clarence Rosen, of Detroit, won from Steven Nugent of Cleveland in ten rounds. Rosen weighed 110 pounds and Nugent 121.

No Betting In Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Charging that four dog race tracks in Missouri allowed betting "in violation of their charters and in gross violation of the state law," Attorney General N. T. Gentry late today filed quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court to oust the tracks from the state.

The suit was directed against the Ramon Kennel club and Wellston Kennel club of St. Louis county, the North Kansas City Greyhound association and the Fairview Kennel club of Platte county.

Sets Walking Record.

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Lonato Pavesi, Italian walker, set up a new world record today for the 25 kilometre walk, according to the judges who clocked him. His time was two hours, six minutes, 7 2-5 seconds, 53 seconds better than the record made by M. Petersen, Denmark, in 1919.

GAMONEUE TAKES HAWTHORNE PURSE AT EMPIRE CITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—J. L. Holland's Gamoneue, with Jockey Mack Garner in the saddle, took off the Hawthorne purse, feature of today's card at Empire City. His victory was over six furlongs. Jumbo and Byrd raced themselves into submission. Byrd was third. The time was 1:10 3-5.

Emphatic galloped home with the Ludlow purse at Latonia, six furlongs for two years old fillies. Her ladyship was second and Canberra third. Twelve horses went to the post. The time for the event was 1:12 3-5.

The American National Columbus Handicap at Arlington went to Smiling Gus, who stepped the mile and one sixteenth in 1:45 2-5.

The fourth race at Laurel, the Oakland purse for two years olds, was carried off by Polish, who made the 6 furlongs in 1:12 1-5. Balko was second and Cayuga third.

The Magothy Handicap on the same track went to Display, who did the mile and one sixteenth in 1:44 4-5. Bostonian finished a nose behind Display and a length ahead of Jock. Display paid $30.60 and Jock was the favorite.

OLD TIME BALL PLAYER VISITS NORWICH

Well, Well, Well, Who do you suppose paid Norwich a visit yesterday? No, we're not going to tell you but you can guess. Who was it that helped the old Norwich Connecticut league team to cop a pennant back in 1906 by his brilliant pitching. That's right, old timer, it was Ira Plank. Not much chance of you old timers forgetting Ira with his "Hit 'em where they ain't" battle cry. And remember how Ira used to stand out there in the box and hitch up his pants and burn one across that fairly smoked?

IRA L. PLANK

Well, Ira returned yesterday to the scene of some of his historic battles, and met some of the boys with whom he used to chum around. Time and fortune has treated Ira pretty well since he left the Rose of New England. Ira drove into town in a spick and span big Lincoln car and looked up and down the street looking for familiar faces. It wasn't long before he was recognized, Maurice Fitzgerald being about the first to spot the idol of 20 years ago. Ira called on the Hayes boys and Billy Moore and a few others of the regulars, and a real good time was had by all.

Ira does not look a day older than when he pitched up at the old Sachem park back in 1906. Of course he is a little heavier but has the same bright eye and youthful look of the trained athlete. In fact he has changed so little that the accompanying picture is a speaking likeness, and this picture was taken just when he was drafted by the New York Yankees in 1907.

With Ira on his visit to Norwich was Mrs. Plank and little Davy, who is a regular silver from the old plank and who also expects to carry on the name of Plank in baseball, following in the footsteps of his dad and his Uncle Eddie.

It's a far step from baseball to the garage business but Ira has made it and is prospering. He runs a garage in Gettysburg, Pa., but is not entirely out of step with the diamond game as he is now baseball coach at Gettysburg college during the spring. Eddie Plank was formerly coach of the college team until called out by the Great Umpire and then Ira took up where his brother left off. Perhaps it is his work with the college team that keeps him looking young and fit. Whenever business gives him a few days to himself Ira's thoughts always turn to Norwich and the old Connecticut league where, as Ira himself says, some of the happiest days of his baseball career were spent. Norwich is changing, said Ira, and many of the old boys have passed on but there are many left and I thoroughly enjoy meeting them and talking over old times.

There is no need to review the record of Ira Plank for the old time fans but for the benefit of the young generation some of whom, the writer included, watched from precarious perches in the trees outside the center field fence the pitching of Ira, we will give a few facts. Ira Plank was with the Norwich team from about 1902 to 1907 when he was drafted by the Yankees. In 1906, with Jack Tighe as captain, the Norwich team won the pennant. Besides Plank and Tighe the members of the team were Gus Soffel ss, Victor Accorsini 1b, William Lord 2b, R. V. (Cy) Perkins 3b, Eddie Bridges c, Harry Ball cf, Emil Cote lf, Johnny Golden rf, Jack Halligan p, Stewart Stevens p; and Tom Tuckey p. This year Ira won 21 of the 34 games pitched besides filling in capably in right field. His hitting power made him an asset in the outfield and he hit for a mark of .302 for the season. His fielding average was .918. In 1907 he even bettered his record of the previous year winning 36 out of 36 games pitched. It was this record that got him his chance with the Yankees.

Come again, Ira.

POETRY

The old-Fashioned Feather Bed

They put us in a feather bed,
We sank entirely out of sight;
And thus we passed in "downy ease,"
As poets say, one Winter night.

The morning came and wife called out,
"How do you feel? Say! Are you here?"
I said "Unusual, indeed,
I'm warped and feel exceeding queer."

I turned right over and reversed
The posture I assumed all night;
"What are yo doing?" wife inquired,
"Down there entirely out of sight?"

"Doing? I'm sadly warped," I said,
"Just look! I'm out of shape you see!
I must warp back or I am doomed
To hunchback-like deformity."
"Give me a mattress after this,"

While warping make I moaned aloud said;
"Just see how I am doubled up
By one night in a feather bed.

"No warping processes again,
Give me a mattress if you please;
No praise by me of elder down
Or feather beds for rest and ease."

Rev. William Wood, in Biddeford Journal.

The Guest

Speechless Sorrow sat with me;
I was sighing wearily;
Lamp and fire were out; the rain
Wildly beat the window-pane.
In the dark I heard a knock,
And a hand was on the lock;
One in waiting spake to me,
Saying sweetly,
"I am come to sup with thee."

All my room was dark and damp;
"Sorrow," said I, "trim the lamp,
Light the fire, and cheer thy face,
Set the guest-chair in its place."
And again I heard the knock;
In the dark I found the lock;—
"Enter, I have turned the key;
Enter, Stranger,
Who art come to sup with me."

Opening wide the door he came,
But I could not speak his name;
In the guest-chair took his place,
But I could not see his face.
When my cheerful fire was beaming,
When my little lamp was gleaming,
And the feast was spread for thee,
Lo, my Master
Was the guest that supped with me!

An investigation of American clays conducted at the bureau of standards shows that many domestic clays would be satisfactory substitutes for imported clay used in china.

Whisky got its reputation as a snake bite cure from the fact that people who had been bitten by non-poisonous snakes drank it, and, of course, quickly recovered, says K. P. Schmidt, of the Field Museum of Natural History.

Craftsmen who fashion trinkets with their hands and feet still thrive in and around the Great Bazar, a little, tomb-like city of its own on one of the seven hills of Stamboul, Turkey. Copper and iron smiths hammer out their wares in small recesses along the miles of arcades in the great, irregular stone building that is dark, smelly and dusty with the dust of centuries. Woodworkers in booths around this building use a bare foot and one hand to hold their cutting chisel in turning objects on small lathes.

Out of the sand along its seashore, Atlantic City is building the world's largest convention hall. When it is completed the hall will be large enough to hold the entire population of Atlantic City—well over 50,000 persons—and leave room for a three-ring circus and a national bathing beauty contest besides. The huge structure will stand as an unnamed memorial to Mayor Edward L. Bader, who conceived the plan but whose death last January prevented him from seeing his dream take the form of reality.

CAPPUCCIO IS BACKED BY ITALIAN WELFARE CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 26—Members of the Italian Welfare club of Westerly it is thought will support the candidacy of Angelo J. Cappuccio on nomination papers, for member of the Westerly highway committee for six years, even though the fair play committee is reported to have withdrawn its support, in his campaign against the republican nominee, Charles F Berry. In the first Westerly voting district there is a total of 1608 voters divided as follows, realty, men, 412, women, 383; personal, men 176, women 35 and registry men 363 and women 243, it being estimated that Mr Cappuccio looks for most of his votes to come from that district. In the second voting district there are a total of 2127 voters divided: Realty, men 615, women 596, personal, men 247 women 59; registry men 322 and women 288. The total voting strength of the town is 5735 or about a hundred more than last year. Mr. Cappuccio was the candidate of the fair play committee for the office at the recent republican caucus, where he was defeated by 24 votes. However, although he is not officially given the support of the committee, it is thought that followers of this faction of the republican party will back him in the coming election and that he will also have the democratic vote, which should enable him to come through victorious.

Members of the S. D. B. society, Mrs. Lewis Greene, president, Wednesday afternoon and evening held a silver tea in the parlors of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. There was the serving of tea, cakes and sandwiches and bouquets of winter flowers made up by the members were included in the sale.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Keegan was held Wednesday at 8.30 from her home, 13 Smith street, Pawcatuck. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church by Rev. J. F. X. Quinn. Following the mass, Martin H. Spellman sang "Passing Out of the Shadows," and for a recessional, he sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Burial was at St. Michael's Old cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Quinn. The bearers were Michael Shea, Patrick Shea, John A. Shea, Michael Shea, Walter Fitzgerald and William Keefe.

Mrs. Keegan was born in Boston, the daughter of the late John and Mary Crowley Murphy. She came to Westerly in her youth and had been a resident of the West Side for about 60 years.

Her husband, James Keegan, died Oct. 28, 1924, and Mrs. Keegan passed away last Sunday on the first anniversary of her husband's death.

Surviving her are six sons, Dennis J., John F., Daniel R., Michael A., Charles L. and Edward L. Keegan, all of Westerly. A brother, Thomas C. Murphy, died about two weeks ago in New York.

The local W. C. T. U. met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary L. C. Ellis. The meeting was a Christian Citizenship meeting under the direction of Mrs. Jennie Parker and Miss Lizzie Martin, and included a memorial service, Deborah Knox Livingstone. Miss Livingstone's favorite scripture was read, as well as one of her articles, "The Citizen's Duty." Other articles and papers on citizenship were read by members of the union.

It was announced that the district convention would be held at Quonochontaug grange hall, Nov. 9. The feature speaker will be Miss Grace Leigh Scott, national director of social morality.

A program of activities is being prepared by the members of Narragansett council, No. 21, Knights of Columbus, of Westerly for the coming winter season. Grand Knight Russell Lenihan has announced that next month the first whist and dance of the season will be held. Similar social events were held monthly last winter and attracted large gatherings to the council quarters.

The card committee has also arranged for pinochle tournaments with P. S. Barber Hose Co., team and the team representing the American Thread Co., while the pitch team has games scheduled with St. Francis' council of Wakefield and Fr. Murphy council of Mystic.

In past years, Narragansett council has also boasted a fine bowling team, but as yet no games have been arranged for this fall.

Oct. 22. Westerly Realty company to Joseph Santos, land on west side of Beach Drive, Weekapaug, with right of way to the beach.

Oct. 23. Max Novogroski and wife to William Arthur Mayhew and wife, Bertha May Mayhew, lot No. 6, with building known as the Community house, at White Rock.

NOANK

Several letters came from the manager of the Speed Boys football team, Jewett City, to the Noank Crushers team. "We want a game." So Mike Pazzi, the manager in charge of the village gridiron players sent word back, "We will be up this week Sunday to give the rayon mills town a real game of football." Down in the village close to the water, the Crushers know that they have the best team in the eastern part of Connecticut, where players from three or four towns around are picked and every man a star. That doesn't make any difference with the boys from Noank, their motto is "Fight to the end." Coming out of last week's game with two men hurt, still they will be able to play at Jewett City. Coach Red De Blaisi, a former player of Washington and Jefferson college, who knows every stitch on a football, gave the Crushers a 25-minute blackboard talk and told them where their weak spots are, and to get in and play hard, never to give up. Tuesday night on Church street under a street light for over two hours Coach De Blaisi had them hard at work on short passes. The New York college plays were tried out and they expect to use them in the next game. The lightest backfield on any football team in the fishing village for years is the Crushers' backfield men. Every night they will train under the light, so as to get back at the Speed Boys for the trimming they got last season.

Captain Chris Christence of the schooner Betty C., has given up mackereling and has gone hand-fishing for cod around the shores of Nantucket. Captain Chris told them at the north dock he has been fishing since he was 17 and has spent 22 years on the old salt water, yet never saw the mackeral so scarce as this season. The only ones they could get was bull-eyes. Not a regular striped fish. He said many of the big boats from Boston were fishing near him, but gave it up. They lost money and several didn't even pay for the nets they used. There are only two Noank boats after mackerel now and at the end of the week they will try their luck at flat fishing.

Miss Eleanor Schnar is having a week's vacation in New York with her cousin, Miss Jane Brooks.

Down at the shipyard where the 60-foot fishing boat is being built for a party in New York, the work is in charge of Foreman Charles Butson. The boat is nearly half finished and if it is all done in three months the owner is going to give two boxes of cigars to everybody who worked on it. The engine is to be installed by the shipyard expert on engines, Alvin Meister. He is now in charge of all machine work in the yard. He claims he can take down a Ford or Oldsmobile engine to the base, put all the nuts in a box, shake them all up for 20 minutes, yet put them back in place. He has never failed in five years.

Constable William McDonald, of Mystic, was on duty in the village recently taking the place of Night Cop Elmer Baker, who was ill at his home. Cop McDonald is a former Noank boy.

When Walter Wells went to the silk mill Tuesday noon after his pay, for he resigned to take the assistant foremanship job at the American Brass Co., in Bridgeport, he was called into the box shop, where the room was decorated with silk American flags. A farewell party was given him, about 60 gathering there to make it a real time. Unable to have a piano there, William Crowell had a violin and Alfred Ballerstine had a banjo and they provided music. Miss Lucy Stanton and William Frank'in did a coke walk, Miss Julia Cross danced the Black Bottom and then, in behalf of his friends, Neil Robertson presented him a traveling bag with his name on it. He made a brief speech, expressing how sorry he was to see him leave. A mill trio of girls sang He's a Jolly Good Fellow. Ice cream and cake were passed around with cherry punch.

Alice Brady, Charming American Actress, writes:

"My work on the stage may appear easy to an audience but, as a matter of fact, it is very strenuous. Now and then I indulge in a cigarette for relaxation and pleasure. I use Lucky Strikes, as I find they not only protect my voice but afford me the greatest amount of genuine enjoyment."

Alice Brady

Smooth, mellow, fragrant

And 11,105* doctors say Lucky Strikes prevent throat irritation

WHAT is the quality that Antonio Scotti, Rosa Raisa, Lawrence Tibbett, Leon Rothier, Florence Macbeth, Holbrook Blinn, Alice Brady, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105* doctors answered this question "Yes."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

STOCK PRICES IN MORNING SPURT, WITH REACTIONARY MOVEMENT AT THE CLOSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP)—A lack of uniformity marked price movements in the stock market today, after a spurt of buying stimulated by the record breaking earnings report of the General Motors corporation had run its course. Quotations on many issues, which had moved up briskly in the morning, turned downward when profit taking developed in various groups, and bear pressure against U. S. Steel, Greene Cananea Copper, Houston Oil, and other speculative features, hastened the reactionary movement. Renewed buying toward the end of the session brought about some late rallies, but nevertheless a number of leading issues closed the day with net losses of 1 to 2 points or more.

News developments were of mixed character, the most significant being General Motors' big increase and U. S. Steel's moderately large loss in third-quarter earnings. The steel trade reviews were a little more optimistic in tone than in recent weeks, but September railway income continued to fall off from last year's figures, the first 26 roads to report showing a decrease of 5 1-2 per cent. in net operating income.

General Motors, reflecting the financial report, began the day with some large blocks of shares about 2 points above yesterday's final figure, but almost immediately relinquished the initial gain. The stock closed with only a fractional net gain. U. S. Steel developed immediate heaviness, but rallied to 139. From that figure the price sank in the afternoon to the close of 136 7-8, off 2 1-2 on the day.

Several other industrials followed a hectic course, including General Electric, which gained 3 points, only to lose it all. Montgomery Ward, and Woolworth and some of the chemical, copper and railway equipment shares.

Nevertheless there were consistent points of strength in various sections of the list. Columbia Carbon, Wrigley, American Bank Note and some of the insurance issues, such as Continental, Fidelity Phoenix, Rossia, reached their best prices of the year, the last two named scoring extreme gains of more than 10 pounds. General Asphalt issues gave exceptionally good account of themselves, the common gaining 6 3-8 and the preferred 12 points.

Buying of investment railroads, developed in considerable force yesterday, was continued. Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway, Canadian Pacific, and Lackawanna had met advances of 1 1-2 to more than 3 points. New York Central sold up a point and a half, but later lost most of the gain. Among the non-dividend carriers, Wabash made up part of yesterday's loss and Chicago Great Western common and preferred had substantial net advances.

Radio corporation, responded to a good earnings report by climbing to 76 a new peak for the year, but the gain was subsequently converted into a small loss. Philadelphia company also established a new 1927 maximum.

The credit situation showed little change, call loans being plentiful all day at the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent. Quotations for time money and commercial paper were unchanged.

Change in the principal commodity markets were mainly toward higher ground. Cotton figures were strong, quotations ranging 56 to 60 points higher. Wheat futures improved fractionally, while coffee was quoted at 3 to 12 points lower. Sugar prices were virtually unchanged.

Fluctuations in foreign exchanges were narrow, demand sterling holding steady around 4.86 9-16 and French francs close to 3.92 1-4 cents.

BALTIC

Mrs. John Woods

(Contributed)

In the death of Mrs. John Woods Baltic loses one of its most esteemed residents. During the early days of the World war, Mrs. Woods was instrumental in having the Baltic branch of the Norwich Red Cross chapter organized in Sprague and was a member of the Sprague public health nurse committee. She worked unceasingly among the families and business men, to make the several Liberty bond drives a financial success. She gave freely of her time at the Red Cross room, knitting sweaters and mufflers for the Baltic boys who were engaged in the war. Mrs. Woods was ever willing and ready to render service to any family in need.

She was a past president of the Rosary society of St. Mary's church, Baltic, and was a member of the church choir for twenty-five years. Her whole life was characterized by deeds of kindly help. She had held different offices in the Ladies of Columbus society. On Monday evening the members of the Rosary and the Ladies' of Columbus societies marched in a body to Mrs. Woods' home, to pay an affectionate tribute to their departed member. Mrs. Woods was a member of St. Mary's church for 30 years and was always active in church socials and festivals. She was a devoted wife, a loving mother and a true friend and neighbor. She will be long remembered here for her charitable acts and kind deeds in the homes of the sick and the dying, and for her words of consolation in the dark hours of trouble.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jumper Gives Peter No Comfort

Have pity for the jealous mind,
To all but mean suspicion blind.
—Jumper the Hare.

For a long time Peter sat in the bramble-tangle on the edge of the Green Forest, not daring to leave, for fear that Hooty the Owl might be watching from a nearby tree. But at last he gave a little sigh of thankfulness. He had heard Hooty's voice. It had come from far away, deep in the Green Forest. Hooty was hunting over there. At once, Peter left the bramble-tangle and started to visit the places where he was likely to find his cousin, Jumper the Hare. He felt sure that Jumper could help him find Mrs. Peter and that strange rabbit. Perhaps Jumper had already seen them.

But Peter visited one place after another without finding his cousin Jumper the Hare. It was getting late in the night and Peter had become very tired. He was discouraged as well as tired. He hadn't found Jumper, nor had he found any traces of Mrs. Peter. He had, however, found some traces of another rabbit. Of course this had not made Peter feel any better. So when at last he did find Peter's cousin, Jumper, it was with a feeling of great relief.

"Now," thought Peter, "I'll find out something. Cousin Jumper must know all that's going on here, and if he has seen Mrs. Peter, he'll be sure to tell me."

"Hello, Peter!" exclaimed Jumper. "It is a long time since you've been over here to the Green Forest. Where have you been keeping yourself?"

"Oh," replied Peter, "I've been over in the Old Briar-patch and up in the Old Pasture and around generally. I've been meaning to come over here for some time, but somehow I haven't managed it? What is the news over here, Cousin Jumper?"

"There is no special news that I know of," replied Jumper. "Everything is about as usual here. I have to keep my wits about me, as always, to keep out of the clutches of Yowler the Bobcat, Reddy Fox, Old Man Coyote, to say nothing of Hooty the Owl. Sometimes it seems to me that my life is one jump after another. By the way, I've had company more or less."

"Who?" asked Peter, pricking up his ears.

"Oh, a handsome young rabbit," replied Jumper. "He really is a fine-looking fellow. He seems to mind his own business and, while I haven't seen a great deal of him, I've run across him now and then. To tell the truth, I've rather enjoyed having him about."

"Where is he now?" demanded Peter rather sharply.

"I haven't the least idea," replied Jumper. "In fact, I haven't seen him for two or three days. But I presume he is around somewhere."

"Have—have you ever seen any one with him?" Peter inquired somewhat hesitatingly.

"Let me think," said Jumper, and Peter fidgeted anxiously. "Let me think. No, I don't believe I have. Why? Why do you ask?"

"Oh, I just wondered," replied Peter, trying to speak carelessly. "Is he big?"

"About your size," replied Jumper. "Yes, I should say he is just about your size. He certainly is as good-looking a young rabbit as I have seen in a long time. You ought to meet him, Peter."

"I'd like to," said Peter, and he said it so savagely that Jumper looked at him in surprise.

"What's the matter with you, Cousin Peter?" inquired Jumper. "You seem to be somewhat out of sorts?"

"I'm somewhat tired," replied Peter lamely. "I had a narrow escape from Hooty the Owl on my way over here and it somewhat upset me."

"Oh," said Jumper, "I can understand that."

PARIS AMUSES HERSELF WITH SMOKERS' ACADEMY

PARIS, Oct. (AP)—Paris is going to have an Academy of smokers and women are to be admitted.

The plans are indefinite as yet, but the interest in the idea is indicated by rather enthusiastic discussion. One of the disputed questions is whether women ought to smoke pipes. Madame Colette Yver, a writer, who is active in supporting the plan and in demanding for women her proper share in the organization, put the pipe for woman on a high plane. "The cigarette," she says, "is like a flirtatious sweetheart, but the pipe is like faithful dependable comfortable wife."

Henri Duvernois, noted literary wit, takes issue with her. He doesn't approve of women smoking pipes and he objects to the cigar being ignored.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Items of interest to Norwich readers of the Norwich Courier of 1852 are reprinted in part as follows for the readers of the Norwich Bulletin.

Tuesday, October 19, 1852—Whigs of Norwich are now being urged strongly to get out to vote on Tuesday, the 2nd of November, that Scott might be elected to the office of president of the country and that Norwich and the state of Connecticut might have a part in the honor of electing Scott to that high office. The activities of the whigs of the city during the past few weeks is believed to have added to their strength and every night now Scott and Graham clubs are holding their meetings and hearing addresses by out of town speakers.

In the death of Charles Perkins of Lisbon the Norwich Courier has lost one of its oldest subscribers, one who has taken the Courier for over a half century.

The fare between Boston and New York, via Norwich and Worcester, Stonington, or Fall River, has been reduced to $1.50. That is—that was the price yesterday. The battle started at $3.50 a ticket, the offer of the Norwich and Worcester. Then other lines began cutting and the final low is now a dollar and a half. The battle is to force the Fall River line to make terms with other roads, whereby rates that will provide a profit may be obtained.

Thursday, October 21, 1852—The steamer Knickerbocker, due here this morning from New York, met with an accident last evening off Throg's Rock, having been run into by a schooner. What the extent of damage is we have not learned.

We learned that six inches of snow fell at Nashua on Friday morning, last. The first train up was completely covered with snow by the time it reached Concord, although no snow had fallen at that place.

In the recent town elections the whigs gained 11 towns from the locofocos but lost eight towns, leaving them a net gain of but three towns. Fully a dozen towns are split this year, a gain for the whigs.

All England is in back of the Gen. Pierce campaign for president. Pierce stands for protection and free trade—protection for English manufacturers and free trade in America against competition by American mills. A fine un-American viewpoint for Pierce.

Edward Chappell of Central Wharf now has over a half million feet of various kinds of high grade lumber on hand and nearly as many more shingles.

Saturday, October 23, 1852 — It doubtless is known to some of our readers that, in consequence of changes and improvements which the edifice of the Roman Catholic church of Norwich is undergoing, the Catholic congregation, now meet, temporarily at the Town hall. They occupy the hall free of charge, and, yet, will it be believed, the locofoco party is spreading the story about town that the selectmen, who are whigs, have been charging the Catholic church and society three dollars per Sunday for occupancy of the hall. This false and ridiculous report is being nailed on the spot by many prominent Catholics of Norwich.

A young woman from a nearby town, who worked her way to California as a school teacher, saved $1,000 dollars to send home to her father and then married a well to do young California merchant is the one to whom we give praise. Even more is due to her inasmuch as she never thought of a Bloomer costume in her life nor went about complaining of the wrongs of women, or anything of that sort.

NAMES IN NEWSPAPERS BY TALKING COMMUNISM

LONDON, October (AP)—Sir Ernest Benn, publisher and economist, believes communistic talk has been adopted by many fashionable young men and women because that is the only way they can get notice in the newspapers.

"People—ordinary vain human beings—like to be reported," said Sir Ernest in an address to the annual meeting of the Individual Bookshop, Limited. "If they can only get into the newspapers by talking communism, is it any wonder they take that means of becoming known?"

Sir Ernest said present day politics are founded on pessimism. "Political parties are all engaged in seeking for trouble and wrong which may or may not exist, and then in applying quack remedies which accentuate the supposed trouble," said Sir Ernest. "Individualism breeds optimism and confidence, which is the natural condition of healthy men and women. In my view there is far too much advertising of socialism."

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back of joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Camel

An honest cigarette honestly advertised.

Delightful tobaccos, the choicest grown. Blended with skill and care. Sold without bunk of any kind, and it leads the world by billions.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today will be observed as Navy day throughout the United States and its possessions.

Centenary of the birth of Albert Fink, the engineer who built the great bridge over the Ohio at Louisville.

Greetings to James J. Davis, secretary of labor in the Coolidge cabinet, on his 54th birthday anniversary.

If Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, were living today he would enter upon his 70th year.

Giovanni Giolitti, five times premier, the "Grand Old Man" of Italian politics, today reaches the age of eighty-five years.

The 1927 Roosevelt Medals for distinguished service will be presented to Gen. John J. Pershing, Herbert Hoover and John Bassett Moore at a banquet to be given tonight at the Roosevelt birthplace in New York city.

Burton's Agency Sells Another

Mr. Jeremiah Lynch of this city has sold his three apartment house located at 17 Raymond Place to Max and Cecelia Ponedel of Niantic, Conn., who have bought the property for an investment.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Wauregan Well Child Conference

The well child conference at Wauregan will be held in the company hall on Tuesday afternoon, November 1st, from 2 to 4 o'clock. This is an opportunity for every mother to bring her preschool children to the conference in order to safeguard the health of her little ones.

Strand Theater

The "Social Highwaymen" now playing at the Strand theater is the best light comedy in motion pictures, quoting Eileen Creelman in her statement to the New York Evening Journal.

The "Kid Sister" as the other feature picture is a smashing drama of life and love behind the footlights; twinkling toes and aching hearts in a gripping ensemble of thrills, laughs and sighs. These two feature pictures make an ideal evenings entertainment now showing at the Strand.

Bread Theatre

"The Sporting Lover," starring Conway Tearle, is a fast-moving story of love, horse racing and the war. It moves like a flash. Sitting in the Bread last night where the picture opened a two days showing, we had a feeling as of being swept irresistibly along.

The horse-racing episode, showing the English Derby, is a sheer masterpiece of film photography. It is thrilling. One has an intense impulse to rise to one's feet and cheer.

For the first time, last night, movie fans of this city saw Bob Steele in action on the screen as a western star in "The Mojave Kid," and judging from the reaction of the audience, the young cinema artist should have been very gratified with the reception accorded his initial starring vehicle at the Bread theatre.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight pictures were also screened and will be shown again today for the last times.

Carnival Taftville

Taftville's annual carnival will open Saturday, October 29, at the Parish hall at 8 sharp. This carnival is run for the benefit of Sacred Heart church and the Army Navy club and will run for 7 nights, opening night Saturday October 29, Tuesday, Nov. 1, Saturday, November 5, Tuesday, November 8th, Saturday, November 12; Tuesday, November 15 and Saturday, November 19, on these nights the attractions will be dancing, vaudeville, tug of war, wrestling, boxing. The dancing programme is by Dave Lyons and his orchestra. There will be dancing every night from 8.00 to 12. Chairman J. H. Troland has signed up some real vaudeville acts that will entertain you every night. The opening night will see a tug of war which has been talked of for some time, between Fontaine's Truckers and Beauregard's Timbermen. These two teams came together field day and Beauregard's boys were beaten by a quarter of an inch and since then Mine has gone out to get his revenge on Fontaine's team and will show him in the parish Saturday night that his team can be defeated. Don't miss it. We also have articles on display to be given away.

PLANS FOR NAVY DAY CELEBRATION ARE ANNOUNCED FROM NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 26—Tomorrow (Thursday) Navy day, will be observed throughout the country, special programs being carried out at the various naval bases and navy yards. Navy ships of various types have been assigned by the navy department to be stationed at coast ports and the Falcoln has been assigned to New London. There will be other ships here, including submarines, stationed at the submarine base and the U. S. S. Camden. The navy bases and naval commands afloat and ashore are open to the public for visits. It is to be one day of the year when all the people will turn their thoughts in a special way to what the navy means to them. This year the special message it is desired to deliver to the public concerns the three fundamentals of sea power, namely, foreign trade, the merchant marine and naval protection.

As a part of the program a special Navy day program will be broadcast from 9:30 until 10:30 p. m. Secretary Wilbur, Admiral Jones, Commander Byrd and General Pershing will be included among the speakers.

Visitors will be welcomed from 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the submarine base and boats from the base and United States Coast Guard will transport the visitors to and from the base, leaving from the municipal pier. In addition to the boats stationed at the base there will be several destroyers and about a score of patrol boats at the state pier, which will be passed by the visitors going to and coming from the submarine base.

MONTVILLE MILL SUPT. TELLS DRIVER OF ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 26—An automobile truck, owned by the New London Fruit & Produce company, and driven by Clayton E. Beckwith, 564 Bank street, struck Neil Maher, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Maher, 15 Union street, this morning and the boy is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a head injury. While the boy apparently is not seriously hurt, he will be kept under observation a day or two. The boy had been standing on the sidewalk of Bank street, near Pearl street and suddenly darted into the highway in an attempt to reach the opposite sidewalk. At the same time the truck was headed in a northerly direction and was about to pass the boy as he started to run. Continuing to the highway the boy ran against the side of the truck and was thrown to the pavement. Patrolman John Courtney was near by and he had the police auto summoned and conveyed the child to the hospital where an examination revealed a punctured scalp

When the boy was struck, Beckwith did not stop, but continued toward State street. Welles W. Lyman, superintendent of th Palmer mills, Montville, was driving behind the truck. He saw the boy as the latter landed on the pavements and continued to follow the truck until State street was reached, when he caused Beckwith to stop. Beckwith claimed that he had not seen the boy and neither did he realize that he had been injured. Sergeant Nelson Smith ordered Beckwith to go to police headquarters until inquiry could be made as to the seriousness of the boy's injuries. When that information was obtained Beckwith was released.

The funeral of Charles L. Hadley, who dropped dead in Williams Memorial park Sunday, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at Brainard lodge Masonic temple. The services were according to the Masonic ritual and were conducted by Acting Master Ellery N. Edwards and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth as chaplain. Members of the lodge acted as bearers. The body was taken to South Hadley, Mass., where burial took place this afternoon.

The funeral of Miss Ann L. Cox, former cook at the Smith Memorial home, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Shiloh Baptist church. The services were conducted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Peterson, widow of Otto Peterson, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 555 Ocean avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Gardner cemetery.

Walter T. Murphy, manager of the Lyceum, Crown and Capitol theatres, accompanied by Mrs. Murphy, is on a motor trip of two weeks through the middle west.

Tony Caldrello, proprietor of an auto sales station 675 Bank street, reported to the police today that a Hudson coach was stolen from its place of parking this morning. The auto is of 1923 model and carries dealers' markers XE-203. Caldrello said that he parked the auto in front of his place of business at 1 o'clock and when he went to business at 10 o'clock he discovered that the car had been stolen.

Tonight Cadrello informed the police that he had recovered his auto It was found abandoned by the highway in Waterford.

A Ford commercial truck, which had been parked on Hempstead street, near Mercer street since yesterday, was taken to a garage and placed in storage by the police today. The truck carries Connecticut registration, 27,465.

Minnie F. Eddy has sold to William F. Damas a building lot on Crystal avenue.

Rev. Joseph A. Elder has sold an undivided one-half interest in the residence, corner of Williams street and Garfield avenue to Nellie S. Potter.

Emily Guest, of Hartford, formerly of New London, has sold a house and lot on Prest street to Barney Belgrad.

The Rhode Island state police today notified the New London police that the Ford touring car, which is being held here where it was abandoned, was stolen in Allington, R. I., and is the property of a resident of that city. The car was stolen on the 21st. The following night Patrolman John Foley found the car on Winthrop street, where the thief had left it, partially occupying the sidewalk. It was taken to a garage and placed in storage.

Councilor Edward L. Streeter, Jr., is incapacitated because of ill health and while he is not confined to his home, Ocean avenue, his condition is such that his family and friends are much concerned. It is probable that Mr. Streeter will seek some other climate in an endeavor to regain his health.

The entire shoe stock of Frank's Shoe store, formerly doing business on Bank street, was purchased today by Hartford Mercantile interests for $2430. The sale was made by auction in keeping with Connecticut bankrupt laws.

H. A. McClellan is in New York, a guest at the Hotel Wellington.

R. Wheeler Hewitt and family today changed their residence from Bellevue place to Granite street, Mr. Hewitt having recently purchased a house owned by Dr George N. Bates.

The New London Y. M. C. A. started its Enrollment week Friday night, supper being served to the members of the teams gathered at the Y. Fifty-seven sat down to supper, the tables being divided so that members of each of the two divisions sat together.

Following the dinner Allen B. Lambdin, chairman of the membership committee of the association, and in charge of the enrollment week plans presided. He presented Charles K. Calhoun, general secretary of the Bridgeport Y. M. C. A. Mr. Calhoun brought greetings from his association and stressed the great advantages of membership in a Y. M. C. A. He mentioned the four great divisions of a man's life, physical, educational, spiritual, and social, and showed how through its gymnasium, educational classes, discussion groups and social rooms these four sides are developed in their right proportion. He called upon every worker to go out and interview men and boys of the community in the full knowledge that in selling them the services of the association they were selling a product which will mean much in the rounding out of their lives.

Clyde Williamson outlined the details of the plans for points to be awarded the divisions in enrollments, and urged each to do his best to pile up the score against his opponents. The plan calls for awarding of 25 points for each new member secured —a new member being one who was not a member as of October 1, 1927. For each dollar turned in on membership or privileges credit for 5 points will be given. Any worker securing three new members from any one plant or business concern will be awarded a bonus of 30 points, and an additional ten points for each further new member secured from that plant or business concern by the same worker. Memberships secured at the desk of the Y. and not credited to any member of a team will be awarded to certain teams for special work done by them, at the discretion of the membership committee.

The supper meeting was held Monday at 6:30, at which time the enrollment secretaries, who are heading up the teams of workers made their first report, and the standing of the two divisions was announced. The week ends with a final dinner Thursday night.

The divisions and teams are: Reds, George O. Gadbois, chief enrollment secretary; Team No. 1, George Whittlesey, enrollment secretary; Richard Johns, Theodore Hansen, H. C. Griswold, F. J. O'Connor, H. Ellsworth Rowland, A. E. Barnes, James F Fielding; Team No. 2, Louis Kaplan, enrollment secretary; L. B. McEwen, Dr. F. C. Cady, Richard Hancock, H W. Hutchinson, Howard Rogers, Ed Sinay, C. E. Flaherty, Maurice Grubner and Brainerd Tiffany; Team No. 3, Lieut. H. N. Hale, enrollment secretary; R W. Matteson, Chaplain M. M Leonard MacLaughlin; Team No. 4, Harold B. Frost, enrollment secretary, H. W. MacMahon, Edgar Demers, John DeGange, Waldo Miner, W. P. Benjamin, Howard Corey and Robert A. Ferguson, Jr.; Team No. 5: John C Church, enrollment secretary, G Cameron MacDonald, Percy Allen, William Rankin, Rev. Theo. Czarchowski, Rev A. F Wagner, Louis Devenditis and Thomas R N. Gardner.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 26—Ferdinand A. Hancock, 74, died this morning at the residence of his son, Leroy Hancock on Mullen Hill, Waterford, after a brief illness from heart and kidney trouble. He is survived, besides his son, LeRoy, by another son, Herbert Hancock and by two daughters, Mrs. Harry Ligourie and Mrs. Austin Hornbeck of Waterford; two sisters, Mrs. William Holmes of Norwich and Mrs. Arthur Ellery of Westfield, Mass.; two brothers, George Hancock of Mystic and William Hancock, Meriden. Mr. Hancock was born in Mystic but for many years has resided in Waterford where he was employed as a carpenter.

The building on Bank street, owned by Schwartz Brothers, recently condemned by the city, has been completely razed. Whether another structure will be erected upon the site, is not known, but it is not believed that a new building will take the place of the demolished one for some time.

Encouraging reports come from New York to donors to and sympathisers with the free hospital for incurable cancer patients, Rosary Hill home, founded by a former New London resident. Sunday October 2nd, many thousands gathered at Hawthorne on the Hudson, for the opening of the new fireproof home, to safeguard the helpless charges to whom Rev. Mother Alphonso (Rose Hawthorne Lathrop) had given her life, following the death of her husband, the brilliant writer George Parsons Lathrop, also at one time a resident of New London. On the opening day, many generous donations were made toward the work, which depends wholly upon the benefactions of those who pity the sufferers whom Mother Alphonsa's successors seek to make as comfortable as possible. One liberal friend gave $20,000 to help toward the payments on the newly constructed hospital-home. The assemblage felt that the fire-proof building made Mother Alphonsa's ideals a reality, and was truly a monument to her zeal and charity for the incurable cancerous poor. It was given out Wednesday in the New York papers that since July 1st, 1926, a total of $269,215.90 has been expended on the home and that $16 500 is still due. Since the death of Rev. Mother Alphonsa, the "servants of relief for incurable cancer", as the good nuns call themselves, plead for their charges through the secretary, Mother M. Rose Huber, O. S. D.

A resident of Jefferson avenue made complaint tonight to the police because of boys having started a bonfire in a yard off that avenue. The fire became so menacing that a garage owned by the complainant was threatened. Patrolman George Cockell was dispatched in the police auto to the site of the fire, ordered the boys to extinguish the blaze and threatened them with arrest if additional fires were started. It is a violation of the city's ordinances to start bonfires without permission of the fire marshal.

Louis Oyster of 25 Meadow street, Hartford, informed the New London police that while he was at Ocean beach on the 16th inst., a spare tire was stolen from his car. Because of the fact that Oyster failed to report the theft of the tire until 10 days had elapsed, it is very doubtful if his property is recovered.

The state police of Groton barracks, today requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a 1926 Buick coupe stolen from a Norwich Town resident. The auto carries Connecticut registration, XH-254.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Dolly Warren Stiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark D. Stiles of Mount Vernon, N. Y., to William B Quaintance, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Quaintance of 11 West 81st street, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Quaintance are annual summer residents of New London owning a cottage at the Pequot.

Frank Pulaski of 99 Willetta avenue and Miss Mary Fratus of 30 Pequot avenue, were married at 9 o'clock this morning with a nuptial high mass at St. Joseph's church by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. Walter Pulaski, a brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Alice M. O'Neil, was the bridesmaid. Mr. Pulaski is employed as cloth inspector at the Corticelli Silk company. Mr. and Mrs. Pulaski are on a wedding trip and upon their return to New London will reside at 32 Willetta avenue.

The bride was attractively gowned in white satin-faced crepe, wore a veil fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss O'Neil wore rose georgette, had a hat to match and carried pink roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Antone Costa, with whom she has made her home.

Robert L. Smith of Montauk avenue was re-elected captain of the State Society of Mayflower Descendants at the annual meeting of the society at Hartford.

Mrs. Ella M. Phillips, 71, wife of Charles A. Phillips of Mallory Hill, Waterford, died this afternoon at her home, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Phillips is survived by a sister, Mrs. L. M. Lipsett of Los Angeles, Cal., a sister-in-law, Mrs. Eva Beebe of Corona, Cal.; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Halgburton and Miss Ella E. Phillips of Waterford and two sons, Leslie C. and Ernest A. Phillips of Waterford.

Stephen Kapastas, 53, died suddenly of heart disease at his home in Flanders, this morning. He was employed by the Niantic Manufacturing company. He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. William Dembrosky, Mrs. John Vreskovich and the Misses Annie and Cecelia Kapastas and a son, Joseph Kapastas Mr. Kapastas apparently had a sound night's sleep, but when he awoke he did not feel well and did not rise. A short time after awakening he was seized with a sinking spell and expired almost instantly.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Pauline Frederick Norwich's own star is with us again, this time as the mother in a photoplay entitled "The Nest" which comes to the Broadway theater for a three day engagement starting this afternoon. It reveals her as the same brilliant actress she always has been; more mellow, more understanding, more spirited even.

"The Nest" is one of those striking Parisian emotional dramas. Its original was in the legitimate theater in Paris; thence it was translated for American production under the direction of William A. Brady and now we have it as a splendid photoplay with the gifted Miss Frederick as the star.

The primary role in "The Nest" is that of the mother who would shield her children, a boy and a girl, against the stings of the world. So protecting is she, and thereby so indulgent, that they grow up to be exceedingly selfish, rebellious children who threaten their own and their mother's happiness. Driven to desperation, she resolves by a bold stroke to regain her ascendency and she does it by going to Paris and making herself young again, both in spirit, emotion and appearance. She comes home to be the belle of the cabarets, evoking envy in the bosom of the ne'er-do-well young woman of whom her son has become enamored, a spirit of jealousy. The mother wins back her children and wins in addition the love of a very splendid man who had sought her ever since her husband died.

It is a powerfully dramatic, an emotionally appealing, a brilliantly acted motion picture.

Palace Theater

Believing that it is not the quantity of the show that attract patrons to the theater, the Palace management offers for the last three days of the week, a well balanced program of vaudeville acts in which quality reigns supreme. Headlining the bill is an act called, "Revelations." To describe this act in detail would detract from its worth. It is however an act that is entirely different from the so-called revues, frequently seen. Sharing honors on the program are, Kennedy and Lewis, who offer a comedy satire, guaranteed to produce laughs. Edwards and George in a domestic skit called "The Last Boat" are very pleasing. The Les Perretos are seen in a daring gymnastic display, while Billie Bowers entertains with a selection of songs and jests.

The feature picture, brings to the screen Owen Moore and Sally O'Neil in "Becky." This picture is an adaptation of the famous Cosmopolitan newspaper serial and is a tale of American stage life. In the picture is a complete theatrical performance, as viewed from the audience, and backstage of the theater. Several hundred men and women, confirmed bargain fiends, appear in the department store sequences at the opening of the picture. "Becky" is a picture that is well worth seeing and this recommendation will be verified by those seeing the picture.

GREENEVILLE

A delightful afternoon was spent Tuesday at "The Crowe's Nest" at Lords Point, where Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., entertained Mrs. Amie Brosofske, Mrs. William Mabrey, Mrs. Alice A. Baker and Miss Alice Bowker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kent of Quincy, Mass., are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Kent's mother, Mrs. M. Ogden of Central avenue.

Amos Minor and William Carey spent Tuesday visiting friends in Pendleton Hill.

Mrs. Ricard Hourigan of Central avenue spent Thursday visiting friends in Jewett City.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ramage have returned to their home in Waterbury after spending a few days at the home of Mr. Ramage's mother, Mrs. John Ramage of Thirteenth street.

Harold Kramer has returned to his home on Ninth street after spending a few days in Hartford.

On Tuesday evening the Ladies aid of the Third Baptist church met with Mrs. Harry Sebastian in Preston and held a social meeting. The ladies brought fancy work. During the evening the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. William Gravet, gave the report of the previous meeting and mentioned that after contributing $50 to the pipe organ fund and a like amount towards renovating the chapel, the society still has a substantial fund in the treasury. Usually all the fuel the church uses is paid for by the Ladies Aid, but a short time ago the men of the church held a wood chopping bee at the home of Irving Mayard, who agreed to give all the wood the church could use, providing the men did their share by chopping it. The Ladies' aid went along with the men and when the men finished work they were served clam chowder, baked beans, potatoe salad, frankfurters, rolls, brown bread, pickles, pie and coffee as a reward. The ladies are making plans for a sale to be held in December; also serve a meat pie supper. Mrs. Sebastian served dainty refreshments assisted by Mrs. Lucy Peckham. The next meeting is to be held with Mrs. Irving Larkins of Ripley Hill.

The December meeting of the home department of the Third Baptist church was held with Mrs. William H. Sweet of Central avenue on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance. After a review of the Sunday school lessons with Mrs. Elmer Mulkins as teacher, the ladies sewed on patch work for a quilt. During the summer the ladies made a donation to the Backus hospital ice cream fund; also sent flowers to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. Elmer Mulkin is superintendent of the department.

Given Jail Sentence

After he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of indecent assault on an 11 year old girl, Frank Rose, Portuguese, 74, was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Wednesday morning. He was arrested Tuesday night by the local police on complaint of the child's father. It is understood that Rose had enticed small girls with gifts of candy into indecent acts on several occasions. At first Rose denied committing the offense but later, at a hearing in chambers, admitted his guilt.

Sues on $1,300 Claim

Carl Frischman of New London, is made defendant in $1,500 damage suit brought by Otto Loesch of that city in the common pleas court. According to the complaint the defendant owed the plaintiff $1,300 on Oct. 10, 1927.

NAVY MAN TELLS ROTARIANS OF VALUE OF NAVY TO THE NATION

In observance of navy day Lieut. Com. Thomas J. Doyle, attached to the submarine base, at Groton, was the speaker of the day at the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel. Commander Doyle said in part:

You gentlemen, interested as you are, in current events, reading articles in the magazines and nawspapers, concerning the navy, unfortunately are frequently reading the ill-informed or distorted views of persons who are not the possessors of all the facts on which they can base a sound finding.

The navy has in Washington a general board comprised of experienced officers chosen for that duty because of their profound knowledge of world and naval affairs and because of their sound judgment. That board has access to a large store of information, including not only the policies of our own nation, but the policies of foreign nations as well. No individual or group of individuals in the United States is as well fitted to state the needs of the navy. It it were true that battleships were not needed, they would be the first to recommend that they be discarded. This board—the general board of the navy—will tell us beyond argument what we should have—our minimum and desirable requirements. Then we, the people, may say through our representatives in congress whether or not we want to build the navy up to the strength recommended.

Why a Larger Navy

The question is frequently put forth why do we need a large navy when there is no danger of war? The question is a fair one. Without reciting all the navy does for our benefit in time of peace—not to mention its activities in furthering our comfort and pleasure, in guarding our mail, advancing the science of radio, aviation, engineering, relieving sufferers of catastrophies in all parts of the world, protecting our citizens and their property in foreign countries. An adequate navy keeps us from war with all its horrors and expense.

No danger of war! There never has been such a time in the history of the humane race. War will be stalking about this earth ready for the spark to explode it instantaneously as long as the instinct of self-preservation remains present in humans. Look at China today, where citizens of all the leading nations of the earth have vast investments with interests liable to clash. Look at Russia and Japan. Russia seeking a warm water port and Japan blocking her in Manchuria. But these countries are far removed from us and we do not believe in entangling alliances! The day of keeping out of entangling alliances has gone forever. We are a world power and as such already entangled. We should be. Progress of civilization demands it. The advancement of rapid communication, fast ships, airplanes, railroads and radio have made the earth small indeed. Our business interests are everywhere. Prosperity at home demands that this be the case.

This prosperity is due to the present conditions of our industries. In order to work these industries to capacity a large export trade is necessary. Our present exportation surplus requires in its production and handling 3,000,000 men or an average of about 60,000 in each state. A market for this exportable surplus is essential to keep these men employed. Successful competition with other maritime powers in marketing this surplus demands a merchant marine. It is a maximum of industry that no business can succeed for long that depends on competition to make deliveries.

In this important branch of industry and defense we are falling behind. We are at present carrying but 30 per cent of our foreign commerce under our own flag.

Need Merchant Marine

Legislation is necessary to improve this condition. The shipping industry is not protected as other industries are against foreign competition. Lack of a merchant marine puts our industries at the mercy of foreign countries on freight rates and ability to market our exportable surplus in times of emergency. In the event of a large war requiring the use of the ships of other nations now carrying our commerce, we would, for lack of ships, immediately fall into overproduction, slumping prices, unemployment, and general depression. Certain imports, essential to our industries and comforts, may be denied us because of our lack of ships. Rubber, tin, nickel, tea and coffee are only a few of the things we could be denied. It requires but little imagination to realize the hardships the lack of these products would cause.

If a merchant marine is needed in times of peace and plenty, it is needed more so in time of war. A well balanced merchant marine is a substantial and essential part of our national defense. It is more than an arm of the navy, it is a part of it.

The 5-5-3 Ratio

We may all say sea power is necessary; a strong navy is necessary, but is it not true we have a treaty with the other world powers solemnly entered into at the Washington disarmament conference limiting the strength of our navy? Yes, the well known 5-5-3 ratio was agreed to at that conference. But that ratio is only applicable to battleships and airplane carriers. We made an honest gesture toward disarmament scrapping partially completed battleships that would have, if completed, given us the strongest navy in the world. Other nations then started building the strongest ships allowed by the treaty—high powered cruisers—at the present time Great Britain has 22 battleships, which number will, when the Rodney and Nelson are completed, be reduced to 18. We have 18, Japan 10.

In modern cruisers (an extremely important part of a well balanced fleet) Great Britain has 54, Japan 25 and we have but 15. We are a very poor third. Cruisers are commerce protectors and the eyes of the fleet. In case of war today our commerce would be wiped off the seas due to the lack of cruisers and our battleships would go into battle blindly due to any possible enemies superiority in cruiser strength. As you all know our delegates at Geneva this summer worked hard to get a reasonable agreement on cruiser and auxiliary strength. At this conference we had nothing to give way but wanted a reasonable allowed cruiser tonnage to build up to and extend the 5-5-3 ratio to cruisers and auxiliaries. The views of the other nations on the cruiser tonnage they wanted came as a surprise and revealed the fact that they believe disarmament a splendid thing when the other fellow has to cut down to be even with them, but unspeakable when they already have the jumps. The tax payers of Great Britain want to keep a large number of cruisers regardless of the cost. We need a large number of cruisers for the same reason Great Britain does. These conferences have made rules for playing the game, but "a Knute Rockne is beating rule committee. We have a Knute Rockne here in the United States in the form of our general board. Let's get behind him and ask our congressmen to get him the material he wants. As Mahan says it is better to be much too strong than a little too weak, so that we can always say, as Stephen Decatur once said: Our country—may she always be right—but our country right or wrong.

Navy day, the anniversary of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, which is set aside each year for the public to see what the navy, the first arm of defense is doing, will be fittingly observed at the base, Thursday. The public is invited to visit the station and inspect the various departments and submarines. Two of the largest submarines afloat of the V type and another of the S type will be opened for inspection. In the afternoon the Submarine Base football eleven will play that of the Brooklyn Naval Hospital.

Programme for November

During the business session, presided over by Pres. Clarence A. Spear, Secretary Edward Jewett read several communications, including one from the Backus hospital auxiliary voicing its appreciation for the support given the organization by the Rotary club.

William A. Park, chairman of the program committee for the month of November, announced the following program:

Nov. 2—Speaker, Rev. H. D. Ralson of South Church, Middletown, subject, "Tolerance." Song leader, Edwin A. Harris.

Nov. 9—Current Event meeting. Five-minute talks by Emory H. Davis, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, John J. O'Rourke and James E. Roantree. Song leader, Flint Brayton.

Nov. 16—Speaker, Prof. Thomas G. Brown of Dartmouth college, subject, "The Orient." Song leader, Frank R. Murdy.

Nov. 23—Educational meeting, in charge of Flint Brayton. Song leader, Henry S. Lyons.

Nov. 30—Speaker, Frank H. Hagard, of Hartford. Song leader, James L. Case.

LIONS INVITE CHAMBER FOR NAVY DAY MEETING

In a letter from Captain Adolphus Andrews, commander of the submarine base at Groton, addressed to President James L. Case of the Norwich chamber of commerce, the organization is requested to cooperate in making some recognition of navy day. As this event falls this week on the day of the Lions' club meeting, through the courtesy of President William Frisbie, members of the chamber of commerce have been invited to join with the Lions club at their meeting in the Wauregan hotel this (Thursday) evening at 6:30.

The speaker will be Lieutenant William E. Mullen of the submarine base. Lieutenant Mullen's subject will be "The Need for Development of the Merchant Marine and the Value of the Merchant Marine to our Commerce."

During recent years the successful celebration of navy day has aided materially in fostering a better understanding between the people of the United States of the organization of the navy—its traditions and its importance to the nation's industrial welfare.

42 NAMES ON LIST OF SUSPENDED DRIVERS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are forty-two names on the list. One case was appealed. Four were Connecticut operators convicted in other states. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

Danielson — Ferdinand Boucher; Moosup—Rudolph Carlson; New London—Frank McCarthy, John D. Teevans; Plainfield—John Aubrey.

THREE SUITS BROUGHT OVER STONINGTON CRASH

Three separate suits, two brought in the court of common pleas, and one in the town court of Stonington, aggregating damages of $1,800, have been brought against Warren B. Finn of East Greenwich, R. I., as the result of an automobile collision, according to papers served by Deputy Sheriff Nelson C. L. Brown and filed with the respective court clerks. Arthur A. Panciera of Stonington seeks $1,000 damages; Raymond Panciera of the same place asks damages of $500, the latter two brought in the court of common pleas; while Florence Sherburne of Stonington asks $300 damages in the Stonington town court.

According to allegations in the complaint, Raymond Panciera was driving a truck owned by Arthur A. Panciera, in an easterly direction in Willow street, Mystic, while the defendant truck was being driven in a southerly direction in Greenmanville avenue at a high and dangerous rate of speed and crashed into the plaintiff truck. Raymond claims damages for injuries received, while Arthur A. Panciera claims damages for the demolishing of his car.

Florence Sherburne seeks damages for injuries to trees, shrubs and lawn on her property as a result of the collision.

BUS COMPANY SUES FOR CRASH INTO FENCE

Claiming that his machine was forced off the road and into a fence, Antonio O. Pajer, doing business under the name of the Springfield-New London Coach Co., sues the Pierce, Butler & Pierce Manufacturing Co., of New London, for damages of $1,000 in the common pleas court.

It is alleged that on June 14, 1927, the plaintiff was operating a passenger bus, driven by Frank Sears, upon the public highway in Groton in a northerly direction, running parellel to and along the east bank of the Thames river, at about 4:45 p. m., when an automobile, owned by the defendant and driven by Prucious C. Bailey, was proceeding in a southerly direction. It is further alleged that the defendant car failed to grant the right of way to the plaintiff bus, forcing the latter bus, in order to avoid a collision, to go off that part of the highway which he was entitled to and to crash into a fence, causing considerable damage to the bus.

STOLE BUICK COUPE FROM AGENCY GARAGE

Sometime Tuesday night a 1926 master six four passenger Buick coupe was stolen from the Buick agency of Julian L. Williams on Town street. The thief gaines entrance to the garage through a rear window and drove the machine away.

The machine has a frame number, 1,460,485; motor number, 1,492,185, bore registration, X-H254; is blue in color and had Goodrich tires. It was recently taken in trade by Mr. Williams. The police throughout the state have been notified of the theft, which was discovered when the garage was opened Wednesday morning.

WOMAN PAYS FINE FOR INSULTING NEIGHBOR

A Central avenue woman was presented in the city court Wednesday morning on a charge of breach of the peace. She was accused of insulting a neighbor Monday when the neighbor was on his way to work. She was fined $1 and costs.

The woman is said to have insulted the same man on Labor day and at that time was dealt with by her husband who witnessed the attack she made on the neighbor. A complaint had been made to the city attorney who wrote the woman a letter advising her to refrain from causing any further trouble.

STATE TAX ON CITY ASSESSED AT $23,939.05

The city of Norwich has been assessed a state tax of $23,939.05; military tax, $5,447.21, according to figures given out at Hartford this week. In Montville the state tax is $2,378.71; military tax $541, and in Colchester, state tax $1,044.81; military tax $237.74.

WATERFORD MAN SUES TO GET MONEY COLLECTED

Claiming that Elizabeth Heffernan of New London has not accounted to him for sums of money she had collected, as a hired collector, Robert Doherty of Waterford has brought suit in the common pleas court for an accounting and judgment for the amount found due.

The plaintiff alleges that on or about Dec. 1, 1925, he hired the defendant as his agent to collect money awarded to him by the compensation commissioner for the second compensation district and that the defendant afterwards collected large sums under the said award and that when an accounting and payment were demanded on May 1, 1927, the plaintiff was refused

SEEKS FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGE FOR $4,000

Foreclosure of a $4,000 mortgage on property in Green street, New London, is sought in a suit brought in the superior court by Otto Loesch against Elizabeth Jeter Green, Edward Connell, Mitchell Purnell, E. E. Darrow and Stern & Levy, Inc., all of New London.

It is alleged that on May 3, 1927, $150 on the principal and $140 in interest was due but the defendant neglected to pay. It is claimed that $38.50 with interest is due and payable.

The defendant Connell claims a $75 attachment on the premises; Purnell, $3000; Darrow, $25 and Stern & Levy, $75.

Given Surprise Shower

Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacGonegal friends and relatives gave a surprise shower on Mrs. Andrew Tomavick, (before marriage, Reba MacGonegal), who was married October 8th. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts, some of which were linen, glassware, silver and dishes.

In connection with the shower Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacGonegal celebrated their second wedding anniversary. They also received presents.

Games and music were enjoyed by all. The feature on the music program was special banjo numbers by one of the girls.

Refreshments were served by the hostess with the aid of Miss Ethel Bushnell, Miss Nancy Partridge and Miss Ethel Sweeney.

Won College Tennis Championship

Miss Constance Ganoe of Washington, D. C., a member of the class of 1931, won the fall tennis championship of Connecticut college in the final match of the annual tournament Tuesday afternoon. She won the title by defeating Miss Mary Boardman of this city, a classmate, in straight sets.

With the title goes possession for one year of the tennis trophy offered by Dr. George N. Bates of New London. The cup has been up for competion for three years. No student has yet won the cup twice.

Defendant in $300 Suit

Charles Glassenberg, of New London, is made defendant in $300 damage suit in the common pleas court brought by Harry Freedman and Julius Freedman, doing business under the style of Freedman Bros., New York. According to the papers, on July 1, 1927, the defendants owed the plaintiff $250.75.

TAFTVILLE

The Maennerchor Turners enjoyed a week-end outing over Saturday and Sunday when they were the guests of the Turner Verein of Derby. The local Turners made the trip by bus, and upon arriving in Derby they enjoyed a delicious supper served by their hosts and later attended a dance and witnessed a gymnastic exhibition at the Shelton high school hall. The overnight stay was made in Ansonia and on Sunday the local Turners gave an exhibition at Turner hall in Derby. They left by bus at 5:30, arriving in Taftville at 9 o'clock.

The monthly Well Child's conference under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich is to be held Friday afternoon in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Annual meeting of Taftville chapter, A. R. C., will be held in Ponemah hall Thursday evening, 8 o'clock.—adv.

After being suspended for the summer, the Thursday evening basketry club has resumed its meetings in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building, being in charge of Mrs. Albert J. Aberg.

The Taftville post of the American legion held its annual meeting Monday evening at the Naturalization club, with the largest attendance ever had. Committee reports for the year were read and accepted. The following officers were elected for 1928: Commander, Edward J. Kelly; first vice commander, Leon DeCelles; second vice commander, Napoleon J. Pepin; adjutant, Thomas P. Sears; treasurer, Ernest Colburn; executive committee, Eugene Lavalle, Arthur Bessette, Ralph Lillibridge, Eugene Mercier and Herman Davignon.

Commander Sears, in his annual report, told of the great strides made by the post both in membership and activities, and urged each member to support the new commander in carrying out the 1928 program. Whereas the local post has been organized since 1923, its work has only begun, and in years to come we will be proud of the fact that we are members of an organization that is a benefit to its community, state and nation. Commander Sears was given a rising vote of thanks for his untiring efforts in making the Post a successful organization. The new officers will be installed at a Andrew Frohmader, Stanislas Benac be held in Taftville early next month. the meeting, doughnuts and coffee were and Ernest Colburn of the legion and Mrs. Ruth G. Sears, Mrs. May D. Frohmader and Mrs. Clara T. Caron of the auxillary are completing arrangements and have promised it to be the big district event of the year.

There will be a large number of the post members take part in the Armistice day parade which will be held in Montville where exercises will be held to dedicate a war memorial. After the meeting, doughnuts and coffee were served.

Miss Ruth Kupky of Bilsville road left Monday for Philadelphia, where she is to be married to Thomas Connell of Spruce street, Norwich.

The Ocowasin Camp Fire Girls have issued invitations to a Halloween party to be held in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church Friday evening.

Mother!

Child Gets Sick, Cross, Feverish if Constipated

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

NEW ENGLAND TO ENDEAVOR RETAIN COTTON INDUSTRY

While Many a New England Mill Has Closed Its Doors Forever and Much Expansion Has Gone South, New England Still Has 16,696,042 Spindles in Place, Representing a Capital of $900,000,000, With About 200,000 Employes—Facts Brought Out at Convention in Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 27—(AP)—Col. G. Edward Buxton, newly elected president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, told the members of the banquet closing the annual meeting tonight that he did not believe "that we New England people will permit the cotton industry to depart."

Colonel Buxton, who is president and treasurer of the B. B. and R. Knight corporation of Rhode Island, added: "I do not believe we will permit the villages that cluster along our waterways to become abandoned and the whole complicated web of commerce, trade, banking and transportation to suffer the very serious loss which would follow our defeat and elimination.

"Today finds us working and planning to meet changing conditions. To the utmost of our abilities we are adapting our equipment and organizations, making them more flexible; endeavoring to create better methods of merchandising; getting in closer touch with our markets; recognizing the consumers' demand for individuality and personality and style and beauty in color and outline and weave and standards of quality.

"We know that countless industrial uses for our fabrics have risen and will yet arise. It is common knowledge that much expansion has gone south and that many a New England mill has closed its doors forever. We find remaining in New England 16,696,042 spindles in place, representing a capital investment of nearly $900,000,000 with about 200,000 employes and a huge allied army of men and women in enterprises directly dependent upon the continuation of the present industry in New England.

"Let our fellow citizens understand that we have a sincere sense of trusteeship in our management of these properties; that we recognize our responsibilities not only to our stockholders and employes, but to the general well being of the communities that have sheltered many of our companies for 100 years."

The association medal, in recognition of outstanding service to the association or to the industry at large, was conferred upon William B. MacColl, the retiring president. E. D. Walden, assistant agent of the Pacific mills, Lawrence, was given a medal "for the great service he rendered to his country and to the cotton industry," during the World war by his invention of cotton airplane fabric.

AIRPLANE WAS SEIZED ON CANADIAN BORDER

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The first airplane ever seized on the U. S.-Canada border as a possible smuggling vehicle bobbed on the waters of Lake Champlain tonight while customs officers sought to determine its real status. Its pilot, W. H. Wincapaw of Staten Island, N. Y., was under arrest charged with crossing the border without reporting. Its passenger, Leon A. Tarr, claiming to be a New York milliner, was in a Burlington hospital threatened with pneumonia.

Although the plane was captured late last night, the customs officers revealed the fact only today. Tonight they were still somewhat in the dark as the mission of the plane, which Wincapaw said had made no previous return to Canada. A mysterious black bag which the pilot said Tarr carried on his trip had not been found.

The Lake Champlain liquor patrol, which seeks to break up international rum-running by water, had been watching for some time for a plane which had previously passed over without reporting. Collector of Customs Harry C. Whitehill said today. Last night a patrol boat which was lying off Colchester Point, which is about 20 miles from St. Albans and 10 miles from Burlington, was rewarded when a big seaplane dipped down to the lake surface. The illness of Tarr, combined with engine trouble, brought about the unscheduled landing.

A preliminary search of the plane failed to reveal any contraband liquor, narcotics or jewelry, and the personal effects of Tarr were examined with no better result.

FRUIT TREES AND FLOWERS ARE BLOOMING IN KANSAS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Fruit trees and flowers in bloom and bushes and vines bearing fruit is the unusual picture sponsored by nature in the southwest as Indian summer temperatures mount into the 80's daily to chase away the threat of killing frosts.

Cherry trees in blossom as in spring, contrast with the riotous colors of the woods in fall, while reports have been received of second crops of raspberries, grapes, strawberries and early apples in various places.

For more than two weeks temperatures have been abnormal and established new high October records, aiding the maturing of crops which were planted late because of the heavy spring rains and floods.

There has been no killing frost and there is no immediate threat of cold weather, the local weather bureau reported today, although temperatures will begin to drop a little after tonight.

TOLD POLICEMAN THAT HE HAD "BOOZE" IN HIS CAR

HARTFORD, Oct. 27.—(AP)—"Booze! What d'ya think?" This was the retort State Policeman Smith received from the driver of a suspicious looking touring car when he stopped it about 8.30 o'clock this morning as it was crossing the bridge from Portland into Middletown and asked the operator what he was carrying. The driver, who gave his name and address as Daniel Martin, of 987 Smith street, Providence, R. I., was put under bond of $500 to appear in the Middletown police court next Wednesday.

The car carried what appeared to be an assortment of champagnes, whiskey and gin, ready, according to the operator, for customers around New Haven. He had brought his cargo from Providence, Martin said.

SUNBOAT SCORPION NOW OUT OF COMMISSION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The United States gunboat Scorpion, famous ship of the navy, after twenty-nine years service on all seas, was mustered out of commission today at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commandant of the yard, was in charge of the ceremonial, which was a part of activities in connection with the observance of Navy day.

The famous old boat, on which has served many of the navy's noted figures at one time or another, was a converted yacht, bought by the government and commissioned in 1898.

TESTING NEW MOTOR IN AMBHIBIAN PLANE DAWN

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Pilot Wilmer Stultz today for two hours put Mrs. Frances Grayson's plane, The Dawn, through its paces in tests for another attempted flight to Europe.

The Amphibian, rejuvenated by a new Wright motor to replace the one broken in the flight last Sunday, soared in and around the shore, mostly at low altitudes, to the delight of several hundred persons who shivered on the beach.

Stultz showed his mastery of the ship in the air by swooping like a hawk over the five-mile stretch of sand, banking up sharply into the wind and climbing steadily to higher altitudes.

The first attempt to take the ship off from the water was abandoned when the spray sent up by the speeding boat splashed near the engines. The shields which had protected the vital parts were not in place today, and it was considered unwise to further attempt a water-up.

Returning to the beach. The plane rose easily. Its yellow wings shown vividly against a cloudy gray sky. For the most part Pilot Stultz chose to fly at the low altitudes which the plane would hold during the start of the Trans-Atlantic flight. Several times he skimmed over the steel pier which crossed the beach, and twice he set the ship down easily on the surface of the water before landing finally a few hundred feet from shore.

Those in the plane on the test flight besides Stultz were Mrs. Grayson and T. Harold Kinkade, the motor expert. Navigator Brice Goldsborough did not fly today.

HOPEFUL VIEW OF ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Oct. 27—(AP)—Optimism as to the immediate economic future of Germany has followed the government's frankness in discussing the nation's financial status since it became known that S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, had forwarded a new memorandum concerning the relation of administrative expenses to fulfillment of the Dawes plan.

Dr. Curtius, minister of economy, today reiterated before the reichstag budget committee the hopeful view expressed by Financial Minister Koehler yesterday. He estimated the private loans floated abroad by Germany industry at 2,000,000,000 marks (about $480,000,000) in comparison with a hypothecated value of 34,000,000,000 marks (approximately $8,160,000,000).

"This would indicate," he said, "that our economic condition is not in the slightest jeopardy and that it affords ample security. We must not lose our nerves nor become panicky. Effort and discipline will enable us to give permanence to present favorable conditions."

STOLE BAG OF CRULLERS TO FEED HER CHILDREN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A pitiful tale of a widowed mother's struggle to feed her three children which came to a climax when she was arrested here for stealing a bag of crullers from a doorstep here today was told to City Attorney Harry M. French by Mrs. Mary Myott, 30. After hearing her story, the city attorney nolled the charge of theft against the woman.

Mrs. Myott, whose three children are aged 5, 4 and 2, told Mr. French that she had been unable to secure employment and that she had been the sole support of the children since the recent death of their father. Driven to desperation by their hungry state, she went forth in search of food.

MORROW TO PRESENT HIS CREDENTIALS TODAY

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow, the new American ambassador to Mexico, spent today in a detailed study of embassy affairs, in conferences with members of the embassy's staff, and in familiarizing himself with the embassy's methods of operation.

Mr. Morrow will present his credentials to President Calles at the presidential palace tomorrow at noon. Afterward, in accordance with diplomatic custom, he will begin making appointments with some of the many individuals and delegations that have expressed a desire to confer with him.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 27—(AP)—Advices reaching here said that an explosion in the boilers was responsible for the sinking of the Italian liner Principessa Mafalda off the coast of Brazil.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Oct. 27—(AP)—President Hermando Siles refused a request made by several women for executive clemency for Alfredo Jauregui, loser in a death lottery and sentenced to execution for the murder of former President Jose Manuel Pando.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27—(AP)—Eamonn De Valera, Irish republican leader, yesterday made his first proposals in the Dail Eireann for republican legislation. De Valera introduced two bills one for repeal of the drastic public safety act passed after the assassination last July of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the council of ministers, and one to relieve public officials from taking the oath of allegiance to King George.

HEAD OF PRINCETON GRADUATE COLLEGE RESIGNS

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The resignation of Dean Andrew Fleming West, organizer and head of the Princeton graduate college, was tendered today to the board of trustees at its annual fall meeting.

While no reason was given, it is known that Dean West has been in poor health for the past several years. He is 73 years old.

The board immediately announced the appointment of Colonel Augustus Trowbridge, for 20 years professor of physics at the university, as a successor.

A disagreement between Dean West and Woodrow Wilson when the latter was president of Princeton, over the position the graduate college was to occupy on the campus, was said to have been instrumental in hastening Wilson's entry into politics.

The president wanted the graduate college campus under the jurisdiction of the university administration, while West insisted upon its being a separate institution. West left Princeton for a brief period, returning to carry out his original plans. Almost immediately, President Wilson resigned and announced his candidacy for governor of New Jersey.

NO DANGER OF FRANCO AMERICAN TARIFF WAR

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—All danger of a Franco-American tariff war is regarded by French officials now as averted, in view of the statement issued last night by M. Bokanowski, French minister of commerce, in which he announced that the high rates on American imports recently imposed had been temporarily suspended.

Negotiations for a commercial agreement, it is thought will begin under favorable auspices as soon as the French and American experts complete the list of products on which France will provisionally grant a minimum tariff.

The negotiations will be undertaken as though they had begun last August, before France raised her tariff duties, and American products will be ganted the minimum rates then existing, except in cases were they were raised under new schedules. In such cases the United States will not be put on the same footing as Germany.

REFUSED TO GIVE HER AGE TO BOARD OF SELECTMEN

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 27. —(AP)—Mrs. Clare Vaughn Wales, 45, of 329 Lafayette street, refused to give her age to the board of selectmen today and was denied the privilege of becoming a voter for the coming mayoralty election.. Unless she presents herself again and tells her age before October 31, Mrs. Wales will be ineligible to vote on November 5.

A resident of the first district, Mrs. Wales was born April 23, 1882, in Summit, N. Y. She has been a resident of Bridgeport since September, 1925.

Arriving in the common council chamber today Mrs. Wales was referred to one of the selectmen's clerks as is customary The clerks fill out a slip for everyone who presents himself to be made a nelector, checks him off the list and the candidate carries the slip over to Town Clerk John Y Caldwell. These slips form the selectment's record and are compared with applications and check lists. The name, address, district, age and occupation of the applicant is set down on the slip by the clerk.

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S LEFT EYE PRONOUNCED WEAK

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine, Oct. 27—(AP)—Booth Tarkington does not feel that he has any cause to fear that he will be totally blind. At his spacious summer home here where he spends at least five months of the year, the noted writer today said that he had been given assurance by his eye specialist, Dr. John Ray Newcomb of Indianapolis, that his left eye will continue to be of use.

Tarkington said he had been reading and writing all summer and had not been bothered by the fact that his right eye failed to sight.

"My right eye," he said, "is of no use whatever and I haven't much hope that its sight will ever be restored. The left eye is weak, but I can see at a distance with a glass and need no glass to read and write. Dr. Newcomb treated me last spring and told me then not to worry about it. And I haven't."

MAN FOUND HANGING FROM ROPE IN A BARN

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 27.—(AP)—George Proctor, 34, Maynard road was found hanging from a rope in the barn in back of his home tonight. Proctor had been in ill health since his return from the World war. He was shell shocked in France and never fully recovered.

NEW AIR MAIL SERVICE FROM QUEBEC TO OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27—(AP)—Air mail service from Quebec to Ottawa, bringing British mail to the capital 48 hours ahead of regular train schedule, began today. A seaplane landed on the Ottawa river, near Parliament building, inaugurating the service.

RESCUE SHIP ARRIVES WITH 531 SURVIVORS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 27—(AP)—The rescue ship Alhena, with 531 survivors of the Principessa Mafalda disaster, arrived here at 11.55 o'clock tonight. The rescued included ten first class, 27 second class, 345 third class passengers and 149 members of the Mafalda's crew.

Schwab Succeeds Late Elbert H. Gary

Elected As President of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, today was elected president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, succeeding the late Elbert H. Gary. James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, was elected vice president. Eugene J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel Co., a d[illegible]

E[illegible]HART RELUCTANT AS OIL CASE WITNESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(AP)—Flat refusal to reveal the source of the $230,500 in liberty bonds which bulk so large in the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial, was made today in the District of Columbia supreme court by the man the government contends can furnish that information.

He is M. T. Everhart, Pueblo, Colorado, banker, and son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, who, after a visit to New York, Washington and other eastern points, returned to his home town with that amount of bonds, which went into the lock box held in the First National bank of Pueblo in Fall's name.

Before Everhart was called to the stand, the government had presented to the jury evidence to show that the bonds were used to pay off debts of Fall, Everhart and Fall's Tres Ritos Cattle and Land company. The bonds were received by Everhart after the lease of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair by the former interior secretary.

As was the case when he was called in the trial of the Teapot Dome civil suit at Cheyenne, Everhart based his refusal to answer on his constitutional rights, contending that such testimony might tend to incriminate him and lead to his indictment on the very same charge that Sinclair and Fall now are facing before a jury of two women and ten men.

Justice Siddons will determine later, probably tomorrow, whether Everhart will be required to tell from whom he received the bonds. The government contends that Harry F. Sinclair gave the bonds to Fall as a part, at least, of the consideration of the lease of the Wyoming naval reserve.

Patently nervous and extremely ill at ease, Everhart was a reluctant witness from the first, and at one point appeared on the verge of going to jail for his refusal to answer a previous question as to whether he had met Sinclair prior to February 1, 1923.

Justice Siddons directed him to answer.

"I decline to answer," Everhart reiterated.

Charles A. Douglas, a Washington attorney, appeared then for Everhart and asked permission to advise the witness. Justice Siddons refused, remarking that he had advised Everhart.

The witness then asked the stenographer to repeat the question and finally answered in the affirmative. That eased the tension for the moment, but Everhart later refused to answer another question and Justice Siddons directed him to do so.

MOUSING MEN AND BOYS FAILED TO GET ANY MICE

CUMBERLAND CENTER, Maine, Oct. 27—(AP)—Half a hundred men and boys went mousing here today in the interests of better orchard protection. The only restriction was that reithrodontomys leconiti must be caught with the bare hands, just as a cat nabs them.

Under the watchful eye of E. M. Mills of Washington, rodent control expert of the department of agriculture, for more than two hours they dug up the ground about the apple trees on the farm of Herman P. Sweetser with the zest of a dog seeking out a fat woodchuck.

No dog ever got less for his pains and pawing than did these mousers. Mouse-hole after mouse-hole was discovered, and systems of runways constructed by the cunning little creatures were brought to light, but never a mouse, although a bushel of apples, or $5, was offered as a reward, even for one.

JAIL BREAKING NEGRO SUSPECTED OF BURGLARY

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 27.—(AP)—After a day of freedom, James Woods, 26, Negro, was again behind the bars of the jail here tonight ,with charges of jail breaking added to the suspicion of having been implicated in a burglary, on which he had been held.

With the aid of a piece of wire he unhooked a transom early this morning, got into the areaway, scaled a ten foot wall and escaped. He was located this afternoon by a Middletown and a New Britain officer, members of a posse which had been searching all day, near the Stanley Chemical company's plant in East Berlin. He was taken first to New Britain, toward which he had been traveling, and later brought back here.

Woods had been held since Tuesday on suspicion of having been responsible for a break in a corset shop.

A Temporary Mayor For Indianapolis

City Council Holds That Duvall Ceased to Be Mayor Upon Conviction.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27—(AP)—A detail of policemen stood guard over the mayor's office here tonight as two men claimed the place—John L. Duvall, who was elected in January, 1926, and Claude E. Negley, appointed by the common council late today.

Declaring the office had been vacant since Duvall's conviction Sept. 22 for violating the corrupt practices act, the council named Negley, its presiding officer, as mayor pro tem. Nov. 8, was set as the day for the council to name "a citien of Indianapolis" to fill Duvall's unexpired term.

Immediately following the council's action, Duvall set up a detail of policemen to guard the executive offices. They were said to be heavily armed. Even the doors to the city hall were locked—an unusual event.

"If anybody gets in here tonight it will be over my body," Detective Sergeant Arthur Reeves, who is Duvall's bodyguard, declared: "The doors will not be unlocked except on orders of Mr. Duvall."

Duvall, who declined to see newspaper men, had previously declared he would not relinquish the place. Negley said he would make formal demand for the office tomorrow.

The council's action was the latest effort made to get Duvall out of office since he was convicted of having made political deals with William H. Armitage, local politician, during the 1925 political campaign.

The council's action followed the announcement yesterday by Treasurer Edward A. Ramsay that he had been advised that Duvall was holding office illegally and that he would refuse to honor city salary warrants. The next payroll, amounting to more than $300,000, is due next Tuesday.

Duvall has served nearly half of his four year term.

STORY DEALING WITH CORRUPT DRY AGENTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Three-fourths of the dry agents in the second federal district, comprising southern New York and Connecticut, have ben at one time or another under suspicion of accepting bribes, according to Major Chester P. Mills, former prohibition administration.

Major Mills, who makes his statement in the current issue of Collier's Weekly, estimates that at least $50,000,000 a year is involved in the New York area in handling liquor worth less than $1,000,000. "The plain inference is that an unconscionable amount of bootleg profits is eaten up by bribery," he says.

"In the first six months of 1927" continues Major Mills' article, "the New York district forwarded to Washington headquarters more than $10,000 in cash-bribe money received by agents, and not one of these bribers is behind prison bars."

Offers of $20,000 a week for blindness to liquor operations were common to him, the administrator states, and one large alcohol denaturing plant offered him $100,000 a month for his protection.

"Agents frequently receive as much as $50,000," concludes the article, "to protect shipments of booze."

BECAME UNCONSCIOUS WHILE DRIVING TRUCK

MILFORD, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Clarence Johnson, of Mystic, became unconscious while driving a truck en route from New London as he was passing through Devon today. When the truck swerved from the road and jumped the sidewalk curbing, his companion, Edward F. Mahoney, of Noank, seized the emergency and brought the vehicle to a stop just before it hit a telegraph pole.

He found that Johnson was in an unconscious condition with his face drawn with apparent pain.

At the Milford hospital, where Johnson was taken, physicians were unable to diagnose the case. They said, however, that the man was probably suffering from extreme lack of sleep.

FLIGHT OF 28 HOURS BY DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES

A crowd of 5,000 persons witnessed the demonstration.

TWO MEN INJURED IN CRASH OF AIRPLANE

ATLANTIC, Ga., Oct. 27—(AP)—Perry Hinsley of Atlanta, and Roy C. Burgess, of Chicago, were injured fatally late today when the airplane in which they were passengers crashed near Candler field here. The airplane was piloted by Paul Davis, who was seriously injured.

DISMEMBERED BODIES OF TWO YOUNG WOMEN WERE FOUND IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 27—(AP)—The bodies of two women, crudely dismembered and packed into two unlocked trunks were found late today in a house in the old French quarter.

Police believed the women were the wives of Henry and Joe Molty, brothers.

Joe Molty was taken into custody late today and police said they would take him to the mortuary where the bodies are being held in an effort to identify them. Efforts to find Henry Moity and five children belonging to the two families were unavailing.

The bodies of the women were so mutilated that definite identification was difficult.

The rooms in which they were found had been occupied for several weeks by the brothers and their families.

The women were murdered, police said, with a huge sugar cane knife. The weapon, sharp and with a two foot blade, was found in one of the trunks.

Neighbors said that the women had returned to their apartments late yesterday afternoon after an outing. Police believed the crime was committed during the early morning hours, basing their belief upon a report of neighbors that they had heard the cries of a child about one o'clock.

A man who occupied an apartment in the same building was taken into custody.

Another man, F. Kimmel, was questioned. His name was found scribbled on a wall in the death chamber. He was held at the house of detention today, having been arrested late yesterday at the Moity home, after a disturbance.

The Moitys came to New Orleans several weeks ago from New Iberia. Neighbors said that the two young women were well behaved and that their husbands bore good reputations.

Superintendent of Police Healy, who took over the investigation, pronounced the crime "the most horrible butchery" in his experience.

PRESIDENT HAS DENIED THE APPLICATION OF MAGRUDER

The Rear Admiral Also Has Been Denied a Personal Interview—Magruder Sought a Revocation of the Order Relieving Him From Duty As Commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard—Secretary Wilbur, Who Made the Announcement, Asserted That There Was Nothing More to Say About the Matter at This Time.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(AP)—President Coolidge refused today to take a hand in the controversy arising out of the recall of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder as commandant of the fourth naval district at Philadelphia for his written and verbal criticisms of navy administration.

Announcement of the president's action was made by Secretary Wilbur, who, after a conference with the executive at the white house, told newspaper men at his daily press conference that the admiral's request for a personal interview and for revocation of the recall order had both been denied.

"Admiral Magruder's request to the president has been disapproved and his aplication denied," was the terse comment of the secretary. He added that he had nothing more to say about the matter at this time.

Mr. Wilbur's visit to the white house was for the purpose of delivering to the president Admiral Magruder's letter seeking the interview. The secretary said afterward that he believed this was the first time that an officer of Magruder's rank had gone over the head of the naval secretary in an appeal to the president.

Admiral Magruder's assertions that the navy was over-organized were touched upon indirectly today by Secretary Wilbur in a Navy day speech before departmental employes; while Representative Britten of Illinois, the ranking republican on the house naval committee, in a statement declared he thought naval officers generally "feel that Rear Admiral Magruder went off half-cocked and that instead of doing the navy a service he probably has hurt it in the eyes of the public."

"For the first time in history the fleet is ready for action at a moment's notice," the secretary told his employes. "The officers to man a wartime fleet are available, the vessels of the fleet are adequately equipped and stord. The navy is so organized now as to be capable of expansion and of practically instant mobilization."

He added that he regarded the maintenance of 2,000 employes here as essential to the preservation of the $2,600,000,000 of naval property and that he expected each of them to be able ot "justify his retention before any congressional committee or investigating committee," and said he welcomed suggestions from officers, men and civilian personnel for the betterment of the navy."

Mr. Wilbur declared the navy had tried faithfully to conform with President Coolidge's policy of economy; that he believed the public of the United States "have today a better understanding of the navy than they have ever had heretofore, and that congress will be disposed to grant the navy such reasonable appropriations as will be necessary for the needed increase to the fleet."

"I feel," he concluded, "that the strength of this country lies in the fact that its citizens have always shown loyalty to the flag. The future strength of the country is dependent on that loyalty."

"Congress always has favored the very widest lattitude of free speech and constructive criticism by army and navy officers even when their respective departments have frowned upon public statements by well intentioned officers," sadi Rep. Britten in his statement.

"If Admiral Magruder had constructive suggestions to make to the department with which he has spent the greater part of his life-time, I personally believe that he should have made them direct instead of through a particular magazine which usually pays for its stories.

"When congress convenes in December, I shall request the secretary of the navy to order Rear Admiral Magruder to appear before the naval affairs committee of the house where his criticism of the efficiency and economies of the department will be given careful and impartial consideration, and I hope that he will be prepared to offer concrete recommendations for changes in existing laws and regulations.

"I do not believe that Admiral Magruder should or will be disciplined by the department to the public. Congress will never tolerate the gagging of Admiral Magruder or of any other officer by his superiors.

"His transfer to Washington from the Philadelphia navy yard may be and probably is a temporary move in order that the department as well as congress may have immediate access to the Magruder line of recommendations. Congress is interested in cutting the annual naval budget provided this can be done without jeopardising the national defense and here is where Admiral Magruder fits in—may be."

BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT TO ADMIRAL MAGRUDER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27—(AP)—Announcement that President Coolidge had refused him a hearing in his controversy with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur came as a "bitter disappointment" to Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who has been detached from command of the fourth naval district because of his criticism of navy administration.

The admiral appeared greatly affected by the president's decision. He said he would accept it as final and go wherever he was ordered. Admiral Magruder said he had had no plans beyond next week when he has been ordered to Washington by Secretary Wilbur.

NEW MEXICO WILL NOT TOLERATE THE I. W. W.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 27—(AP)—New Mexico sounded a warning today, and backed it up with troops, against any "interference with its industries" by the Industrial Workers of the World, fosterer of the Colorado coal strike which has been heeded by more than 4,000 miners.

Governor Dillon of New Mexico, acting on reports that the strike leaders planned to spread their activities to the adjoining state, dispatched 13 national guardsmen to the Colfax county area. They were detailed primarily for investigation purposes.

The executive made known his stand in a telegram to Sheriff William Davis of Colfax county which declared:

"We want no interference from the I. W. W. with New Mexico industries. Am sending national guard officers immediately, instructing them to investigate and make necessary plans to prevent trouble and for the protection of the miners."

The strike in the Colorado coal fields went into its third week today. Minor outbreaks, in one instance precipitated by a girl strike sympathiser, and two cases of sabotage characterized the strike in the coal fields, while in Denver Governor Adams acted in the impromptu role of mediator in settlement negotiations.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MRS. ANNA FORBUSH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The whereabouts of Mrs. Anna Forbush, missing wife of a Canandaigua, N. Y., minister remained a mystery tonight.

Although the last definite clue was dissipated last night by word from New England that there was no trace of the missing woman at the Rorbush summer home in New Hampshire, searchers here today refused to abandon all hope and investigation continued through the ninth day.

The Rev. Forbush, who refused to believe that his wife will not be found, said tonight that he has resolved his hopes to two. He believes either that his wife's mind will clear and that she will find her way out of hiding or that she will grow weaker and more delirious until she wanders from seclusion to be seen and picked up.

Relays of citizens from Canandaigua cotinued to come here to aid in the search. Another group arrived tonight and declared they were prepared to remain until all hope has been abandoned.

Mrs. Forbush dropped out of sight after attending a movie.

MRS. CORSON CHALLENGES FOR A COMPETITIVE SWIM

According to the announcement, Mrs. Corson has taken exceptions to claims by Mrs. Schoemmel on swim records around Manhattan and Battery-to-Sandy Hook distances.

AT LEAST 400 LIVES LOST IN ITALIAN LINER DISASTER

BAHIA, Brazil, Oct. 27—(AP)—Belief that the captain and at least 400 of the passengers and crew of the sunken Italian liner Principessa Mafalda went down with the vessel was expressed by survivors who reached here today despite reports from other sources that only a handful of the more than 1200 aboard were lost.

Tales of a horror-filled night were told by the first of the victims to reach this port aboard the French steamer Mosella, one of the half-dozen ships that answered the Mafalda's distress call.

Despite warmth of water and calmness of sea four of those rescued by the Mosella died from exposure and exhaustion before reaching port and survivors expressed the belief that many others of the rescued would not live. They said it would not be surprising to them if the final death toll amounted to between 600 and 800 persons. Some of them insisted that a number of victims were devoured by sharks as they struggled in the water.

Members of the Mafalda's crew aboard the Mosella said that Captain Simon Gull of the Italian liner went down with his ship. Captain Privat of the Mosella said he was not sure of this as the only thing he knew about it was that he heard Captain Gull giving orders on the bridge of the sinking vessel a short time before it foundered.

NEW YORK MAN DECORATED BY RUMANIAN REGENCY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 27—(AP)—Fred H. Albee, New York surgeon, was decorated by the Rumanian regency today with the order of Commander of the Crown of Rumania, for his contributions to the advancement of bone surgery.

This is the first decoration awarded by the refency. The order of the Crown of Rumania is usually conferred on ambassadors or equally distinguished persons, but Rumania desired to show special honor to an American surgeon.

Before his departure for New York Dr. Albee gave little King Michael a miniature American airplane, to supplement his fleet of kites.

AN AIR DELIVERY TRUCK HAS COMPLETED 14,350 MILES

HARTFORD, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The air delivery truck of the Royal Typewriter company, returned here today after completing 14,350 miles of flying in 27 states in the 45 flying days it has been in service as a merchandise carrier. One hundred and seventy-five cities have been visited by the plane, which delivered typewriters by parachute to 62 other points. Despite its size and weight the plane has been delayed only three times and was on schedule at 39 per cent. of the points it touched. As many as 595 miles were flown in a single day and no emergency or forced landings were made.

O. L. MOSELEY, ESCAPES INJURY WHEN STEERING ROD BREAKS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 27—A cool head saved Orrin L. Moseley of the Spafford house, North Windham from possible injuries and the wrecking of his car when the steering rod of his machine broke and dropped to the ground on the North Windham road Wednesday night. Moseley, driving an Essex, was proceeding at a good rate of speed when the steering rod became disconnected. With remarkable presence of mind Moseley slowed the speed of the car down gradually despite the fact that the machine was swerving unerringly from side to side. A sudden application of the brakes would have caused the machine to capsize. The broken end of the rod tore a groove in the hard surface of the road. The machine came to a stop at the foot of the grade near Campbell's Sunset farm. It was found that the car had also developed engine trouble and it was hauled to North Windham by Frank S. Campbell.

In the presence of many friends and relatives the funeral of Sebastian De Marchi was held from the late home on Holbrook avenue this morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. There was a large display of floral representations. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor, was celebrant; Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski, deacon and Rev. E. A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. The soloists were Mrs. Henry Mathieu and Arthur Roy, accompanied by Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance, the organist. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read by Rev. Father Quinn. The bearers were David DeMarchi, Joseph Gasgola, Paul DeMarchi, Louis DeMarchi, Louis Colly and Joseph Barber. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

State president of Exchange, Edwin J. Donnelly presented a silver loving cup to President Christopher C. Case of the local club, on behalf of Meriden club, at the meeting held in the Nathan Hale hotel Wednesday night. The cup is an awardment made the Willimantic unit for having the largest number of members coming from the longest distance at the state convention of Exchange held in Meriden last June. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center was the speaker of the evening, giving an interesting travelogue on The Beauty Spots of Canada, illustrated with lantern slides. In view of the joint meeting with the Rotary club next Tuesday evening the meeting of next week will be omitted Wednesday evening. It was voted to hold the meeting of November 16 at Hartford in connection with the testimonial dinner to be given the clubs of the state by Clinton G. Nichols of Hartford in recognition of his election to the office of national president. A letter of congratulation was prepared for Attorney and Mrs. Arthur T. Kelley on the recent visit of the stork.

A benefit dance was given recently by the Polish Women's Rosary society for the benefit of the sufferers from the flood in Poland. The entertainment was in the Bijou, and was well attended. The Ramblers of Norwich played for dancing. There was an entertaining program by children, during which seven-year-old Ceslaw Kowalski of Norwich recited; Adeline Glowacki danced and sang a Lindbergh song, also sang Lucky Lindy, singing both in Polish and English. Helen Glowacki of Jewett City and Joseph Rozanski, of Norwich, danced the Paderewski Minuet, the music being played by Stella Glowacki on the piano and Frank Rozanski, of Norwich, on the violin. Adeline Glowacki danced and sang again. She received a basket of flowers, the basket being made by Mrs. Wysonski, and the flowers given by Mrs. Wysonski, Mrs. Kowalski and Mrs. Rozanski, of Norwich. A hand-embroidered bag made by Mrs. Glowacki was awarded Mrs. Eudor LeClaire, and a bedside lamp made by Mrs. Wysonski went to Mrs. Carolina Bakanowsky. Refreshments were on sale, the table being decorated with flowers. The refreshments were donated by Mrs. Arabic, Mrs. Kolbuz, Mrs. Boduch and Mrs. Glowacki. The men who assisted at the hall were Anthony Amboit, John Smith, Valenty Andgeycik, Joseph Glowacki and Anthony Zavistowski. The committee was very appreciative of all the assistance given them to make the affair a success; $72.92 was the net receipts. The committee was Mrs. Joseph Glowacki, Mrs. Frank Minski, Mrs. Kolbuz, Mrs. Voydon, Mrs. Maiochs, Mrs. Burda, Mrs. Pajak, Mrs. Skoczylas, Mrs. Golas and Mrs. Zerambovics.

GOODYEAR PEOPLE INTERESTED IN NEW BEDFORD PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 27—Twelve hundred people are to be let out of employment by the closing on Saturday of this week of the Devon mills, operated by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at New Bedford, where Herman M. Coulter, formerly assistant treasurer of the Goodyear Mills, Inc., of this town is in charge in the same capacity. The suspension of operations at the big plant is to be indefinite, and when the employes take their pay envelopes on Saturday, it is without any assurance, insofar as could be learned today, that the concern by which they have ben employed will ever resume operations in New Bedford.

The particular significance of this here in Killingly is that the tendency of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company has been to center its textile manufacturing operations in the south within the past two or three years, and has developed a plant employing 1,200 people or more at Cedartown, Ga., where Ira A. McDaniel, who succeeded Mr. Coulter as assistant treasurer here, is in charge.

The Goodyear Mills, Inc., of this town continue running at full capacity and with a full quota of help. As both Assistant Treasurer H. B. Puckett and Supt. C. W. Young of the Goodyear mill of this town were in Boston today attending the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, no statement was available as to what bearing, if any, the closing of the big plant at New Bedford might have on the local mill.

It so happens that the Goodyear people own the mill and village of Goodyear in this town, whereas they have had only a lease of the New Bedford mill they have been operating. This fact might be regarded as being of prime importance in considering what the big concern may eventually do as to the Goodyear plant. It has a greater investment interest here than it has had in New Bedford, and a wonderful fine working organization under the direction of highly efficient executives. The organization, both as to employes and executives at New Bedford, also is of the highest standard, but Massachusetts laws place more burdens in the way of working limitations on cotton manufacturing concerns than do Connecticut laws, another factor that may count heavily in protecting the local plant from suspension.

Of course, as to what suspension at the New Bedford plant means is all highly speculative insofar as the average observer here is concerned. However, it is reported to be indefinite, and on the very best authority.

Likewise, the Fisk Rubber company has suspended operations at New Bedford, this concern operating what at one time was a plant owned by the same concern that owned the Devon mills that Goodyear has been operating.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Lena Pepin Gordon, wife of Arthur Gordon, was held from the home on Broad street, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, with Rev. John J. McCabe of Jewett City as deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., as sub-deacon. Relatives and friends from Jewett City were numbered among the funeral congregation. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery at Jewett City, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. McCabe. The bearers were Theophile Pepin, Romeo Pepin, Philip Pepin, Harvey Pepin, Maxime Pepin and Euclid Sarasin. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

OLD EATON FARMHOUSE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 27—Henry Paquin, who for the time being, was living alone on what is generally known as the George I. Eaton place in the Mashentuck district, barely escaped from the burning farmhouse about 3:30 this morning, clad only in his shirt and trousers. The house was totally destroyed, as were nearby outbuildings. It is believed that the fire was caused by a defective chimney. Mr. Paquin was awakened by smoke seeping into the room off the main part of the house where he had been sleeping, and when he opened the door leading into the kitchen he was met by a burst of flame. His coat, shoes and other things that he wore every day, and some money that he had saved, were in the kitchen, with not a chance of his saving them from the roaring flames after he was aroused to action. After the fire nothing but two chimneys were left standing. The loss, partly covered by insurance, it is understood, will amount to $2,500 to $3,000.

Eric V. Johnson, who has been manager in the Danielson district the past two years for the Eastern Dairies, Inc., has been transferred to Providence and will be succeeded as manager here by Frank B. Thayer of Putnam, who has also been with the concern for a long time.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald, member of the staff of nurses at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, has been a visitor here with Mrs. Henry Dubuc and Mrs. Aldie Lamothe.

Continued warm, dry weather has brought about once again the danger of forest fires, and those who frequent the woods these days are being appealed to to exercise the utmost care against starting fires that may get out of control and be really destructive.

Personal taxes become due on November 15 and must be paid within a specified period, a date in January, or those who are delinquent will be charged $3—an advance of $1.00—under the law, by Personal Tax Collector Arthur A. Dean.

Of an old Minnetoxit Hose company group, pictured in a photograph taken probably 35 years ago and now on display in a window at the Danielson Trust company, only two remain in Danielson and, nearly, if not all the others, are dead. The known survivors, both resident here, are Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department and Chief John McFarland of the police department. Louis Nade, one of those in the picture, went to California many years ago and it is not known here whether he still survives. Among those in the picture who have answered the last call are Dominick Nado, Albert Vachon, Charles Day, Peter St. Peter and Frederick Graves.

This morning, as early as 6:20, cars owned by Jesse M. Burgess, of Putnam, whose machine figured in another accident here during the summer, and Adolph Bernier were in collision at the junction of Main street and Depot square. Mr. Burgess was coming down Main and Mr. Bernier was coming north when the cars went together, both being more or less damaged. Chief John McFarland checked up the accident. Mr. Bernier agreed to pay for the damages to the Burgess car, Chief McFarland said later in the morning.

Of interest in this section of eastern Connecticut is the fact that Hiram S. Johnson of Pawtucket is to observe his 84th birthday anniversary on November 4. Mr. Johnson is a native of Plainfield, where he was born in 1843. He is a veteran of the Civil war, having served in K company, 21st Connecticut Volunteer infantry, enlisting on Sept. 5, 1862, and remaining in the service until he was discharged, with the rank of sergeant, on August 8, 1865. In addition to numerous skirmishes, Mr. Johnson was in the battles of Fredericksburg, Drury's Bluff, Cold Harbor, Petersburg and Fort Harrison. He was wounded at Fort Harrison. He served both in the army of the James and the army of the Potomac and under Generals Burnside, Butler and Meade. Mr. Johnson located in Pawtucket in 1867, and the following year married Susan M. Cole of Norwich. He has been engaged in Pawtucket as a wholesale meat dealer for half a century.

Mrs. Esther Dockham, widow of an Adventist minister resident in Danielson many years ago, left here this morning, after spending several months in town, to make her home permanently at South Vernon, Mass., where there is an endowed home for ministers and their widows. It is known as the A. C. South Vernon home.

Danielson will have a goodly delegation at Storrs Saturday afternoon when the Connecticut Aggies play their last home game of the season, meet- in gthe Lowell Textile eleven.

A holder of Canadian-Connecticut mills stock, resident here, said this morning that a communication to him from a brokerage house conveyed the information that there is no known reason for the sudden and material advance in the price of the stock unless it be speculative.

Fall work is being done on dirt highways in sections of the town of Killingly, filling ruts after the summer travel and fashioning water bars to protect the roads during the winter and early spring season.

Nightly now there are Halloween indulgences by the little people, in preparation for their usual parade and witchery stunts of next Monday evening.

October continued to smile today and to make an unprecedented record for remarkable weather. The mercury ran up to 78 degrees this afternoon.

William A. Watson of Hartford was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Attorney E. L. Darbie has succeeded in identifying more of the boys in an old photograph now on display in a widow at the Danielson Trust company. They are Harry Palmer, now of Hartford; Charles Connell, now of Meriden, Oliver Jacobs, Henry Getty and Wallace Paine.

Today Cashier F. T. Storer of the Windham County National bank received a telegram from President Nathan O. Prince, also president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, who is at Houston, Texas, as treasurer of the American Bankers' association assembled in annual convention. Mr. Prince tells of the delightful hospitality of the people of the city to 4,000 assembled bankers from all parts of the United States, and of the splendid weather, hot in the day time, but cool evenings.

George Reeves of New Haven, a resident of Danielson during his youthful years, has been a visitor with relatives here.

This has been a week of more or less air traffic over Danielson, with planes passing daily and the giant dirigible, Los Angeles, making its way northward to Boston early one evening.

G. Rene Caron will be at New Haven Saturday attending the Yale-Dartmouth football game.

PUTNAM

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS ANNOUNCED BY VETERANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 27—The following plans have so far been announced by the committees of the local American Legion post and the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the observance of Armistice day, November 11.

There will be a parade that will start from Union square at noon in which it is planned that the members of the two organizations and the Headquarters company will take part togethre with other semi-military organizations.

At 11 o'clock, the hour at which the armistice was signed nine years ago, there will be a sounding of whistles and ringing of bells at several factories. As this is now a legal holiday, the retail merchants of the city will be asked to close their business places at 11 o'clock in the morning and remain closed for the remainder of the day.

Ernest Durand will be president of the day and Major A. D. McIntyre has been chosen as marshal of the parade. A band, probably the Woodstock band, will lead the procession which will parade over both sections of the city. The committee also expect to secure a suitable speaker. Further details will be worked out at a later meeting of the committee.

The committee representing the Anselym Mayotte post of the American Legion are Commander Martin B. Robertson, G. Stanley Shaw, Dr. Edward F. Perry, Francis Metcalf. The committee of the Foreign Wars Veterans is composed of Commander Ernest Durand, Harvey J. Grinnell.

Funeral services of Byran E. Eddy were held from his home this afternoon in Woodstock, Rev. Henry Baker officiating. The funeral was private and the bearers were his sons and sons-in-law.

Mr. Eddy was well known to a majority of the citizens of Putnam, and was held in high esteem by them as well as by his neighbors. In addition to having been a successful farmer he had dealt largely in grain and agricultural machinery and for a number of years was widely known as an auctioneer in this vicinity.

Within the last month Woodstock has lost three of its best known citizens, John R. Sanger, Gardiner Sumner and Byron E. Eddy.

Mrs. Josephine Steere and Mrs. Flora Alton leave today for Denver, Colorado where they will spend the winter with their brother and sister. They will make a stop in Chicago for a visit with William Richardson, who formerly lived at East Woodstock and made his home with the Alton family for a number of years.

The ladies of the Catholic Women's Welfare society gave another of their delightful whists this week at the rooms of the Knights of Columbus on Front street. The first prize was awarded, Mrs. J. H. P. Gagne, the second prize to Mrs. Stett Macdonald and the consolation to Mrs. Henry Gagne. These weekly whists are proving very popular.

The democratic city committee has issued a call for the ward caucus for the nomination for candidates for aldermen from each ward and ward committee.

The general caucus to name the candidate for mayor and other city offices will not be held, it is understood until after the republicans hold theirs. Practically the only thing that has been decided upon is that they will endorse the nomination of Archie Macdonald, Jr., for tax collector.

The following members of Iroquois council, No. 39, went to the hunting grounds of New Britain to attend the great council session of Connecticut—Degree of Pocahontas, past Pocahontas, Esther deCarlos; past Pocahontas, Emma Logee; past sachem, Austin Lincoln. A class of forty eight past Pocahontas and past sachems were initiated into the great council.

Interesting long tables were given by Great Pocahontas Sarah Hall and Past Grand Sachem William Newport. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Great prophetess, Sarah Hall; great Pocahontas, Rosalie Hurlbut; great Weenonah, Elizabeth Steinwald and great Minnehaha, Mary Johnson. The great Pocahontas appointed Mrs. Esther deCarlo a deputy great Pocahontas over Iona council, No. 29, of Stafford Springs, Conn. The great council will be held in South Norwalk next year.

At the estate of George E. Mason at Brookfield, Mass., forty tons of hay, farming implements and two cows were burned. Mr. Mason himself narrowly escaped being imprisoned among the flames in trying to rescue the horses. He made three attempts before he succeeded in reaching them. He was especially anxious to secure the pet horse of the Mason family which has been seen in all of the parades of the place and who has won ribbons at many of the surrounding fairs. This is the second time this horse has been rescued from the flames. Mr. and Mrs. Mason were former residents of Putnam and are well known here.

The Putnam high school is making plans for a unique entertainment to be known as a nickel bazaar. The pupils of the high school have the help and interest of several organizations of the city. The Alumni association have agreed to take charge of the refreshments. The Putnam lodge of Elks, the Masonic lodge, the Rotary club and Cargill council are all interested. The affair is to take place in November.

Mrs. J. B. Clapp has returned from a visit with her brother M. T. Webster in Westerly.

Mrs. Angelo deBerardinis and son Thomas and daughter, Miss Elsie have returned from a visit with friends in Medford and Lynn, Mass.

Allan Colburn, Warren Fuller and Charles Wagner are visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Hannah Smith has returned to her home in East Putnam after a visit with Miss Nellie Brown at Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke have returned from a visit with their son Herbert and his wife at Middletown, Conn.

Mrs. Daniel Dodge, who is the teacher at the East Putnam school has returned from Maine where she was called by the death of a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Heidger of Greensboro, Vermont have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. May and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chesley and their daughter, Verna have started on a camping trip to Florida where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Iver Nelson have returned from their wedding trip and are making their home with Mrs. Nelson's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Jones Bartlett.

Bite yourself an Alphabet

Pretzeleers bite their own degrees

You don't have to go to college to get a degree. Just pretzel. You can get an A. B. in three bites—two for the A, one for the B. A Ph. D. requires several more bites and one more pretzel. Like this:

People who spend four years crunching on Greek verbs can get more crunch out of pretzels because they're crunchier. They're crisp as a college yell and brittle as good intentions to study hard.....And pretzel graduates are always worth their salt because pretzels are so nice and salty.

Pretzeleers always eat O-So-Guds when drinking ginger ale. Pretzels teach soup or salad or dessert to taste better.... Eat them before going to bed or give them to the youngsters in between meals.

Pretzels are always au fait—if you know what that means. You will, if you insist on O-So-Gud Pretzels made by the Uneeda Bakers... Oh yes! They're easy to digest, too.

O-SO-GUD PRETZELS

Bite right and you can spell anything with the big O-So-Guds. They're full of twists, turns and holes.

SENATOR CURTIS SPEAKS

For months there has been talk about the next presidential election. The merits of many who would make excellent chief executives in the opinion of their advocates have been set forth. There has been endless gossip as to how strong these various persons would be in the different parts of the country and what their chances would be in November 1928. It is only the customary chatter preliminary to a presidential campaign, but up to the throwing of his hat into the ring by Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas there has been no avowed republican candidate.

The reason for this appears to be due to the fact that there is a strong sentiment for President Coolidge to be his own successor, and those who have been mentioned or those who have ambitions have refrained from presuming to get into a convention contest with the president as their opponent. Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois has an organization at work in his behalf and done every thing except to say "I am a candidate." He has said no one could refuse such an honor, but Senator Curtis has now gone him one better and said that he wanted the nomination.

The action of the Kansas senator, long experienced at Washington, means that he considers that President Coolidge does not choose to be president in 1928 and htat he will refuse to take a renomination. Because of that he is out for the job and he wants it understood that he is not simply seeking the publicity that goes with standing in the position of a favorite son.

What is going to be the effect of this announcement upon the others who have been mentioned, but have not had anything to say? Are they going to continue to remain quiet and let matters drift, or are they going to come forth and drop a chapeau into the ring also? The ice has been broken if they want to follow Senator Curtis' lead, but there are indications that all do not feel quite the same as the western senator does concerning the Coolidge statement in view of the known sentiment for his return to the white house next year.

FAIR, FREE AND OPEN

A lot of guesswork and many false inferences have been indulged in concerning the part which this country is playing and going to play in Nicaragua. So persistent were the claims that the United States was picking out the candidates for the next presidential election in that republic, or that it was favoring certain candidates, that Secretary Kellogg found it necessary to repeat again "the United States is not going to select any candidate for president of Nicaragua, either conservative or liberal. Neither is the United States going to back, or use its influence for, the election of any particular person."

The purpose of the United States in Nicaragua is to see that there is a fair, free and open election with everyone entitled to vote getting a chance. It will endeavor to see that the provisions of the constitution of that country are respected and it will take the attitude that only those who are chosen for office under constitutional requirements will get recognition. We are not trying to tell Nicaragua that Tom, Dick or Harry cannot enter the contest for president and have the same rights as Bill, Ed and Jerry if they are able to qualify. That is no different than should be expected. It is simply upholding the fundamental law of that country.

As for endorsing any candidate it will not be done. The nearest to that will be the insistence upon the respect for constitutional requirements. Provided they are not exceeding their rights anyone will have a chance to enter the race and he certain that the influence of this country will not be exerted against them or for them. It cannot be expected that under such supervision, and this service is regarded as highly necessary in Nicaragua, that Uncle Sam will permit those who have debarred themselves from the right to run for president to enter the contest.

The United States is endeavoring to give the neighboring republic the opportunity to experience the benefit of a fair election. It is fully aware of its job and its responsibility and has no intention of subjecting Nicaragua to any injustices. Its whole effort is in the opposite direction.

THE ADMIRAL'S ACTION

Admiral Plunkett, commandant at the Brooklyn navy yard, isn't ill disposed toward the Red Cross. He doesn't tell the men employed there that they cannot join the organization and he doesn't undertake to throw cold water upon the annual Red Cross roll call. Nevertheless he does object to the manner in which the plan for the solicitation of Red Cross memberships in the navy yard was to be conducted. He refused to permit the solicitation of members in the yard and took the position that he had no objection if the men wanted to volunteer their Red Cross memberships, or if they wanted to join in their home communities, but he objected to the individual solicitation which too much resembled forcing the men to join because others were doing it, or against their inclination.

The Red Cross is able to speak for itself. Its work is such as to command the respect of all individuals and to encourage everybody to have a hand on a dollar in it. It will be noted that in the placing of restrictions on the solicitation of memberships that the Red Cross itself raised no protest against the ruling of the admiral. It has no desire that solicitors in its behalf should carry on a campaign which would be objectionable in any way. It doesn't want persons to be hounded into joining. Its good work is a sufficient appeal for those who have any appreciation of humanitarian and emergency work.

The whole affair at the Brooklyn navy yard appears to have arisen over the method which had been employed for soliciting memberships. Without consideration for the individuals, but with a desire to roll up a big list by intensive solicitation and urging, the situation was one which the admiral considered called for the assertion of his authority. From all indications all friction might have been avoided if an effort had been made at the beginning to come to an understanding instead of plunging into what might have been anticipated would be objectionable.

HASTY LEGISLATION

Hasty law making can make all kinds of trouble. It often accomplishes what was intended but in many instances it includes thereunder much that was not planned. The law may be drawn in such a way that it fails to exclude certain situations which the law makers didn't anticipate, and the oversight comes to light only when those who are charged with enforcing the law begin to study its provisions and determine what they are required to do.

A case of this kind exists in Rhode Island at the present time when the food and drug commission are enforcing a law which requires a license at a cost of $20 from those who manufacture or bottle for sale or sell or offer for sale sweet cider. This is included with the bottling of other soft drinks, but when it came to enforcement it was found that it affected the farmers who have been accustomed to make and sell cider without bottling, as well as other small producers. The licensing fee is prohibitive. Many a farmer makes a small amount of cider for himself or possibly his customers but not enough to warrant taking out a license. To obtain a license would mean taking a big chance of even getting his money back, and yet under the law he must stop pressing the apples unless he does.

The Rhode Island commission has taken a sensible position, however, in deciding to exclude such cases as the farmers and small producers and dealers where sweet cider is concerned. It is not believed that it was intended to include them and in its interpretation it is believed it will be generally supported. It is a law which should get necessary attention from the next session of that state's legislature. The full effect of the law appears not to have been carefully studied at the time of enactment.

CAROL AND RUMANIA

Rumania has had its troubles for some little time. Contributing to them has been Prince Carol. He took steps to eliminate himself from that country's affairs and it was thought such action would settle the matter. When he renounced his claim to the throne he was supposed to have ben sincere, but now he bobs up again and has thrown Rumania into a state of affairs which made martial law necessary and the end is not yet.

Carol is acting through others, and his claim is that there is a demand for his return and his assumption of the throne. He wants the matter submitted to the people and if they so vote he will accede to their wishes.

The crown prince of Rumania has been mixed up in matrimonial difficulties and only a few years ago indicated his dislike for the restrictions that are thrown about one in his position. He wanted his own way regardless of the effect upon Rumania. He wanted it so badly that he was willing to discard his claim on the title, even though it was apparent that it would not be many years before he would succeed his father. He had his own way, and he has been the cause of no little concern since that time. But now that he has experienced the life he sought he wants to go back, and if he cannot go back any other way he is ready to make a fuss about it. What the effects of such a fuss might be upon the country is well understood by the government which has been formed to direct affairs until Prince Michael is able to take the throne, although why there should be any desire in Rumania for Carol is hard to understand. Whether Carol can upset the existing arrangement is a matter which is interesting all Europe.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: October is bidding for special commendation and getting it.

These would be good mornings for seeking the chestnuts if there were such things any more.

Norwich always appreciates the opportunity to welcome the school teachers, whether in convention or otherwise.

It will not be long now before we are thrilled by stories of the hunt for coons and accounts of the subsequent feasts.

There has been so much heard about the oil cases that they do not arouse the same amount of interest that they once did.

A Boston man dropped dead just after he had paid his taxes. It is certainly an awful strain on the constitution as well as the pocketbook when it comes to meeting the tax levy these days.

THE HEART TRICK.

If Minnie had known Pa Calkins the whole course of her life would have been different. But she didn't. She just knew Brud. And Brud, being a Calkins, never told her about pa or ma, or, in fact, anything much. He just sat on his end of the bench in Lincoln park and held Minnie's hand. He sat and sat till Minnie gave a long sigh and remarked that it must be time to go home. Whereupon they went home.

The Calkinses didn't talk much at home. Pa had three words. "Uh hu," "Uh uh" and " 'Sbre'fastready?" Ma Calkins early in her married life recognized this last as "Good morning, my dear. Did you sleep well? The window shade flapping kept me awake. Is breakfast ready? Yes? You are a wonderful woman."

Oh, Brud had his social attainments. He did card tricks. He had always a nice, shiny deck of cards in his pocket, and when stress of circumstances demanded anything of moment from him he poked his hand into his hind pocket, brought out the cards, laid them out on the table, and, mustering all his courage, commanded:

"Pick out three—yes, any three. Don't tell me what they are." Card tricks were Brud's social repartee, his emotional refuge.

Brud also had a police record. But Minnie didn't know that, either. One night when he was coming home late from the "works" a gentleman of the dusk stepped out of an alley and told him to "stick 'em up."

Brud had his pay envelope in his pocket. And it made him mad to think that a guy who hadn't worked a week for those thirty-five bucks was going to walk off with them.

So he wound the gentleman of the dusk around a lamp-post and got booked for disorderly conduct and disturbing the neighborhood. They kept him at the police station pending the coming back into circulation of the gentleman of the dusk. Half an hour later everybody from the desk sergeant down to the station's own porter trailing a languid broom, was hanging brothlessly over Brud's shoulder watching the magic succession of card tricks fit through Brud's otherwise ungifted hands.

Brud had tried to tell Minnie that he had almost killed a man. But words had failed, and after a long, inarticulate Saraha of silence he had managed:

"Min, I got a new one." Moving over nearer the park light, Brud had done his new trick, while Minnie admired.

In the little, always dusky bedroom whose window was slammed up against the dirty brick wall of the house next door, Min dropped on the floor beside the bed and hid her face in the comfort so that her sister Mabel wouldn't hear her sniffle. But Mabel heard.

" Smatter, Min?"

"It's Brud," gulped Minnie. "Do you s'pose he doesn't care at all, after all these months? He just never says nothin'. An' a girl can't go on forever going three nights a week with a man who never says nothin'. Just sits and sits and looks and looks— and does card tricks!"

Mabel put out a reassuring hand in the darkness. Mabel was married. She had wisdom.

"Minnie, kid, next time you have a date with Brud you tell him what a swell guy has proposed to you and you are holdin' him off because you are sure there is some one in the world that loves you better than he does. That's what I did to Henry. And gosh how it worked."

"Did it?" sniffed Minnie, and clambered, soothed and heartened, into bed.

Minnie put on the new blue dress with the silver belt, the little felt hat that pushed her soft hair like golden foam down about her deep blue eyes. Mabel surveyed her approvingly. Henry went to work at 8 in the evening. And while the lingering summer twilight sifted down on the noisy street Mabel sat in the window thinking how she would arrange the furniture in the parlor to get all the folks in for Min's wedding.

At 11 she heard the crunch of a latch key in the lock. It was Minnie.

"Min," whispered Mabel. "What happened?"

"Oh, Mabel," Min's voice was a wail. "I worked up a swell story. Gosh, I was almost in love with that fake guy myself before I got through telling Brud about him—sitting there in the park with the moon an' everything. And Brud didn't say nothin'; he didn't say nothin'. Just looked like he was going to bust right out crying."

"Ya?" gasped Mabel.

"Mabel, he sat awful still for a minute and then he moved quick and I thought sure as day he was going to grab me in his arms. And—and then he got out his old cards and started to do a card trick. An' I pushed him into the lagoon.

"Min, you didn't!"

"I certainly did!"

"Min, which card trick was it?"

"A new one, about pick out the card you like best——"

"Min, an' you didn't grab that deck and pick out the ace of hearts?"

"My gosh, Mabel"—Min's voice sank to a whisper—"I never thought of that."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

FATS GIVE US ENERGY

By R. R. Kime, M. D., Orlando, Fla.
Member Gorgas Memorial

The chief source of energy in the body comes from fats and carbohydrates, and the minimum amount of fats needed daily is estimated at from 25 to 50 grams for the average person. One dram of fats produces nine calories, or one pound 4,082 calories, while one gram of carbohydrates produces four calories, or one pound 1,814 calories.

Fat is a much more concentrated food and smaller amounts should be eaten. An excess of fat in one's diet forms a coating on food and retards the gastric digestion. Fats with low melting point and finely divided or emulsified digest better.

About 30 per cent of the calories consumed as food each day should be fat in some form. Animal fats as a rule are more easily digested and contain more vitamins which aid in their absorption and usefulness as food. Milk, butter, egg yolks, fat meats, lard, olive oil, cottonseed oil, and cocoanut oil are the chief sources of fats as food. Lard and vegetable oils have less vitamin content. Cod liver oil is especially rich in vitamins.

Vitamins, essential factors for life, growth, health, and reproduction, have up to the present time been classified into the following varieties: Vitamin A, which prevents disease of the membrane covering the eyeball; vitamin B, which prevents peripheral neuritis, affecting nerves of motion and sensation; vitamin C, which prevents scurvy, disease of the gums and teeth, purpuric hemorrhages, etc.; vitamin D, which prevents rickets, a disease of bones resulting in softness, deformity and change in structure; vitamin E, called vitamin X by some investigators, has not yet been definitely settled, but most authorities claim it prevents or relieves sterility. Many foods are rich in vitamin content, some containing even more than one.

Since science has proved that to meet the needs of the body food must contain protein, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals, it certainly demonstrates the folly of fads and fashions of living on any one class of foods unless a person is sick; then such person needs a physician to give advice as to diet. Ordinarily one can easily select a diet that will meet all demands of the body by eating regularly a properly balanced ration of protein, fats, and carbohydrates, being careful to include milk, green vegetables, and fruits. About 10 per cent of the calories taken as food daily should be proteins, 30 per cent fats, and 60 per cent carbohydrates.

Such a diet regulated according to age, size, and amount of exercise taken will furnish all the nourishment, vitamins, and minerals the body needs for growth, health, and long life. If the diet is limited principally to milk and a few cereals, then orange juice or tomato juice must be given to prevent deficiency diseases.

The Panhandle Plains Historical society, of Canyon, Tex., has received what is believed to be the oldest loaf of bread in the state. It was made by Gussie Gough when he returned from the Civil war in 1865. Ashes were used in place of soda and the bread still looks substantial.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Victor L. Berger, who has been chosen to succeed the late Eugene V. Debs as chairman of the national executive committee of the Socialist party, was the first socialist ever elected to the United States congress. He is a resident of Milwaukee, where he first came into prominence as publisher of a socialist journal. Mr. Berger is a native of Austria-Hungary, who was educated at universities in Vienna and Budapest, but won no degrees, since reverse of fortune led his family to migrate to America. Arriving in the United States, he worked as an artisan for awhile, then taught in the schools, and in 1898 entered the newspaper field. He has been a major figure in the organization of the socialist party in the nation, and as such is well known personally to the workers in the cause.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

CHILD TRAINING

OLD-FASHIONED WAYS

Stella E. Fulton

"When Grandma comes, I hope she won't upset Betty's training. She's so old-fashioned, I'm afraid she will want to interfere with the child's schedule and give her all sorts of impossible things to eat," Mrs. Treadwell had said when the vigorous old lady had announced her intention of making a visit.

But, on the contrary, Grandma had no suggestions to make regarding Betty—Betty who was tinted about her food, restless and impatient, bursting into tears at slight provocation and altogether too pale and languid.

Betty lived in a household of grown-ups. Grandpa enjoyed taking her to the movies any pleasant afternoon. Cousin Mary donated pink chiffon bonnets and white broadcloth coats. Her father brought home a pair of real kid gloves, just to see her eyes shine, and a doll so fragile and delicately arrayed, that someone had to be continually reminding her not to drop it, not to soil it. Mother took her on her shopping trips, proud of the attention she received in the stores.

And still Grandma said nothing. Until one day young Mrs. Treadwell remarked, "I don't see how mothers in your day ever succeeded in raising their families. They paid so little attention to diet!"

Grandma must have been slightly ruffled for she replied, "We weren't perhaps as careful of the food that went into their stomachs as you are, but we were a good deal more particular about the food we gave their minds. We maybe did give them too much spice in their vicituals, but not so much in their amusements. We didn't dash in a lot of excitement on the top of a full day. We didn't take them about through crowds to overstimulate and exhaust them. You say you don't want Betty to get a taste for highly seasoned food. Well, our children didn't get such a taste for excitement that they couldn't enjoy a quiet day at home, reading or working. Excitement arouses the desire for more excitement, just as the condiments you worry so about, cause a desire for more condiments.

"You say that certain foods are a burden to a child's delicate stomach. We never made playthings a burden. A child ought not to be continually pestered about taking care of a fragile toy. If Betty were my child I'd put away that fancy doll until she were older. A simpler one would be better for her now.

"Her food isn't too rich but her clothes are. They are no more fit for a vigorous child than that rich pudding you refused her last night. They belong to her future.

"Our children were not always fed wisely, but perhaps they survived it all because they didn't have too much attention, too many people about, too much nagging about non-essentials, fussy clothes, elaborate toys or constant stimulation."

"But what can a mother do in this modern world? We can't live as you did them," said the younger woman.

"You can as far as the essentials go. Just as you choose for her simple food out of all that is on the table so you can learn to choose simple pleasures, quiet enjoyment and the child-companionship she so much needs."

Former Norwich Leaders

These Mayors

A small town school had a student government in the lower grades, as a means to good conduct. The fourth grade boasts a police force, mayor, and other officers. One student, coming home, voiced violent protest.

"We've got a heck of a mayor in our grade," she announced inelegantly. "Whenever the public tell him any thing he always says, 'Well, I can't help it.'"

Husbands

Joseph and Alice, loving domestic couple, had been having a slight argument as to the tentative purchase of a new hat on the part of Alice. Things were just a trifle unpleasant and the atmosphere was chilly. Joseph began to have that guilty feeling and wished to change the subject. He took up the paper and read attentively for a few minutes. Then he thought to branch out into conversation.

"Well, I see by the paper they are going to have a husband calling contest out in the west." No reply.

"Well, now I've never heard of a husband calling contest. I have heard of hog calling contests. What's the difference?"

"I don't know as there is any," came the meek reply from the wife.

MANY GERMAN STREETS HAVE THE SAME NAME

BERLIN, Oct. 27 (AP)—When travelers reaches Berlin, and boarding a taxi asks the chauffeur to take him to, say number 121 Berliner Strasse, he is not a little surprised to find the cabby retort, "But what Berliner street do you mean?" Further discussion develops the fact that there are not less than 24 streets by this name within the metropolis.

Berlin is made up of countless boroughs which at one time were independent little towns. Each of them had a road leading to Berlin, and each of them, after incorporation with the metropolis, insisted upon retaining its Berlinstrasse. This has proven such a nuisance in the course of time, however, that there is a strong movement for abolishing all repetitions.

Another favorite street name is that of Bismarck. There are 20 streets and 5 squares within Greater Berlin named after the Iron Chancellor. Wilhemstrasse likewise occurs 20 times, and Bahnhofstrasse (Railway station street) even 22 times.

The linden tree seems the most popular among Berliners, if the frequency with which streets are named after it is a criterion. There is not only historic Unter den Linden, but Berlin in addition has 13 Linden streets and 8 Linden avenues. The chestnut is the next closest competitor, with 9 streets named in its honor.

Goethe is apparently the most popular poet, for 14 Berlin streets bear his name, while Schiller is thus honored only 13 and Lessing 12 times.

There are 17 park streets, 12 school, 13 main, 16 forest, 16 Moltke, 11 Kaiser Friedrich streets.

A block of offices that will constitute the largest building in the British Empire is under construction in Montreal.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Ralph C. Bugbee

At 9 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral of Mrs. Ralph C. Bugbee was held from the home of her father-in-law, Charles C. Bugbee, Uncasville, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 10 o'clock there was a high mass of requiem at St. John's church, Uncasville, Rev. James J. O'Marra being celebrant. Miss Helen Ganes presided at the organ and Mrs. J. Edwards sang When Evening Comes and Nearer, My God to Thee. The burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery in Uncasville where Rev. Father O'Marra conducted the committal service.

The bearers were Eugene Maddo, Jerome E. Bonville, John Marcaux and Peter Marcaux. Mourners were present from New London, Putnam, Danielson and Providence and there was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. A delegation from Rosary and Scapular Confraternity attended in a body. The Henry Allen and Son Co., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SUFFERS BRAIN CONCUSSION WHEN HIT BY TROLLEY

William Gordon, 86, who for some time has been living at the Sheltering arms, suffered concussion of the brain and a severe wound on the back of his hand, when he was struck and knocked down by a trolley car Thursday afternoon at the corner of Seventh street and Central avenue. He is in a semi-conscious condition at the Backus hospital. Seven stitches were required to close the wound in the back of the head.

Mr. Gordon had been calling on friends in the Greeneville section and came out of the drug store at the corner to take the 3:15 car for Franklin square. He crossed the north bound track into the path of the south bound car which fortunately was traveling at slow speed, but he was struck and knocked down. Dr. Paul F. Gadle who attended him after the accident had him taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

The trolley car was in charge of Motorman Thomas Filburn and Conductor Roy Leonard.

FRATERNITY CANDIDATE DID STUNT IN FRANKLIN SQUARE

To break the routine of affairs on Franklin square Wednesday evening as a part of initiation into a fraternity thought to be connected with Norwich Free Academy a youthful candidate bearing a paper bag with unknown contents and his face marred with red paint was seen streaking around the triangle formed by the three "everlighted" beacons. He was occupied in this "race," without contestants, for some time to the pleasure of his onlookers, but more so to his "future brothers," who ocupied places in an automobile parked on the square. At the conclusion of his stunt the candidate was taken away in the automobile, no doubt to perform some other freakish affair.

GRANGERS MAKE PROTEST TO SAVE PINE TREES

At its meeting in Steiner hall, Wednesday evening, Norwich grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, passed a resolution of protest against the reported plan of the state highway department for straightening the Military highway. The meeting was informed that one of the proposed new layouts for the road involves the destruction of 18 pine trees and the grange declared that it advocated saving and planting trees, rather than destroying them.

DECLARES UNITED STATES HAS GREAT NEED FOR MERCHANT MARINE

The Norwich Lions club weekly luncheon was held at the Wauregan hotel Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. About 40 Lions and their guests, members of the Norwich chamber of commerce attended the luncheon in recognition of Navy day. Pres. W. R. Frisbie presided at the meeting and opened the program with the singing of America.

William A. Anderson was the song leader of the evening and Nicholas J. Spellman very ably officiated at the piano. Mr. Anderson cleverly paired the Lions into a number of duets which furnished a good deal of amusement. Through the courtesy of Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commander of the submarine base, Lieut. William E. A. Mullin, U. S. N., was the speaker of the evening. Lieut. Mullin received a very cordial reception from the Lions and his splendid personality and interesting talk were enjoyed by the gathering. He gave a very interesting address, the subject of which was Our Need of a Merchant Marine.

He pointed out the fact that all but 30 per cent of our foreign trade is carried in foreign bottoms. Had we a merchant marine during the war we would not have been at all worried. We would not have had to frantically rush into a naval building program entailing about $3,000,000,000 in which by the nature of the haste involved there was a good deal of waste. He said he was amazed when he looked up statistics which gave the figures that since 1922 to 1926 Great Britain has built 30 ships to each American ship. There is no doubt that Great Britain needs a large merchant marine, but our exports and those of Great Britain are about alike. Our coast trade equals more than the entire British foreign trade and it also matches in distances the mileage covered by the British merchant marine. Yet, the fact stares us in the face that Great Britain, as I have already stated, has built 30 ships to one of our ships. It is time for the American people to wake up to the necessity of having a merchant marine equal to the needs of our great country. This will prevent those who own the foreign ships from practically controlling the carrying and distribution of our wealth.

Our output being very much larger than any other country in the world, we naturally need more ships than any other country and it is hard to realize that while our greatness in production in all other lines is increasing we are standing still in the matter of building a suitable merchant marine. I haven't said anything about the navy, he said, but every civilian can realize, as well as the naval man, the value of a fast merchant vessel in time of emergency. By arming such a ship with a few six inch guns we could have a most valuable cruiser in case of need. I hope I can leave an impression upon the gentlemen who are here to give serious thought and consideration to this great national need and advocate a greater merchant marine.

Lieut. Mullin received an ovation at the close of his talk. The meeting closed with the usual Lions' roar and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

SUES FOR DAMAGE TO HIS AUTOMOBILE

As the result of an automobile collision on Sept. 25, 1927, Marshall Merritt Dana, of New London, has brought suit for $500 damages against Arthur B. Prentice of that city, according to papers served by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin and filed with Clerk Lewis Crandall of the court of common pleas.

According to the allegations of the complaint, the plaintiff, at 2:30 o'clock in the morning of the above date, started to drive his car from his residence in the westerly side of Ocean avenue when the defendant driving his machine in a southerly direction, recklessly and carelessly ran into the plaintiff car.

The plaintiff claims that his car was damaged to the extent of $350 and that the use of the car was lost to him for "a long period of time."

HOWARD C. RUSS THE HOST AT COON SUPPER IN GROTON

Cooked on a turn, an 18 1-2 pound raccoon, shot Saturday night by William Morgan, a Groton sportsman, was served at a coon supper at Howard C. Russ' home, 241 Monument street, Groton, Wed. night. Several New London and Waterford sportsmen assembled in a den at the Russ home at 7 o'clock. Charles E. White was toastmaster, and he called on Mr. Morgan, who told of shooting the raccoon. Mr. Morgan was accompanied on the trip by Manfred Smart. The den and card room in the Russ home was decorated for the feast.

Others present were Arthur F. Russ, Manfred Smart, Howard G. Russ, Isaac Lamb, Richard B. Smith and Howard C. Russ, of New York, formerly of Norwich.

Named Trustee In Bankruptcy

At a hearing held Thursday before Bankruptcy Referee Thomas M. Shields on the bankrupt estate of Peter C. A Wise Rat

The Moosup Journal says: Speaking of the intelligence frequently shown by animals, a Moosup business man vouches for the accuracy of this story of a very large rat seen on the highway in the rear of the Greeneville car barns, near Norwich, last Thursday afternoon. The animal was trying to carry a big apple across the road but seeing the approaching car he dropped his burden, backed away from it a couple of feet, then ran ahead full speed and succeeded in bunting the apple so hard that it rolled off the pavement. The rat raced after the fruit thus saved and in a twinkling was safe out of harm's way himself, which he might not have been had he continued carrying the apple as at first.

WE MODERNS MET FOR AFTERNOON OF PINOCHLE

The We Moderns Thursday Afternoon club met this week with Mrs. Busch of Hill street when Mrs. Prodell took the first prize in pinochle with a score of 7605, Mrs. Busch, second, with 7210. The refreshments committee consisted of Eleanor Howard, Dorris Peterson, Natalie Seevice, Gertrude Thumm, and the entertainment committee Doris Kennedy, Helena Crandall, Edna Hastings, and Eleanor Welch.

OBITUARY

Sister M. Marguerite

(Contributed)

On Sunday, October 23, Sister M. Marguerite, who for seventeen years taught at St. Patrick's parochial school in this city, passed peacefully to her reward at St. Mary's Home of the Aged in Hartford, after having been an invalid there for the past two years.

Sister Marguerite, whose name in secular life was Catherine Agnes Lane, was born in New Britain, on June 10, 1863, of devout Irish Catholic parentage. She received her early education in the schools of that city, and in 1886, feeling a vocation to become a religious teacher, she entered the novitiate of the Sisters of Mercy. Her solemn profession took place on the feast of the Immaculate Conception, in December, 1888.

Sister Marguerite began her teaching duties at St. Peter's school in Hartford, in the same parish where her teaching career ended due to illness in 1925. She taught also at St. John's school in Stamford, and at St. Augustine's school for boys in West Hartford. However, she served for a longer period at St. Patrick's of Norwich than in any other school to which she was appointed, for she began her teaching duties in this city in 1897 and remained here until 1914. In that year she became Superior of the Sacred Heart convent in Bridgeport, later she served as Superior in St Peter's convent in Danbury

Sister Marguerite was particularly fond of Norwich, and the many friends she made while here were always kindly remembered by her. As a teacher in St. Patrick's, she served in a manner that is almost too well known to require mention. She was zealous and thorough, resourceful and inspiring. She gave her very best to her students to the end that they might become upright and intelligent citizens; and she achieved results in her teaching which were most gratifying to her pupils and their parents and which filled the nuns of her community with the greatest joy. One of her pupils, now a distinguished specialist, recently stated that he studied under no abler or more inspiring teacher at high school, college, or medical school.

Wisdom was hers in a singular degree, for she clearly perceived what were the supreme values in life; she was never deceived by the fictitious. Her superiors appreciated her splendid qualities; they reposed great confidence in her, and she was faithful to every trust. Her life bore every evidence of the fine fruition that must come "where poverty and virtue are wedded to learning."

If one were to designate Sister Marguerite's outstanding trait, it would undoubtedly be her singleness of purpose. While her openness of heart, simplicity of soul, her deep sympathy and understanding were ever manifest and endeared her to all who knew her, nothing about her was so striking as her efforts to realize the ideals of the sisterhood, sanctity and service. The sick she never forgot, and many a wayward soul was helped by her pious counsel. In every undertaking of her life, she followed faithfully and unfalteringly in the footsteps of Christ, the teacher of mankind.

During Sister Marguerite's invalid days at St. Mary's, her former pupils did not fail to visit her. It was evident then that the forceful and dynamic teacher of years past had seen her last days in the classroom; her frame was shrunken, she was lame and very weak. But her eyes retained their lustre, and her face was radiantly fair. In the course of the visits, she lived again the happy days of her teaching; she rejoiced to learn of the successes of her pupils, and her heart was touched if adversity had fallen to their lot. Her solicitude was truly maternal. At length, on days when Sister Marguerite was too ill to receive her friends, her pupils left St. Mary's with heavy hearts, for they knew that Sister's years were well nigh spent.

Sister Marguerite awaited life's end with patient resignation. She was always near to God in life, and as death was sealing up her eyes, she knew that His beloved presence could not be far away. Indeed, on October fifth, she told the nuns who were near her that she would die on October twenty-fifth. On that day she was buried in the community graveyard at St. Mary's.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning, with a solemn mass of requiem in the chapel of St. Mary's home Rev. Dr. Thomas L. Greylish, principal of St. Peter's school, Hartford, was celebrant, and Rev. Charles Corcoran, a Norwich boy whom Sister taught, was sub-deacon of the mass. Bishop McAuliffe, Monsignor Flynn, and priests from various parts of the diocese were present at the mass.

The casket was borne to the grave by three of her relatives, and by three former Norwich boys whom she taught and numbered among her very dear friends. Dr. Thomas H. Gallivan, John P. Gallivan, and Dr. Robert H. Mahoney.

The committal service was read by Father William Odell of Elmwood, assisted by several other clergymen. At the conclusion of the services, prayers for the deceased were offered by the bereaved Sisters of Mercy, who feel, in the passing of Sister Marguerite, that their community has parted with a religious whose life was spent in the pursuance of the highest ideals. In Norwich, as in every place that was blessed by the labors of Sister Marguerite, her memory will ever be sacred.

Daniel L. Browning

After failing in health for a period of over two years, Daniel L. Browning passed away quietly at his home at 219 Maple street, Thursday afternoon at 1.40 p. m. Mr. Browning, the son of Silas H. and Ann Elizabeth Park Browning, was born on March 10, 1874. His early education was received in the schools of Montville and the greater part of his life was spent in Norwich. On Dec. 31, 1901 he married Bessie J. Tourtellotte of Worcester, Mass., and lived a few years there, returning again to Norwich.

As a member of the Uncas lodge, I. O. O. F., and Palmyra encampment Mr. Browning who was a carpenter by trade, was well known and is remembered by many friends.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, Lawrence R., of Norwich, Roger M. of Worcester and Percy S. Browning of Norwich, a daughter, Marion B. Browning at Willimantic normal school, and a brother, Charles R. Browning of Norwich.

INJUNCTION ASKED FOR IN SHIPPING ST. SUIT

Mary Dubois of this city seeks $300 damages and an injunction against Michael and Catherine Bayontz, husband and wife, also of Norwich, according to papers served by Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton.

Both parties own property located on Shipping street, and it is claimed that the land of the defendants so slopes that surface water runs onto property of Mary Dubois. The complaint also set out that the defendants have dug a ditch and constructed a cement gutter which diverts the surface water from the Bayontz property to the Dubois property. By this diversion, a ditch has been made on the plaintiff's land, causing the earth to wash down and into the plaintiff's dooryard and also caused the plaintiff's cellar of her house to become wet, thereby causing great damage to her land and house, and causing the house to be in an unhealthful condition all to the great damage of the plaintiff.

If the ditch, as dug by the defendants is allowed to remain and divert water upon the plaintiff's land, it is alleged that it will do irreparable injury to the plaintiff's lot, cellar, cellar walls and foundation of the plaintiff's land.

The injunction is asked to restrain the defendants from diverting the water from their land upon the plaintiff's land, and that the ditch be filled up and the water allowed to flow in its natural course.

COLORS SELECTED FOR 1928 AUTOMOBILE PLATES

Whether New England automobile owners will like the 1928 license plates depends on their tastes in colors, now that the annual conflict of color preferences of state automobile clubs has been settled, according to a report of the American Automobile association. The color tastes of the New England states are, on the whole, plain, with the exception of Massachusetts which ordains for 1928 a forest green license plate with white numerals and a fish at the bottom of the plate. New Hampshire motor car drivers will also show green plates and white numbers; no design is included.

Connecticut plates will be dark blue with white numerals and the Maine licenses will be white with blue numbers. White on black is the selected color scheme for Rhode Island automobiles and Vermont cars will carry gold plates with dark green numerals. New Englanders registered 1,384,631 automobiles last year, according to the figures supplied by the American Automobile association and Massachusetts led the other five states with a total of 695,190 automobiles, pleasure and commercial. Connecticut was second with 263,235; and Maine followed with 151,486. Rhode Island was fourth with 110,746, New Hampshire fifth with 89,001, and Vermont last with 74,963. For all the forty-two states changing colors this year, there were twenty-three different color combinations for licenses for America's 25,000,000 motor vehicles.

WEDDING

TRUCK DRIVER BECAME UNCONSCIOUS ON DUTY

Clarence Johnson of Mystic, employed by the Inter-State Transportation Co., became unconscious while driving a truck loaded with fish from Noank and Mystic to New York, as the truck was passing through Devon Thursday morning and only the quick thinking of Edward P. Mahoney of Noank, who was with him, prevented a serious accident. Johnson went off suddenly and the truck jumped the sidewalk, curbing and headed for a telephone pole. Mahoney, after a glance at his companion, hastily applied the emergency brake and shut off the ignition, bringing the truck to a halt just before it would have hit the pole.

Alighting from the truck he lifted Johnson out, found that he was unconscious and his face drawn with pain, and rushed him to the Milford hospital. Physicians there were unable to diagnose his illness and after rendering emergency treatment placed him under observation. The attending physicians were of the opinion, however, that Johnson was probably suffering from extreme lack of sleep.

The truck with Johnson at the wheel had left Noank very early Thursday morning, bound for the New York fish markets. The Inter-State Transportation Co. engaged in the fish trucking business between Mystic, Noank, New London and New York, is headed by P. Adel of New London.

New Cable To Block Island

Communication between Block Island and the mainland, at Green Hill Coast Guard station, R. I., was established this week over the new cable laid by the Coast Guard cable ship Pequot in command of Lieut. Comdr. F. W. Brown, Sunday, replacing a tri-core cable 27 years old which previously had been the only direct means of communication.

The new cable, weighing 100 tons provides direct communication between the Block Island Coast Guard stations and the Coast Guard in New London and also with the Western Union Telegraph Co. office.

WALKER READY FOR BATTLE WITH McTIGUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight title holder, arrived today to finish training for his invasion of the light heavyweight ranks here next Tuesday, when he battles Mike McTigue, the former champion of that division, for ten rounds. Walker expects to weigh around 168 for the match, so he will be conceding only a few pounds. It will be his first match since he beat Tommy Milligan in London last summer in defense of his title. If he can conquer McTigue, he said, he wants a chance at Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown.

It will be Walker's sixth fight in Chicago, and he has five consecutive victories to his credit here, including the one in which he took the middleweight title from Tiger Flowers last winter.

RASMUSSEN WINS EASILY OVER JOE TEDONNA

WATERBURY, Oct. 27—(AP)—Charlie Rasmussen won easily over Joe Tedonna in the feature bout of the weekly Waterbury Athletic club amateur card at Buckingham hall tonight. These boxers took the places of Paddy Jones, and "The Unknown Canadian," when the latter failed to put in an appearance. Following are the results:

Joe Daley, Booklyn, defeated Sailor Eddie Squires, 145.

Jackie Reynolds defeated Young Roberts, 160.

Freddy Perrin knocked out Young Herman, Bronx.

Artie Zoran, Waterbuy, defeated Young Dowling, Waterbury, 145.

Patsy Malario, Waterbury, technical knockout over Joey Burns, Waterbury, 118.

FELICINI FIGHTS FAST BOUT AGAINST GEARY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27—(AP)—After being floored twice in the second round, Jim Felicini, of Derby, came back against Frank Feary, of this city so strongly in their bout at the Arena tonight that he was given a draw decision after three rounds. In an extra round to decide the bout Felicini knocked out Geary. A crowd of about 6,000, including personnel of the naval craft here for Navy day, witnessed the amateur card. Results of the other bouts:

Pete Filo, Derby, 112, defeated Nick Florentino, New Haven.

Carman Ciccilano, Derby, defeated Micky Martin, New Haven.

Sam Frisco, Montowese, 128, defeated Joe Mosco, New Haven.

Vic Morley, Hartford, 145, defeated Jimmie Moe, New Haven.

Mickel Williams, Hartford, 135, defeated Nick Celapo, Ned Haven.

Red Knight, New Haven, 128, defeated Jack Wilson, Bridgeport.

Eddie Lynn, Westport, 150, won on a foul from Fitz Addinson, New Haven, thid round.

Pancho Villa, Hartford, 128, defeated Red De Rosa, Derby.

Harvard Has Dummy Scrimmage

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27—(AP)—Dummy scrimmage against Indiana plays and more tackling and blocking fundamentals filled Harvard's football practice session today. From behind closed gates came word that the Crimson regulars of Cambride "looked good" at solving the flashy thrusts of the Crimson regulars of Bloomington as interpreted by the scrubs.

Indiana arrives in Boston at 1:05 tomorrow afternoon and the squad will go to Cambridge immediately for a two hour practice session in the stadium.

Gains Matched with McTigue

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(AP)—Larry Gains, Canadian Heavyweight champion, was matched today to box Mike McTigue of New York in the coliseum here on Nov. 11. McTigue is down for a bout with Mickey Walker in Chicago before facing the Toronto Negro.

BERLIN SEES OPERATIONS OF GREATEST AUDACITY

BERLIN, Oct. (AP)—Demonstration of a number of surgical operations of the the greatest audacity and significance marked a meeting of the Berlin Medical society.

Professor Friedrich Bruening of the University hospital presented a man who had been suffering from chronic atrophy of the large intestine which, with exceptional daring, the surgeon had removed in its entirety.

A surgical cure of certain cases of pulmonary tuberculosis was demonstrated by Professor Duenner, visiting surgeon to the Moabit hospital. Prof. Duenner described how, according to the method advocated by Stuertz of Cologne, he had drawn up the tenth or vagus nerve behind the collar bone whereupon a paralysis of that portion of the diaphragm supplied by this nerve resulted which then led to a contraction of the lungs upwards and an ultimate cicatrization of the diseased lung tissue.

Two successful operations for the removal of emboli, or blood clots, from the pulmonary vein were demonstrated by Professor A. W. Meyer, visiting surgeon to the Westend hospital. The operation, which was performed on a woman on the point of death and which was unanimously acclaimed by the society as one of the greatest accomplishments in modern surgery, consisted in the opening of the chest cavity by the excision of several ribs. The pulmonary vein was then caught and incised, and, after the removal of the blood clot with forceps, sutured.

CONSUMPTION OF BEER REDUCED IN GERMANY

BERLIN, October (AP)—Athletics, the "dry" movement and economic necessity have reduced the consumption of beer in Germany by one-fourth as compared with 1913, according to figures compiled by the federal statistical bureau.

Before the war, the average consumption of beer per year per person was 27 gallons. As this average figure includes children and the very aged, it is safe to say that hte average consumption of the beer-consuming German was at least 50 gallons. Today, the average consumption is only 20 gallons per head per year.

Only half of one per cent of this is imported beer, such as Pilsen, porter, and ale. The 99 1-2 per cent is manufactured right in Germany.

For the Hallowe'en Festivities

COFFEE will play an important part in the good times you are planning for Hallowe'en. Before your guests go home in the crisp autumn night see that they have a cup of coffee that they will long remember. Give them something special—YUBAN—the Arbuckle Guest Coffee.

No matter what coffee you have been using, get a package of delicious YUBAN for this one occasion and compare the flavor. You will probably never again be content with any other coffee.

"PHENO" TOMBARI IS IMPRESSING COACH DOLE WITH HIS PASSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 27—In Seraphino Tombari '30 of Norwich, Coach Sumner A. Dole of the Conecticut Aggies believes he has a man who can equal Captain Willard Eddy '23 as the hurler of forward passes, and one who will probably be called upon to throw many of the aerials another year when Eddy will have graduated.

Tombari, who played in the backfield while a student in Norwich Free Academy, has been used at end by the Aggies because early season injuries in the squad caused a lack of material on the wings. Now with Henry Schildgren back at his old position on end, Dole has pulled Tombari into the backfield and given him the opportunity to show what he can do as a ball carrier, and incidentally a forward passer. It is in the latter role that the Norwich youth is outstanding and he evidently has the makings of one of the best forward passers to ever wear Connecticut colors. Tombari throws the ball with deadly accuracy and plenty of speed, and on the longer throws obtains a distance of forty yards with little apparent exertion. He was given a long throwing drill this afternoon, and he will continue for the remainder of the week and probably get a chance to show his ability under game conditions against Lowell Textile Saturday.

Tombari, incidentally, is a good ball carrier and is especially effective in gaining through the line or off the tackles. He weighs 165 pounds, is fast and shifty, and with two more seasons of varsity football ahead of him should prove a valuable cog in the Connecticut Aggie elevens of 1928 and 1929. A year ago as a freshman he failed to make his numerals, as illness kept him out of active competition most of the season. This year he has come along fast, however, and played strong football throughout.

Dole continued to experiment with plays in this afternoon's workout, and a short scrimmage of ten minute's duration was held to try out the plays under game conditions. They looked good here this afternoon against strong opposition and they should give the Lowell Textile defense a busy afternoon Saturday. The team put in a long session of signal drill and some dummy scrimmage also, working with a ghost ball as darkness fell over the playing field. Today's was the last long workout of the week, for tomorrow Dole is having only the starters in Saturday's game report for a short session of signal drill.

Present plans call for the starting Saturday against Lowell what in effect can be called the Aggies' 1928 varsity eleven. Not a senior, with the possible exception of Sam Derrance at tackle, will be in the starting lineup. All of which means those who do start will be available for at least another year of football and in some instances more.

This is in line with Dole's policy of developing his second string material through actual intercollegiate competition, which is desirable when the substitutes can battle with their opponents on at least even terms. In the next three games, Dole says, every second string player and substitute will be used as much as possible, though the regulars will be used just as much as seems desirable to bring them along to the proper playing level for the Boston college game.

That is the game Connecticut is pointing for from now on, though the Aggies are not overlooking the fact that they must defeat Lowell Textile, Trinity and Rhode Island in working up to the B. C. contest. Of the three named, Rhode Island seems the most formidable of the group, and can certainly be counted upon to give the State College boys a real battle. Rhode Island scored three touchdowns against New Hampshire while against the same oponent Connecticut could only cross the goal line once. All of which indicates that perhaps Rhode Island isn't quite the set-up that many in the student body believe.

DARTMOUTH-YALE GAME FEATURE FOR THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Yale and Dartmouth were tense today for their all important battle on the week end, with the wearers of the Green expressing determinedness to wait for the "breaks" and fight hard.

"Dartmouth is not confident of beating Yale," Head Coach Hawley said "but if we have an even break we will come out victorious Saturday."

Tad Jones called off a scrimmage for the Bulldog because of the heat. The squad went through a short dummy workout and signal session. Hoben resumed his old station at quarterback as Billhardt was still out with a knee bruise.

Harvard was reported to "look good" after a dummy scrimmage against Indiana plays. The Bloomington aggregation is due at Boston at 1:05 tomorrow afternoon and will proceed to Cambridge immediately for a two-hour workout. The Cambridge eleven, recalling its weakness against the Purdue offensive, concentrated on tackling and blocking fundamentals.

Using a forward passing attack expected from the Navy, the scrubs ran up against a stonewall in the Pennsylvania varsity until Davie Schragrin started picking them out of the air.

The Navy went through an intensive scrimmage, its last before the advance on the Quaker city. The middies showed an aggressive defense.

Bucknell closed a week of long drills with stress laid on an aerial attack. A dummy scrimmage was prolonged under arc lights. The squad leaves for West Point tomorrow.

Army regulars registered four touchdowns on the second eleven, Captain Harry Wilson rushing the ball across the line twice. Boran observed his return to the first string with a touchdown while Murrell made the other.

Hal Hastings, veteran guard, was back on the first team for Penn State replacing Bicker. The State eleven ran through a brisk session and broke up an air attack from the reserves.

Lafayette, on edge for the tussle with Penn State, expected to have a changed lineup for Saturday as three of the players are out with injuries Hanlon, Thompson and Pursell. O'Reilly was favored to start in preference to the veteran Wilson at half back.

Finishing touches were put on the Columbia squad before it left for Ithca for the Cornell fray. Colgate had its last home drill before tackling New York university.

BLACK PANTHER WINS FEATURE AT EMPIRE CITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Black Panther carried W. J. Salmon's silks to victory in sensational fashion today in capturing the Scarsdale handicap worth $4,145, the banner event at the Empire City track. The colt was last in the field as the horses swung out of the back stretch but clever riding by Jockey Malben brought Black Panther across the wire a length and a half ahead of Flippant. Cherry Pie was third. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:46 1-5.

The Glen Ellen handicap, with a $3,009 value, feature at the Laurel plant, went to J. E. Widener's Fairness which won by two lengths from Pandera of the H. P. Whitney stable. What'll I Do was third. Jockey Sande was aboard the victor. The time was 1:12 for the six furlong route.

Eastern Stockings took the two year old attraction at Latonia, a six furlong race, the fourth event on the day's card. Color Blind was second in front of Old Times. The time was 1:11 4-5.

At the Arlington track, the fifth race for two year olds over the six furlong distance was annexed by the Bloomfield entry which ran one, two. Dowagiac was home first with Miss Fire second and Aviator coming in to show. The time was 1:12 1-5.

ACADEMY IS FAVORITE TO WIN OVER WILBY

Wilby high has not beaten the Academy in any athletic endeavor in recent years, at least.

The gold game at Waterbury tomorrow marks the third struggle between the Red and White and Green and White and to date the Waterbury Irishmen have hardly been able to offer any kind of opposition. They have been badly outclassed in the two meetings.

The records of these contests follow:

1926

Football—N. F. A. 23; Wilby 0.

1927

Baseball—N. F. A. 15; Wilby 5.

The football victory was about the easiest thing the Academy had in some few years while in baseball the tilt ranked with the best of the "soft" arguments. Three of Wilby's five runs in baseball were scored from a second team.

And then, to make the rout of Brass City teams more complete, the Academy sent Crosby home in the 1926 diamond season on the poor end of an 8 to 0 score. Waterbury has been quite easy for the sons of N. F. A.

But, it may be a lot different this time for Wilby has a much improved club and, playing before the home crowd, will have an advantage.

Quite a few are planning to make the trip from here.

Light Work Yesteray

The Academy had but light work Thursday afternoon at the campus for the last practice of the week. Whitney had the boys running out signals practically the entire time with nearly all players included.

There will be no work today, it being the annual fall holiday, Nutting Day.

The team that started the drill and the one that will in all probability start the Wilby game follows: Greene and LaCroix at the ends with Cruickshank and Kahn at tackles, Fox and Mish at guards with Ingalls at center, Tirrell at quarterback, McGlone and Kelly at the halves and Capt. Marks at fullback. Cruickshank is the only one new to this team, he having been arranged in Shea's place.

The latter, rugged tackle from Jewett City, suffered a general shakeup in scrimmage Wednesday and will probably not play against Wilby.

The trip to the Brass City will be made in private cars, leaving here about 10:30.

Other School News

Hartford Public and Weaver highs meet in the Insurance City this afternoon in what should be a hard fought game. Hartford beat Windham 25 to 0 and Weaver beat Bulkeley of New London 24 to 0.

The Norwalk high team now has not a very bright view of the future. Several players were suspended the early part of the week for infractions of scholastic rules. Thirty-four of their classmates walked out, changed their mind and when they desired to return about noon were refused admission. They have a game with Danbury Friday and Coach Bean of the Norwalk outfit is trying to get a team together.

Chapman Tech's strong squad of cross-country performers will travel to Troy, N. Y., tomorrow to engage in the annual run held under the supervision of Rensallear Polytechnic institute. It is planned to take 12 men along.

Westerly defeated Stonington in cross country Tuesday. Wilcox, who came home first in the run with the Academy also led the pack in, and for this his mates gave him some help.

It is reported that the Academy now has strings out for a game with a high school to take the place of the Alumni game on Thanksgiving day.

The center of athletic activity around eastern Conn. will be in a place called Stonington over the week end what with their football game and cross country run

Stonington and Bulkeley of New London will be going against some tough opposition in Suffield Prep in this run. Stonington is reported to have lost several of her star performers and will have to rely on runners from the lower classes, mostly freshmen while Bulkeley is now enjoying its first attempt at the sport.

It is now probable that Bulkeley and N. F. A., will meet in cross country between the halves of their football game Armistice day at New London.

DARTMOUTH NOT CONFIDENT OF BEATING YALE THIS YEAR

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 27—(AP)—"Dartmouth is not confident of beating Yale, but if we have an even break we will come out victorious Saturday," Head Coach Jess Hawley said tonight at the close of the last practice before the squad leaves for New Haven. The session included a short kicking and passing drill.

That the Green plans to make great use of its forward passing threat was seen in the long drill given Cole and Fusonie, first string ends. Fear that Johnny Phillips would be out of the game with an infected leg were dispelled when the big left guard returned to duty, but Dick Black, triple threat fullback, has slight chance to see action Saturday. The squad leaves tomorrow morning and will put up at Bridgeport, Conn.

HEAT FORCES YALE TO CURTAIL PRACTICE SESSION

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27—(AP)—Heat again forced Coach Tad Jones to call off today what had been intended as the final scrimmage of the Yale varsity and second squads before the Dartmouth game Saturday. As a result the Blue team will meet the Green with only 30 minutes of scrimmaging since the Army game to get into the proper condition to combat Dartmouth's fast backfield.

A long signal drill and a rather short dummy scrimmage took the place of the contemplated actual scrimmaging today. With Billhardt still out with a knee injury received yesterday, Hoben was in his regular position at quarterback. Except that Cox was back in the fullback position in which Hubbard started Saturday, the lineup today was the same as that which took the field against Army. No changes from today's signal drill lineup are expected for the Dartmouth contest.

The first trotter to do a mile in less than 2:30 was the famous gray mare, Lady Suffolk, which reduced the record in 1846 to 2:29 1-2

GRADUATE COACHING SYSTEM ADVOCATED AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27—(AP)—Return to "something like the unpaid coaching system of former days" when "in consequence of T. A. D. Jones' retirement at the end of this football season Yale looks about for his successor as coach of the football menage," is suggested in the Yale Alumni Weekly which will appear tomorrow.

"We hope that full consideration will be given to the question whether Yale cannot at that time make a radical change as regards her football coaching and go back to something like the unpaid coaching system of former days," says the Weekly.

"There is much to be gained in undergraduate self-reliance by such a course. * * * As we look at it, football is a great sport and participation in it by as many undergraduates as possible is to be desired; it is the natural game of energetic youth. * * *

"Intercollegiate football, within bounds ,is wholly desirable, as it gives a fillip to the sport and something to work for by the undergraduate body. Competent coaching for the teams so that as individuals they know how to play and as teams what plays to attempt under the varying conditions of a hard game is essential.

"It would seem that these things could be secured without paying the coach and his staff of assistants, just as readily as paying them. We are for a complete reversal of practice in this regard, and for a careful consideration of the question whether this cannot be done now, when a new arrangement to begin next year is open to us.

"The greatest obstacle to such a course is the public opinion that demands victories, and that considers that the only way to get them is to hire the best coaches and put the responsibility for the season on them.

"This, of course, is putting the methods of outside business competition into undergraduate sports. It is asking the university to do what an industrial concern would do if it wants to be at a competitor in its sales. * * * We do not think that this is the way to go about it.

"Football is a college game and for the benefit of the undergraduates. It is not an advertisement for the university, which has other and more serious business to attend to. To be of the greatest benefit to the undergraduates it should be largely in their own hands. * * *

"Yale football formerly was on the right basis, in that the undergraduates had the responsibility and the graduate coach was an unpaid advisor rather than a paid and responsible head of whom the sporting world at large demanded victories at any price.

"We should like to see a return made to the older conditions. If one university were to take the lead in such a change, others, we believe would gladly follow."

McLARNIN NOT A LIGHTWEIGHT KAPLAN WILLING TO PROVE IT

Louis "Kid" Kaplan, the Meriden Buzzsaw, is ready to get back to his rating as a contender for the lightweight honors. Dennis McMahon has Kaplan back to working for his contest with Mike Dundee at New Haven November 1st. Kaplan will be in the best shape of his career as this match is made at 133 pounds, a natural weight for the "Kid". In his bout with McLarnin which Kaplan took on a short notice, he weighed 132 1-2, and not 136 1-2 as reported. McLarnin weighed 136 1-2. Kaplan has learned a good lesson that hereafter he will not spot any more weight than the lightweight limit calls for.

Pop Foster, manager of McLarnin, who is trying to match his boy as a lightweight with Billy Wallace at Madison Square garden, admits that the best weight McLarnin can do is 137 pounds. This proves that McLarnin does not belong in the lightweight class.

Kaplan is willing to meet McLarnin again at the lightweight limit and if he does not defeat McLarnin he is willing to donate his entire end to charity. Kaplan will be ready to meet all contenders for the lightweight honors as soon as he gets finished with Mike Dundee, who he predicts he will knock out to prove that he is the real lightweight contender. This goes for Terris, McGraw, Wallace, McLarnin or any other lightweight who will tip the scale at the lightweight limit. Watch Kaplan smoke from now on, and he will be up there where he belongs before 1928 rolls around.

WILKINSON, WINDHAM BACK, OUT OF GAME FOR SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 27—The possibility of the loss of Richard Wilkinson, study Windham High school halfback, loomed ominously today as physicians hesitated to predict the recovery of a badly sprained left ankle. The injury was sustained during the practice session Wednesday. Wilkinson is out of consideration for the encounter with Stonington High in Stonington Saturday afternoon and there is the worried speculation that he may be out for the season. Wilkinson was running in a signal drill when he stepped on a stone. The trouncing by Hartford high last Saturday and the loss of its halfback is a bitter prescription for the Windham eleven to swallow but the grit and confidence of the team is a fair match for the training skill of Coach Thomas A. Callaghan and hope of victory in the coming game reigns high. The meeting with Billy O'Brien's proteges is considered a tough assignment and the team is being put into ship-shape for the task. Captain Heller has resumed the role of fullback since Wilkinson's accident and he will very likely appear in that position against Stonington.

SUB BASE HAS EASY TIME WITH BROOKLYN HOSPITAL

Using very litle except straight, old-fashioned football, the Submarine Base eleven swept through the Brooklyn Naval Hospital eleven in the Navy day game at the Base, 26 to 0. From the spectators viewpoint the game was very uninteresting, neither team showing anything of a spectacular nature. The Base drove through the Hospital early in the first quarter for a touchdown and added a touchdown in each of the succeeding quarters. Outside of a few short passes over the line and two criss-cross plays the Base used nothing but line plays and short end runs.

The Hospital team had nothing whatsoever in the way of an attack and during the game made four first downs. Their passing attack was weak and their line plays were smothered by the heavier base line almost before they started. Only once in the middle of the third quarter did the invaders show any strength when they made two first downs in succession. The Base was not so impressive for although the backfield was fast they were given to fumbling, a fault that might have cost them the game had they had a stronger opponent.

A Challenge

"The Fancy Corner Tigers" challenge the Taftville Bone Crushers to a game of football to be played on the J. B. Martin ground, Sat., Oct. 29, 1927, at 1:30. Please answer through this paper.

The modern bicycle-wheeled sulky used in light harness racing weighs about 20 pounds or only one-third as much as the weight of the old high wheeled sulky.

FRENCH PLAYERS "WORE DOWN" TILDEN TO TAKE THE COVETED DAVIS CUP

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—France, it is now disclosed attributes her triumph in the Davis cup tennis competition this year chiefly to the success of a carefully calculated and pursued policy of "wearing down" the American ace, "Big Bill" Tilden.

This strategy was carried out to such a degree that the French doubles pair, Borotra and Brugnon, conceded slight chance of victory, went into their challenge round match at Philadelphia with final instructions to extend the match to five sets, at all costs, so that Tilden would be "softened up" for the battle he lost to Rene Lacoste on the final day.

The "inside story" of France's victorious quest for tennis laurels is told for the first time by M. Pierre Gillou, captain of the French team. Published in the current issue of American Lawn Tennis, as translated, from the French publication, "Tennis et Golf", it reveals the thoroughness and foresight behind the invasion that overthrew America's seven-year tennis dynasty.

Satisfield that "Little Bill" Johnston, "only a shadow of his former self," was not seriously to be reckoned with, M. Gillou emphasizes that it was therefore more and more against Tilden that we had to direct our attack.

"When our doubles team entered the stadium," M. Gillou wrote, "my last recommendation was 'Put all your forces to work so that this game lasts the five sets.' Because in my inner consciousness I could not believe we would win the doubles.

"The doubles were therefore lost but Borotra and Brugnon had done their duty valiantly. On Friday evening, Tilden had nine sets in his legs and he carried the heavy load of these nine sets the next day against LaCoste."

Commenting on Lacoste's flawless strategy, stroking and defensive play, in defeating Tilden, the French team captain remarks:

"One may say that it is Lacoste's back stroke which has made him the greatest player on earth and which won the Davis cup."

M. Gillou's article discloses, incidentally, how the alarm first felt by the mid-season defeat of Lacoste by the young American, George Lott, at Southampton, was quickly dissipated.

"It appears," wrote M. Gillou in reference to the Southampton tourney, "to have been nothing but dinners followed by dances and suppers, with the accompaniment—obligatory in dry America—of cocktails and champagne so, Mr. G. Lott's exploit suddenly appeared to me to be less sensational than I had supposed. In short they (the French players) had enjoyed the bathing resort and had played tennis only because they could not do otherwise."

M. Gillou paid tribute to the "greatness of the soul of Tilden in defeat."

Dundee-Hudkins Bout Postponed

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27—(AP)—The title bout scheduled for Saturday night at Wrigley baseball field here between the welterweight champion, Joe Dundee of Baltimore, and Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, today was postponed because of continuing rain until some unannounced day next week.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Vic Hanson, all-American end and ex-captain of football, baseball and basketball teams at Syracuse university, has signed his third professional sports contract since graduation last June. Besides serving as assistant football coach at Syracuse this fall and going south for a tryout with the Yankees next spring, Hanson will play basketball with the Cleveland Rosenblums this winter.

The name of Jess Sweetser, former national and British amateur champion, leads the unofficial metropolitan golf rankings this year despite the veteran's infrequent competition due to ill health and the spectacular rise of several youngsters during the past season. Second place is awarded to Maurice McCarthy, Georgetown freshman, who lost to Bobby Jones in a tight first round match of the amateur championships at Minneapolis after gaining the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur. Eddie Driggs, winner of the metropolitan amateur crown, is placed third.

A court injunction sought by the Providence club to keep American soccer league officials from suspending player William Stevenson, not only will "test the validity of international contracts but will serve notice to teams across the Atlantic that the league is not the 'cattle-rustling outfit' it has been called," in the opinion of Bill Cunningham, president of the circuit. The league suspended Stevenson when he joined Providence after "jumping" a team contract in Scotland.

Having found speed aplenty in a backfield combination of Myles Lane and a Marsters, Dartmouth has forsaken the "shorts" that clothed her football aces early in the season. The shorts, similar to basketball pants, and designed to add fleetness to backs by cutting down the weight of equipment, have given way to the regulation padded trousers, bulkier but more protective.

The gridiron season is producing a flock of brilliant field generals, as well as backfield men in general. Among the quarterbacks listed prominently so far are Drury of Southern California, Mann of Southern Methodist, Spears of Vanderbilt, Almquist of Minnesota and MacPhail of Dartmouth.

Victory over Kid Kaplan, perpetual punching machine from Meriden, Conn., appears to be the lightweight stepping stone to the "big money shots" at New York's Madison Square garden. Shortly after Kaplan vacated the featherweight throne to battle 135-pounders, Billy Wallace, Cleveland sharpshooter, dropped him in four rounds and quickly made his Garden debut with Sid Terris. Now Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast sensation, has turned the same trick and is slated to box Wallace at Tex Rickard's arena probably on November 25.

The University of Michigan will be host to the Western Conference cross-country championships on November 19.

And now the football games give us the "direct" pass, the "lateral" pass, the "forward" pass, and the "backward" pass—everything but the "free" pass.

Yale has the first authentic record of college football in America in an annual fresh-man sophomore match, which became an institution in 1840.

Sports writers assigned to cover the University of Michigan football games in the new stadium will be in luck. An electric heater will be installed in the press stand for each writer.

In winning two out of the three Port Chester marathons "Whitey" Michelson, the Stamford plumber, has stamped himself as one of the best long distance runners in America.

The famous old Fair Grounds track at New Orleans has been entirely rebuilt this summer and will present a greatly improved appearance when the season of winter racing begins in November.

Numbers 1 and 2 will not be worn by the well-dressed basketball player this winter, on the ground those numbers are harder for a referee to distinguish on a busy court than 4, 5, 6, etc. A note is inserted in the rules just announced for the coming season urging teams "not to use numbers 1 and 2 in number players." A common practice has been given the team captain No. 1.

Three former boxing champions of the world were fighting in different cities Monday night amid little of the pomp and glory that marked their title holding days. Two of them lost, Johnny Dundee, ex-featherweight champ, was outpointed in New York by Tony Canzoneri, and Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight king, was beaten in Buffalo by a youngster named Freddie Mueller. Battling Levinsky, once 175-pound champion, upheld the sagging prestige of the old guard with a four round knockout of one Ted Jackson at North Bergen, N. J.

A football field no longer is a sample gridiron in appearance. With goal posts moved back ten yards Harvard has supplemented the conventional white lines across the field with a pattern of diagonal lines at each extremity to mark the end zones. Some southern colleges use a checker board effect to distinguish that territory as neutral ground. Yale has a double mark at the goal lines with the designation "G". Princeton has a single line labeled "C" and meaning "no yards." Georgia Tech has bright red hassocks or cushions as beacons at the ends of the goal lines.

Despite the distance of the goal posts, the toe is playing an important part in the winning of football games as the battles get tighter and the three points netted by a field goal loom large to a quarterback. Field goal kickers in recent games include Booth of Pittsburgh, Roepke of Penn State, Strong of N. Y. U. and Caldwell of Yale. Roepke's kick helped win over Syracuse Saturday and Caldwell's clinched the close game with Army.

Bucknell's undefeated football team in its battle with the Army at West Point Saturday can find inspiration in the memory of Christy Mathewson who led the Bisons in 1900 when the two institutions first met on the gridiron. Matty's team lost the battle 18 to 10, but the man who is remembered as perhaps the greatest pitcher professional baseball ever produced qualified for the football hall of fame by booting a 55-yard field goal. In 1911, in the only other Army-Bucknell game, the Cadets again won out.

Practice in steps as intricate as the tango is a part of daily football drill at New York university. The steps are the pivot, side-step and cross-over, the fundamentals of dodging and open field running, and the linemen are schooled in them as well as the backs. Lining up his men, Coach "Chick" Meehan sends them down the field abreast at half, three-quarters and finally full speed, the players going through the complicated movements of the "dance" in unison.

The shrill sound of the referee's whistle will play a much less conspicuous part in the coming basketball campaign than in the games of former years. By a new rule designed to lessen the din and the wear and tear on the official's lungs, the joint rules committee has provided that "when the ball is tossed up between two players, the whistle is not to be blown except at the beginning of a period or after time out."

HUSKIES EQUALLY AT HOME ON MAT OR GRID

Earl McCready (left) and V. E. Miles are two heavyweight wrestlers who also are important members of their respective college football teams, the Oklahoma Aggies and the Virginia Polytechnic Institute eleven.. Both are tackles, naturally, and Miles is captain of his team.

(By The Associated Press)

Two heavyweight wrestlers are putting their skill on the mat to further use by tackling opponents on the gridiron.

The Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater believe they have the making of one of the greatest linesmen in the missouri Valley conference in Earl McCready, 235 pound ciamant of the heavyweight wrestling championship of Canada.

McCready, who plays right tackle on the Aggie 11, landed on the Stillwater campus a little more than a year ago without ever having seen a football game. He was given a uniform and sent out to play with the yearling squad. Although seriously handicapped by lack of knowledge of the game, his size and speed made him the sensation of the workouts last year.

"His size and natural ability to handle his body will go far toward making McCready one of the greatest linesmen in the Valley," Johnny Maulbetsch, head coach, said.

Rated as one of the outstanding tackles in the Southern conference, Vernon E. "Buck" Miles, of Norfolk, Va., is captain of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute team. He is five fee , ten inches in height and weighs 180 pounds. As a wrestler, he led the V. P. I. team which won the conference title last year.

THE CONSUMERS' APPLE PREFERENCE

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

In the recent Storrs Bulletin on The Connecticut Apple Industry containing 106 pages, all told, the space devoted to "Consumers' Preferences" interested me the most. In fact, it seemed to me if not the most informative and instructive, at least the most suggestive part of the pamphlet.

Perhaps, like me, you had as a youngster the run of an old apple orchard in its bearing season, and entree to the apple cellar during the winter and spring. In that case you'll remember clearly enough the sorts you used to choose for "chawking."

There were Astrachans and Early Harvests and Yellow Transparents for the late summer; Fall Pippins and Hawleys and Sweet Boughs for the early fall; and Greenings and Baldwins and Northern Spies and Spitzenbergs and Belleflowers and Kings and Seek-no-furthers for the winter. Anyway, those are the varieties I recall. Doubtless each one of you would vary the list somewhat going back in memory to your own youth.

I had my favorites as, of course, you also had yours. Probably our lists wouldn't agree. My first choice might, not unlikely, be your second or third, and my second choice might not fall in your list at all.

But there was on quality which determined my preference and which, I'll bet a good Greening against a sour cider-apple, also governed your choice.

That quality was the apple's flavor. We didn't much care what color it was or what shape it had or how big it was, so long as it had the flavor which our tastes approved.

We wanted a fruit that was well matured, mellow, juicy, and filled through and through with the enticing tang which summer suns and fall frosts had combined to engender. It might be yellow or red or green or striped,—it might even have been sky-blue for all we should have cared. It wasn't the looks but the taste, the flavor, that we were after.

But is it that which present day apple consumers call for? Apparently not, if the replies received by the writers of this apple bulletin are truthful representatives of buyers' preferences.

..These apple experts recognize and state the conceded truth that the producer who is to secure a satisfactory price for his product must do it by offering the consumer a product for which he is willing to pay. The producer must, therefore, know what the consumer wants."

To find an answer to this conundrum, "What does the consumer want in an apple?" this question was put to every consumer reporting: "When buying apples what are the qualities you try to get? It was held that the answer to that question "should be a fair index to the producer of what the consumer wants."

A total of 570 replies were received from families whose heads were engaged in 75 different occupations. This is believed to be "a fairly representative cross section of Connecticut population."

What are the qualities in an apple that these consumers try to get when they buy? Well, the replies told the inquirers that "color, firmness, juiciness, size, soundness and flavor were the characteristics most in demond."

That is, the flavor which we used to hunt for as the most desirable quality in an apple is relegated to the least important place in the list of modernly desired characteristics. Firmness and color are put first, flavor as only an incidental, a sort of side issue, one might say.

In other words, it is appearance, not quality which the consumer-buyer wants. "More than 97 per cent of the consumers want red apples." It reminds me of the famous old story of the volunteer fire company which had just got a new hand-pumper. At a formal meeting of the company the question arose as to painting the new machine. It was agreed that it certainly ought to be painted. "What color?" then asked the foreman. There was silence for a minute. Then one of the hosemen remarked with somewhat profane emphasis: "I don't care a d——n what color you paint it, so long's it's red."

The Connecticut apple consumers it would appear, in the proportion of 97 to 3, don't care what an apple's other qualities are so long as it is red on the outside.

This ought to be of highly informative value to the Connecticut orchardist who contemplates setting a new orchard or enlarging the old one.

If he wants to grow apples which will sell he, evidently, needs to put in 97 red apple trees to every three green or yellow.

It also serves to explain to some of us who regard the old Rhode Island Greening as a much better fruit than the Baldwin, whether for eating or cooking, why, nevertheless, the Baldwin leads in the list of preferred varieties. The Baldwin is red-skinned, you see. That's also why the Red Astrachan is a better selling early apple than the Yellow Transparent. The Transparent is bigger, tenderer, mellower, with a more genial flavor and a less tooth-edging acidity. But it's yellow-skinned, and the Great American Consumer wants red peel.

Once, when I was trying to sell a customer some really fancy early potatoes for about 10 cents a peck over the prevailing market price for store tubers, she came back at me with the remark, "But a potato's a potato, ain't it?" Now potato-lovers know that there's a big difference in them. Some are soggy and some are mealy; some are deep-eyed and waste in peeling, some are shallow-eyed; some are almost nutty flavored and some are "strong." I vainly tried to explain these fundamentals to my customer. No use: to her a potato was a potato, no matter what its differing characteristics. And she couldn't and wouldn't see how one peck of potatoes could be worth 10 cents more than any other peck.

So with apples; the Delicious may have a specially delicate flavor; the Greening may make supreme applesauce or apple-pie; the Transparent may be big and mellow; the Belleflower may be unexcelled for baking,—whole but cored and with the core-cavity filled with spiced sugar and a bit of butter on top;—the Great American Consumer gives them all the go-by and buys Baldwins and McIntoshes and Astrachans and Spies and Kings and even Ben Davises,—because they're red.

There is an apple known as Wolf River. It is almost as big as a pumpkin, and has about as agreeable a flavor; it is thick-skinned and woody in texture; it is about the ideal and ne plus ultra of what a fruit should not be. Yet a neighbor who had a tree bearing the things once told me that when he took a wagon-load of apples to the public market, the basket containing the big, red Wolfs was usually emptied first.

You see they were big and firm—and red. They looked fine. "Flavor?" Oh, that's a secondary consideration with what the Storrs people report to be 97 per cent of the buyers.

Which gives me the opportunity to preach a bit. You've doubtless noticed that I rather like to preach.—One acid critic says that I am better at preaching than at practicing.

This apple business suggests what seems to me the prevalent modern disease;—the demand of pretty nearly everybody in pretty nearly all situations and conditions for appearances. The present age puts show above reality; appearances above actualities; convention above truth; "seems" above "is." We dress, not for comfort and decency, but for looks; we build houses, not for their cosiness and comfort to live in, but to look well from the outside; we think nine times about our appearance to one time about our real welfare; we hanker for meretricious publicity more than for deserved admiration; we are more anxious to get than to earn; we are pernickietily careful to polish up the outsides of the cup and platter, with less regard for their internal uncleanness.

We care more for the "set" of our clothes than we do for their wearing qualities; we must have silk stockings even when the wintry winds blow through cobwebs; we try to run Rolls-Royce cars on filvver incomes; we want to look younger than we are and to be popularly regarded as richer than we are; we worship sham and pay small devotion to substance.

As in our choice of apples, so in our pursuit of other things; it is more often the appearance which we crave than the reality. We want things that look well regardless of their value; we gape after the flapper if she is "chic," and sneer at the saint who happens to be "dowdy."

There are those of the minority who think that the best apple, other things being equal, is the one which tastes the best. But the Great American Consumer knows better. His best apple is the one which looks the best,—and darn the flavor!

It may not have been a "counsel of perfection," but that somewhat mundane philosopher who once said, "When in Rome do as the Romans do," knew his world. The easiest way to travel a rough road is usually to keep in the rut. The way to sell things profitably is to have such things as buyers want most.

If you're raising just a few apples for your own use, that's one thing. If you're growing them to sell, that's quite another. In the former case you'll consult your own tastes and use your common sense. In the latter case you'll consult the buyers' tastes and use your business instinct.

It all depends upon what you are after. If it's money to buy gas then sell what will bring in money; if it's your own comfort and satisfaction, then raise what you like,—and let the hordes of buyers go elsewhere.

You can't ride both horses at once in opposite directions.

THE FARMER.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Julia—What is the cure for love at first sight?

Amelia—Second sight—London Opinion.

She—If I go motoring with you you must promise not to try to kiss me.

He—Well, I'll promise that I won't merely try.—Boston Transcript.

"I want to make some home brew," said the customer. "What'll I need!"

A couple of 5-gallon jars and a shotgun.—Washington Star.

"Let's see," said the chatty man, "your brother went abroad on a fellowship, didn't he?"

"No," was the reply. "It was a cattle-ship."—American Boy.

"That's a thundering queer looking old Ford you've got," called a neighbor. "What did you give for it?"

"Aw, I ain't as poor as you think I am," responded Tobe Sagg of Sandy Mush. "This old flivver don't belong to me."—Kansas City Star.

Father—Young man, I understand you have made advances to my daughter.

Young Man—Yes; I wasn't going to say anything about it, but since you have mentioned it, I wish you could get her to pay me back.—Outlook.

Hostess—Thank you so much, Mr. Krashoffski, for your beautiful playing. What do you think of our piano?

The Pianist—Ah, madam, I do not in English know how to politely express, but if it were an automobile, it is what they call it in American the Elizabeth of tin.—London Opinion.

It was her first view of a cotton plantation with the plants all in full bloom, the endless fields of white causing her no end of wonderment. They stood spellbound at the spectacle until the young lady broke the silence by remarking:

What a wonderful crop of powder puffs! It's the first time I've seen them actually growing!—Life.

Half the children under one year of age who take scarlet fever die of the disease.

The ocean is steadily becoming more salty, but the rate of increase is very slow.

Aluminum street cars, which are lighter and quieter than steel, are being tried in several cities.

Leather sandals of the young Egyptian king, Tut-ankh-amen, show that he wore about 7 1-2.

It is believed that if gold bullion were transported from South Africa by airplane instead of by rail and water the saving in theft insurance charges would be $500,000 a year.

Literature and language books are most popular in Japan, the imperial library of Tokio finds. Of 91,047 books drawn from the library in a month a fourth were in that class.

A New York company which presents radio programs over station WRNY recently sent out 75,000 questionnaires to radio fans to find out what kind of music they prefer.

An individual's pulse rate taken when he is at rest and again after exercise is the most reliable single test of fitness, says Dr. J. F. Rogers, of the United States bureau of education.

When a good woodsman puts out a match, says the forest service, he not only feels it with his finger but often breaks it in two, as a match can not be broken easily unless entirely out.

A rattlesnake with 29 rattles and a button, one of the largest found in west Texas in recent years, was captured by Howard Sellan, of the Doran ranch, on the San Saba river recently. Rattlesnakes annually take a heavy toll of live stock, and residents of west Texas are asking that a bounty be placed on them.

William Stelleme, of Holland, Mich., has deposited $1 in a local bank as a legacy for his male descendants. The money was placed in the bank, however, with the stipulation that it be left there for five centuries, drawing interest, compounded semi-annually, and at the expiration of that period to be divided among his male descendants. One dollar left to compound interest at 3 per cent for 500 years would amount to $2,900,000.

French humorists are beginning to insist that the safest way to commit murder is with a pistol. Most of those who employed other means in recent years have gone to the guillotine, but a number who used pistols are still enjoying life and freedom. Commenting upon this, Maurice Prax, of the Petit Parisien, says it has become an established custom that the revolver, in crimes of passion, is strictly "de rigueur, like evening clothes after dinner at the Deauville casino." "It is strictly forbidden to strangle one's wife," Prax says. "It is equally forbidden to chop a wife or a rival into bits, or to give them poison with their meals. But the revolver remains authorized—and recommended."

Former King Of Bootleggers Kills His Wife

George Remus, of Cincinnati, once "king of the bootleggers," who shot and killed his wife, a few hours before her suit for divorce was to have been heard in the Cincinnati courts. Mrs. Remus was en route to the court when she encountered Remus, who followed the car she was in. Becoming alarmed she jumped from the machine and started to run. Remus in turn grabbing her and drawing a revolver fired one shot. He surrendered to the police and was charged with first degree murder.

KID SHERMAN TRAINING ON FARM AT SPRING HILL

Kid Sherman, featherweight boxer of the village is trying another comeback to get a shot at Buck Shea of Bridgeport. His work is not done in public but behind closed doors so the Kid beat it away to Spring Hill where Freeman Rogers has a large farm and plenty of cord wood and he heard the call of the buttermilk that he likes. He is getting up at 6 o'clock and looking around for the axe to get down to fighting weight. When the neighbors hear the blows of the axe for a half mile, they know that the pride of Noank is hard at his training. When the cow bells ring for dinner Kid Sherman will have 3 1-2 cords of wood all cut up. Foreman Rogers says he never saw anybody eat up so much wood as the Kid with the axe. Then he will run to Manchester Center, a distance of six miles. Then bring on the boxing mates, taking on Cyclone Mike Durham for six rounds. Toe and toe they fought for four rounds but in the final round Kid Sherman shot a hard right to Cyclone Mike's chin and the latter never heard the bell ring until his manager brought him to after five minutes of work with the bottle of salts. Then Wild Billie Grant climbed into the ring for only four rounds. The featherweight boxer found him a hard man to hit for he was a good boxer and made it a good draw. Then after a short rest, back to the wood pile goes the Kid. Parker Wilder asked him if he wanted coffee to drink and the fighter said "No, give me buttermilk!" This is another time that Kid Sherman put it over on the fighting fans by training so no one will know what he is doing. "Bring on the boxing show," he says and give me my golden chance to prove that I am telling the truth about my condition."

Dexton Holiday spent a day on Fishers Island this week.

John Cannery is spending a few days in Packerville with his uncle, Fred Dunn.

Bruno Brcaci has secured a job with Frank Bracci at his boat yard in Mystic.

Charles L. Welch was at his home on Elm street Tuesday evening when the telephone rang. It was the chief of police from Hope Valley telling him that they found his Ford car in the woods nearby. It seemed to be in good shape. Young Welch borrowed an automobile and stepped on the gas for that town arriving at 8 o'clock to take back his lost car. Looking it all over he found it in good condition but not much gas in the tank. He put 5 gallons in and M. Tryon took the other car back. A big padlock will be put on the garage, where a hammer and chisel will have to be used to get it open after this.

The teachers at the school on East Main street are teaching the pupils something new this year, giving them army drill.

A recent fire drill about 200 marched out of the building to the yard without delay; and it was a quick drill and all the teachers were pleased.

When the Abate Brothers and Albert Bruno company get done with the large block which has five stores in the building the section of sidewalk from the corner of Pearl street below the west end on the new building will be 8 ft. wide and 85 feet long.

Mrs. Frank Banning has returned from a visit in Chicopee Falls, Mass.

W. A. Frazer of Mississippi is home on a few days' visit.

A new underground cable is being laid from Elm street corner to Judge Arthur Anderson's residence.

Boat Wyroka has been hauled out on the south ways at the shipyard for repairs.

The lobster cars of Sam Chesebro fish market on the town dock have been hauled out to get a coat of copper paint, so the sea bugs wouldn't eat the wood up.

WESTERLY

MR. AND MRS. JARVIS H. ALGER CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 27—Thursday afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis H. Alger observed their golden wedding at their home, 53 Beach street where they have resided since 40 years ago last May. Oct. 27, 1877, they were united in marriage by Dean Arthur C. Main at the Seventh-day Baptist parsonage in Ashaway and coming to Westerly, began keeping house on Main street.

Jarvis Hart Alger was born in Newport, R. I., Oct. 12, 1852, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Alger. Learning the trade of a carpenter in Newport, Mr. Alger came to Westerly when 22, to enter the employ of Maxson and Company, builders and contractors, in Pawcatuck. While boarding with the family of Mrs. Hannah M. Ayers on Maple avenue, Westerly, Mr. Alger met his future wife, Mary Emma Crandall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Crandall of Hopkinton, R. I., born Sept. 27, 1858.

Present for 50th anniversary was their son, J. Howard Alger, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the grandson, Jarvis, Jr., remaining in Pittsburch. Another son, L. Ward Alger, residing in Westerly, and whose family have been active in arranging the anniversary party, has a daughter, Miss Betty Alger. Of the nine or ten children of Mr. Alger's family, the last survivor his brother, Freeborn C. Alger, died two years ago in Bristol, Conn. Mrs. Alger has a brother, Edwin E. Crandall, residing in Pawcatuck.

In the afternoon a few friends, neighbors and visitors unable to be present in the evening called to extend felicitations. In the evening some fifty guests, old friends and relatives were present to admire the numerous flowers and gifts received. The evening's program included music and the serving of refreshments, a large wedding cake inscribed "J. H. A. 50 M. E. C." being cut. Mr. and Mrs. Alger are in the best of health and Mr. Alger is engaged daily at his trade as a cabinet maker.

PAWCATUCK EMPLOYE MAY HAVE INFANTILE PARALYSIS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 27—William Brennan, 26, of East Greenwich, R. I., who has been in the employ of Girard Bros. restaurant in Pawcatuck, is a patient in the Providence City hospital with both legs paralyzed and under observation as an infantile paralysis case. It has been the custom of Mr. Brennan to pass the week ends at his home in East Greenwich and last week he complained of trouble with his legs. Dr. William H. Hillard, M. D., deputy medical examiner of the town of Stonington has been asked by the Rhode Island state department of public health to investigate conditions in Pawcatuck.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elsie Jordan Harrington, wife of Walter Brearley of Central Village, whose death occurred in New London Monday evening, were held from the First Baptist church, Broad street, Westerly, at 2 p. m. Thursday. The services were conducted by Rev. Byron U. Hatfied, pastor of the church, and were attended by many relatives. Among those present were a number from Bridgeport and Dayville. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway, Rev. Mr. Hatfield being assisted by Rev. E. P. Mathewson of Ashaway in the committal services.

The Teachers' society of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church is to meet Monday evening next with Mrs. C. A. Burdick at the parsonage.

Wednesday night in the church parlors of Calvary Baptist church there is to be held the annual get-together meeting of the church membership. A supper will precede the meeting.

When the quarterly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Rhode Island Episcopal churches is held Thursday of next week at St Mark's Episcopal church, Providence, delegates will attend from Christ Episcopal church of Westerly. The speakers will be Right Rev. James Craig Morris, D. D., bishop of the Panama Canal Zone, and Rev. Francis J. M. Cotter of St. Andrew's Episcopal Mission at Wuchang, China.

Rev. John England Byron, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church at West Barrington, R. I., who exchanges pulpits with Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ church Westerly Sunday next, was earlier associated with Rev. Mr. Tobin while in Canada. Rev. Mr. Byron, a graduate of St. John's college, Canada, has been active in the Rhode Island diocese under Dr. Sturges.

When the Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church tendered its annual Halloween party to the younger girls of the parish eligible for membership, Miss Lillian Russell was chairman of the committee of arrangements. The party was held in the church school rooms.

Christ Church Choir Thursday evening went to Lower Pawcatuck for a husking at the farm of Fred P. Davis.

SPECULATIVE SELLING CAUSED A RECESSION IN PRICES OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Speculative selling, particularly in the steel group, brought further recessions in the stock market today, some of the leading issues declining to new low levels for the movement. The unsettling of the market was largely due to unsatisfactory conditions in the steel industry, which encouraged bear traders to loose another spirited attack on the volatile shares.

Although rallying tendencies developed for a time in the early afternoon, and there were evidences of short covering on the rebound in some issues, the pressure continued heavy, and prices at the close were following an uncertain trend. Nevertheless, there was quite a sprinkling of strong spots in divers sections of the list, notably among the insurance, baking and packing shares, Continental, Fidelity-Phenix and Hartford Insurance all chalked up new peak prices, with extreme gains of 11 1-2, 7 1-4 and 19 1-8 points respectively. Cudahy led the packing shares.

The hardest hit issues were the speculative leaders, such as General Motors, U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Smelting, Radio, and others. Steel common touched a new low for the movement, and closed around 124 3-8, with a net loss of more than 2 points. General Motors declined 1 3-8 on the day, after selling as low as 128.

Accumulation of the investment rails, which has been going forward for several days, was checked by the appearance of reports showing shrinking earnings by such important roads as New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and Atchison. Central was down 2 1-4 at one time, but recovered nearly half the loss, while Atchison made up all of a 2 point loss in the final hour.

Some of the oils moved against the current trend, Houston selling up to 150 3-4, and holding part of its gain, while Atlantic Refining also advanced. Independent Motors gave a fair account of themselves, considering the selling in General Motors, Mack Truck providing the feature. Case Threshing Machine, Montgomery Ward and Weisenhan company all were strong toward the close, the last named touching a new peak for the year.

Among the new lows for the year were several of the independent steels, such as Crucible, Ludlum, Republic and Superior, as well as a few such specialties as Remington Rand and American Piano.

Traders were awaiting the announcement of brokers loans after the close with rather more than usual interest. A decrease of more than $90,000,000 was shown by the Federal Reserve board statement. While banks withdrew about $12,000,000 of loans, call money ruled at the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent.

Considerable speculative interest centered in the meeting tomorrow of the American Iron & Steel Institute, at which the current low prices are expected to furnish an important topic of discussion. Election of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, as president of the institute, succeeding Elbert H. Gary, was announced this afternoon.

Time money rates remained unchanged, and the Federal Reserve bank maintained its rediscount rate of 3 1-2 per cent. Commercial paper rates were firmer.

Interest in commodities centered largely in cotton, in which the trend continued upward in the early dealings, stimulated by Secretary Jardine's comments on the government ginning figures. Reaction later, however, carried the quotations 26 to 40 points under yesterday's close. Wheat futures showed little change, coffee was easier at 2 4to 32 points lower, while sugar held steady.

A firm trend ruled the foreign exchange market, with gains of 2 to 2 points or more in German, Norwegian, Dutch and Austrian currencies. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.86 11-16 and French francs close to 3.92 1-4 cents.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Finds Footprints

The jealous in a footprint see
The evidence of perfidy.
—Jumper the Hare.

When Peter Rabbit finally parted from his cousin, Jumper the Hare, he was more certain than ever that he had been quite right in jumping to conclusions. He was more certain than ever that Mrs. Peter had gone off with a handsome young stranger. You see, Jumper had told him about this handsome young rabbit and Peter had been ashamed to ask Jumper if Mrs. Peter had been with this stranger. So

"I'm glad I wasn't here when that fellow was around," thought Peter

when the opportunity offered, Peter resumed his hunt all alone. He hunted everywhere that he could think of before going over to the pond of Paddy the Beaver.

It was daylight by the time that Peter got over to the pond of Paddy the Beaver. It was deep in the Green Forest. It looked just as peaceful as it always looked. Well out towards the middle was Paddy's wonderful house. At one end was Paddy's wonderful dam across the Laughing Brook. It was this dam which made the pond. The dam had been there so long that new grass was growing on it and there were even some little trees starting upon it. You see, mud and sod had filled in between the sticks with which the dam was built, giving things a chance to grow.

But Peter wasn't thinking of the wonder of that house or that dam. He looked eagerly for Paddy. He wanted to ask questions of Paddy. But Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Paddy had been very busy that night and they had now retired to their comfortable bed in the house to sleep. So Peter sat around in vain. It began to look as if he should have to spend the day there if he hoped to see Paddy the Beaver.

Peter himself was tired, so after a bit he sat down comfortably under a low-growing hemlock and went to sleep. When he awoke some time later he felt much refreshed. In fact, he felt so much refreshed that he decided to go exploring a little. So he started around the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver. After a while he came to a muddy place. Right away he saw a footprint that interested him. It gave him a little cold shiver. You see, it was the footprint of Yowler the Bobcat. It had been made only the night before.

"I'm glad I wasn't here when that fellow was around," thought Peter.

He looked along a little farther and there he saw more footprints. At first he thought they were the footprints of his cousin, Jumper the Hare. Then, quite suddenly, it came to Peter that these footprints were smaller than those made by Jumper the Hare. They were just above the size of his own footprints. They must be the footprints of that strange rabbit he had been looking for. Peter felt the hair rise on the back of his neck. He gritted his teeth. He became very, very angry just at the sight of those footprints. For quite some time he could do nothing but sit there and stare at them.

At last he hopped over a little nearer to them and then as he glanced along the shore he received another shock. And it was a shock! The fact that he had half expected something of the kind didn't make the shock any the less. There in the mud, were some more footprints. They were footprints of a rabbit, and they were smaller than the prints he had just been looking at. Do you wonder that Peter received a shock? He was absolutely sure now that his conclusions were right.

"I knew that they had come over here," he muttered. "Yes, sir, I knew that they had come to the Green Forest. I'll find them somewhere. I'll find them if I have to hunt until I'm old and gray, as old and gray as Old Jed Thumper!"

Then Peter gritted his teeth and in his anger he stamped. Then he wished he hadn't because he didn't want any one to know he was about.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

ROBT. W. PITKIN ELECTROCUTED ON CROSS-ARM OF TALL POLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Oct. 27.—Robert W. Pitkin, of South Manchester was electrocuted by coming in contact with a high tension wire on East Main street about 8:15 this morning. Workmen engaged on the new state police barracks were attracted by a man on one of the cross-arms of the big steel towers. He was seen to fall only wire which parallel the pole and he went to the ground. The men rushed to his aid and sent for an ambulance which took him to Johnson Memorial hospital, where he lived about an hour. The presence of the man on the pole is a mystery. He was not in the employ of the Electric Light company, and no one seems to know why he climbed the pole. He was a nephew of Mrs. Charles F. Hodgson of Stafford Springs and leaves his wife and six children in South Manchester. When he fell on the wire a charge of 6,600 volts passed through his body.

The public schools of the town closed Thursday afternoon to permit the teachers to attend the Teachers' convention today (Friday) in Hartford.

About fifty friends gathered at the home of Miss Beatrice Bourin on Willington avenue Tuesday evening and tendered her a miscellaneous shower in honor of her coming marriage with Arthur Prodeur, of Providence, R. I.

The Gary Transportation company has made arrangements with the Stafford Auto company to take over the latter's garage on Furnace avenue, about November 1st. The Stafford Auto company has notified tenants of the garage that they must vacate within the next few days. The growing business of the Gary Transportation company necessitate larger quarters than their present location on Hay Market square.

Mrs. Frederick Faulkner and Mrs. Heywood Ramsden are in New York on a business trip.

Miss Mary Fitzpatrick is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Cummiskey.

Miss Agnes Shea is visiting Worcester relatives.

Mrs. Robert Sullivan and Mrs. Maxwell Cox have been in East Woodstock this week, called there by the death of their father, Byron Eddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wildey have returned to their home on Highland terrace, after spending a week in New York.

Winfield Chapman, stationed at the Naval Training school, Newport, R. I. is spending a few days' furlough at his home on Maple street.

Dr. L. F. Eaton of Springfield was a Stafford Springs visitor Thursday.

Mrs. Hannibal Alden is visiting Springfield friends.

William K. Vanderbilt of New York, president of the Gary Transportation company was in town on business Wednesday.

Mrs. W. E. Whitaker is visiting her daughter Mrs. Charles Chapin, in Enfield.

Thought his case was hopeless

Resinol cleared away pimples in a week

Lexington, Mass., March 5.—"I had been suffering from shaving pimples on my neck for years and, I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Resinol Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this cure! You can be sure that henceforth you have one more loyal booster for your product." (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 8 Bloomfield St.

GALES FERRY

The Unwearied Christ, Isaiah 42:6 and 56:11, was the sermon theme of District Superintendent Rev. Myron E. Genter who spoke in the Methodist church Sunday morning. At the offertory, "I'm a Pilgrim," was sung by a trio, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main and L. E. Colver. The beautiful decorations arranged for the Perkins-Miller wedding Sunday afternoon, remained for the Sunday services.

The events in the church calendar for the week included a notice that local contributions for the Needlework Guild of Norwich was to be at the home of Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, Oct. 24, Thursday, Oct. 27th Ladies' Aid society meeting in the evening.

Church night services that evening were followed by the Mission Study class. Epworth league business meeting was held at 8:30.

Rev. George H. Wright was the leader of the Epworth league Sunday evening services, his topic, Christ Winning His Comrades.

Miss Harriet Bishop Brown of Hartford, who was the guest of Miss Laura A. Perkins for the Perkins-Miller wedding Saturday afternoon, returned home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine, Miss Grace A. Chapman and Percy Norman of the Stoddard district, motored to Pepperill, Mass., Saturday and were guests of Mrs. LaFontaine's brother, George W. Maynard and family.

Miss Dorothy Dowell, of Hartford, classmate of Miss Laura A. Perkins at Norwich Academy, attended Miss Perkins' marriage with Herbert Miller of Boston at the Main church here Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland H. Perkins and son Harold Perkins of New London motored here and were callers on Mr. Perkins' brother, Dudley C. Perkins, and Mrs. Perkins Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes returned the first of the week from a week end visit with Mr. and Mrs. William E. Brown in New Haven.

Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine and Miss Alice Satterlee attended "The Garden of Allah" at the Bowen theatre, New London Monday afternoon.

Rev. W. J. Carter and Mrs. Carter of Jersey City, motored here and attended the Perkins-Miller wedding Saturday. Rev. and Mrs. Carter were former residents of this place, when Rev. Mr. Carter was chaplain at the submarine base.

Among those who attended the first concert in the Connecticut college course in the state armory, New London Tuesday evening, were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lafontaine, Miss Grace A. Chapman and Percy Norman, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham and Miss Grace E. Povey.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt and two children with Mrs. Avery Main and daughter Elizabeth motored to Rhode Island Sunday. The Hurlbutt family were guests of Mrs. Hurlbutt's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Whitlieo of Wakefield and Mrs. Main and daughter called on Mrs. Main's sister, Mrs. Frank Ennis of Peacedale.

FIND HIDDEN QUARRY IN HEART OF PARIS

PARIS, Oct. (AP)—Ancient, underground stone quarries in the heart of Paris, are to be the ready-made wine cellar of a big new hotel on the Champs Elysees.

When excavating, the builders discovered the old quarry, as they supposed its roof with pillars and the hotel is being built on it. Instead of excavating for a wine cellar, which must be deep in the ground where the temperature is even, the quarry will be used.

There was no opening to the forgotten quarry anywhere near the hotel site, apparently the stone was carted elsewhere. Apparently the stone was carted to a palace, about a mile away, say archaeologists who knew that there was a great cavern, most of which has been filled either purposely, sometime in the past, or by the settling of the ground above.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

INSURE GOOD CORN SEED FOR NEXT YEAR

With temperatures averaging four degrees below normal for May and June and five degrees below (as reported by the Storrs Experiment Station) for August, the corn crop has had a poor chance this season, writes J. S. Owens. Not only was last spring too wet and cold to secure good stands but much low quality seed was used as a result of last season being unfavorable for storing seed in good condition.

The season for killing frosts has arrived and much corn, including sweet corn, is not mature and all is so green as to have a high moisture content. It is not commonly known that corn just past the milk stage of development may be saved for seed. Seed condition is ruined by either freezing with a high moisture content or molding because of insufficient ventilation. Immature corn must be handled with special care.

The problem is to remove the moisture before freezing injury. The stalks should be allowed to stand until frost. Some prefer to remove the top just above the ear and thus permit more sunlight to reach the ear. Whether in the shock or on standing stalks husk and remove to storage before severe freezing. If the quantity is small, the ears may be hung in a heated room in the house. Larger quantities may be placed upon racks where the ears are separated and air can circulate freely. Artificial heat is needed if the moisture content of the corn is high and the weather is unfavorable for drying. If artificial drying is started, it should be continued at moderate temperatures until the corn is thoroughly cured.

Little work is required to insure good seed corn for another year. However, care of the seed is one of the little tasks which is frequently overlooked or postponed until it is too late. Seed corn of high quality is certain to be scarce next spring. The season has been unavorable for corn in the Atlantic and middle western states, where much of our silage corn seed is raised. In fact the outlook is so poor that we should try to save our own supply of silage corn seed.

While corn for grain production in Connecticut has decreased within recent years, the silage corn raised has increased. Our silage crop is worth upwards of three millions a year. Sweet corn is also an important crop in Connecticut. In addition to the large supplies put onto our own markets as a vegetable, Connecticut produces sweet corn seed which is sent to many states.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FARMERS

Fifty years ago the disposition of refuse seed which accumulated around cotton gins was a serious problem. Thrown into streams, it caused pollution of the water. If allowed to decay in large piles the odor became very objectionable. Today the utilization of the seed for the production of fertilizers, cattle feed, oil, soap and other materials is the second largest manufacturing industry of the south, yielding products worth many millions of dollars.

In spraying with arsenate of lead mixtures the addition of a little more than a pint of fish oil or linseed oil to each 100 gallons of mixture causes the poison to spread better and adhere very strongly to the foliage. The fish oil, of the "light pressed" variety, is almost as effective as linseed oil and is very much cheaper. The oil is added after the arsenate of lead is well mixed with the water.

In tests it is found that both sows and pigs eating from a self-feeder look better and are more thrifty than those fed by hand. They require less feed and are ready to market earlier. In breeding practices, better results likewise were obtained with sows having access to self-feeders.

"Rat-proofing" buildings is the best form of rat insurance. In a brick, stone, or cement foundation all openings where rats may enter should be closed with metal sheeting or concrete. Basement windows or other large openings should be covered with strong, durable screening such as 8-mesh hardware cloth. Ventilators and sewer openings should be protected with gratings. Such buildings as corn cribs and granaries should be elevated 18 inches or more from the ground and kept open on all sides and free from accumulations underneath.

Increased potato yields are attributed to seed selection and treatment, better fertilization, improved cultivation, and crop rotation. For more than 200 years the potato has been one of the staple field and garden crops and has kept pace with the growth of population on the basis of about 3 1-2 bushels per capita.

Perhaps the greatest single obstacle to the rapid spread of timber growing in the United States is the unstable ownership of forest land which contemplates only temporary use or benefit from the land.

Stumps are most economically disposed of by piling and burning them.

MISBRANDED IS SOLD AS "ALFALFA MEAL"

The product made by grinding alfalfa stems should be sold under a name which accurately describes the article and is not deceptive, such, for example, as "alfalfa stem meal," according to a recent statement of officials of the United States department of agriculture charged with the enforcement of the federal food and drugs act. The statement follows:

"It has come to the attention of the administration that certain manufacturers of alfalfa meal are separating the leafy portion either before or after grinding and selling the ground leaves under the name of 'Ground Alfalfa Leaves' or a similar designation.

"From this separation there results a by-product consisting of stems from which the leaves have been partially or wholly removed. Although this by-product has a recognized feeding value and when ground has some of the physical characteristics of alfalfa meal it is not alfalfa meal and to ship it in interstate commerce and sell it under the name constitutes a violation of the federal food and drugs act. No objection will be offered to the sale of this product under a name which accurately describes the article and is not deceptive, such, for example, as alfalfa stem meal."

ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY FALL PLOWING

The question, "Should the Farmer Plow in the Fall?" is answered by an expert who says: "The rush of the spring season may be avoided by taking advantage of the suitable days in late autumn, for plowing before freezing weather comes. At this time the harvesting and storing of the season's crops has been completed. Fall plowing of all suitable land uses labor in the late autumn when it is not productively engaged and releases it in the spring when it is most urgently needed.

"A further advantage of fall plowing in addition to that of properly distributing the labor through the year is that of incorporating vegetation into the soil a long while before planting the crop so that it may begin to decay, become a part of the soil, and thus be in a condition that will be beneficial to the crops both in supplying nutriments to the crop and in retaining water in the soil if summer droughts occur.

"Moreover, heavy turf or meadow land plowed in the late fall and exposed to the recurring frosts, snows and winter rains takes on an improved physical condition suited to plant growth and is easily tilled. The sticky water logged clays or the dense clods are mellowed and become crumbly in structure. Dense masses of turf are broken down by freezing and thawing so that the harrow may quickly produce a mellow, firm seedbed. Such a seedbed will give the germinating seed an abundant supply of film water. Large amounts of available plant foods will also be found in a seedbed thus prepared. As a result, less fertilizer will be needed and that supplied will give more benefit to the crop.

"Some soils, however, should not be fall plowed. Light sandy fields are likely to leach badly and the heavy rains and snows may repack them to such an extent that replowing in the spring will be necessary. Furthermore heavy soils low in organic matter and without turf may puddle and bake and lose the crumbly structure if they lie a long time exposed to heavy rains. Steep hill lands with a shallow soil layer may gully or erode to such an extent that fall plowing would be unwise. Such lands should be plowed early in the spring or quite late in the autumn so that freezing would quickly occur.

"The object of all plowing operations are to develop good tilth in the soil, to destroy weeds, to cover organic matter, to promote the development in the soil of an abundant supply of available plant nutrients for crops and to enable the crop plants to readily establish themselves after planting. Fall plowing accomplishes all these objects and in addition uses farm labor at a time when it is not in great demand and saves it in the spring, when there is an excessive demand.

"Weeds can be better controlled on fall plowed than on spring plowed land. This is due to the fact that the winter exposure of soil induces weed seed germination. The young seedlings are then easily killed by a good disking before they are large. The disking induces the germination of another lot of weed seed and a harrowing will kill these young seedlings while they are yet small and weak. By harrowing the land at weekly intervals, until planting time, one can largely clean up soil of weeds and as a result reduce the cost of intertillage.

"Fall plowing is beneficial in destroying such insects as wire worms and white grubs. These hibernate in the soil and deep late fall plowing exposes them to frosts and freezes that bring death to many of them. Such benefit occurs especially in the plowing of old meadows and pastures.

"It is well known that heavy land should not be plowed when wet. The fall is an ideal time to plow lands that remain wet until late in the spring. Such fields are seldom wet in the fall and may usually be plowed without danger. Even should they be plowed a little wet, the frosts and freezes will nullify any injury from baking as the freezes will quickly break up the crust and clods thus formed.

"The greatest object of fall plowing is, however, to save labor in the spring. When plow weather arrives the farmer may at once begin to plant, knowing that the land is in good condition from the fall plowing. Only a small amount of time will be needed to disk these plowed fields."

PRUNING PINE WOODLANDS

Benefits of pruning, under a selective method, have been successfully demonstrated on two stands of white pine trees in New Hampshire, where the operators have been pruning for the last 35 years, says the forest service, United States department of agriculture.

The operators do not advocate pruning all trees at a particular age; trees that are to be marketed within 15 years are not pruned at all. The pruning is confined to two stages: At an early age trees which are dominant or soon to become dominant in the stand are selected and pruned up to a height of 6 feet; later the same trees are pruned up to 16 feet, or to cover the first log. Specimens of logs from trees so pruned show that after pruning off the lower branches the subsequent growth is in clear lumber.

RINGING CHURCH-BELLS IS AN ATHLETIC ART

PARIS, Oct. (AP)—Ringing the bells in the church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois is so much of a he-man job that the bell-ringer, Monsieur Maxime Bigarelle, strips to the waist when he tackles it every Sunday morning. When M. Bigarelle breaks loose with the Marseillaise, he gives an exhibition that combines some of the more strenuous features of punching the bag, punting footballs, and giving someone a good swift kick.

The ancient keyboard, the same used on St. Bartholomew's bloody day in 1572 requires heavy punching and heavier footwork to make the wires pull the clappers. M. Bigarelle, a pupil of the famous Belgian bell-ringer Jef Benyn, is thinking of inventing another one that will require less labor. He doesn't get paid for his bell-ringing. He just does it for the love of it—and for the exercise.

TO ARTIFICIALLY BREED LOBSTERS AT HELIGOLAND

BERLIN, Oct. (AP)—To raise the standard of Heligoland lobster fisheries and to eliminate serious competition from the Scandinavian lobsters, large quantities of which are imported via Heligoland duty free, the Prussian biological institute at Heligoland is planning to artificially breed this popular seafood.

First attempts will be made with 50 female lobsters which the Heligoland fishermen have voluntarily contributed from their last year's catches.

Slated For German Ambassador To U. S.

Dr. Peter Reinhold, Minister of Finance of Germany under Chancellor Luther, whom it is said is slated for the post of German Ambassador to the United States, succeeding Baron von Maltzan, killed in an airplane accident. Dr. Reinhold has just returned from a trip to America. It is also believed that he is the best qualified man to bring about a revision of the Dawes plan.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Slater Hall Concert Series

Announcement is made that definite arrangements have now been made for the following artists in the Slater hall concert series under Norwich Free Academy auspices:

Dec. 2, Friday, Mary Lewis, brilliant young soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York.

January 11, Wednesday, Fox-Burgin-Bedelli trio, all prominent solo artists of the famous Boston Symphony orchestra.

February 3, Friday, John Corighano, noted young American violinist, toured widely with Marion Tulley.

March 16, Friday, Reginald Werrenrath, America's foremost concert baritone.

Subscription list now open at Cranston's. Mail or phone pledges to Cranston or committee, H. A. Tirrell and Archibald Mitchell. Advance sale for subscribers only to be announced at early date. Course tickets (including all four concerts), $6.00 each. Tickets for individual concerts, $2.00 and $3.00 each.

It is a fact not generally known that Miller Huggins, manager of the World's Champion Yankees, started out with the idea of becoming a lawyer and holds a degree in law from the University of Cincinnati.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Ten years ago today Lieut. Harden was the first American to be wounded in the trench warfare in France.

Thirty-fifth anniversary of the great Milwaukee fire, which destroyed property to the value of over $4,000,000.

The Most Rev. James J. Keane, archbishop of Dubuque, today celebrates his silver jubilee in the Roman Catholic episcopate.

Five years ago today Benito Mussolini, once a Socialist and pacific, marched into Rome at the head of his Black Shirts and began a career rarely matched in history.

Greetings to Richard Folsom Cleveland, only son of the late President Grover Cleveland, on the occasion of his thirtieth birthday anniversary.

Sixty thousand officials today will begin the formidable task of taking a complete census of Turkey, the first ever compiled in that country.

The inauguration of Dr. Roswell Thatcher as president of Massachusetts Agricultural college will take place today at Amherst, Mass.

Sir Oliver Lodge will be the speaker today at the formal opening and dedication of the Michael Faraday Memorial, in Southwark, London.

Breed Theatre.

The pick of the rodeo stars of the western states can be seen in "Gun Gospel," Ken Maynard's latest First National picture, which is scheduled to be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

The story of "Gun Gospel" calls for several spectacular and sensational chases, and to do this Charles H. Rogers, the producer, and Harry J. Brown, the director, secured some of the cleverest riders in the west to go with them on location to Lone Pine. The majority of these men are prize winners for trick riding, roping, steer bulldogging and other feats to be seen at western rodeos. However, with Maynard a winner of the national rodeo in Chicago, in competition with over 200 men from the ranges of the United States, it became almost a competitive question of horsemanship when the picture was being taken. That is, until Maynard began a few of the special stunts, such as riding underneath the horse, and riding six horses. From then on the competition ceased.

"Gun Gospel" is an adaptation of W. B. Hoffman's novel of the same name. The spectacular and daring riding of Maynard, coupled with a strong story, has brought to the screen one of the best western pictures seen in a great while.

The balance of the cast includes Virginia Browne Faire, Noah Young, Bob Flemming, Romaine Fielding, J. P. McGowan, Bill Dyer, Jerry Madden and Tarzan, the horse.

Palace Theater

In endeavoring to win the faith and trust of theater goers of Norwich and vicinity, the management offers daily through these columns, an honest expression and review of the picture and vaudeville attractions, playing at the Palace theater. It is not the intention of the management to state that all shows are great. That is impossible, but we do make the assertion that the shows to be seen at the Palace theater will be of the highest standard obtainable. In keeping with this policy we wish to state that the current vaudeville and picture presentations now playing at the Palace are above the standard. The vaudeville end of the program opens with the Les Perretos, an athletic act different from the usual acrobatic acts. Next is Dorothy Bergere, a charming miss who sings in a manner incomparable. Following this is a domestic skit, pertaining to the difficulties encountered by a married couple in catching the last boat. Then comes Kennedy and Lewis, two men, one of whom portrays the part of an Italian laborer. This act is a sure laugh producer. Closing the show is an act called "Revelations" in which five girls and a man go through a routine of dance steps that leave nothing to be desired in this form of entertainment. The feature picture stars Owen Moore and Sally O'Neil, in a delightful comedy drama, woven around a girl's desire to rise from the barrain counter of a department store to be a great stage star. The story unfolded in "Becky" is humorous, pathetic and lovable.

Broadway Theater

"The Nest," which began yesterday a three day engagement at the Broadway theater, is decidedly worth seeing.

We were enthralled at its premier performance yesterday, not only by the appeal of the story but by the remarkably uncommon acting of the star, Pauline Frederick, who is personally known to many Norwich theater goers.

And no wonder! Miss Frederick is utterly unlike any of her colleagues now in the motion picture eye, so to speak. She is the actress incarnate; the superior artiste, beautiful to behold, sparkling with that equation called personality and possessed of a sheer fine talent seldom matched.

Playing the role of a mother who must fight to hold her children safe from the temptations of the modern world, she reveals an understanding, a capability given to few to express through the histrionic art.

"The Nest" is essentially a Parisian drama, though its emotional appeal is race-wide and world-wide. It is a drama of mother-love, which naturally knows no geographical boundaries. Paul Geraldy first wrote it for production in the Paris legitimate; then Grace George became enthralled by it and her husband, William A. Brady, gave it an American production and a highly successful one, too. Thus it came eventually into the hands of the photoplay producers and Excellent Pictures corporation cast Miss Frederick to play the starring role. How finely she does it must be seen to be appreciated.

Strand Theater

The Social Highwayman which opened at the Strand theater last night is the most entertaining comedy thriller of the year!

No two lovers were ever thrown together under such strange circumstances as Elise Van Tyler and Jay Walker in this cleverly conceived and brilliantly acted picture play. Romance, comedy thrills and suspense.

The top of a swiftly moving freight train is hardly the best place in the world for a fight to the finish, but Walker had to take desperate chances when dealing with Ducket Nelson, safe-blower, train robber, and all around bad man.

The Kid Sister, the added feature attraction is a gripping film story of back stage life and love.

PROHIBITION AGENTS FAIL TO ACT; STILL HIDDEN AWAY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27—Prohibition enforcement agents delayed action too long, for after they had obtained positive knowledge, 10 days ago of a five-gallon still being in operation in this city, they deferred effort to secure the implement used for the manufacture of "hooch" until this afternoon. In the meantime the owner of the still had gained knowledge that the federal officers had located the building in which the still was operated and they removed the equipment used in the liquor making and the receptacles in which the liquor was placed and carried them to places of storage or to customers. In fact, the building had been divested of everything illegal when the officers arrived there. The still had been operated in a dilapidated barn off the Niles Hill road, upon property formerly owned by Frank S. Gardner and which was purchased a few months ago by Joseph Garina. The officers learned of the existence of the still in the building over a week ago, but did not go there until today. Then Prohibition Enforcement Agent Stanton Briggs of Windham; Joseph F. Fitzpatrick of this city; William E. Jackson, Windham county detective and Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, New London police department went to the barn, which is located in New London, but almost on the New London-Waterford boundary line. Instead of finding the bar closed, it was open to complete inspection, none of the doors even being closed. The officers realized that they had delayed a visit to the building too long for nothing was stored there. It was learned that the still, which is the property of a well known New Londen bootlegger was taken from the barn a week ago for he received information that the federal officers had been informed that the still was in the Farina barn. The owner hired several men and at night the still was removed to a location at present unknown to the authorities. It is understood that the still had been in almost constant operation and was the source of much of the supply of liquor that has been sold in New London for many months.

Had a Bad Cold But Accepted!

The theatre that evening, though her nose was red and eyes were running! For six hours is enough to conquer almost any cold. Here's what to do:

Take a plain, pleasant-tasting tablet which the smallest drugstore is never without. Pape's Cold Compound is what they call it. Harmless as it is, it will knock the worst cold—so quickly you'll think it was luck the first time.

PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND

NAVY DAY CELEBRATED AT SUB BASE THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27—Navy day was celebrated at the submarine base almost the entire day. A program arranged by naval officials was carried out in the presence of several thousands of men, women and children, several hundred of the visitors being students of the public schools, who were given a half-holiday. Starting at 9 o'clock, United States coast guard patrol boats began making trips from the municipal pier to the base; but the crowd did not really gather at the base until this afternoon when the boats made trips with more frequency than in the morning. The trips were discontinued at 5.30 o'clock when the last of the visitors were landed upon the city dock.

The morning visitors to the base were given a close-up of two of the navy's largest type of submarines, the V-1 and V-2, which were moored at the base pier. Also moored at the pier was the S-1. From 10.30 until noon the navy control force band played concert airs. Another program was given from 1 until 2.30. At 2.30 o'clock the football game between the base eleven and the team representing the Brooklyn naval hospital, one of the strongest of the many federal elevens, was started. During the playing of the game the United States coast guard band rendered a varied program.

The crowd was welcomed to the base during the morning by Executive Officer E. F. Cutts and this afternoon Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commandant, greeted the assemblage. Commander Andrews was in Hartford earlier in the day, where he addressed the members of the Navy club of that city. During the afternoon the visitors witnessed a naval diver at work, the diver making descents practically every 45 minutes.

A series of addresses by base officers was given the children of the public schools at noon. Chaplain M. M. Leonard addressed the pupils at Nameaug school; Lieutenant E. B. Lapham spoke at the weekly meeting of the Lions' club; Lieut. R. H. Smith talked to the students at Nathan Hale grammar school, Saltonstall school and Winthrop school. Lieut. C. T. Bonney addressed the classes at Robert Bartlett school and Harbor school and Lieut. A. I. Jennings addressed the students at the Jennings school and Commercial high school. Lieut. Comdr. T. J. Doyle at noon addressed the Rotary club at Norwich and tomorrow he will address the Rotary club here. The desire of the speakers was to convey the general effort of the navy to bring the aims and activities closer to the citizens and the rising generation.

Carrie F. Davies, administratrix of the estate of Frances Ella Davies has sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Barney Belgrad.

William T. and Mary M. Babcock have sold a house and two building lots on Jefferson avenue, formerly the United States Housing corporation site, to Max and Cecelia Ponodel.

Miss Catherine Schmidt of 88 Vauxhall street and Boleslaw Sewecyzk, 211 Crystal avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today. Sewecyzk was recently struck by an automobile on Crystal avenue and suffered injuries about the limbs and body.

Mrs. Mary DeMoch, of 6 Cutler street, Groton, notified the New London police last night that her Ford automobile was stolen from Groton Saturday. It has registration N-8031. Mrs. DeMoch said that she reported the theft to the state police, Groton barracks, at the time the automobile was taken.

Charlotte B. Kuvill, 86 Washington street, was arrested last night by State Police Officer Peter Busch, Groton barracks charged with driving an automobile equipped with improper markers. In the police court today she was fined $5.

William Giesing of Potter street was charged with evading taxicab fare and intoxication. His case was disposed of by judgment being suspended. Giesing was drinking freely yesterday and during the course of the night he hired a taxicab and was driven to several houses. When the trip was concluded Giesing refused to pay his fare. The driver made complaint to Patrolman Henry Hick and Giesing was arrested.

THOS. P. STREET, MONTVILLE KNOCKED DOWN BY MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27—An automobile driven by Tony Angelo, 1 Water street, in passing through Huntington street this afternoon struck and knocked down Thomas P. Street, residing at the Chapman house, Montville. Pedestrians observed that Street had been injured and a telephone message to that effect to police headquarters caused Captain Charles Pinney and Sergeant John Cavanaugh to go to the location of the accident. There Street was found and he was taken to the Lenox hospital, where the extent of his injuries have not been determined. He is evidently suffering from severe bruises and scratches.

CHAS. F. HALL BLAMELESS IN DEATH OF HECTOR CHARRON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 27—By a decision handed down today by Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich, Charles F. Hall, 15 Orchard street is exonerated from all responsibility in connection with the death of Hector Charrón, 29, of 210 Shaw street, in this city, on the 12th inst. Charron fell from the truck, his body landing between the front and rear wheels, the latter wheels passing over him, causing internal injuries which resulted in his death 15 minutes later at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Charron was sitting on the front fender of a five-ton truck laden with dry garbage and en route to the city's dumping ground in Riverview avenue. As the truck rounded from Williams to Blackhall street, Charron was jarred from the fender and fell beneath the wheels. Before Hall had an opportunity to bring the truck to a stop the wheel passed over his body. He was rushed to the hospital, but rapidly succumbed to his injuries. Hall was arrested charged with manslaughter and his case is pending in the police court. His license has also been suspended by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, pending the action of the police court. The case will come up in court within a few days, when it is probable that the charge will be nolled and that his license will be restored so that he may resume his work.

An automobile driven by Louis C. Perovano, 39 Hamilton street, tonight collided with a traffic beacon on Reed street, near Bank street. The beacon was damaged. Perovano, who declared he did not observe the beacon, because of a light not being displayed on it, said that he would defray the cost of its repair. He reported the mishap at police headquarters.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of Solomon Johnson and R. E. Waldrop, United States Coast Guard, local section base 4, state pier. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Frank G. Pierce, submarine base.

The New London police tonight were requested to be on the lookout for Edward Clark, who escaped from Norwich State hospital, this afternoon. Clark is described as being 65; about five feet nine inches in height and weighs about 155 pounds. He has dark gray hair. When he escaped Clark wore a black soft hat, dark suit and black shoes.

Fred Dunn, Fifth avenue, made complaint to the police tonight that Louis Grimes, 171 Garfield avenue, had been guilty of reckless driving and asked for the arrest of the latter driver. Dunn said that the auto that Grimes was driving hit his car on Bank street and damaged it and that it was the indifferent driving of Grimes that caused the collision.

Joseph Carey, Main street, has secured employment at Greenport and has already started on his new duties.

Mrs. Annie R. Morgan, widow of Elias F. Morgan, one of New London's best known women was 90 years of age today. In celebration of the event, her son, former Mayor E. Frank Morgan and Mrs. Morgan gave a family dinner at Lighthouse inn.

Frederick W. Edgerton, librarian of the New London Public Library, has received notification that he is one of four members elected to serve on the Connecticut State Library committee, beginning Nov. 1. The other members are D. Newton Barney, Farmington; Albert P. Meredith, Hartford and George J. Vogel, Torrington.

Tonight was Past Masters' night in Union lodge and there was a representative number of members present, Past Worshipful Master Charles C. Perkins presiding. One candidate received the Master Mason degree. At the conclusion of the meeting a banquet was served. Past worshipful masters conducted the initiatory work.

John H. Eccleston, Waterford, has sold a parcel of land on the Shore road, Waterford, to Benjamin A. Armstrong.

A New London man had an unpleasant experience at Northampton Tuesday; the car driven by Orville T. Colby, 255 Montauk avenue, struck Arthur Frenier, 3, of that place, causing a fracture of the child's right leg. Colby in reporting the accident said that the boy ran from the side of the road in front of his home against the side of the auto.

The United States Coast Guard training ship Alexander Hamilton, was towed to the Thames Shipyard today by tugs Westerly and Aquidneck. She will undergo repairs before put into commission again. Her boilers and hull will be thoroughly overhauled and it is expected, that the work will not be completed before spring. The boat was moored at the shipyard dock where work will be done on her boilers and engine. When this has been accomplished the Hamilton will be hauled out on the ways and the task of repairing the hull will be undertaken. The Hamilton has been moored at the coast guard academy pier since last June when she was disabled off Nova Scotia while taking cadets on their annual cruise for instruction. The boat was brought back to port and the cutter Mojave finished the cruise.

Theodore Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker, of Broad street, Groton and Mrs. Mary A. Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quinn, of Wakefield, R. I., were married at the parsonage of the Groton Heights Baptist church last night by Rev. George R. Atha.

Theodore I. Baker, son of John T. Baker, 139 Blydenberg avenue, and Miss Dorothy M. Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Greene, 135 Squire street, were married last night at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Whitney. Mr. and Mrs. Baker are on a motor trip over the Mohawk trail and to Bear Mountain. They will make their home at 135 Squire street. The bride wore tan georgette and velvet with hat to match and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses. Her attendant wore rust-colored georgette and velvet with hat to match and had a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses. A reception, attended by relatives and intimate friends, was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Baker will spend the week end at the Farmington Country club. Mr. Baker is in the employ of Swift & Co. of this city.

"BIGGEST IN WORLD" NOT ALL IN AMERICA

PARIS, Oct. (AP)—France really leads in many things, says a newspaper writer, who, like many Frenchmen, rather smart under the endless list of things—"the biggest in the world"—that are from time to time reported as existing in the United States.

Here are some of the things claimed for France as being the "biggest" in the world:

Tour Eiffel, the highest structure.

The Caraby viaduct, the biggest metal viaduct.

L'Ile de France, 42,000 tons, the biggest steamer built since the war.

The Saint Pierre de Vauray bridge, the biggest reinforced concrete bridge

The fastest electric train, running from Paris to Vierzon.

Le Bourget, the biggest air-field.

The biggest aviation hangars, at Orly.

The Canal de Rove, the biggest underground canal.

The billion-candle-power searchlight at Mount Valerien.

The 50,000 kilowatt alternating current generators, at Gennevilliers.

Oldest Official Government Building Guide

Miss Fannie Gidelman, 70 years old, the oldest official Government building guide, who has led thousands of sightseers through the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who declare that sightseers are for the most part garrulous individuals, who specialize in foolish questions and see the sights just to say they have seen them. She has been at the bureau for 33 years and still wears the first badge, number one, issued to official guides. She has guided the principal people through the bureau, including King Albert of Belgium.

RED RIBBON WEARERS HAVE SWANKY "HOME"

PARIS, Oct. (AP)—Members of the Legion of Honor who come upon hard times can live out the rest of their lives in a chateau once inhabited by King Louis XIV, dreaming about the days when they won their red ribbons and their thoughts were far from failure.

If We Had the Time

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that cannot show
In my daily life that rushes so;
It might be then I should see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal;
I might be nerved by the thought sublime—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part;
To look about and to stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered in No-Luck land;
Ah, God, if I might but just be still
And hear the note of the whip-poor-will,
I think that my wish with God's would rhyme—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word could do;
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I did you ill;
If the tears aback of the coldness feigned
Could flow, and the wrong be quite explained
Brothers, the souls of us all would chime,
If we had the time!

— Dr. Richard Burton.

An Old-fashioned CHALLENGE to Combat

Time and again, Zenith has published this unwavering challenge to the world of radio:

"Under identical circumstances and conditions, and taking our various models in their proper grade, we challenge any make of radio receiver to equal or surpass Zenith performance in quality or quantity of tone; selectivity; sensitivity, distance; ease of operation; precision of manufacture and general all around performance."

Model 11. The famous Zenith 6-radio chassis in a beautifully finished cabinet. Price, battery operated, $110. Electrically operated, $175.

The challenge stands today as it has stood from the beginning—so long as Zenith makes radio it will be the best radio.

Zenith is the only radio set that McMillan would take to the Arctic.

Zenith is the holder of the world's long distance record—Japan to New Jersey.

TAFTVILLE

A fair sized goshawk, shot by Albert Lillibridge of the Scotland road has been on view in the window of the store of George W. Weller of North Second avenue. The hawk was shot by Mr. Lillibridge while it was in the act of killing a pheasant. It had just swooped upon the game bird when it was dispatched and the pheasant regained its liberty. Many sportsmen believe that hen harriers, goshawks and various species of owls are responsible for killing off the game birds in this vicinity in large numbers. In spite of the many pheasants liberated by the Taftville Rod and Gun club in the woods about the town, not many have been reported bagged, although large numbers of the birds were seen during the summer months, proof that they did not die off when first liberated.

FINDS AUTOMOBILE DRIVER NOT TO BLAME FOR FATAL ACCIDENT

E. Tyler Rogers of 56 Pratt street, whose automobile struck and fatally injured six-year old Violet Isabel Lewis on Sept. 16 at Leffingwell on the Salem turnpike is declared to have been free from criminal liability in causing the death of the child, according to a finding issued Thursday by Coroner J. J. Desmond.

Since the little girl's death, Mr. Rogers has been under bonds on a technical charge of manslaughter. Now that the coroner's finding in the matter has been issued, it is expected that the case will be called up and the charge will be dismissed.

In his finding Coroner Desmond says:

On Sept. 16th, 1927, Mr. Rogers was operating a Ford coupe, traveling westwardly on the Norwich-Hadlyme state highway; Frank T. Maples, of Norwich, was riding in the car; when passing through Leffingwelltown, about noon, in Bozrah, going at about 20 miles an hour, Rogers observed five children walking westwardly on the highway a short distance ahead of his car; 3 of these children were together on his right, and the other two on his left; as he approached the children he sounded his horn, and watched the little ones; there was ample space for him to drive the automobile between the children on his right hand side of the road and the two on his left hand side.

When the car reached a point about 50 to 60 feet from these children, Violet Isabel Lewis (who was one of the three on Rogers' right) left her two companions, and started to walk across the highway; when she had reached a point slightly south of the middle of the road, she suddenly turned about, and began to walk back towards the north side of the road; Mr. Rogers, assuming that she would continue towards his right, turned his car to his left to avoid striking her, and then, when the car was very close to her, she suddenly turned about again, and stepped directly in front of the right front fender which struck her, and fatally injured her. Mr. Rogers brought the car to a stop within a few yards, and summoned a physician for the injured child, but she died before the physician arrived at the place of the accident.

The operator of the automobile had a clear view of all those children as he was approaching them; he gave due warning with his horn; and would have safely passed the children if they had all remained on the roadsides; and the decedent was out of danger after she had turned back to the north side of the highway, until she made the sudden, and unexpected final turn towards the opposite side of the road just as the automobile was about to pass her.

I am satisfied, and find that the death of Violet Isabel Lewis was not caused by the criminal act, omission, or negligence of any person or persons.

AUTO PASSENGER SUES DRIVER FOR INJURIES

Louise Morengo of New York city who was a passenger, riding on the back seat of an automobile driven by Patsy Orlando of this city on Aug. 2, 1927, has brought suit for $7,500 damages against Orlando for injuries she received when the automobile left the road and went through a fence. The suit is returnable before the superior court in November.

The plaintiff alleges that Orlando was driving down hill on the military highway, about 2 miles southerly from the state hospital, on the night of Aug. 2, when he lost control of his car which skidded 250 feet down the hill and around a curve, going through the fence and landing on its side so that she was thrown out.

Her injuries, she claims, consisted of two fractures of the pelvic bone, severe concussion of brain and laceration of membrane, concussion of the spine and internal injuries, through which she was a patient in the hospital for a long time, she will be lame and incapacitated and her right leg has been shortened.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE SUIT ON GROTON PROPERTY

Samuel Gould Craig and Martha Craig, both of Groton, and Frank Danasi of this city are made defendants in a foreclosure proceeding instituted by Frederick J. Bailey of Groton, according to papers filed with the clerk of the superior court.

Bailey seeks foreclosure of a $1,350 mortgage on property located in Groton and owned by the Craigs. Danasi claims to have attachments on the property, one for $400 and the other for $450.

Bennett; Poquonock Bridge Baptist, Grant MacLaren and Robert Lewis; New London First Baptist, George Mather; Pogwamp Baptist, Arthur Laugenegger and Ray Koch; Hi-Y club of New London, C. S. Bailey.

To Meet With Mrs. Whitham

Members of the New London Northfield club will attend their next meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. Richard J. Whitham at Pleasant Valley in Groton on the Old Mystic road. There is to be a noon luncheon.

BLOCK ISLAND A. L. POST TO VISIT WESTERLY POST

Twenty-five members of Block Island post of the American Legion will pay a social call to Merrill post, No. 16 of Westerly Saturday evening. Last spring, about 20 members of Merrill post were present at the institution of the Block Island post and were entertained royally. A large number of Westerly Legion members accompanied Walter F. Thorp, then the state commander.

Merrill post is the first post that Block Island has arranged to visit since its organization.

The members of the Block Island post will make the trip to the mainland in a patrol boat and will land at Chesebro's dock, Stonington. From there they will be transported to Westerly by automobile and upon arriving, they will be given a turkey dinner at the Legion rooms. In the evening they will be taken to the carnival of the Westerly Cycle club.

The committee of the Westerly post making plans for the evening's program is composed of John Sullivan, chairman; Harold Barber, Jack Nield, Joseph Sicilian, Grover King, Roy Wilcox and John Taillon.

KEPT WIFE'S GRAVE LIGHTED BUT HAD MARRIED AGAIN

Abraham Goldfield, of Rockville, who keeps an electric light burning at the grave of his first wife in the Old North cemetery, Hartford, lost his second wife by divorce in the superior court Tuesday. When his first wife died four years ago he was so broken with grief that he adopted the unusual memorial method by arrangement with the Hartford Electric Light company of keeping an electric light burning permanently at her grave. Mr. Goldfield is now a farmer in Rockville. He is 55 and Esther Radcen Goldfield of 131 Wooster street, who sued him for divorce, is 34. She charged intolerable cruelty and was granted a decree, with permission to resume her maiden name. Mr. Goldfield did not contest the action and agreed to pay alimony of $500 in a lump sum. He married the petitioner in October, 1925.

Entertained for Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. John Finegan of Ledyard entertained their family and friends Sunday in honor of their oldest daughter's birthday. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Gray and two children of North Stonington, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barlow and twin daughters of Mystic, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Finegan, Jr., of Ledyard, Mrs. Harold Mansfield and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Betting of Poquetanuck and Miss Margaret Tolon of Fall River.

Nolle Was Entered

A nolle was entered in the case of Madarie Savard of North Stonington in the city court Wednesday when he was presented on the charge of reckless driving after his automobile had hit a wagon driven by Joseph Wublewski of Hallville on the East Side Tuesday night. Savard agreed to settle for the damages.

DEFENSE TESTIMONY IN SUIT FOR $60,000 DAMAGES

The defense was placing witnesses on the stand Thursday in the $60,000 damage suit brought by the Textile Finishing Machinery Co., of Providence against the New London Ship and Engine company on trial in the superior court in New London before Judge Allyn L. Brown.

The plaintiff rested its case Wednesday afternoon. Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and Collins and Tillings, the latter two of Providence represent the plaintiff, while Attorneys Arthur B. Calkins, Frank L. McGuire and C. Hadlai Hull appear for the defendants.

Won W. C. T. U. Speaking Contest

Miss Ellen Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis of Raymond street, New London, was winner in the grand gold medal speaking contest held in connection with the state W. C. T. U. conference in Meriden Tuesday night. The competition was state wide. Miss Lewis had as her topic, Shall America Go Back.

Miss Alice Hayes, a senior at Chapman Technical High school won honorable mention for her essay submitted in the scientific temperance instruction essay contest held recently. Miss Eleanor Gavitt was another representative of New London county to receive honorable mention in the essay contest.

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS SUE DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE

John A. Thorner of Waterford, claiming $2,000 damages, and Anna G. Thorner, claiming $2,500 damages, have brought suits in the superior court against Anna A. Davis of that town.

The plaintiffs were riding on a motorcycle in New London when at the intersection of Bank street and Lee avenue it was run into by the Davis automobile, they claim.

The suit is returnable before the superior court in November.

Struck Her Husband With Bottle

A family row about 9 o'clock Thursday night landed a Mohegan road woman in a cell at police headquarters on a breach of the peace charge. She will be presented before the city court this (Friday) morning. For some reason or other the woman bounced a beer bottle on her husband's head inflicting a small cut. After he had received the blow he went in search of an officer to have his wife arrested. Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Eugene Calkins arrested the woman and after she had been booked at police headquarters her bond was set at $100.

MAKES IMPROVEMENT IN WATER STREET STORE

One of the old established business houses on Water street has just come into line for modern improvements in the changes that have been made by Fred C. Crowell at his store at 37 Water street, which has been his location for the past 30 years in the paint, window glass, sash, door and blinds business.

The entire front of the store has been remodeled, replacing the single window by two large plate glass windows with prism glass overhead. New electric fixtures provide for attractive illumination of the show windows and glass doors enclose the show window space. The complete changes provide the store with a modern front which is a great improvement on the street.

Mr. Crowell started in business 32 years ago in the old Bethel building at the corner of West Main street and Falls avenue but was burned out there. He then moved to the Water street location.

Incidentally it is interesting to note at the present time that Mr. Crowell was the first to sign a new advertising contract with The Bulletin at the new rate applying to insertions in both The Bulletin and the Evening Record from Nov. 1, when the Record will become a Bulletin publication. In signing the contract, Mr. Crowell expressed himself as well pleased with the rate under the joint contract, which he considered very favorable to advertisers.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE HAS HER LEG BROKEN

Thursday afternoon an unidentified girl was hit and knocked down on Laurel Hill avenue near River avenue by a Dodge sedan driven by John J. Morley of No. 426 Laurel Hill avenue. It was reported that the girl received a broken leg, and it is said that she ran from in front of a truck which was ahead of Mr. Morley's machine and was hit before Mr. Morley could stop.

Welcomed by Bishop Nelson

At Albany, in welcoming Tuesday night more than 1,000 delegates from all over the United States, Canada, Japan and the Philippines, to the annual Catholic congress of the Episcopal church, Right Rev. Richard H. Nelson, Episcopal bishop of Albany, former rector of Christ church, Norwich, declared that the congress will make a definite contribution to the unity for which the Lord prayed.

NORWICH TOWN

When the Boys' conference convenes in New Haven today (Friday) and Saturday, delegates from Norwich Town will include Reginald Avery and Luther D. Whaley, from the First Congregational Sunday school, and Crosby Peck, from the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor society of this church. The pastor Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, is the adult leader of the delegation.

Several members of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church, met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fulton, to tie a quilt. The work which is done to swell the fund in the treasury, was for a New London order. A company of women also met at Mrs. Fulton's home, Huntington avenue, the preceding Thursday afternoon to tie a quilt for the same purson.

Red rambler roses are in bloom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gardner of West Town street, something quite unusual for the latter part of October.

Under the auspices of the Lookout committee of the Methodist Young People's Christian Endeavor society, an informal Halloween social is to be held especially for the juniors and younger children of that parish, Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, Huntington Green. Mrs. Weaver is assisting the chairman of the committee, in arranging the stunts.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer a patient at Backus hospital, following serious injury to her left knee about a week ago, was visited the early part of this week by her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hazelhurst and the latter's brother-in-law, William Hazelhurst, of Waterbury, both formerly of Norwich. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Geer's callers included her sister, Mrs. Frank Case, of Harrison's Landing and niece, Mrs. Walter Rehn, of New London. Mrs. Geer is as comfortable as can be expected. The knee is in a plaster cast.

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochoric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief come instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

INDIANAPOLIS MAYORALTY MUDDLE MORE COMPLEX

Mayor Duvall, Who Was Convicted of Violating the Corrupt Practices Act, Resigned Yesterday—Mrs. Duvall Then Claimed the Office, Only to Resign in Favor of Ira M. Holmes—Claude E. Negley, Who Was Appointed by City Council to the Office, Will Contest the Duvall Appointment—Action Today in the Marion County Superior Court Probably Will Settle the Matter.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28—(AP)—With two more or less complete staffs claiming control, the official business of this city of nearly 400,000 inhabitants was at a standstill tonight.

Action in the Marion county superior court on an injunction suit tomorrow is expected to clear the way either for Claude E. Negley or Ira M. Holmes to become mayor.

Meanwhile John L. Duvall, who announced his formal resignation as mayor today, spent his time raking leaves in his yard after the city council had pronounced the office vacant because of Duvall's conviction Sept. 22 for violating the corrupt practices act. The council named Negley, its president, as temporary mayor pending selecting of a permanent mayor Nov. 8.

When Duvall resigned his wife, Mrs. Maude E. Duvall, claimed the office by virtue of being city comptroller and next in line. Fifteen minutes after taking oath of office she resigned in favor of Holmes, who in the meantime had been appointed city comptroller.

Negley today obtained a temporary order restraining his opponent from attempting to run the city's business. Holmes countered by sending his wife down to the city hall in the early hours of the morning to hold down the official chair.

When Negley arrived he found Mrs. Holmes in the executive office. Nonplussed, he stood around until Holmes appeared. Mrs. Holmes then arose and the two claimants each drew up chairs at the executive desk. The doors were opened and a crowd gathered to watch the performance.

Negley and Holmes joked about the whole affair, addressing each other as "mayor."

County and City Treasurer Edward A. Ramsay brought cheer to some employes when he announced he would honor salary warrants issued under the Negley "administration." It was Ramsay's decision Wednesday in declining to honor Duvall warrants for salaries due next Tuesday that brought the situation to a head.

Wholesale firing and appointments in various city departments was the order of the day for both Negley and Holmes. Each announced the makeup of a board of safety, board of works and other.

FIVE MEN SLAIN BY ALBANIAN TRIBESMEN

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Oct. 28—(AP)—Five men were killed and a dozen more stabbed and beaten in a desperate but futil effort to save a score of their women folk who were overpowered and carried into the mountains by Albanian tribesmen Thursday.

As on previous occasions the Albanians chose the season when the women leave the villages carrying fruit and other products to sell in the towns leaving their husbands at home to guard the children and cattle.

A party of women left the Foad Djakova district for this purpose at dawn. They were hardly outside the village when ambushed Albanians pounced upon them. The women's cries were heard by the menfolk who had escorted them to the village boundary. They rushed to the rescue but were overwhelmed by the raiders.

TRIBUTE TO LATE BISHOP EDWIN STEVENS LINES

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28 (AP)—A gathering of life-long friends in St. Paul's church this afternoon paid their tribute to the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Edwin Stevens Lines of the Newark diocese, when the funeral service was held prior to interment in Evergreen cemetery. For 24 years Bishop Lines, then a priest, had been rector of the church. Yesterday a service was held from Trinity cathedral in Newark and the coadjutor bishop, Rt. Rev. W. R. Stearly, officiated and today he assisted Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, of the Connecticut diocese in the service. Rt. Rev. J. DeWolfe Perry, of the Rhode Island diocese, himself a former rector of St. Paul's also took part.

Honorary bearers were men of distinction in the city headed by President-Emeritus Arthur T. Hadley of Yale university.

PRINCE CAROL DECIDES TO RETURN TO PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 28—(AP)—Prince Carol of Rumania is coming back to Paris tomorrow from his country retreat to investigate the theft of a package of papers, containing various letters from his villa at Neuilly, police detectives indicated tonight.

While awaiting his arrival to determine just what has been stolen since he went away the police were engaged in the old, old job of "Cherches la Femme," in this case a woman who is believed to have vamped Carol's valet, kept him away from the house all night and sent him home with a headache.

Returning home he found that the house had been entered in his absence and papers and letters pilfered, money and jewels being left untouched.

WAS MODEL HUSBAND TILL HE TALKED IN HIS SLEEP

CHICAGO, Oct. 28—(AP)—Insomnia induced by her husband talking in his sleep led Mrs. John Wilters to learn things she hadn't known before, she testified in the domestic relations court today.

"John was a model husband, until I heard him talk in his sleep," his wife told the judge. "In the daytime he told me he was going out to his lodge or visit a sick friend, but at night I learned his trips were parties with Claras, and Marys and other such friends."

Judge T. P. Ehler ordered the husband to spend his evenings at home. "And if you must talk in your sleep, talk about the weather, that should put your wife to sleep," the judge warned.

THERMOMETER REACHED 81 IN BOSTON YESTERDAY

BOSTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—The heat record for October 28 was menaced today when the thermometer at 2 o'clock in the afternoon registered 79 degrees, two points below the highest recorded mark for the day, 81 degrees on October 28, 1919. The weather bureau predicted continued high temperatures tomorrow.

The lowest temperature recorded for this date was 29 degrees in 1876. Last year the October 28 maximum was 56.

WAS FATALLY INJURED IN A FOOTBALL GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28— (AP) — Manfred Mascuilli, 18, died tonight from injuries received in a football game yesterday.

Mascuilli, fullback for the southern high school team, was hurt in the final period of the contest with Northeast High when half a dozen players fell on him. He remained unconscious for 4 hours. An operation was performed tonight and he died shortly afterward of internal hemorrhage.

LOSS ON ITALIAN LINER NOW 293 DEAD AND MISSING

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The ocean's toll from the ill-fated Italian liner Principessa Mafalda tonight was placed tentatively at 293 dead and missing as rescue ships in port today completed discharging their unexpected passengers.

Of the 1256 persons said by the Italian embassy to have been aboard the vessel 963 were accounted for tonight, the French liner Hosella took 52 survivors into Bahia last night.

The French steamer Formosa, first rescue ship on the scene, brought 353 survivors here today and the Dutch vessel Alhena brought 531. Twenty-seven more have been reported en route to Pernambuco aboard the Italian steamer Rosetta.

Virtually all of the survivors said that dancing, laughter and festivities on a beautiful tropic afternoon were suddenly turned to gloom by the crash of a breaking propeller shaft and the sound of water rushing into the vessel's stern. From this point on accounts diverge as to details.

Many claim there was an explosion, and that the ship's flooded boilers tore open the ship's hull as they burst. Others deny there was any explosion.

RUTH ELDER SPEEDS TO PARIS AIRPORT IN PLANE

PARIS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Ruth Elder, 13 days out of New York, completed her trans-Atlantic journey as she began it—by air—when she landed at Le Bourget air field at 3.47 o'clock this afternoon. Ruth and her flying companion, Captain George W. Haldeman, set a speed record from Bayonne to Bourget.

Miss Elder alighted at the famous French airdrome to the plaudits of a multitude which at once gave her an affectionate nickname, "The Smiling American Midinette on Holiday."

The charming smile and cheerful mien of the American girl made an instant hit with the enthusiastic French crowd while Haldeman's saturnine appearance and balse demeanor caused the spectators to ponder.

COUPLE DIVORCED AFTER 44 YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28—(AP)—Forty-four years married William R. Savitteer and his wife, Mary, were in divorce court today and Judge Isaac Wolfe granted the latter a decree because reconciliation was impossible. There had been 12 years of domestic strife and the wife charged intolerable cruelty. With the decree went a judgment of $7,500 alimony.

Judge Wolfe expressed regret that differences could not be harmonized after so long a period of married life. Savitteer sued for divorce in 1915 but withdrew action the next year.

POLAND TO HAVE CHANGE OF MONETARY SYSTEM

WARSAW, Oct. 28—(AP)—As part of its stabilization plan, growing out of the recent Polish loan, the cabinet has approved a draft ordinance by President Moscicki changing the monetary system of Poland and introducing a unit which will be known as the ducat, having a value of 26 zloty.

Gold coins will be issued in denominations of 100, 50 and 26 zloty, the latter of which will be known as the ducat. There will be silver coins of five and two zloty and nickel of one zloty and fifty, twenty and ten gross, the divisions of the zloty. Bronze coins of five, two and one gross also will be issued.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLED BY PHEASANT HUNTER

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 28—(AP)—Gun shot wounds which he received while hunting were fatal to Charles Harrington, Jr., 17, of Wayland, who died in the Framingham hospital tonight after having been brought there three hours earlier.

Francis Stearns, 45, of Wayland, told the police he had accidentally shot Harrington when he fired at a pheasant. He was not held.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED BY UNCLE WHILE HUNTING

SEABROOK, N. H., Oct. 28—(AP)—John L. Randall, 16 years old, was shot and killed today by his uncle, Caleb M. Fowler, Jr., one year older, as the two youths were setting out to hunt partridge. Fowler, who was walking behind, put a shoil in his gun and it was discharged accidentally, the charge striking Randall in the back of the head.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Oct. 28—(AP)—The king has conferred a barony upon Roland McNeil who succeeds Lord Cecil as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

WEYMOUTH, England, Oct. 28—(AP)—The Spanish tanker Arnus is in distress off Portland Bill. Her rudder is gone and it is feared that she may drift ashore in a heavy gale. A lifeboat from here and a destroyer from Portland have gone to her assistance.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 28—(AP)—Foreign newspapers containing Prince Carol's interview in which he confirmed having sent letters to Rumanian leaders, were not distributed when they arrived today as any article containing the name of the former crown prince of Rumania is declared contraband.

150 KEGS OF 140 PROOF SCOTCH WHISKEY SEIZED

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty kegs of what is officially described as 140 proof Scotch whiskey, manufactured in the land of the hether and intended to relieve the parched throats of those who could and would pay the price, tonight lay in a local storage warehouse while federal officers awaited the apprehension or surrender of the truckman who hastily deserted his charge at their approach last night.

The whiskey, said by federal officers to be the genuine article and worth somewhere in the vicinity $105,000, or about $35 a gallon, was landed last night under cover of a heavy fog at what has been facetiously dubbed by residents of the east shore "Smugglers' cove."

A party of federal narcotic agents, accompanied by two dry agents "out for a ride," were cruising in their automobile up and down the shore on the lookout for the landing of narcotics. They heard a motor boat arrive, heard its cargo being unloaded, and while they were seeking the location saw a truck drive away.

Following it, they at last forced the driver to leave his machine and take to the woods, whence he has not yet been discovered to have emerged. The truck was the property of Doody Brothers Trucking company of this city, but responsibility was disclaimed by representatives of the company for the illegal use to which the machine had been put.

PROVIDENCE TO LOSE M'CALLUM HOSIERY MILLS

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Providence, R. I., mills of the McCallum hosiery will be shut down permanently after November 19, according to an announcement made at the company's headquarters here today.

Some of the machinery of the Providence branch will be moved to other plants of the company operated at Philadelphia, Holyoke and Florence, the statement said.

The reason for suspension of operations in Providence was given by the company as a desire to concentrate production in the vicinity of Northampton where a new dye house is under construction. The statement explained that "increased volume of business necessitated the building of a new dye house at Northampton and plans for the company's future expansion in New England are based on concentrating production in the vicinity of Northampton. Approximately 100 employes in the Providence plant will be affected."

FLIGHT TO COPENHAGEN BECOMING IMPROBABLE

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Rumors that Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Mrs. Frances Grayson's projected air expedition to Copenhagen, was on the point of retiring from the flight were disposed tonight by Stultz in his first public statement concerning his reported difficulties with Mrs. Grayson.

Admitting freely that he wished to resign as pilot, Stults said he would remain with the expedition under his contract with the commander.

Since the plane Dawn was forced last Sunday by motor trouble to return to Old Orchard from a point off Nova Scotia, reports have been current of a disagreement between Mrs. Grayson and her pilot. Today when Mrs. Grayson went to Boston for a conference with Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, it was rumored that she hoped to replace Stultz by the man who had already conquered the Atlantic. Mrs. Grayson declared however, that she had merely sought to discuss aviation in general with Chamberlin in view of his ripe experience.

EVERHARDT UNWILLING WITNESS IN OIL CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair was linked directly today by government witnesses with the operations of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., which at one time had possession of the $230,500 in Liberty bonds which eventually found their way into the hands of M. E. Everhart, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, shortly after the lease of Teapot Dome.

The government failed, however, in its effort to force Everhart to tell from whom he received the bonds, Justice Siddons upholding his contention that he had constitutional immunity because for him to reveal this information might tend to incriminate him.

This ruling was a distinct disappointment to special oil counsel, but after recalling Everhart and putting him on record as refusing to answer several other questions on the same grounds and in the presence of the jurors, they set out upon the winding trail of the bonds and their coupons.

As this trail was explored, the jury was taken rapidly from New York to Pueblo, Colorado; to El Paso, Texas; to Carrizozo, New Mexico; to Denver, Colorado, and finally to Washington, where the cancelled coupons were safely locked away in the federal treasury and from which the oil counsel obtained them.

TWO CHILDREN STRANGLED BY DERANGED MOTHER

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mentally deranged, Mrs. Sadie Altieri, 29, of this city, today strangled to death two of her three children, made three attempts to take the life of the third, and cut her own throat in an unsuccessful attempt to end her life.

The victims were Gloria Rita, 4, and Raymond Hugo, 9 months old. Marie Violet, 8 years, is in the hospital suffering from burns about the face and mouth, made by the mother's efforts to force her to drink poison. Her condition is not serious.

Week Respite For Chinese Murderers

Granted by Governor Trumbull to Permit Counsel to Appear Before Board of Pardons.

HARTFORD, Oct. 28—(AP)—Governor Trumbull today granted Soo Hoo Wing and Chin Lung a reprieve until November 8, to permit their counsel to present their appeals for clemency to the board of pardons on November 7. They were sentenced to die at the state prison on November 1 for the murder of a fellow countryman in Manchester last March.

The board will meet a half hour earlier on November 7 to hear the cases. The board regularly meets at 10 a. m., but this time will meet at 9:30 a. m. This arrangement will obviate a possible session after the petitions of about 70 inmates of the state prison are heard.

The reprieve was granted by the governor at the request of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn upon application of Homer S. Cummings, of Stamford, appeal counsel for the condemned Chinese.

OWNERS GIVE UP HOPE FOR RACING SCHOONER

GLOUCESTER, Mass, Oct 28.—(AP)—The owners of the Steamer Columbia, Gloucester's racing fisherman, tonight finally gave up hope for the safety of the vessel, overdue many weeks from a salt fishing trip. Their announcement said the vessel had been lost in the gale of August 24, with Captain Lewis Wharton of Gloucester and his crew of 20.

The owners, Captain Ben Pine, Marion J. Cooney, Alex J. Chisholm and Miss Rayne Adams, said they believed the Columbia had been sunk in collision with either the Una Corkum or the Joyce Smith, Lunenburg schooners lost in the same gale. When the vessel sailed for the banks July 3, she carried new sails and running gear and had been recently recaulked. She had been built in 1923 and was a staunch craft.

The schooner was last spoken on August 23, by the Gloucester schooner Herbert Parker, at that time she was 50 miles north of Sable Island and had 8,000 pounds of salt fish on board. Coast guard vessels searched the banks in vain for traces of the Columbia. The theory that she had been in collision was based on the fact that a dory was picked up with the painter cut short. This indicated, it was believed, that the crew had attempted to abandon the vessel in haste.

Only five members of the crew hailed from New England the others having been shipped in Nova Scotia. The five were Rupert Bragg, Cook, Dorchester; Isaac Gould and Colin Hawley, Gloucester; William Colp and Leo White, Bucksport, Me., the Nova Scotians were Arthur Firth, James MacAloney, James McLeod, Foster McKay, Clyton Johnson, Joseph Mayo, Thomas Haden, Carrol Williams, Enos Delong, George Williams, Frank Dedrick, Allison Firth, Samuel Delong, Charles L. Husian, George Mayo and Robert Stewart.

REVOLVER BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN USED BY MURDERERS

MERIDEN, Oct. 28.—(AP)— The .38 caliber revolver which was found buried here early this week and which police believe may have been the weapon used in the murders of John Mastriano, Jr., and David C. Dudley, was today positively identified by George C. Dudley as the revolver stolen from the Dudley inn at Hamden, of which he is the proprietor, in September of last year.

Police here stated tonight that the revolver will be turned over to Coroner Lowndes A. Smith, of Middlesex county, who re-opened the investigation into the Dudley murder immediately upon the unearthing of the weapon.

An effort will be made, it was indicated tonight, to ascertain if possible whether the two .38 caliber bullets which were found in Dudley's head were fired from the resurrected weapon.

PLAYWRIGHT VEILLER HAS BEEN CALLED A "SHOW OFF"

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Bayard Veiller, playwright who announced yesterday that he had destroyed his dramatization of Sinclair Lewis' "Elmer Gantry", lest it "make every minister in New York mad" was called a "show off" in a formal statement issued today by Robert Milton, producer who engaged Veiller to dramatize the novel.

Milton said Veiller had explained his action to him by saying he heard "secret rumors about it being dangerous to produce." The producer said he could not make up his mind whether Veiller tore up the manuscript, on which he had been at work for six months, because "rumor frightened him" or, being one of the finest of pressmen", he did it for such publicity as might accrue to another of his plays now being produced.

Military to Deal With Col. Strikers

Gov. Adams Acts to Prevent Possible Disorders in the Coal Fields.—Strikers Concentrate.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 28—(AP)—The first military gesture of the state of Colorado in the strike of coal miners called by the Industrial Workers of the World came today when Governor Adams dispatched three national guard airplanes to the southern Colorado coal fields. The planes were unarmed, but Governor Adams decided they would have a salutary effect in preventing any possible disorders in the coal fields.

In the meantime, the state national guard prepared for mobilization in case conditions in the coal fields became too serious for county authorities to handle.

Quiet was reported in the northern coal fields of the adjoining state of New Mexico, where Governor Dillion yesterday detailed a company of national guardsmen to investigate reports that the I. W. W. strike movement would invade that state.

The situation in Colorado appeared most serious near Walsenburg in Huerfano county where several hundred striking miners and I. W. W. members were massing. The "pilgrimage" of miners from northern Colorado arrived in Walsenburg late today and added over 300 strikers to the ranks of those from Trinidad, Aguilar and other southern Colorado mining districts who gathered during the day.

Amelia Sablich, 18-year-old girl who has been a leader of picketing activities, was severely injured today when she was trampled by a mine guard's horse. The girl, always conspicuously attired in a red dress, led over 200 strike sympathizers to the Ideal mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company this morning.

While her followers remained in the rear she braved the guns of the guards before an unruly horse knocked her down. One wrist was broken and she was cut and bruised. Her condition tonight was not as serious as believed at first.

E. H. Weitzel, general manager of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, largest operators in the Colorado coal fields, announced that no further attempt would be made to keep pickets from the mines. He said guards would be stationed to protect property, but that no effort would be made to drive back the pickets.

DENTIST SHOT DEAD BY PATIENT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A dentist was shot to death today by a patient upon whom he was working, police believe.

He was Dr. Jacob Gross, whose body was found with a bullet in the heart crumpled upon the floor of his Columbus avenue office.

The tenant of a neighboring ofice discovered the body shortly after the shooting. In the dead man's pockets was $216. A value diamond ring on his finger had not been touched. The slayer had left no apparent clue to his motive.

Dr. Gross, who was about 40 years old, lived in the Bronx with his wife and three young children. His office was on the edge of the Negro settlement known as "San Juan Hill", and his practice was largely among Negroes. Police said he made daily bank deposits ranging from $150 to $300.

Reuben Levy, a 15-year-old messenger boy for another dentist, had delivered a message to Dr. Gross for his employer, he said, and when he left he noticed a well-dressed young man seated in the dentist's reception room.

SHOULD WARN PUPILS NOT TO READ CERTAIN BOOKS

HARTFORD, Oct. 28.—(AP)—School children should be warned not to read certain books, President Abram Royer Brubacher, of the New York State College for Teachers told members of the Connecticut State Teachers' association in a talk given as part of the fall convention program at the Hartford public high school this afternoon.

"While the natural reaction to such a warning is an immediate scramble on the part of the students to procure the black-listed volumes, it is better that the average youngster approach the more dubious forms of literature with a forewarning of its nature," he said.

USING AIRPLANES TO SPOT MOONSHINE DISTILLERIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Experiment swith airplanes in spotting moonshine distilleries and in locating rum runners have met with such success that the prohibition bureau is arranging to enlarge its air force.

Five airplanes have been ordered in service in Florida and along the Atlantic coast, and others are expected later to be placed in commission along the Mexican border, Southern California and the Mississippi river.

Advertised Good.

Advertisements are short cuts to finding out truths. The truth about everything you want to buy. The names in advertisements are names of solid reputation. The labels in advertisements are symbols of satisfaction. It pays to read the advertisements for then you know what is good. The products they tell about are being bought, tested constantly. The fact that they are still being advertised is alone proof of their worth.

An easy, frequent glancing over the advertising columns of The Bulletin is better than taking chances and experiencing dissatisfaction. If you know what's advertised, you can buy always what's good. Buying advertised goods cancels risk.

500,000 SOLDIERS ARE NOW ON BATTLE FIELDS IN CHINA

Fighting is in Progress in at Least Six Different War Areas—Never in Recent Years Has China Been in a More Chaotic Condition—A Winter of Suffering and Hardship Appears Inevitable—Harvests Have Been Carried Off by the Soldiers and Thousands of Citizens Are Facing Starvation.

PEKING, Oct. 28—(AP)—Never in recent years has China been in a more chaotic condition than now. Fighting is in progress in at least six different war areas and a widespread winter of suffering and hardship appears inevitable.

The number of independent contending factions appears larger than ever and the only combination enjoying comparative stability apears to be the Manchurian-Ypantung-Chihli alliance, usually known as the northern alliance which has its center in Peking. Here conditions are comparatively serene, although even here artillery and rifle fire is frequently audible from recurring guerilla conflicts to the north and west.

It is authoritatively estimated that 500,000 soldiers are now actually in the field. Disintegration among the soldiery is so marked that it is virtually impossible to indicate any broad political alignment or to mark out the "fronts" accurately.

Momentarily attention centers on the conflict of the former allies at Hankow and Nanking on the Yangtse river, both of whom are claiming local successes.

North of the Yangtse four campaigns are in progress, the most vital being that east of Chengchow Junction in Honan, where the Shantung-Chihli army is proceeding westward and has reached Chungmowhsien after a desperate battle.

Chang Tsung-Chang, the northern general has reported to Peking that the troops of Feng Yu-Hsiang are withdrawing toward Honanfu, the capital of the province and that the early fall of Chengchow may be expected.

Foreign reports here now show that the northern claim to have recaptured Chochow, 40 miles southwest of Peking were premature.

Three thousand Shansi troops, besieged for the past two weeks in Chochow, where they were caught in their first rush on Peking, have ben holding out fiercely despite northern artillery fire which already has battered down two gates of its 12 century old walls.

The Chochow siege is a striking combination of modern and mediaeval warfare and the ancient walls have proved unexpectedly strong against modern artillery fire. The defenders, dug in modern trenches on top of the great walls have been successful in repelling troops seeking to scale them.

The besiegers are using airplanes both for dropping bombs and propaganda. It appears that a portion of the northern forces succeeded in entering the city by breaks in the wall, engaging in street fighting, but the Shansi defenders are still holding on.

Using Chentow as a base the northerners have been conducting air raids on Tayuanfu, the capital of Shansi, claiming successes almost daily.

The northerners also are driving westward from Kalgan, but the outcome of this apears doubtful.

North China is in the grip of its first cold weather which is making more intense the hardships of the troops. Large areas, especially in Honan have ben reduced to the condition of a desert by the incessant fighting of the past year. Crops have not been planted and where they have the harvests have been carried off by soldiers. Thousands of civilians conseqently are facing starvation and freezing, while other thousands, erstwhile peaceful farmers, have found themselves compelled to join bandit gangs scouring the country-side.

STARTED AND STOPPED AUTO BY WAVE OF HAND

NEW YORK, Oct 28—(AP)—By a wave of his hand over a silvered sphere Charles M. Schwab today started and stopped an automobile at the automobile meeting of the Iron & Steel institute, of which he is the new president.

The seeming miracle was accomplished in connection with an address by S. M. Kinter, manager of the research department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Schwab looked quizzically at the automobile as it started forward then waved his hand once over the globe an stopped at his second wave.

"If only this compass would invent something to raise the price of steel," he said.

The tube was connected to the inner surface of the sphere and an electrical current impressed upon the elements of the tube.

When a voltage of about 400 is impressed between the anode and the cathode of the tube, Kinter explained and the grid in the tube left disconnected no curent passes through it, as the grid accumulates a charge from some of the free electrons and blocks operation of the tube.

Schwab's hand, coming close to the sphere but not touching it acted as a small condenser, which discharged the grid, permitting current to pass through the tube and operate a relay, which in turn closed a switch, controlling the automobile.

HUMAN CHAIN SAVED WOMAN FROM DROWNING

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 28—(AP)—Forming a human chain, two women and a man tonight saved Mrs. Blanche Race, 58, of Detroit, Mich., from going over the falls near the American shore.

The woman was taken from the water about 150 feet above the cataract.

The rescuers were Dan Vandergriff of Peoria, Ills., his wife and his wife's sister, Mrs. W. J. Taylor, of Cleveland.

Vandergriff said he was standing near Prospect point watching the illumination when he heard a scream, upstream toward Goat Island bridge, he saw a woman floating in the rapids, a short distance from shore. He ran down the incline, and waded out into the water.

Calling upon his wife and her sister, who had followed him down to the river bank, they joined hands and were able to grasp the woman's dress and drag her ashore.

In Buffalo, a niece of the woman said she had received today a telegram dated Niagara Falls, unsigned and reading:

"Your aunt, Mrs. Blanche Race, was drowned in the river near Goat Island bridge today."

JURY DISAGREED IN FLOGGING CASE

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 28—(AP)—The jury in the trial of Harry Conner, a former city detective, charged with violating the state anti-mask law in connection with the flogging of Morris Strauss, a merchant, on the night of July 8, was discharged today after reporting it was unable to reach a verdict.

The first and last ballot of the jury showed it was divided seven to five for acquittal.

Strauss, who was lured from his home and taken to the country and whipped, identified Conner as one of his assailants.

J. H. FARRELL TO SUCCEED GARY ON U. S. STEEL BOARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Speculation regarding the successor of Elbert H. Gary as chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation was freely indulged in at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel institute today.

Many members of the institute openly congratulated James H. Farrell, president of the Steel corporation upon his epected elevation, but Mr. Farrell smiled and that was all.

STATE CENSUS HEARING AT ALBANY HAS CLOSED

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 28—(AP)—The investigation of the administration of the state census of 1925 was brought to a sudden end today.

At the conclusion of the examination of John I. Joyce, the clerk in the office of the state comptroller who had charge of auditing payrolls, Randall J. Leboeuf, Jr., Moreland act commissioner appointed by Governor Smith, announced:

"This concludes the public hearings in my investigation of the department of state relating to the state enumeration, unless I find that there is other testimony which would assist me, or unless Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp desire to avail herself of the opportunity which I have afforded her of giving such testimony as she can relating to the state enumeration."

Mrs. Knapp, at Syracuse today, announced she had sent a letter to Mr. Lebouef saying that she was willing to appear before him on Nov. 9 and waive immunity from criminal prosecution, on condition that she might have the protection of her attorney while she was a witness.

REGULATED AREAS ON ACCOUNT OF JAP. BEETLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Two counties in New York and parts of ten counties in Pennsylvania and one in Connecticut, were designated by the agriculture department today as "regulated areas," effective Nov. 1, on account of the Japanese beetle. An eradication experiment during the present dormant period of the insect will be conducted at certain other points bordering on the restricted zone and if its failure is indicated by the reappearance of beetles in June, provision has been made for the immediate extension of the federal quarantine to those points.

The regulated territory in Connecticut will be the towns of Bridgeport, Darien, Easton, Fairfield, Greenwich, New Canaan, Norwalk, Shelton, Stamford, Stratford, Trumbull, Weston, Westport and Wilton, in Fairfield county.

In New York they will be counties of Nashua, Rockland and Suffolk, in addition to New York city, 18 townships and portions of two others.

SEIZURE OF BRITISH RUM-LADEN SCHOONER

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—The two-masted schooner Marion Phyllis, of British registry, out of Halifax for New York, was brought to the U. S. Base office today with seven prisoners and 1,500 cases of alleged liquor valued by customs authocities at $100,000.

The vessel was seized yesterday by the Coast Guard patrol boat Travis about seven and a half miles off Amagansett, L. I. The prisoners were taken immediately to Brooklyn for arraignment before a United States commissioner.

Capt. Richard Jones, master of the schooner, was one of the prisoners. Although his papers showed he had sailed from Halifax, federal officials were inclined to doubt their authenticity because of a recent ruling that all ships clearing from that port must post a bond of twice the value of liquor carried.

BOOTLEGGERS FLED WHEN THEIR HOUSE TOOK FIRE

WEST HAVEN, Oct. 28—(AP)—Spooks with anti-Volstead notions were forced from their haunt here tonight when fire completely destroyed an alleged "haunted house."

Evidence that the fire was started from a still in the basement led people to think that the spooks were "scofflaws."

The fire which chased the bootlegger spooks from their "haunt" completely destroyed the two story house which for the past ten years has been the town's "haunted house." The house is on Howard street and no longer will it be pointed out in whispered tones by children with prideful awe.

The fire lasted about two hours, the West Haven fire department being called to the scene. No one knew who the owner of the house was.

SADLON CHANGES HIS PLEA TO NOT GUILTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 28—John Sadlon of 399 Seventy Fifth street, New York city, who made an agreement in the Windham county superior court three weeks ago that if given time to arrange his business affairs in New York he would plead guilty today to a charge of attempting to defraud an insurance company by committing arson, gave notice at today's session that he now plans to fight the charge. Sadlon's sudden change of mind came as a surprise to the court officials in view of his recent agreement and it may have something to do with the withdrawal of Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam from the case. In addition to Attorney Miron, the accused had retained Attorney William Mika of Bridgeport as counsel. Sadlon, speaking English with difficulty was asked by Judge Marvin to give some reason for this new attitude but the accused failed to give a comprehensive answer. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford pointed out that the jury that was to have heard Sadlon's case had been excused after his agreement to plead guilty three weeks ago. Judge Marvin set the date for trial by jury for Tuesday, November 22 and gave Sadlon strict orders to be present at court. According to the charge Sadlon set fire to a house owned by him in Ashford with the intention of collecting the fire insurance on the building. The house was saved from destruction by neighbors. Sadlon fought extradition from New York.

Court opened today with a short calendar session with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. Assignments were made of cases to court for the weeks of November 8 and 15 and several cases on the short calendar were disposed of. At the conclusion of this business the criminal session was opened for the intended purpose of imposing sentence in the Sadlon case.

Assignments made to court were as follows: Tuesday, November 8: first, Joseph E. Benoit vs. Octavie Langevin; second, Catherine Macfarlane vs. A. W. Byrne & Son; third, Burton D. Bosworth vs. Rollo Kelton, administrator; fourth, Arthur Bergren vs. Walter Howlett and Madeline Howlett; Wednesday, November 9, first, Salvatore Foti vs. First Society of Spiritualists; second, Clarence Larmee, et al vs. Walter Andrychowski; third, Windham Lumber company vs. George Rood, D. A.; fourth and fifth, Solomon Chuss vs. Lena Kozin, P. A. and Solomon Chuss vs. Fred Kozin, D. A.; Thursday, November 10, Laura H. Wyman vs. Samuel Hall and Community Hotel corporation vs. John T. Ashton; Thursday, November 15, following short calendar, Mildred C. Rathbun vs. William J. Rathbun and Ernest Paquin vs. Joseph Paquin.

A recount of the votes cast in the Killingly town election on October 3rd for the office of first selectman was asked of the court by Attorney E. W. Perkins of Norwich representing the democratic candidate, Alcott D. Sayles. The allegation of Mr. Sayles is that he received 758 votes cast for first selectman against 684 votes received by his republican opponent, John A. Gilbert, who was declared elected. Sayles claims that 271 of the votes cast for him were unlawfully rejected. Attorney Darble representing Gilbert did not oppose the petition and Judge Marvin issued an order of process for Gilbert to appear before the court on Tuesday, November 8 at 10 a. m., to show cause if any, why the petition should not be granted.

The case of F. Ward Rosebrooks of this city, charged with manslaughter, will be heard by the court on Wednesday, November 16, by agreement between State's Attorney Bradford and Attorney King, representing the defendant.

Information of the sales of parcels of property of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company on dates of October 7, 17, 24 and 28, as per order from the court at a previous session, was made by counsel for the receivers of the concern.

The court ordered that 25 be paid the defendant's counsel within two weeks and a similar sum before the case comes to trial, in the divorce action of Howard R. Bullard of Killingly vs. Clara G. Bullard. In the case of Ralph J. Sabin of Plainfield vs. Joseph Potter, judgment was rendered for $1,001.42, for a long standing note due the plaintiff. Judgment for the plaintiff to receive the amount of the mortgage $3,500 with interest of $116—36 was rendered in the foreclosure suit of Lydia A. Card vs. Samuel R. Vergason. The limitation of time for redemption was placed as December 31.

James B. Fullerton, representative plaintiff in the case of J. B. Fullerton & Company vs. Hester M. Rowsell, was awarded judgment on a note of $125 with interest of $8.33. An accounting was given by Daniel P. McCarthy, representing the plaintiff in the case of the estate of Maurice Welch et al vs. Hester M. Rowsell, a suit on a mechanic's lien. Mr. McCarthy stated that the original bill was for $1,170.33 on which $374.91 had been paid, leaving a balance of $799.42 plus the interest of $87.47, a total of $887.89. The court gave judgment to recover the full amount. Samuel H. Harvey appeared for other creditors of Mrs. Hester M. Rowsell but was not prepared to give the amounts alleged to be due. The court appointed C. E. Macfarlane to have charge of the sale of the defendant's property unless redemption was made within a specified time. Philip S. Hills, M. Eugene Lincoln and Charles W. Tryon were appointed appraisers. A continuance was granted in the case of R. G. Stanington vs. Christopher Mannick and the Danielson Trust company vs. George F. Davignon, et ux, the attorneys explaining that there was a likelihood of a settlement in these cases.

The court then took up two uncontested divorce cases. Agnest B. Valleau of Windham was granted a decree of divorce on the grounds of desertion, from Charles L. Valleau. They were married on March 23, 1924. The groom was a member of the marine corps and lived with his wife but two weeks after which he went away and failed to return. Witnesses from South Windham testified to the time of marriage and to the good character of the plaintiff.

Elton Nolan of Killingly was granted a divorce from his wife on the grounds of desertion. Shortly after their marriage in New York city several years ago, the plaintiff said that his wife left him. With the disposition of this case court adjourned until Tuesday morning, November 8, at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Marie Harbec, 37, wife of Stanislas Harbec of 174 Pleasant street, died after a brief illness in St. Joseph's hospital this morning. The deceased was born in Taftville, October 10, 1890, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Prive Bouleveri. In addition to her husband and parents she leaves four children, Joseph, Beltine, Leo and an infant daughter one week old. She is also survived by five sisters, Mrs. Philomene Casavant of Baltic, Mrs. Delia Beaucart of New Haven, Mrs. Anna Larson of Norwich, Mrs. Lucie Mateau of this city and Mrs. Lillian Molleur of Taftville; two brothers, Andre Boisvert of Peacedale, R. I., and Paul Boisvert of this city. The deceased was a devoted mother and possessed of a kindly and generous disposition which made her dear to a large circle of friends. She had resided in this city for about 14 year and was formerly employed at the Rossie Velvet company plant. She was a member of Conseil St. Cecile No. 113, F. d'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique and of St. Mary's church.

SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS VOTED AT MEETTING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 28.—Refusing to allow transfers in city appropriations at a special city meeting tonight the electors voted special appropriations to carry on the business for the remainder of the fiscal year. Three thousand dollars was voted for the street department, $1000 to the fire department and $2,500 for contingent expenses. Corporation Counsel William A. King explained that the two departments would practically have to close down unless additional money was appropriated. The original method of securing the money presented to the meeting was to transfer about $8000 of unexpended money from a permanent street construction appropriation to the use of the departments mentioned. The electors did stand for one transferance of $1000 from the fire department to the police department. The amount asked for the street department was $5000. This was cut down to $3,000 on motion of M. E. Lincoln. Robert O. Snow was another speaker, disfavoring the transfer proposition, Mayor John C. Tracey presided at the meeting and the warning was read by Acting City Clerk Miss Hilda Berard. About 250 voters were present.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered at the home of Mrs. William J. Sweeney Thursday evening by Miss Alice Sweeney and her sister, Mrs. Fred Little, in honor of Miss Eleanor B. Moriarty, daughter of Mrs. Michael Moriarty, who is to be united in marriage Thanksgiving day to Gerard E. Loisell. The decorative scheme carried out a pretty Halloween effect and the many beautiful gifts were placed in a large "pumpkin." Tasty refreshments were served on a table made festive with orange and black and illuminated with candles. Those present were: The Misses Eleanor B. Moriarty, Rose Moreau, Leda Caisse, Helen Loisell, Eraine Neufer, Mae Moriarty, Margaret Fay, Florence Hevrin, Helen Sweeney, Mae Sweeney and Alice Sweeney; Mrs. Michael Moriarty, Mrs. William J. Sweeney, Mrs. Ralph J. Lussier, Mrs. William Harmon, Mrs. Thomas H. Killourey, Mrs. Thomas J. Little, Mrs. William B. Sweeney, Mrs. Fred Little, Mrs. Helen Worden, Mrs. John McDonough, Mrs. L. Vincent Sweeney and Mrs. Daniel A. Shea of Providence, R. I.

The first annual dance of Willimantic lodge, No. 1082, Independent Order of B'nai Brith, was successfully held at the town hall Thursday evening with over 100 couples in attendance. The local lodge was organized in April as a member of the world wide organization. The arrangements committee for the dance was composed of Carl Israel, chairman, Hyman Chasen, Harry Rosen, Harry Kaufman, Harold A. Kinstler and Louis Rabinowitz.

Honor J. Fenton gave an interesting talk on The Waning Power of the States as Compared to the Increase of Power of the United States at a meeting of the Congregational church brotherhood held in the church house Thursday night.

Dinner was served by the Ladies' society under direction of Mrs. C. A. Taintor.

Frank P. Potter has been chosen president and Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, secretary of the Columbia town school committee. The board is considering a petition of the Hebrew association of Columbia and vicinity that a night school be established in the town for adults.

Leaving no "choice" for his many supporters, T. Frank Cunningham stated today that he would not accept a candidacy for the mayoralty in the December elections. His name has been linked with the list of prospective candidates on the democratic party. Mr. Cunningham was a candidate two years ago and failed of election by a very small minority.

George Alexander Orrok, Jr., of Scotland, graduate of Windham high school and now a senior at Harvard has been elected to Tau Beta Pi, the honorary society of the engineering school and which serves the same function as does Phi Beta Kappa in the college. Mr. Orrok prepared at the Pomfret school.

Waldo Bass, Mason Lincoln, Ralph U. Wolmer, Jr., Francis Turney and Frank Sanderson of this city, led by Edwin Hill of Norwich, left today to attend the three-day session of the older boys' conference in New Haven. They will attend the Yale-Dartmouth football game Saturday. Transportation was furnished by Samuel Chesbro and Harold C. Lincoln.

Dandelion blossoms, bluets, wild strawberry and buttercups in full blossom and a few yellow and white daisies are some of the rarities being picked at this time of the year by Miss L. H. Tucker of Pleasant View, Scotland.

Spending the day at the Latham cottage at Pleasure beach today were the families of Kenneth N. Hillhouse, Raymond A. Park, Mrs. George F. Taylor, Mrs. E. B. Latham and the latter's guest, Miss Frances Palmer of Canterbury.

Several sessions of the teacher's conference were held today in various cities including one at the Normal school here. Because of the conference all of the public schools of the town were closed.

DANIELSON

ONE IN HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 28—Augustin Pechie, owner of a little store at East Killingly, was taken to the Day Kimball hospital, Putnam, this afternoon, apparently badly injured after he had been hurled through the windshield of the Ford truck he was driving when it was in a crash with a Cadillac touring car at Dayville Four Corners, scene of a number of serious accidents within the past few months. Clifford W. Barnes, Westerly, R. I., R. F. D. 4, owner and driver of the Cadillac, and Thomas Henderson, Jr., who was riding with him, Mr. Henderson of Westerly, R. F. D. 1, were no more than slightly injured in the accident. The light touring car appears to be a total wreck and a complete loss, while the Cadillac had its front bumper torn off, one headlight damaged, the left side running board and front fender crumpled up and the hood and cowl dented.

Pechie was coming west down the highway from Elmville to Dayville, where he was bound, while the Barnes car was south-bound on the Putnam-Danielson state highway. At the four corners crossover a crash of the machines was imminent and occurred as both drivers swung out to avoid a collision. After they struck they headed up an embankment of the Berriman property. Pechie, thrown the windshield, was picked up lying on the grass in front of and partly under his truck.

Dr. F. P. Todd was summoned from Danielson to give him attention and after looking him over ordered the ambulance to take him to the hospital. Meanwhile Rev. Ignatius Kost, pastor of St. Joseph's church at Dayville, also came to give him spiritual attention. Early this evening it was stated that Mr. Pechie's injuries are not regarded as so severe as appeared at first, and that his recovery is to be anticipated.

Today the Vocational Agricultural club of Killingly high school opened a fair, which is continuing through Saturday, in the department rooms of the high school building. Here is a display of vegetables and fruit produced by the club members that is well worth the attention of every citizen of the town who is interested in what the schools are doing, particularly along the lines that are regarded as highly practical. There are 66 entries in the poultry division, including some turkeys, and 146 entries of vegetables and fruit. The show is well worth while and of surpassing credit to the young people who have made it possible. The exhibits are to be judged for awards Saturday evening, following the close of the fair, the club is to hold its second annual banquet. Walter G. Bruce, head of the Agricultural club at the school is to be toastmaster. The speakers are to include Prof. C. B. Gentry of Connecticut Agricultural college, Supt. W. E. Parker, Principal Ernest R. Warren, President Clark Wood of the club and others.

Admission to the fair is free. It is being held as a demonstration that the boys in the course being featured are doing real work and preparing themselves for real places in life.

Albert Sharpe, Boston, driver of an overloaded truck, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court to answer to the charge and was fined $50. Because he did not have a Connecticut operator's license Sharpe was fined an additional dollar on a second count. With costs, he paid $61.37. The truck Sharpe was driving had about three tons overload.

Wilson H. Lee, owner of Fairlee farms, New Haven, and a member of the New England council, is to be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association. Mr. Lee ale always has taken an active interest in the industrial and agricultural welfare of Connecticut and New England. He is a member of the Connecticut state committee of the New England council, and holds many other positions that stamp him as an active and successful worker for the general welfare of industrial and agricultural interests. The County Farmers' association regards itself as fortunate in having obtained Mr. Lee for its speaker.

One of the few civil suits heard in the Killingly town court came before Judge W. Fenner Woodward at a session yesterday, that of Ray Shippee, a minor resident in East Killingly, vs. Bruno Brovikk et ux of New Britain. Shippee brought suit to recover for damages to his machine as the result of a collision in the town of Eastford, near Pulpit Rock, August 6, this year, with the Brovikk machine. As is more often than not the case in such affairs, each driver held that the other was to blame for the accident, which happened at about 10:40 p. m. Judge Woodward found in favor of Mr. Shippee, the verdict being that he recover $170 in costs, a total of $189.65. Mr. Brovikk was represented by Attorney Harry Ginsburg of New Britain, while Attorney Harry E. Back was counsel for Mr. Shippee.

When the Danielson chamber of commerce holds its November meeting next Tuesday evening it will, among other things, discuss the matter of having the name of the borough painted on the roof of the state armory, for the benefit of aviators. Permission to place such marking on state armories in Connecticut has been given by Colonel H. B. Bissell, armory board inspector in a communication to Capt. F. D. Armington, commanding the Service battery stationed here. Colonel Bissell recommends that the lettering, if placed, should be ten feet in height and of twelve-inch stroke, white lettering to be on a black background. Progressive towns in many sections of the country have such signs painted on the roofs of buildings, and the plan is generally regarded as good advertising.

Rev. Godfrey Malbone Brinely, whose colonial ancestors shared largely in the development and maintenance of Old Trinity church, Church street, Brooklyn, will conduct the All Saints day service at the ancient edifice next Tuesday. The service is to be at 11 a. m. The offering taken at this service is to be given to St. Andrew's cathedral fund, Scotland. Rev. Leonard R. Richards, rector of St. Alban's, points out that old Trinity is intensely bound up with the traditions of St. Andrew's, owing to the fact that the first rector of Old Trinity was one of the electors of Samuel Seabury, who was made bishop by Bishop Skinner, Bishop Kilgour and Bishop Petrie in the home of the bishop of St. Andrew's, Aberdeen.

Business men will tell you that the remarkably fine and mild October weather is not good for trade, in fact, that it is hurting it greviously. At this time last year, with crisp, seasonable weather, fall stocks of goods were moving rapidly. These late October days, with the temperature flirting with the summer heat levels day after day, things are different. Overcoats, fall suits, fall coats, heavy underwear, in men's lines and winter garments in ladies' lines are not moving with any great rapidity.

Under the direction of Supt. George B. Guild, tests of hydrants in various sections of the borough were made today by employes of the Crystal Water company. A length of hose was attached to tested hydrants and the water turned on and allowed to run for a time to test the working conditions.

You still have until November 5th in which to deposit in the savings department of the Windham County National bank in order to take advantage of the 5 per cent. dividend payable December 1st.—Adv.

W. Irving Bullard, who has important business interests here, has been elected a member of the board of directors of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, which has been in annual session in Boston this week.

The body of Mrs. Diantha C. Northrop, 79, widow of Edwin D. Northrop, was buried in Westfield cemetery. Mrs. Northrop died at Colebrook, N. H. Mrs. Northrop at one time was a resident of Goodyear.

Numbers from the Westfield Congregational church here will join in a Hallowe'en party at the Congregational church in South Killingly Monday evening.

Danielson members of the Quinebaug Circuit league were at Moosup this evening to attend a meeting of the organization—one of the institute meetings—at the Methodist Episcopal church.

Of interest as indicating the extent of the business it is announced that 94,054 pairs of curtains were produced at the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander last week, this breaking all production records for a like period of time.

Harold Edmondson has returned from a three months' visit with relatives and friends in England, and is working at Attawaugan.

Victor Perreault, now proprietor of a hotel at Oxford, Mass., was a visitor in Danielson today.

Mrs. George Miner of Main street will have the members of the Ladies' Prayer league at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. John Barber will be the leader.

The week end string of cars bound for the Yale-Dartmouth football game at New Haven Saturday began to roll through Danielson from Rhode Island and Massachusetts points this afternoon.

Members of the Sewing society of St. Alban's church held a meeting at the parish house this afternoon.

Fred Beck, the new owner, is making extensive improvements to the Morten property in Brooklyn.

Members of McGregor post, G. A. R., and members of A. G. Warner corps, W. R. C., of Putnam have been invited to be present at the inspection of McGregor, W. R. C., next Wednesday evening.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HOLD HALLOWEEN DANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 28.—The Halloween dance given last night by the members of the Junior class of the Putnam high school was a success in every way. The auditorium of the high school was crowded to capacity. The greater part of the dancers were in costume but masks were not permitted. The nine piece orchestra from the Miami ball room furnished the music under the direct supervision of Jack Gallagher and proved to be all that could be desired for dance music.

The hall was decorated tastefully in the regulation Halloween colors of yellow and black. The following committees of the class had charge of the arrangements: Business Manager, Arthur Bove; assistants, Miss Abne McDonnel, John F. Ash, Raymond Brousseau; decorating committee, Neomie Daigle, Doris Smith, Raymond Brousseau; refreshments, Dorothy Woodis, Hazel Ames, Charles Bove; orchestra, Augustus Wilson, Willia, Shann and Doris Smith.

The dancing began at eight and continued until twelve. Miss Rachel Huribut was awarded the prize for having the best costume.

MISS MILOT RESIGNS AS HOSPITAL SUPERINTENDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 28.—Miss Olive Milot, who has been superintendent of the Grosvenordale hospital at North Grosvenordale ever since the founding of it, has handed in her resignation to take effect November 1. Miss Milot was born in Putnam and has lived in this community all of her life but will leave soon for the west. On Thursday evening a farewell party was given for her at the home of Mrs. John Duffy on Providence street. It was in the nature of a surprise. There were several tables of whist in play and refreshments of fancy cakes, ice cream and coffee were served. Mrs. Victor Chapdelaine was awarded the first prize, Mrs. Henry Tetreault, the second and the consolation prize by Mrs. Arthur Maynard. The ladies present were: Mrs. Wilfred Maynard, Mrs. Arthur Maynard, Mrs. Louis Beauregard, Mrs. Stett Macdonald, Mrs. Fred Gagnon, Mrs. Henry Tetreault, Mrs. Fred Mathieu, Miss Agnes Mathieu, Mrs. Agnes Renshaw, Mrs. Victor Chapdelaine, Mrs. Henry Benoit, Mrs. John Duffy, Miss Mary McAvoy, Miss Olive Milot, Mrs. Berenice Delaney.

William Leon Robbins, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben L. Robbins of Abington died at his home on Tuesday. Burial was yesterday in the Abington cemetery. Death was due to infantile paralysis, one of the few cases that have been reported in this vicinity.

The Garde Jeanne D'Arc, Captain Miss Estelle Beaudreault and Garde Foche with Adrian Breault as captain have again returned from a competitive drill as winners. This time the contest was held at New Britain and some of the best drilled grades in New England were in it. Garde Jeanne D'Arc were awarded the second prize in competition with the gardes from North Grosvenordale, Webster, Worcester, Taunton and Fall River. The young ladies of Putnam, although organized but a year are now recognized as one of the best drilled gardes in New England.

Garde Foch, carried away the first prize in the contest with New Bedford, North Grosvenordale, Worcester, Webster, Fall River and Taunton.

At the regular weekly service of the Second Congregational church last night, instead of the usual service there was a stereoptican lecture entitled "The Story of Religious Adventure." The character and extent of the work of the Congregational churches in this country was illustrated.

The Ladies Social Circle of the Second Congregational church are planning to serve a special pancake and sausage supper at the church sometime in December.

The evening services of the Second Congregational church will be resumed on Sunday, November 6, with a service of communion. Through the winter there will be a series of friendly evenings similar to those that proved so popular during the past winter.

M. H. Geissler, secretary of the Putnam Building and Loan association, has been mailing notices to the holders in the first series of shares that these shares will mature on the second day of April and at that time each one will be worth $201.75, at maturity, each holder has the option of receiving his money in cash or the shares can be transferred for a matured or fully paid certificate bearing five per cent. interest. Each share holder is requested to make his choice as quickly as possible, that there may be no delay in the settlement of obligations.

The Ladies of St. Philips Episcopal church served a roast pork supper in the Guild room at the church last night from 5.30. As usual there was a large attendance.

A card of transfer has been given Mrs. J. Dyer Potter to the Elizabeth Porter Putnam Chapter, D. A. R., of Putnam from the Sarah Williams Danielson chapter of Danielson.

The final papers have not been signed by which the Central block, owned by the Pearson estate is to be transferred to Charles Seder, although it is understood that a contract for sale has been signed.

All of the ladies of St. Philips church are most cordially invited to a meeting of Mrs. C. Russell Bowen on Grove street on Thursday, November 3, from 11 a. m. to 4.30 in the afternoon. Ladies attending in the morning are asked to take a box lunch with them.

CHAPLIN

The Chaplin Ladies' Aid society furnished the supper for the annual gathering and business meeting of the Natchaug Game club, at the Congregational church vestry, Wednesday. The vestry was made very attractive with the decorations and the supper was under the direction of Mrs. Charles Perry. Between 40 and 50 members of the game club and guests sat down to a fine spread. Rev. John H. Knott invoked the divine blessing. At the business meeting of the club following the supper a rising vote of thanks was given the Ladies' Aid society for the tempting meal which all had enjoyed. The Game club members, who paid for the supper liberally, also voted $25 to the Chaplin church. A. M. Grant, the treasurer thanked the club on behalf of the church for the gift. The Game club elected officers for the year. President, William P. Jordan and secretary and treasurer, George M. Graves were reelected. The board of directors also was re-elected—Frank S. The marvelous NEW EASY WASHER

THE new Easy Washer is the most amazing machine ever invented to wash clothes. It has two tubs but no wringer. The small tub dries one batch of clothes while the large tub washes another batch. No need to postone your washing for a clear day, because the Easy will dry clothes ready for immediate ironing. No water to handle; no water wasted. The precious soap suds are returned to the wash tub; the rinse and blue water go back into the stationary rinse and bluing tubs. The Easy even empties itself when you are all through. Does twice the work in half the time of ordinary washers. Phone today for a free demonstration and get your week's washing done without cost or obligation.

THE MAGRUDER CASE

More will be known about the case of Admiral Magruder before it is ended. He has gone into public print for the venting of his views about a more efficient navy. He has indulged in criticism which may or may not be justified and he has been relieved of his command at Philadelphia and ordered to Washington, not as a punitive but as an administrative act.

Perhaps he is going to be put to work on a plan for the establishment of this efficiency which he writes about as lacking. It is maintained that he has done nothing that violates the rules of the navy, but it doesn't appear that he has utilized the channels which are provided for such purposes of setting forth his ideas to naval authorities. He has belched forth to the world naval weaknesses, particularly in regard to alleged waste, instead of submitting his views to the consideration of the navy department first. Instead of engaging in team work he has taken the position of a grandstand player.

Admiral Magruder has an important membership in a very vital branch of the government. It doesn't appear but what our navy has given a pretty good account of itself whenever called upon to take care of the nation's interests. As in any large and complicated organization it is entirely possible for certain individuals to be impressed by changes which they believe advisable. The proper attitude under such circumstances is not to run out and tell the world but to confer with superiors and by putting the cards on the table determine whether such is actually so or whether there are the best of reasons for the course that is being followed.

In other words it is a very easy matter to misrepresent and to be swayed by conditions which are not so. Admiral Magruder sets himself up against the navy department. Because he has the disposition to take such an attitude establishes no proof of a one sided statement. He manifests surprise at the action that has been taken in his case, but it is in fact no more than he should have expected. He made the bed in which he finds himself, whether he is to be made an efficiency man or to be disciplined.

TRIPPED THE PROFESSOR

Many a professor has encountered the student who takes exception to statements that are made in the class room, but not everyone experiences the publicity which has been attached to the statement made by Professor Steever at Lafayette college and doubted by Roland S. Finley, a student.

Professor Steever told his class in economics that unemployment in the United States was a serious indictment of our social organization and that it was hard even for a man willing to work to get a job. Some in that class apparently swallowed the statement without a quibble. Not so with Finley. He didn't believe it and was certain that he could get a job in any nearby city in 24 hours. The wager made in the classroom included expenses and a good cigar.

Finley disappeared, went to New York, made three tries and on the third landed a job at which he worked all day. He was to get 37 cents an hour making loud speakers but didn't turn in his time card as he wanted that as evidence that he had actually got his job. He returned to collect, collected his expenses and a good cigar and presented proof that the professor was wrong.

Probably all members of his class are not Finleys. Evidently Professor Steever is not, but he has gone through the experience of having it shown that all the broad statements made by professors will not hold water. Finley has indicated that he is an observant young man, that he believes there is an opportunity for those who are sincere in their claim that they want a job and are willing to work, and he has tested it out. He has shown that he is not willing to accept all the ideas that are poured out to him without subjecting them to practical proof.

It has always been said that where there' sa will there's a way. Finley had the will and he found the way to employment. He was out for work, not merely a job that should pay well and avoid the soiling of his hands, and he got it. He also tripped the professor, showed that much unemployment is what we make it, and unless we are greatly mistaken he is due to make his mark in the world.

CUTTING FIRE LOSS

The constant dropping of water will make a hole in solid rock, if continued long enough. By persistently advocating certain worthy causes those upon whom it is desired to make an impression are finally reached.

According to reports which have recently been made the forest fires in the states of the northwest are practically over for this season and the damage is smaller than for many years. It will not be long now before the same season in all regions where there have been fewer fires and less serious ones.

It is always difficult to compare the forest fires of one year with those of another as to cause, but there cannot fail to be full realization of the fact that tremendous, preventible losses are sustained every year. In the woodlands quite the same as in the cities some fires are inevitable and the great aim is to restrict fires to the inevitable class. This calls for slight effort on the part of many but it is worth while, and there cannot fail to be the feeling every time there is a drop in the losses from forest fires that the prevention work is getting in some actual accomplishments. There has been a continuous sending home of the need of care on the part of those going through the forest lands, whether this is on hunting or fishing trips or driving by auto along the highways. In either case the person discarding a firebrand in one form or another may be unconsciously applying a torch and starting a fire that may result in large losses and some lives before it is checked. It has been done so often that there is real reason for the exercise of constant care.

It cannot fail to be gratifying when forest fire losses are found to be on the decrease. It indicates greater heed to the appeal, and it also reflects the benefit of increased facilities for the fighting of such fires. Every decrease in the losses means a real accomplishment.

ANOTHER TAX PLAN

Now is the time for all good men to come forward with their views in regard to federal tax cutting. There's no question but what action is going to be taken at the coming session of congress and it is well to get thought directed at the various ideas before the time for action actually arrives.

Some tax cutting plans have been advanced and others may be expected. The latest suggestion comes from Congressman Bacharach who puts forth the idea that while congress is about it it should give consideration to the advisability of changing the exemption which now exists for each child in the family up to the age of 18.

He calls attention to the fact that the expense of education does not stop at that period in every child's life. In fact that is about the time when it is certain to increase, and, according to his view, the exemption of $400 ought to apply during the whole period of their higher education.

Here is a matter of tax cutting which may well come in for attention. It might not make much difference to some but there are many to whom it would mean a great deal, and when it is realized that such a change in the revenue law would involve only about $6,000,000 a year it will be certain to raise less objection.

In the changing of the revnue law the schemes will range from the sublime to the ridiculous, from the wise to the reckless, but it will only be through the sifting out of the sound and sensible propositions, with a careful eye to the avoidance of a deficit, that the right kind of tax reduction will be accomplished.

NO TARIFF WAR

The idea of a tariff war between this country and France was out of the question. There was nothing for France to gain by such a course for in the long run it was inevitable that it would prove of greater harm to France than good. This country is in a position to stand any such fight much better than France is. It was an unwise move in the first place, but through the exchange of notes there has been much needed light thrown upon the situation and the announcement from Paris that all danger of a tariff war is off indicates that good common sense has been brought into use.

Under the agreement which has been reached, France is to restore the favorable rates which existed before the unexpected announcement of a boost and there will be negotiations started for a commercial agreement between the countries just as if there had been no passage of notes and as if they were started before France announced a raise in duties.

In the case of European countries arrangements in regard to tariffs are made with each of the others on the best possible terms. With this country it is a case of establishing the duty on certain goods and expecting all countries to pay the same amount. The negotiation of a commercial treaty with France should meet the situation although it is a matter for congress to decide as to whether there will be a lowering of duties on such goods as would be pleasing to France. It cannot help being felt, however, that France was wise in avoiding a tariff war.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In a small religious journal recently appeared the following statement: "God will not look you over for medals, degrees and diplomas, but for scars." "Now that sounds like a very wise saying, doesn't it?" It has most decidedly the twang of the heroic about it. But before we swallow it at a single gulp, it will be well to look at it a bit closely for just a moment. Can it be that the author wishes to convey the thought that the possession of "medals, degress and diplomas" are dishonorable in God's eyes, and that "scars" are indicative of real worth? As a general thing do not "medals, degrees and diplomas" stand for achievement, victory and scholarship? Are they not—generally speaking—the rewards for worthy things said and done? If the Almighty should look over Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey He would find scars. Are they more worthy than the testimony that our boys and girls have worked to get a college education?

In the game of football there are stakes on the sidelines that are moved from time to time as the game advances. The same is true in the bigger game of life. On the sidelines of human history there are placards with the inscription, "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther," which have in fact been constantly moving for the last 6,000 years at least. It was at first thought that this world was flat and stationary, the sun moving around once in 24 hours. In the morning the gates of the east opened to let it come up, and the western gates closed after it had gone down. Copernicus pulled up those stakes and set them further off. From the earliest times man had used the wind to propel their craft, but for the most part he had clung to the shore.

To continue the metaphor, what astonishment followed the spectacular run Columbus made with the nautical football safely tucked under his arm! The sideline stakes with their traditional sign: "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther" never made such a leap forward as they did in 1492. I wonder if conservatives did not call Columbus the "sailing fool!" Men are often called fools for doing things out of the ordinary. I am also thinking what the grave, calm Washington would have said to some enthusiast who predicted that the time was coming when bombs would be dropped from airships on the enemies camp! I think the great general would have said, "Sir, this is sheer madness!" But we know today how far this "Thus far" sign has been pushed along by the marvelous invention of the Wright brothers, and there are others on the sidelines ready for further advancement. Sea and land have been conquered, why not the air?

Tradition and conservatism have said to the searching spirit of man, "Going beyond the limits we set is tempting Providence." But the restless urge which found out that this earth is round, made its circumference navigable, even put flying machines into the air surrounding it, and has made the air itself a medium of bringing the music of the world into our very homes, has thus far responded: "We propose to blaze a new pathway into the great unknown just as far as it is possible—just as far as it is the will of God to open the way!" This is the spirit that has spoken to tuberculosis, small pox, fevers of all sorts, diphtheria, and we believe very soon to cancer, "Thou shalt go no farther; it is God's will that thy deadly career shall end!" As the material universe has in such extraordinary degree submitted to the investigations of man, one can hardly surmise where the end will be.

"There's bound to be tragedy in the life of the man who won't recognize his limitations." Very true, but isn't it quite possible for a man to dwell so long on his limitations that he can't see anything else? Isn't it the extremes we need to avoid? The writer once knew a boy who was very bad (not the only, however) and why not? His mother was everlastingly telling that he was very bad. His father, one of those men who always followed the suit led by his wife, also told him that he was very bad. Brothers and sisters set up the same howl. His school teacher seeing that it was the popular thing to do added her quawk to the general chorus. Of course it took away all effort to be anything but very bad. He realized his limitations to the extent that he went to the very devil. Suppose the current of influence had had an upward trend—if so the lad would have been uplifted. Of course we need to lessen our limitations, but the best way to do it is to think and act constructively.

When we notice the jump in population that some cities make in a certain time, one is inclined to wonder whether the growth is due to established antecedent facts, or is it mere chance that does not admit of rational explanation. We all know that in some sections where business has been adnormally active cities have increased in numbers by leaps and bounds. Detroit in a single decade increased 113.3 per cent. But this, of course surprised nobody because one of the greatest industries in the world is centered there. But I venture to assert that not one person in New England can tell where Hamtramck is. But this place grew from 3,558 in 1910 to 48,615 in 1920, a gain of 1,266 per cent. It has no parallel in the history of the world. Can such a growth as this be healthy? To conservative New England it seems more like a mushroom than an oak.

That was a cute Norwich boy who wrote on the back of the most dilapidated old "flivver" that ever stood up on four tires, these classic words: "I do not choose to run in 1928." The wonder is that the old rheumatic roadster had been able to move a joint since 1908. But it gives force to the old saying that, "You can't tell by the looks of a toad how far he can jump." Some of the very earliest makes of cars are still jumping and rattling at the rate of 25 miles an hour; while others, bright and shiny, as 1926 models ought to be, are now where "the woodbine twineth." Two boys were once sitting on the front seat at a camp meeting. While the preliminary part of the service was going on an elderly man came and sat down by them. He had all the marks of a hayseed; tall, lank and awkward. One of the boys said to the other: "I wonder where he has left his load of hogs." Presently the presiding officer rose and said: "We are highly favored in having with us our distinguished bishop." The lank man took the platform and spoke. Yes, the toad is still with us and many of them can jump.

Plato once said that "The greatest study of mankind is man." That is the reason why biography is so interesting. The rank and file of men, of course, will never have written biographies, but those who have made history are entitled to such honor. On the 12th of October the usual activities were suspended in honor of the most noted of all navigators, Christopher Columbus. It would be almost a crime to let either February 12, or 22 go by unrecognized, and as the years come and go, the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt ought to receive the same honor. It is quite possible to stand too near a fine palace to take in all its beauties, and so it is with Roosevelt. It is the consensus of all intelligent opinion that this man is going to grow colossal with the lapse of time. He will forever stand in the front of great Americans.

FRANCE'S NOTION COUNTER AND AMERICA'S GENERAL STORE

Discussion of French and American tariffs raises two questions of popular interest: What does Uncle Sam buy at France's notion counter, and what does France buy at America's general store?

"Given an unlimited checking account Uncle Sam could find for his masculine use few representative French products in an average large American city," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "But Madam Columbia—what a buying orgy she could have! In one year France does a $157,000,000 business, chiefly with American women.

France Values Woman Buyer

"First, an American woman shopping with an unlimited checking account would pick out Paris gowns of the latest mode, Paris hats and Paris shoes, Paris gloves and Paris handkerchiefs. At the perfumery counter a fragrant fluid that may cost many dollars an ounce, face powder, rouge, lipstick and eyebrow pencil—all the thousand items of the commerce of vanity. At another counter she would purchase a French hand bag and at still another French pearls.

"Check book in hand let her enter a delicatessen. What an armful of French products awaits her there: French peas, French mushrooms, truffles, 'English' walnuts from Bordeaux, creamy Camembert cheese, smooth Gruyere cheese, green veined Roquefort cheese, Brie cheese, Munster cheese from Hautes Vosges, pate de foie gras from Strasbourg or Toulouse, sardines from Brittany, French packed vegetables of all kinds, French syrups, French mineral waters, Vichy and the like (343,000 gallons in one year,) narcissus and lily bulbs for table decoration, and garlic for seasoning from Tours.

"The shopper has not finished. Back at the yard goods department, the ribbon counter, the lace counter, the comb counter, the umbrella counter, and the thread and button counters she could spend and spend, buying the beautiful French creations, articles of the 'luxe' trade, as it is called in France.

Cotton Our Major French Export

"The United States' exports' to France, although double the value of imports, concentrate on a few products. To observe the products concealed behind the dollar sign of statistics it is necessary to visit New Orleans, the ports of Texas, Norfolk, Seattle, Chicago and New York. King Cotton reigns undisputed monarch of the American export trade to France, monopolizing almost one-half the total value which runs to $250,000,000. Texas sends petroleum products in addition to cotton; Montana, much copper; Chicago, wheat, lard and bacon; Seattle, condensed milk; New York, machinery, and Norfolk two dissimilar fuels, coal and tobacco.

"The 124,000 dressmakers of Paris are not, curious to record, France's premier exporters to America. Paris has nothing to do with the republic's leading American dollar catcher, the walnut. While the 'luxe' trade of Paris, apparel, perfumes, cosmetics, and jewelry rolls up the largest collective total, the 'English' walnut, grown in southern France and exported from Bordeaux and Marseille, individually leads the list with a value of $6,193,000 in one recent year. Six other leading exports to the United States, in order of their importance, are perfumery and cosmetics, unstrung pearls, silk wearing apparel, cotton laces, gold and silver threads, bread, fabrics and laces, and leather gloves.

Traded Tobacco for French Dolls

"On the James river and on the York, the daughters of tobacco planters, before the Revolution, waited as impatiently for Paris dolls dressed in the latest fashion as the 1927 girl watches for the latest fashion magazine. Paris' dominance in the realm of western women's fashions has been constant for 600 years. Not only Paris but many towns of France have been consecrated to the manufacture of creations for the adornment of women. Lyons, whence come the beautiful silks for the Paris dressmakers has woven silk since the days of Marco Polo. Saint Etienne has broken countless men's hearts by reeling off year in and year out, to a waiting woman's world, countless yards of silken ribbon. Oyonnax, in the Alps foothills, the comb town of France, sold combs also to Maria de' Medici. Beauvais produces bone buttons, Meru pearl buttons, Pont-a-Mousson paper buttons and so it goes.

"Cargoes that leave Le Havre and Marseille and Bordeaux wharfs today may be better packed in snug boxes, than galleon cargoes of olden days, but their contents are no less worthy of some poet's praise. Beneath the decks trod by tourists homecoming from France, lie pungent crates: 93,000 pounds of geranium oil in one year; 18,917 pounds of attar of roses; 83,580 pounds of thyme, and 136,413 pounds of sweet lavender. Holds of ships from France contained 53,000,000 narcissus and lily bulbs and 41,288 pounds of truffles for the table; 185,000 pounds of licorice from Antioch; vanilla from Reunion; 1,000,000 pounds of willow branches cut from the picturesque trees of France for American baskets; fine china from Limoges, Sevres, and Quimper, and more than a million dollars' worth of ribbons.

Skunk Skins and Lard

"Economically the United States still remains a raw colonial country as far as France is concerned. The United States supplies the raw materials for skilled French craftsmen who sell them back to us as artistic creations. Raw cotton goes from Texas to the looms of France and then as lace and dress goods recrosses the Atlantic ocean to New York. Lard shipped from Chicago to the Riviera is used to extract flower essences for perfumes which later sell on Michigan boulevard. Skunk skins to the value of over a million dollars go to France annually from the United States and return as apparel a la mode.

"Only in the realm of machinery does the United States market with France on the scale of an advanced civilization. To weave American cotton France buys American textile machinery and her dressmakers use American sewing machines. Her clerks write on American typewriters, and her printers work often on American printing presses. Fourteen per cent of France's imports come from the United States. We rank France thirteenth as an export market for American products and eighteenth as merchant of foreign goods sold in the United States."

Sunday Morning Talk

REACHING OUR GOAL

"A man who does not learn from his mistakes," Beecher used to say, "turns the best school master out of his life."

"High hearts are never long without hearing some new call," says Martineau. "Some distant clarion of God, even in their dreams; and soon they are observed to break up the camp of ease," and start out on some fresh march of faithful service. Such never wait till their moral work accumulates and they reward resolution with no rest; they do the good only to see the better, and see the better only to achieve it; they are two meek for transport; too faithful for repose; their action ceaseless aspiration."

When the bee is heading home it goes straighter than an arrow. The Christian too, who is heading for heaven should make a straight line. There is no zigzag in true religion. But how few of us possess it! The bee cannot always see its home but its instinct is true. Ought we not to develop and follow better than we do the religious instincts? We do not always see our way that our faith may be strengthened and that we may be loyal and true. Let us keep our eye on the goal and be true. Let goodness of the Lord lead us to repentance and a better return for his goodness.

My Father's house has many rooms,
And each is fair;
And some are reached through gathered glooms,
By silent stair;
But he keeps house and makes it home,
Whichever way the children come,
Plenty and peace are every where,
His house within;
The rooms are eloquent with prayer,
The songs begin,
And dear hearts filled with love are glad,
Forgetting that they once were sad.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

As Benito Mussolini was the dominating figure in the celebrations held in Italy yesterday in honor of the fifth anniversary of the fascist government, so is Mustapha Kemal Pasha the central figure in the similar celebrations being held in Turkey today to mark the anniversary of the republic. Kemal Pasha has been the president of the Turkish republic since its establishment four years ago. Previously he had been commander-in-chief of the army and president of the grand national assembly. It was as a soldier that he first rose to fame. He was credited with being largely responsible for the defeat of the British at Gallipoli in the World war, and it was under his direction that the Turkish army defeated the Greeks. His was the controlling hand of the Turkish delegation at the Lausanne conferences.

YOUR HEALTH

HOW TO SELECT A DOCTOR

By Edward J. III. M. D., Newark, N. J.
Member Gorgas Memorial

No one is so capable of judging a physician as one of his colleagues. The public has no means of checking his accomplishments, his honesty, and his knowledge.

The doctor selected for the family should have its best interest at heart. Once he has been in the family for a length of time, give him your full confidence. Speak to him of your sorrows and pleasures. This helps him to judge of your mental quality, your character, and physical make up.

But whom shall we select? Do not call the untidy and unwashed man, nor the doctor whose appearance reminds one of the fashion bazaar. Avoid the advertising doctor. Remember that smoking is no disgrace, but the careful and tidy man will not reek with stale smoke as he bends over his patients. The doctor whose breath is filled with the odor of whiskey is not the man for the bedside. Nor is the loud and boisterous one. Neither is the timid and uncertain man. The real good doctor is always a gentleman and a man of cheer. The man who bolsters up his own case by talking disrespectfully of other doctors is not to be selected. Judge the doctor's cheerfulness. Avoid the clown as well as the one who never smiles. The family doctor is always on the job, therefore do not annoy him at untimely hours nor with trivialities. Trust him and seek his advice in all your illnesses. If he wishes further advice, he will freely suggest such as he knows is most capable. Your interest is his interest. To merit full confidence, the doctor must be a student. He should subscribe to a reasonable number of medical periodicals and read them to keep abreast of the advances in his profession. He should belong to the local medical society and attend its scientific meetings.

Do not go to a specialist except with your family doctor's advice and consent. The man who knows something of your whole body and he whose duty it is to look after a particular part must necessarily combine to understand all. If your doctor is a self-respecting man he will see that his bill is sent regularly. If his fees are too high for your purse, tell him beforehand. The amount of the fee is by no means a criterion of his ability. When his bill comes, pay him promptly. Accompany your check with a little note of appreciation. He would not be human if he did not value such a note.

SCIENCE MARVELS AT IT!

A NEW type
DELCO-LIGHT
that marks an epoch in farm electric service

Get the facts about this DELCO-LIGHT achievement without delay. Write, phone or call on me personally for full particulars

IF you think that all farm electric plants are much alike, see the newest achievement of Delco-Light and General Motors. Here is a plant that wins alike the enthusiastic acclaim of scientists, engineers, electrical experts and farm people.

Small Loads from Battery

This new-type plant operates from the battery on small loads. Automatically switches to power for heavier service. Uses small battery—thus costs less. Requires less fuel. Demands practically no attention. It is the result of fifteen years' research by Delco-Light engineers. Approved by General Motors after seven years of grueling field tests.

Other Delco-Light Plants — LOW AS $225

See the new Delco-Light that is now being discussed so widely. Write, phone or call on me today and get the facts. And remember—if this new Plant doesn't exactly fill your needs, there are many other models to choose from, priced as low as $225! Don't wait. Now is the time to act. Do it today.

Peter Loses His Head

The one whose commonsense has fled
Is very apt to lose his head.
—Old Mother Nature.

You know what it means to lose your head. It means to rush about as if you were crazy. This is just exactly what Peter Rabbit was doing. In the mud on the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver, deep in the Green Forest, Peter had discovered the footprints of two rabbits. One set of footprints was just about the size of his own. The other footprints were a little smaller. The instant he saw them he was sure that these footprints were those of the strange young rabbit he had heard about and of little Mrs. Peter. He was sure that they had been over here together, and he was filled with jealous rage.

No sooner had Old Man Coyote left than Peter was out of the hole and on his way

Peter went over to these footprints and carefully smelled of them. There was just a faint scent in the larger footsteps. But the scent in the smaller footprints was so faint that Peter couldn't be sure of it. He had expected a familiar scent there, but somehow this wasn't familiar. It puzzled him. But it wasn't strong enough for him to be sure. You see, those footprints had been made for some time and there was little scent left on this account. When Peter tried to follow the scent on the shore he couldn't find it at all.

There was nothing to do but to resume his search, and this Peter did. He started off just as fast as his legs could take him, heedless of danger. Already he had been to many of the hiding places he knew about, so he now began a search around the pond of Paddy the Beaver and of rocky ledges where sometimes Buster Bear spent the winter. He knew that there were caves in those ledges, in one of which Yowler the Bobcat lived. But Peter was reckless. He just didn't care what happened to him. He had lost his head completely.

Once Old Man Coyote jumped out from behind a rock and all but caught him. It was just Peter's good luck, and nothing else, that there was a hole under an old stump close by. He dived into this headfirst and Old Man Coyote was so close that when his jaws snapped, he pulled some hair from Peter's tail. That never would have happened had Peter been on his guard. It happened because he had lost his head.

But even this experience taught him nothing. No sooner had Old Man Coyote left than Peter was out of that hole and on his way, looking for Mrs. Peter and the stranger. He particularly wanted to find that stranger. The fact that he could find no trace of either of them served to make him more angry. Having seen those footprints over by the pond of Paddy the Beaver, nothing could have made Peter believe that the makers of those footprints were anywhere but there in the Green Forest.

Once more he met his cousin, Jumper the Hare. "Why didn't you tell me that Mrs. Peter was over here in the Green Forest?" demanded Peter, and his voice shook with anger.

"Is she?" inquired Jumper, looking mildly surprised.

"You know she is," cried Peter. "You know she is. You saw her with that strange rabbit you seem so fond of."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Jumper, in his turn beginning to get a little angry. "Is that so? Well, if I did, I didn't know it. If you know so much about it, what are you coming and asking me questions for? I think you are a little bit crazy, Peter Rabbit. I think you're a little bit crazy and I know that you are so jealous that you have lost your head."

"I'm not jealous," stormed Peter. "I never was jealous in all my life. I haven't a bit of jealousy in me."

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED BECAUSE OF A BRAWL

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Patrolman William J. Shanley was today suspended from the police service as the result of a brawl in which he is alleged to have been a participant Wednesday.

Shanley, who had an excellent record and was credited some time ago with the capture single handed of a band of armed bandits, was an occupant of the automobile operated by Thomas A. O'Donnell, another patrolman, which collided with a delivery truck at the inter-section of Hillside place and Prospect street. O'Donnell was suspended as a result of the accident, Chief Philip Smith intimating that liquor might have had something to do with the matter.

OBITUARY

George W. Porter

George Winfield Porter of Noank, passed away quietly at the Norwich State hospital Thursday morning after an extended illness. Mr. Porter was removed to the institution several days ago. He was born at St. Martins, New Brunswick, Aug. 23, 1861, and has been a resident of Noank for the past 45 years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Porter, and sons, Leslie, Frank and Marvin, all of Noank, and three brothers, William Porter of St. John's, New Brunswick; John Porter of New London, and Edmund Porter of Staten Island.

Mr. Porter was for many years associated with the ship-building industry but for the past eight years had been in the employ of the New Haven railroad. For nearly 20 years, Mr. Porter had conducted an express delivery business in Noank, using a horse-drawn vehicle, and later motorized equipment. With the passing of a need for local delivery facilities, he retired from that business and obtained employment in the Noank ship-building plant.

Our Gang Doing Sewing

Our Gang held a meeting at the home of the Misses Lucy and Lillian DiCarlo on Thursday evening. The previous meeting was held at the home of the Misses Marion and Violet Pedace.

During the cold weather the gang is to have a sewing class every week. Some very beautiful articles are being sewed and embroidered by the girls, which may be shown on exhibition later.

Very little sewing was done at this meeting but much dancing and singing were enjoyed by the girls. A novelty dance was given by Miss Marion Pedace. Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. DiCarlo.

DECLARES HIGH SCHOOLS SHOULD AIM TO TEACH GOOD ENGLISH

Two addresses, one by President Abram Royce Brubacher of New York State College for Teachers, Albany, N. Y., and the other by William F. Russell, dean of Teachers college, Columbia university, New York, were features of the eastern Connecticut section of the fall meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association, which was held here Friday at Slater hall and the Norwich Free Academy with an attendance of about 500.

President Brubacher spoke in the morning before the high school section, at which Miss Irene L. Beran of Stonington high school was chairman. His subject was "Changing Standards in English," and he took as the foundation for his address the conclusions reached by a survey of the teaching of English. These show that the chief weakness of college freshmen who had had extensive training in English, was their inability to either write correctly, pronounce English words properly, or use the correct form of punctuation.

The same survey shows that it has been proven by freshmen courses in all colleges that the mechanics of English are grammar, punctuation, capitalization and the various forms of letter writing. High school and college teachers say that the students cannot grasp easily the meaning of writing paragraphs in text books, the business men are of the opinion that high schools produce graduates who do not write correct letters, meaning that the mechanics of English have not been given thorough thought.

President Brubacher pointed out also that it is generally agreed but especially shown by Professor Shorey of Chicago that the speech of high school and college graduates cannot be distinguished from that of those who have not enjoyed the privileges, which they have had.

These unfavorable conditions prevail because of the change of standards.

1. Sometimes grammar is emphasized and sometimes ignored.
2. That sometimes rhetoric is taught and again no attention is paid to it.
3. Sometimes definite lists of literature are presented.
4. Students are taught only the history of literature, rather than literature itself.

As his conclusions, the speaker stated that the chief business of the high school teachers, 1, is to insist on corrections and accuracy and pay less attention to novelists and poets.

2. Seek to establish correct standards of taste in literature.
3. Make boys and girls language conscious, so that they may strive for correctness.

Good and Bad Teaching

Dean Russell was the speaker at the general meeting in the afternoon at Slater hall at which Superintendent E. J. Graham presided and the meeting was opened by two excellent soprano solos by Mrs. James A. Bidwell.

Leon C. Staples, superintendent of the Plainville schools, second vice president of the state association, made a report for the board of directors, and Miss E. Mae Keefe read a well written report of the National Educational association meeting in Seattle, Wash., to which she was the state delegate.

Dean Russell spoke upon "Symptoms of Good and Bad Teaching," giving the results of his observation of teaching habits in a certain unnamed high school where he spent three weeks making a survey of teaching conditions. He took stenographic notes of all the recitations he heard and one conclusion he reached was that the teachers were getting an awfully good education as indicated by the activity of the teachers as compared with the activity of the pupils.

Dean Russell went on to list a number of bad teaching habits which lead to short answers on the part of the pupil. These include the continual use of "Isn't it?" the what, when and where questions, repetition of the answer by the teacher, the incomplete question, and what he called the indefinite clinic ending with "Isn't that clear?"

On the other hand good teaching habits were evidently being employed when there were questions coming from the pupil, when there was material brought in from outside the classroom, when the pupils were carrying something home, when there was a variation from the dull monotony of question and answer and when the pupils failed to see a joke in some unconscious slip of the tongue which the teacher might make.

All of these things which he pointed out, he said, might serve as a means for teachers to enjoy their work better by knowing whether things are going poorly or well while they were teaching.

During the morning, beginning at 10 o'clock there were five meetings for the elementary school section, upon the subjects of history for the upper grades; biography, geography, the social science in the primary grades, and mture study, with a meeting for the rural section.

McCLIMON FARM SOLD TO MONTVILLE PURCHASER

The McClimon farm, which is located between Norwich and Preston City and has been conducted by the McClimon family for the past 60 years, has been purchased by Gustave and Minna Sonnenberg of Montville, who are now in possession of the premises. The farm was bought for the reported price of $24,000 which is said to have been the largest price paid for a farm in this section for many years.

The father of the present owner, Walter McClimon, operated the farm for a number of years and in 1891 sold the property to his son, Thomas McClimon, who conducted it for 14 years. At this time Thomas took his brother, Walter, into partnership and for 14 years the two brothers conducted the farm in a successful manner, but about three years ago Walter died, since which time the farm has been operated by Thomas.

The farm is classed as one of the largest and finest in Connecticut and includes a house with nearly all the up-to-date conveniences including a machine for furnishing electricity on the premises, running water in both the house and barn has been installed, as well as an up-to-date bath room in the house.

The farm consists of 200 acres of land. The McClimon brothers specialized chiefly in potatoes and cabbage for the market, besides distributing milk. Their average yearly potato crop numbered nearly 2,200 bushels and they generally had about four or five acres set in cabbage plants. Their average daily milk output was nearly 350 quarts or 10,000 quarts a month. Fifty head of cattle were always kept on the farm, all the milking being done by machinery.

The transfer includes a huge silo, whose capacity is 200 tons. It also includes 30 head of cattle, but the remaining cattle Mr. McClimon will keep at present on the farm of Arthur Shedd, Preston City, where he intends to live for the present.

Mr. McClimon owns other land in Preston, on which he expects to build a cottage and at present operate a farm on a smaller scale.

AUTHORIZED TO SELL $50,000 G. AND S. BONDS

Robert W. Perkins, receiver of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co. was authorized to sell $50,000 of the Groton & Stonington Traction Co. six per cent 20-year income gold bonds and 997 shares of stock of the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. at a price to yield to the receiver 80 per cent of the safe value of the bonds and stocks, by Judge John R. Booth at the short calendar session of the superior court in this city Friday morning.

Mr. Perkins was also empowered to hold the proceeds of the sale subject to the same liens and equities as now attach to the property.

These bonds and stocks were obtained for certain property of the receivership stock and conveyed to the Groton & Stonington Traction Co. by virtue of an order of the superior court. Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey offered the motion and Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, counsel for the Westinghouse Traction Brake Co., inquired if Attorney Whittlesey would object to giving the name of the prospective purchaser to which Attorney Whittlesey replied that it was the Kingston Co. He said the offer was for 85 per cent of the par value and that it was planned to hold 80 per cent as per order of the court and set aside the other 5 per cent for two suits that were pending against the receiver.

MCKINLEY AVENUE CHURCH TO HAVE RALLY DAY

The semi-annual rally of the McKinley avenue A. M. E. Zion church will be held Sunday. Among the special features of the rally will be everybody out and every pew filled at each service of the day, a contest between the red and blue to see which will bring out the most people. FOUR FOLD COMRADES HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Four Fold Comrades of the Central Baptist church held a Halloween party Friday evening in honor of Miss Emily Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, at her home at 130 Prospect street, a number of guests attending.

The dining room was prettily decorated along Halloween lines, orange and black crepe paper being strung from the walls to the center of the ceiling. The walls were adorned with Halloween symbols, such as witches, paper pumpkins, cats, etc. Pumpkin pie, doughnuts, apples and coffee were served by Mrs. Hill.

During the evening piano and ukelele selections were rendered and a number of games were played, including Fortune's co koo, ducking for apples and a Chinese spelling contest.

NEMROD GROTTO GAVE PRETTY CABARET SOCIAL

Nemrod Grotto conducted on Friday evening a special season's opening of Grotto hall in what is known as the T. A. B. building on Broadway by giving a cabaret social for Grotto members which is the first of a series of regular Friday evening dancing events. Thumm's seven-piece orchestra played for the dancing, being seated upon the newly arranged and decorated stage with a sounding board which added greatly to the musical effect. The hall was also attractively decorated.

Between each of the dances there were specialty numbers under the spotlight and in costume by Miss Helena Crandall and Miss Isabelle Kennedy, with Miss Alice Beausoleil at the piano. The numbers given by Miss Crandall included dream waltz, Russian dance, Frivolette, Black Bottom, autumn, Polish maiden and those by Miss Kennedy were powder and patches, jogging along, Spanish tango, and soft shoe dance. They appeared in two pretty duet numbers, Kate Greenway and county fair.

RAISING RELIEF FUND FOR AGED AMOS GREEN

Neighbors and friends of Amos Green, the aged resident of Westminster who was burned out this week, have formed a relief committee for his benefit, headed by Mrs. Florence Davis of Elm Arch farm, Hampton. The committee is trying to raise enough money to fix up the little one-room shop on the Green farm so that it will be a comfortable shelter for the old man until something further can be done.

Mrs. Davis is his nearest neighbor and has known him for the past 18 years. He has always been ready to help as far as he could when others were in need, and now that he needs assistance so badly, those who know him hope that their appeal will find a ready response. Mr. Green's address is Amos Green, Hampton, R. F. D.

In connection with the new Health and Safety study, Dr. A. G. Ireland, director of health and physical education for the state board of education was at the Groton Heights school this week, explaining the different features of the work to the teachers.

GREENEVILLE GANG SETS FIRE TO RIVALS' BARREL STOREHOUSE

A Thanksgiving barrel warfare between two rival Greeneville gangs resulted in the destruction by fire shortly before 10 o'clock of a large shed on the property of Edward Gleason, No. 325 Boswell avenue, in which had been stored a number of barrels. The shed and barrels are a total loss and one of the gangs is minus its collection of barrels.

The story goes that the shed, 14 feet long, 6 feet wide and 12 feet high, had been constructed by John Gleason, son of Edward Gleason, as a club house or hut. In the shed John and his barrel gang had stored their season's collection of barrels for the annual Thanksgiving night fire. A rival gang, it is claimed, set fire to the shed and a telephone call to fire headquarters called out Engine No. 2, Squad A and the deputy chief's car at 9:54 o'clock Friday night.

The fire quickly spread in the shed and the barrels were soon a mass of flames. As the shed was quite near the house and as there is considerable high grass around the shed and house the firemen used one line of water hose on the blaze and also pumped water from hand pumps around the burning structure.

DARTMOUTH, CORNELL, INDIANA AND NAVY FAVORED TO WIN GAMES TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—What odds there were tonight were favoring Dartmouth over Yale, Cornell over Columbia, Indiana over Harvard, and Navy over Pennsylvania, as the east looked forward to a series of close and hard-fought college football battles tomorrow.

No less than ten of the major games, including these four, loomed as "naturals" in which anything might happen The prospect assured capacity crowds at all the big games with probably 250,000 at the half-dozen headliners, 70,000 of which were expected at New Haven.

In two of the main renewals of annual rivalries—the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven and the Cornell-Columbia battle at Ithaca—the team which won last year appeared to be the under dog in the pre-game speculation.

Dartmouth was favored because of its unbeaten record this year, its rout of Harvard last week, and the power of its backfield aces, Lane and Marsters, although there were many to back Yale and its great star, Caldwell.

Both beaten once, Cornell and Columbia on paper appeared closely matched with no apparent reason for this year's rather diminutive edition of the "big red team" to be favored, except for its showing in the early part of the losing game with Princeton last week.

Renewing relations with the Navy at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania had most of its cripples ready to return to the lineup, but this fact did not prevent the Middies from being made the favorites.

Indiana's selection over Harvard was based on the reverse another mid-western team, Purdue, inflicted on the Crimson three weeks ago and on the weakness of Harvard against Dartmouth last Saturday.

In another big intersectional battle Syracuse meets Nebraska at Lincoln with the outcome apparently depending upon whether the Orange will be able to use its captain and fullback, Barbuti, who was out of last week's losing battle with Penn State because of injuries.

The Nittany Lions, having wiped out the memory of a beating by Bucknell by trimming Penn and Syracuse, ruled favorites over a crippled Lafayette eleven. Bucknell's undefeated and surprisingly powerful outfit meets the Army at West Point with high hopes of taking a fall out of the Cadet team which Yale set down last week.

A strong candidate for eastern championship honors gets a stern test when New York university's high scoring machine meets Colgate at the Yankee stadium. Although beaten by Southern and mid-western teams, Colgate already has taken the measure of another New York outfit, Columbia, in its last trip to New York. The battle between West Virginia and Carnegie, both beaten, will be anybody's game.

Besides Dartmouth, Bucknell and N. Y. U., Princeton also will be seeking to maintain an unbeaten record, and should win easily from William and Mary. Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh of the unbeaten brigade, also have drawn unimpressive foes in Thiel and Allegheny.

ACADEMY ELEVEN PLAYS WILBY AT WATERBURY TODAY

The Academy's Red Army (it has not proven "Big" yet) goes to Waterbury today to attempt to quell a threatened Wilby uprising and to right itself for the important brace of games to follow immediately.

The Academy is the favorite today but as was most pointedly proved last week when Harding came, saw, etc., the favorite doesn't always win.

This business of better records don't go on the football field and today the Academy will have to do plenty of fighting to come home with their fourth win in five starts. Wilby, with an improvement over the 1926 team that was humbled 23 to 0 will be striving this afternoon at Brasco park for its first win over the Red and White in athletic combat. At least, they have not beaten the sons of N. F. A. in any sport.

Getting to the records we find that the Academy has won three of four starts. Chapman Tech, Torrington, and Westerly were beaten. Warren Harding won last Saturday at the campus.

While reports have come that Wilby is stronger than in any recent year, nevertheless, little is known of her style, her stars, her weight, her size or of practically anything. In such the Academy is going against an unknown quantity this time.

Coach Jimmy Lee has been working his Green and White men hard, so reports state, for he regards the locals as a tough proposition. A win for Wilby will be a large boost for a successful season but the same thing is the case with the Academy. Taken all in all, that should mean action.

The Academy has been driven hard this week. A long session that had everything but scrimmage on Monday, two stiff scrimmages Tuesday and Wednesday and then a light signal workout Thursday formed their work in preparation for this game. No practice was held Friday, it being a holiday at the school.

The following will probably start for the Academy in this afternoon's game: Ends, Johnny Greene and Buck LaCroix with Kahn and Cruickshank at the tackles, Fox and Mish at guards with Ingalls at center, Tirrell or Brock at quarter, McGlone, Kelly or Vitiano at the halves and Capt. Jack Marks at fullback.

PAULINO MUST MEET SCOTT BEFORE TUNNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Entanglements with the New York State Athletic commission that have risen to hamper Paulino Uzcudun's attempts to fight his way into a title match with Gene Tunney multiplied today with the decision that the Spanish heavyweight must fight Phil Scott, of England, before escaping the suspension that now hangs over him.

Paulino was "set down" two weeks ago for refusal to go through with the match, scheduled for Nov. 4, at Madison Square Garden. He pleaded a sprained arm at that time but the chairman of the Spaniard's managerial board, Al Mayer, told the commission today that Paulino refused to fight Scott because of contract differences with Tex Rickard. Knute Hanson, Minnesota Dane, was substituted for Paulino several days ago.

Mayer declared after the meeting that Paulino entered an agreement whereby Rickard was to have exclusive right to the Spaniard's services. In return the promoter agreed, according to Mayer, to match Paulino with Scott, the winner to meet the survivor of the Jack Sharkey-Tom Heeney fight next month, and finally Jack Dempsey or the best available opponent during the summer of 1928. If the Basque woodchopper were able to fight his way past this formidable array, Mayer said he was promised a match with Tunney for the heavyweight crown.

Although an agreement as to terms had been reached, no contract has been signed for the bout with Scott, Mayer said, when changes were made by lawyers in the general contract as outlined with Rickard. This led to a squabble that terminated in Paulino's refusal to carry out the bargain or enter into a new agreement to fight Scott alone, the manager explained.

The commission, which halted Paulino's activities last summer with an indefinite suspension for failure to carry out a contract to fight in Boston, took the stand that the Spaniard come to terms with Rickard and must abide by the oral agreement before engaging in further matches here.

The decision of the board, along with Paulino's apparent determination not to engage Scott or any other heavyweight unless insured of advancement in Rickard's winter elimination rounds, may eliminate the Basque from further consideration in the tourney designed to produce Tunney's next challenger. After bowling over a flock of lesser lights, defeating Tom Heeney in ten rounds, and knocking out Harry Wills, Negro heavyweight, Paulino lost some prestige in a seven round defeat on a foul by Jack Delaney and a 15-round draw in a return match with Heeney.

GRANT WAS HARVARD CENTER ON 1907 TEAM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 28—(AP)—Patrick Grant, killed today by a fall from a window in Philadelphia, contributed considerable to college football in the one year that he was a member of the Harvard varsity team It was he who as center on the 1907 eleven demonstrated that a man of comparatively light weight and slight build could handle that position

At that period weight and strength were considered essential for the middle of the line and few centers on college teams weighed less than 190 or 200 pounds. Because the Crimson had a dearth of center material that season Grant, who weighed 171 pounds, was given a tryout and made good.

He was quick at diagnosing the plays of an opposing team and became a master of the art of passing. His roving style of play kept him from landing at the bottom of the pile in a scrimmage.

Grant was a son of Judge Robert Grant of Boston, author and former probate court judge. He was born in Boston in 1886, prepared for college at Noble and Greenough school and was graduated from Harvard in 1908. He was married in 1912 to Marie S Disston of Philadelphia and Northeast Harbor, Maine.

LEONARD B. TAKES EMPIRE CITY FEATURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Leonard B., with Mack Garner in the saddle, scored in a common gallop today in winning the Beechnut handicap feature at Empire City. Nusakan broke in the air at the start and never got his stride until the field was lengths in front. Leonard B. rushed into the lead and won by five lengths, while Sun Fire took the place from Nusakan by four lengths. The time for the six furlongs was 1:10 1-5.

The Whitehall, mile and 70 yards feature at Laurel, was taken by Sir Harry. H. P. Whitney's Frilette was second and Reminder third. The winner trailed the field for the first six furlongs but came up with a rush in the home stretch, beating Frilette by a head. The time was 1:44.

Arlington's fourth race was won by Ducky Drift, who stepped six furlongs in 1:12 3-5. Voshell beat out Sun Lynn for the place.

The fourth race at Latonia went to Alta, with W. Garner up. Dusty Mary was second and Dingo third. The time for the mile and one sixteenth was 1:45 4-5.

PIRATES HOLDING CUYLER FOR ADVANTAGEOUS TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—While the Pittsburgh club is willing to trade Hazen Cuyler, the Pirates are in no hurry to make a deal unless assured it will strengthen their team, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Corsairs, declared here today.

The Pittsburgh president said reports that the Bucs would be willing to exchange Cuyler for George Kelly or Hughey Critz of the Reds were unfounded. He also denied negotiations for the outfielder to go to Brooklyn for Pitcher Jess Petty.

NORWICH BOYS IN AGGIE LINEUP FOR TODAY'S GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 28—On the eve of the Connecticut Aggie-Lowell Textile football game here tomorrow afternoon, Coach Sumner A. Dole of the Aggies has made a last minute shift in his plans and will start his strongest lineup against the Spinners instead of his reserves, as was first planned. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

Two reasons were offered by Coach Dole in announcing the change of plans. In the first place, tomorrow's game will be the last home appearance of the year, and Dole wants to give local followers of the team a chance to see the strongest possible lineup in action once more. Moreover, tomorrow is Dad's day at Storrs and hundreds of Dads from all sections of the state will see a Connecticut Aggie eleven in action for the first time. Dole believes they should see the strongest possible lineup in action, and that's exactly what will start.

This means the fast and powerful Eddy-Williams-Knaut and Ryan quartet will start behind the line for the State college eleven. Captain Eddy and Williams, the latter who has almost fully recovered from his knee injury, will start in the half back positions. Bill Knaut has been shifted from quarter to fullback, from which position he will lead most of the plays as an interferer. Ray Ryan has been shifted from full to quarterback, starting what will be his first varsity game in the field general's position. This is the backfied that has carried most of the burden of Connecticut's offense in the five games played to date, and with these men in good condition a crushing attack is certain to be unleashed tomorrow.

In the line Dole will start Kennedy and Tombari on the ends, Wilson and Hawkins at the tackles, Colacurcio and Gilman as guards, and Sayers at center. Tombari will probably be used part of the game in the backfield to try out his forward passing ability. Gilman, who was thought to be out of the game for at least a couple of weeks because of injuries and a tonsilitis operation that was to be performed this week is back in harness again. It now appears that the operation is not necessary and his injuries have responded rapidly to treatment. Ardy Sayers, Hartford boy, will play his first varsity game at center tomorrow, having been moved into the center of the line to take the place of the injured Red Geissler. Sayer's playing will be watched with interest, and if the Hartford boy can display the same effectiveness at center that he has shown at tackle he will in all probability be a fixture in that position for the remainder of the year.

SPEEDBOYS TO MEET NOANK IN TITLE PLAY

What is billed by the Jewett City management as "an eastern Connecticut semi-pro football contest" is slated for Ashland park, Jewett City Sunday afternoon when the Jewett City speedboys clash with the Noank Crushers. It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will be present at Ashland park on Sunday. The Jewett City management repots that he has signed up Christy and Gay of the Greeneville Tigers although these two players are listed in the Tiger lineup for Sunday.

Jewett City has not decided upon upon their final lineup but it is quite likely that Coach Smith will start Jim Wall, Moore or Gay at ends; Cobb, Eaton or Spurgess at tackles; Mondor, Potts of Maggia, guards; Hutchins or Bakrowski, center. In the backfield the big surprise is announced in the news that Christy, who is known as a demon guard, will start at fullback where Coach Smith thinks he will prove a sensation. Pop French will play one halfback. Parkhurst, the lightest man in eastern Conn. football, a 120 pounder, will direct the plays as usual at quaterback. Mr. X, who is destined to prove a sensation but whose identity must remain a secret will play the other half which rounds out a most formidable eleven.

Joe Russo, Westerly, outpointed Paul Kirk, Danbury, three rounds.

M. Schoffe, Norwalk, knocked out Bud Maxie, Bridgeport, third round.

Gray Bell, Ansonia, decision Teddy Clark, Bridgeport.

Billy Metzger, Bridgeport, decision Buddy Doran, Bridgeport.

HAWLEY NOT ASKED TO COACH DARTMOUTH IN 1928

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 28—(AP)—Jess Hawley, head coach of the Dartmouth football team, has not been asked to coach the Green wave next year, he said here tonight in reply to questions regarding his rumored resignation. "There's nothing to it," Hawley said, "and besides I could hardly resign when I haven't been asked to coach next year yet."

Coach Hawley and his squad of 33 players and coaches and officials arrived here shortly after 6 o'clock. The squad was taken directly to the Stratfield hotel and after dinner the players and coaches were guests at a local theater. They will leave here early tomorrow for the game with Yale in the bowl.

Sparrow Named Captain

WINNIPEG, Can., Oct. 28—(AP)—"Spunk" Sparrow, member of last year's Galgary Tigers hockey team, has been named captain of the Minneapolis Millers in the American association for this season.

LANE AND CALDWELL HOLD INTEREST IN YALE-DARTMOUTH BATTLE TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28—(AP)—A consiuerable portion of the Dartmouth student body was either in New Haven or on its way tonight, intent upon witnessing the 11th attempt of the Big Green to humble Yale on the gridiron. The Dartmouth squad, however, went direct to Bridgeport for the night, and will not arrive here until about noon tomorrow. The only practice seven of its eleven starters will get in the bowl will be the warming up just before the game.

With nine defeats, eight of them scoreless, and one tie in the series between the two institutions, the Big Green comes with a backfield heralded as one of the best in the east, prepared to make a desperate effort to exercise the jinx which has seen to it that Dartmouth has never defeated Yale, since relations opened in 1884

Captain McPhail and Lane of the great 1925 backfield, with Marsters and Hamm, have gone through the season so far in a manner to make Dartmouth a slight favorite. The way Caldwell and his mates performed against Army last week, together with the return of Cox to his regular berth at fullback, however, make Yale supporters confident that the Bulldog will offer strenuous resistance to the Dartmouth attack.

Billhardt, first reserve quarterback, is the only man on Yale's injured list who would have been expected to get into the game to any extent. Scott, Fishwick and Charlesworth of the Yale eleven, were starters against Dartmouth last year, while McPhail, Phillips, Lane and Cole started for the Indian in 1926.

The Elis had a short workout today in the bowl, devoted almost entirely to signal drill.

A crowd of about 60,000, about 10,000 more than last year and a record for this contest, will witness the game, according to figures given out tonight by the Yale Athletic association. It was announced that a few hundred of the several thousands of tickets allotted to Dartmouth had been returned, and would be placed on general sale as long as they lasted in order to utilize in full the desirable section reserved for the Dartmouth rooters.

The probable lineups, as announced today:

Yale		Dartmouth
Scott, le	le,	Fusonie
Quarrier, lt	lt,	Langdell
Greene, lg	lg,	Phillips
Charlesworth, c	c,	Gow
Webster (C), rg	rg,	Sherman
Eddy, rt	rt,	Armstrong

DARTMOUTH READY FOR BIG GAME WITH YALE

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28—(AP)—More than 1500 Dartmouth students left by train and automobile this afternoon for New Haven to see tomorrow's Yale-Dartmouth football game. The varsity eleven, which got away before the rest of the students, had a short workout on Memorial field before leaving

Creegan Completes 150-Mile Swim

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—George A. Creegan, representing the Paterson, N. J., Y. M. C. A., completed his 150-mile swim from Albany to New York, today when he arrived at the battery at 4:18 p. m. Creegan's time was 50 hours, 6 minutes.

The 13-year-old Zitenfield twins, Berenice and Phyllis, of New York, Swam from Albany to New York, in 52 hours, 30 minutes, last June. Their time was 4 hours, 41 minutes better than the previous mark established by Lottie Schoemmell. The course of theres three swimmers was 162 1-2 miles.

Yale Wins at Soccer

NEW HAVEN, Oct. Oct. 28—(AP)—The fine work of Sleath, Yale's inside left, marked the fourth consecutive victory of the Eli soccer team today with the Dartmouth Indian as the loser by the score of 5 to 1. Sleath scored three goals or the Blue.

In the first period each team got one goal but in the second Yale forged to the front with little difficulty.

Brown Dropped from Penn Slate

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28—(AP)—Brown university was dropped and Ursinus college added to the University of Pennsylvania's football schedule for 1928 which was announced tonight. Otherwise the same teams will be played next year as were on the schedule this season.

All games will be played at home except that with the University of Chicago and the one with Harvard November 17.

Walker to Fight for Mullens

CHOCAGO, Oct 28—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion boxer of the world, signed today to defend his title next spring at an outdoor ring show, under the auspices of promotor Jim Mullen. His opponent has been amed, but efforts will be made to sign Tiger Flowers, the Atlanta deacon, from whom Walker won the title here last winter.

Cochran Beats Hagenlacher

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Welker Cochran defeated Eric Hagenlacher in their exhibition 18.1 billiards match tonight, 1,200 to 766. The match was played in four blocks. Cochran won today's third block, 300 to 103, and had a high run of 159 during the six innings. Cochran won the fourth block 300 to 106, and had a high run of 149 during the four innings.

Miss Orcutt Wins

WESTFIELD, N. J., Oct. 28—(AP)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, metropolitan champion, was victorious in a one-day tournament of the New Jersey Women's Golf association over the Shackamaxon course here today, defeating Mrs. Courtlandt Smith in the play off of a tie with a score of 41 for nine holes. Mrs. Smith had a 44.

GREENEVILLE TIGERS CLASH WITH GRANITE TEAM SUNDAY

The Greeneville Tigers tackle the Granite State team of Westerly Sunday afternoon atthe J. B. Martin field in what is expected to bethe toughest football battle of the season for the Tigers. The Granite State team is reputed to be the best football eleven in the Rhode Island city having taken the measure of the Majestics, a team which the Tigers sent down to defeat 13 to 0, last Sunday. From comparative scores it would seem that the Tigers and the Staters were pretty near on even terms.

The Tigers came through last Sunday's game with only minor injuries and every man is now back in the lineup and ready for Sunday's game. During the past week, Manager Henry Boyd of the Tigers, realizing that he is up against a tough team, has sent his huskies through stiff practice sessions. The Tigers look the best this season than at any time during their colorful career. Considerable work has been done on the J. B. Martin field during the week, it having been marked off and roped and new goal posts erected. The game is scheduled for 2:45 o'clock.

Manager Boyd announced his starting lineup as follows. Mileski, c; Big Boy Christy and Tombari, guards; Butts and Langevrin, tackles; Gay and Bubbles, ends; F. McGrath or Tennant, quarterback; Nelson, left halfback; Hudson, right halfback; C. McGrath, fullback. Substitutes, S. Boyd, Rokoski, Herbert and Steigel.

Next week the Tigers play the Blackstone A. C., of Worcester, and on the folowing Sunday the Pioneers of Hartford.

COLLEGE GOLF

SPORTING NOTES

Indiana university football team is without a captain this season.

The fall meeting of the Maryland Jockey club will open at Pimlico November 1.

Among the trotters Iosola's Worthy is the leading money winner of the year with more than $55,000 to her credit.

Since Hiller Huggins took the helm ten years ago the New York Yankees have finished only once outside the first division.

Twenty-two yards is the standard length of a cricket pitch.

For three consecutive years, 1905-06-07, no home runs were made in the World Series.

The university of Iowa eleven has defeated Ohio State three times, one game being a tie, in their last five meetings.

Polo, one of the favorite sports of the Argentine in recent years, is now gaining popularity in Rio de Janeiro.

The St. Louis Browns are the only major league baseball team that has not taken part in at least one World's Series.

The first fight for the American heavyweight cramponship took place in 1816 between Jacob Hyer and Tom Beasley. Hyer was the winner.

A crowd that will flow over the edges is expected to fill the Yale Bowl on October 22 for the Yale-Army football game.

England is just now engaged in a spirited controversy over the amateur status of the football players to be sent to the Olympic Games.

With Georgia defeating Yale and Purdue overwhelming Harvard, the football season with the Big Eastern colleges received rather a staggering blow at the very kick-off.

The United States forward pass, as introduced to Canadian Rugby football by Coach Shaughnessy of McGill University, does not appear to have aroused much enthusiasm among the fans in the Dominion.

Owing to the soggy soil of the Zuider Zee it was found necessary to drive 5,000 piles, each 50 feet in length, to serve as a foundation for the stadium in Amsterdam where the Olympic Games are to be held next year.

On August 20, 1876, Billy Walker fought Johnny Weeden at Pennsylville, N. J. The bout went 76 rounds and resulted in a ring fatality such as has occurred more than once in recent years, Walker dying shortly after the battle. Weeden was sent to Trenton prison for six years and died in prison.

The billiard season now opened promises to be one of unusual activity, with a number of young players being tried out in the hope that future champions may be developed to take the place of Hoppe, Schaefer and Cochran when they are forced to retire.

The next $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament, to take place during early January, is expected to set a new high record for such competitions in Southern California. A special effort will be made to induce more amateurs to take part in the play.

In winning four straight victories over the Pirates the Yankees performed a feat that had been accomplished only once before in the last 23 series for the world's baseball championship. The first time was in 1914 when the Boston Braves rode roughshod over the vaunted Athletics of Philadelphia.

The veteran Dundee, who has seen as much or more ring action than such aging ringmen as Jack Britton and Mike McTigue, won the world's title from Eugene Criqui in 1923, two months after the war-scarred little Frenchman had knocked out Johnny Kilbane. A year or so later, Dundee voluntarily gave up the championship on the ground he no longer could make the 126-pound weight limit.

Knute Rockne's clan hasn't been indisputedly at the top since the famous "Four Horsemen" roamed triumphant in 1924.

Baseball wise ones would not be surprised to see Hazen S. Cuyler of Pittsburgh wearing the uniform of the Boston Braves next season.

Miss Helen Payson is the third United States player to win the Canadian Women's open golf championship since the tournament was resumed in 1919, the former Miss Alexa W. Stirling winning in 1920, and Miss Glenna Collett in 1923 and 1924.

In the early '90s it was not unusual for some of the big college football teams to play more than one game with the same opponents in one season. Thus, in 1894, 1895 and 1896 Yale and Brown played two games each year, while in 1893 the Harvard and Dartmouth teams faced each other three times in a single season.

From the way football affairs are shaping up, Notre Dame's program will give the Hoosiers every opportunity to gain their goal of a claim to national championship honors.

James Braid, who won the first of his five British golf championships more than a quarter of a century ago, and is now 57 years of age, gained a truly wonderful triumph the other day, when, on his own course at Walton Heath, he reached the final of match-play golf championship. In the face of a driving wind and rain the veteran kept his form in brilliant style.

This year, the Hoosiers have gotten off to a flying start, with the navy, one of the best of 1926, as their first major victim. They tackle Indiana tomorrow and then, on successive weekends, meet Georgia Tech, Minnesota, Army, Drake and Southern California—an array sufficient to test the mettle of any title contender.

To add to the gayety of the championship mix-ups in boxing, Johnny Dundee, retired featherweight champion, announces he will "defend" his title next Monday at Madison Square garden when he meets the rugged exbootblack from New Orleans, Tony Canzoneri.

WESTERLY

BOOKCASE CAUSE OF SUIT IN THIRD DISTRICT COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 28.—The third district court session, Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench, was taken up for most of the morning with the trial of the civil case, an action in replevin of a bookcase, Caroline B. Pickering of Avondale, vs. Harold Q. Moore.

Harold Q. Moore on the witness stand testified that he had signed an agreement for sale of the property at India Point, Avondale, Mrs. Caroline B. Pickering being the grantor of the deed passed previous to which a letter had been received requesting that a bookcase, too heavy to be moved around be allowed to remain in the house, other furniture being placed in the barn, the property to be stored without charge until the spring of 1927. Mrs. Pickering's son had come from Ansonia, Conn., and taken a davenport and piano in September 1926 but the bookcase was left. This the defendant claimed became his property by the deed, which included personal property. Howard E. Thorp, agent for Mrs. Pickering, testified to his acting in the transfer of the property, but the plaintiff's council contended that his agency ceased after the passage of the deed, July 31, 1926.

Attorney West asked for reimbursement for storage and care of bookcase and for an order of restoration for the same. Plaintiff's council claimed that title to the disputed bookcase remained with Mrs. Pickering. Judge Williams took the papers; opinions are to be submitted by defendant and briefs filed within the next few weeks.

Theodore Weig and of Hope Valley conducted his own case in the suit brought against him by Town Sergeant Wanton E. Edwards of Hopkinton for his failure to have a dog license. The accused claimed that he had two dogs and the one which the dog officer was proceeding against had been killed by his brother-in-law, who testified that he had killed it with a shot gun two weeks before Labor day. Court found the defendant guilty, but suspended sentence.

Judge Williams disposed of other court business as follows:

New writs entered before the calling the docket—Clifton D. Hall vs. John. If unanswered, continued one week. Roy Rawlings, Inc., vs. Oscar Barber of Carolina, R. I. If unanswered, continued one week. Criminal docket—Wanton E. Edwards, town sergeant of Hopkinton, R. I., vs. Theodore Weigard of Hope Valley, R. I., failure to license dog. Passed temporarily. State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly, complaint vs. Robert E. Gardiner. Cases of disorderly person and of assault upon wife, continued from last week's court session for sentence. Placed on probation and in the custody of Probation Officer, Mrs. Bertha Vanbuskirk. State, William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Georgette Jordon. Continued. State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Joseph Comforti. Two cases, continued one month. State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Harry Stewart. Continued one month.

Cases continued one week were: State, Corp. James E. Norman, Department Rhode Island state police, vs. James Nicosia, action against liquor and vessels. Civil docket—Charles H. Gavitt company vs. Joseph A. Guarino. Luippold Mineral Water company, Inc., vs. Beppo Boumenot. Leroy Sherman of Hopkinton vs. A. H. Shepard, Richmond. John J. Dunn and M. Walter Flynn, Jr. vs. Pasquale Serra. LeRoy Sherman, Hopkinton, vs. Leonard Edwards, Addison S. Archie vs. John Jordan. Granite Street Garage vs. Antonio Fiore. Samuel Clark vs. Jed Cousins. Assigned to next Friday for trial on request of Attorney Ferguson. J. G. Phelps Stokes vs. Arthur R. Day. Decision for defendant. Salvatore Paldino vs. Andrew S. Lowe. Decision for defendant.

Trial Calendar—Corporal James E. Norman, Dep't. of R. I. state police vs. John Marshall. The state trooper informed the court that Probation Officer Mrs. Van Buskirk had seen defendant driving an automobile on September 2nd on the road between Carolina and the Richmond Town House when his license had been revoked for drunken driving. His attorney informed the court that there was illness in the man's family, that he had no money and never would have, the car being his wife's. Judge Williams found Marshall guilty and fined him $25 and costs, the bond being $500 in case of appeal.

The following transfers have been recorded:

Oct. 27. Caroline S. D. McLanahan, widow of George X. McLanahan of New Haven to Gustavus F. Swift and wife, Marie F. Swift, of Chicago. Land with buildings and improvements at Watch Hill on the west side of Misquamicut road, bounded westerly and southerly by Little Narragansett Bay.

Sullivan Granite Co. of Bradford to South County Public Service company, deed and right of way to tract of land on the northerly side of Westerly road at Bradford bounded easterly by lands of the heirs of Antonio Pignataro, with a fifteen foot right of way.

Visitors from Westerly and surrounding places attended masquerade dance in Burdick's hall, Bradford, Thursday evening, given under direction of the Welfare Committee of the Bradford Dyeing Association. Over one hundred and fifty masqueraders, many in elaborate costumes, took part in the grand march at 9:30 p. m. The judges required several repetitions before announcing the award, $2.50 to each person, which was presented by the plant manager. The first prize for best dressed dancer was awarded Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harvey of Westerly, who appeared in Grecian costume. The second for funniest dressed, went to Mr. and Mrs. Leland Ennis who represented an aged man and woman. Honorable mention was made of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Curtis with piratical Japanese ensemble. The orchestra of seven pieces was directed by John Atkins, it being the first apeparance of the D. B. A. orchestra. Cards preceded the dancing which included elimination and novelty dances.

The choir of the Immaculate Conception church Friday evening held its second annual frolic in the hall of the parochial school. The program included vaudeville acts by local entertainers, Halloween games, modern and old fashioned dancing. Mrs. Frank G. Ahearn was chairman of the committee of arrangements. Refreshments were served.

Early morning mail from the west and New York newspapers were delayed in arriving in Westerly Friday morning by reason of the "Cannonball" freight train wreck at Lyme, Conn. Providence early morning commuters experienced but little delay in reaching the city.

Loyal Progressive lodge of Odd Ladies had a Halloween party following the regular session in Stillman hall, Thursday evening. There were costumes of varied nature and the program included a recitation by Mrs. May Ozanne, dancing by May Fitzgerald and Mrs. Sadie Kennerson with singing by Mrs. May Smethurst.

The Ladies' auxiliary, A. O. H., held its annual meeting Thursday evening. Following the business session a social was held and refreshments were served. The county officers chosen were Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, president; Mrs. May Lynch, vice president; Miss Helen Sullivan, secretary; Mrs. John Marr, treasurer. Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., is chaplain. The election of division officers followed that of the county, when the following were chosen: Mrs. Katherine Shea, president; Mrs. John Foberg, vice president; Mrs. Mary Keane, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Murphy, financial secretary; Miss Eliza Fay, treasurer; Mrs. Agnes Clancy, mistress at arms; Mrs. M. J. Burke, sentinel; Miss Nellie Neville, chairlady of standing committee.

Following the elections, the officers were installed by State Treasurer Miss Mary Harvey.

Em. Sir Robert Hazard, commander of Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, and P. E. Eir Arthur N. Nash, master of ceremonies, were visitors from Westerly Friday evening at the annual inspection of Palestine commandery, No. 6, Knights Templar, of New London.

NOANK

When the Crushers football team was going through their signals on Church street, under the light, Thursday night a fellow watched them for several minutes. He was a star center on a college team in the west, Michigan college for two years. To see them training was too much for him and once more the gridiron was calling him back. Taking his suits from a trunk in the attic, he will be at center for the fast-going Crushers. His name is John Larkin, a fast man and a good runner. Coach DeBlaisl was well pleased to land the ex-college man and it brought joy among the squad of the Crushers' team.

They were singing "Wait Until We Meet the Speedboys in Jewett City on Sunday!" They have a mystery player. He will be at guard, comes from the way of North Stonington and goes by the name of Mr. W. Manager Big Mike Passi will give out his lineup just before the battle.

William Banks is spending a day in Guilford.

Raymond Rathbun has returned from a visit in Easton, Pa., with relatives.

Mate Dexton Holliday is fishing on the boat Mildred, with Capt. John Daboll, at the fishing grounds near Fishers Island. Thursday while after blackfish he was sitting on the cabin with his line near the bottom for the fish. It was not a very good day for fish. Soon the line was leaving his hand and almost pulled him overboard. He was kept working over an hour before the monster of the salt water was on the deck. It was a 29 lb. cod, the largest caught out in the Race in 22 years.

When Edward Mahoney came back from New York Thursday afternoon on the fish truck of the Interstate Co. he told a small crowd about how the driver Clarence Johnson was going through Devon with the truck loaded with fish, bound for Fulton market. Johnson became unconscious and it was the quick work of Edward Mahoney of Noank, that saved him from a serious accident. The truck was going for a telephone pole when young Mahoney put on the emergency brake, shut off the ignition and the danger was over. Johnson was taken to Milford hospital and the case of the truck driver had the doctors baffled for they did not know what was the trouble unless it was lack of sleep.

Noank grammar school school had a holiday Friday. The teacher attended the sessions of the Connecticut Teachers' institute held in different cities in this state.

Coal barge Fillmore, of New York, was towed into the town dock Thursday afternoon. Loaded with Pennsylvania coal a large force of men was on hand to discharge the cargo.

Mrs. A. Durham of Chelsea, Mass., is visiting Mrs. Susan Morgan.

George Waston a watchman on the men laden steamers for Hayes and Anderson at the local shipyard has put in a 6-tube radio on boat Arizona which is his quarters. When the stillness of the night comes, around 3 in the morning, George likes to hear what the outside world is doing, and if any boats are sending out SOS calls. Early in the evening he gives his friends radio parties with refreshments on the side.

Robert Tooker is employed at the Rossie mill as millwright.

Miss Maud Carson of Uxbridge, Mass., is home on a few days' visit.

Mrs. Lillian Lamb was a recent visitor in Westerly.

Joseph London was in Willimantic Wednesday.

Mrs. A. T. Van Cleve was the guest of friends in Hartford Wednesday.

MYSTIC

Mrs. B. H. J. Robinson, home demonstration agent of the county farm bureau had her first class in Grange hall Thursday. In the forenoon she gave instructions on making felt hats. Dinner was served at 12.30; Mrs. Marion Gremley was chairman. Mrs. Robinson called the meeting to order and asked those present to decide what day they should meet.

It was thought best to begin the lessons at 10 a. m. and close at 4.30 p. m. She wanted each group to organize and elect officers and the following were elected. President Mrs. William L. Main; vice president, Mrs. Herbert Reeves; secretary, Mrs. Wallace Phillips. Anyone interested is privileged to attend and the instructions are free. Hereafter all those receiving instructions must clear up all litter made and assist in putting the hall in order. After business was completed, Mrs. Robinson showed several articles suitable to make for Christmas gifts. The next session will be Thursday, Nov. 17, when she will give instructions on making Christmas gifts and felt hats, if any one so desires. Eighteen were present.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's church met in the assembly hall Thursday afternoon for sewing. The attendance has increased and much work is being done. Mrs. Robert O'Neil and Mrs. Jack Clift served refreshments.

Why work so hard on washday?
—Try this "no scrub" way

NO hard rubbing this way. No boiling, even, to heat the kitchen and waste fuel. Just soak and rinse for the whitest, brightest wash ever!

The difference is all in the soap. Use Rinso, and clothes soak whiter than you could scrub them. Millions prove it every week. The makers of 30 leading washing machines endorse Rinso for safety, and for a whiter wash.

Rinso gives thick suds even in hard water. Rich, creamy suds — not frothy soap bubbles. So easy on the hands.

Easy on the clothes, too. They aren't scrubbed thin the gentle Rinso way.

You'll say there's nothing like Rinso, once you've tried it. Why not this next washday. Get it today.

Rinso
The granulated soap that soaks clothes whiter — no scrubbing

Our Minister's Sermon

The minister said last night, said he,
"Don't be afraid of givin',
If your life ain't worth nothing to other folks,
Why, what's the use of livin'?"
And that's what I said to my wife,
says I,
There's Brown, the mis'r'ble sinner,
He'd sooner a beggar would starve than give
A cent toward buyin' a dinner.

I tell you our minister's prime, he is,
But I couldn't quite determine,
When I heard him givin' it right and left,
Just who was hit by his sermon.
Of course there couldn't be no mistake
When he talked of long-winded
prayin',
For Peters and Johnson they sot and scowled
At every word he was sayin'.
And the minister went on to say
"There's various kinds of cheatin',
And religion's as good for every day
As it is to bring to meetin'
I don't think much of the man that gives
The loud amen at preachin',
And spend his time the followin' week
In cheatin' and overreachin'."

I guess that dose was bitter enough
For a man like Jones to swallier,
But I noticed that he didn't open his mouth
But once after that to holler.
"Hurrah," said I, "for the minister"—
Of course I said it quiet—
"Give us some more of this open talk,
It's very refreshin' diet."
The minister hit 'em every time,
And when he spoke of fashion,
And riggin' out in bows and things,
As woman's ruling passion,
And coming to church to see the styles,
I couldn't help a winkin'
And a-nudging my wife, and says I,
"That's you."
And I guess it got her thinkin'.
Says I to myself, "That sermon's pat,
But man's a queer creation,
And I'm afraid that most of the folks
Won't take the application."
Now, if he had said a word about
My personal mode of sinnin'
I have gone to work to right myself.
And not sat there a grinnin'.

Just then the minister, says he,
"And now I've come to the fellers Who've lost this shower by usin' their friends
As a sort o' moral umbrellas;
Go home," says he, "and find your faults,
Instead o' huntin' your brothers';
Go home," says he, "and wear the coats
You tried to fit for others."

My wife she nudged, and Brown he winked.
And there was lots o' smilin'
And lots o' lookin' at our pew;
It sot my blood a-biliin',
Says I to myself, "Our minister
Is gettin' a little bitter;
I'll tell him, when meetin's out, that I
Am not that kind of a critter."

Johnny Sands

A man whose name was Johnny Sands
Had married Betsy Hague,
And though she brought him gold and lands,
She proved a terrible plague;
For, oh, she was a scolding wife,
Full of caprice and whim;
He said that he was tired of life
And she was tired of him.
Says he, "Then I will drown myself,
The river runs below."
Says she, "Pray do, you silly elf,
I wished it long ago."
Says he, "Upon the brink I'll stand;
Do you run down the hill,
And push me in with all your might."
Says she, "My love, I will."
"For fear that I should courage lack,
And try to save my life,
Pray, tie my hands behind my back."
"I will," replied his wife.
She tied them fast, as you may think,
And when securely done,
"Now, stand," she says, "Upon the brink,
And I'll prepare to run."
All down the hill his loving bride
Now ran with all her force,
To push him in—he stepped aside,
And she fell in, of course.
Now splashing, dashing like a fish;
"Oh, save me, Johnny Sands!"
"I can't, my dear, though much I wish
For you have tied my hands."

BOOKS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: There's only one thing I'd want to do if I knew my time was limited. You'd never guess, and so I'll tell you it is reading all the books. I've always wished to read, getting acquainted with the master minds of literature, would be my idea of a perfect end to my own day.

There are a great many of them and so little time in our lives that isn't preoccupied. I do not get the time to make their acquaintance. The giants would be the first ones, and I think Shakespeare would be the first giant. I really didn't care for him; but my natural bend towards philosophy opened the gates of appreciation, and gradually I have come to see how alive he makes his people and human and next I would choose Milton as a companion for the last days, and after them the lesser giants, all worth giving weeks and months to a studious reading of their works.

As for a "plan of study" I'd follow no plan myself in such a case as we have imagined.

Read one or more good biographies along with the authors work. I have just read the biography of Shakespeare also of several other great writers. I try to learn all I can of the conditions under which they worked and dreamed. I think it leads to a keener appreciation in the end. I find to deny the mind and spirit things which they naturally crave is to leave a starved life. Goodness there is a lot of people think "there's not much use in spending your time that way. Life isn't merely getting of great and of small" and the chap who would divide between bread for the body and flowers for the soul is better fed than the fellow who lives to eat as it appears to me. Sordiness and sadness are in plain sight for all eyes to see, but from the optimistic, hopeful writer one can find an inspiration for right thinking, right living, and that is the sort of happiness. A splendid sort in itself.

There's refreshments in books, and escape from yourself and from other people. If you live in a crowd you can escape in solitude with the right sort of a book and then, on the other hand if you are too much alone, going nowhere, meeting nobody, books again will take you out of yourself and into the wide wide world.

The things you let life do for you will often bring you into a place of discouragement and weariness too great to talk about, and you can win for yourself through the best in literature a sense of strength, a security of faith in understanding of others lives out of which you can build. If you will, a happier standard by which to measure your own.

And after you know them, if you were to write of the good you had made manifest in your own lives the books you would make from your love of them, you would say the time spent with them would be altogether well worth while, that they had taught you much of the past, present, and future, and that life was fuller, richer, because of the things learned.

Here is a novel way to use old tin cans. Cut each can into five sections with a can opener and bend each section in any desired shape for a cookie cutter. After cutting off the first section slip the can part way on a round piece of wood that is just a fit to hold it in shape while cutting.

The can opener will leave a ragged edge but you can hammer it down a little, then run it across a coarse carborundum stone to smooth the edge. Then bend them into the shape you wish, for a cutter. You can make diamond, three-leaved clover, poplar leaf, star, chicken, rabbit, round with scallops, maple leaf and four rounded corners with sides bent in.

I think it a good idea to have a cutter appropriate to every season. September, October, autumn leaves; November, turkey; for December, star, wreath and bell, toys; for St. Valentine's day, heart; for St. Patrick's, shamrock; for Easter, chicken, rabbit, lily, hat.

Fancy shaped cookies are nice to serve with ice cream or put in a lunch box.

A NEW FRUIT CAKE

Dear Social Corner Members: Soon the holidays will be here, and good fruit cake will be in demand.

Of course fruit cake is expensive, bothersome to make and not infrequently, bothersome to digest. Neither is the bakery kind that is "almost" as good as "home-made" less expensive. Quite the contrary, it is usually more expensive. But what is a holiday without some fruit cake?

Here is a recipe I read of and tried. It is good, and has several things to commend it. No butter, no eggs, no sugar to use, and no long cooking to bother with. Furthermore, if carefully followed, it will be a success every time.

Put one cup of grape juice and one cup of blackberry juice in a pot. Drop in a stick of cinnamon, a few whole cloves, allspice, and about a quarter of a teaspoon of grated nutmeg. Place over a slow fire and simmer until the juice is well flavored with the spices. But be careful never to allow it to boil rapidly. Remove from fire and strain through a cloth.

Grind oatmeal through a meat chopper, to make two cups when ground, and wheat biscuits to make one and one-half cups when ground. Reheat fruit juice to boiling point, and pour it over the ground cereals. Cover tightly and let stand aside overnight. Wash one half pound of dried currants, and also set those aside overnight so they will dry thoroughly.

Shell three quarters of a pound of nuts, and break or cut them into small pieces. Cut one and one-half pounds of seeded raisins, three quarters of a pound of dates, one half pound of figs, one-half pound of crystallized pineapple, and one-quarter of a pound of citron into bits.

To the cereal and fruit juice that stood overnight, add three-quarters of a cup of honey, and four tablespoons of olive oil, now mix this with the nuts and fruits, currants too, using the hands. The pan or bowl should be rather large so everything can be thoroughly blended. Also mix in a quarter of a pound of whole candied cherries.

Line a pan with paper. Brush one with olive oil, and pack the mixture in, a little at a time. Press down until perfectly solid. Decorate top with nuts and candied cherries, and cover with paper that has been brushed with olive oil.

Put the cake in a tin box and set aside for several weeks or more. A day or two before using, wrap the cake in a cloth wet with grape juice.

SOME OLD FASHIONED REMEDIES

Dear Editor and Friends: Well, this is a peach of a day, with the wind howling about 90 miles an hour around the corner. It makes the windows and shingles rattle like some one playing a piano. It cannot rattle the clapboards for there aren't any on the house.

A good remedy for deafness is to put some sweet oil in a teaspoon, warm it and put two or three drops in the ear at night on going to bed, and for quinsy sore throat or diphtheria take hornet's nest, soak it in hot vinegar and bind it on. It is a good relief.

In case of pneumonia take raw onions, sliced thin and sprinkle well with salt and black pepper.

For cold and nervousness put a handful of motherwort, one of thoroughwort and catnip in a pan, pour over it two quarts of boiling water, let it stand and steep on the back of the stove an hour or so. Then take a little once in a while and a cupful on going to bed.

Ann Tenna: Recieved your yard this morning and many thanks for it. It reached me on my birthday.

Aries: Many thanks forthe letter, and, Votami, yours too.

Rural Delivery: I see you are passing by your mail box empty handed. I have been looking for a call from you. Perhaps you don't remember the way so I will give you some directions. You go from your house to the state road turn toward P. and it is not very far down. It is a small low cottage shingled all over and the well a few feet from the door and the road. Look out for it when you turn in the yard. My golden glows are gone butthere is a petunia in full bloom yet. My canine is hitched to his house under the tree so I don't think you can miss it. If you have doubts just pull the latch string. It is always out to my friends.

Well, I had a good surprise this morning. While I was eating my toast and tea in walked Kansas Lily with a basket and pail. She said this is your birthday. It doesn't come but once a year. In a little while in she walks with another filled with more good things. A thousand thanks to you, Kansas Lily. May God bless your kind heart and prosper you, is my best wish.

Lilac Lady: I am sorry you and your sister had such a bad day. It rained awfully down here.

Well I wish I could go and see you Kochia, but not this fall. But wait until June. Then, O my!

BEAUTIES OF NATURE

Dear Editor and Everybody: This probably will be the last week for me to stay in the house by the side of the road this year. It will soon be time for cold weather and it is foolish for me to even think of living alone in the country. After all give me the quiet country. Then again it is all my own, and it is said, "He who owns the land owns up to the sky." How very independent that lone makes one feel!

What a variety of weather we had all last week—the worst on record for me. I happened to be using the phone talking to a neighbor, when a three minute tornado or whirlwind appeared which blew down a large ash tree for me and a very old ash for a nearby neighbor. I said to myself, "There's no use crying for split milk." Now I have a better view of the beautiful woods on the spacious side hill that overlooks the Mashonoquet meadows.

As 1492 said in her letter last week, "There is no use crossing the waters, or going to a far west to look at the beauties of nature when we can see it nearer home." From my own west windows I have a beautiful view of the Locust hill, and the Grosvenor woods is another wonderful view I have with its dark green pines intermingled with the bright red maples, the Platt farm with its valuable hickorys and the old Quaker Dennis farm, where he has recently set out 1,000 black walnut trees. Many other places I could mention if I had time and space. No, I do not have to go far to see nature at its prettiest, but every thing beautiful is nearly gone for this year. After the gale or whirlwind the bright sun appeared, then a beautiful rainbow was seen in the west in the morning and Saturday night ended with the northern lights. I have a very pretty view where I am going, and everything nice and comfortable to make me contented and happy. I shall keep busy so the time will pass quickly and spring will come again before I know it.

The sad autumn winds
How they wail as they pass'
O'er trees bare and leafless,
And the dry withered grass.
They mourn for the summer,
Departed and gone,
And dread winter, cold and dreary
Fast coming on.
Sigh, autumn winds,
In your flight wild and free
Mourn for the friends
Ever lost, lost to me.

WARDROBE FOR THE NEW BABY

Dear Cornerites: To begin with dear sisters or readers of the Social Corner, certain things are needed besides the garments which you put on the baby when it arrives. An old soft blanket is very essential to wrap up baby when he puts in his or her appearance, another help is some old soft towels and wash cloths. These may be pieces of well worn linen. I found a bath apron a great convenience. Of course it is not a necessity. (I made mine of Turkish toweling.)

Sanitary pads and night dresses should be sterilized before used and the pads should be such as could be burned when used.

Strictly for baby comes flannel bands. At least three should be made. They are simply long strips of flannel, and they should not be hemmed but you may overcast the edges. Besides these, for later wear, should be made ready three knit bands, part wool with shoulder straps and three shirts, size 2, also part wool. Then comes the flannel skirts or petties, while some prefer the pinning blankets. The Gertrude skirts are much used and are very easy to make. Four of these are needed and if you want one or two cotton skirts for dress up under dainty dresses they are wise, but not essential.

I think I made my blankets one yard square of white domet flannel. Some I bound in pink satin ribbon and some in blue and I think they were the most convenient things I had.

At least three night dresses for baby if in the winter. Make them out of outing flannel. Make the nighties to be drawn up at the bottom so the feet will not be cold. About five slips made out of soft cloth. I used Lonsdale cambric.

You can buy patterns which allow for extension which are very convenient as baby usually grows and these times you do not care to throw or give them away.

I should suggest about 5 dozen diapers some 18or 20 inches square, some smaller. You need not use all new, some pieces of old sheets, cotton and woven underwear are all right. Outing flannel makes warm diapers for the winter baby! Birds' eye linen is rather rough to use at first for baby's skin is tender.

Socks should be made to pull up over the knees. If you prefer you can use white wool stockings which can be worn with little shoes after short dresses.

As he gets a little older and bigger long wrappers of soft wool flannel are very nice. Short secquies of wool or outing flannel can be used.

The baby's wraps should be warm and easily put on. Cunning little coats can be made of some fine woolen material.

A knit cap it very practical for winter, while little silk lined caps are good for summer.

The bags wheih can be made of eiderdown are very nice to put baby in for rides in the carriage.

SOAP RECIPE REQUESTED

Dear Social Corner Members: Several members recently responded to my request for a home made soap. I was looking for a recipe which I had gotten from the Corner and which just suited my scrubbing needs. I know the ingredients but having lost the recipe I do not know the amounts of each.

I know there were five pounds of grease and a can of potash. Then there were ammonia, kerosene, borax and citronella, but I do not know how much of each. I do not like the citronella scent so leave that out, but if the member who sent in such a recipe several years ago would send it in again I would be very grateful. It is one of the best soaps for scrubbing that I know of.

LOSS TO CORNER THROUGH DEATH

Dear Corner Friends: I have realized my unfaithfulness to the Corner page for a long time, but in some way I cannot explain. I could not seem to bring my mind to the point of writing but I will not be a slacker any longer. Longer evenings are already manifest and the shut in days just ahead should provide time and thought from the many members of the Corner, to make the page full and interesting, every week the coming months.

If not two late I want to thank you, Club 6, through this column, for my birthday gift and for all the cards and kind wishes received from Corner friends. To those who have not heard directly will say that we celebrated the Fourth of July by moving into the new home, and we enjoy it very much. Have been very busy and have had only two annual outings and attended some of the picnics. On my return was sorry to learn of the death of one of Club No. 1's members, Mrs. Ida Barbero of this city whose pen name was Midget and Double Fuschia's daughter. She had not met with us often enough to be come acquainted but I remember her first day spent with us and she seemed to enjoy the sociability of so many strangers. Just a week after we were saddened by the death of Amy, Mrs. George McCracken, also of Willimantic. Club 1, as well as the circle in which she was well known and active, has met with a great loss in one whose long life has been filled with kind thought and deeds for others and whose influence has always been on the side of that which was right and uplifting.

She was always in good humor and ready with a funny anecdote or story of which she had a wonderful, in exhaustable supply. She last met with us at the March meeting. Sorrow has entered another sister's home and we sympathize with Bony in the loss of her husband. Our sympathy goes out to all these and any other who have lost dear ones or had trouble. As I watched the golden sun silently but swiftly dropping behind the golden and purple cloud out of sight on the horizon, and another day had gone, never to return, and as these beautiful but shortening days, with the crimson and swiftly preparing for the death of the year, when all nature is asleep, the thought came it was all typical of our own passing when it will be the culmination of "all promise, all fulfilment and end of mystery.

About 10 days ago there were three bunches of rambler roses on a bush in blossom and the back yard was full of dandelion blossoms and from my own garden less than a week ago I picked a bouquet of white roses, pansies, pinks, bachelor button, calendulas, scaboscia and phlox. Who can beat that?

THEODA.

WASHING AND CLEANING

Dear Corner Friends: I find dark colored silks are better washed in soap bark solution than in soap and water, as the alkali in soap is often strong enough to streak or remove the color from dark silk. Soap bark contains no alkali whatever, so it is all right to use it.

Soap Bark Solution: One cup of soap bark, (buy it in bulk, do not buy the package) boiled in one quart of water for 15 minutes. Strain and use the liquid as it is were a soap solution, adding it to the wash water in the tub or rubbing in on particular spots. It does make a suds, but it certainly has good cleaning power. You rinse as if washing with soap.

A Washing Soda Solution (For removing grease): 1-2 cup washing soda, one cup boiling water. Dissolve the soda in the boiling water and add this to 1-2 tub of luke warm water. Put the grease stained garment to soak for 15 minutes. Rinse, then wash with soap and water. Of course you can use this washing solution on white fabrics only.

Oxalic Acid Solution: One ounce of oxalic acid crystals, one pint water. Dissolve the oxalic crystals in the pint of water and bottle for future use.

This will remove blueberry and blackberry stain. If it turns blue in the hot water treatment but does not disappear, an application of oxalic acid will make it more soluble, and it will then yield to further treatment with boiling water. I have removed ink from a white table cover.

Here is the method of applying oxalic solution. Place the stained fabric over a bowl and pour a little cold water through to moisten the stain. Apply the oxalic solution with a medicine dropper taking great care not to dry any of the solution on the unstained part of the material, where it will not show but if not washed out will eat holes in the fabric.

After the stain disappears, just rinse the goods thoroughly in water, in which you will add just a few drops of ammonia to neutralize the acid. Then rinse again to remove all the traces of the ammonia.

Use yellow laundry soap for fresh spots of the sticky fly paper substance on cotton or linen. Wash, rubbing the spot well with the yellow laundry soap. If dried on use benzine or turpentine and after removing that spot you will have a benzine or turpentine spot to deal with and that you can easily remove with your grease solvent.

Fruit stains that are fresh can mostly be removed by hot water but peach stains some times are an exception. Moisten the spot, apply powdered borax, until a thick paste is made over the spot. Let it stand a few minutes, then wash. Alcohol can be used to remove the last traces of the stain.

Gum Arabic Water: (For renovating silk), 2 teasoons of gum arabic to one quart of water. Mix gum arabic arabic and water, let stand until all gum is dissolved. This solution is excellent as a starch to stiffen ribbons, or it may be diluted with one quart of water and used in the last rinse water to give body to organdies, habitual China, India silks, etc.

It will save time and energy to keep a few simply pieces of equipment on a shelf.

You are apt at any moment to spill something on a valuable gown, and if you have a remedy at hand how much more pleased you would be. Whereas if it dries on it is much harder to remove.

If you have old desk blotters lay them aside as they are useful in removing spots. For cleaning cloths, I use pieces of cotton, wool, silk, linen, old pieces of material as near the color of the clothes that the family is wearing.

Then have pieces of cheese cloth to lay under the garment you are cleaning.

GRAPE PIE AND OTHER RECIPES

Dear Editor and Members of Social Corner: Am sending in a recipe for grape pie which I made this morning. It is delicious.

Grape Pie: Wash about three bunches of grapes, pulp them, putting pulp in basin and skins in measuring cup, until you have a solid cup of skins. Heat pulp until you can sift it, leaving all seeds in sieve. Then add one cup of sugar and skins and one beaten egg. Bake between two crusts.

Veal pot pie I served with this. Had veal roast Sunday. I put all meat through food chopper and one onion, season with salt and pepper. Add half a can of tomato soup. Make a nice biscuit crust for top of veal pie, putting teacup in center of dish before you put crust on. Bake it half an hour. Warm the other half of tomato soup to serve with pie and boiled sweet potatoes. It makes a very hearty dinner.

A Bird's Nest Pudding: Place peaches canned in butter pan, make a sponge cake batter, 2 well beaten eggs, cup sugar, 3 tablespoons rich sweet cream, 1 cup softed pastry flour with one teaspoon and a half of baking powder. Beat well, pour over peaches and bake in moderate oven. When done turn upside down, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Serve with the peach liquid which has been saved from the peaches, or cream and sugar. Put bits of butter on pudding if liked when you cut it in squares. Good.

A French Pie: Peel and slice apples in a buttered pie plate, put sugar and cinnamon over it, pour over them a batter made of yolks of two eggs, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon of butter, one cup of flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one quarter cup sweet milk. Bake until apples are soft. Turn out on a plate with apples on top. Make a frosting of the two egg whites, thickened with confectioners sugar. Return to the oven and brown. Serve hot. Fine.

The 15th was our 25th anniversary and received a lovely gift and silver cards.

POINTS ON CAKE MAKING

Dear Corner Sisters: "Dost thou think because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cake?" Use the best materials and have everything ready before you begin mixing the materials. Always sift the flour, adding to it the baking powder and mixing well.

If it is summer weather, place the eggs in cold water for a few minutes and beat yolks and whites separately, very thoroughly. Mix butter and sugar to a cream, add sugar, then the yolks of the eggs, then the milk and flour alternately in small quantities, last, the whites.

Cake making requires more judgment then any other department of cooking. Nevertheless it is one of the most frequently tried by the beginner. There are two classes of cake; those with butter and those without it. The former embraces pound, cup, and fruit cake. To the latter belongs sponge, sunshine, and angel cake. If fruit is used, flour it well, and add the last thing.

Bake slowly at first. Always mix cake in an earthen bowl. The baking of cake requires more care than the mixing.

Divide the baking time into quarters; during the first it should begin to rise, the second it should finish rising and begin to brown, in the third it should continue to brown, and during the fourth and last it should finish browning and leave the sides of the pan. Bake cake with nothing else in the oven and keep it as near the oven center as possible. Remove the cake from the tin as soon as it leaves the oven, and place it on a sieve or a rankin covered board.

While the cake is baking no air must be permitted to get into the oven, unless when it is necessary to look at the cake, as it is apt to make it fall. The heat of the oven should be even and regular, and can be kept so with any good stove. Cake can be tested by sticking a clean straw into it. If nothing adheres to the straw, the cake is done. I hope these few words on cake making will help some of the young brides as much as it helped me when I started in making cake. So much cake is bought now, but give me home made cake.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Social Corner Members: How very different are the fine linen and silver to good manners and religion.

The best of linen and the heaviest of sterling will soon depreciate when used daily, but good manners constantly grow better, the more they are used, and what is true of manners, is true of religion.

No matter how widely persons may be separated in creed and denomination, whether Trinitarian or Unitarian, every one believes in The Golden Rule.

Very much misunderstanding and unkindness would be obliviated by constant use of The Golden Rule.

When tempted to do a mean act by neighbor or friend, use The Golden Rule.

There is an old saying, "It is a long road without a turn," but I think it is a short road without a turn. So during our travel of life, I think it is a good plan to use The Golden Rule.

Apologies and regrets do not produce "forgets," and never will have the same influence, as the use of The Golden Rule.

WHAT LIFE MEANS

Dear Social Corner Members: No excuses for not writing, just didn't. Truda asks where I am. Right here at the same old stand. I've been on no nice long trips, myself, but have greatly enjoyed reading of other's trips as, if one can not go, the next best is to read about them. Now I'm sure Blandina will enjoy her Californit trip as she always has a nice time, wherevere she goes. It will be great to escape the cold dreary winter.

Our present weather, to me, is delightful and I should enjoy living in just such a climate the year through. And yet, although our New England climate is so variable, we do seem to escape the terrible wind and rainstorms and floods that some states have. I have just come across something in my reading that seems good to me, so pass it on to others.

"It is a blessed secret, this living by the day. Anyone can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall; any one can do his work, however hard, for one day; any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly and purely till the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means to us, just one little day."

CONTENTMENT AND HAPPINESS

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Although I have been silent for sometime. I have greatly enjoyed all your letters and accounts of your good times, and have thought of you often. I have been poorly the past summer and then life seems to want to cling close to the clouds which has observed the sky all summer, for things had a way of going wrong. Still we must strive to bring contentment and happiness into all our lives.

Many think that a nice home and riches bring happiness. Not so, many rich persons are too busy accumulating wealth, and too discontented striving for what they desire, and always wanting more and more and not taking time for pleasure, recreation or to make their home a true home.

Home is what we make it. All are not homemakers but God bless the home and she who presides over it.

If used, furniture and fixing will show usage, but home and nice furniture are worth the having if, it can't be used and enjoyed by all members of a family daily. For probably some of the members by hard labor have helped to accumulate the home and its belongings.

Then if a piece of furniture, picture, etc., is not quite up to the modern standpoint don't discard them, but remember that to the older ones they are sacred because of memories and were the first efforts of little hands so let them remain and weave love into every nook and corner. Have all the labor saving devices you can afford, and you and each member will then enjoy home and one will forsake the streets and clubs for an evening with the family. You will be repaid by the members in affectionate words and acts which are better than fashion, glitter or anything.

This is home. Now what makes happiness. Riches don't bring happiness. Who is truly rich? Not he or she who alone have amassed great fortunes for many incomes do not meet one's demands or satisfy one's wishes or ambitions. Wealth to the possessor is the contentment and satisfaction which it brings him. Contentment is the soul of wealth. Be content and satisfied with, and make the most of what you have reaching out to do the little things which constitute life not only in the home, but scatter pleasantness and kindness everywhere lending a helping hand when needed, then one will be filled with love for God and all mankind and diffuse happiness wherever they may be. Best love to those who are sick or in sorrow. I shall be glad to hear from any of the sisters.

When I read Balsam Fir's letter telling about the Corner sisters calling on her, I wondered if any would ever call this way.

Best wishes,

DIANA.

SALAD COMBINATIONS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: This table of fruit salad combinations is worth clipping and putting in your cook book.

Orange, banana, grape, pineapple.
Orange, banana, grap, peaches.
Apples, lemon juice, celery, dates.
Apples, celery, lemon juice, raisins.
Raisins, orange juice, celery, dates.
Grapefruit, celery, green peppers, sweet red peppers.
Apricots, fresh or dried grapefruit, cocoanut.
Cantaloup balls, oranges, pimento, honey dressing.
Grapefruit, apple and pineapple.
Apple pineapple and cucumber.
Celery, apple, nut.
Celery, apple, nut pineapple.
Celery, apple, nut cherry.
One part orange, one part pears.
Peaches, bananas, red raspberries.
Apple pineapple, almonds.
Oranges, strawberries, endive.
Pineapple, kumquats, red and green peppers.
Watermelon, oranges, French dressing.
Raisins, chopped dates.
Figs, dates, choppel raisins.
Pears, tomatoes, romaine.
Oranges, apples, pears, lemon juice, lettuce.
Alligator pear, orange, pineapple, strawberries.
Orange, apple, pineapple, romaine.
Banana, peanuts, dates chopped.
English walnuts, bananas, coconnut.
14 dates, 4 cups cabbage 1 1-4 cupfuls of pineapple.
Two parts cantelope tubes and one part white grapes.
Orange, pears, dates, (chopped).
Orange, figs, (chopped), red bananas, lemon juice.
Persimmons, orange, celery, nuts.
Persimmons, pears, orange, pistachio nuts.

Salad accompaniments include: Salad greens, cheese straws, toasted wafers, cheese crackers, plain wafers, cheese apples, cheese balls, cheese carrots, hard crisp rolls, pulled bread, corn sticks, stuffed or fringed celery. Nut bread or sandwiches are very appropriate accompaniments to salad.

Toasted Straws: Dip toasted breadfingers in melted butter, then rolled in ground nuts.

A party asked me about tripe. Tripe is the stomach of a beef. It is cheap, and when strictly fresh is good and very easily digested on account of the large amounts of gelatinous matter it contains.

Canadian butchers have an appetizing way of arranging tripe and wind it about a smooth stick of pine, a pound on each stick. The good housekeeper buys her stick of tripe. It cuts the meat bill to fit the budget. She washes it carefully and scrapes it carefully and scrapes off any superfluous fat, then lets it simmer gently in salted water until tender, usually 1 1-2 hours.

This is one of the first preparations no matter how it served.

Tripe may be cut in squares, after it is parboiled and creamed with mushrooms or oyster. It is nice fried and served with celery sauce or it is delicious served with white or Spanish sauce. You can cut it in good sized squares or strips, marinate it in French dressing for 2 hours, drain, dip in cracker or bread crumbs, then in slightly beaten egg, then in crumbs again. Set in a cool place for an hour, fry in hot lard to which you have added a little butter. Service hot with tartar or rich tomato sauce. Garnish with parsley.

Tripe is nice baked with mashed potato. Have ready a good plain sauce, add yolk of an egg, three small squares of boiled tripe. Butter a baking dish place in it some nicely seasoned cold mashed potatoes to which the well beaten egg has been added, cover with the tripe and sauce and bake until nicely browned.

GUESS WHO.

SMILE AND DON'T WORRY

Dear Members: Again I will try and write a few lines as I see the page was in need of more letters. I wish I could write a good letter, as interesting as some of the sisters do, but we are not all gifted alike. If we try to do the best we can that is all we can do. We are having some lovely fall weather of late, just perfect days. Took an auto drive Sunday through the woods and it was just lovely. The foliage was beautiful all the way. You couldn't paint anything half as pretty. Nature is wonderful. I had the pleasure of attending Aunty No. 1's picnic and had a fine time. Think we all ought to give her a vote of thanks for entertaining us so well. It means quite a lot to open one's house at such a time. I will say she is a first class entertainer and such a great quantity of food. It was a big crowd but I guess there would have been enough for many more.

I think a great many people take life too serious. We all are here to get as much pleasure and comfort out of it as we can. Of course there are times when life don't seem so smooth but just take things as they come along and don't worry. Worry is worse then work. I think it has shortened some people's lives. Don't worry but just smile whene'er you can and things will brighten up. I think I have tried to look at the best way. To worry doesn't help things a bit and it makes yourself miserable and everyone around you, so look for the silver lining and cheer up.

Too bad Kochia had to go alone on that wonderful vacation. Why didn't you take some one else along?

Primrose: Have you moved?

Saw something about it in the paper.

"OPINIONS OF A CHEERFUL YANKEE"

Dear Social Cornerites: I do so miss some of the old writers.

North Dakota: I wonder frequently if we shall not see your name on the Corner page again soon. Your little volume of verse is one of the books I keep ever close at hand and I miss no opportunity to show it to friends that they may see what Social Corner sisters can do.

Grandma Gray: Ever so many of us would like to read another of your good homey letters.

I noticed our page was not filled last week. I have long wondered who writes the good things in the Saturday Bulletin under the heading The Man Who Talks. I often snip something from that column for my scrap book. Just now I have from the village library one of Irving Bacheller's books, Opinions of a Cheerful Yankee. It is a gift from the state. Old Connecticut certainly gives out some good books. Some of the chapters are The Quest for Happiness, Why I Am Not Afraid to Die, The Secret of being Happily Married, Why Men Do Not Go to Church, Private Gods, The Cheerful Yankee, Old Times and New, The Coming Man, etc.

Under the inimitable touch of this author each of these chapters is so fascinating that the reader picks up the book at every possible opportunity and is not satisfied until he has read it all the second time.

Mr. Bacheller has a good opinion of New England women, and believes great responsibility rests upon them. He says: "The fathers of New England have received much praise, but we must go deeper for the sources of New England's power—to the mothers, I believe that a nation can only be made or unmade by its mothers."

I think he would approve of our Corner page and appreciate more fully that some of us do the influence it may exert for good to an ever widening circle of readers. Mr. Bacheller stresses the spiritual and in this materialistic age there is plenty of need for this stressing. He says, "Yes, every one has a house not made with hands. He cannot get away from it. So I seem to see that every one is building his own heaven or his own hell. Here are the timbers of misery, there are the timbers of happiness."

I trust you all enjoy as much as I do the reports of the club activities of various organizations of women. So many of us cannot attend the meeting but can benefit from the reports so fully given in The Bulletin, gathering inspiration from reading what is being done and this helps us to keep out of a rut and to keep in touch with the times.

This is a lovely October day. In spite of the cold nights my pansy bed is still a mass of blossoms, unhurt by the frosts. Pansies are certainly hardy and I have enjoyed their cheerful faces so much.

A cordial welcome to the new members. May they give as well as take and keep busy with pens as well as with knives and forks. The Corner circle is like the old time stage coach, there is always room for one more. With best wishes to the Corner as a body and as individuals.

EVELINE BURR.

SHADES AND DRAPERIES

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: These autumn days are beautiful, both for pleasure and work. We need the combination, to enjoy both sides of life, as either one would be harmful, if not equally balanced. As the old time maxim goes, "Work before play," which I think is a good rule, and helps us to appreciate the pleasures all the more.

At this season of the year, we are making changes, within the home, the semi-annual housecleaning. It is always interesting to change about pieces of furniture, exchange places for pictures on the wall, discard something, that have become worn out their day of usefulness gone by. On this particular item, I would specialize on window shades and draperies. The economical housewife is on the alert to get all the service that can be had from any and all of the household supplies, as long as they can be made neat and attractive. Window shades that have become soiled and faded at the lower part, can easily be reversed, end for end, a new hem made and a new shade "pull" put in place. There are some very pretty designs for pulls now in the stores, and quite inexpensive, and add quite a novel effect for the window display. In regard to the draperies, either the white material, or the silk, fancy cretonnes, terry cloth in plain and figured designs, which are used for these purposes. The white curtain and the over drapery may be attached to only one rod, if a little careful study is used. To make the valance, cut the material desired length, for fullness, also for width. Make a narrow hem, for the lower edge, and on the other edge, where the rod is to be inserted, fold over enough to allow two or three inches below the two stitchings, which will be on the under side, when placed on the rod. Sew the top edges of the long white curtain, to the narrow extra piece on valance, which will be concealed, by the wide ruffled part, in front of it. In this way one curtain rod, inserted in the valance, supports not only the valance itself, but also the white thin material curtain. This rule may also apply where long side pieces of over drapery, hang down each side of the window casing. Where two separate curtain rods are attached to the woodwork, it helps to destroy the casing unnecessarily and some window casings are quite narrow only room enough for attachments for but one rod. I think nothing adds more to the finish of an attractive room than tasty, well dressed windows, especially where there are bay windows, or double windows.

I enjoyed the picnic at Aunty No. 1's home, Sept. 28th. Sisters Gusta, Ready and Mavis, have given fine accounts. I could add nothing more. Was pleased to meet so many I knew and glad to meet others for the first time. Regret illness should have detained any from such a pleasant gathering.

Best wishes to all.

GREETINGS FROM NANCY PECK

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Some one said something about slackers. Now the coat fitted and I put it right on and buttoned it up, so here I am again.

Club No. 6 held a most enjoyable day Oct. 18 at North Stonington Grange hall. I was not able to attend, but all spoke most enthusiastically about it. With Laurette as hostess it could not have been otherwise. I thought of you all but as my grandson was here, and a gentleman friend, I felt it my duty to stay with them for dinner, though he said he would take me over in his new car. I had an appointment in the morning and by the time my dinner was over it was too late.

Eben Shirley: I saw you in Wheeler library Friday night with your charming son and daughter.

Rebecca: I often think of you and know of your faithful watching.

E. Natural: Hear you were in Hart-

BEAR PRESSURE WEAKENED PRICES OF STOCKS ALONG THE ENTIRE LIST

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Stock prices today were unable to withstand the pressure which bear operators put upon them. A weakening all along the line of the so-called pivotal issues developed marked uncertainty in the entire list, and when those working for a decline ferreted out a number of weak spots in addition to the leaders, recessions of 2 to 4 points or more became numerous.

In many instances the lowest prices of the day were recorded in the final hour, when a rush of traders to get out of the market over the week end added its weight to the general selling. Such favorites as U. S. Steel and General Electric fell to new low levels on the reaction, and General Motors was not far from its low reached about a week ago.

Little was presented in the way of news, aside from further evidence of what was already known. Lower earnings by Bethlehem Steel, added to the shrinkage of steel income, and the continued tardiness of the expected autumnal recovery of the trade, caused further selling of the steel shares. Railway earnings reports appearing during the day, gave little cause for rejoicing, and the dividend paying carriles, which had been resisting pressure with some success, joined in the general rout.

The decrease of more than $90,000,000 in brokers' loans, reported last night after the close, gave the market a moment of strength soon after the opening, but operators for the advance, unable to obtain a large following in view of the unsettled conditions, were forced to retreat after a fairly brisk march upward.

Recently strong issues were undermined in some cases by realizing. This was particularly true in the insurance division, in which large advances were sharply reduced, or turned into losses. Rossia closed with a net loss of 5 points, after again establishing a new peak for the year, while Continental lost a good gain. Fidelity Phenix also sagged at the end.

The market gave another demonstration of its indifference to the money situation. Call loans were quoted at 3 1-2 per cent, despite the calling of about $15,000,000 by banks. The weekly mercantile reviews sounded a rather indifferent note on the business outlook, which continued to present marked irregularities.

Particularly hard hit shares in today's decline were DuPont, which plunged down 11 points, Houston Oil, Union Pacific, Freeport Texas, Steel common, and General Motors. The list of declines ranging from 1 to 2 points was unusually formidable, and extended to all sections of the list. The average of 10 leading rails dipped almost 3 points, with the dividend payers suffering the heaviest losses.

Strong spots were unusually rare. Warren Brothers went up more than 14 points to a new high for the year, but lost 8 points of the gain. Some of the baking issues offered resistance to the selling pressure, but failed to hold their gains. American Express closed at 170, a net gain of 7 1-2, and a number of miscellaneous shares touched briefly new highs for the year or longer.

A reaction of $2.50 to $3 a bale in cotton, regarded as a natural sequel to the upturn after the recent government ginning report, was the outstanding development in the commodity markets. Wheat futures fell off about 1-2 to 1 cent a bushel; coffee was quoted 7 to 15 points lower and sugar was unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were generally firm, with a 4 1-2 point drop in Spanish pesetas by way of contrast. Japanese yen gained about 4 and Dutch guilders 2. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.86 11-16 and francs just below 3.92 1-2 cents.

Slight softening in some divisions of the time money market, and fractionally lower rates for commercial paper were the only developments in the money situation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Pauline Frederick, Norwich's own star, in The Nest, furnishes as fine an evening in the motion picture theater as has come our way in many a moon. This reviewer's advice is as follows: Take advantage of the opportunity while The Nest is at the Broadway theater. It finishes its engagement there tonight.

Miss Frederick is one of the few artists whose hold on the public never slackens. She is more beautiful than ever; she really is gorgeous and as an actress she has few compeers, if any.

Coming Sunday for four days the attraction at the Broadway will be Universals - Film de France triumph, Les Miserables, the picturization of Victor Hugo's immortal novel

This majestic drama of humanity striving under the yoke of ignorance and unjust power has had, in its book form, more readers than any other work except the Bible. As a motion picture production it has made new attendance records in every European country and has been acclaimed by two continents as the greatest film triumph of the old world.

Two years were spent in making this stupendous motion picture at a cost that mounted to millions of francs. Many of the scenes were taken on the exact location indicated by the author in his book.

The streets of these towns were altered to appear as they did a century ago. Each of these operations ran into prohibitive costs. But the French hold their favorite author in such esteem that not even the remolding of a town could stand in the way of their producing Les Miserables with absolute fidelity down to the last detail.

The principal players were selected from the French stage and the most renowned actors in the land chosen to portray the characters created by Hugo.

Palace Theatre

Showing for the last times today are Sally O'Neil and Owen Moore in "Becky" and the five superior acts of vaudeville headed by one of the best acts seen in Norwich for some time

Two extra-ordinary feature attractions are on the program for Sunday night, when Bert Lytell and Evelyn Brent appear in "Women's Wares," a story concerning the wiles and tricteries used by some women in their search for a husband. The second feature reveals a funny side of the world war in which Alberta Vaughn is cast in the leading role. The title, "Ain't Love Funny" is not comparably as funny as the picture itself, the comedy situations in the picture being riotously funny.

Commencing Monday for a three days run, beautiful Laura La Plante will be seen on the screen in her latest release, "Silk Stockings". The story concerns the trouble of a newly married pair, their little spats and their decision to air their troubles in the divorce courts. Of course they don't get a divorce. John Harron portrays the role of the young husband full of the fire of youth and unsophisticated. The supporting cast is admirably chosen. Otis Harlan as the attorney for both parties is extremely funny and the scenes in the court room are among the funniest ever seen in pictures. Others in the cast include William Austin, Marcella Day, Heinie Conklin and Burr McIntosh. In conjunction with "Silk Stockings," five excellent acts of vaudeville will be shown.

Breed Theatre

Even without its absorbing story and thrilling action, Warner Bros. production of "When a Man Loves" starring John Barrymore would be a great picture because of its sheer pictorial beauty.

Besides its many-sided appeal to the imagination it is an ever changing delight to the eye. No expense was spared in the erection of the gigantic settings, perfect and realistic in every detail. The costumes of a naturally colorful and decorative period are of unparalled magnificence and variety. The photography of these by the master who filmed "The Sea Beast" and "Don Juan" accentuates them and suffuses them with a romantic glamour which enchants the mind and gives the spectator the illusion of utter reality.

"When a Man Loves" has as its setting the gay and dissolute Paris of Louis XV when love and the chances were the chief [illegible] of the few and dire poverty [illegible] of the many.

The cast reads like a blue book of filmdom, including as it does, Sam De Grasse, Holmes Herbert, Warner Oland, Marcelle Corday, Charles Clary, Templar Saxe, Eugenie Bresseser, Bertram Grasby, Noble Johnson, Stuart Holmes, Tom Santschi, Tom Wilson and many others. Alan Crosland directed. "When a Man Loves" comes to the Breed theatre tomorrow night for a run of four days and will be shown once Sunday night commencing at 7 o'clock and twice daily thereafter at 1:15 and 8:15.

At German Lutheran Church

The pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran church makes the following announcement:

"All turn out for the union service at 4 p. m. Let our father Luther speak to you through his faithful followers. We have especially invited our Swedish Lutheran sister of this city. Rev. Anders Anderson will speak at the banquet following the celebration in the church. Refreshments will be served to all who have taken part in the service. Music, entertainment and folk songs will be enjoyed by all present. Large delegations are expected from Rockville and Webster.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theater

Fred Thompson and his wonder horse Silver King will be the feature attraction at the Strand theater tomorrow (Sunday). It is a powerful drama of a man's regeneration through the influence of the Boy Scouts.

An amazing story of a man's salvation! A thrilling tale of dangers and hair breadth escapes! Drama and thrills romping neck and neck in a picture that will literally take your breath away! Every one who has the interest of the Boy Scout movement at heart will experience great satisfaction in seeing this picture. Officially endorsed by the Boy Scouts of America.

Wild Justice, a United artists product will be this other feature of this wonderful program.

Great Concert Series Arranged

Probably the finest course of concerts ever presented at Slater hall under Norwich Free Academy auspices is now assured for the music-loving public of Norwich and vicinity.

Mary Lewis, the sensational young opera soprano of the Metropolitan Co. of New York, is due to open the program of the winter on Friday, Dec. 2. Miss Lewis comes to Norwich after a short meteoric career in grand opera, during which time in a space of some two years she has become one of the leading sopranos of this famous organization. Prior to her debut in opera, she studied in Europe after being for a season or two one of the outstanding principals in the Ziegfeld Follies.

On Jan. 17th appear three of the leading members of the great Boston Symphony orchestra, viz, the Fox-Burgin-Bedetti trio, being respectively the pianist, concert-master and solo cellist of this peerless orchestra. Needless to add that their appearance will be awaited with a great deal of interest and anticipation.

Feb. 2, Friday, John Corigliano, violinist, who is scheduled to appear in the third concert of the series is possibly the best known among the younger American artists of the violin, having appeared as soloist with all the large symphony orchestras and also with Marion Talley in her nation-wide concert tours.

Reinald Werrenrath completes the series on March 16th, Friday. Some fifteen years ago Mr. Werrenrath appeared as a very young artist as soloist with the old Boston Cliff organization and perhaps some music lovers will recall the tremendous ovation given him on that occasion. Since that time he has gone far and is now universally rated as one of the country's foremost baritones.

See advertisement in other section of this issue.

Next Week at United Congregational

Charitable circle of King's Daughters will meet in the junior department rooms of the church school Tuesday afternoon and evening to sew for the rainbow bazaar.

It will be interesting to the parish to know that in preparation for the church's future missionary activity the mission committee of the church is to meet in the pastor's study at half past seven on Wednesday evening for a special conference with Rev. William S. Beard of the commission on missions, New York.

Members of the church and parish are to meet in the church school rooms at half past seven on Thursday evening for a preparatory service, when Mr. Abbott will preach on the subject: "The Horizons of Christ."

Occia Camp Fire Girls will meet at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Gustave Lamber, 13 Ripley Place, on Friday evening, for a rehearsal of their play.

Philathea class will meet on Friday evening with Mrs. Clarence A. Spear at her home on Canterbury turnpike.

Haviland class will meet on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. John Morrison, 460 West Main street.

At Y. M. C. A. Sunday

Probably few story writers are more popular than Gene Stratton Porter, and on the coming Sunday at 4 o'clock in the gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the best story from her pen will be shown in moving pictures in seven reels, namely, "The Magic Garden," among the principal characters are Margaret Morris and Raymond Meaps.

The story is one of a great love, of women's youth, glorying in its faith and power to overcome all barriers, whatever they may be. The scenes are laid in settings of gorgeous splendor, amid blooming orchards of ancient Venice and a pleasant old fashioned flower garden. The picture is certainly one of real beauty and carries with it a most impressive and uplifting lesson greatly needed in these days. There will be appropriate music supplied for the picture, and a brief heart to heart talk will be given. To this service both young men and women are cordially invited. An offering will be taken during the service.

Lawrence Hall, New London

The famous Hilmar-Doyle orchestra to be heard at the Lawrence ballroom at New London next Tuesday, November 1st, has just completed its second season at Island Park, R. I. Next week they are to play at the Roseland ballroom in New York. A feature attraction is a tango exhibition to be given by Mr. Sloan, New London's dancing master and his partner.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

CONN. COUNCIL CATH. WOMEN

The annual luncheon of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women will be held Saturday, October 29, at Hotel Bond, Hartford. The meeting to begin at 10 o'clock. Reports will be given on the activities of the council during the past year and the administrative committee for the coming year will be elected. Right Rev. John J. Nolan, D. D., bisnop of Hartford, will address the meeting. Miss Mary E. Spencer, health education specialist of the department of education of the Nathional Catholic Welfare conference, will spend about ten days in Hartford under the joint auspices of the Hartford Tuberculosis society and the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service in the interests of promoting health education. Miss Mary G. Hawks, newly-elected president of the National Council of Catholic Women, has also been invited to attend the annual luncheon and to bring a message from the national council. Mrs. Agnes Bacon, a member of the national board for the Boston province, will also be a guest of honor. The executive committee of Hartford council of Catholic Women will serve on the reception committee.

AMERICAN LEGION

Kenneth F. Cramer, state commander of the American legion, has received from Howard P. Savage, retiring national commander, an expression of praise for the many community service accomplishments by Connecticut Legion posts during the past year.

Commander Savage, upon assuming office, asked each of the 10,000 posts in the country "to seek out and accomplish the most worthwhile task of benefit to its community." A recent report by the state commander showed the past accomplishments as regards community service and the national commander had this report before him when he wrote to Captain Cramer his congratulations to the Connecticut department. William A. Hyde of North Haven, as state chairman for community service has directed these activities.

East Woodstock (new post).

Montville: Erection of honor roll.

An examination of the various posts' activities show a decided interest in the boys and girls of the state; 66 of the 104 posts doing work in connection with the next generation. A state-wide project has been fostered by the legion, the American Legion forest, a 322 acre tract in Barkhamsted. State aviation has received an impetus by the two-day seaplane convention in September conducted by the West Haven post. No. 71. The tremendous amount of good resulting from the activities of the legion in Connecticut has called forth the approval of many leading citizens and periodicals.

The following posts were given national citations by the Legion National headquarters: Siecheprey post, Bristol; Oscar H. Cowan post, Stamford; Eddy-Glover post, New Britain; Jane A Delano post, Hartford; Emil Senger post, Seymour; Stanley Dobosz post, Rockville; Danbury post; Naugatuck post; Russell K. Bourne, D. S. C. post, Wethersfield; Garvin-O'Connell post, Canaan, Richard W. Ibell post, Deep River; Everett Ray Seymour post, Ridgefield; Harry R. Bartlett post, East Haven; G. Merle Jones post, Hebron; Brock-Barnes post, Plainville, and August Mathias post, Westport.

Commander Cramer reports that the Connecticut department has at present 104 posts and has a strength of 9,803 members. The women's auxiliary has gained nearly 500 members the last year and now comprises 85 units with a total membership of 4,100.

Clarence C. Scarborough, state treasurer, reports that $137,587.61 has been disbursed this past year in assisting 1,182 cases through the state fund.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Sebequanash council, No. 11, met in the tepee at the Buckingham Memorial on Wednesday evening with a large attendance. There were new members taken in at this sleep making a total of 6 in all which have lately been taken in, with a prospect of more at a later date. There was a large delegation from Hiawatha council, No. 15, of New London with members of Minnehaha council, No. 33, of the same place. After the transaction of regular routine business meeting closed in the usual form by the salute to the flag, after which refreshments were served by the social committee. An evening of music, song and recitations interspersed filled out a program of much enjoyment. A number of Sebequanash council, No. 11, members trailed to the hunting grounds of Hiawatha council, No. 15, for another enjoyable evening. They also had balloting of new members under the new ritual laws which was done in a very creditable manner. There was an auction sale which caused much merriment at the various articles which were sold. A good sum was realized from the sale. Refreshments were also served by Hiawatha council at the close of the meeting. All arrived home at an early hour much pleased with the trip, and with a promise to Hiawatha council to visit them again at an early date in the near future.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, had a class of twelve for the third and fourth degrees at its meeting in Steiner hall Wednesday evening when there was an attendance of over 100 of the Norwich members and visitors from Preston City, Pachaug, Lebanon, Wolf Den, Mad River, Westerly, Echo, Franklin, Ledyard and Groton granges.

In the business part of the meeting presentation of a wedding gift from the grange was made by John E. Fanning to Mrs. Bourne, a recent bride. Report was made by the community committee, Mrs. Ida Richardson chairman, of the plan to purchase and set out on Lake street a number of rock maple trees There was also a report from the finance committee, and announcement was made of the grange auxiliary supper and sale on Saturday at the Buckingham Memorial and of the whist and pinochle evening next month. The next meeting of the auxiliary is to be next Tuesday with Mrs. Thatcher of Tanner street. The last meeting was with Mrs. Risley where a delicious dinner was served.

Three members of the state grange home economics committee, Mrs. Belmont, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Richardson, were present and spoke.

For the degree work the drill team under direction of Mrs. Myra Waters did splendid work and the tableaux were put on in beautiful form in charge of Miss Ella Lester, with the following participating: Marion Gibbs, Mrs. Bode, Mrs. Coles, Mrs. Lavalle, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. E. Peckham, Miss Cobleigh, and Miss Armstrong.

Supper was served before the meeting and was unanimously declared to have been the best the grange ever enjoyed. It was in charge of Mrs. Teresa Watters and the menu comprised roast pork, turnips, potatoes, gravy, pickles, rolls, squash pie and coffee.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart legion held a very interesting meeting Tuesday evening in Moose home with Junior Regent Minnie Smith presiding very capably.

One member was initiated.

It was voted to start an emergency fund for the chapter. One legionnaire was reported on the sick list.

Past Regent Teresa Watters announced the program for Mooseheart day in New London nearly completed. It was voted to leave on the quarter past three bus Sunday for New London, as the banquet is to be held at 5 o'clock.

All legionnaires who are not going by automobile are to be at the bus terminal in time for the quarter past three bus.

Legionnaires Marie Retkovske and Nora Willett were present at the meeting after spending the summer abroad and were warmly welcomed by the chapter and requested to give a travel talk for the good of the chapter.

The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 10th, at which there is to be initiation, and all officers are requested to wear white.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

A successful evening of whist and pinochle was held Thursday in Hibernian hall by Division No. 54. The hall was prettily decorated in Hallowe-en colors. The pinochle prizes were won by: Women, first, Mrs. Wholey, score, 7040; second, Mrs. Casey, 7020; third, Mrs. Manning, 6990. Men, first, A. Kowolenko, 7930. ford at Baptist church convention. Am glad you could enjoy the trip. It hardly seems that it is eight years ago this month that you and I went to Norwich to a convention.

E. L. M.: They tell me you saw Mrs. Coolidge's lovely white collie in Washington, D. C. It is 26 years since I saw the capital and can never forget the congressional library. It was most interesting and a trip long to be remembered.

Mila: Thanks for remembering me Oct. 18. You always prove yourself such a kind friend.

Cosmos: Where, oh, where and you? Where do we have some good times at home demonstrations? I am enjoying my tea wagon. Let me know when you have something nice, so I may attend.

Katrinka: Congratulations my dear. You gave me the surprise of my life.

Interested Reader: Did you have your tatting shuttle with you on the 18th? I'll learn yet, if I am not too thick headed.

Good night, sisters, pleasant dreams.

20th Anniversary

We have not spoken of anniversaries every week or every month during our time of business, but as it is now 20 years since we opened our store we wish to extend our gratitude and appreciation to those who have helped us to make a success of our business. From the start our motto has been, "Get Them Right" and "Treat Them White." Alterations have just been completed whereby we are able to cater to our trade more comfortably than ever before. We invite your inspection of our enlarged quarters, also the clean and sanitary conditions, which are second to none.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS LIABLE TO PAY PERSONAL TAXES IN THE TOWN OF LEBANON:

Notice is hereby given that I have a Warrant to levy and collect the Personal Taxes of 1927, each of such persons being assessed the sum of two (2) Dollars as a personal tax, and that said personal tax is due and payable on the fifteenth day of November, A. D. 1927.

Your attention is directed to Chapter 305 of the Public Acts of 1927, which imposes a penalty of one (1) Dollar upon each person whose personal tax remains unpaid sixty (60) days after its becoming due. This automatically raises all unpaid personal taxes, from two (2) to three (3) Dollars, sixty days after the date on which they become due.

All persons neglecting this notice must be proceeded against as the Statutes direct.

Dated at Lebanon, Connecticut, October 24, 1927.

GEORGE E. BRIGGS,
Collector.

TOWN OF HAMPTON

Personal Tax Notice

A warrant having been issued to me for the collection of Personal Taxes which are due and payable on November 15, 1927, (Chapter 305 Public Acts 1927) notice is hereby given, that for the purpose of receiving such taxes I will meet all persons liable to pay said taxes on Tuesday, November 15, 1927 as follows:—

From 10 o'clock a. m. to 11 o'clock a. m. at the store of Amos Stone, Clark's Corner.

From 1 o'clock p. m. to 2 o'clock p. m. at the store of Dwight Phillips, Hampton Station.

From 2:30 o'clock p. m. to 4 o'clock p. m. at the Town Clerk's Office, Hampton Hill.

Dated at Hampton, Conn., this 27th day of October, 1927.

DELIA C. L. WEEKS,
Personal Tax Collector.

NOTICE

All persons liable to pay a Personal Tax in the Town of Franklin are hereby notified that I have a warrant to collect a Personal Tax of Two Dollars, said tax being due and payable on November 15 and according to Chapter 305, Public Acts, 1927. If not paid within sixty days, one dollar must be added.

For the purpose of collecting this tax, I will be at Burdick's store, Franklin, on November 18 from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., at my residence November 22 from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and at the Town Hall in Franklin on December 5th from 10 a. m. to 12 noon.

F. T. DATE.
Collector.

Dated at Franklin, October 27, 1927.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at North Stonington, within and for the District of North Stonington, on the 28th day of October, A. D. 1927.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Acting Judge.

Estate of Ada Lewis late of North Stonington, in said District, deceased.

The Executor exhibited his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1927, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in said North Stonington, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Executor is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.

NELSON J. AYLING,
Acting Judge.

PERSONAL TAX

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay a personal tax in the town of Bozrah, that I have a warrant to collect the sum of $2 of each and every person liable for same. This tax becomes due November 15, 1927. All persons neglecting this notice will have $1 additional to pay after sixty days.

Dated at Bozrah, Conn., Oct. 27, 1927.

JOHN K. PROCTOR,
Tax Collector.

PERSONAL TAX NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay a personal tax in the town of Preston, that I have a warrant to levy and collect the personal taxes of 1927, each of such persons being assessed the sum of $2 as a personal tax. For the purpose of collecting same will be at the Norwich State hospital Thursday, Nov. 17, from 12 to 3 p. m., Friday, Nov 18 at the store in Hallville from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and at the store in Poquetanuck from 1:30 to 3 p. m. All personal taxes are due and payable on Nov. 15, 1927. If any person shall fail to pay his or her personal tax within 60 days after said date there will be added thereto the sum of $1 which sum shall become therein a part of said tax and shall be collectible in the same manner as though said addition had not been made.

Dated at Preston, Conn., Oct. 26, 1927.

CHARLES C. ZABRISKIE,
Collector of Taxes.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

All persons liable to pay taxes in the town of Norwich, are hereby notified to return to the assessors on or before the first day of November, 1927, a written or printed list properly signed and sworn to, of all taxable property owned by them on the first day of October, 1927. Those failing to make a list will be charged a penalty of ten per cent additional, according to law.

Blanks can be obtained at the assessors' office in City Hall, or will be sent by mail upon application.

Office hours, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Lists will be received beginning Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1927.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., Sept. 28, 1927.

DETECTIVE BUREAU IS PLANNED BY CHIEF PINNEY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 28—A radical change in the police department of New London is contemplated, for it became known today that Captain Charles A. Pinney is anxious for the establishment of a detective bureau. The plans have progressed to such an extent that a room off the police court has been selected as the office of the bureau and is being made ready for occupancy. A requisition has been made for furniture and stationary for the use of the officers, together with other necessary equipment including a telephone. Capt. Pinney is anxious for this new department to get into working order without delay and it is expected that the investigating work will be started next month. The plan is to promote Street Sergeant Nelson Smith to detective sergeant, to work with the present detective sergeant, John Cavanaugh.

When this is done it will be necessary to appoint a street sergeant to succeed Sergeant Smith and it is understood that Traffic Officer William Graham will get the appointment. Officer Graham has performed street sergeant duty in September and again this month, when other sergeants were taking their vacations. He has been an assistance to Sergeants Smith and Cavanaugh in practically all the liquor raids made here for several years. Officer Graham has been a member of the department about 16 years.

MISSING $60 RECOVERED FROM WOMAN WHO TOOK IT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 28—Robert Sellman, of Fairfield, made complaint to the police this morning that he had been robbed of $60 while he slept in a hotel and that he suspected a man or his wife of having committed the theft. His suspicion was well founded for later the woman admitted taking the money, but said that she did so because she thought Sellman had robbed her the night before. Sellman said that he was driving a man and woman named Trippe, friends of his brother, from Quincy, Mass., to Fairfield, and when about five miles outside of New London the car was wrecked. The men and woman came to New London and went to a hotel. Trippe and his wife were assigned to a room and Sellman was given an adjoining room. When Sellman awoke this morning he discovered that his money was missing and reported the theft at police headquarters. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was assigned to the case and going to the hotel the woman admitted taking the money, but said that he night before while in a hotel in Quincy, she was relieved of $100 and that she suspected Sellman of having taken the money. Sellman did not desire that Mrs. Trippe be arrested, so she was allowed to accompany her husband to Fairfield, but not by automobile, for they were passengers on the 11:40 o'clock train.

The Pequot Realty company has sold two and one-half building lots on Freeman street to Agnes C. Bolles.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella M. Phillips, wife of Charles A. Phillips, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, Station 6, Mallory Hill, Waterford, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Arthur Wagner, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church, of this city. The bearers were Leroy Forsythe, Harry W. Dorrigan, Cecil B. Caulkins, Julius C. Goodale, Harry F. Halyburton and William H. Phillips. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

George W. Hopf, 27, formerly of 234 Connecticut avenue, died today at Norwich State hospital, where he had been a patient many months, death being caused by heart disease. He is survived by a brother and sister, both residents of New London. Mr. Hopf, until his health started to decline, was employed by the Union Bank & Trust company.

John Heffernan, homeless and without friends, and practically a life-long resident of New London, was in the police court this morning on a charge of vagrancy. He was sentenced to six months in jail, so that he will have a comfortable home, at least for the remainder of the winter. Heffernan has been a nightly lodger in the tramp room at police headquarters several months and last night when he made his customary application for lodging he was locked up by Desk Sergeant Frank Howard. Heffernan is a former boilermaker but a few years ago he fractured his leg. Since that time he has been unable to follow that line of work and has obtained an existence the best way that he could.

Patrolman Clarence Wells was informed last night that two saddle horses were roaming about the highway in the vicinity of Connecticut College for Women. When a motorist informed the officer of the horses being in the path of traffic, he notified police headquarters and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was sent to round up the animals. He went to Mohegan avenue and Williams street, but did not find the horses. He did find a couple of horses in a pasture, which probably were the ones that the autoist had seen.

Patrolman Walter O'Neill was unable to perform duty tonight being confined to his home as a result of a severe cold.

An automobile driven by Annie M. Gurley, 178 Lincoln avenue and a machine driven by Charles Camarora, 72 Belden street, collided this afternoon on Lincoln avenue, corner of Connecticut avenue. Both cars were damaged and Camarora's brother was slightly injured. Neither driver would lodge a complaint of reckless driving against the other, so the matter was allowed to be adjusted by the parties involved in the accident. Mrs. Gurley was driving northward on Lincoln avenue, when the machine driven by Camarora emerged from Connecticut avenue. Before either driver could reduce speed the machines collided with great force, for both cars were overturned. Mrs. Gurley escaped with trivial bruises as did Camarora, but the latter's little brother sustained cuts and bruises, not however of a serious nature.

George H. Potter, Jr., about 25, of 114 Shaw street, was arrested tonight charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was locked up pending the convening of the police court tomorrow morning. Potter, who has a long police cour trecord, went to the residence at Elmer court, intoxicated. He was persistent in his endeavor to gain admission to the house, although that privilege was denied him. When Potter refused to leave a telephone message was sent to police headquarters requesting that the disturber be taken away. Patrolmen George Cockell and Patrick Sheehan were sent to the house, and upon their arrival there, Potter was in the yard. He appeared to be in a mood other than ugly for he entered the automobile without resistance. When the auto was rounding the corner of Montauk avenue and Bank street, Potter displayed his temper for he decided that he was not going to ride further. He attempted to leap from the machine and partially succeeded for he was detected in his act and was grabbed by the feet by Officer Sheehan as the prisoner started to leap to safety and get away. Officer Cockell stopped the car and went to the assistance of his fellow-officer. Potter, whose body was hanging over the running board was pulled back into the auto. A friend of Officer Cockell's was at hand and rendered assistance by driving the machine to police headquarters. Reaching there, Potter was taken to a cell and when he arrived there he was not in the mood to do any more fighting.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Maynard of Groton, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Madge W. Maynard, to Ralph E. Sawyer, a resident of North Carolina and an employe on the ferryboat Mohican.

Mrs. G. Kenneth Morgan and little son are guests of Mr. Morgan's mother, Mrs. James P. Sullivan of Hillside road. Mr. Morgan, who is employed in New York will spend the week end with his family.

LEWIS-RICE MARRIAGE AT MONTVILLE A WEEK AGO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 28—Announcement is made of the marriage Saturday last at Montville of Harry Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Lewis, 82 Crystal avenue and Miss Ethel Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rice of Montville. The wedding took place at the Baptist parsonage and the ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Nield. Mrs. Auburn Valentine, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Arthur Lewis, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis are on a wedding trip and upon their return to New London will reside at 82 Crystal avenue. Mr. Lewis is employed by the Central Coal company.

PROWLER AT SILK MILL UNDER OBSERVATION AT N. S. H.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 28—The police this evening received information that a man was roaming about the premises of the Corticelli Silk company, off Bayonet street and was acting strangely. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was sent there and found Antone Petri in a roaming mood and apparently of unsound mentality. When questioned by the officer, Petri did not answer intelligently and as a result he was arrested for his safety. After Petri was brought to police headquarters he was given a mental examination by Dr. George P. Cheney and Charles Kaufman and the questions put to him resulted in Petri being adjudged insane. He was ordered committed to Norwich state hospital for observation and was taken there in the police automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Comstock and Mrs. Harriet Church, sister of Mrs. Comstock, all of Quaker Hill, left today for Philadelphia, on their way to St. Andrew's Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Director of Finance Carey Congdon, Mrs. Congdon and child of the Highland apartments, Granite street, are in Philadelphia where they will remain a fortnight as guests of Mrs. Congdon's parents.

Miss Eunice Jenkins, who recently underwent an operation at the private hospital, has returned to her home, 107 Ocean avenue.

David A. Sheehan has moved from Pleasant street to Alger place.

Armistice day will be celebrated this year by a street parade which will take place in the morning and already plans are being formulated for the event. After the meeting of the city council Monday night, when a vote was passed instructing City Manager Holt to arrange for the celebration, that official consulted with members of John Coleman Prince post, No. 9, American legion and Rathbun-Murphy post, No. 189, Veterans of Foreign Wars and a committee was formed to arrange for the celebration. The committee is composed of about a dozen members of the several organizations and Henry S. Dorsey is chairman and Joseph Perrone is secretary. Invitations have been extended to Headquarters Battery and Battery A., 192d Field Artillery, United States Coast Guard cadets, United States Coast Guard section base and submarine base and troops from the forts of the New London artillery district to participate, as have several civic organizations. A speaker will also address the gathering. A meeting of the committee was held this evening when a furtherance of the program to be carried out was discussed.

WESTMINISTER

Oct. 16 Westminster again had the privilege of having Rev. Edward P. Ayer in her pulpit, and listening to a most helpful sermon based on the life experience of the speaker. Mr. Ayer, "the blind chaplain of the senate", was the guest of Representative Andrew Clark. They were schoolmates in Killingly and Mr. Clark brought Mr. Ayer to conduct the worship.

Miss Caroline Perkins sat with Mr Ayer and helped introduce him after the morning worship; also having the church school which meets at 10 a. m.

Deacon and Mrs. Charles Barstow recently observed the 38th anniversary of their marriage.

Mrs. Ida M. Shorter has returned from a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold George, in Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y.

After attending a large wedding (1000 invitation) in Windsor Avenue church, Hartford, of which the late Rev. John Barstow, a speaker of Westminster's 150th anniversary, was pastor, and the reception which followed, the bride, being a special friend of Mrs. Davies, the pastors spent Sunday in that city. The next day they attended Immanuel church and the observance of the 75th anniversary the same as Pearl Street church, later, in its present structure, the Farmington Avenue church, into which Park church was merged some year after, and the two churches were fused into one under the present name of Immanuel church. The pastor is Rev. Charles Francis Carter, formerly of Park church, nationally known to Congregationalism and this year becoming their greatly loved pastor emeritus, Rev Fletcher Parker Douglas was installed as pastor, Oct. 26. The address of Miss Hunt dwelt chiefly on rare characteristics in four of the great pastors of Park. Horace Bushnell, the first, Mr. Carter the last. The address of Leverett Belknap dealt with the tangible steps in the organization of Pearl Street church and its growth and development into Farmington Avenue church. The audience was large and many came from a distance.

The new Little River bridge is underway. Whether the bridge can be completed this fall depends to some extent on the weather. It is estimated the other road and parkway may be completed within a month.

Nick Vitlaz has sold 110 acres of his farm, including the site of the so-called "Rosenzwieg house", and land north of the Robbins road to a Russian for $3,500. Mr. Vitlaz states the new owner will build and live here.

The Ekonk and Westminster Six Church Fellowship meetings will be held in Nov. at Westminster.

A majority of the resident members of Westminster church were present at the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

EAST HADDAM

Mrs. Laura Elizabeth Fuller, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Grace Miller, was given a surprise last week by relatives and friends in honor of her 86th birthday. The party took place at Mrs. Fuller's old home on Town street, to which she had been lured for the event. Mrs. Fuller received gifts from relatives and friends. There were 19 present, including Mrs. Fuller, her daughter, grandchildren and great grandchildren, making four generations in attendance.

Mrs. George W. Morgan was in Meriden over the week-end.

D. J. Treat of Bashan was a guest of his niece, Mrs. S. R. Shaller, in Chester on Wednesday.

Charles Wolf motored to New York Wednesday for a few days' stay. Mrs. Wolf and son, Charles, Jr., will return home with him.

Mrs. Roger W. Davis and family, who spent the summer and fall at their home here, have returned to Hartford for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bryan are occupying the Marie Kars residence.

LISBON

Sunday morning at Newent church, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn of Norwich gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the project plan of giving for missions, also told of the plan and purpose of the new church at Storrs. A solo, The Beautiful Garden of Prayer, was sung by Walter Hyde.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mell were in Boston Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Mell attended a meeting of the N. E. M. P. A., as delegate from this section.

Mrs. Henry Kendall entertained the Ladies' Aid society Wednesday afternoon. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. T. Edward Davies of Westminster who were spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Kendall.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Learned and Miss Lucy Baldwin attended the semi-annual meeting of the New London Association of Congregational churches and ministers in New London Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson of Middletown and their grandson, William McClennan, Jr., of Scotia, N. Y., were week-end guests of Mrs. Duncan McKay and attended church at Newent Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendall and guests, Rev. and Mrs. T. Edward Davies, called on Mrs. Augustus Read at Mrs. Victor Campbell's Tuesday.

Early this week Clarence Whitaker left on an automobile trip to northern New England. He was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitaker of Greeneville.

GREENEVILLE

Miss Helen Drescher of 359 Central avenue, clerk of the probate court here, began her annual vacation Friday. Miss Drescher left for Springfield and after spending several days there, expects to visit friends in Boston.

The Greeneville grammar school pupils had a holiday Friday owing to teacher's convention day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson of Jewett City spent Friday visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Whitmarsh of Fifth street.

Miss Josephine Pusateria of Willimantic Normal school is spending a few days at the home of her mother on Central avenue.

John Nolin of Danielson spent Friday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nolin of Fifth street.

The N. M. Sewing circle met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Wickham of North Main street with one hundred percent of its members attending. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Richmond of Boswell avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Mullen of Ninth street attended the teachers convention at Hartford Friday.

Rev. J. Rees Jones, pastor of St. Andrew's church, left Friday morning to attend a meeting of the Episcopal ministers in New Haven. The meeting is to be in charge of Right Rev. Richard H. Nelson, the Episcopal bishop.

William Delaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Delaney of Oakridge street is a patient at the Hartford hospital with a dislocated hip. Dr. Paul Swett is to reduce the fracture.

The condition of William Gordon, 86, who was struck by a southbound trolley car on Seventh street at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon was reported as very poor at the W. W. Backus hospital late Friday afternoon. Mr. Gordon, a member of the Sheltering Arms, who is now unconscious, had been visiting in Greeneville and was about to return home when struck.

Russell Mitzger of Fifth street and Nathan Sears of Prospect street, representing the Greeneville Congregational church, left Friday morning to attend the 28th annual Connecticut Older Boys conference which began in New Haven Friday afternoon. They will also attend the banquet for the conference members, which is to be held tonight (Saturday) at the State Armory. They were also invited to attend the Yale-Dartmouth football game this afternoon.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. John Joubert and family have moved from the Blissville road to a house on Bolduc lane.

Because of the attendance at the meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association of the teachers of the Wequonnoc school Friday, there were no sessions at the school on that day.

Lawrence Krauss of Blissville has purchased a thoroughbred fox hound, and those who have seen it predict that a great deal will be heard from it during this season.

A new house on the Newent road is being erected in Lisbon for Mrs. Thomas Emerson.

A Halloween party is being arranged by the pupils of the Blissville school to be held at the school on Monday afternoon. The parents of the scholars have been invited to attend. The affair is under the direction of the teachers, Miss Bergen and Miss Keenan.

The Basketry club met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

The cast of "The Country School" which was recently presented in Ponemah hall by the members of the Taftville post, American Legion and the Legion auxiliary, went to Lyme Thursday evening where they staged the play before a large and enthusiastic audience.

HIT AND RUN DRIVER KILLS BOY ON HIGHWAY OUTSIDE OF WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 29—Vernon Cross, 12 year old son of Mrs. Lucy Cross, of Knight street, Ashaway, died at 9:25 p. m. Friday at the Westerly hospital from fracture of skull, shock and abrasions as a result of being struck by an automobile. Marks on the highway showed that he had been struck by an automobile proceeding towards Westerly, knocked from his bicycle and carried a distance of 100 feet at a place one-half mile north of the Meeting House bridge near the L. F. Coombs place on the Noose Neck Hill road. He was picked up at 6:40 p. m. The identity of the driver is unknown and no eye witnesses have been found.

The boy was reported as found unconscious by the roadside by Thomas Scanlon, 204 Colfax street, Providence, a salesman driving from that city to New London. Otto Seidner, of Westerly, proceeding to Providence came upon Scanlon in the road with the boy in his arms and volunteered to take him to the Westerly hospital in his faster automobile. Arriving at the hospital, Dr. John Helfrich gave the boy medical attention, but his death resulted before he regained consciousness. Police Lieutenant George H. Champlain was summoned and as the fatal accident occurred in Hopkinton, notified Chief of Police Frank H. Brown of Ashaway, who visited the Westerly hospital. Rhode Island state police were notified and a thorough investigation is being made.

The boy's mother stated that he was on his way home from his sister's for supper and the boy was reported as last seen bending over his bicycle at 6:30 o'clock near the Meeting House bridge. The boy was picked up on the road at 6:40 and arrived at the Westerly hospital at 6:55.

Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called to the hospital and reported the fatality to Attorney General Charles P. Sisson. Ray Cross, the boy's father, died several years ago. Besides his mother, he is survived by six brothers and sisters.

HOLY CROSS ALUMNI GOING TO CONSECRATION

Holy Cross graduates of Connecticut will be in Worcester Sunday, when four bishops, three of them graduates of the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, will participate in the exercises in St. Joseph's Memorial chapel at the college at 10 o'clock, when the Rev. Joseph N. Dinand, S. J., former president of Holy Cross college, is consecrated Bishop of Jamaica, British West Indies. Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary, D. D., of Springfield will act as consecrator and will be assisted by Bishop John G. Murray, D. D., of Portland, Me., and Bishop Joseph J. Rice, of Burlington, Vt. Bishop William A. Hickey, D. D., of Providence, R. I., will deliver the sermon. Bishops Murray, Rice and Hickey are graduates of Holy Cross in the classes of 1897, 1891 and 1890 respectively. Bishop Murray is a native of Waterbury and before his appointment to the Portland diocese was auxiliary bishop of the Hartford diocese The elevation of Father Dinand to the bishopric will be attended by solemn ceremonies. The Memorial chapel on the college grounds will be thronged with priests from all parts of New England as well as other sections of the country. Every member of Holy Cross alumni has received a personal invitation to the consecration and many will attend. Father Dinand was president of Holy Cross college up to the time of his appointment as Bishop of Jamaica this past summer and had been in that office for the past three years. He also acted as president of the institution a number of years previous to that. His official title will be Titular Bishop of Selinus and Vicar Apostolic of Jamaica. The Very Rev. James M. Kilroy, S. J., provincial of the New England province of the Society of Jesus, will act as assistant priest at the ceremony.

Tuesday, Nov. 15: (Special) Totman vs. Baldelli, alias ——.

$7,500 SUIT WITHDRAWN, SETTLEMENT IS EFFECTED

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been filed in the $7,500 damage suit brought by Salvatore Ficarra, a journeyman barber, of New London against Edward K. Crane of Essex, Conn.

The case was tried some time ago resulting in a jury disagreement and this led to a settlement out of court. Ficarra sued for injuries received in an automobile collision which occurred at the Salem four corners Nov. 28, 1926.

Pupils Gave Piano Recital

The first of a series of pupils' recitals by the piano class of Miss Margarete Suck took place at her residence on Lincoln Terrace on Friday afternoon.

Each one of the pupils played sets of exercises and scales, studies and short selections, all showing much careful work in regard to touch, time and technique, and a great desire to continue their studies.

The pupils present were Beatrice Eggleston, Evelyn Burbeck, June Roberts, Janet Morton, Charlotte Disco, Mary Pullen, Louise Pullen and Charles Maples.

Washington Street Collision

Early Thursday evening a Studebaker Victoria automobile owned and operated by Mrs. Margaret Hayes of Washington street, was badly damaged when it was struck by a Cadillac driven by Joseph Polsky of No. 4 Julian street. It is understood that Mrs. Hayes was turning into her drive-way when the accident occurred. The damage to her machine comprised a smashed running board, splash pan, door, body, and two fenders on the right hand side. The Cadillac was also somewhat damaged.

Given Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Clara Basili of New London was tendered a miscellaneous shower in honor of her approaching marriage to John Montesat of this city. The affair was given at her home, 37 Crystal avenue, by Miss Lena Lepari and a group of friends. Luncheon was served and dancing and games were enjoyed. Miss Basili received numerous beautiful and useful gifts.

Small Fire on Dump

At 11.15 o'clock Friday morning the fire department was called out for a fire on the dump in the rear of the Atlantic Carton Co. at the foot of Second street. One line of inch and a half water hose was laid to extinguish the blaze.

SERMON WILL DISCUSS HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

"Married and Happy" will be the pastor's topic at the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening. This is the second in the series on "The Fine Art of Living Together." A special invitation is extended by Dr. Pitt to all whom he has married during his years in Norwich and to any other young people who have been married during this same period.

Mrs. Grace Goff Fernald of East Hampton will be the guest soloist of the evening. Mrs. Fernald has studied under one of the foremost voice teachers in America. She is well known in Attleboro, Mass., where she was soloist in the choir of the Second Congregational church, taking the soprano roles in Handel's "Messiah" and "The Holy City." She has also taken the solo parts for the Windsor Choral club of seventy-five voices. She is now residing in East Hampton, and has given two recitals recently from WTIC in Hartford.

Mrs. Fernald will sing: "Spirit of God," Neidlinger; "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus," Ambrose; "Prayer Perfect," Stenson, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," Harker.

FORECLOSURE SUIT ON PROPERTY IN STONINGTON

William L. Richmond of Stonington, Sophie Schwarzschild of Westerly, R. I., the New London Dairy Co., Westerly Lumber Co., Harry C. Colman, Westerly; Sara Gertrude, and Ella Soloveitzik, all of Stonington, doing business as M. Soloveitzik Furniture Co., of Stonington, are named party defendants in foreclosure proceedings brought in the superior court by Louis LaFountain of Westerly.

On July 6, 1926, Richmond owed the plaintiff the sum of $4,000 as evidenced by a note of that date secured by a mortgage on property located along the highway leading from Westerly to Stonington, it is alleged. The note is now claimed to be due and wholly unpaid.

Sophie Schwarzschild claims to hold a $2,000 mortgage while the other named defendants are alleged to have attachments against the property.

COULD NOT FINISH $60,000 SUIT TRIAL

The principal points in the $60,000 damage suit brought by the Textile Finishing Machinery Co., of Providence, against the New London Ship & Engine Co., were covered late Thursday afternoon when the superior court was adjourned by Judge Allyn L. Brown in New London.

Judge Brown's term ended Thursday and on Friday he presided at Middletown. There is considerable expert testimony yet to be introduced in the case and Judge Brown will hear it some time after Nov. 10.

FOUND NOVACK AUTOMOBILE HIDDEN IN BUSHES

The Chevrolet coach owned by Edward Novack, No. 180 West Main street, which was stolen Wednesday evening from Broadway was found early Friday afternoon parked in the bushes about a quarter of a mile off the Canterbury turnpike at Versailles. It was minus two tires.

Chauncey House of Versailles telephoned to police headquarters that he had the machine. It was jacked up. Several of the ignition wires had been detached. Mr. Novack went to Versailles Friday afternoon to recover the machine.

Eagles Play Pinochle

The Eagles' weekly pinochle Friday evening resulted in Thomas fields taking first prize with a score of 7355; H. Marcus second 7255 and W. R. Hastedt third 7105.

The first division standing is as follows:

PIMPLES BROKE OUT ON FACE
Were Hard and Painful. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble started with blackheads and finally pimples broke out all over my face. The pimples were in blotches, and very hard and painful. They were very itchy and made me nervous, and I used to rub them with the palms of my hands. The trouble lasted about a month.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. Later I purchased more, and after using about one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Soap I was healed." (Signed) William F. Green, Jr., 49 Wellington Rd., Medford, Mass.

YANTIC PARISH MEETING MAY RECALL RECTOR DAY

The wardens of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, have been notified by Bishop E. Campion Acheson, of Middletown that he has received a letter from Rev. Robert B. Day, rector of the Yantic parish, who left for England several months ago.

Rev. Mr. Day writes frankly that conditions in the English parish to which he had a call are very disappointing and is considering a return to America.

During two periods Rev. Mr. Day has been in charge of the Yantic church, his service covering a total of about four years. The parish prospered under his leadership, he was devoted to his people and he had become well and most favorably known in Norwich as well as in Yantic. There was regret when he announced that he was to return to his native England and take a parish.

On reaching his new charge it proved to be one very much run-down, which four other clergymen had taken and had left in discouragement. Rev. Mr. Day had been given a false impression when the call was extended to him to take the parish.

Bishop Acheson has written that if the Yantic church does not call Rev. Mr. Day back, he can place him elsewhere in Connecticut. To decide the question of a call, the people of the Yantic parish are to meet with the church officials Monday evening. The general sentiment appears to be in favor of asking the rector to return to the parish to which he was so devoted and which he left principally because of the urge of near relatives in England who would prefer to have him labor in his native country. To people of all denominations he gave the impression of being able, sincere, exceedingly broad and charitable; so that many others outside the Yantic parish will have a personal interest in the decision of the people at Monday evening's meeting.

SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS HEARS NOROTON REPORT

Sedgwick Women's Relief corps, No. 16, met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Grace Fowler in the chair. The usual reports were read and approved, and notice was given that sewing society will hold an all day meeting Friday Nov. 4 at the Buckingham Memorial. The chairman requested gifts of cloth suitable for aprons. Mrs. Fowler read a very interesting report of her trip to Noroton Oct. 4th. She said there were 65 men in the home, only eight of whom are G. A. R. men, the others being Spanish war or World war veterans. Many gifts of fruit, jelly, etc., were taken to the home. The state of Connecticut presented the home a beautiful eight-passenger car, which can be used to take the veterans on sight seeing trips or for an ambulance. At a special committee last Monday it was voted to shingle the roof of the Buckingham Memorial. Sedgwick post will bear one half of the expense, and the balance is to be borne by the Sons of Veterans, the Relief Corps and the Daughters of Veterans. As this will mean about $100 apiece the corps voted to solicit each member for 50c towards the sum. The committee in charge comprises, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Jane Seed and Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury, any of whom will be glad to receive the money as soon as possible. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and singing America.

RECOVERED AUTO BUT IN DAMAGED CONDITION

William R. Stevens of the U Drive It company has recovered the automobile which he rented last Saturday to a sailor from the submarine base who did not return it on time so that Mr Stevens reported the car as stolen and set the police on the lookout for it. The machine was driven to New London from where the man who hired it telephoned here that he had left it at the railroad station. The New London police were notified but when they looked for the car at the station it could not be found. Later, however, it was found there in a damaged condition, with the top smashed in and glass broken, indicating that it had probably rolled over.

It is believed that some one else took the car after the man who hired it had left it at the station and while they were using it had an accident, subsequently returning the machine to the place where it was found parked at the railroad station.

MAD ESURGICAL DRESSINGS FOR MISSIONARY HOSPITAL

Members of the mission department of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church held an all day sewing meeting at the Community house, Church street, Friday. A quantity of surgical dressings was made for a home-missionary hospital in South Carolina. The members took basket lunches and soup and coffee were served.

Card Evening by Rebekahs

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, held a very successful whist and pinochle in their rooms Friday evening. There were 24tables. The pinochle prizes went as follows: First, Mrs. H. Brown 7,880; second, Mrs. A. Wholley 7,730; third, Miss I. Wholley 7,600; first gentlemen's, Henry Betting 7,940; second, Geo. Savage 7,840; third, Geo. Moss 7,750. The whist prizes were taken as follows: First, Mrs. H. A. Sherman, 44; second, Mrs. J. LaVallie 36; third, Mrs. Lillian Tuttle 35; gentlemen's first, Mrs. Herbert Rich 43; second, L. Strom, 42; third, H. A. Sherman 42, third being decided by a cut.

Husband Pays Fine for Wife

A Mohegan park road woman who hit her husband over the head with a bottle Thursday night, was fined $5 in the city court Friday morning and her husband paid the fine. Three men were fined $5 and costs for intoxication. Two paid and one went to jail.

Working on Tall Chimney

For the past few days steeplejacks from Pawtucket, R. I., have been working on the large stack at the plant of the Norwich gas and electric department. They are pointing up the brick work and making other repairs which will require several days.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Little out of the ordinary happened in Norwich 50 years ago this week. An explosion in the lock shop caused all the excitement of the week. It was announced that week that the selectmen of the town proposed to restrict the number of liquor licenses issued and that they would not recommend the lowest class of saloons. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of October, 1877, follow:

Monday, Oct. 22, 1857—Free return tickets to the state teachers' association which is to be held in Hartford on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, will be issued over the Connecticut Central, Connecticut Valley, Connecticut and Western, Danbury and Norfolk, New York and New England, Norwich and Worcester, New London Northern, New Haven and Derby and Shepaug railroads to members who pay one fare.

The deaf mute class of children and adults who constitute a feature of the Park church Sunday school, were favored with a pleasant entertainment at the residence of their teacher, Mr. H. V. Edmond, last Friday evening. In addition to the latter's personal hospitality, the class enjoyed a series of charming tableaux and spectacular performances, gotten up by the young folks of the neighborhood.

Owing to the storm of Saturday afternoon scarcely a dozen got out to the organ recital. Mr. Kies was good enough, however, to give them the whole programme.

Tuesday, Oct. 23, 1877—The fall meeting of the Norwich District Ministerial assiciation was opened at the Central M. E. church last evening, with a sermon by the Rev. W. Ela of Portland, Conn.

The Norwich liquor dealers have engaged in a very foolish piece of business. They have "spotted" the citizens who at the last town meeting voted against license, and have had a list of the names printed for distribution. The understanding is that they will have no business dealings with those who voted "no license."

Captain Joseph O. Reynolds of the steamer City of Lawrence, fell a distance of 15 feet while viewing his partially completed house at Norwich Town, yesterday, striking in the cellar and injuring his back and sides. It is hoped that his injuries will not prove such as to keep him long from his usual duties.

One hundred and firty-nine names are on the lists to be made in the town.

The Young Peoples Union of the Central Baptist church give a literary entertainment in their vestry tonight.

Wednesday, Oct. 24, 1877—An explosion of gas occurred at the lock shop Monday afternoon that was heard on the Preston side. Windows were broken in the shop and adjoining buildings, but no other harm was done. The explosion was caused by the accumulation of gas in the cupola which burst forth when the blower was put into action.

A fire was discovered in a box of waste in the plating room of the lock shop last evening, that it is thought originated by spontaneous combistion. The removal of the box was effected without doing any damage.

The board of assessors are very busy now receiving tax lists. Persons who do not present their lists before November will have them made out by the board and 10 per cent added. The assessments thus far show considerable falling off from the returns of the same individuals last year.

Thursday, Oct. 25, 1877—The selectmen and town clerk held a meeting yesterday for the purpose of making voters and 66 applications were accepted. They adjourned to meet again next Monday.

About 500 visited St. Mary's Catholic fair last evening, which is proving financially and otherwise a success. Donations continue to come forward and yesterday the fair was presented by the employes of the Richmond Stove company with the most approved pattern of the cottage range. The gift was supplemented by another equally worthy of mention from Mr. Higgins, the agent of the company, being an improved parlor stove.

Husking bees are now quite the thing in the farming districts. A husking bee means plenty of sweet cider, pretty girls to dance with and a quantity of pumpkin pie.

Capt. Whaley's fine sailboat was taken from its fastenings on the West Side last evening by two tramps who got 30 rods down the stream before they were captured. They claimed they did it merely for the purpose of being arrested as they could get neither foor nor work. They were of course accomodated.

Friday, Oct. 26, 1877—The board of selectmen propose to restrict the number of licenses issued this year. The lowest class of saloons will not be recommended, and in consequence, if they continue in the business, it will be without any lawful warrant. It is thought this may cut off from the list of licensed dealers 25 or 30.

Mr. George W. Huntington, superintendent of the Park church Sunday school, repeated last evening his address of a few weeks ago, on the history of the books comprising the Bible. He had the history clearly and logically arranged and very attractively embodied.

Mr. Nathan P. Bishop met with an accident on Bath street Wednesday by falling to the ground as he was getting from a delivery wagon. He received a hard blow on the forehead and had his nose fractured. The wounds were carefully dressed however and will doubtless heal rapidly.

Saturday, Oct. 27, 1877—Owaneco hall, Greeneville, has been hired of Mr. Carpenter by the Reform club for a year from the first of November. It will be kept open day and evening and a part of its use will be as a reading room and as a resort for young men.

Miller's Greeneville dancing class will be held at Cunningham hall, and is to be a first class affair, judging from the names on the list. It is to be held Monday evenings.

This year the New London road has put in steel rails to some distance above Yantic and the work will be continued next year to South Windham.

Home-Washing Means Home-Working

There is no form of home-washing that does not leave you plenty of work to do. No matter how much mechanical help you may purchase, you know that you cannot get away while your machinery does the washing for you. You know, too, that it only does part of the work, leaving MOST of it for you.

TROY LAUNDRY WASHING MEANS NO WASH DAY.

The TROY takes washday, with its work, bother and fatigue, completely out of the home. Our Family Services, which are very cheap, attend to every bit of the actual washing and enables you to go wherever you want and do whatever you wish. No form of home washing—no mechanical appliance—can do as much.

POETRY

The Last Leaf

I saw him once before,
As he passed by the door.
And again
The pavement stones resound,
As he totters o'er the ground
With his cane.

They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning-knife of Time
Cut him down,
Not a better man was found
By the Crier on his round
Through the town.

But now he walks the streets
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and wan,
And he shakes his feeble head,
That it seems as if he said,
"They are gone."

The mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he has prest
In their bloom,
And the names he loved to hear
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb.

My grandmamma has said—
Poor old lady, she is dead
Long ago—
That he had a Roman nose,
And his cheek was like a rose
In the snow:

But now his nose is thin,
And it rests upon his chin
Like a staff,
And a crook is in his back,
And a melancholy crack
In his laugh.

I know it is a sin
For me to sit and grin
At him here;
But the old three-cornered hat,
And the breeches and all that,
Are so queer!

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the spring,
Let them smile, as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
Where I cling.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The Little Prairie Dog

I am the dog of the prairie,
And Tulsa, they say, is my name;
I lived in the far Western plainlands
Long, long ere the white man came;
They knew me, the fierce Comanche,
The Ute, Apache and Sioux,
I sat on top of my hogan
And waved paws to them as to you.

I am the dog of the prairie,
The upland mesa and trail;
They feast on me in the pueblos,
And the homecoming dog hunters hail;
The fierce rattlesnake eats my children,
The prairie owl claims my home, too
I sit on the top of my hogan,
Beseeching, and wave paws to you.

I am the dog of the prairie,
Of the now and the long ago;
I knew prehistoric cave dwellers
Ere the days of the great lava flow,
I saw Coronado's worn Spaniards,
Long gone, with Comanche and Sioux.
I waved paws to them from my hogan,
I wave friendly paws now to you.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Wife—Baby's cut a tooth.

Ex-Army Dr.—Paint it with iodine.—Exchange.

Mr. North—Money! Money! Always money! Do you think I am the goose that lays the golden eggs?

Mrs. North—No, not that one!—Life.

Are you still engaged to that homely Smith girl?

No, I'm not.

Good for you, old man. How did you ever get out of it?

Married her.—Kansas City Star.

Mrs. Crandall—Baby'll be able to walk soon.

Crandle—D'you think it's worth the trouble of teaching her? Hardly anybody walks much nowadays.—Boston Post.

I told you not to go swimming.

But the other boys p-pushed me in!

Then how is it that your clothes aren't wet?

Well, when they said they were goin' to push me in. . . I took 'em off!—Montreal Family Herald.

Duty calls a man to church on Sunday and pleasure urges him to go fishing, says a Vermont paper.

And Monday morning he shows up at the office all sunburned.—Boston Transcript.

Cecily—It's an opal ring Mr. Choriton gave me.

Geraldine (examining it)—Er—do you like it?

Yes, but there's that old superstition, you know. I'm afraid it will bring me bad luck.

Don't worry. The worst this could bring you would be an imitation of bad luck. — Tit-Bits, London.

"My dear," said the old man tenderly, "today is our diamond wedding, and I have a little surprise for you."

"Yes?" said the silver-haired wife.

He took her hand in his. "You 'see this engagement ring I gave you 76 years ago?"

"Yes," said the expectant old woman.

"Well, I paid the final installment on it today, and I am proud to announce that it is now altogether yours!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Students of the Jing Nyih Girls' school at Shanghai have set a new precedent in Chinese war relief work. They have organized to help the soldiers at the front and to send them gifts, including socks and cigarettes. At a recent theatrical entertainment hundreds of girls pledged themselves to procure funds and gifts for the "Nationalist boys at the front."

An elderly harpist was plucking the strings of his instrument on a Philadelphia street corner when a prosperous looking business man strode by. The man paused and whispered to the musician. A pleased expression came into the harpist's face as he nodded and swung into the strains of "La Paloma." Off came the man's hat and he began to sing. Song followed song and soon a crowd had gathered to listen to the deep, rich barytone. Then the man passed the hat, and with a courteous gesture handed the coins to the old man and walked on.

Upon entering the street car at Philadelphia at midnight, a young man told the conductor he desired to leave the car at Queen lane in Germantown, whereupon he sat down and promptly went asleep. As the car neared Queen lane the conductor shouted lustily. Getting no response he shook the sleeper by the shoulder. Still no results. He then produced a small phial and held it under the slumberer's nose, and instantly he awoke and hurried off the car. Then the few other passengers were told that the phial contained a solution of ammonia and that "it wakes 'em up when nothing else will."

ATTEMPT MADE ON THE LIFE OF PRESIDENT OF GREECE

Would-Be Assassin Fired at President Konndouriotis as He Was About to Enter His Auto After Opening the Congress of Greece Mayors—The Assailant, a Youth Named Zafios Goussios, Fired Two Shots, One of Which Struck the President in the Head, Splintering the Bone in the Right Temple—The Wound is Not Considered Dangerous—Crowds Attempted to Lynch the Assailant, But the Police Took Him Off to Jail.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Admiral Paul Kondouriotis, president of Greece, had a narrow escape from death today at the hands of a youth named Zafois Goussios. His assailant, who is 25 years of age, fired two revolver shots at the president as the later was entering his automobile in front of the municipal building, where he had formally opened the congress of Greek mayors.

One of the bullets struck Kondouriotis in the head, having first passed through the windshield of the automobile, which was shattered in the president's face. Crowds rushed at the youth and attempted to lynch him, but he was saved by the police who spirited him off to jail.

President Kondoriotis was removed to a nearby hospital. His condition was more serious than at first thought and a bulletin issued by the surgeons soon after the president's injuries had been attended, said:

"The president was wounded in the right temple, the bone being splintered. The president bore a slight operation very well; his condition is satisfactory and he was able to return home."

Ministers of state, diplomatic representatives and high officials hastened to the hospital to express their sympathy. Some of them were permitted to speak with him; the others signed the visitors' book.

Goussios, a waiter born in Larissa, came to Athens a fortnight ago for treatment of an aural affection. He also suffers from an impediment of the speech and it was first thought after his arrest that he was a deaf mute.

The police allege that his luggage contains communist literature. They said he made a confession, declaring that he had been long unemployed, and as the state had given him no support he wanted to avenge himself by killing its head.

FURTHER COURT ACTION IN INDIANAPOLIS MAYORALTY CASE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 30—(AP)—Further court action in the complex mayoralty situation in Indianapolis was promised tonight by Ira M. Holmes, attorney, one of the two active claimants to the mayor's office. Action requesting the court to cite Claude E. Negley, the other active "mayor" for contempt of court will be filed in superior court tomorrow, Holmes said.

Holmes said he will charge that Negley disobeyed a restraining order which the court granted Negley and which restrains Holmes from interfering with Negley's assumption of the office.

Mrs. Maude E. Duvall, who as city controller, became mayor after her husband, John L. Duvall, resigned Thursday, appointed Holmes city controller and then she resigned, Holmes, under the law, becoming mayor. The city council, holding that Duvall's recent conviction for violation of the corrupt practices act made him ineligible for public office, on the same day appointed Negley, council president, as mayor.

Tomorrow afternoon Judge Joseph M. Milner in superior court, will rule on a motion by Holmes to have the court dissolve the temporary order. At the same time Holmes will file his request for Negley's citation for contempt.

The other three claimants to the mayor's office are Joseph L. Hogue, city controller of the preceding administration of the late Lew Shank; William C. Buser, brother-in-law of Duvall, and who claims that Duvall did not legally notify him of his recent dismissal as city controller; and Walter W. Myers, Democratic candidate against Duvall in 1925, who has been put forward by his friends.

TWO MEN DROWNED WHEN AUTO PLUNGED INTO RIVER

MILO, Maine, Oct. 30—(AP)—Malvin Melonson, 24, and George Dempsey, 25, both of East Millinocket, were drowned, and Munda Surratt, 27, and his sister, Sadie, 19, also of East Millinocket, were rescued, when a sedan owned and driven by Melonson plunged into the river near here late last night.

The accident happened about two miles north of Milo village, between Derby and North Bradford. The car was going toward North Bradford.

The Surratts were rescued by Clarence Young, a ferryman. He saw the auto coming at a good rate of speed, shoot over his scow, and land in the middle of the river, which is 20 feet deep at this spot.

Young obtained a boat and went to the rescue. Surratt and his sister and Dempsey were struggling in the stream after breaking the glass to get out of the sedan. He saved the brother and sister, but Dempsey sank before he could reach him.

JOHN J. MITCHELL, JR., HASTENING TO CHICAGO

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30—(AP)—John J. Mitchell, Jr., son of the Chicago banker who was killed in an automobile accident Saturday, arrived here today by airplane from Fort Worth, Texas, where the plane took off at 9.05 o'clock this morning.

Upon arrival here Mr. Mitchell went with Watt Webb, a Kansas City banker, to the latter's home for luncheon. He will continue the journey to Chicago tonight but will go by train, it was said at the Webb home, and will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning.

Mr. Mitchell was on a ranch near Encinal, Texas, about 120 miles south of San Antonio when notified of the tragedy Saturday. He went to San Antonio by automobile and left there in a special paine of the National Air Transport, at 6 a. m., today, making connections at Fort Worth with the regular Fort Worth-Chicago mail carrier.

SOVIET RUSSIAN SHIP SEIZED AS RETALIATIVE MEASURE

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 30—(AP)—The Alexandria correspondent of the newspaper Al Ahram says political complications are feared because of the seizure of the soviet Russian steamer Tchitcherin, loaded with 20,000 pounds sterling worth of cotton which, it is stated, was purchased by Russians representatives in Alexandria through the medium of the Equitable Trust company of New York.

The correspondent says the ship was seized yesterday as it was leaving Alexandria for Odessa at the request of the owners of the steamer Costi, which recently was seized and confiscated by Russia authorities at Odessa.

FIRST JAPANESE BISHOP IN THE HISTORY OF R. C. CHURCH

ROME, Ot. 30.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Gennaro Hayasaka, the first Japanese in the history of the Roman Catholic church to be made a bishop, this afternoon received the miter, crozier, ring and gloves, emblematic of his office, from Pope Pius XI in an imposing consecration ceremony at St. Peter's. The world's largest church was filled to overflowing by representatives of all nations, the congregation being moved by the youthful appearance of the oriental prelate, his pleasant smile and eager joy upon assuming his high ecclesiastical office, and the winsomeness and gentleness with which he imparted his first episcopal benediction to the throng of 40,000.

The church authorities left nothing undone in the way of adding to the grandeur of the significant ceremony, which crowns the missionary work begun in Nippon by that famous Jusuit, St. Francis Xavier in 1540.

The noted Sistine choir sang the hymns accompanying the service, notable among them being the 132nd psalm with the significant "Behold How Lovely and Just it is for Brothers to Dwell Together in Union." This was exemplified by Pope Pius and the most recent member of the episcopate, though of different races, saying the same mass together and partaking of the same host and chalice in communion.

HEROIC RESCUES MADE BY FIREMEN IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Heroic rescues by firemen marked a fire of undetermined origin here early today in which three persons were seriously injured and four others had narrow escapes. The injured are at the City hospital suffering from the effects of smoke and illuminating gas. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

The injured, all of whom were occupants of the top floor, were William Houghton, 63, his wife, Mrs. Ellen M., 60, and Herbert Hurst, 50, a roomer.

Captain William Hurley, of engine 1, was informed, when his company arrived at the fire, that three persons were trapped on the top floor. He fought his way through the smoke, smashed in a door and with the aid of members of his company carried them to safety. Other firemen and policemen also displayed courage in assisting occupants of the building to escape.

Frank Dion, his wife Clara, baby daughter one year old and Sylvania Dumont, both occupants of the second floor, were aroused from slumber when an explosion burst the windows of a job printing establishment on the ground floor. The whole lower floor was ablaze and flames were spreading rapidly through the rest of the building as they made their way to the street in their night attire.

BRIDGEPORT MAN IS HELD FOR BURGLARY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Price tags, which had meant nothing to him when he sought a new outfit, led to the arrest today of a New England youth on a charge of burglary when a detective noticed that the clothes he was wearing bore conspicuous price labels.

The young man, Joseph Kaplan, 17, of Bridgeport, Conn., was apprehended with a bundle of extra clothing near a Union square haberdashery which had been robbed last night. He said he had arrived here Saturday from Bridgeport, beating his way on a freight train.

The proprietor of the clothing store identified the clothing as being a part of his stock, and Kaplan was held without bail.

REV. JOSEPH N. DINAND, S. J. WAS CONSECRATED BISHOP

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 30—(AP)—Amid th splendor of ecclesiastical pomp and pageantry performed in the presence of many church dignitaries, leaders in the civic life of the nation, state and city as well as representatives of many creeds, Rev. Joseph N. Dinand, S. J., president of Holy Cross was today consecrated as titular bishop of Selinus and vicar apostolic of Jamaica.

The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of Springfield, assisted by Rt. Rev. Joseph Murphy, bishop of Honduras, and Rt. Rev. John J. Murray, bishop of Portland. The event brought one of the largest gatherings of the clergy in the history of the city, priests being from virtually every diocese in the United States.

LONDON, Oct. 30—(AP)—A total of nine deaths and considerable damage to property had been recorded in a great westerly gale which struck the British Isles Friday night.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 30—(AP)—Sixty persons were killed or wounded in a pirate atack on the steamer Kianghsin on the aYngtse river, says a semi-official Japanese statement.

MOSCOW, Oct. 30—(AP)—Three former Russian millionaires, brothers Vladimir and Cyril Prove and their brother-in-law Korepanoff, sentenced sentenced to death on charges of military espionage, were executed Saturday.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 30—(AP)—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, who has been suffering from phlebitis, or inflammation of the inner membrane of a vein, has been ordered to bed by his physician, the physician advised this course for at least a month.

LONDON, Oct. 30—(AP)—Brides and bridesmaids this winter carefully select wedding raiment which may be easily converted into evening gowns after the ceremony, according to the latest fashion notes. The explanation is that society folk claim to be hard up.

NINE MEN SPENT SIX DAYS ADRIFT IN AN OPEN BOAT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—After six days adrift in an open boat the crew of nine men of the schooner G. Poss was landed at Hoboken, N. J., today by the liner Volendam, which had picked them up 12 miles off the coast of Bermuda last Friday.

The Horatio G. Foss, a four-master schooner, with a cargo of coal, was en route from Philadelphia to Martinque, and was sinking after being battered by three successive gales when the crew abandoned it on October 22. The ship slipped beneath the waves shortly after dark that nine.

A 20-foot motor boat, its engine removed to make it lighter, was lowered and into it Captain William Potter and his men scrambled. A count was made and it was learned that one of the sailors, Leonard Nelson, was missing. The launch returned and Nelson was taken off.

WATERBURY PATROLMAN ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT

WATERBURY, Oct. 30—(AP)—Patrolman Walter Gabriel was arrested on charges of assault and breach of the peace here tonight in connection with the alleged beating of Max Melchuk, 33, of 151 North Elm street, early Saturday morning. He will be arraigned in city court tomorrow morning.

Melchuk, arrested by Patrolman Driscoll at 12:50 o'clock Saturday morning told police officials that Patrolman Gabriel had beaten him up after both men left a North Elm street restaurant at midnight. Superintendent of Police Joseph H. McLean investigated the case yesterday, questioning Melchuk, Gabriel, Driscoll and other officers connected with the arrest of Melchuk. Supt. McLean did not suspend Gabriel but stated that he would lay the matter before the board of safety. He refused to discuss details of the case.

NEW BRITAIN MAN LOST HIS WAY IN SWAMP

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 30—(AP)—Michael Kehoe, caretaker of a New Britain cemetery, was in the hospital tonight suffering from pneumonia and not expected to live, after a sergeant of police and three patrolmen had conducted a will-o'-the wisp search of an hour's duration through the woods and swamps.

Informed by residents on Hunter road at about 9:30 tonight that for an hour a man had been "hollering his head off" in the woods, the police detail went out and tried to follow the voice. It took them nearly an hour to locate Kehoe who was lying helpless in a puddle in the swamp. According to police he had become intoxicated and, wandering in the swamp, lost his way.

Four Persons Killed in Crash of Airplane

Accident Near Hadley Field, N. J.—All the Bodies Were Badly Mangled.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 30—(AP)—Four persons, including the pilot and his fiancee, were instantly killed today when a five-passenger Fairchild cabin airplane fell at New Market, little more than a mile from the scene of the crash of an airship on Sept. 17, in which seven were killed and five others injured.

The dead:

Leroy Thompson, 28, pilot, of 191 Passaic St., Hackensack, employed by the Colonial Air Transport company.

Elisabeth McGowan, a school teacher, of Westwood, N. J.

Wesley Hubbel, 27, roommate of Thompson.

George Haubner, 26, of Hillsdale.

The plane crashed in a field a mile south of Hadley field, eastern terminus of the air mail. Two hunters who said the machine narrowly missed them as it fell from a height of about 200 feet, believed it went into a tailspin as Thompson executed a sharp bank to turn north. The engine continued to roar until it struck earth. The engine was buried in the ground and the fuselage was crushed.

Examination showed that the four victims were instantly killed.

The plane had taken off from Hadley shortly before noon after having been flown from Boston last night. Information is that Thompson had brought the plane to Teterboro, the Colonial Air Transport company's field, for the Sunday afternoon "joy ride" service. At the time of the crash Thompson was taking friends on a sight-seeing trip.

"I knew something was wrong with it when the plane started to turn" Charles Drake, one of the hunters, said. Two men were in front and a girl and boy in the back. I don't remember exactly what happened. I was paralyzed with fright."

Four hours after the tragedy, the Reynolds Airways company, owner of the Fokker plane which figured in the accident of Sept. 17, continued to take passengers up in their machines for brief flights. Few of these patrons, however, knew of the mishap.

SCHOONER SUNK BY LINER PRESIDENTE WILSON

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The tale of grim game of hide and seek in the fog, with two ships as the participants, was told today by Elden Fleete of Gloucester, helmsman and one of the three survivors of the fishing schooner Avalon, sunk off Cape Cod early yesterday in collision with the Italian Liner Presidente Wilson. Fleet with two others, Nicholas Walsh of Gloucester, and Frank Heemon of Shelburne, N. S., were picked up by the liner and brought here. Captain Edmund Vogler of Liverpool, N. S., skipper of the Avalon, and 10 members of the crew perished.

The schooner was about four miles off Highland light in the Peak Hill Bell Buoy fishing grounds, Fleete said, with the Presidente Wilson was slighted half a mile away and directly astern. This was from 12 to 15 minutes before the collision.

"Capt. Vogler had just gone below and I called him back," Fleete said. "When he knew a collision was imminent, he ordered the auxiliary engine started and hauled off to port. A few minutes later, it seemed to us that the Wilson also followed that direction. We kept out fog horn going and Capt. Vogler continually flashed a torch to attract the ship's attention.

"When the liner kept on the same course, the Avalon went about on the starboard tack, and again the Presidente Wilson seemed to alter her course. The vessels kept zig-zagging.

"The schooner was overtaken while on the starboard tack, the liner striking her on the port bow. The big ship cut deep into the Avalon and pushed her down. Most of the dories were filled with water. Only one boat was lowered with three men in it, capsized."

Two bodies which were picked up by the Presidente Wilson and brought here remained unidentified today.

BOY'S NECK WAS BROKEN IN FIRST FOOTBALL GAME

ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 30—(AP)—Harry Kernan, aged 17, of South Orange, N. J., was in Orange Memorial hospital today, suffering from a brokenneck received when he was playing his first game as a member of the Columbia high school football team yesterday, an ambition cherished since the start of the season. Before few as injured Kernan was acclaimed as a hero of the contest with Irvington high school, for a series of brilliant runs.

Fellow players were not aware Kernan's injury was serious when he failed to rise after being thrown during a short dash. The boy failed to respond to first air treatment after the game and was brought to the hospital where he lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

E. F. Albee Decides to Invade "Poli Towns"

To Build a Chain of Theatres For Movie-Vaudeville Programs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—E. F. Albee, head of the Keith-Albee enterprises, announced today the formation of a syndicate composed of Keith-Albee, The Stanley Company of America, and two additional unnamed motion picture concerns, to build a chain of theatres in the "Poli towns", of New England.

The new theatres, which will present combination movie-vaudeville programs will be erected in Worcester and Springfield, Mass., and New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport and Meriden, Conn., and after that in other cities in the New England territory.

Under the terms of a verbal agreement between Poli and the late B. F. Keith, towns having Poli theatres have never been invaded by the Keith circuit. Recently, however, the Poli enterprises were sold to a syndicate and announcement was immediately made that the Keith interests would enter the field.

The Stanley company operates a chain of movie and vaudeville theatres of national proportions and also controls the First National Pictures corporation.

POLI IS TO DEVOTE HIS LEISURE TO SCULPTURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Sylvester Z. Poli, former Italian immigrant boy who rose from the humble task of modelling wax horrors for the shocking Eden Musee of the "Eighties" to ownership of a chain of New England vaudeville theatres here recently sold for $30,000,000 plans to devote his time in retirement to his first work, sculpture, he said today.

Poli, who is 67, came to this country in 1881 after studying sculpture in Paris under M. Debiex and began working in wax over the old Proctor playhouse in lower Fifth avenue. There he learned to preserve pallidly the likenesses of kings and queens, murderers, anarchists and actresses for the Dime mueum. As the museum fad gained popularity Poli entered the business in New Haven, combining vaudeville with his exhibit at the traditional "10-20-30" prices.

In the three decades since 1895 he has built variety theatres throughout New England and established a vaudeville circuit bearing his name. After selling these for $30,000,000 he announced his intention of devoting his time to sculpture, reading and travel.

RUTH ELDER RESORTS TO BEAUTIFYING PROCESSES

PARIS, Oct. 30—(AP)—Except for a few hours of mild sightseeing with Major and Mrs. Yount, of the American embassy as guides, Ruth Elder, the American aviatrix, passed today in the quiet intimacy of her old gold Louis XV boudoir, doing up her hair in the latest Parisian fashion and various other beautifying processes.

From 11 in the morning until three this afternoon she shut her door to a host of visitors calling to pay homage and to invite her to various entertainments and put herself through mademoiselle's daily routine.

After three she stepped out of her boudoir in the pink of condition to "do" the town as a tourist. She appeared, however, more "distingue" than 999 out of every thousand who daily visit Notre Dame, the tomb of Napoleon and Eiffel tower, all of which were on her itinerary, for she wore a tight black toque of the Rue de la Paix choicest stock, a black coat trimmed with grey, brown fur, flesh colored stockings and black patent leather slippers. Then to set off her trim young figure, she wore a black and white sports costume of Jersey material.

MRS. KNAPP CONSULTED COUNSEL IN SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 30—(AP)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, whose conduct of the 1925 state census is under investigation, failed to leave for New York today for consultation with Alexander Otis, her attorney, with reference to reply to the latest invitation of Randall J. Lebouef, Moreland act commissioner, to take her testimony at Syracuse not later than November 3. Mrs. Knapp was understood to be in conference with a Syracuse attorney. The conference continued early tonight. When Mr. Otis returned to New York Friday, it was then announced Mrs. Knapp would leave for New York today.

RUMANIA RECOGNIZED VISA OF SOVIET REPUBLIC

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 30—(AP)—For the first time since the establishment of the soviet republic, Rumania today recognized a soviet visa which appeared on the passport of the Russian singer Feodor Chaliapin, who arrived at Bucharest for a weeks' engagement. Although the singer had been deprived of certain rights by Russia owing to his aiding white Russians aboard, he still carried the passport issued by the soviet, which the Rumanian authorities, in the absence of relations with Russia, honored as a courtesy to Chaliapin.

FORMER NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL PLAYER KILLED BY BLOW ON HEAD AT YORK, PA.

YORK, Pa., Oct. 30—(AP)—Jack Walsh, 24, a former Notre Dame football player and son of a Chicago business man, was found dead on the street in the heart of York's foreign quarter early today, the victim, police believe, of an attack by Negroes.

James Williams, 28, a Negro, was arrested and held for the district attorney. No charges have been lodged against the prisoner, who was alleged to have struck Walsh with his fist when Williams responded to cries of help from two Negro women.

Walsh was found lying against the door of a garage by policemen responding to a call, discovered that he had died from a hemorrhage superinduced by a ruptured blood vessel in his head.

Authorities said they were not satisfied that the story told by residents of the section where Walsh's body was found, was true. One theory is that Walsh was led into the alley, fatally wounded and then robbed. He was said to have had a large sum of money when he left a dance hall earlier. At the police station a search revealed only one dollar.

Walsh, who lived at the Y. M. C. A., was said to be survived by a widow and one child. They live in Chicago, police were informed.

It is said that the elder Walsh is a stockholder in the American Chain company and that his son had been working in the various plants of the company to learn the business.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR 25 BOMBING AIRPLANES

Announcement Made by War Department—The Planes Are Designed to Carry 2,000 Pounds of Bombs and Five Machine Guns—Will Have a Six Hour Cruising Radius With an Average Speed of 100 Miles an Hour.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—(AP)—Contracts for 25 bombing planes designed to carry 2,000 pounds of bombs and five machine guns have been awarded to the Keystone Aircraft company of Bristol, Pa., the war department announced today. The new planes are to be the first produced under plans for re-equipment of the bombardment units of the army air corps and their design resulted from extensive tests of the type, which is designated the L. B. 5-A.

The planes will have a six-hour cruising radius at an average speed of about 100 miles an hour. Two machine guns will be mounted in the forward cockpit, two in the rear cockpit and one tunnel-gun is designed to shoot through the floor. The power is furnished by two Liberty motors while the fuselage will provide room for a pilot, mechanic, machine-gunner and a bombarder.

SITUATION IN RUMANIA RETURNING TO NORMAL

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The situation in Rumania has returned to normal. The Carolist volcano has simmered down to the proportions of smouldering ash heap, and today there is only a trace of smoke.

Nobody asserts that the dynastic fire has been completely smothered, but it seems that Premier Bratiano for the present at least has extinguished Carol's hopes of retrieving the Kingly crown, which two years ago he threw away for the love of a woman.

By his peremptory declaration in parliament Thursday that the dynastic question was closer, the premier once more slammed the royal door on Carol and put the key in his own pocket.

Many American and foreign newspapermen, who hastened here expecting to find Rumania seething in revolt, came into a country, which seemed quiet and peaceful. Martial law is now invisible, the only soldiers in evidence being a few guards outside the royal palace.

The government's failure to publish the letters which former Under Secretary Manollescu was carrying from Carol to the political leaders has convinced the public that there was much more smoke than fire behind the vel of uncertainty.

POLICEMAN WOUNDED BY BANDITS NEAR CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Sawed off shotguns, manned by robbers of a roadhouse in Thornton, a suburb, seriously wounded a county highway policeman early today, and assisted the bandits to escape.

Policeman Henry Marcinski, of Homewood, Ill., passed the roadhouse as the gang of 12 bandits was departing with $15,000 in loot. They opened fire, striking him twice in each arm and in the right leg.

The holdup gang surprised 100 patrons of the inn during a Halloween costume party and were assisted by a young woman in a Cindrella costume who was among the merry-makers when the robbers arrived.

Firing into the ceiling with a shotgun, the leader commanded the dancers, waiters, orchestra and other employes to line up against the wall.

The robbers arrived during an Apache dance act and their shot was first believed to be a part of the show, until one of the entertainers fainted, crying: "It's a holdup."

They escaped in two automobiles.

SEVEN MINERS KILLED BY AN AIR BLAST EXPLOSION

HUGHTON, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Bodies of two of the seven miners whose lives were snuffed out by an air blast explosion, occurring on the 41st level of the Quincy copper mine, near here yesterday, were recovered today.

The bodies were those of John Israelson, 40, and Emil Eittama, 31, found near the top of a huge pile of stone at one end of the wrecked levee.

Rescue workers who have been operating in relays since late yesterday when the explosion occurred declared tonight it may be several days before the bodies of the other five victims are secovered.

Hundreds of tons of stone, heaped up in the section of the level where the victims were trapped, will have to be removed slow'y and carefully, due to the hazardous condition of the flooring. One end of the level was completely torn out by the terrific force of the percussion and the weight of the wreckage at the other end may force a cave in to the level below.

The wrecked level is 4100 feet beneath the surface of the entire shaft.

WHOLESALE PRICE OF PORK DECLINES SHARPLY

CHICAGO, Oce. 30.—(AP)—The wholesale price of pork has declined sharply in the last two weeks, a review of meat and livestock market issued by the Institute of American Meat Packers said today.

"Fresh pork loins are now wholesaling at levels 20 per cent. lower than at the beginning of the month and 22 per cent. lower than last year. Other fresh pork cuts also declined in price in the last two weeks.

"Smoked hams are 27 per cent. lower than a year ago: skinned hams, 28 per cent., and bacon, 13 to 20 per cent. cheaper.

"Beef prices remained fairly steady during the first part of the month, but strengthened slightly toward the close for choicer grades."

10,000 GALLONS ALCOHOL AND 600 BARRELS WHISKEY SEIZED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30—(AP)—Approximately 10,000 gallons of alcohol and 600 barrels of whiskey estimated to have a bootleg value of $1,500,000 constitute the cargo of the three-masted schooner Przsymel, seized today by coast guardsmen at the mouth of the Mississippi river. The ship, its captain and eleven members of the crew were brought here and placed under guard, pending investigation.

The ship is said to be of German registry.

LEFT NOTE TELLING OF SUICIDE DETERMINATION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A trail of suicide notes which ended in his abandoned automobile in the shadow of the Delaware River bridge in this city, today started police of four cities on a search for Harold A. Bowcock, 20-year old restaurant proprietor of Tom's River, N. J.

His 10-year-old wife, standing tearfully over the crib of their 10 months-old daughter, refused to believe Bowcock is dead, although she awoke today to find a note saying he had driven either to Jersey City or Newark to end his life.

Bowcock's car was found parked near the Delaware River bridge today. One door was open, the keys were in the lock and the floor was littered with bits of torn checks. Pinned to a wrapper and carton which had contained a bottle of poison, was this note:

"To whom it may concern: I die of failure. Harold A. Bowcock, Tom's River, N. J., I have taken poison first and then jumped into the Delaware River, but let me stay there and notify Mr. and Mrs. Bowcock, P. O., box 12, Tom's River.

"To the finder of this note: Notify the police and tell them to notify my parents and also A. B. Cranmer."

In the pocket of the car was found a letter written last week by Cranmer, who runs an automobile agency in Tom's River, reminding Bowcock that he had made no payment on the car for two months, with this letter was a third note which read:

"Tell them to leave my body in the bottom of the river, as I don't want my parents to have to pay for a funeral for me."

Local police were unable to find any one who had seen Bowcock leave his car, which, they said, had been abandoned only a few minutes before it was found. The engine of the car was still warm when a detective found it parked at the bridge.

SHOWDOWN EXPECTED IN THE COLORADO COAL STRIKE

DENVER, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The strike situation in the Colorado coal fields is expected to come to a showdown tomorrow as owners of all the mines in Huerfano county, where the strikers have massed their strength, have announced they will attempt to operate. Strike leaders have announced they will continue to have pickets on duty and believe that they can keep all of the mines from digging coal. The result probably will determine whether national guard troops will be sent to the coal fields.

The mine owners have stated that few of the miners want to strike but they are afraid to come to work because of intimidation by the strikers and their I. W. W. leaders. The demands of the strikers include a basic daily wage of $7.75, a six hour day and a five day week.

Governor A. H. Adams had prepared the national guard for mobilization but says he does not want to call out the troops unless the situation gets beyond the control of county authorities.

Adjutant General Paul P. Newlon, Col. A. L. Hart, Maj. Richard Gainstead and Capt. H. L. Reiter of the guard, left Denver today for Walsenburg to look over the situation.

The strike, which was called by the industrial workers of the world, will enter its thirteenth day tomorrow. Over 7,000 miners out of the 12,000 in the state are idle as a result of the controversy. All mines in Northern Colorado excepting one are closed by the strike and many mines in Fremont, Las Animas, and Routi counties have ceased to operate Others have been working with greatly reduced forces.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED HIS FATHER WITH GOLF CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—(AP)—Death rode on the swing of a golf club here yesterday to end in tragedy a father's lesson to his son in the rudiments of the links game.

The tragedy, revealed today, occurred on a golf course when Donald Wesley, 12, missed a golf ball and the club struck his father, Ben H. Wesley, on the head.

The father, after demonstrating the correct way to drive, handed the club to his son and stepped to one side. Donald, setting himself for the stroke as shown by his father, swung, missed, and the club on the upstroke struck the elder Wesley on the right temple. Death was almost instantaneous.

CONFESSED SLAYING HIS WIFE AND SISTER-IN-LAW

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 30.—(AP)—New Orleans police were notified today that Henry Molty, alleged slayer of his wife an dsister-in-law, had been captured at Cutoff, La. Edward J. Smith, chief of New Orleans detectives, in sending the report, said Molty had confessed and implicated his brother, Joseph, who is in custody here, as an accessory.

Molty is charged with having killed his wife, Mrs. Theresa Molty and Mrs. Lepide Molty, wife of Joseph Molty last Thursday. The bodies dissected, were found stuffed in trunks in a French quarter tenement house.

Joseph Molty, in charging his brother Henry with the crime, assigned jealousy as the motive.

MANY GUESTS AT SANDLER-HOCHBERG WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31—Miss Annie Hochberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hochberg of 58 South Park street was united in marriage to Irving Sandler of New London, son of Mrs. Ethel Sandler of Swansea, South Wales, England, at a pretty house ceremony performed at six o'clock this evening by Rabbi Max Levine, at the home of the bride's parents, beneath a bower of pink and white, these colors being effectively carried out in an attractive decorative scheme. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Molly Rosen of this city played the wedding march. The bride was charming in a gown of orchid georgette and taffeta. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms and pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bride's mother was becomingly gowned in black brocaded georgette. Nearly 150 guests attended the wedding and the reception which followed those present coming from New London, New York, Norwich, Boston and this city. A buffet luncheon was served and dancing was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Sandler will spend their honeymoon in New York and Boston after which they will make their home in New London where the groom is senior member of the news firm of Sandler and Philips. For traveling the bride wore a black georgette and chiffon velvet dress under a coat of Hudson seal. Her hat and shoes harmonized. The bride is a well known local young woman and has a wide circle of friends.

Among cases that will occupy the attention of the police court Monday morning is that of Herbert Gill, 26, of 405 Valley street who was arrested on Saturday evening by Officer Arthur Hurley on complaint of Morris Spector, local junk dealer, who alleged that Gill had stolen a Waltham watch from his place. Another is the case of Frank Rousseau, 31, who has been arrested again on a charge of breach of the peace on complaint of his wife who said that she had to run out of the house when her husband became boisterous. There will also be three cases of intoxication.

Information has reached here to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Crane of 233 Prospect street and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fichthorn of 234 Prospect street were injured in an automobile accident on the state highway between Westfield and Russell, Mass., Friday. Mr. Fichthorn, who is manager of the local commercial office of the Western Union Telegraph company sustained painful body injuries and Mrs. Crane suffered a scalp wound and abrasions on the body. Mr. Crane and Mrs. Fichthorn escaped with slight injuries. The party, who had started on a week-end motor trip over the Mohawk Trail with Dalton, Mass., as their destination returned to this city Sunday. The accident was caused by the blowing out of a tire on the Nash sedan operated by Mr. Crane, as the machine was passing a truck while descending a steep hill. The machine skidded and turned over twice, badly damaging the top and fenders.

Another continuance, this time to December 1, was granted in police court Saturday morning in the non-support case of William A. Segar. The continuance was given under an agreement that Segar will pay weekly installments of ten dollars for the support of his wife, Mrs. Mabel F. Segar and four minor children. Mrs. Segar and her son Walter Segar, 15, and the accused took the witness stand Saturday. The son said that his father could afford to pay $15 a week. Mrs. Segar said that her husband, from whom she has been estranged for several years, had paid in $305 since January 1st. Segar said that he would pay the money to his son but not to his wife.

About 80 per cent. of those liable to file property lists according to last year's records have complied with this phase of the law thus far this year according to figures given out today by Chairman George E. Gifford of the board of assessors.

Mrs. Jane Sweet Clark, 35, wife of Russell G. Clark, both formerly of Willimantic, died in the neurological ward of a New York city hospital Thursday night, after a three months' illness, it was learned here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Clark both received their elementary and high school educations in this city and removed to Port Chester, N. Y., about ten years ago. Mr. Clark was transferred at that time to the main office of the American Thread company in New York city. Mrs. Clark was born here, January 12, 1892, a daughter of William H. P. and Nettie Tilden Sweet. Besides her husband and parents she leaves one sister, Miss Elmira C. Sweet of this city and a brother, Royden B. Sweet of Portland, Me.

The funeral services were held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church. Rev. W. F. Borchert of Providence, R. I., former rector of the local church and personal friend of the deceased, officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

The police were notified of two slight accidents Saturday afternoon, one being during the noon hour when a Dodge car driven by Paul Lisack of South Coventry collided with a truck owned by Robert W. Gardiner of Mansfield and driven by Frank Sledesky of Eagleville on Main street near the H. E. Remington company store. It was said that Lisack failed to give warning that he was driving away from the curb as the truck was approaching from the rear. The second accident was at two o'clock when a coach driven by Romeo L. Benoit was struck by a truck which was being backed out of Bank into Meadow street by Lionel Robitaille. Benoit claimed that he did not have time to clear the truck. Arrsements for the settlement of damages were arrived at in both accidents.

Deputy Fire Warden Alfred P. Abbe of Windham and a number of volunteers had a busy time of it this afternoon and the early part of the afternoon fighting a brush fire on scrub land adjoining St. Joseph's cemetery and bordering the Natchaug river at the foot of Bricktop hill. The fire was checked after burning over a few acres of underbrush.

HANOVER

During the Sunday school service last Sunday, Miss Jessie Still was presented a solid gold cross and crown badge, and a certificate of perfect attendance by the superintendent, Mr. William G. Park. She has attended church service and Sunday school every Sunday one whole year, being the only one in her church to receive this reward.

Friday was a holiday for the school children as the teachers, Mrs. Irene Mann and Miss Ruth Lee attended the teachers' convention.

The Backus hospital ambulance was here Wednesday night to carry Mrs. Mary Lyon to the hospital. Much sympathy is felt for the family as her son is a patient in the hospital also.

DANIELSON

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION TO CONDUCT BLASTING DEM.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 30—Among its varied activities and programs of the fall season, the County Farmers' association, co-operating with the U. S. department of agriculture and the Connecticut Agricultural college extension service, has some blasting demonstrations planned for this week. F. W. Knipe, specialist in agricultural engineering, is coming into the territory to show what can be done with dynamite, at small cost, in ridding farm places of bothersome rocks.

Next Friday morning, Nov. 4, at 10 a. m., he is to be at the John Stromberg farm in Abington, to do some blasting, and at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of that day he will give another demonstration at the Herbert A. Tibbett farm, Bush Hill, on the Wolf Den road, in the town of Brooklyn.

In a communication relative to these demonstrations County Agent F. L. Davis of Putnam says: On most farms there are at least a few large stones and on some farms quite a number that should be removed from the fields. These stones are sometimes in fields that are being cultivated or mowed and are a nuisance and are destructive as far as operation of farm machinery is concerning. On other farms there are fields are not under cultivation, but that the owner may plan to rid in the future of the rocks and stumps that are upon them, that they may be cultivated to advantage in the future.

The demonstrations planned for the week end will be well worth the attention of any land owner having a rock or stump problem. Mr. Knipe is an expert in the use of dynamite, and he will demonstrate how it easily may be used to blow away rocks or stumps that may have provide a hindrance to farm workers for years.

A number of important seasonal subjects will have the attention of the membersm of the Danielson chamber of commerce when they hold their monthly meeting at the Attawaugan hotel Tuesday evening.

Watch out for the spooks and goblins Halloween. Danielson's youngsters have long since made their plans to be out with all kinds of fearsome things, carried by sheeted youth having, probably, a better time than life will grant them later on.

Mrs. Catherine Berggren, 53, a native of Ireland and wife of Edward Berggren, is dead at their home in Hampton. Prayers of the congregations were asked for her this morning at the masses at St. James' church.

Mrs. Florence Cooper Young, wife of Frank I. Young, was buried on Saturday after funeral services for her had been held at the home in Chepachet, R. I., where the family moved from Central Village last spring. Mrs. Young was 63 years old. Mrs. Young leaves her husband, a son, Charles L. Young, of Chepachet, and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Markham of Great Barrington, Mass., and Mrs. Wilhelmina Freelove of Chepachet. Burial was at Pascoag.

Clarence Dragon and Fred Beck are joint owners of what has been known in Brooklyn for years as the Morton property. The new owners are making various improvements, including the installation of electric lights and an electrically operated water supply system.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter were visitors today with Mr. and Mrs. George Witter in Brooklyn.

Week end action in the Windham county superior court at Willimantic appears to insure, some time during November, a recount of the votes cast for selectmen here on the first Monday in October, to definitely determine whether John A. Gilbert, republican, declared elected first selectman, shall retain the place or whether he shall be counted out in favor of Alcott D. Sayles, democratic member of the board, who has resorted to legal processes to review a count hat he holds should have resulted in his having been declared elected first selectman. The facts relative to the grounds on which the recount is asked are generally known through prior printed information relative to the case.

You can't discourage a Dartmouth freshman. "We lost, but we won!" was the exuberant cry of a half dozen of them, wearing their little green caps, as they motored through Danielson Saturday night after the bearing the 'varsity football team took at the hands of Yale at New Haven during the afternoon.

A Halloween dance, with costumes and favors, good music and a comfortable place to dance this (Monday) evening at Kum-Along-Inn, West Side. —Adv.

October became a bit snappy, after its wonderful weather record, this morning, when early risers found the chill of real fall in the air and the mercury down in the 20's.

Crisp mornings now fox hunters are having their innings, and they do say that there are plenty of foxes, but that foxhounds, for one thing, are rather inclined to hop off on a deer track when they come across one, as happens frequently, and to forget their real mission in life.

At all the masses at St. James' church this morning announcements were made relative to the All Saints' day services, on Tuesday morning, and the All Souls' day services on Wednesday. Tuesday—All Saints' day—is a Holy day of obligation, and the requirement of Catholics is that they attend mass, as on a Sunday.

Box 12, ringing in about 10.25 this morning, sent firemen scurrying over into the Riverview section to subdue a grass fire, against which residents of the section north of Williams street were battling when the firemen arrived.

A drive for admission to the Orpheum theater marked the waning hours of Saturday evening, when the Dempsey-Tunney fight pictures were shown there, beginning at 10 o'clock, after the regular evening show. The line of people waiting for admission strung along Center street almost back to Main street.

A great concern distributing gasoline and allied products overlooked a good bet in sending into this territory a magazine picturing old churches of New England and it failed to include one of the especially handsome and attractive structures of the kind typical of Colonial days—the Westfield Congregational church, in Danielson.

As indicative of the expansion of the Rhode Island state police department just over the Connecticut line, announcement was made in Providence papers today of the arrangement to establish a new police barracks at Chepachet, the members of the department stationed there to patrol the route out of Chepachet into Putnam and the route from Chepachet to Chop Mist hill and thence to the Connecticut line, five miles east of here.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM RED CROSS NURSING HEADQUARTERS TO BE MOVED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 30—The headquarters of the Red Cross nursing service in Putnam will be moved on the first of November from the present office on Front street to No. 10 Ballou street a house at the north end of the city. The new headquarters will be made into a community health center. The several rooms that are available give an opportunity for an expansion of the headquarters work. It is thought that the new location will be more central for those from all parts of the city using the service and that time will be saved by the nurse when she makes calls and it will be more convenient for those who visit her at the community health center.

Official pictures of the Tunney-Dempsey heavy-weight championship fight at Chicago were shown to a large audience at the Bradley theatre Saturday night at ten o'clock after the regular evening shows were over. Owing to the great demand for the pictures, Manager Jim Mahoney decided to put them on, even at this unusual hour rather than make the fans of Putnam wait for weeks or perhaps months, to see this much talked of scrap in the movies.

Marion Light, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Light of Main street was taken to the Isolation hospital at Hartford for treatment for infantile paralysis a few days ago. This is the only case reported in Putnam recently of this much dreaded disease.

Phillip Aframe, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Aframe of Main street has returned from St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester suffering with a broken nose. In making a tackle in football practice Aframe's head came in contact with the head of another player resulting in a broken nose for the young man.

Louis Lucier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Lucier is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where he was operated upon for appendicitis. He is resting comfortably and is expected to make a good recovery.

Members of the Pawtucket, R. I., lodge of Loyal Order of Moose made a pilgrimage to the General Lyon Inn at Eastford, the home of Rhode Island State Supervisor N. Waldo Kennedy. It was a stag affair and the day was spent quietly with a dinner at the inn.

Charles A. Thayer of this city has been granted a pension of $20 a month by the federal government, according to an official report from the bureau of pensions at Washington. Mr. Thayer is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

The superior court at Providence has granted deferred sentences to the Babbitt brothers, Herbert, Carl and Lucius of East Thompson, who have been under indictments charging them with breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling in the night time. According to the charges against them, they broke into a summer cottage at Gloucester, R. I., and sotle clothing, a shot gun and fishing tackle. The men have been in jail for the past five months.

At the Methodist Episcopal church in North Grosvenordale, there will be two weeks of special religious services beginning on Sunday morning, November 6 and close on Friday evening, November 18. The Rev. John E. Duxbury of Putnam will preach every evening except Saturday. On Sunday, November 13, District Superintendent Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich will preach at both morning and evening services.

Mrs. George Miles of Pomfret who underwent a serious operation at the Day Kimball hospital last week is resting as comfortably as can be expected and it is thought the operation will be entirely successful.

Special services were held at St. Mary's church today in honor of All Saints day and in observance of it all of the Catholic societies attended in a body. There will be special services on Tuesday, November 1 at St. Philip's Episcopal church.

On Saturday afternoon Putnam high faced their rivals of a week ago, Bartlett high of Webster and won their game by a score of 13 to 0. A week ago the two teams played at Webster and Putnam lost by a score of 12 to 6. The day was a perfect one for football and the game was played at the high school grounds here and was witnessed by a large crowd of lovers of the sport.

Miss Irene Dugas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dugas has again been awarded first honors in French at Brown university. This is her sophomore year there.

A number of lovers of football attended the game at Storrs Saturday to witness the game between the Connecticut Agriculture college team and the Lowell Textile team.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Nichols of Thompson are making a trip to their former home in St. Joseph, Mo., by automobile. They will make several stops on their way, one of them being at Vassar to visit Miss Mary Nichols. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols expect to return to Thompson early in the year.

Miss Sarah Averill of Worcester spent the week end with her brother, Warren W. Averill and Mrs. Averill of Pleasant street.

Miss Edith Pease, a teacher in the schools at Manchester, Conn., spent the week end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease, Fremont street.

John Byrne, vice president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company of Hartford spent the week end at his home in the city.

Walter N. King of Woonsocket spent the week end with his family at their home on Grove street.

James Connor of Providence spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Connor.

Mrs. Ethel Jones and two children have moved from Lee street to Providence to make their future home.

Miss Gertrude Lambert of North School street is the guest of relatives in Philadelphia.

Miss Ethel Ellis of the Citizens National bank spent the week end with her parents in Willimantic.

Miss Christybel Gifford of Ring street is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Josie Webster at Willimantic.

Mrs. Alfred Wagnel and daughter of Sea Cliff, Long Island are visiting Mrs. Wagnel's mother, Mrs. Eugene Barrett, Woodstock avenue.

WOODSTOCK VALLEY

H. J. Fersenllenn and family left Monday for their new home in Pawtucket, R. I.

Robert Jellif and George Shiebal of Bridgeport and Charles Ruch of Englewood, N. J., are on a hunting trip in the valley, staying at Maplewood farm.

Harry Keith of Worcester spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Keith.

Mrs. E. O Butler and Miss Baldwin have returned to Putnam for the winter.

Wilfred Chapdelaine, clerk at the Putnam postoffice, was in town on Sunday, calling on friends.

WESTERLY

CARNIVAL OF CYCLE CLUB BRINGS OUT STARTLING RIGS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 30—Biggest and best ever was the annual carnival of Westerly Cycle club, George E. Leonard, president, held at the State armory Saturday night. A stupendous aggregation" in the nature of antiques and horribles preceded he opening of he big show. The largest crowd of spectators to view an evening parade in Westerly thronged the walks of High and Broad streets, while long lines of cars flanked the procession and blocked both side and main streets as the big parade passed. Forming at the State armory, a scarlet-costumed grand marshal headed the line in the person of John Law, while William Gavitt in the garb of exican pirate mounted on a speedy steed was more or less of an aide.

Heading the parade was an old fashioned two-horse hack with top down and in the seat of honor was the Cycle club's grand old man, "Pop" Alan A. Palmiter of Providence. Judges for best costume worn by the paraders were the commander, M. A. Moran, of Block Island Legion post, and Herbert P. Clark of The Westerly Sun and Carl E. Burdick of The Norwich Bulletin. Their sealed verdict delivered to Chairman Frank Collins for five prizes—a derby hat, chicken dinner, smokedor, $10 worth of clothes cleaning and $5 in gold, to be distributed in the order of the winners' choice was:

First, "Ruth Elder," Alfred Havens; second, "Horseback Rider," William Gavitt; third "Trapeze Acrobats on Floats," Charles Bowe and William A. Phillips; fourth, "Monkey and Keepers," Joe Law and Earl Briggs; fifth, "Perambulator Driver and Child" Charles Marks and Benny Carpenter.

Ghosts, goblins, spirites, witches, animated skeletons, even possible presidential aspirants proceeded over Dixon, High, Broad and West Broad streets to the corner of Mechanic street, where they countermarched and went to the armory. The return route included Canal street and Railroad avenue. There was a large attendance at the carnival in the armory, where the attractions included dancing, several merchandise booths and a spectacular vaudeville act presented by Albertus Shippey and his trained dog. Crandall's orchestra provided music for dancing. George Howard and "Let" Nowell sang several popular numbers. Included in the crowd were 16 members of Block Island post, American Legion, who had come to Westerly to visit Harold W. Merrill post. The chairmen of the various committees were Frank Collins, Daniel Crandall, Eugene O'Neil and George E. Leonard.

MRS. GRAYSON'S "DAWN" FLOATS OVER TOWN SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 30—At 11:20 a. m. today the monoplane, "Dawn," of Mrs. Grayson, enroute from Old Orchard Beach, Me., passed slowly over Westerly coming from the northeast and leaving in the direction of Fishers Island to the southwest. The plane was flying at a comparatively low altitude, the floats and wheels of the lower body being plainly visible. Because of the slow speed at which the plane was traveling it was thought by some that there was motor trouble.

James F. Shea of Pawcatuck on Saturday visited the Providence City hospital where William Brennan of the Girard restaurant, Pawcatuck and a resident of East Greenwich, R. I., is under observation for infantile paralysis. The patient was reported very low, unconscious and the crisis expected Sunday. Joseph A. Girard left Pawcatuck Sunday morning for Mr. Brennan's home in East Greenwich.

Beginning today (Monday) in Pawcatuck Patrolman C. Wilson Brown completes two weeks' tour of night patrol duty and Officer Adrian R. Sheldon, who has been day officer for the past two weeks, returns to night duty for two weeks. Day patrol is resumed for two weeks by Officer Brown

Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison of Westerly the coming week begins his two weeks' vacation from duty. He will pass several days at his camp on Worden' spond, South Kingstown and later will be a member of an automobile party which will tour the Canadian provinces.

The New London Masonic club has extended an invitation to members of the Westerly Masonic club to enter the bridge whist tournament which will begin the first Friday in November and continue on Fridays to the first Friday in May. The New London games will be played at the clubhouse, 105 Huntington street, two prizes will be awarded each evening.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk: Oct. 28, Raymons S. Champlin and wife Helena A. Champlin, of Providence and Charles E. Champlin, of Bridgeport, to George S. Grossomanides land with buildings and improvements bbunded northerly by land of Elizabeth Hogg, easterly by Summer street and southerly by Granite street, deeded on June 5, 1887 by Nicholas and Alice Cranshaw to Charles E. and Sarah E. Champlin.

Nicolo Broccolo to wife, Concetta Broccolo, an undivided one-half interest in six lots of land containing building and improvements, being lots Nos. 38, 39, 40, 41, 42 and 43 Prospect Park track.

Judge Oliver H. Williams presided at a special session of the Third district court on Union street about midnight Saturday when Thomas Purtill was arraigned on complaint of Police Lieutenant George H. Champlin, on a charge of intoxication. He was arrested on Canal street Saturday by Officer Frank Knight. On his plea of guilty he was given a suspended sentence by judge Williams with the payment of costs.

The Seagraves pumper of Westerly Fire department was taken from the Morrone garage on Main street Saturday afternoon for a tuning-up trip preparatory to cold weather. A representative from the manufacturers was present to go over the motor pumper and was accompanied by Fire Chief George E. Egger, and Engineers George A. McKenzie and Columbus J. Pasetti.

The first airplane American Railway express shipment received in Westerly consigned to the Westerly office, Alton J. VanDayke, agent, was a shipment made Friday from New York to A. A. Mareel, care P. H. Ople company, from S. Lofdon, a two-pound merchandise package, epressage $2.42. The package traveled by air from New York to Boston and returned was by train.

Westerly was invaded by residents of the Island of Manisees Saturday when sixteen representatives from Block Island post, Rhode Island department of the American Legion paid a fraternal visit to Harold W. Merrill post of Westerly in return for a similar social call which the local post made on Block Island at the institution of the island post last spring. The islanders, headed by Commander M. A. Moran, came to Stonington in a U. S. Coast Guard patrol boat. They were met at the dock in Stonington by a group of Westerly Legionnaires, who transported their guests to Westerly in automobiles. The Block Island men were royally entertained during their over-night stay. A turkey dinner was served to members of both posts in the rooms of Merrill post on Broad street. Past Commander Walter F. Thorp was toastmaster, and the list of speakers included Commander Abiel B. Brown of Merrill post, Commander M. A. Moran of Block Island post, Attorney George R. McKenna, Past Commanders Rogers E. Trainer, Franklin C. Smith and Bourdon A. Babcock of Merrill post, Frederick Slater of Block Island, Capt. A. P. Tefft of the Block Island Coast Guard, Dr. Charles F. Perry, historian of Block Island post, H. Russell Burdick, historian of Merrill post, Capt. Beppo Boumenot and Edgar T. Spencer, the last named representing Gordon Greene post of Hope Valley.

After the dinner the visitors witnessed the Tunney-Dempsey fight film at the United theatre as guests of Merrill post. Later they were taken to the Cycle club carnival at the State armory, and after the carnival the Cycle club kept open house for the ex-service men from Block Island. Merrill post provided sleeping accommodations for its guests at the Hotel Martin.

Commander Moran expressed the hope that the Westerly Legionnaires might pay another visit to Block Island post before next summer, when the state convention of the American Legion is to be held on Block Island.

Stanton Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Saunders of 121 Franklin street, Westerly, received inuries Friday night while at work at the plant of the Bradford Dyeing association, when he fell from a 7-ton truck and struck on his head. He sustained a number of bruises and a shock to his spine. He was taken to the Westerly hospital.

Peter James Casey, 47, died at his home Friday night. He had been critically ill with pneumonia for several days. Mr. Casey had lived here practically all his life and for a number of years had been employed summers at Barber's garage at Watch Hill. He was a member of Westerly lodge, No. 675, B. P. O. Elks.

Saturday afternoon Miss Isabella Fairweather, of Westerly, was united in marriage with Eldridge Nicholas of New Haven, at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Maria C. Fairweather, 43 Clark street. Rev. LeRoy C. Perry of Providence performed the ceremony. Miss Isabelle Smith was bridesmaid and Thomas Dortch was best man. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Arthur Perry of Kingston. During the ceremony Mrs. Lorenzo Jeffers of Gay Head, Mass., sang, "O Promise Me."

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas will make their home in New Haven.

CONNECTICUT APPLES

When it comes to the celebration of Apple week, now with us, it has a particular significance to this part of the country, for while we are apple eaters we are not apple producers to the extent of supplying our own demands. This might seem a bit strange in view of the many orchards that are to be observed through the country, and it may be due to various reasons, but it is nevertheless a fact that large quantities of apples are brought into Connecticut and New England from other states.

Dealers will say that this is because state grown fruit is not to be had They would be just as glad to handle native fruit as any other if it could be had and the demand for it was equivalent to that for the attractive red apples that grace the fruit counters.

There's no question but what just as good apples can be grown in Connecticut as elsewhere, and just as much need exists for the full development of the industry in this state as in any other. Connecticut growers have a distinct advantage, due to the fact that they are near the market and are not obliged to ship their goods for long distances and in view of the large amount of such fruit that is being handled there can be little question as to what the consumer wants

Each of us may have our particular desires when it comes to apples. There are various so-called old fashioned apples which are hard to beat in the opinion of connoisseurs and yet if the demand is for something different, something which may have the outward appearance of being better, whether it proves to be or not, there is a chance to meet public demands which growers are not going to ignore.

Apple week may well furnish the inspiration to see that Connecticut apple eaters get Connecticut apples. The apple eaters in fact might give powerful stimulation to such a movement by demanding Connecticut grown apples. It is no secret that the state has numerous fine apple orchards, where some of the finest fruit is raised, but the chance to increase that number and the industry is an opportunity which ought not to be missed.

RIGHT TO THE POINT

While Ambassador Morrow has made an excellent impression as he takes up his work in Mexico City in the filling of a difficult post, it must be acknowledged that Admiral Bristol has spoken well and to the point relative to the situation in China.

Admiral Bristol is now in command of the American squadron in Asiatic waters. Speaking at Shanghai, at a Chinese-American dinner, he dwelt upon the Chinese situation to the extent of saying that he hoped that "it is possible for China to realize her aspiration in seeking the reorganization of the country," but he likewise made the most of the opportunity to send home the thought that in so doing China should not overlook the importance of meeting its obligations to others China has reason to look well to its internal conditions but in doing so it cannot disregard its international relations.

There was food for reflection in such a brief statement and it was put in such a manner as not to cause resentment. It was additional evidence of the special fitness of Admiral Bristol for such a post and marks of course a continuance of that highly successful service that he rendered as the representative of this country for a number of years at the Turkish capital as high commissioner. That term of service was beneficial to both countries and Turkey deeply regretted its termination. If his influence is as effective at Shanghai as it was at Angora it promises to be very helpful at a much needed point. As believed at the time of his transfer he is unquestionably the man for the head of the Asiastic squadron.

AFTER DISASTERS

Following a ship wreck it is frequently the case that there are charges of various kinds. There are those who know or get the impression that the condition of the vessel, the equipment or the conduct of the officers was not what it should have been.

All this is now being experienced following the loss of the Mafalda with the loss of nearly 300 lives off the coast of Brazil. Charges have been filed to the effect that the officers were negligent, there was an insufficient number of lifeboats and the ship was in bad condition. The claim is made that had different methods been followed there would have been no such loss of life.

Whether the truth in all this lies will have to be determined by an inquiry. It is unfortunate that it seems necessary to have just such disasters in order to get the right amount of attention focused upon inadequate provisions for the safeguard of human life.

This is not the first time that it has been charged that there were inadequate lifeboats or that negligence on the part of officers were claimed, but it evidently means that Italy must get a real understanding of just how much truth there is to the charges and then act in such a manner that there can be no similar claims made in the future. If it hasn't regulations covering these matters it is no different than other countries have been from time to time. Through bitter experiences they have been forced to the necessity of establishing rigid requirements for meeting just such emergencies. There must be regular inspections, a proper number of sound lifeboats and other life saving apparatus and the officers and crew are trained in the handling of such situations by regular drills and instructions. Not only the line itself but Italy must establish such safeguards that there will be no repetitions. If they cannot be provided before disasters they must come after the lessons taught by them.

"DRIVER ALWAYS TO BLAME"

It is always well that there should be a free exchange of views in regard to what is necessary in order to insure greater safety in the highways. Out of the many expressions there are likely to be some which can be put into use, some that are really worth while. And it is certain that there will be plenty of the other kind.

It cannot fail to halt attention when one person, aiming to contribute something to the movement to check automobile accidents, advances the suggestion that the slogan, "The driver of the car is always to blame," be adopted in inaugurating a campaign for greater highway safety. The idea is to bring the driver of the auto to a full realization of his responsibility and by so doing reduce the number of accidents. The attitude is that if the driver is careful there will be no accidents.

As most auto drivers well realize such an attitude is far from the fact. It will have to be admitted that it is the careless, reckless driver who must frequently figure in accidents, but it can be easily recalled by most everyone that accidents, and serious ones, have happened when it was in no way the fault of the driver. Charging the driver with being to blame always would be grossly unfair. While there is much recklessness in many ways on the part of drivers there are accidents which the most careful driver cannot prevent.

Those who dodge into the street with no warning whatever and are struck by autos cannot put the blame on the auto driver. Those who step from in back of one car into the path of another, without looking to see where they are going, cannot force the responsibility for the results upon the auto driver, although he may be given a most uncomfortable experience.

As the situation is there is a responsibility resting upon each and every user of the highway, whether the driver of a vehicle or a pedestrian, to observe the rules, the rights of others and the safety requirements at all times. Let that responsibility be decreased in favor of any one class and there will be eliminated a potential force in behalf of safety that ought not to be parted with. Let it be understood that the driver is always to blame and there are those who would make life more miserable, if that is possible, even for the careful drivers.

PROPER POSTPONEMENT

The decision of Mrs. Grayson to give up the attempt to fly across the Atlantic this year must be looked upon as a sensible one. It can be fully appreciated that there is regret on the part of the woman who sought to be the first to cross the Atlantic in the air. She had made a determined but modest effort to satisfy her ambition. In the face of the difficulties which developed in connection with the Dawn, the big Sikorsky plane in which she relied to accomplish the flight, and the fact that the time of the year has been reached when it is inadvisable to undertake such a crossing it is a case of yielding to the inevitable. Conditions have delayed the attempt until consideration must be given to the fact that the oceanic flying season is over.

There is always that possibility that the aviator might set out in utter disregard of advice concerning the weather and reach his destination. It is known that none of those who have gone across has been favored by tip-top weather all the way across. There have been storms and fogs at different points along the way to add to the difficulties and unpleasantness of such a trip. If such are to be expected under the most favorable conditions it could hardly be considered wise to tempt fate by flying in the face of warnings of unfavorable conditions.

Mrs. Grayson, like the Detroiters who gave up their flight around the world in Japan, has displayed good judgment in abandoning the projected flight. It is still a race to see which woman will be the first to fly across the Atlantic, but the goal doesn't justify encountering needless risks.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Every day is clean-up day with the laundry owners.

The man on the corner says: The only regret about this October is that it isn't longer.

The man who wants to live by the side of the road these days is the owner of a gasoline station.

It is probable that British sentiment will make due allowance for the fact that the mayor of Chicago doesn't speak for Uncle Sam.

In Springfield it has been decided a girl has to mash a cop at least twice to be convicted of being a flirt. Hope they don't treat murderers in the same way.

Earl Carroll is just like a lot of others. He couldn't profit by the experience of others but had to have personal contact with the law.

Don't get the idea that the U. S. supreme court has consented to review the north pole affair of Dr. Cook. It is a test of his right to a parole that is being made.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Add raw celery to stews, creamed vegetables and salads to improve their flavor.

Pudding molds should be filled only three-quarters full to allow for rising.

A small step ladder that can be converted into a chair is a help in the kitchen.

When washing windows dissolve a lump of starch in the water to make them shine.

Apple jelly may be flavored with mint and served with lamb.

Shellac the insides of bureau and cupboard drawers and see how much easier they are to keep clean.

The points can be renewed on blunted orange sticks by simply running them through pencil sharpener.

The toasted sandwich not only appeals to the appetite, but with some fillings it is almost a meal in itself.

Half of a grape fruit or half of a cantaloupe fits nicely into small Japanese bowls for serving.

Have a drawer in the kitchen in which to keep clean white rags, where members of the family may help themselves.

Hours are wasted by not having pencil and paper by telephone. A box of small scraps of paper or a pad and pencil are indispensible.

To prevent soot from accumulating on the bottom of cooking utensils rub the bottoms of the pans with soap before setting over fire. They will wash off easily without scouring afterward.

Figured hangings should be chosen only for rooms in which plain papers are used. Use plain colors for hangings when wall papers are figured.

To peel an orange easily and to get the skin off in one piece, put the orange in front of the fire for three or four minutes. The skin will then come off easily.

The odor of gas around a gas stove when a rubber tube is used is usually caused by the tube itself having become saturated with gas. New tubing is the only remedy.

In winter when dried prunes are frequently used, much labor and fuel are saved if the fruit is cooked in large quantities, sweetened and sealed in pint cans. Other dried fruits may be prepared in the same way.

TEMPERS HEAT

For the women who bake their own bread—when the oven is too hot and the loaves brown on top before the bread is baked place a pan of boiling water on the top grate. The steam keeps the bread from scorching, while necessary heat is conserved for finishing the baking of the loaves.

CLEANS COMB

Take a small, stiff-bristled brush and run up and down through the teeth of the comb. It will clean it easily and quickly.

SAFETY FIRST

Nail some pieces of rubber to the ends of the stepladder to prevent slipping.

OILS CLEANS ALL

The cloth moistened with kerosene will clean the kitchen sink, the outside of the teakettle and the top of the stove.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A pleasant disinfectant for the sick room is essence of cinnamon allowed to evaporate in a shallow dish.

An inexpensive but effective gargle for a sore throat is made with one-third teaspoonful of salt in a glass of tepid water.

Grapefruit is a good source of vitamins B and C. Its aromatic odor also starts the flow of digestive juices. The acid that gives it the tart flavor is valuable.

Liver is one of the most important meats in protein and calories furnished the body, ranking with round and sirloin steak. Liver also contains all three vitamins. No distinction in food value is made between the various kinds of meat liver. Chicken liver is slightly higher than the others in protein.

KEEP THE SCALP HEALTHY

Dandruff is not to be feared! It is a perfectly natural shedding of the skin of the scalp and should really be called cuticle. But like anything else, it is detrimental when it is excessive, as well as unsightly. Nothing will correct this more quickly than day and night massage of the right type. A few hot oil massages will help a bit. Then a thorough brushing of the hair will bring noticeable results. Beware temporary tonics that coat the scalp and seem to prevent dandruff falling for the time being!

CHILD'S QUILT

An attractive covering for a quilt for a child's bed is composed of pages cut from three or four linen fast-color story books, alternating the squares with blocks of plain white or cream-colored linen. It will always be fascinating to the youngster who owns it.

WAY TO WASH IVORY

When ivory ornaments become yellow wash them well in soap and water, then place them while wet in the sunshine. Wet them with soopy water for two or three days several times a day, still keeping them in the sunshine. Wash them again and they will be perfectly white.

TIPS TO CAKE BAKERS

When baking cake time should be divided into quarters. The first quarter cake should rise, the second quarter it should begin to brown, the third quarter continue browning and the last quarter finish browning and shrink from the pan.

FOR THE SMALL PIE

Pack the little pie for the lunch box in a paper ice cream dish. It may be put into one and another used to cover it. One housewife declares that she bakes the little pies in these plates, using the kind with plain edges.

DICTATES OF FASHION

All tones of brown from a pale tan to a deep cocoa are extensively featured in street and afternoon costumes.

An ibis chiffon lingerie set has a cream lace bolero on its nightie and cream insertion simulating a bolero on the teddy.

Among the smartest combinations of fabric seen in the new frocks is transparent velvet used with georgette crepe or with satin.

Raisin colored tweed or homespun, with a lavender cast, is popular for juniors in new riding togs. Shirts and ties are lavender.

A wide shawl collar on a black velour coat is edged with pointed fox which gives the appearance of wearing a neckpiece off-the-shoulder.

The dark rich tone of green is much in evidence in autumn fashions and is unusually successful when chosen for untrimmed coats of velveteen or corduroy.

A deep rich shade of blue, like the blue of sapphires, is much in evidence in the new autumn millinery. It is particularly effective in soleil velour and in velvet.

Evidence of the marked vogue of gray throughout every phase of fashion is shown by new lingerie of gray crepe de chine made on simple, rather tailored lines.

Charming slipper buckles, which make exquisite gifts, are in the form of mercury wings of brilliants joined with rings of enamel in a color that matches the satin slippers.

Very smart and distinctive are large single feather flowers in two and three tones of brown. They are in keeping with the vogue for browns that is so marked in the fashions of this autumn.

Among the new materials shown for early autumn are stunning plaid woolens imported from England. They are to be used in the fashioning of steamer coats and rugs.

Suits of velveteen are shown by every important designer. They are featured in models with three-quarter length as well as short coats, and are especially successful when a knitted jumper is included to form a complete ensemble.

COLLARS ON SWEATERS

The blouses and sweaters for fall are, many of them, distinguished by the extremely high collars with which they are provided. Unquestionably this is a most becoming adjunct to many faces and if some women wear them whose profiles do not seem to be suited to them it should be remembered that a high head may not be a sign of pride. It may be carried to disguise a double chin.

OSTRICH SCARFS

Fine feathers seem never to lose their attraction for the feminine taste. One of the newest ways of wearing ostrich plumes is in the form of a wide flat scarf of natural ostrich. This is almost as voluminous as a shawl and should by no means be confused with the ostrich feather boa, which it in no way resembles.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

Try cutting the thread on the slant when threading a needle. It will point the thread and make it much easier to stick through the needle.

A band of several folds of soft flannel sewed securely around the arm of the sewing machine serves as a pincushion.

A tape measure a yard long, glued or tacked on the front edge of the sewing machine, is always ready for use.

Little glass containers with screw tops are convenient in the sewing-table drawer for keeping odd buttons, snaps, etc.

When sending basted articles to the hemstitchers, mark the lines to be stitched with a decidedly contrasting color so no places will be missed. Silk bastings will pull out much more easily than those done in cotton.

CANNED FOOD JUICES

The idea that the juices in canned food should be discarded is no longer accepted. Practically all vegetables, except tomatoes, are canned in slightly salted water and fruits are canned in syrup. Such practice fills the can and assists in the proper cooking of the product. In processing, valuable minerals, sugars and other soluble materials dissolve in the liquor. Discarding it means loss of food material. If the juices were harmful, products that have been kept in them would be unfit for food.

CANNED DRESSING

If you prefer a boiled salad dressing, it is a good plan to can some while eggs are cheap. It will keep several weeks after opening if kept in a cool place. Any preferred recipe may be used. Here is one that was the choice of the housewife who suggested canning the dressing.

Two beaten eggs, two tablespoons mustard, five tablespoons flour, two teaspoons salt, two tablespoons butter, half cup sugar, one cup milk, one cup water, two cups cider vinegar.

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs, milk and water, cook in double boiler, stirring often until it begins to thicken, then add vinegar and cook 15 minutes longer.

WASHABLE FLANNELS

The new flannels which fashion sports costumes are usually washable, if care is exerted. Soapsuds that are scarcely even tepid and two rinse waters the same temperature will prevent shrinking. Pull into shape while ironing.

VALUE OF GARNISHES

A properly garnished, beautified and combined dish holds within its container magnificent powers for the upbuilding of the race! The trick is to study this principle so as to evolve diet plans that are constructively health-giving.

PREPAREDNESS

You need not wait until the last minute to mix up the dough for hot biscuits. Mix them in the morning and keep them in an ice box until ready to bake.

CONCERNING WOMEN

A native Chinese woman is one of the foremost silk brokers in China.

Membership in a women's club organized recently in London is confined exclusively to the unbobbed.

English girls attending school in France chartered an air liner to carry them back to school at the end of the summer vacation.

Mme. Vera Nemchinova, celebrated Russian ballet star, has recently broken a ballet dancing record by twirling 38 times on one toe.

Many Burmese young women marry Chinese, but take very good care to stipulate that they are not to be treated as Chinese women, but are to enjoy all the freedom and advantages of their own race.

The first authorized biography of Queen Mary has just been published by Miss Kathleen Woodward, a one-time factory girl who took up journalism as a profession.

LEAKY PENS

If your fountain pen leaks, try rubbing paraffin or soap on the thread before you screw on the top.

TO CARRY MATCHES

A safe way to carry matches is in a small glass jar with a screw top. A strip of sandpaper put in the jar, smooth side to the matches, will help light the outdoor fire.

RECIPES

Mayonnaise and Tuna Fish: Place three eggs, the juice of one big lemon, one ounce of butter, a little salt, and one scant teaspoon of mustard powder all in a saucepan and stir well over a small fire. When very hot, add one teaspoon of cornstarch which has been dissolved in a little cold water, and one cup of bullion or beef tea and stir until it boils. Take a medium-sized can of tuna fish, put the fish in a glass dish, pour some mayonnaise over it and garnish the dish with green salad, radishes, sliced boiled eggs or beets. Fresh boiled fish can be used instead of canned fish.

Butterscotch Coffee Pie: Place two-thirds cup of light brown sugar and two tablespoons of butter in the top part of a double boiler. Stir over the fire until the sugar slightly caramelizes, being careful not to let it burn. Add one cup of milk and two-thirds cup of coffee infusion. Place the boiler over hot water. Mix the yolks of three eggs with one-eighth teaspoon of salt, then stir these into the scalded milk. Cook until the mixture forms a thin coating on the spoon. Thicken with one tablespoon of cornstarch dissolved in one-fourth cup of cream or milk. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into a pastry shell that has been previously baked. Make a meringue with the whites of the eggs, heap on top of the pie, then place in the oven for about five minutes to brown slightly. A few finely chopped nut meats will improve this pie.

Today's Anniversaries

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir John Simon, who says people indulge altogether too much in litigation, should know whereof he speaks, for he is generally considered to be one of Great Britain's most successful lawyers. So great in his distinction as a barrister that he holds the largest practice in the country, and, after leaving it for political duties, has always been able to resume it again. He is believed to possess an enormous fortune, as some of the fees he has received in important cases have been among the largest legal fees on record. Sir John might have been lord chancellor, but he once refused the Wool Sack to follow a political career and became instead home secretary. In 1903 he was one of the counsel for the British government in the Alaska Boundary arbitration. He is a man of broad and tolerant views and has been an active supporter of woman suffrage.

YOUR HEALTH

NEW CHIN GRAFTED ON GIRL

By Fred H. Albee, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial

It is hard to face the world with a receding chin; harder still with none at all. Yet a careless shot on a hunting party, a railway or an automobile accident may suddenly leave one with a hideous, gaping vacuum where the determined jaw was but a moment before.

With professional advancement cut short by disfigurement, an eyesore to your friends; the simple process of chewing one's food made impossible, is the life of a recluse all that is left? If only new chins could be made! Thanks to the possibilities of the bone graft and plastic surgery, they can. The essentials for the modern miracle are patience and surgical ingenuity.

Nature very fortunately has supplied in the ilium, one of the pelvic bones, an extensive bone from which a U-shaped graft may be taken to replace the jaw which accident or disease has destroyed. If the destruction is only partial, a satisfactory graft may be obtained from the tibia or shin bone. Skin flaps from the shoulder replace the soft tissue, and the resulting cosmetic effect is surprisingly good.

The congenital case of receding chin may occasionally be so marked as to prove a real obstacle, socially and professionally. A young girl of 20, otherwise attractive, found herself the object of stares wherever she went, because her chin was so negligible as to give her a startling profile. She wished to be a nurse, but could not obtain an appointment because of her appearance. By means of a plastic bone graft operation, her chin has been built out to normal proportions, and she no longer finds herself conspicuous. On the slight chin with which nature had endowed her a graft from the tibia was attached by means of tiny bone screws, also fashioned from her tibia.

In cases in which sufficient soft tissue cannot be taken from the shoulder, a two-step plastic procedure may be substituted. First a flap from the abdomen is attached to the fore-arm and after the circulation has been well established there, the flap is cut loose from the abdomen and attached to the face, just as in the one-stage procedure. The transplant from abdomen to hand, and from hand to head, is also used for repair of those head wounds in which immobilization with the shoulder would not be possible.

LOCAL MEN ATTENDED NEW HAVEN MEETING

The American Jewish committee, the oldest and foremost Jewish organization in America, held a meeting Sunday at Harmony club, New Haven. The scope o the meeting was to organize a larger sustaining membership in the state of Connecticut.

Col. Isaac Ullman presided and more than 100 delegates from practically every important city in the state were present at the luncheon served at 1:30 o'clock. The annual report of the organization was read and approved and great enthusiasm prevailed throughout the meeting. Those who represented Norwich were Abner Schwartz and Max Hanover. Both pledged their support to enlist a number of the representative Jewish people in Norwich to take part in this activity.

Made up of representative Jews of the different communities throughout the country, the American Jewish committee endeavors to guard the interests of the Jews as a whole in matters concerning their civil rights, their social and economic status, and in such legislative measures and governmental policies as particularly affect them. All national organizations dealing with any phase of these subjects are invited to affiliate with this committee and 17 associations have delegate members. In respect to oppression of, or misfortune to, Jews in foreign lands, the committee co-operates with Jewish organizations abroad.

OBITUARY

William Gordon

William Gordon, 86, member of the family of the Sheltering Arms, who was struck by a trolley car in Greeneville at the corner of Seventh street and Central avenue Thursday afternoon at about 2:05 o'clock, died at the W. W. Backus hospital from concussion of the brain Saturday morning at 5 o'clock. Although in a semi-conscious condition when rushed to the hospital following the accident, Mr. Gordon passed into unconsciousness shortly afterwards and remained so until the time of his death. Mr. Gordon, a former resident of Greeneville, entered the Sheltering Arms in May and since then has been in the habit of making occasional visits to his friends in the Greeneville section. On Thursday after completing one of these visits he waited in the drug store of Pitcher and Service, the corner of Seventh street and Central avenue for the trolley to the square. At about 3:05 o'clock the Norwich-New London trolley due in the square at 3:15 approached and Mr Gordon left the store to board it. It was while crossing the street that in some manner he stepped in front of the car and was struck. Dr. Paul F. Gadle was called and the ambulance summoned. Upon his arrival at the hospital it was found that he had suffered concussion of the brain in addition to a scalp wound which required seven stitches and other bruises about the arms.

Mr. Gordon spent most of his life as a resident of Greeneville. He was the son of William and Sarah Gordon and was born on North Main street on Oct. 12, 1841. He received his education in the schools of Norwich and saw considerable service in the Civil war as a private in the Second Independent Battery Conn. Light Artillery. In 1914 Mr. Gordon was united in marriage to Mrs. Margaret Durfey in Providence, R. I., who died at their home at No. 496 North Main street about six years ago. Since then and up to the time that he entered the Sheltering Arms he resided at No. 496 North Main street. Mr. Gordon was well liked throughout the city.

Miss Mary Murphy

Miss Mary Murphy, for years a resident of Bozrah, died Sunday morning about 3 o'clock in this city, following a short illness. Miss Murphy was born in Ireland and was the daughter of the late Jeremiah and Ellen Murphy. She came to this country when a girl and practically all of her life had been passed in Bozrah where she was well known.

Surviving her are two brothers, Charles and James Murphy of Bozrah, and several nieces and nephews. She was a member of St. John's church, Fitchville.

Mrs. Thomas F. Bunce

Word of the death of Mrs. Malinda Bunce, 84, formerly of Norwich and widow of Thomas F. Bunce, a Civil war veteran, was received here Sunday evening. Her death occurred in Hartford Sunday morning at the home of her son, Frederick P. Bunce, where she had been residing. The body is to be brought to Colchester for burial.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY SERVICE

All seats were occupied and there were several standing at the service in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Sunday at 4 p. m.

The service opened with the singing of America, after which the scripture was read and prayer offered. Hugh Kinder rendered a vocal solo and also furnished appropriate music for the feature picture of seven reels, the beautiful and impressive story by Gene Stratton Porter, "The Magic Garden," the last story by this gifted writer before she died.

It was a touching picture story of true love and youth filled with faith and the power to overcome. Between the reels, General Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk and he spoke in part as follows: "This is said to be a story of a great love. All love of the right sort is great. For instance the love that belongs to real friendship. No friendship is worth the name unless its roots are imbedded in love, and such friendship makes life worth the living. Then there is the love in the home life; my, how great is this love. A fine building and fine furnishings do not make a home, no; no; unless in the hearts of the members of the family, there is a real love for one another, it is not a worth-while home. But after all the love that is the best, the purest and the greatest is the love of God shown in the gift of His son who came "not to be ministered unto but to minister." What a marvelous love is this. These three, the love of friendship, the love in the home and the love of God, but the greatest of these is the love of God. This picture story illustrates superb youth; let us hope that our youth will become more and more superb in character and life. I believe they will do so only as they follow the leadership of the Christ." There were many favorable comments of the impressive picture service.

FUNERALS

Daniel L. Browning

The funeral of Daniel L. Browning was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his home 219 Maple street with many friends and relatives attending. The services were conducted by Rev. E. C. Dunbar, assisted by Rev. George H. Strouse, and two selections were sung by Frederick J. Maples. The bearers were Frank T. Maples, Walter Holden, William Baker, Dwight L. Allen, Robert McNeely, and Hiram Amburn. Burial was in Preston City cemetery where the Odd Fellows' service was conducted by Uncas lodge with John O. Peckham as noble grand and Fred Amburn as chaplain. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Church & Allen.

American Legion Food Sale

About $40 was realized for the benefit of the American Legion at a food sale held Friday at the Boston store. Mrs. Frank L. Kimball and Mrs. W. R. Denison of the Legion auxiliary and Joseph A. Bellefleur, Harry Powers and Lindsay Smith of the Legion were in charge.

Miss Mary W. Clune and Miss Grace F. Clune, of Treadway avenue, teachers in the Norwich schools, spent Saturday at the Clune cottage on Fishers Island.

FOUR CUT BY GLASS WHEN AUTO SIDESWIPES POLE NEAR CITY LINE

Four persons were slightly injured about 9 o'clock Sunday night when a Chevrolet sedan owned and driven by Oscar E. Collins of R. F. D., No. 2, Waterford, sideswiped a pole on West Thames street, near the city line. All were attended by Dr. John W. Callahan at his office on Main street and later returned to their homes. They received cuts and bruises. The injured: Oscar E. Collins, R. F. D. No. 2, Waterford; Mrs. Oscar E. Collins; Mrs. Edward Southworth, Willetts avenue, New London; Bertha Gadbois, 10, of Waterford.

Mr. Collins was driving south, towards New London, and on the West Thames street hill, near Shipping street, overtook a New London bound trolley car. He attempted to pass between the trolley car and a telegraph pole by the side of the road. There was not sufficient room for his car to get through and he sideswiped the pole. The top of the sedan was completely wrecked, practically all the glass in the machine was smashed and the body of the machine badly bent. Mr. Collins claims that he quickly brought the machine to a stop after hitting the pole, and that, as he was in the middle of the highway, and as there was a line of machines approaching him, he drove on some hundreds of feet to get the machine off the traveled portion of the highway. He claimed he was driving at about 20 miles an hour and that the trolley car had slowed down when he attempted to pass it.

The local police investigated the accident and as the result Mr. Collins was ordered to appear in the city court at 9 o'clock this (Monday) morning to answer to a charge of reckless driving.

A transformer on the pole was knocked loose from its fastening but hung suspended by a couple of strands of wire until employes of the city gas and electric were able to fasten it more securely.

NORWICH WOMAN WANDERS AWAY FROM SANATORIUM

Mrs. Dana N. Trimble, of No. 55 East Town street, has been missing since Tuesday from the Riggs sanatorium at Stockbridge, Mass., where she has been a patient suffering from a nervous breakdown. Police in this city and surrounding towns have been requested to be on the lookout for her as it is thought that she may have started for her home here.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Hartford Sunday, Mrs. Trimble, who has been suffering for some time from melancholia, was traced by relatives through Great Barrington, Mass., to Canaan and Winsted, Conn., and in the last named city to a Hartford-bound bus.

At Great Barrington Mrs. Trimble is known to have tried in several places to secure work. At Winsted she purchased a dark hat and dress and tan footwear. When she took the bus she carried over her arm a man's coat believed to have been brought from the sanatorium.

Mrs. Trimble is described as 26 years of age, slight, weighing 100 pounds, with dark complexion and black, bobbed hair. She is the mother of two children. She entered the sanatorium two weeks ago.

She is the daughter of Mrs. G. H. Campbell of Ipswich, Mass., and before coming to Norwich lived in Providence and Cambridge.

GERMAN CHURCHES OBSERVE FEAST OF REFORMATION

The Feast of the Reformation was observed Sunday at the First Evangelical Lutheran church, Franklin street, with special services, morning, afternoon and evening. Members of the congregations of the German churches in Rockville and Webster, and members of the Luther leagues of both churches united with the local church in the observance.

At the morning service, Rev. H. Hunzinger, pastor of the local church, preached the sermon and there was a special programme by the church choir. Holy communion was also observed. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon there was a special celebration service. The church was crowded to capacity, the attendance numbering about 400. The sermon, given in German, was by Rev. Walter B. Tfell of Webster, and he spoke from the text, Romans, 1-16.

Another service was held in the evening and the preacher was Rev. Mr. Baueckmann of Rockville. He spoke in English from the text, St. John 8:26. During the evening there was a social gathering in the basement of the church for the local and visiting members of the Lutheran league. An entertainment programme was held and light refreshments were served. The gathering broke up about 8.30 o'clock.

WON RIFLE SHOOT BY MARGIN OF 14 POINTS

By the close margin of 14 points, 565 to 551, the rifle team of the gas and electric department defeated the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. team at the state armory Friday night. The match was shot on the 50 foot range, military X target, five shots each position. The scores:

MUST NOTIFY MOTOR DEPT. OF CHANGE IN ADDRESS

Approximately 15,000 automobile owners and operators violated a Connecticut law during the past year by failing to notify the state motor vehicle department of changes of address. Because of this neglect each of these persons became liable to arrest and a fine of $10. The law requires that notice of the change be filed within 48 hours, the information to include both the old and the new addresses.

Confusion is often caused at the time new registration blanks are mailed to car owners. Many registrants have complained because they failed to receive blanks, while investigation showed, usually, that they were among the number who failed to send notice of change of address. It is particularly important that correct addresses be filed with the department this year as old blanks will not be accepted for registration applications this year because of a change in the form, effective on all 1928 applications.

Records of the department show that about 45,000 car owners or opeditors change their addresses at least once a year. The neglect to supply notice of the change by one-third of this number has caused considerable inconvenience and trouble for the department, the police, and the owners and operators themselves.

It has been necessary to refer many cases to the state police for investigation, when the motor vehicle department might have taken care of the cases if correct addresses had been known. The department has also found it necessary, when correct addresses are not available, to send the name of the person to the suspension section for "listing" for the purpose of locating them.

Another source of inconvenience is the lack of specific information in reports of motor vehicle accidents, particularly as to the places where accidents occur. Frequently, the reports indicate only the street and town, and it is impossible to ascertain whether the accident occurred at an intersection, curve or on a hill, or anything else about conditions surrounding the incident.

An example of incomplete information is a recent report which gives the location of an accident as the Danbury-Bridgeport road in Bethel. There is no other information and the department is left to determine where on the Danbury-Bridgeport road, which runs for several miles through Bethel, the accident occurred. Reports of this kind cause inconvenience to the operator and to the department as the operator must be requested to supply additional information. Unless such information is specific incorrect accident records for a particular locality are established.

Still another source of confusion is the frequency with which persons give the wrong engine numbers when making application for motor vehicle registrations. If a wrong number is given and the car is stolen later, the engine number on file is useless as an aid to the police in locating the vehicle. The transposing of the digits making up the engine number is a common occurrence because of attempts to memorize the number before filling out the application. Numbers on castings and other identifications figures are often confused with the engine number. Many persons avoid this mistake by consulting their dealer or repairman.

UNCASVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Avery entertained the Montville league of women voters Monday evening. Whist and pinochle were played. The prizes in whist were won by Mrs. Charles Bennett and J. Y. Miller. In pinochle the prizes were won by Mrs. Mark Furber and Fred Simpson. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Albert Avery, president of the Montville league, Mrs. R. L. Lamphere, Mrs. C. E. Chapman and Mrs. Robert Chapel.

The following members were elected to attend the state convention in Waterbury, November 8, 9, and 10, Mrs. R. H. Melcer, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs C. E. Chapman, Mrs. Albert Gesner, Mrs. Hubert G. Dart, Mrs. Harry Bogue, Mrs. S. Lightowler and Mrs. James Bingham.

Just before the sermon at Montville Center Congregational church last Sunday morning, Rev. Clarence Clark, assistant to Rev. William Barnes, received a telegram announcing the sudden death of his mother. After delivering his sermon he left for his home in New Hampshire.

On Armistice day the following units will be in line for the parade: First division, U. S. Coast Guard band, company marines, company sailors, Battery A, 192. F. A., Battery B, 192d F. A.; second division, Fifth District American legion consisting of 10 posts, Swahn's band of Norwich, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Knight of Columbus, Modern Woodmen of America, American Red Cross and G. A. R. veterans in automobiles. All colors will be massed at the head of the parade. The first division will form at Uncasville and march up Maple avenue to Palmer Memorial school where they will be joined by the second division and march down Main street to Uncasville school community house, countermarching to the schoolhouse where ceremonies will be held. The parade will start at 2 o'clock. The address of the day will be delivered by a prominent Connecticut man. At the close of the ceremonies refreshments will be served by the Red Cross to those taking part in the parade.

Miss Nellie Starr and Mrs. Frank Schofield have returned from Meriden where they attended the state convention of the W. C. T. U.

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. O. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

UPSETS AMONG UNDEFEATED TEAMS FEATURE WEEK END FOOTBALL

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The crash of championship football aspirations echoed from coast to coast today in the wake of a nervetingling climax of upsets to October's topsy-turvy gridiron developments.

In widely scattered sectors but with the same sickening thud, the hopes of Dartmouth, Michigan and California, went toppling down in unexpectedly decisive defeat.

These three, all previously undefeated and loked on as among the most formidable of title contenders, passed from the pace-setting group without the distinction of scoring a single touchdown among them. Dartmouth's Indians had their own scalps lifted by Yale, 19 to 0, in a game that stamped the Elis as one of the east's most powerful outfits. California's Golden Bears had their expectations of a return to the Pacific coast peak shattered by Southern California's Trojans to the tune of 13-0.

Michigan, the only major eleven entering Saturday's battles with an uncrossed goal-line, lost to Illinois, 14-0, as Lou Gilbert, Wolverine backfield ace, sat on the sidelines, a casualty.

At the same time, the south's previously undefeated pride, Georgia Tech, went down before the charge of Notre Dame, 26-7 while another unbeaten outfit, New York university, was held to a surprising scoreless tie by Colgate.

The upshot of these upsets is to leave only six major elevens, from coast to coast to coast, neither beaten nor tied, with the November campaign of bitter conflicts still ahead to provide additional "dope" reversals.

Princeton, Washington & Jefferson and Pittsburgh represent the east in this select list and the latter pair of Pennsylvania Rivals meet next Saturday to settle part of the debate. Notre Dame carried the middle west's banner among the unbeaten arrays but Knute Rockne's hoosiers, meeting Minnesota and West Point on the next two Saturdays, face a strenuous assignment in their fight for a national title. The south contributes the other two teams with spotless slates, Tennessee and Georgia, but the latter's record is more impressive due to a 31-0 triumph over Tulane yesterday.

In the race for conference crowns, Illinois now tops the "Big Ten" with a slight edge over Minnesota, which was tied earlier by Indiana. Southern California, on the Pacific coast, and southern Methodist, in the southwestern conference, are around the top. At least temporarily. In the east, Penn state's crushing defeat of Lafayette and Yale's victory over Dartmouth have put these two teams back among the best in spite of early season reversals.

Come-backs by Harvard, Ohio state and Missouri were among Saturday's outstanding features. The crimson walloped an intersectional foe, Indiana, while Ohio state knocked Chicago from the "Big Ten" lead. Missouri, badly beaten the week before by Southern Methodist, whipped Northwestern, 34 to 19, in as spectacular game as the season has yet developed.

From the intersectional point of view, the middle west added to its already impressive slate as Nebraska conquered Syracuse, Purdue defeated Montana, Iowa whipped Denver and Notre Dame turned back Georgia Tech to ofset Indian's reverse at Harvard's hands.

The U. S. C.-California classic drew the day's biggest crowd, 81,000, while Michigan-Illinois played before 67,000 spectators and Pennsylvania-Navy before more than 70,000. Sixty thousand saw Yale and Dartmouth clash while as many more witnessed the Minnesota-Wisconsin tussle.

LANE STOPPED BY YALE STILL LEADS SCORERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Although 26 points ahead of his nearest rival, Myles Lane, of Dartmouth lost ground in the individual football scoring race when the Green eleven was shut out by Yale Saturday. It was the first game this season in which Lane failed to score.

Making 27 points in his team's rout of of Lafayette, Captain Johnny Roepke, of Penn State, rocketed into second place with 75, while Nork, of Georgetown, took third by making two touchdowns in a walkaway victory over Waynesburg for a total of 67 points.

YALE SUFFERS THREE CASUALTIES IN LINE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The entire left side of Yale's regular line were Eli casualties from yesterday's victory over Dartmouth. Stew Scott, end; Sid Quarrier, tackle; and Greene, guard, will not be able to practice with the team until the end of the week, and they may not be able to play against Maryland, Saturday.

Scott and Quarrier injured their hops, and Greene has a bad elbow. The men who substituted for them after their removal from the game yesterday were expected to fill their billets efficiently. They were West, at end; Hall, tackle; and Marting, guard.

President to Autograph Football

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—(AP)—A football autographed by President Coolidge will be used in the game between teams representing the Army and the Navy on the Pacific coast next month. The game, at Berkeley, Calif., will be the feature of the Armistice day celebration there.

GREENEVILLE TIGERS LOSE TO WESTERLY ELEVEN

The Greeneville Tigers received the first taste of defeat of the season from the hands of the fast A. C. from Westerly Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin field by the score of 20 to 0. The Westerly backs were far superior to their rivals and gaining from five to eight yards were nothing for them. They penetrated the line of the Greeneville team as if it were no trouble at all. The Greeneville team lacked the spirit that was shown in last Sunday's game. The boys now having tasted defeat will have to practice more for the coming week for on next Sunday they will play a fast team from Worcester. The stars of the game for Westerly were Antock, the fast traveling right half back who made three touchdowns on hard runs and Leoni who did the drop kicking.

Captain Mileski and McGraw were shining stars for the Tigers.

ILLINOIS TOPS HEAP IN WESTERN CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Illinois' smashing football squad leads the western conference this week. Coach Zuppke's men, who scored their second surprise victory of the season by breaking Michigan's long winning streak 14 to 0 yesterday, have not been defeated nor tied. Minnesota, like Illinois, has two conference victories, but has a tie score with Indiana. These two apparently are left to battle for the big ten football championship.

Michigan's goal line, the only one in the conference which had not been crossed by an opponent up to Saturday, was twice invaded yesterday by the Illinois. Chicago, which shared the conference leadership with Michigan a week ago, now shares runner-up position with the Wolverines. Northwestern and Ohio State have both secured an even break in games.

AMHERST NOT TO MEET PRINCETON IN 1928

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 30—(AP)—Amherst will not meet Princeton in football in 1928 as it has for the last three years. The Amherst schedule, announced today contains eight games, all with smaller colleges. The Princeton game has been abandoned, it was announced, in accordance with Amherst's new policy of selecting its opponents from colleges of similar enrolment.

Trinity will take the place of the University of Vermont on the schedule, while Wesleyan and Williams have their accustomed places. The schedule includes:

Wesleyan at Middletown, Oct. 27; Nov. 10, Trinity; 17, Williams.

TRYON BEATS CHICAGO CARDINALS WITH KICK

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—(AP)—Without the services of Red Grange, who was on the sidelines nursing an injured leg received two weeks ago, the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago Cardinals 7 to 6 today. The margin of difference was found in Eddie Tryon's toe, which shot his try for goal true to the mark.

Both teams scored in the third period. Fry took a Cardinal pass out of the air and behind perfect interference pounded 65 yards for the Yankee marker.

A little later, a Cardinal pass, Strader to Jones, good for 30 yards, put the ball on the Yankee eight-yard line and three rushes carried it over. Weller's kick was wide of the mark.

PROS READY TO START TOURNEY TODAY

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 30—(AP)—High scores marked final practice at Cedar Crest Country club here today as sixty odd professional golfers polished their form for the professional golf association tournament which starts tomorrow.

A high wind, which promises to last all week, swept the course, playing havoc with all approach shots and even rolling putts off line. Most of the contestants devoted their attention to their short game and spent their time studying the greens.

On the eve of the contest Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, and Walter Hagen of Pasadena, Fla., the defending champion, were slight favorites over the field although Joe Turnesa and Gene Sarazen of New York, John Golden of Patterson, N. J., Tommy Armour of Washington, Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, were others strongly backed.

The tournament will get underway at nine o'clock tomorrow with threesomes taking off at five minute intervals on the first 18 hole qualifying round. The field will play 18 holes in the afternoon and the ranking 31 players will then be paired for elimination matches during the rest of the week.

Hagen, the champion, is not required to qualify.

REPORT THAT MULLEN WILL STAGE TITLE BATTLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—The New York American will say tomorrow that James Mullen, Chicago boxing promoter, has secured Gene Tunney's promise to defend the heavyweight championship next year in an Illinois ring.

Tex Rickard, the American will say, is to be asked to exercise the option he holds on Tunney's services for 1928, late next July, in order that the champion may engage in his second contest, under Mullen's auspices, in September. Jack Dempsey would not be Tunney's opponent, according to the reported agreement between Tunney and Mullen. The fight would be held at Soldier field, Chicago.

Giants Down Pottsville

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—The New York Giants of the National Professional Football league defeated the Pottsville Maroons today, 16-0. It was an uninteresting game, with Pittsville outclassed from the start. The Giants won on straight football, scoring two touchdowns and two safeties, and holding Pottsville to two first downs.

McBride, former Syracuse star scored the first touchdown on a 22-yard dash off tackle. Wycoff, ex-Georgia Tech star, scored the other touchdown by intercepting a forward pass and running 35 yards in the final minute of play. A blocked kick and a bad pass from center provided the settings for the safeties.

Friedman Beats Nevers

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 30—(AP)—Bennie Friedman led his Cleveland Bulldogs to a 21 to 20 victory over Ernie Nevers' Duluth Eskimoes today.

Each team scored three touchdowns, Nevers personally accounting for his team's points on short line bucks for touchdowns and placement kicks after them, but it was a safety which proved the margin of victory.

Bears Win Again

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—(AP)—The Chicago Bears continued their winning streak in the National Football league today by beating the Dayton Triaubles 14 to 6 today before a crowd of 15,000.

ACADEMY RALLIES IN LAST QUARTER TO BEAT OUT WILBY TEAM, 19 TO 13

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Waterbury, Oct. 30.—A clever halfback and a fine pair of ends enabled Norwich Free Academy's football team to rally in the final five minutes of their game with Wilby high here Saturday afternoon at Brassco park and win 19 to 13. It was the clever broken field running of Harry McGlone and his tossing of passes to two capable receivers, Johnny Greene and Buck LaCroix that snatched the game from the fire for the Rose City team.

Getting off in the wrong way when the Green and White ran up 13 points in les sthan five minutes of play, Norwich rallied slightly and put over a touchdown toward the start of the second quarter. The score remained 13 to 6 until two touchdowns and a point after netted the game in the dying moments of a thrilling struggle.

The game was about the most interesting that has been served up in the high school around here in some time. There was little of the old fashioned play, both teams resorting to the air, off tackle thrusts and sweeping end runs. Less than 500 saw the tilt.

Harry McGlone, the visiting left half back, was his team's best bet throughout the matinee. He vied with Tipper Conley, local captain for individual honors and it was quite a battle. Conley could skirt the ends and rip the line with equal ability, could throw passes well and could punt and drop-kick. McGlone could pick his way with ease through the broken field on his tackle and end journeys, he could pass very nicely and he also came through with several timely tackles.

Lonergan, Wilby left half also showed plenty of fine work while Jim Kelly and the ends, Greene, LaCroix and Mish, guard, were the rest of the Norwich offense and defence.

Mish received a deep cut over the eye ni the second quarter but this did not deter him from playing a nice game. He intercepted a pass that helped Norwich considerably.

Norwich was caught unawares in the first few minutes of the game when Wilby ran up her scores but once the Rose City crew recovered from this spree they held the home bunch even until the half and then outplayed them slightly in the third quarter and then by a very, very large margin in the final period. It was this early session that put N. F. A. in bad.

PRINCETON GRADS BEATS HARVARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Reviving memories of the gridiron classics that once marked the annual football meetings of Harvard and Princeton, former stars of the Tiger defeated an eleven of Harvard grads 7 to 0 in the Yankee stadium today.

But those scenes that always accompanied the clash of the Big Three combatants before the break in athletic relations last fall were missing as veterans of other seasons met for the announced purpose of promoting more friendly relations between the undergraduate bodies of the two schools.

There were scarcely 1,500 chilly spectators in the stands of the huge American League ball park that probably would have throbbed with the roar of 60,000 throats if the varsities of the universities had clashed. No bands greeted the players. A dozen Harvard rooters broke out into a faltering but organized cheer as the Crimson appeared and lapsed into silence thereafter. Rather determinedly a husky voice rose between halves and sang "Harvardiana" and responded to the cheers of even the scattered Princeton rooters with "Fair Harvard" as an encore.

The game was full for the most part with such advertised stars as Stan Keck and Slagle absent from the Princeton team.

Both teams fumbled considerably and the only penalties missing from the contest were those for roughness or unnecessary hard play.

Princeton, with Ralph Gilroy, who once ran 65 yards to beat Harvard, Ted Williams, Gilligan and Bob Beattie in the backfield outclassed Harvard except when the Crimson goal line was in danger. The Harvard backs, bolstered by the presence of Erwin Gehrke, former fullback star, and Roscoe Fitts, gained consistenty only in the final period when one sustained march of 40 yards reached the Tiger 30 yard line.

Princeton scored early in the third quarter with Beattie, the ball carrying headliner of the contest, carrying the pigskin over from the five yard mark on a smash through guard. Ted Drewe kicked the goal. In the first and second periods, Princeton drives covered almost the length of the field only to be halted at the Crimson six yard line, once on a fumble and again for downs. Proceeds of the game were turned over to the Red Cross.

SALEM

MEMBERS OF 4-H CLUB TO EXHIBIT WORK TUESDAY

The Happy Workers, the only 4-H club in this town, are putting on their achievement program Tuesday evening, Nov. 1. The object of this program is to show the townfolks what the club has done in the past year; also what club work teaches and the value derived from it. This club is a second year clothing club and exhibited at Norwich fair this fall. The members carried away many premiums and the townsfolks felt very proud of them. This club has been working along, doing the requirements for 4-H club membership and receiving little credit for their work. Now they are out to show what they have accomplished and give the public a chance to enjoy an evening and at the same time find out what club work does. They have been assured that the county club leader, along with three or four club members from other towns, will be present to help out on the program. Boys or girls in this town who want to know what club work is will find this their big chance to learn. R. W. Whaples, will be ready to talk 4-H club work with any boy or girl in the town.

ROAD SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair have returned from an automobile trip to Taunton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth N. Williams and Miss Grace D. Wheeler went to Hezardville, Monday morning to attend the funeral service of Mr. Williams stepmother, Mrs. Emma Pearsall widow of Seth N. Williams, of Old Mystic, held at the home of her niece Mrs. Linden Abbe, where Mrs. Williams has been seriously ill for the past three months and where she has lived for a number of years. She is survived by an only son, Samuel Morgan Williams, a stepson Seth Noyes Williams and five grandchildren. The burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic at two o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Agnes Lathrop and William Barrows and family were recent guests of George Wheeler and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth N. Williams, Mrs. Peabody and Miss Wheeler attended the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cornwall of Mystic, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Holmes, Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair and Miss Grace D. Wheeler attended the Conference of Congregational churches in New London.

Mrs. William Austen of Westerly with her niece, Mrs. Billings.

Among recent callers at Maple Lawn were, Miss Gill of Hackensack and Mason Island, Dr. Ira H. Noyes of Providence, Miss Lelia Burrows and Miss Marion Gilful also Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Burrows, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair of Mystic, C. J. King and Mr. Ward, of Norwich.

Mrs. Ralph C. Wheeler and son Richard Wheeler, of Putnam were recent visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams' of Hartford. Later Mr. and Mrs. Williams and son, Richard, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Wheeler.

Mrs. Dwight Hilliard has been the guest of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hilliard of North Stonington.

AMSTON

Miss Ruth Kinney and her brother, Le Roy, have returned home after a most enjoyable and interesting trip to Memphis, Tenn. They were the guests of the Conn. State Fair association at the National Dairy show.

C. B. Kinney recently had his herd given the tuberculin test and was most fortunate in not having any of his stock react. Leslie Kinney is the owner of some very fine looking, registered Ayrshire heifers which have also been tested.

Miss Ruth Raymond was a dinner guest of Miss Helen Crandall in Willimantic Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Nagle were callers in Lebanon and Franklin Sunday.

Max Ams and a friend came up from Bridgeport for a few days' hunting.

Herbert J. Wilcox, of Waterbury has been spending a few days at the home of his sister.

Mrs. Delia W. Porter and Mrs. Clarkson F. Bailey were in Middletown Thursday.

Marcus N. Bontwell, of Middletown was a caller in town Wednesday.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Versailles M. E. church were royally entertained on Thursday afternoon and evening at the Baltic parsonage by Mrs. H. H. Conklin. Mrs. Conklin served a chicken supper to 100 per cent membership of the Versailles society.

WARRENVILLE

Hammond Knowlton and family started for South Carolina Tuesday, accompanied by Robert Knowlton.

Gilbert Mathewson has returned to Warrenville after a lengthy visit with his niece at the College Club Inn, Searsport, Maine.

Melvin Zeller was home from Putnam Sunday and Monday.

TOOK PARACHUTE LEAP TO PAY PRIZEFIGHT WAGER

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 30.—(AP)—A wager that Dempsey would beat Tunney was paid today when C. D. Vienot, who had never been in an airplane once before, leaped from an altitude of more than 2,000 feet and made a successful parachute landing.

Vienot, a special delivery letter carrier, wagered with E. Kuhns, a fellow worker. The loser was either to pay the winner $25 or jump from an airplane at a height of 2,000 feet. Seeing "no reason" for losing $25, Vienot made all arrangements, announced that he would make the parachute jump.

A man's hat caught in the ice of a slowly moving glacier took 12 years to travel a mile.

NO GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS; COTTON GOODS MADE GOOD SHOWING

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(AP)—Evidences of any decided improvement in the business situation were lacking last week, although a few favorable signs cropped out in individual quarters. The so-called indices of business, in the main indicated a continued lagging behind last year's records and a further postponement of the long-expected fall revival.

Outstanding among the backward signs were developments in the steel industry. Earnings reports of United States Steel, and Bethlehem, one of the leading independents, revealed sharp recessions from the 1926 figures, and the steel trade reviews reported only an indifferent outlook for the immediate future. Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, characterized the status of the trade as "sound, but not prosperous," and this view was generally accepted.

Although freight car loadings again stepped up from the figures of the preceding week, they continued to fall behind the corresponding time of last year. One satisfactory development however, was the increase in miscellaneous freight shipments.

Record breaking third quarter earnings of the General Motors corporation emphasized its dominence in the industrial field and the soundness of the automobile trade. It was pointed out, nevertheless, that the absence of Ford from the market, pending the introduction of the new model, was an important factor in boosting General Motors sales. The new Ford continued to be a subject of wide discussion, and a detailed description, afterward characterized as unofficial, created much interest at the beginning of the week.

The motor trade as a whole showed little change from the previous week's situation, but operations were far behind those of last year.

A further decrease in crude oil production was of benefit to the petroleum trade, and prices remained steady. Soft coal mines were somewhat less active than in the foregoing week, and there was an increase of unbilled coal on the tracks of the middle west. Anthracite, on the other hand, showed progress with the advance of the winter season. Stiffening prices in some sections are scheduled for the first of the month.

Cotton goods, in point of output and demand, made a good showing, but prices continued erratic in reflection of the unsettled condition of the speculative cotton market.

Business in woolen goods was somewhat restricted by unseasonable weather, but some development was reported in silks.

Speculative markets were ragged in most instances. Stocks declined further at the end of the week, after an earlier rally from the low prices of the week preceding. Cotton dropped to its lowest price since August when it fell below 20 cents early in the week, but rallied somewhat on the publication of remarks by Secretary Jardine regarding the government ginning report.

Crop progress was reported as good, with a growing belief that the late harvest season will prove more favorable than last year's. Prices were uneven. Wheat declined to the lowest point in three years, and corn touched its bottom price for the season.

Credit conditions showed very little change. Bank clearings were below the figure for the previous week, but materially higher than the 1926 showing. Bank debits displayed a similar trend.

JEWETT CITY

STETSON-MONTGOMERY WEDDING AT PACHAUG

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Montgomery in Pachaug, their daughter, Blanche Bancroft Montgomery, was united in marriage with Frank Wayland Stetson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stetson, of Jewett City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. F. Goodenough, pastor of Jewett City Congregational church of which the groom is a member. The ceremony, a double ring service, was performed in the living room, which was decorated with autumn leaves. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a handwoven white silk dress, made in period style. The dress was woven by her aunt, Mrs. Shattuck as her wedding gift. She carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was Frances Montgomery, the bride's sister. She wore an orange tied dyed gown, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Hubert Miller of Lisbon. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was an amber pendant and chain. The best man received a pair of cufflinks from the groom. Mrs. Frank Wilcox, the bride's sister, played the wedding march from Lohengrin, as the party entered the room. Lunch was served in the dinning room, which was decorated in autumn leaves, petunias and pinks. Mr. and Mrs. Stetson are to tour the Berkshires on their honeymoon trip and on their return will reside in a newly furnished home in Pachaug. The bride traveled in a cocoa brown silk dress with coat and hat to match. She received beautiful gifts of silver, cutglass, furniture, pottery, china, linen and money. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. B. B. Shattuck of Westport, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Montgomery, New Haven, Miss Mildred Molgomery, Hartford, Mrs. L. W. Pratt of South Willington, Oliver and Margery Shattuck and E. J. Costello, Westport, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stetson, Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. William Stetson and son, Clarence, of Cromwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thaw, of Middletown. Mrs. Stetson is employed in Ashland Cotton Co., office. She is a graduate of Riverside Grammar school and of Norwich Free Academy. Mr. Stetson is an electrician in Aspinook bleachery. He is a graduate of Riverside Grammar school and has taken an electrical engineering Correspondence School course. Both are members of Pachaug grange, and are very popular.

The young women canvassers for the annual Red Cross roll call are doing splendid work. Over $300 has been brought to the room to date. The goal for this chapter is $900 and if every working person would join this would be easily reached. Half the amount remains in the local treasury, the other half going to headquarters for relief work. In the last five years the Red Cross has expended in direct disaster work from its general funds, a total of $5,194,000 over and above public relief contributions.

Additional names to the Red Cross roll call membership are Mrs. Gilbert Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davis, Howard Davis, Hugh Davis, Mrs. Charles A. Barber, Clay Collins, Joseph Chritlen, Richard J. Friday evening at Voluntown, in Union hall, a Halloween social and entertainment was given by the Baptist Sunday school and school children. The hall was very prettily decorated with Halloween emblems. The women of the church sold fancy work, also ice cream, cake, sandwiches, coffee and lemonade. Mrs. Kaufman, dressed as a witch, revealed the future. Everett Whipple conducted the fish pond. At the close the two teachers presented a Halloween entertainment with the school children all dressed in Halloween costumes. The children, led by the witch, marched around the hall before the judges, who were Norman Phillips, of New Jersey, and Harry Hull, of Lisbon. Miss Marion Fletcher and Master John Herbert won the prizes, they being dressed to represent the doctor and his wife. During the evening, Mrs. Frank Morgan, of Pachaug, gave three humor

AUTO RUNS DOWN CYCLE OFFICER--NEW LONDON PEDESTRIAN HURT ALSO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey narrowly escaped serious injury this afternoon when run down by an automobile driven by Louis Kezakow, of 21 Perry street. Although Officer Bailey escaped with minor bruises, the cycle was damaged and Lorenzo Fredella, 89 Jefferson avenue, a pedestrian was caught in the highway and knocked down by the collision of the two motor vehicles. Fredella appears to be seriously hurt and is under the care of a physician. He is confined to his bed and apparently is suffering much pain. Kezakow was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will be in the police court Monday morning. Officer Bailey was making a tour of the streets where autoists make a practice of speeding and at Howard and Bank street the automobile driven by Kezakow headed for the cycle. Before Officer Bailey had an opportunity to guide the cycle from the path of the automobile, the officer's machine was struck, Bailey being hurled from the cycle, Fredella, who was crossing the street, was hit by the motorcycle, which fell on him as he went to the pavement. Fredella complained of being injured and was taken to his home, where later it was attempted to secure a statement from him, but this could not be secured because of Fredella's continual groaning as if suffering great pain.

MRS. TRIMBLE'S NEIGHBOR AT NORWICH ASKS POLICE AID

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Philip A. Johnson, of Norwich, has requested the New London police to maintain a lookout for Mrs. Barbara Trimble, of Norwich. The state police at Hartford barracks are to be notified. Mrs. Trimble, suffering from a nervous breakdown, escaped from a sanitarium in Stockbridge, Mass., Thursday. She is described as being five feet in height, weighs 100 pounds and has dark hair. She wore a lavender and gray dress, tan hat and stockings. Mrs. Trimble is a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

E. E. KENNERSON STRUCK BY HARTFORD AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Elmer E. Kennerson, 35 Rosemary street a former New London alderman, was struck by an automobile driven by Francis J. Sheridan, of 40 Vernon street, Hartford, Saturday afternoon, but, it is believed, that his injuries are no more serious than bruises and scratches. Mr. Kennerson was at the corner of State and Main streets and attempted to cross the street after Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy had given a signal to autoists to proceed. Mr. Kennerson stepped from the curb and was struck by the car driven by Sheridan and knocked down. Officer Murphy went to the aid of Mr. Kennerson, who was assisted to the curb, and as he was apparently only slightly injured Mr. Kennerson went home.

George H. Potter, 114 Shaw street, and with a police record, was presented in the police court Saturday charged with breach of the peace. He was fined $10 and costs. Potter went to a residence on Moore court Friday night and demanded admission. He had been drinking and was not allowed to enter the house by the occupants Potter desired to see. Potter became abusive and boisterous, so much so that a complaint was made to the police. Patrolmen George Cockell and Patrick Sheehan went to the Moore court house and there they found Potter in the street.

Michael Scalzulla, of Ocean beach, was arrested Saturday by Sergeant Hick charged with violation on three counts of the state and city's motor vehicle laws. Scalzulla was arrested too late to be presented in the police court, but he will be there Monday for he furnished a surety on his bond of $25 to do so. Scalzulla was driving a coupe and parked it in such a manner on Bank street as to block traffic, for the auto was not close to the curb. Sergeant Hick happened along, although not on duty, and when he observed the traffic congestion, he located and arrested Scalzulla on the two charges and a third charge, that of failing to notify the motor vehicle department upon changing his address. Scalzulla is a familiar character about the city and is known as "Ponzi" because of his immaculate attire and the fact that he is seldom employed.

A slight fire occurred about 4 o'clock Saturday morning when one of the buses stored in the Water street garage was discovered ablaze. The burning bus was observed by a chauffeur and because of the large number of automobiles of various types in storage there an alarm was rung in from Box 23, corner of North Bank and State streets. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Namsaug Engine company, Thomas and Northwest Hose companies and the Kenomec Aerial ladder responded. The fire was quickly extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence.

An automobile driven by Clifford Parks, 45 Raymond street, struck a dog on Broad street Saturday afternoon, the animal being injured. Parks endeavored to ascertain the name of the owner of the dog, but was unsuccessful for the animal did not have tag or collar. Dog Warden John Sweezy was notified and took charge of the dog.

Frank Long, 33, United States Coast Guard academy, a member of the crew of the training ship Alexander Hamilton, was arrested at 1:30 o'clock this morning charged with breach of the peace by Miss Dorothy Jamieson, 57 Hamilton street. He was released on furnishing a surety on his bond of $25 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning. The police received a telephone call from Miss Jamieson asking for the arrest of Long. Patrolman George Cockell and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray went to Hamilton street and arrested the sailor.

The funeral of Stephen Kassadas, of Flanders, who died suddenly of heart disease Thursday, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Joseph Raniszewski. The bearers were John Thomas, George Strickner, Frank Martin, Paul Kurschner, Michael Zenorick and George Wide. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Master Cornelius Maher, of 2 Union court; Master Francis Mariano, Goshen Point, Waterford and Mrs. Hamilton Haynes and infant son, 9 Home street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B Stoeckel Saturday denied the right to operate of Brownie Stamion, 324 Jefferson avenue; Clyde H. Edwards and J. W. Shorter, United States Coast Guard and Joseph Beaulieu and Fred Lancier, submarine base. Lancier was recently convicted in the police court of taking a public service automobile from the public service stand, State street, without the permission of the owner, Mariano Scira or the driver in charge of it, John Philopena.

William Edwards, formerly of New London, is under arrest at New Haven, charged with taking an automobile without the permission of the owner and the New London police have been queried as to Edwards' police record. Edwards has never been arrested here, but he would have been a few weeks ago if he could have been located. He was employed at Katz's garage, Jefferson avenue and stole a large number of tools and then vanished. Prior to that time he was employed at Jordan's restaurant, 788 Bank street. It is believed that Edwards went to New Haven after the theft of the tools and obtained employment. He was arrested there Friday afternoon when he was found to be in possession of an automobile not his own. Whether Edwards took the auto for the purpose of theft or for a ride is not known.

An automobile driven by Earl J. Darrow, R. F. D., Waterford, struck Walter Okaplinsky, 14, of 1 Moore court, on Hobron street, Friday night, the youth being knocked down, but escaped serious injury. He was examined at the officer of a physician.

The recently created detective bureau of the New London police department will be put into operation Tuesday. Every arrangement and detail for the successful conduct of this added branch of the department has been carried out and everything is in readiness for the bureau to begin its function of investigating crime. Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, who will comprise the bureau, will assume their newest police duties Tuesday morning. Throughout today the room the sergeants have had assigned to them for the private carrying on of police work has been put into shape for the beginning of secret police investigation. The creation of the bureau, which resulted in the appointment of Traffic Officer William Graham to the rank of sergeant, will also result in a change of hours of the street sergeants. The newly appointed sergeant will not be in charge of the 7 a. m. shift, which was in charge of Sergeant Smith, but the former will be in charge of the night detail, the patrolmen going on duty at 11 o'clock, concluding his duties at 7 a. m. Sergeant Patrick Murphy, who for many years has been in charge of the night detail will go on duty at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and will conclude his duties at 11 o'clock at night, while Sergeant Samuel Hick who has been in charge of the afternoon detail, from 3 until 11 at night, will go on duty at 7 o'clock in the morning and will go off duty at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, this being the watch heretofore in charge of Sergeant Smith.

FIRE DAMAGE OF $1,000 AT HOME OF MISS GARDNER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Fire occasioned considerable damage this afternoon to the residence of Miss Susan S. Gardner, 7 Prospect street. The fire department worked a half hour or more subduing the stubborn blaze. The fire was discovered about 5:45 o'clock by occupants of the house and an alarm was rung in from Box 26, corner of Bulkeley place and Prospect street. Chief Thomas Shipman and the Namsaug Engine company and the Kenomoc Aerial ladder and the Thomas and Northwest Hose companies responded. When the firemen arrived at the house the flames had worked their way into partitions and it was with difficulty that streams of chemicals were thrown upon the flames to extinguish them. This was finally accomplished, but not until after holes had been made in the walls and the fire had done damage estimated at close to $1,000. The fire, it is believed, was caused by a defective fire-place.

MAN AND WOMAN GET BONDS AFTER THEIR ARREST SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 30—Mamie Holloway, 26, married and employed as a candy kitchen worker, residing at 25 Tilley street, was arrested this afternoon together with R. M. Robertson, white, in a house on Main street, both charged with inciting carriage. Both were later released upon furnishing a surety in their respective bonds of $50 for their appearance in the police court Monday morning. The Holloway woman, who has a police court record, and Robertson were among several men and women, who went to a Main street house about 4 o'clock. Later Traffic Officer William Graham was informed that a wild time was in progress at the house. The officer sent for Sergeant Samuel Hick and the latter was accompanied by Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey. When the three officers arrived at the house all of the occupants had left except the Holloway woman and Robertson, who were found in bed and were arrested.

A Buick touring auto, carrying Connecticut markers, 103-749 was reported to the police this afternoon as having been parked in Morgan park since yesterday. The police took the car to a place of storage in a garage. It was later ascertained that the automobile is the property of Samuel Leopard, 284 Washington street, Hartford. The police of that city were communicated with and it was then disclosed that the automobile was disabled, but that the owner would come to New London and take charge of it.

An automobile driven by Mrs. L. E. Bomier, 103 Federal street, proprietress of Cedarcrest, Waterford, was damaged late yesterday afternoon when struck by a New London-Norwich trolley car. Mrs. Domier escaped injury. The automobile was on Williams street, north of Main street and apparently in endeavoring to pass another automobile and the trolley car, which was en route to New London, Mrs. Domier misjudged the distance between the auto and the trolley with the result that her car was struck.

The gymnasium for use of members of the New London police department in the upper part of the Cronin building, State street, is rapidly being fitted up for the "finest" and within another week, it is believed, the officers of the department will be using the equipment of the gymnasium so as to keep them physically fit for duty. All of the modern devices for physical fitness have been installed in the building, including showers, hot and cold water, wall weights, dumb bells, Indian clubs, etc. The gymnasium will be used more frequently during the summer season when the members are keeping themselves fit for engaging in baseball competition.

MRS. CHAS. E. PIPER DIES SUDDENLY IN WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 30—Mrs. Eliza J. Piper, 79, widow of Rev. Charles E. Piper, who was in failing health for some time, died suddenly Sunday evening at 75 Beach street, where she had made her home with the family of E. Eugene Larkin for the past ten years. She was born in Canada, resided in Boston and Providence and after her marriage with Rev. Mr. Piper came to live in North Stonington, where he was pastor at the Union meeting house. Later Mrs. Piper moved to Pawcatuck and to Westerly. Her only son, Joseph Piper, formerly of Westerly, now residing in Boston, survives her.

HAND-PRINT, LOCK OF HAIR, MAY FIX RESPONSIBILITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 30—Superintendent Caffrey, of the Rhode Island state bureau of criminal identification was engaged Sunday in seeking the identity of the auto driver who struck and fatally injured Vernon Cross, of Ashaway, Friday evening on the Nooseneck hill road. Thorough examination was given the automobile of Thomas Scanlon, of 264 Colfax street, Providence, who was reported to have first picked up the boy in the highway. The print of a hand on the fender of the Scanlon car was taken to be compared with the hand of the Cross boy. Also a lock of hair twisted about a nut on the Scanlon car was taken. Monday morning the result of the comparison will be made known.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

The Universal-Film de France production which started a four days engagement at the Broadway theater Sunday is considered one of the leading productions of the season and by the way it was received by the capacity audience last night, a successful run here is assured.

This picture, produced by the Societe des Cineromans of Paris is of epic proportions. It is said to have taken more than two years to produce at a cost running into millions of francs.

Many of the scenes of the French super picture were taken on the exact locations indicated by Victor Hugo in the novel. This entailed the necessity of reconstructing the main streets of the towns and villages in which the action takes place, to appear as they did a century ago. So intense was the interest of the French nation in the success of the gigantic motion picture enterprise that permission was readily granted by town authorities so that the reconstructors might do their work unhampered, even to the extent in one case, of taking up a section of pavement and laying cobble stones.

The streets of Paris could not of course, be reconstructed, but massive sets were built that are said to be remarkable for their fidelity to the period represented.

Leading actors from the French stage were engaged to portray the characters created by Hugo, Gabri Gabrio appearing as Jean Valjean. The other principal roles are enacted by players of equal note and the extra players all in period dress, number thousands.

Palace Theater

Good shows are becoming the style at the Palace theater, the show for the first three days of the week, commencing Monday, being no exception to this rule. Featured on the vaudeville program is, Gangler's Circus, which consists of an aggregation of 35 performing animals, including ponies, horses, a bucking mule, dogs, monkeys, and many freak animals, not mentioning the clowns without which no circus is complete. Like all outdoor circuses, the Gangler outfit will give a street parade daily. Other acts on the bill are, Rowland and Joyce in a golf travesty, The Eighteenth Hole, Alberts and Polly in a humorous skit called, On Their Way to School, Jack Danger who has a trade all his own, and Bud and Eleanor Cole in Youth and Talent.

The feature screen attraction will be Silk Stockings, starring Laura La Plante, John Harron, Otis Harlan, Marcella Day and Heinie Conklin. The story concerns a newly married couple who love each other so much they are constantly quarreling. The climax is reached when the husband comes home with a air of ladies silk stockings, in his pocket that were put there by a buyer during a business discussion. She discovers the stockings and brings suit for divorce and is shocked when the divorce is granted. The situations that enter into the story from then on are the basis for one of the best comedies ever screened.

Breed Theater

When a Man Loves, now playing at the Breed theater, is a stupendous creation, gorgeous in setting and costume and interpreted by two who are acknowledged to be the greatest lovers of the screen, John Barrymore and Dolores Costello. The extraordinary quality of their support may be gleaned from the cast above. "When a Man Loves" is a retelling of the Abbe Prevost story, and while less tragic than the original, it is suffused with beauty and passion, and is possessed of many brilliant high lights and thrilling situations. The locale is the France of Louis XV. The sea and the shores of the New World also figure in the presentation.

Manon and Fabien meet first in the courtyard of an old inn in Picardy. She is on her way to a convent, he bound for St. Sulpice to finish his priestly studies. They have scarcely met when Fabien hears her brother plotting to sell her, and whisks her away to Paris where the two live in idyllic happiness until she is stolen by her brother and taken to an aged follower of the king.

Fabien grows rich he[illegible] and one day, meeting her with her protector and believing her to be a courtesan, he hurls his winnings at her. She is able to explain, however, and is forgiven. They again live together, now in possession of fabulous wealth. Louis XV plays at cards for Manon, wins her, and turns her over to her ancient enemy. Fabien, trying to protect her is sentenced to the Bastile and Manon to be deported to America. Fabien kills her tormentor, boards the ship, stirs the crew to mutiny and rows Manon to safety.

Strand Theatre

Every woman knows that matrimony is risky business. Every one who sees "Risky Business"—the delightful comedy-satire starring piquant and charming Vera Reynolds has an evening of unalloyed enjoyment in store for them.

It will thrill married women, unmarried women and marriageable women and every male of the specie will get a real kick out of its "Risky Business".

Conway Tearle in "Moulders of Men" is throbbing with virile power—tense with dramatic strength—appealing with its intense humanness, splendid with its romance, compelling with its emotional sweep. A truly great picture!

Mrs. Peter Leaves the Dear Old Briar-patch

True love will put aside all fear
To reach the one that it holds dear.
—Mrs. Peter Rabbit.

Do you like big words? Coincidence is a big word. But big words sometimes have very simple meanings. When two things happen at the same time, it may be a coincidence. So it was a coincidence that little Mrs. Peter Rabbit took it into her pretty little head to go up to the Old Pasture on the very night that Peter took it into his head to visit the dear Old Briar-patch. Now, if Peter had gone in a straight line from the Old Pasture to the dear Old Briar-patch, it is quite likely that he would have met little Mrs. Peter. But he didn't. He went by a roundabout way. So he didn't meet little Mrs. Peter, who went just as straight as she could from the dear Old Briar-patch to the Old Pasture. You see, Mrs. Peter was in a hurry to get there.

Now, as you know, little Mrs. Peter was very anxious. She really was doing a very brave thing. She is such a timid small person that for her to make up her mind to go off by herself up to the Old Pasture required a great deal of bravery. Yes, sir, it did so. Her heart was in her mouth, as the saying is every jump of the way. How she did hurry across the Green Meadows, lippety-lippety-lip. It seemed to her that she never would reach the shelter of the bushes in the Old Pasture. She just knew that Hooty the Owl was after her. He wasn't, for he was over in the Green Forest. She was sure that Reddy Fox, or Mrs. Reddy, would spring out of the grass and catch her before she got to that Old Pasture. But nothing of the kind happened.

When at last she slipped in among the bushes, she was quite out of breath and shaking all over with fright. She crept at once under a pile of brush. Not until she was clear under it did she feel safe.

"I do hope I shall find Peter soon," said she to herself. "I do hope I shall not have to look very far. I ought not to have sent him away that way. I didn't really mean it when I told him that he needn't come back. It would be dreadful if I can't find him. I'm scared half to death. I always am scared when I am outside the dear Old Briar-patch. But I can't help it; I've got to find Peter."

So after little Mrs. Peter had rested and quite had her breath back again, she started out through the Old Pasture. "My," said she, "how the Old Pasture has changed! It isn't the same place at all that it was when I was young. I don't recognize anything. Even the bramble-tangles have changed. There used to be one big bramble-tangle that my father, Old Jed Thumper, called his castle. I think I'll go right there and see if he is at home."

Now, going right to that bramble-tangle wasn't any such simple matter as little Mrs. Peter imagined it would be. The fact is, she didn't recognize that bramble-tangle when she saw it. It didn't appear to be nearly as big as she recalled it. It wasn't. Part of it had been cleared away since she had seen it, and Old Jed Thumper no longer lived there.

"I shall have to rest," thought she.

So little Mrs. Peter looked in vain for Old Jed Thumper's castle. By this time she was getting footsore and discouraged. "I shall have to rest," thought she. "I must find a safe place and have a good rest. Oh dear! I feel so scared."

Just when little Mrs. Peter had a happy thought. "Perhaps Peter may find me if I rest," thought she, and right away began to feel almost sure that he would. "I just won't worry. Everything will come out all right. But oh dear, I should be so much more comfortable if I were at home in the dear Old Briar-patch. I don't like being out in the Great World. I don't like it and I don't care who knows it, so there!"

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziegelmayer at 30 Platt avenue was the scene of two eventful affairs Friday evening, when the Friday Night Pinochle club held a Halloween party and celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mallon of Convent avenue. Mrs. Mallon is a member of the club. There were three tables in play, Mrs. James Johnstone taking the first prize for the women with a score of 8340, while her husband won the first gent's prize with a score of 7570. The consolation prizes were taken by Miss Eileen Kennedy and John Shea. A large wedding cake made by Mrs. Ziegelmayer and decorated with 25 candles occupied a conspicuous place on the luncheon table, where the guests repaired following an evening of cards. Members of the club presented Mr. and Mrs. Mallon with a pair of silver candlesticks and a silver relish dish. Mr. and Mrs. Mallon were married 25 years ago Friday at Norwich Town. A variety of Halloween favors consisting of hats, ticklers, etc., added to make the evening a merry one. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Ziegelmayer, assisted by Mrs. John Kennedy. The dining room was fittingly decorated with Halloween colors of orange and black crepe paper with symbols of Halloween, such as witches, black cats and paper pumpkins. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon and children, Catherine and William, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnstone, Mrs. Frederick Shea and daughters, Marion and Anna, Miss Florence Gagnon, Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Kennedy and daughter, Eileen, John Shea, Richard Fitzgerald, and Mr. and Mrs. Ziegelmayer and family.

OCCUM MAN, HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, IS IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION

Hit by an automobile Saturday night near the Occum school, Occum, Levi Parquette of Occum is unconscious at the W. W. Backus hospital. He is suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain. Saturday night, while walking in the roadway, Mr. Parquette is said to have stepped out of the way of one machine, into the path of a Dodge touring car owned by Henry J. Benker of R. F. D., No. 8 and driven by Carl Benker, 17, same address.

Dr. George Thompson of Taftville was called to attend the injured man and immediately had him taken to the hospital. He was in an unconscious condition and was still unconscious Sunday evening. His condition is said to be critical.

Mr. Benker said he was driving between 3 and 35 miles an hour and being blinded by the headlights of a machine traveling in the opposite direction, did not see Mr. Parquette walking in the road.

Two Other Accidents

Two other accidents occurred over the week end. Saturday Arthur Patenaude of R. F. D., No. 4 was knocked down near Taft's station by a coupe driven by Nona A. Driscoll of No. 99 Congress avenue, Providence. It is said that Mr. Patenaude ran from between two machines directly in the path of the Providence coupe.

At Osgood's wharf Saturday night a horse and wagon driven by Sam Boska collided with a Hupmobile sedan owned by John A. Klemansky of R. F. D. No. 6. Mr. Klemensky's machine was parked at the time and Mr. Boska was driving the horse to the watering trough. The front right mudguard and the bumper were damaged. Mr. Boska claimed he did not see the parked machine as there was no light on it. He was held by the police on a charge of injury to private property and was released on a $50 bond. His case will come up in the city court this (Monday) morning.

NEW PASTOR FOR LOCAL RUSSIAN CHURCH

The Very Rev. John Chernavin, of Paris, France, has been appointed to take charge of the Russian Orthodox church work in Norwich. Father Chernavin has been a priest for 25 years, and in 1920 received the honorary title of archpriest. He is a graduate of the Theological seminary of Kieff, and he taught in the history and language department of the University of St. Vladimir at Kieff. During the World war he served as chaplain on the Russian front in France; has been decorated with the gold cross and ribbon of St. George, and holds membership in the Association Nationale des Camarades de Combat, of which the honorary presidents are Marshal Foch and Marshal Petain. He replaces in Norwich Rev. Peter Perove who has been transferred to California, Pa.

On Sunday, Father Chernavin was elected president of the committee of Russian Orthodox people who are remaining loyal to Metropolitan Platon, archbishop of New York. The other members of the committee are: Clerk, John Romanowich; treasurer, Nicholas Cherwiak; secretary, Jan Janik and collector, Stephen Sirdechory. The meeting also passed resolutions that they remain under the jurisdiction of Archbishop Platón and that they do not acknowledge Archbishop Kedrovsky who many Russians believe has the support and backing of the soviet government. It has also resolved to extend a vote of thanks to the rector, vestry and parish of Christ Episcopal church, where the Russian people who refuse to acknowledge Bolshevism have been worshipping temporarily.

Workmen's Compensation

Three workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey as follows:

Home from Hospital

The many friends of Mrs. Brenton B. Allyn of 31 Penobscot street will be pleased to hear that she has returned home from the W. W. Backus hospital much improved after a serious illness.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the Ocowasin Camp Fire group gave a Halloween party at the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church Friday evening. The lecture room and the parlors were prettily decorated for the occasion. After an evening of games and music, delicious refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the guardian, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis and the assistant guardian, Mrs. John Volkman.

The carnival which is being given under the auspices of the Army and Navy club for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church opened Saturday evening at Parish hall. A street parade with plenty of redfire and music preceded the opening of the doors and there was a large crowd on hand to enjoy the amusements at the hall. All the booths were well patronized and the outlook for the success of the carnival is very encouraging to those who have the matter in charge.

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, the pastor Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis took for his sermon topic "And Others." Special music was sung by the choir under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader. In the evening there was the regular meeting of the members of the Young Peoples society of Christian Endeavor. The leader was Miss Elizabeth B. Houston and the topic discussed was "Protestantism."

Adelard Lemieux of Terrace avenue has resigned his position with the mule spinning department of the Ponemah mills.

Matthew J. Hatton of Providence, R. I., has been calling on friends in town this week.

John Saroski of South Third avenue is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The large flock of bronze turkeys at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dydo on the Blissville road attracts the attention of all who pass that way and gives a Thanksgiving-like touch to the scenery in that part of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Heselton and children Kendall and Revella of North B street have been recent visitors in Hartford.

The land at the corner of School street and the Old Canterbury turnpike has been purchased from Israel Chaput by Archie Norman of Hunters avenue.

The branches on most of the beautiful trees that line the village streets were stripped of their leaves by the gale this past week, and burning the fallen leaves has become one of the duties of the season. Automobilists are being cautioned not to park their cars over the gutters where there is an abundance of leaves, thereby inviting a fire risk.

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB CHORUS PLANS OPENING MEETING

The first meeting of the chorus which is being formed under the auspices of the Women's City club is to be held Friday the 4th at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Bishop school. Any member of the city club who can sing and who is interested in this kind of get-together work for the benefit of the community, is eligible to join. Dr. J. Lawrence Erb of New London is to be leader of the chorus. Individual voices do not have to be tried.

Miss Margarete Suck is chairman of the music department of the club and those desirous of joining the chorus are reporting to Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham. The music department of the club intends to furnish the music.

It is planned to have the membership 60 or over and already a good proportion of this number has signed up. The accompanists will be Mrs. Charles J. Saxton, Mrs. William S. Elliott and Miss Nellie Howie.

Club members who can sing are taking hold of the project with much enthusiasm, valuing both the opportunity for voice-training which it will afford and the social side of working with a congenial body of club members aiming at worth-while musical training and experience.

NORWICH WOMAN HURT IN WILLIMANTIC CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 30—Two people were hurt and two cars considerably damaged in a collision of two Buick coaches about 4.15 o'clock this afternoon at the intersection of Valley and Windham streets. The cars were driven by Thomas M. English of 18 Slater avenue, Norwich and John J. Sullivan of 108 Tudor street, Waterbury. Mrs. English sustained a cut on the head and Mrs. Sullivan suffered contusions and cuts on the head and arms which required medical attention. Sullivan approached the intersection going in a southerly direction while English was traveling east of Valley street. The cars collided at the center of the intersection. Both operators carry insurance and they notified Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley that they would settle the matter between themselves.

THE SECRET OF SAINTHOOD TOLD BY CHRIST, SAYS PRIEST

Sunday, the twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost, the gospel read in all the masses throughout the Catholic world was Matthew 18, 23-35, the parable of the uncharitable servant. Preaching to a great congregation at the third mass in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin referred to the Feast of All Saints which the church is commemorating this week—honoring, not alone those canonized saints with whose names all are familiar but the great multitude standing before the throne of God enjoying the beatific vision—the unknown saints.

Sainthood, sanctity, is not reserved for a few, is not something far-off. But every human being may become a saint, that is, may earn the privilege of beholding God for all eternity. All hope to be saints in heaven—hence must endeavor to be saints on earth.

The intense suffering of those sinners who have won for themselves eternal punishment consists in being forever deprived of the privilege of entering the presence of God. How this privilege is obtained is told simply by the Saviour in the Beatitudes—"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." There was no rule for the conduct of those now saints which differed from the rule for ordinary mortals. The means of obtaining heaven lies within the reach of all. It is not always necessary to make extraordinary sacrifices to gain sainthood; for the majority of us the rule is to practice virtue and to avoid sin—in a word, to seek to remain pure in heart, that we may be acceptable to the loving heart of Christ.

An examination of conscience will disclose if the soul is soiled with sin. A sincere confession, combined with a good communion, will restore that purity of heart so pleasing to Him whose request to man was, "Son, give Me thy heart." Sinful, worldly pleasures bring no real joy; there can be no true happiness away from the heart of Christ.

Later, Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass, in administering communion to a great number who went to the altar, following confession the day before.

Announcement was made that masses Tuesday, All Saints' day, and a holy day of obligation will be at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock. Wednesday, All Souls' day, while a day of great devotion is not a holy day of obligation, although many will attend the masses, at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock, the last a solemn requiem mass for all souls for whom their relatives have requested a remembrance.

Sunday was the feast of Our Lord Jesus Christ, the King, vestments and altar hangings being of white and gold; the flowers on the three altars were white.

TO IMPROVE CEMETERY AT BREWSTER'S NECK

Recently a meeting of the board of directors of the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent association was held at the residence of Jacob Bucovetsky, West Main street. Abner Schwartz, president, presided at the meeting; A. H. Manes, secretary. With the exception of Alexander Pasnik, who was called to New York on business, there was a full attendance of the board of directors.

The meeting was very enthusiastic and considerable business was transacted. Plans prepared by the engineers and architects for the improved cemetery of the association at Brewster's Neck were approved by the board.

There have been many improvements made at the cemetery at a considerable cost to the association. A concrete fence around the cemetery has been completed and plans are now under consideration for the erection of an improved arch entrance with a bronze tablet upon which will be the names of the workers of the association who have helped to bring about the improvements.

A banquet was served after the meeting by the host and hostess, Solomon Wechsler, of Jewett City, acted as song leader. Addresses were made by Abner Schwartz, Morris Sussman and Abraham Ableman.

One of the features of the evening was a song by Kive Schwartzburg, Nathan Swartzburg and Joseph Swartzburg, directors of the association.

Jacob Wechsler of Plainfield and Jewett City told stories and Rabbi Stamm gave a very interesting address on the topic "Duties of Brother to Brother."

It was voted to hold the next meeting at the home of Abner Schwartz, president of the association.

CRASHED INTO MYSTIC MAN'S MACHINE NEAR WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 30—F. Lucien Lamson, 42 years old, of Lincoln avenue, Mystic, Conn., is expected to be an important government witness Nov. 9 when Roland V. Twombley of Springfield is arraigned in central district court here, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and driving in a manner so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public.

The Mystic man was the operator of an automobile into which the Springfield man's car crashed on the night of Oct. 14, in Cherry Valley, just west of Worcester. Miss Estelle Belaire, 28, of Holyoke, a passenger in Lamson's machine, was badly injured and is still at the Worcester city hospital with head injuries which make her recovery a matter of doubt.

Lamson, who was also injured, is expected to be able to testify that Twombley's car was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the head on collision.

Red Rambler In Bloom

A red rambler rose bush in bloom Sunday at the home of Miss Nellie Lucy, No. 149 Cliff street, attracted considerable attention in view of the lateness of the season.

Caught Two 'Coons

John S. Bentley and his dog, Toby, caught two 'coons weighing 27 pounds last Friday.

A YOUNG APPETITE DIGESTS ANYTHING

Indigestion is the result of too much acid in the stomach. It sours your food, turns it into a fermenting mass, gives you sick headaches, bad breath, biliousness, shortness of breath, and that drowsy, don't-care-what happens feeling.

Pape's Diapepsin has helped thousands of such unfortunate stomach sufferers to get their appetite back. Chew one or two tablets of Pape's Diapepsin after meals to dissolve the excess acid, and sweeten your stomach. Then your food will digest and nourish you. You will gain weight and feel fine. Pape's Diapepsin does what it promises to do. That's the reason 5 million packages are used a year.

Pape's Diapepsin will bring you relief in 5 minutes. It is sold by all drug stores.

THE CLOUD DIGGER MAKES PREDICTION FOR NOVEMBER

Here we are together again friends, after a month of October that has proven eactly as I predicted, after a month of October that will long be remembered, as I told you September 30th, "The best October you ever knew."

Good weather makes people happy, and I am pleased to say to you that all the powers of the United States weather bureau cannot alter the fact that November 1927 will be one we should remember as fair and healthy, and one of the best November's on record.

November this year will be about what the ordinary October is both here and all over the world. There will be some cold weather but few storms.

On the other side of the Equator, the heart of November will be tempered about as the cold is here. The equinoxial condition September 20 to 23rd plainly shows us that what few storms we do have in November will be quite severe, especially high winds.

A tidal wave in early November will do much damage in the islands to the south of us and run well up into Florida.

Prepare your farms in November for the winter to follow, no matter if it is late in coming, get ready for it, avoid colds and fortify the body and all its organs for the real winter to arrive late but be here in abundance when it does come.

All over our country it will be a little dry for November, shooting stars aplenty will be seen from November 10 to 20. Watch out for these beautiful sights.

The day we celebrate as Thanksgiving will be at its very earliest date this year and will come in one of the pleasantest weeks of late fall. You will not take your girl for a sleigh ride this coming Thanksgiving day unless you live in far away Canadian north-west.

Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Isle will experience some tough old weather the last week in November.

There will also be one very cold wave through Ontario and the northern part of North Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota in the last part of the month.

The warnings we experience in the last few days of November should be carefully remembered.

The new moon is with us Thanksgiving day and is the moon that should have ruled November, but this year we must not forget that we are one month (in moons) ahead of time.

TO CONSIDER PLANS FOR STATE CHAMBER

HARTFORD, Oct. 30—For the first time in the history of the state chamber, the executive committee and the members of the staff will hold a joint dinner at the Hotel Bond tomorrow night, at which plans for the winter's work of the state chamber will be discussed. Previous to the joint dinner of the executive committee and the staff, the executive committee will hold a business session at 5 o'clock at which the program for the next meeting of the board of directors of the state chamber will be outlined.

Every member of the executive committee will attend the two meetings tomorrow afternoon and evening except Ernest E. Rogers, treasurer of the state of Connecticut and past president of the state chamber, who is now in the west.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. George C. Preston, of The Pequot, left Sunday night for Miami to remain during the season. Her son, Robert E. Preston will leave for Miami later in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hawkins have closed their Eastern Point cottage. At the week end, Mrs. Hawkins entertained with a small luncheon-bridge at Lighthouse inn.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. J. Lincoln Crawford of Elmwood avenue, gave a Halloween party for her little daughter, Barbara, the children entertained being Ruth Adelaide and Mary Elizabeth Crowell, Michael and Kathryn Ann Hourigan, Betty Moran, Tommie Robinson and John Quinn. The rooms were decorated with Halloween emblems in black and orange, and similar favors were provided for the children.

MOTHER

A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

The 9 Annual Meeting of Norwich Chapter, American Red Cross, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 3 P. M., in the directors' room of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 59 Broadway.

GREENEVILLE

[illegible] Mrs. Homer Larose and [illegible] Fourth street, spent the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] of Willimantic.

Mr. William Bontany of Woodmount, [illegible] spending a few days at the home of his father, William A. Gorton, Fourth street.

A pedigreed Scotch Collie, which was owned by Charles Fairclough, of Public avenue, was run over Friday evening by a Ford coupe and died an hour after being hit by the machine. Hadlord Ricketts of Prospect street attended the Yale-Dartmouth football game in New Haven Saturday.

Leslie Curran, a student at Fordham university, spent the week-end at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. William Carroll, 9 Prospect street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert [illegible] Park avenue was the scene of two eventful affairs Friday evening when the Friday Night Bridge club held a Halloween party and celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mallon of Convent avenue. Mrs. Mallon is a member of the club. There were three tables in play. Mrs. James Johnstone taking the first prize for the women with a score of 5340, while Jim Lamoreaux won the first gent's prize with a score of 7770. The consolation prizes were taken by Miss Eileen Kennedy and John Shea. A large wedding cake made by Mrs. Ziegelmayer and decorated with 25 candles occupied a conspicuous place on the luncheon table. When the guests repaired following an evening of cards. Members of the club presented Mr. and Mrs. Mallon with a pair of silver candlesticks and a silver relish dish. Mr. and Mrs. Mallon were married 25 years to Friday at Norwich Town. A variety of Halloween favors consisting of hats, ticklers, etc., added to make the evening a merry one. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Ziegelmayer, assisted by Mrs. John Kennedy. The dining room was fittingly decorated with Halloween colors of orange and black, crepe paper with symbols of Halloween, such as witches, black cats and paper pumpkins. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon and children, Catherine and William, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnstone, Mrs. Frederick Shea and daughters, Marion and Anna, Miss Florence Lagnon, Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Kennedy and daughter, Eileen, John Shea, Richard Fitzgerald, and Mr. and Mrs. Ziegelmayer and family.

Walter Mellici of Fordham university, spent the week-end at the home of his parents on Prospect street.

Miss Anna Mary Gorton, daughter of Levi and Mary Gorton, of 30 Eleventh street, was united in marriage Saturday afternoon to Charles William Burns, son of John and Mabel Burns of Norwich Town, by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Louis Gorton, a brother of the bride, acted as best man, while the matron of honor was Mrs. Bertha Carter, a sister of the groom. A wedding luncheon was served at the home of the bride after the wedding ceremonies with members of the immediate families being present. The bride is a graduate of the Greeneville Grammar school; also the Norwich Free Academy and W. W. Backus Hospital Training school.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the Ocowasin Camp Fire group gave a Halloween party at the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church Friday evening. The lecture room and the parlors were prettily decorated for the occasion. After an evening of games and music, delicious refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the guardian, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis and the assistant guardian, Mrs. John Volkman.

The carnival which is being given under the auspices of the Army and Navy club for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church opened Saturday evening at Parish hall. A street parade with plenty of redfire and music preceded the opening of the doors and there was a large crowd on hand to enjoy the amusements at the hall. All the booths were well patronized and the outlook for the success of the carnival is very encouraging to those who have the matter in charge.

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, the pastor Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis took for his sermon topic "And Others." Special music was sung by the choir under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader. In the evening there was the regular meeting of the members of the Young Peoples society of Christian Endeavor. The leader was Miss Elizabeth B. Houston and the topic discussed was "Protestantism."

Adelard Lemieux of Terrace avenue has resigned his position with the mule spinning department of the Ponemah mills.

Matthew J. Hatton of Providence, R. I., has been calling on friends in town this week.

John Saroski of South Third avenue is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The large flock of bronze turkeys at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dydo on the Blissville road attracts the attention of all who pass that way and gives a Thanksgiving-like touch to the scenery in that part of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Heselton and children Kendall and Revella of North B street have been recent visitors in Hartford.

The land at the corner of School street and the Old Canterbury turnpike has been purchased from Israel Chaput by Archie Norman of Hunters avenue.

The branches on most of the beautiful trees that line the village streets were stripped of their leaves by the gale this past week, and burning the fallen leaves has become one of the duties of the season. Automobilists are being cautioned not to park their cars over the gutters where there is an abundance of leaves, thereby inviting a fire risk.

OCCUM MAN, HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, IS IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION

Hit by an automobile Saturday night near the Occum school, Occum, Levi Parquette of Occum is unconscious at the W. W. Backus hospital. He is suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain. Saturday night, while walking in the roadway, Mr. Parquette is said to have stepped out of the way of one machine, into the path of a Dodge touring car owned by Henry J. Benker of R. F. D., No. 8 and driven by Carl Benker, 17, same address.

Dr. George Thompson of Taftville was called to attend the injured man and immediately had him taken to the hospital. He was in an unconscious condition and was still unconscious Sunday evening. His condition is said to be critical.

Mr. Benker said he was driving between 2 and 25 miles an hour and being dimmed by the headlights of a machine traveling in the opposite direction, did not see Mr. Parquette walking in the road.

Two Other Accidents

Two other accidents occurred over the week end. Saturday Arthur Patenaude of R. F. D., No. 4 was knocked down near Taft's station by a coupe driven by Nona A. Driscoll of No. 99 Congress avenue, Providence. It is said that Mr. Patenaude ran from between two machines directly in the path of the Providence coupe.

At Osgood's wharf Saturday night a horse and wagon driven by Sam Boska collided with a Hupmobile sedan owned by John A. Klemansky of R. F. D. No. 6. Mr. Klemensky's machine was parked at the time and Mr. Boska was driving the horse to the watering trough. The front right mudguard and the bumper were damaged. Mr. Boska claimed he did not see the parked machine as there was no light on it. He was held by the police on a charge of injury to private property and was released on a $50 bond. His case will come up in the city court this (Monday) morning.

NEW PASTOR FOR LOCAL RUSSIAN CHURCH

The Very Rev. John Chernavin, of Paris, France, has been appointed to take charge of the Russian Orthodox church work in Norwich. Father Chernavin has been a priest for 25 years, and in 1922 received the honorary title of archimandrite. He is a graduate of the Theological seminary of Kieff, and he taught in the history and language department of the University of St. Vladimir at Kieff. During the World War he served as chaplain on the Russian front in France; has been decorated with the gold cross and ribbon of St. George, and holds membership in the Association Nationale des Camarades de Combat, of which the honorary presidents are Marshal Foch and Marshal Petain. He replaces in Norwich Rev. Peter Peroye who has been transferred to California, Pa.

On Sunday, Father Chernavin was elected president of the committee of Russian Orthodox people who are remaining loyal to Metropolitan Platon, archbishop of New York. The other members of the committee are: Clerk, John Romanowich; treasurer, Nicholas Chernaik; secretary, Jan Janik and collector, Stephen Sirdechory. The meeting also passed resolutions that they remain under the jurisdiction of Archbishop Platon and that they do not acknowledge Archbishop Kedrovsky who many Russians believe has the support and backing of the soviet government. It has also resolved to extend a vote of thanks to the rector, vestry and parish of Christ Episcopal church, where the Russian people who refuse to acknowledge Bolshevism have been worshipping temporarily.

Home from Hospital

The many friends of Mrs. Brenton R. Allen of 31 Penobscot street will be pleased to hear that she has returned home from the W. W. Backus hospital much improved after a serious illness.

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB CHORUS PLANS OPENING MEETING

The first meeting of the chorus which is being formed under the auspices of the Women's City club is to be held Friday the 4th at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Bishop school. Any member of the city club who can sing and who is interested in this kind of get-together work for the benefit of the community, is eligible to join. Dr. J. Lawrence Erb of New London is to be leader of the chorus. Individual voices do not have to be tried.

Miss Margarete Suck is chairman of the music department of the club and those desirous of joining the chorus are reporting to Mrs. Charles Tyler Bunce, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham. The music department of the club intends to furnish the music.

It is planned to have the membership 60 or over and already a good proportion of this number has signed up. The accompanists will be Mrs. Charles J. Saxton, Mrs. William S. Elliott and Miss Nellie Howie.

Club members who can sing are taking hold of the project with much enthusiasm, valuing both the opportunity for voice-training which it will afford and the social side of working with a congenial body of club members aiming at worth-while musical training and experience.

NORWICH WOMAN HURT IN WILLIMANTIC CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 30—Two people were hurt and two cars considerably damaged in a collision of two Buick coaches about 4.15 o'clock this afternoon at the intersection of Valley and Windham streets. The cars were driven by Thomas M. English of 18 Slater avenue, Norwich and John J. Sullivan of 108 Tudor street, Waterbury. Mrs. English sustained a cut on the head and Mrs. Sullivan suffered contusions and cuts on the head and arms which required medical attention. Sullivan approached the intersection going in a southerly direction while English was traveling east of Valley street. The cars collided at the center of the intersection. Both operators carry insurance and two motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley that they would settle the matter between themselves.

THE SECRET OF SAINTHOOD TOLD BY CHRIST, SAYS PRIEST

Sunday, the twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost, the gospel read in all the masses throughout the Catholic world was Matthew 18, 23-35, the parable of the uncharitable servant. Preaching to a great congregation at the third mass in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin referred to the Feast of All Saints which the church is commemorating this week—honoring, not alone those canonized saints with whose names all are familiar but the great multitude standing before the throne of God enjoying the beatific vision—the unknown saints.

Sainthood, sanctity, is not reserved for a few, is not something far-off. But every human being may become a saint, that is, may earn the privilege of beholding God for all eternity. All hope to be saints in heaven—hence must endeavor to be saints on earth.

The intense suffering of those sinners who have won for themselves eternal punishment consists in being forever deprived of the privilege of entering the presence of God. How this privilege is obtained is told simply by the Saviour in the Beatitudes—"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." There was no rule for the conduct of those now saints which differed from the rule for ordinary mortals. The means of obtaining heaven lies within the reach of all. It is not always necessary to make extraordinary sacrifices to gain sainthood; for the majority of us the rule is to practice virtue and to avoid sin—in a word, to seek to remain pure in heart, that we may be acceptable to the loving heart of Christ.

An examination of conscience will disclose if the soul is soiled with sin. A sincere confession, combined with a good communion, will restore that purity of heart so pleasing to Him whose request to man was, "Son, give Me thy heart." Sinful, worldly pleasures bring no real joy; there can be no true happiness away from the heart of Christ.

Later, Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass, in administering communion to a great number who went to the altar, following confession the day before.

Announcement was made that masses Tuesday, All Saints' day, and a holy day of obligation will be at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock. Wednesday, All Souls' day, while a day of great devotion is not a holy day of obligation, although many will attend the masses, at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock, the last a solemn requiem mass for all souls for whom their relatives have requested a remembrance.

Sunday was the feast of Our Lord Jesus Christ, the King, vestments and altar hangings being of white and gold; the flowers on the three altars were white.

TO IMPROVE CEMETERY AT BREWSTER'S NECK

Recently a meeting of the board of directors of the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent association was held at the residence of Jacob Bucovetsky, West Main street. Abner Schwartz, president, presided at the meeting; A. H. Manes, secretary. With the exception of Alexander Pasnik, who was called to New York on business, there was a full attendance of the board of directors.

The meeting was very enthusiastic and considerable business was transacted. Plans prepared by the engineers and architects for the improved cemetery of the association at Brewster's Neck were approved by the board.

There have been many improvements made at the cemetery at a considerable cost to the association. A concrete fence around the cemetery has been completed and plans are now under consideration for the erection of an improved arch entrance with a bronze tablet upon which will be the names of the workers of the association who have helped to bring about the improvements.

A banquet was served after the meeting by the host and hostess, Solomon Wechsler of Jewett City, acted as song leader. Addresses were made by Abner Schwartz, Morris Sussman and Abraham Ableman.

One of the features of the evening was a song by Kive Schwartzburg, Nathan Swartzburg and Joseph Swartzburg, directors of the association.

Jacob Wechsler of Plainfield and Jewett City told stories and Rabbi Stamm gave a very interesting address on the topic "Duties of Brother to Brother."

It was voted to hold the next meeting at the home of Abner Schwartz, president of the association.

CRASHED INTO MYSTIC MAN'S MACHINE NEAR WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 30—F. Lucien Lamson, 42 years old, of Lincoln avenue, Mystic, Conn., is expected to be an important government witness Nov. 9 when Roland V. Twombley of Springfield is arraigned in central district court here, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and driving in a manner so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public.

The Mystic man was the operator of an automobile into which the Springfield man's car crashed on the night of Oct. 14, in Cherry Valley, just west of Worcester. Miss Estelle Belaire, 28, of Holyoke, a passenger in Lamson's machine, was badly injured and is still at the Worcester city hospital with head injuries which make her recovery a matter of doubt.

Lamson, who was also injured, is expected to be able to testify that Twombley's car was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the head on collision.

Red Rambler in Bloom

Caught Two 'Coons

John S. Bentley and his dog, Toby, caught two 'coons weighing 27 pounds last Friday.

THE CLOUD DIGGER MAKES PREDICTION FOR NOVEMBER

Here we are together again friends, after a month of October that has proven eactly as I predicted, after a month of October that will long be remembered, as I told you September 30th, "The best October you ever knew."

Good weather makes people happy, and I am pleased to say to you that all the powers of the United States weather bureau cannot alter the fact that November 1927 will be one we should remember as fair and healthy, and one of the best November's on record.

November this year will be about what the ordinary October is both here and all over the world. There will be some cold weather but few storms.

On the other side of the Equator, the heart of November will be tempered about as the cold is here. The equinoxial condition September 20 to 23rd plainly shows us that what few storms we do have in November will be quite severe, especially high winds.

A tidal wave in early November will do much damage in the islands to the south of us and run well up into Florida.

Prepare your farms in November for the winter to follow, no matter if it is late in coming, get ready for it, avoid colds and fortify the body and all its organs for the real winter to arrive late but be here in abundance when it does come.

All over our country it will be a little dry for November, shooting stars aplenty will be seen from November 10 to 20. Watch out for these beautiful sights.

The day we celebrate as Thanksgiving will be at its very earliest date this year and will come in one of the pleasantest weeks of late fall. You will not take your girl for a sleigh ride this coming Thanksgiving day unless you live in far away Canadian north-west.

Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Isle will experience some tough old weather the last week in November.

There will also be one very cold wave through Ontario and the northern part of North Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota in the last part of the month.

The warnings we experience in the last few days of November should be carefully remembered.

The new moon is with us Thanksgiving day and is the moon that should have ruled November, but this year we must not forget that we are one month (in moons) ahead of time.

TO CONSIDER PLANS FOR STATE CHAMBER

HARTFORD, Oct. 30—For the first time in the history of the state chamber, the executive committee and the members of the staff will hold a joint dinner at the Hotel Bond tomorrow night, at which plans for the winter's work of the state chamber will be discussed. Previous to the joint dinner of the executive committee and the staff, the executive committee will hold a business session at 5 o'clock at which the program for the next meeting of the board of directors of the state chamber will be outlined.

Every member of the executive committee will attend the two meetings tomorrow afternoon and evening except Ernest E. Rogers, treasurer of the state of Connecticut and past president of the state chamber, who is now in the west.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hawkins have closed their Eastern Point cottage. At the week end, Mrs. Hawkins entertained with a small luncheon-bridge at Lighthouse inn.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. J. Lincoln Crawford of Elmwood avenue, gave a Halloween party for her little daughter, Barbara, the children entertained being Ruth Adelaide and Mary Elizabeth Crowell, Michael and Kathryn Ann Hourigan, Betty Moran, Tommie Robinson and John Quinn. The rooms were decorated with Halloween emblems in black and orange, and similar favors were provided for the children.

MOTHER
A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated!
Look at Tongue

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

The Annual Meeting of Norwich Chapter, American Red Cross, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 3 P. M., in the directors' room of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 59 Broadway.

A YOUNG APPETITE DIGESTS ANYTHING

Indigestion is the result of too much acid in the stomach. It sours your food, turns it into a fermenting mass, gives you sick headaches, bad breath, biliousness, shortness of breath, and that drowsy, don't-care-what happens feeling.

Pape's Diapepsin has helped thousands of such unfortunate stomach sufferers to get their appetite back. Chew one or two tablets of Pape's Diapepsin after meals to dissolve the excess acid, and sweeten your stomach. Then your food will digest and nourish you. You will gain weight and feel fine. Pape's Diapepsin does what it promises to do. That's the reason 5 million packages are used a year.

Pape's Diapepsin will bring you relief in 5 minutes. It is sold by all drug stores.
